The first Chapiter.

IN the beginnyng God created heauen and yearthe.
The yearth was voyde and emp-tie, and darkenes was vpon the face of the deepe, and the spirite of God moued vpon the face of the waters.
And God said, let there bee made light, and there was light made. And god saw the light that it was good. And God made a diuision betweene the light & darknes. And God called the light, daie: and the darknes called he night. And the Euenyng and the Morning was made one daie. And God said, let there be a firmament, betweene the waters, and let it make a diuision betweene waters and waters. And god made the firmament, and set a diuision betweene the waters, which were vnder the firmament & the waters that were aboue the firmament. And it was so. And god called the firmament heauen. The Euenyng also and the morning was made the second daie. And God said: let the waters vnder the heauen, be gathered vnto one place, and let that the drie land may be seen. And so it came to passe. And god called the drie land, yearth & the gatherings together of waters, called he the seas. And god saw that it was good.

And God said, let the yearth bryng forth grene herbe, which may engender seede, and fruitfull Tree, yeldyng fruit after his kynd, whose seede may be in it self vpon the yearth. And it came so passe. And the yearth broughte forth grene herbe, makyng seede after his kynd, and tree yeldyng fruite, whose seede was in it self after his kynd. And God saw that it was good. The Euenyng also and the morning was made the third daie.
And God said: let there be made lightes in the firmament of heauen, and let them make difference betweene the day and the night, and let them be vnto tokens, and vnto appointed seasons, and vnto daies, and vnto yeares.
And let them be vnto lightes in the firmament of heauen, that may geue light vpon the yearth. And so it came to passe.
God made two great lightes, a greater light to rule the daie, and a lesse light to rule the night. And he made starres also.
And God set them in the firmament of heauen, that they might geue light vpon the yearth, and that they might rule the daie and the night, and to make a difference betwe the light and the darknes. And God saw that it was good. The Euenyng also and the morning was made the fourth daie.
And god said, let the waters bryng forth that may liue vpon the yearth, in the face of the firmament of heauen. And God created great whales, and euery liuyng and mouyng creature, which the waters broughte forth after their kynd, and euery fethered foule after their kynd. And God saw that it was good. And God blessed them, saiyng: Bee and increase, and fill the waters of the sea, And let fethered foules bee multiplied in the yearth. The Euenyng also and the morning was made the fift daie. And God created of yearth bryng forth liuyng creature after his kynd, cattell, worme, and beast of the yearth after his kynde, and so it came to passe. And God made the beast of the yearth after his kynd, and cattell after their kynd, and euery thyng that creepeth vpon the yearth after his kynd. And God saw that it was good. And God said: let vs make man in our image, after our likenesse, and let them haue rule of the fishe of the sea, and foule of the aire and cattell, and all the yearth, and of euery ere-pyng thyng that creepeth vpon the yearth.

So God created man in his owne image, in the image of God created he him: male and female created he them. And God blessed them, and God said vnto them: Bee fruitefull, and increase, and replenish the yearth, and subdue it, and haue rule of the fishe of the sea, and foule of the aire, and ouer euery liuyng thing that moueth vpon the yearth. And God said: behold, I haue geuen you euery herbe bearyng seede, which is vpon the vpper face of all the yearth: and euery tree in which is the fruite of tree, and that yeldeth seede, that shal bee meate vnto you. To euery beast of the yearth also, and to euery foule of the aire, & to euery thyng that creepeth vpon the yearth wherein is a liuyng soule: I haue geuen all grenenesse of herbe to be meate. And it came to passe, and God saw euery thyng that he had made, and behold it was exceedyng good. The Euenyng also and the morning was made the sixt

The second Chapiter.

THus the heauens also and the yearth were finished, and all the hoste of them. And on the seuenth day God ended his worke which he had made, & he rested the seuenth day also from all his worke, which he had made.
And God blessed the seuenth day, and sanctified it, because that in it he had rested from all his worke, which God had created and made.

These are the generations of heauen and yearth, when they were created, in the day that the Lorde God made the yearth and heauen, and euery plante of the field, before had not caused it to rain vpon the earth, neither was there a man to ere the ground. And there went vp a mist from of the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground.

7. The lorde God dyd shape man, euen but Rom.v.b. from of the grounde, and * breathed into his grounde made the lorde God to 10.ix.c. growe, euery tree that was pleasaunt to the Apoc.ij.b. sight, and commodious for meate. The tree of life also and the tree of knowlege of good and of euil, was in the middes of the garden.

And out of Eden there went forth a riuer to water the garden. And from thence it was deuided, and became into foure heades. The name of one is * Phison: the same is it that compasseth the whole land of Hauilah, where there is gold. And the golde of the lande is good. There is also Bdellium, & the Onix stone. The name of the second riuer is, Gihon: the same is it that compasseth the whole land of Ethiopia. The name of the .iij. riuer is Hidekel and it goeth towarde the east side of Assiria. And the .iiij. riuer is Euphrates.

C. The lorde God also toke Adam, and put hym into the garden of Eden, that he might dresse and kepe it. And the lorde God commaunded Adā, saying: eat not, thou shalt eate of euery tree of the garde. But as for touching the tree of knowlege of good and euill, thou shalt not eate of it. For, in what daye so euer thou eatest therof, thou shalt dye the deathe.

And again, the lorde God sayed: it is not good that Adam should be alone, I wil make hym an helpe, wt the maie bee preuent with hym. And so out of the ground, (for the lord god euery beast of the field, and euery foule of the aire, and brought it vnto man: that he might se how he would call it. For in what so ever manner man hymselfe named euery liuyng thyng, euen so was the name thereof.

D. And man hymselfe therfore named the names vnto all cattell, and vnto foule of the aire, and to euery beast of the field. And for man founde he not an helpe, that might be present with hym. The lorde God also, caused a nombed to fall vpon Adam. And he slept. And he toke one of his ribbes, and closed vp the flesh in stede ther of. And the ribbe which the lorde God had taken from manne * made he a woman, & brought her vnto man. And man sayd: this is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh. She shalbe called woman, because she was taken out of man. For this cause shall man leaue his father and his mother, and shall cleaue vnto his wife, & they shall be one flesh. And they were both naked, Adam and his wife, and were not ashamed.

Now the serpent was subtiller than any beast of the eareth, which the lorde God made. And he said vnto the woman: ya, hath the lorde God sayd: ye shall not eate of euery tree of the Garden? And the woman sayed vnto the serpent: we eate of the fruite of the tree, which is in the middes of the garden. God hath sayed: ye shall not eate of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye dye. And * the serpent sayed vnto the woman: ye shall not dye the deth, but God wot knowe that the same daie that ye eate thereof, your eyes shalbe opened, & ye shalbe euen as gods, knowyng good and euill. And * so the woman (seyng that the same tree was good to eate, and lustie to the eyes, and that the same tree was pleasaunt to gee wisedome) toke of the fruite thereof, and dyd eate, and gaue vnto her husbande, beyng with her, which dyd eate also. And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knewe that they were naked: and they sowed fygge leaues together, and made themselues aprons.

And they heard the voyce of the lorde god walkyng in the Garden, at the coole of the daye. And Adam and his wife, hid themselues from the presence of the lorde God, emong the trees of the garden. And the lorde God called Adam, and sayed vnto hym: where art thou? Which he said: I heard thy voyce in the garden, and was afrayed, because I was naked, and hid my self. And he sayed: who tolde thee, that thou was naked? Hast thou not eaten of the same tree, concernyng the which I commaunded thee, that thou shouldest not eate of it? And Adam sayd: The woman whom thou gauest to be with me, she gaue me of the tree, and I dyd eate.

And the lorde god sayed vnto the woman: why hast thou done this? and the woman said: The Serpent beguiled me, and I dyd eate. And the lorde God said vnto the serpent: because thou hast done this, thou art cursed aboue all cattell, and aboue euery beast of the field. Upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eate all the daies of thy life. I will also put enemitie betweene thee and the woman, betweene thy seede and her seede. The same shall tread downe thy head, and thou shalt treade vpon his heele. Vnto the woman he sayd on multiplying, will I multiply thy sorowe, and thy conceiuyng: in sorowe shalt thou bring forth children, and thy lust shall pertaine to thy husband, and he shall haue the rule of thee. Vnto Adam he sayed, because thou hast hearkened vnto the voyce of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree concernyng the which I commaunded thee, saying: thou shalt not eate of it: cursed is the ground for thy sake. In sorowe shalt thou eate of it all the daies of thy life. Thorne also, & thi-shall it cause to grow vnto thee, & thou shalt eate the herbe of the field. In the sweate of thy face shalt thou eate bread, till thou be turned againe into the ground, for out of it wast thou taken, in as much as thou art dust, and vnto dust shalt thou be turned again.

D. And Adam called his wives name Heua, because she was the mother of all liuyng. Vnto the same Adam also and to his wife did the lorde God make leathern garmentes, and clothed them. And the lorde God sayd: behold, man is become as one of vs, that he might knowe good and euill. And now lest happely he put forthe his hande, and take also of the tree of life, and eate, and liue for euer: Was the lorde God sent them forth from the garden of Eden, to dresse the ground that he was taken out of. And so he droue out man, and at the East side of the garden of Eden, he set Cherubins, and the glitteryng flame of a brandyng sweard, to kepe the waye of the tree of life.

The iiij. Chapitre.

H. Adam knewe Heua his wife: who conceiuyng, bare Cain, saiyng: I haue gotten a man of the lorde. And she proceedyng further, brought forthe his brother Habel. And Habell was a keper of sheepe. But Cain was a tiller of the ground. And in processe of daies it came to passe, that Cain brought of the fruite of the ground, an oblacion vnto the lorde. Habel also brought of the firstlynges of his sheepe, and of the fat thereof. And the Lorde had respecte vnto Habell, and to his Oblacion. But vnto Cain and to his offeryng, he had no respecte. For the which cause Cain was exceadyng wrothe, and his countenaunce abated. And the lorde said vnto Cain why art thou wroth, and why is thy countenaunce abated? If thou do well, shall there not be a promocion? And if thou doest not well, lyeth not thy sinne in the mores? vnto the also pertaineth the lust thereof, & thou shalt haue dominion ouer it. And Cain spake vnto Habell his brother, Let vs go further.

D. And it fortuned, when they were in the field, Cain rose vp against Habel his brother, and slewe him. And the lorde said vnto Cain: where is Habel thy brother? who he answ[illegible] I wote not. Am I my brothers keper? And he said: what hast thou done? the voice of thy brothers bloud crieth vnto me out of the ground. And now art thou cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouthe, to receiue thy brothers bloud fro thy hande. When thou tilest the ground, she shall not procede to yelde vnto thee her strength. A fugitiue and a vagabound shalt thou be in the earth. And it shall come to passe: euery one that findeth me, shall slay me. And the lorde said vnto him: Not so. Whosoeuer slayeth Cain, it shall be auenged vij. folde. And the lorde set a marke vpon Cain, lest any man findyng him, should kill him. And Cain went out fro the presence of the lorde, and dwelte in the lande of Nod, Eastwarde from Eden. Cain also knewe his wife, which conceiued and bare Henoch. And builduyng a citee, he called the name of the same citee, after the name of his sonne Henoch. Vnto the same Henoch was borne Irad. Irad begat Mehuiael, & Mehuiael begat Methusahell, Methusahell begat Lamech. And Lamech tooke vnto him two wiues: the name of the one was Ada, & the name of the other was Zilla. And Ada begat Jabel, which was the father of suche as dwell in tentes, & of suche as haue cattell. His brothers name was Thuball, which was the father of suche as handle harpe & organ. And Zilla also begat Thubalcain, which wrought cunnyngly euery craft of braste & iren. The sister of Thubalcain was Naema.

D. And Lamech sayd vnto his wiues Ada and Zilla: heare my voice ye wiues of Lamech, herken vnto my speche: I haue slayne a man, to the woundyng of my self, & a yong manne to myne awne punishement. If Cain shalbe auenged seuen folde, truely Lamech seuentie tymes and vij. tymes. Adam knewe his wife again, and she bare a sonne & called his name Seth: for God (said she) hath appoynted me another sede in stede of Habel, whom Cain slewe. And vnto the same Seth also, there was borne a sonne, and he called his name Enos. Then began they to make inuocacion in the name of the Lorde.

The v. Chapitre.

H. This is the boke of the generacions of Adam. In the daie that god created man, in the liknesse of God made he him. Male and female created he them, and blessed them and called their name Adam, in the daie of their creacion. And Adam lyued an. C. xxx. yeres, and begat a sonne in his awne liknesse after his awne image, and called his name Seth. All the daies of Adam after he had begotten Seth were. viij. C. yeres, and he begat sonnes and daughters. And all the daies that Adam lyued were. ix. C. xxx. yeres, and he died. Seth lyued an. C. v. yeres, and begat Enos. And Seth lyued after he begat Enos. viij. hundreth and seuen yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the daies of Seth were. ix. C. xij. yeres, and he died. Enos lyued xc. yeres, and begat Cainan. And Enos lyued after he begat Cainan. viij. C. xv. yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the daies of Enos were hundreth and fyue yeres. And he dyed.

It eame lyued .lxv. yeres, and begat Maheleel. And It enl lyued (after he begat Maheleel) .viij. C. yeres and .xl. yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And al the daies of It enam were .ix. C. yeres and ten yeres, and he died. Maheleel lyued .lxv. yeres and .v. yeres, and begat Jared. And again, Maheleel lyued (after he begat Jared) viij. C. and xxx. yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the daies of Maheleel, were eight hundreth nyntie and fiue yeres. And he died. Jared lyued an hundreth and sixtie and two yeres, and he begat Henoch. And Jared lyued (after he begat Henoch) eight hundreth yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the daies of Jared were nyne hundreth and sixtie and two yeres. And he died.

C. Ecclī. xliij. c. Hebre. xi. a.

Henoch lyued sixtie and fiue yeres, & begat Methuselah. And Henoch walked with God after he begat Methuselah, three hundreth yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the daies of Henoch were three hundreth sixtie and fiue yeres. And Henoch walked with god, and he was no more ten. God toke hym awaie. Methuselah also lyued an hundreth yeres, eightie & seuen yeres, and begat Lamech. And again Methuselah lyued (after he begat Lamech,) seuen hundreth yeres, and eightie and two yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And al the daies of Methuselah were nyne hondreth yeres, and sixtie and nyne yeres. And he died.

Gene. xxij. a. Sapi. iij. a. iiij. Reg. ij. a.

D. And Lamech lyued an hondreth yeres, and eightie and two yeres, and begat a sonne, and called his name Noah, saying: This same shall comforte vs, as concernyng oure woorke and sorowe of oure handes, from of the yerth, whiche god cursed. And Lamech lyued (after he begat Noah) v. hundreth yeres, and nyntie & fiue yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And al the daies of Lamech were seuen hundreth yeres, and seuentie and seuen yeres. And he died. And Noah was fiue hundreth yere old. And Noah begat, Sem, Ham, and Japheth.

The .vi. Chapiter.

1. And it came to paste, that man began to be multiplied in the vpper face of the yerth, and there were daughters borne vnto them. The sonnes of God also sawe the daughters of men, that they were faire, & they toke them wiues, euen emong al that they had chosen. And the lorde saied: my spirite shall not alwaie striue in man, because he is flesshe, and his daies shalbe an hundred and twentie yere. But there were giaunts in the yerth in those daies: yea and after that the sonnes of God came vnto the daughters of men, & they had goodes vnto them, the same became mightie men of the world, & men of renowme. And God sawe that the malice of man was great in the yerth, and all the imaginacion of the thoughtes of his hart were euell at all tymes. And it repented the lorde that he had made man in the yerth, & he was grieued with his herte. And the lorde said: I will destroye man, whom I haue created: bothe man, cattell, worme, and foule of the aire; for it repenteth me, that I haue made them.

Ecc. xliij. b. Gene. v. c.

But Noah fond grace in the eyes of the lorde. These are the generacions of Noah. Noah was iust and perfect in his generacions, and walked with god. Noah begat three sonnes: Sem, Ham and Japheth. The yerth also was corrupte before God, and the same yerth was full with cruelte. And god loked vpon the yerth, & behold, it was corrupte: for all flesh had corrupt his way vpon yerth.

And God said vnto Noah: the ende of all flesh is come before me, for the yerth is fulled with cruelte, from before the face of them. And beholde, I will destroye them with the yerth. Make thee an arke of pine trees. Habitacions shalt thou make in the arke, & shalt pitche it within & without with pitche. And of this fashion shalt thou make it: the length of the Arke shalbe three hundreth cubites: the bredth of it .l. cubites, and the height of it thirtie cubites. A window shalt thou make in the arke, and in a cubite shalt thou finish it aboue: but the doze of the Arke shalt thou set in the side thereof. With three loftes one aboue another shalte thou make it. And beholde, I, euen I, do bring a flood of waters vpon the yerth, that I may destroy all flesh wherein is the breath of life vnder heauen: and euery thyng that is in the yerth shall die.

Gene. ix. b. and. xvij. a.

With thee also will I make my * couenaunt, and thou shalt come into the arke thou and thy sonnes, thy wife & thy sonnes wiues with thee: and euery liuyng thyng, and of all flesshe, a paire of euery one shalt thou bryng into the arke, to kepe them aliue with thee. They shalbee male and female. Of fetherede foules also after their kynd, and of all cattell after their kynd, of euery woorme of the yearth after his kynd: two of euery one shall come vnto thee, that they may kepe them aliue. And take thou with thee of all meate that is eaten, and thou shalt lay it vp with thee, that it may be meate for thee and them. Noah therefore, did accordyng vnto al that God commaunded hym: euen so did he.

The .vij. Chapiter.

1. And the lorde said vnto Noah: come thou and all thy house into the Arke, for thee haue I seen * righteous before me, in this generacion. Of euery * clene beast thou shalt take with thee seuen and seuen: the male and his female: but of vncleane cattell, two, the male and his female. Of fowles also of the aire, seuen and seuen, the male and the female, to kepe sede a liue vpon the face of all the whole yearth. For yet after seuen daies I will rain vpon the yerth, foztie daies and foztie nightes. And all substaunce that I haue made, will I destroye from the vpper face of the yerth. Noah therfore did accordyng vnto all that God commaunded hym.

B. And Noah was .vi. C. yeres old, and the flood * of waters was vpon the yearth. And Noah came (and his sonnes, and his wife, and his sonnes wiues with hym) vnto the arke, because of the waters of the flood. Of cleane cattell, and of vncleane cattell, and of flying foules, and of euery suche, as creepeth vpon the yearth, there came twoo and twoo vnto Noah, into the Arke, the male and the female, as God had commaunded Noah. It fortuned also after seuen daies, and the waters of the flood were vpon the yearth.

In the .vi. C. yere of Noes life, in the second monethe, the .xvij. daie of the monethe. In the same daie were all the fountaines of the great depe broken up, and the windowes of heauen wer opened. And the rain was C. vpon the yerth, foztie daies and foztie nightes. In the sele same daie entered Noah, Sem, Cham, & Japheth, the sonnes of Noah and Noahs wife, and the thre wiues of his sonnes, with them into the arke: they and euery beast after his kynd, and all cattel after their kynd: yea, & euery worme that creepeth vpon the yerth after his kynd, & euery birde after his kynd, and euery flying and fethered foule. And they came vnto Noah into the Arke, twoo and twoo, of all flesche wherin is the breath of life. And they entryng in, came male and female, of all flesche, as God had commaunded hym. And god shut hym in round about. And the * flood came foztie daies vpō the yearth, and the waters wer increased, & bare vp the arke, whiche was lift up aboue the yerth. The waters also prenailed, & wer increased exceedyngly vpon the yerth, and so the Arke went on the vpper face of the wa- D. ters. And the waters prenailed exceedyngly vpon the yerth, & all the hie hilles that are vnder the whole heauen, were couered. Fifteene cubites vpwarde, did the waters prenaile, so that the mountaines were couered.

And all flesche died, that moued vpon the yearth, in foule, in cattell, in beast, and in euery worme that creepeth vpon the yearth: yea, and euery man also (whatsoeuer was in whose nostrels the breath of life did breth, all there in the drie lande died). And* euery thing was destroyed, that remained, and that was in the vpper part of the ground (bothe man, and cattell, and worme, and foule of the aire) they were euen destroyed, from of the yearthe. And Noah onely remained a liue, and they that were with hym in the Arke. And the waters prenailed vpon the yearth, an hundreth and fiftie daies.

AND God remembred Noah, and euery beast, & all the cattell that was with him in the Arke. And God made a wynd to passe vpon the yerth, and the waters ceassed. The fountaines also of the deep, & the windowes of heauen wer stopped, and the rayne from heauen was restrained. And the waters fell from the yearth were returned, goyng and commyng again. And after the ende of the hundreth and fiftieth daie, the waters were abated.

And in the .vij. moneth, in the .xvij. daie of the moneth, the Arke rested vpon the mountaynes of Armenia. And the waters truely were goyng and decreasyng, vntil the tenth moneth: for in the .j. moneth, and in the first daie of the same moneth, were the toppes of the mountaines seen. And after the ende of the .xl. daie, it happened that Noah opened the window of the arke, whiche he had made. And he sent furthe a rauen, whiche went out goyng furth and returnyng again, vntil the waters were dried vp vpon the yearth. And B. again he sent furth a doue from hym, that he might se if the waters wer abated from the vpper face of the ground. And the doue could no rest for the sole of her fote, and she returned vnto hym again into the Arke: for the waters were in the vpper face of the whole erth. And he, whe he had put furth his hand tooke her: and pulled her into hym, into the Arke. And he abode yet other .vij. daies, and proceedyng further, he sent furthe the doue out of the Arke. And the doue came to hym in the euen tide, and lo, in her mouthe was an Oliue leafe, that she had plucked: whereby Noah did knowe, that the waters were abated vpon the yearth. And he abode yet other seuen daies, and sent furthe the doue, whiche proceeded not to returne vnto hym any more.

And it came to passe in the .vj. C. hundreth and one yere, in the first moneth, and in the first daie of the moneth, the waters were dried vp from the yearth. And Noah remoued the couerynge of the Arke, and loked, and behold, the vpper face of the ground was dried vp. And in the .ij. moneth, in the .xxvij. daie of the moneth, was the earth dried vp. And God spake vnto Noah, saying: Go furthe of the Arke, thou & thy wife, thy sonnes, and thy sonnes wiues with thee. And bryng furthe with thee, euery beast that is with thee: of all flesche (bothe foule and cattell, and euery worme that creepeth vpon the yearth) that they male gender in the yerth, & bryng furth frute, and increase vpon the yearth. And Noah came furthe, and his sonnes his wife, and his sonnes wiues with hym. Euery beast also, euery worme, euery foule, and whatsoeuer creepeth vpon the yearth (after their kyndes) went out of the Arke.

Leuit.xi.a. And Noah buylded an alter vnto the lorde and toke of euery * cleane beast, and of euery cleane foule, and offred sacrifices vpon the altar. And the lorde smelled a swete (or quiet) sauour, and the Lorde sayed in his harte: I will not prorcase to curse the grounde any more for mannes sake, for the * imaginacion of mannes harte is euill, euen from his youthe. Neither will I adde to smite any more euery thyng liuyng, as I haue wrought, yet thereforce shall not cowyng tyme and harueste, cold and heate, sommer and winter, daye and night ceasse, all the daies of the yearth.

A. And god * blessed Noah and his sonnes, and said vnto them: beyng ye fruth fruitfull and multiply, and replenish the yerth. The feare of you and the dread of you, shalbe vpō euery beast of the yerth, & vpon euery foule of the aire, in all suche as the yearth bryngeth furthe, and in all the fishes of the sea. Into your handes are they deliuered. Euery thyng that moueth it self, & that liueth, shalbe meate for you: euen as the grene herbe haue I geuen you all thynges. But * flesshe in the life thereof, and in the blood thereof shall ye not eate. Els your blood of your liues will I require. From the hande of euery beast will I requyre it, and from the hand of man: frō the hande of mannes brother will I requyre the life of man. Who so * sheadeth mannes blood, by man shal his blood be shed for in the Image of God, did god make man. But beyng you furthe the fruite and multiply: gender ye in the yerth, and increase therin.

B. God spake also vnto Noah, and to his sonnes with him, saying: behold, I set vp my couenaunt with you, and with your sede after you, and with euery liuyng creature that is with you, bothe in foule and in cattel, and in euery beast of the yearth, whiche is with you, of all that go out of the arke, accordyng vnto euery liuyng thyng of the yearth. And my couenaunt will I make with you, that frō * henceforthe euery flesshe be not roted out with the waters of a flood, neither shal there be a flood to destroye the yearth any more.

And God saied: this is the token of the couenaunt, whiche I gene betwene me and you, and euery liuyng creature that is with you, into perpetual generacions. I haue set my bowe in the cloud, and it shalbe for a token betwene me and the yearth. And it shall come to passe, that when I bryng a Cloude vpon the yerth, the bowe also shalbe seen in the same cloude. And I will thynke vpon my couenaunt, whiche is betwene me and you, and euery liuyng creature in all flesshe, and it shall no more come to passe, that * waters make a flood, to destroye all flesshe. lyng couenaunt betwene God, and euery liuyng creature, in all flesshe that is vpon the yerth. And god said vnto Noah. This is the token of the couenaunt, whiche I haue made betwene me and all flesshe that is vpon yerth.

The sonnes of Noah goyng furth of the arke wer, Sem, Ham and Japheth. And Chanaan truely is the father of Chanaan. These are the .iij. sonnes of Noah, & of them was the whole yearth ouerspred. Noah also began to bee an husbande man, and planted a vineyarde. And he dronkyng of the wine, was dronken, and vncouered within his tent.

And Ham the father of Canaan, seyng the nakednes of his father, told his two brethren without. And Sem and Japheth, the two, takyng a garment, laied it vpon their shulders, and cōmyng backward, couered the naked priuities of their father: namely, their faces beyng turned awaye, lest they should see their Fathers priuities. And Noah awoke from his wine, and knewe what his yonger sonne had doen vnto hym. And he said: cursed be Canaan, a seruaunt of seruauntes, shal he be vnto his brethren. He said, moreouer: blessed be the lorde God of Sem, and Canaan shalbe his seruaunt. God shall inlarge Japheth, and he shall dwell in the tentes of Sem, & Canaan shalbe their seruaunt. Noah lined after the flood, three hundreth and fiftie yeres. And all the daies of Noah were nine hundreth and fiftie yeres. And he died.

These are the generacions of the sonnes of Noah, Sem, Ham, and Japheth: and vnto them wer children borne after the flood. The children of Japheth: Gomer, & Magog, and Madai, and Iauan, and Thubail, Meseth, and Theras. The children of Gomer: Askenas, and Riphath, and Thogarma. The children of Iauan: Elisa and Tharsis, Kittim, and Dodanim. Of these were the Iles of the Gentiles diuided in their landes, euery man after his tounge, and after his kynred in their nacions. The children of Ham: Cuseh, and Mizraym, and Phut, and Chanaan. And the children of Cuseh: Saba, and Hauilah, and Sabetha, and Regma, and Sabethecha. The children of Regma: Saba, and Dedan. Cuseh also begat Nimrod. The same began to be mightie in the yerth. For he was a mightie hunter before the lorde. Wherefore it is said: euen as Nimrod the mighty hunter before the lord. The beginnyng of his kyngdom was * Babell, and Erech, and Accad, and Calne, in the land of Sinhar. Out of that lande came Assur, and buylded * Ninyue, and the cities of the citee, and Calah. Resen also betwene Ninyue and Calah, and it is a great citee. Mizraim begat Ludim, and Anamim, and Lehabim, & Naphthuhim, Pathrusim, also & Thasuhim ent of whom came Philistim & Capthorim.

C. Canaan begat Sidon his first borne sonne and Heth, and Jebusi, and Emori, and Girgosi, Hevim also, and Araeki, and Hatlini, and Zamuri, and Hamathi: and afterward were the kinredes of the Canaanites spiede abrode. The border of the Canaanites was from Sidon, as thou comest to Gerar vntill Gaza, & as thou goest vnto Sodoma, and Gomorra, and Adama, and Zeboim, euen vnto Lesa. These are the children of Ham in their kynredes, in their tounges, Countrey, and in their nations.

Vnto Sem also, the father of al the children of Eber, (& elder brother of Japheth) there were children borne: The children of Sem: Elam and Assur, Arphachad, & Lud and Aram. The children of Aram: Vz & Hul Gether and Mag. Arphachad * begat Selah, and Selah begat Eber. Unto Eber also were borne twoo sonnes: the name of the one was Peleg (for in his dayes was the yearth diuided) And his brothers name was Jaketan. Jaketan begat Almodad and Saleph. Hazarmaueth and Jerah, and Hadoram, and Vzall and Dekla, Obal also and Abimael, and Sheba, and Ophir, and Hauila, and Jobab. All these were the children of Jaketan. And their dwelling was from Mesa, as thou goest vnto Sephar a mount of the east. These are the children of Sem after their kynredes & tonges in their landes & nations. And so these are the kinredes of the children of Noah, after their generations in their peoples, & of these were the nations diuided in the yearth after the flood.

The. xi. Chapiter.

1. All the whole yearth was of one language and like speche. And it happened when thei went further from the East, thei founde a plain in the land of Sinhar, and there thei abode. And thei said euery one to his neighbor: come, let vs prepare bricke, and burne thē in the fire. And thei had bricke for stone & slime had thei in stede of mortar. And thei said: go to, let vs build vs a citie & a toure whose topp maie reache vnto heauen: and let vs make vs a name, lest happly we be scattered abrode, into the vpper face of the whole yearth. But the lord came downe to se the citie & toure, whiche the children of men builded.

2. And the lorde said: behold, the people is one, and thei haue all one language, and this thei begin to do, neither will it be restrained from them, whatsoeuer thei haue imagined to do. Come on, let vs go downe, & confounde their language: that euery one perceiue not his neighbors speche. And so the lord scattered them from that place, into the vpper face of al the yearth. And thei left of to build the citie. And therefore is the name of it called Babel, because the lorde did there confounde the language of all the yearthe. And from thence the lorde scatter thē abrode vpon the face of all the yearth. These are the generations of Sem: Sē was an. C. yere old, & begat Arphachad two yere after the flud. And Sē lived (after he begat Arphachad) v. C. yeres, & begat sonnes & daughters.

Arphachad lived fiue and thirtie yeres, and begat Selah. And Arphachad lived (after he begat Selah) foure hundreth and. xv. yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters.

Selah lived thirtie yeres, and begat Eber. And Selah lived (after he begat Eber) foure hundreth & three yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. Eber lived foure & thirtie yeres, and begat Peleg. And Eber lived (after he begat Peleg) foure hundreth and xxx. yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters.

Peleg lived. xxx. yeres, and begat Reu. And Peleg (lived after he begat Reu) two C. xx. yeres, & begat sonnes and daughters.

Reu lived. xxxij. yeres, and begat Serug. And Reu lived (after he begat Serug) two C. vij. yeres, and he begat sonnes and daughters. Serug lived thirtie yeres, and begat Nahor. And Serug lived (after he begat Nahor) two. C. yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And Nahor lived. xxix. yeres, & begat Terah. And Nahor lived (after he begat Terah) an. C. and. xix. yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. Terah lived. lxx. yeres, and begat Abraham, Nahor, & Haran.

These are the generations of * Terah: Terah begat Abram, Nahor, & Haran. Haran begat Lot. And Haran died in the presence of Terah his father, in the lande of his nativitie, euen in Vr of the Caldees. Abram and Nahor tooke them wiues: the name of Abrams wife was Sarai, & the name of Nahors wife was Milca the daughter of Haran the father of Milca, & the father of Jisca. But Sarai was barren, and had no child.

And Terah tooke Abram* his sonne, and Lot the sonne of Haran, his sonnes sonne, and Sara his daughter in lawe, his sonne Abrams wife. And thei departed together from Vr of the Caldees, that thei might go into the lande of Canaan, and thei came vnto Haran, and dwelte there. And the daies of Terah were two hundreth and fiue yeres, and Terah died in Haran.

The. xij. Chapiter.

1. And the lorde had said vnto Abram: * get thee out of thy countrey, and out of thy nation and from thy fathers house, vnto a land that I will shewe thee. And I will make of thee a great people, and will * blesse thee, & make thy name greate, that thou maiest be a blessyng. I will also blesse them that blesse thee, and curse them that curse thee, and in thee shal al kinredes of the yearth be blessed.

2. And so Abram departed, euen as the lorde

shake vnto hym, & Lot went with hym. And Abram was lxxv. and fiue yeres old, when he departed out of Haran. And Abra toke Sarai his wife, and Lot his brothers sonne, & all their substaunce that they had in possessio and the soules that they had begotten in Haran. And they departed, that they might come into the land of Chanaan: and into the land of Chanaan they came. Abra passed thorow the lande vnto the place of Sichem, & vnto the plain of Moreth: and the Cananite was then in the lande. And the lorde appeared vnto Abram, & said vnto hym: Vnto thy seede will I geue this lande. And there buylded he an altare vnto the Lorde, euen where he had appered vnto him. And remouyng thence vnto a mountain, that was eastward from Bethel, he pitched his tent, hauyng Bethell on the Weste side, and Hai on the East. And he buyldyng an altare vnto the lorde, did call on the name of the lorde. And Abram went furthe goyng and departyng toward the South. But there was a dearth in that lande, & therefore went Abram downe into Egypt, that he might sogeourne there, for there was a sore derth in the lande. And it happened when he was come nere to entre into Egipt, he said vnto Sarai his wife: behold, I knowe that thou art a faire woman to loke vpon. Therefore shall it come to passe, that when the Egyptians se thee, they shall saie: she is his wife. And they shall kill me, but they shall saue the aliue. Sarai, I praie thee, that thou art my sister, that I maie fare well for thy sake, and that my soule maie liue through thy meanes.

And so it happened, when Abra was come into Egypt, the Egipcians beheld the woman, for she was very faire. The princes also of Pharao sawe her, and commended her before Pharao, and the woman was taken into Pharaos house. And he truely intreated Abram well for her sake, & he had shepe and oxen and he asses, men seruauntes and maide seruauntes, she asses and Camelles. And the lorde smote Pharao and his house with greate plagues, because of Sarai Abrams wife. And Pharao callyng Abram, said: why hast thou doen this vnto me? Why bewaredst thou not me, that she was thy wife? Now therefore behold, there is thy wife, take her, and go thy waie: and Pharao gaue the men commaundement, concernyng hym: and they conueighed hym furthe, and his wife, and all that he had.

The xiij. Chapiter.

Abram gat hym vp out of Egipt, he and his wife, and all that he had and Lot with hym, toward the Southe. And Abram was very riche in cattell, in siluer and golde. And he went furth on his iourney fro the South toward Bethell, vnto the place where his tent had been at the beginnyng betwene Bethel & Hai: euen vnto the place of the altare, which he had made there at the first, and there Abram called on the name of the lorde. Lot also which went with Abram had shepe, cattell and tentes. And the land was not able to receiue them, that they might dwell together, for their substaunce was greate, and they could not dwell together. And there fell a strife betwene the herdmen of Abrams cattell, & the herdmen of Lotes cattell. Moreouer the Cananite and the Pherezite, dwelled at that tyme in the land. Then said Abram vnto Lot: let there bee no strife I praie thee betwene thee and me, and betwene my herdmen and thyne, for we bee brethren. Is not all the whole lande before thee? Departe I praie thee fro me. If thou wilt take the left hande, I will go to the right: or if thou departe to the right hand, I will go to the left. And so Lot lifting vp his eyes, beheld all the countrey of Iordane, which was a plentyous countrey of water euery where, before the lorde destroyed Sodome and Gomorra, euen as the garden of the lord, like the land of Egypt, as thou commest vnto Soar.

Then Lot chose al the plain countrey of Iordan: and toke his iourney from the East. And so departed, the one brother from the other. Abram dwelled in the lande of Canaan, and Lot abode in the cities of the plain, and tented vntill Sodome. But the men of Sodome were wicked, and exceedyng synners before the Lorde. And the Lorde said vnto Abram, after that Lot was departed from hym: lift vp thyne eyes nowe, and loke from the place where thou art Northward, Southward, Eastward, and Westward, for all the land which thou seest will I geue vnto thee and to thy seede for euer. And I will make thy seede, as the dust of the yearth: so that if a man can nomber the dust of the yearth, then shall thy seede also be nombred. Arise and walke about in the land, after the length of it, and after the breedth thereof, for I will geue it vnto thee. And Abram takyng downe his tent, came & dwelled in the Oke grone of Mamre, which lyeth in Ebron, and buylded there an altare vnto the Lorde.

The xiiij. Chapiter.

And it chaunced in the dayes of Amraphael kyng of Sinhar, Arioch kyng of Ellasar, Kedorlaomor kyng of Elam, and Thideal kyng of the nacions, and they made warre with Bera kyng of Sodome, & with Birsa kyng of Gomorra, and with Sinab kyng of Adama, and with Semeaber kyng of Zeboim, and with the kyng of Bela. The same is Soar. All these were ioyned together in the vale of Siddim, where the Salt sea is. For xij. yere were they subiect to kyng Kedorlaomor, and in the xiij. yere rebelled.

But in the .xiij. yere came Kedolaomor and the kynges that were with hym, and smote the Giantes in Asteroth Karnaim, and the Suzims in Ham, & the Emims in the plain of Kiriathaim, & the Horims in mount Seir vnto the plain of Pharan, whiche boordeth vpo the wildernes. And their returnyng came to En Mispat whiche is Cades, and smote all the countrey of the Amalechites, & also the Amorites that dwelt in Hazezo Thamar.

B. And there went out the kyng of Sodome and the kyng of Gomorra, and the kyng of Adama, and the kyng of Zeboim, & the kyng of Bela whiche is Zoar. And they stroke battell with them in the dale of Siddim, that is to saie, with Kedolaomor the kyng of Elam, and with Thideal kyng of nations, and with Amraphael kyng of Sinhar. And with Arioch king of Ellasar: foure kinges against v. And the dale of Siddim was full of bitumen pittes. And the kyng of Sodome & Gomorra fled, and fell there. And they that remained fled to the mountain. And they taking all the goodes of Sodome and Gomorra & all their victualles went their way. And they caried away Lot also Abrams brothers sonne with his goodes (for he dwelled at Sodome) & departed.

C. And there came one that had escaped, and told Abram the Hebrue, whiche dwelled in the oke grene of Mamre the Amorite, brother to Eschol and brother of Aner, which were confederate with Abram. When Abram hard that his brother was taken, he harnessed his fre the young men, borne in his awne house, iij. C. xviij, and followed on them vntil Dan: and he was set in araie vpon them by night, he and his seruauntes, and smote them and pursued them vnto Hoba: which lieth on the left hand of Damascus, & recouered all the goodes, & also brought again his brother Lot, and his goodes, the women also and the people. After that he returned again from the slaughter of Kedolaomor, and of the kynges that were with hym, came the kyng of Sodome furthe, to mete hym in the plain valey, whiche is the kynges dale. And Melchisedech kyng of Salem, brought forth bread and wine. For he was the priest of the moste highest God, and blessed hym, & sayd: blessed be Abram vnto the hie God, possessor of heauen and yerth. And blessed be the high God, whiche hath deliuered thyne enemies into thy hand. And Abram gaue him tithes of all. And the kyng of Sodome said vnto Abram: geue me the soules, and take the goodes to thy self. And Abram answered the kyng of Sodome: I haue lift vp my hand vnto the lorde the high god, possessor of heauen and yerth, that I will not take of al that is thyne, so muche as a threde or shoolatchet lest thou shouldest saie, I haue made Abram riche. Saue onely that, whiche the yonge men haue eaten, and the partes of the men which he went with me, Aner, Escholl, and Mamre, whiche shall take their parties.

The .xv. Chapiter.

After these thynges were done, the worde of the lorde came vnto Abram in a vision, & sayd: Feare not Abram, I am thy defence, and thy reward shalbe exceding great. And Abram said: lorde God what wilt thou geue me when I go childelesse, and the stuard of the herberdrey of my houses is this Eleazar of Damasco. And Abra said: se to me thou hast geuen no sede: lo, a lad borne in my house is myne heire. And behold the worde of the lord came vnto hym, sayng: he shall not be thyne heire, but one that shall come out of thyne awn body shalbe thine heire. And he brought hym out & said: loke vp vnto heauen, and tell the * sterres, if thou be able to nomber them. And he said vnto him: euē * so shal thy sede be. And Abram * beleued the lorde, & that counted he to hym for righteousnes. And again he said vnto him, I am the lord that brought thee out of Ur of the Caldees, to geue thee this land, and that thou mightest possesse it.

And he said: lorde God, whereby shall I knowe that I shall possesse it. He answered vnto him: take an heifer of .iij. yere old, and a she goate of .iij. yere old, and a thre yere old ramme, a turtill mue also and a yong pigion. He toke therfore all these vnto hym, and deuided them in the middes, & laied euery pece one against another. But the foules deuided he not. And when the birdes fell on the carcases, Abram droue them away. And when the Sunne was doune, there fell a slomber vpon Abram. And lo, a darke and great feare fell vpon him. And he said vnto Abram: know this of a suretie, that thy * sede shall be a straunger in a lande that pertaineth not vnto them. And shall serue them, and they shall entreate them euill, * foure hundreth yeres.

But the nation whom they shall serue, will I Judge. And afterward shall they come out with great substance. And thou shalt go vnto thy fathers in peace, and shalt be buried in a good old age. But in the fourth generation they shal come hether again, for the wickednesse of the Amorites is not yet full.

And it came to passe that when the Sunne went doune, there was a darke cloude: behold there was a smokyng furnesse, and a fire brande going betwene these peces. In that same daie, the lorde made a couenaunt with Abram, sayng: vnto thy * sede have I geuen this lande, from the riuer of Egypt vnto the great riuer, the riuer of Euphrates, the Kenites, the Kenezites, and the Cadmonites, the Hethites, & the Pherezites, and the Giaunites, the Amorites also and the Cananites, the Gergesites, and the Iebusites.

Sarai Abrames wife, bare him no children. But she had an handmaide an Egiptian, Agar by name. And Sarai said vnto Abram: Behold, the Lorde hath restrained me, that I cannot beare. I praie the go in vnto my maide peradventure I may be edified by her. And Abram obeyed the voyce of Sarai. And Sarai Abrams wife, toke Agar her maide the Egipcian after Abram had dwelled ten yere in the land of Canaan, and gaue her to her husband Abram, to be his wife. Which he when he went in vnto Agar, she conceiued. And whe she sawe that she had conceiued, her mastres was despised in her eyes. And Sarai said vnto Abram: thou wrongest me. I haue geuen my maide into thy bosome. Which he seyng that she hath conceiued, I am despised in her eyes, the Lorde iudge betwene thee & me. But Abram said to Sarai: behold, thy maide is in thy hande, do with her as it pleaseth thee. And when Sarai vexed her with hard dealing, she fled from the face of her. And the angel of the Lorde found her beside a fountain of water in the wildernesse: euen by the well that is in the waie to Sur. And he said: Agar Sarais maide, whence camest thou, and whether wilt thou go? She said: I flee from the face of my mastresse Sarai. And the Angell of the Lorde said vnto her: returne to thy mastresse again, and submit thy self vnder her handes. And again the angell of the Lorde said vnto her: in encreasyng I will increase thy sede and it shal not be nombred for multitude. And the Lordes angell said vnto her, Se, thou art with child and shalt beare a sonne, and shalte call his name Ismael: because the Lord hath had thy tribulation. He also will be a wild man, and his hand will be against euery man, and euery mannes hand against him. And he shal dwell in the presence of al his brethren. And she called the name of the Lord that spake vnto her: thou God lokest on me, for she said: haue I not seen here the backe parties of him that seeth me. Wherefore the well was called, the well of him that liueth and seeth me. And it is betwene Cades and Bared. And Agar bare Abram a sonne, and Abram called his sonnes name, which Agar bare vnto him Ismael. And Abram was fourscore yere old, when Agar bare him Ismael.

When Abram was ninetie yere olde, and nine, the Lorde appeared to Abram, and said vnto him: I am the almightie God: walke before me, and be thou perfect. And I will make my bonde betwene me and thee, and will multiplie thee exceadyngly. Abram fell on his face. And God talked with him, saying: behold, I am and my testament is with thee, and thou shalt be a father of many nations. Neither shall thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name shalbe Abraham: for a father of many nations haue I made thee. I will make thee to growe exceadyngly, and will make nations of thee: yea, and kynges shall spryng out of thee. Moreouer, I will make my bonde betwene me and thee, and thy sede after thee, in their generations, by an euerlastyng testament: that I maie be God vnto thee, & to thy sede after thee. And I wil geue vnto thee, & to thy sede after thee, the lande wherein thou art a straunger: euen all the land of Canaan, for an euerlastyng possession, and wil be their God.

And God said again vnto Abraham: Se thou also kepe my testament therefore, both thou and thy sede after thee, in their generations. This is my testament, which ye shall kepe betwene me and you, and thy sede after thee. Euery manchild emong you shalbe circumcised. Ye shall circumcise the flesshe of your foreskin, and it shall be a token of the bonde betwene me and you. And euery manchild of viii. daies old shall be circumcised emong you, and such as be in your generations, & borne at home, & he that is bought with money of any straunger, which is not of thy sede. He that is borne in thy house, and he also that is bought with money, must nedes be circumcised: and my testament shalbe in your flesshe, for an euerlastyng bond. And the vncircumcised manchild, in whose flesshe the foreskyn is not circumcised, that soule shall perish fro his people, because he hath broken my testamente. And God said vnto Abraham: Sarai thy wife shalt thou not call Sarai: but Sara shall her name be. And I will blesse her, and haue geuen thee a sonne of her, & will blesse her people also, yea, & kynges of people shal spryng of her. But Abraham fell vpon his face, and laughed, and said in his hart: shall a child be borne vnto him that is an C. yere old? And shal Sara that is xc. yere old bare, and Abraham said vnto God: O that Ismael might liue in thy sight. Vnto who God said: Sara thy wife shall beare thee a sonne in deede, and thou shalt call his name Isaac. And I will make my bond with him, for an euerlastyng bond, & with his sede after him. And as concernyng Ismael also, I haue herd thee: for I haue blessed him & will make him to fructefie, & will multiplie him exceadyngly. Twelue princes shall he get, and I will make a greate nation of him. But my bonde will I make with Isaac, which Sara shall beare vnto thee: euen this tyme xu. moneth.

And he lefte of talkyng with him, and departed vp from Abraham. Abraham toke Ismael his sonne, and all suche as were borne in his house, and all that was bought with money, as many as were men children, which were emong the men of Abrahams house, and circumcised the flesh of their foreskyn, euen in the self same daie, as God had said vnto him.

hym. Abraham also hymselfe was auncie yere olde and nye, when the dethe of his foreskyn was Circumcised. Ismaell his sonne was xiii. yere olde, when he was Circumcised in the flesshe of his foreskyn. The selfe same daie was Abraham Circumcised and Ismael his sonne. And all the men of his house, borne in his house, or bought with money (of straungers) were Circumcised with hym.

AND the Lorde appered vnto him in the playn of Mamre, as he sat in his tet wyse in the heate of the daie. And he lifte vp his eyes, and lokedstand lo, thre men stode by him. And when he sawe them, he ran to metwith them from the tent wyse, and fell to the ground and saied: lorde, (I beseche thee) if I haue found fauor in thy sight, go not (I pray thee) from thy seruaunte. Let a litle water bee fet, and wasshe your fete, and refreshe your selues vnder the tree. And I will set a morsel of bread to refreshe your hartes withall. And then shal ye go your wayes, for euen therefore are ye come to your seruaunte. And they saied: doo euen as thou hast saied. And Abraha went apace into his tent vnto Sara, and saied: haste thy at once iii. perkes of fine meale, knede it, & make cakes. And Abraham rennyng vnto his beastes, fet a calfe tender and good, & gaue it vnto a young man, and he hasted to make it ready at once. And he tokc butter and milke, and the calfe whiche he had prepared, and set it before them, and stode by them vnder the tree, * when they did eate.

And they saied vnto hym: where is Sara thy wife? He answered, behold: she is in the tent. And he saied: I returnyng, I wil come again vnto thee, accordyng to the tyme of life. And lo, Sara thy wife shal haue a sonne. That hard Sara at the tet wyse, which was behynd hym. Abraham and Sara were bothe old, and well stricken in age, and it ceased to be with Sara, after the maner as it is with women. Therfore Sara laughed within her selfe, saiyng: now I am waxed old, shal I geue my selfe to * lust, and my Lorde old also? And the lorde saied vnto Abraha: wherfore did Sara laugh, saiyng: shall I of a suretie beare a child, whiche am olde? Is any thyng wonderfull to god? I returnyng vnto the time appoynted, wil I returne vnto thee, euen accordyng to the tyme of life, & Sara shal haue a sonne.

Then Sara denied it, saiyng: I laughed not, for she was afraied. And he saied: it is not so, but thou laughedst. And the men standyng vp from thence, lokedtoward Sodome. And Abraham went with them, to bryng them on the way.

And the lord saied: shal I hide from Abraham, the thyng whiche I doo? Seyng that Abraham shalbe * great and a mightie people, and all the nacions of the yearth shalbee blessed in him, I knowe this also, that he wil commaunde his children and his houshold after hym, that they kepe the waie of the lorde, and do after right and iustice, that the lord may bryng vpon Abraham, that he hath spoken vnto hym. And the lorde saied: the * cry of Sodome and Gomorra is great, & their synne is exceedyng greuous. I will go downe now, and se, whether they haue men altogether accordyng to that crie, whiche is come vnto me or not, that I may knowe. And the men departed thence, and went to Sodom ward. But Abraham stode yet before the lorde, and Abraham drewe nere & saied: wilt thou also destroy the righteous with the wicked? Peraduenture there be. L. righteous within the citee, wilt thou destroy, and not spare the place for the sake of fiftie righteous, that are therein? What he farre from thee, that thou shouldest do after this saiyng, and slaye the righteous with the wicked, & that the righteous should be as the wicked, that be farre from thee.

Shall not the Iudge of all the worlde, do accordyng to right? And the lorde saied: If I finde in Sodome, fiftie righteous within the citee, I will spare all the place for their sakes. And Abraham answeryng, saied: behold, I haue taken vpo me, to speake vnto the lord whiche * am but dust and ashes: peraduenture there shall lacke fiue of fiftie righteous: wilt thou destroye all the Citee for lacke of fiue? And he saied: if I finde there fortie and fiue, I will not destroye theim. And he proceeded to speake vnto hym again, and saied: peraduenture there shalbee fortie founde there? He answered, I will not do it for forties sake. He saied vnto hym again: O let not my lorde be angry that I speake: peraduenture there shal thirtie be founde there? And he saied: I will do nothyng if I finde thirtie there. He saied again: O see, I haue taken vpon me to speake now also vnto my Lorde: peraduenture there shalbee twentie founde there? He answered, I will not destroye theim for. xx. sake. And he saied: O let not my lorde be angry, & I will speake yet but this once: Peraduenture there shall ten be founde there? He answered: I will not destroy them for tennes sake. And the lord went his waie, as sone as he had left communyng with Abraham, and Abraham also turned vnto his place.

AND there came two Angels to Sodome at euen. And Lot satte at the gate of Sodome. And Lot seyng theim, rose vp to mete them, and bowed hymself to the ground with his face. And he saied: my lordes turne in I praie you, into your seruauntes house, and tary all nighe, and washe your feete, and ye shall rise vp early to go on your waye. Who he saied: naye, but we will dwell in the strete all nighe. And he in maner * compell compelled them violently. And they wondryng in vnto hym, entred into his house, and he made them a feest, and did bake swete bread, and they did eate. And before ether went to rest, the men of the citee (euen the menne of Sodome) compassed the house rounde about bothe old and yonge, all the people from all quarters. And they calling vnto Lot, said vnto hym: where are the men which came into the this night? bryng them out vnto vs, and we will knowe them. And Lot went out at the doores vnto them, and shut the doore after hym, and said: naye sir, Goddes sake brethren do not so wickedly. Beholde I haue two daughters, which haue knowen no man: them will I bryng out now vnto you: and do with them as it semeth good in your eyes. Only vnto these men do nothyng, for therfore came they in vnder the shadowe of my roofe. And they said: Stande backe. And they said: he came in as one to sogeorne, and will he be now a Iudge? We will surely deale wourse with thee, then with them. And they preased sore vpon the manne, euen Lot: and came to breake vp the doore, but the men put furthe their hand, and pulled Lot into the house to them and shut to the doore. And the men that were at the doore of the house, were smoten with blyndnesse, bothe small and great: so that they fainted, and could not find the dore.

And the men said vnto Lot: If thou haue yet here any sonne in lawe, or sonnes or daughters, or whatsoeuer thou hast in the citee, bryng it out of this place: for we must destroye this place, because the crie of them is great before the face of god: for the lord hath sent vs to destroy it. And Lot went out and spake vnto his sonnes in lawe, which maried his daughters, saying: Stande vp, get you out of this place, for the lord wil ouerthrowe this citee. But he semed as though he had mocked, vnto his sonnes in lawe.

And when the morowning arose, the angels caused Lot to spede hym, saying: Stande vp, take thy wife & thy two daughters at hande lest thou perish in the synne of the citee. And as he prolonged the tyme, the menne caught bothe hym, his wife and his two daughters by the handes, the lord so beyng merciful vnto hym, and they brought hym furthe, and set him without the citee. It tourned whe they had brought them out, he said: Haue thy life and looke not behynde thee, neither tary thou in all this plain countrey. Saue thy self in the mountain, lest thou perishe. And Lot said vnto them: O my naye lorde, behold, thy seruaunt hath founde grace in thy sight, and thou hast magnified thy mercye, which thou hast shewed vnto me, in sauyng my life.

Behold, I cannot be saued in the mountain lest some misfortune fall vpon me and I die. Behold, here is a citee by, to flee vnto, euen ponder litle one, oh let me be saued there: is it not a litle one, and my soule shall liue? He said to hym: Se, I haue receiued thy requeste, as concernyng this thyng, that I will not ouerthrowe this Citee, for the whiche thou hast spoken. Haste thee, and bee saued there, for I can do nothyng till thou be come thether. And therefore the name of the citee is called Zoar. And the sunne was now risen vpo the erth, whe Lot was entred into Zoar.

Then the lord rained vpon Sodome and Gomorra, brimstone, and fire from the lorde out of heauen, and ouerthrewe those Citees and all the region, and all that dwelled in the citees, and that that greine vpon the yearth. But Lotes wife looked behind her, and was turned into a pulles of salt. Abraham rysyng vp early, got hym to the place where he stode before the presence of God, and lokyng toward Sodome and Gomorra, and toward all the lande of that countrey, he loked and beheld: the smoke of the countrie arose as the smoke of a fornace. And it happened that when god destroyed the cities of that round he thought vpon Abraham, and sent Lot out from the middes of the ouerthrowyng, when he ouerthrew the citees wher Lot dwelled.

And Lot departed out of Zoar, and dwelled in the mountaines with his two daughters, for he feared to tary in Zoar, but dwelled in a caue, he and his two daughters. And the elder said vnto the yonger: our father is old, & there is not a man in the yerth to come in vnto vs after the maner of all the world. Come, we will make our father dronken with wyne, and lye with hym, that we maie raise vp sede of our father. And to they made their father dronken with wine that night. And the elder daughter went and laye with her father. And he perceiued it not, neither when she lay downe, neither when she rose vp. And on the morowe it happened, that the elder said vnto the yonger: behold, yesternight laie I with my father. Let vs make hym dronke with wine this night also, & go thou and lie with hym, that we maie raise vp sede of our father. And they made their father dronke with wyne that night also. And the yonger arose and lay with him. And he perceiued it not: neither when he laie downe, neither when she rose vp. Thus were bothe the daughters of Lot with childe by their father. And the elder bare a sonne, and called his name Moab. The same is the father of the Moabites vnto this day. And the yonger bare a sonne also, and called his name Ben Ammi. The same is the father of the children of Ammon vnto this day.

The. xx. Chapiter.

ABraham departed thence toward the South countrey, & dwelled betwene Cades and Sur, and sogeorned in Gerar.

And

[illegible] Abimelech [illegible] Gerar, sent and fet Sara awaye. But God came to Abimelech in a vysyon the nyght, and sayd vnto hym: Lo, thou shalt dye for the womans sake, whiche thou hast taken awaye, for she is a mannes wife. Abimelech had not yet come nye her, and he sayed: Lorde wilte thou slaye a righteous people? Sayed not he vnto me, he is my sister: yea, and sayed not she her self, he is my brother? With a pure hart and innocent handes have I doen this. And god sayed vnto hym by a dreame: I wote it well that thou doest it in the pureness of thy hart. I kept thee also that thou shouldest not syn against me, and therfore suffered I thee not to touche her. Now therfore delyuer the man his wife again, for he is a prophet. And he shal praie for thee that thou maiest lyue. But and if thou delyuer her not again, see sure that thou shalt dye the death bothe thou, and all that thou hast. Therefore Abimelech ryssyng vp by tymes in the morowyng, called all his seruauntes, and told all these sayenges in their eares, and the men were sore afraied.

C. And Abimelech called Abraham and sayed vnto hym: what hast thou doen vnto vs, and what have I offended thee, that thou hast brought on me and on my kyngdom so greate a synne? Thou hast doen deades vnto me that ought not to be doen. And Abimelech sayd vnto Abraham: what sawest thou, that thou hast doen this thyng? Abraham answered. For I sayed: surely the feare of God is not in this place, & they shal slay me for my wifes sake: yet in very deede she is my sister, for she is the daughter of my father, though she be not the daughter of my mother: and she became my wife. And after god caused me to wander out of my fathers house, I sayed vnto her: this kyndenesse shalt thou shewe vnto me, in all places where we come, that thou saie of me, he is my brother. Then toke Abimelech shepe and oxen, men seruauntes and women seruauntes, and gaue the vnto Abraham, and delyuered hym Sara his wife again. And Abimelech sayd: behold, my lande lieth before thee, dwell where it pleaseth thee best. Vnto Sara he sayde, I have geuen thy brother .M. peces of syluer, behold: it shall be a couerynge of thyne eyes, vnto all that are with thee, & thus with all was she reproued.

And so Abraham praied vnto god, and god healed Abimelech, and his wife and his maidens, and they bare children. For the lorde had closed to, all the matrices of the house of Abimelech because of Abrahams wife.

The .xxi. Chapiter.

THe lorde visited Sara as he had sayed and did vnto her * accordyng as he had promised. For Sara was with child, & bare Abraham a sonne in his oldage, euen the same season whiche the lorde had appointed him. And Abraham called his sonnes name, that was borne vnto hym, whiche Sara * bare him, Isaac. And Abraham * circumcised Isaac his sonne, when he was .viij. dayes olde: as God commanded hym. And Abraham was an .C. yere old, when his sonne Isaac was borne vnto hym. But Sara sayed: god hath made me a laughyng storke: so that all that heare will laugh at me. She sayd also: who would have sayed vnto Abraham, that Sara should have geuen children sucke? for I have borne hym a sonne in his old age: the child grew, & was wened. & Abraham made a greate feast the same daie that Isaac was wened.

D. Sara saw also the sonne of Hagar the Egiptian (which she had borne vnto Abraham) to be a mocker, wherefore she sayd vnto Abraham: put * awaie this bondmaide & her sonne: for the sonne of this bondwoman shal not be heire with my sonne Isaac. And this sayeng was very greeuous in Abrahams sight because of his sonne. And God sayd vnto Abraham: let it not be greeuous in thy sight because of the lad, and of the bondmaide. All that Sara hath sayed vnto thee, heare her voyce, for in Isaac shall thy sede be called. Moreouer, of the sonne of the bondwoman, will I make a nacion: because he is thy sede.

And so Abraham arose vp early in the morowyng, and toke bread and a bottell of water, and gaue it vnto Hagar, puttyng it on her shulders, with the lad also, & sent her away, who departyng, wandred vp and downe in the wildernesse of Beer Seba. And the water was spent in the bottell, and she cast the lad vnder a bushe, and went and sat on the other side a greate waie, as it were a bowe shote of: for she sayed, I will not see the death of the child. And she sittyng wayne on the other side, lift vp her voyce and wepte.

E. And god heard the voyce of the child. And the Angell of God called Hagar out of heuen, and sayd vnto her: what aileth thee Hagar? feare not, for god hath hard the voyce of the child where he lieth. Arise and lift vp the lad, and take hym in thy hand, for I will make of hym a greate people. And god opened her eyes: and she sawe a well of water. And she went and filled the bottell with water, and gaue the boye drinke. And God was with the lad, and he grewe, and dwelt in the wildernesse, and became an Archer. And he dwelt in the wildernesse of Pharan. And his mother gat him a wife out of the land of Egipt. And it chanced the same season, that Abimelech and Phicholl his chief Capitain spake vnto Abraham, sayeng: God * is with thee in all that thou doest. And now therefore sweare vnto me, euen by God, that thou wilt not hurte me, nor my children, nor my childrens children. But thou shalt deale with me

gaue accordyng vnto the byrthright that I haue geuen the, as I sware vnto thy father Abraham. Then sayd Abraham: I will sweare. And Abraham rebuked Abimelech for a well of water, which the Abimelechites seruauntes had violently taken away. And Abimelech sayd: I wote not who hath done this thyng. Also thou tolldest me not: Neither heard I of it, but this daye. And Abraham tooke Sheepe and Oxen, and gaue them vnto Abimelech. And they made both of them a bond together. And Abraham set seuen Ewe lambes by themselues. And Abimelech sayd vnto Abraham: What meane these seuen lambes, which thou hast set by themselues? He answered: Take these seuen lambes of my hande, that they may be a witnesse vnto me, that I haue digged this well. Wherefore, the place is called Beer Seba, because that there they sware both of them. Thus made they a bond together at Beer Seba. And Abimelech and Phichol his chief Captaine rose vp, and turned again vnto the lande of the Philistines. And Abraham planted a wood tree in Beer Seba, and called there on the name of the Lorde, the euerlastyng God: and so gouerned in the Philistines lande a long season.

AFter these thynges, it happened that God proue Abraham, and sayd vnto hym: Abraham: Who he answered: here am I. And he sayd, take thy onely sonne Isaac, whom thou louest, and get thee vnto the lande Moria, and sacrifice hym there for a sacrifice vpon one of the Mountaines, which I will shewe thee. Then Abraham rose vp early in the morning, and sadled his Asse, and toke two of his young men with hym, and Isaac his sonne: and cloue wood for the sacrifice, and rose vp, and gat him to the place where God had appointed hym. The third daye Abraham lift vp his eyes, and came the place afarre off and sayd vnto his young men: Bide ye here with the Asse, I and the lade will go yonder and worship, and come again vnto you. And Abraham tooke the wood of the sacrifice, and layed it vpon Isaac his sonne, but he hymself toke fyre in his hande, and a knife. And they went bothe of them together. Then spake Isaac vnto Abraham his father, and sayd: my father. And he answered: Here am I my sonne. He sayd: here is fire and wood, but where is the Lambe for sacrifice? Abraham answered: my sonne, God will prouide hym a Lambe for sacrifice, and so they went bothe together. Thus when they came vnto the place where God had shewed hym, Abraham made an aulter there, and dressed the wood, and bounde Isaac his sonne, and layed hym on the aulter aboue vpon the wood. And Abraham stretched out his hand, and toke the knife to haue [illegible] his sonne. And the Angell of the Lorde

And the Angell of the Lorde cried vnto Abraham from heauen the seconde tyme, and sayd: By my selfe haue I sworne (sayeth the Lorde) because thou hast done this thyng, and hast not spared thy onely sonne: that in blessyng I will blesse thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy seede, as the Starres of heauen, and as the Sande whych lyeth vpon the sea side. And thy seede shall possesse the gate of his enemies. And in thy seede shall all nations of the earth be blessed, because thou hast hard my voyce. So turned Abraham again vnto his young men, and they rose vp, and went together to Beer Seba. And Abraham dwelt at Beer Seba. And it chaunced after these thynges, that one told Abraham, sayeng: Beholde, Milcha, she hath also borne children vnto thy brother Nachor: thus his eldest sonne, and Uz his brother, and Kemuel the father of the Syrians, and Cased, and Hazo, and Pildas, and Jedlaph and Bethuel. And Bethuel begat Rebecca. These eight did Milcha beare to Nachor Abrahams brother. And his concubyne called Rhuma: She bare also Tebah, and Gaham, Thaas, and Maacha.

The xxii. Chapiter.

SAra was an hundred and twentie & seuen yere old: so long lined she Sara vpon in Kiriat Arba. The same is Hebron in the lande of Canaan. And Abraham came to mourne Sara, and to wepe for her. And Abraham rose vp from the sight of his corse, and talked with the sonnes of Heth, sayeng: I am a straunger and a sojourner among you, geue me a possession to burye in with you, that I maie bury my corse out of my sight. And the children of Heth answered Abraham, sayeng vnto him: Heare vs lorde, thou art a prince of God among vs. In the chiefe of our sepulchres bury thy dead: none of vs also shall forbid thee his Sepulchre: but thou maiest bury thy dead therein. Abraham rose vp, and bowed himself before the people of the lande, of the children of Heth. And he commoned with them, sayeng: if it be your mynd, that I shall bury my dead out of my sight, heare me: and speake for me to Ephron the sonne of Zoar: that he maie geue me the mu-the Caue, whiche he hath, and that is in the ende of his fielde: but for as muche money as it is worthe, shalt he giue it me in the presence of you, for a possession to burye in. For Abraham dwelled among the children of Heth.

Then Ephron the Hethite answered Abraham in the audience of the children of Heth and of all that went in at the gates of his citee, saying: Nay my Lorde, heareme. The fielde geue I thee also, and the Caue that therein is, geue I it: and euen in the presence of the sonnes of my people, geue I it thee, burye thy dede. And Abraham bowed hym selfe, before the people of the land, and spake C. vnto Ephron, in the audience of the people of the Countrey, saying: I praie thee heare me if it please thee: I will geue siluer for the fielde, take it, and I will burye my dede there. Ephron answered Abraha, saying vnto hym: my lorde, hearken vnto me. The lande is worthe iiij. C. sicles of siluer: what is that betwixt thee and me? Burye therefore thy dede. And Abraham harkened vnto Ephron and weyed hym the siluer, whiche he had said, in the audience of the sonnes of Heth.
Euen iiij. C. sicles of siluer of currant money among marchantes. And the field of Ephrō with the double Caue, whiche was before D. Mamre: and the fielde and the caue that was therin, and all the trees that wer in the fielde and that wer in all the borders round about was made sure vnto Abraham for a possessiō in the sight of the children of Heth, before all that went in at the gates of the citee. And after this dyd Abraham burye Sara his wife, in the double caue of the field that lieth before Mare: the same is Hebron in the land of Canaan. And so was the fielde & the caue that is therin, made sure vnto Abrahā a sure possession to burye in, of the sonnes of Heth.

The xxiiij. Chapitre.

1. Abraham was olde and stricken in dayes, and the lorde had blessed hym in all thynges.
And Abraham sayed vnto his eldest ser-uaunt of his house, whiche had the rule ouer all that he had: put thy hand vnder my thigh and I will make thee sweare by the Lorde God of heauen, and God of the yearth, that thou shalt not take a wife vnto my sonne, of the daughters of Canaan, among whiche I dwell. But thou shalt go vnto my countrey, and to my natiue lande, and take a wife vnto my sonne Isaac. And the seruaunt sayed vnto hym: peraduenture the woman will not agree, to come with me vnto this land, shall I therefore bring thy sonne again vnto the land whiche thou camest out of? To whom Abraha answered: beware that thou bring not my sonne thyder again. The lorde God of the heuen, whiche toke me from my fathers house and from the lande where I was borne: and whiche spake vnto me, and that sware vnto me, saying: vnto thy seede will I geue this lande, he shall sende his Angell before thee, and thou shalt take a wife vnto my sonne from thence. Peraduenture, if the woman will not agree to come with thee, then shalt thou be without daunger of this my othe.
Only bring not my sonne thether again. D.
And the seruaunt put his hande vnder the thigh of Abraham his Master, and sware to hym, as concerning that matter. And the ser-uaunt toke x. camelles, of the camelles of his master and departed, and had of all maner of goodes of his master with hym, and so he vp and went to Mesopotamia, vnto the citee of Nahor. And made his Camelles to lie mans without the citte, by a welle side of water, at euen: about the tyme that women come out to draw water. And he said: O Lorde God of my master Abraham, sende me good speede this daie, and shewe mercie vnto my master Abraham. Lo, I stande here by the well of water, and the daughters of the men of this citee, come out to draw water: now the damosell to whom I shal saie, Reuca bowne thy pitcher, I praie thee, that I maie drynke: If she saie: Drynke, and I will geue thy Camelles drynke also: The same is he that thou hast ordeined for thy seruaunt Isaac: yea, and therby shal I knowe that thou hast shewed mercie on my master. And it came to passe, yer he had left speakyng: behold, Rebecca came out, the daughter of Bethuel sonne to Milca, the wife to Nahor Abrahams brother, and her pitcher vpon her shul-der: the damosell was very faire to loke vpō and yet a maide and vnknowen of mā. And she went downe to the well, and filled her pitcher and came vp. And the seruaunt runnyng vnto her, saied: let me supe a litle water of thy pitcher. And she said: drynke my lorde. E.
And she hasted, and let downe [illegible] her vpon her arme, and gaue hym [illegible]. And when he had geuen hym drynke, she said: I will draw water for thy Camelles also, till they haue dronken enough. And she red out her pitcher into the trough and ran again vnto the well to fet more drawe for all his Camelles. And the wonderer at her: held his peace, to wete whether the lorde had made his iourney prosperous or not. And it chaunced, as the Camelles had left drinkyng, the man toke a golde earyng, of halfe a sicle weight, and two bracelettes for her handes, of x. sicles weight of gold and said: whose daughter art thou?
Tell me I pray thee, is there rome in thy fathers house for us to lodge in? She answered hym: I am the daughter of Bethuel the sone of Milca, whiche she bare vnto Nahor, and said moreouer vnto him: we have litter & prouender inough, and also rome to lodge in.
And the man bowed hym selfe and worship- D.

and the lorde, and he hath blessed the lorde god of my master Abraham, which hath not left destitute his mercy and truth toward my master, and hath brought me the way to my master's brethren house. And the damosell ran and told this of her mothers house these things. And Rebecca had a brother called Laban. And he ran out unto the man, even to the well, to whom as he had seen the earynges and the bracelettes in his sisters handes, (& hath the wordes of Rebecca his sister, saying: thus said the man unto me) he went out unto the man. And lo: he stode with the Camels by the well side. And he said: come in thou blessed of the lorde. Wherefore standest thou without? I have dressed the house, and made rome for the camels. And then the man came into the house: and he unbridled the camels, and (Laban) brought litter and prouender for the Camels, and water to wasshe his fete, and the mennes fete that were with him and set meate before him to eate. But he said I will not eate, until I have tolde myne errand. And he said: tell on. And he said: I am Abrahams seruaunt, and God hath blessed my master out of measure, that he is become great, and hath geuen hym sheepe, & oxen, siluer and gold, men seruaunts, and maide seruaunts, camels, & asses. And Sara my maisters wife, bare hym a sonne, when he was old, & vnto him hath he geuen all that he hath And my master made me sweare, saying: thou shalt not take a wife to my sonne emong the daughters of the Cananites, in whose land I dwell. But thou shalt go vnto my fathers house, and to my kynred, and take a wife vnto my sonne. And I said vnto my master: peraduenture the wife will not folowe me. And he answered me. The lorde, before whō I walke will sende his Angell with thee, and prosper thy iourney, & thou shalte take a wife to my sonne of my kynred, and of my fathers house. Then shalt thou be giltles of my curse, whē thou commest to my kynrede. And if thei gene the not one, thou shalt be giltles of my curse

And to I came this daie vnto the well, and said O lorde, the God of my master Abrahā if it be so now, that thou maiest my iourney, whiche I go, prosperous: behold, I stand by this well of water, & when a virgin commeth forth to draw water, and I say to her: gene me I pray thee a litle water of thy pitcher to drinke, and she say to me: drinke thou, and I will also draw for thy camels: that same is the wife, whō the lorde hath prepared for my masters sonne. And before I had made an ende of speaking in myne harte: behold, Rebecca came forth, & her pitcher on her shulder, and she went downe vnto the well, & drew water. And I said vnto her: gene me drinke I pray thee. And she made haste, and tolde downe her pitcher from of her, and said: drinke, and I will gene thy Camels drynke also. And I dranke, and she gaue the camels drinke also. And I asked her, saying: whose daughter art thou? And she answered: the daughter of Bethuel Nahors sonne, whō Milca bare vnto hym. And I put the earynge vpon her face, & the bracelettes vpon her handes. And I bowed my self, and worshipped the Lorde, and blessed the lorde God of my master Abraham, whiche had brought me the right waie to take my masters brothers daughter vnto his sonne. Now also, if ye will deale mercifully and truely with my master, tell me: and if not, tell me also, that I maie turne me to the right hande, or to the lefte.

Gene. xxiiij. and xxiiij.

Then answered Laban & Bethuel, saying: this saying is proceded even out of the lordes mouth: we can not say vnto thee, either good, or bad: behold, Rebecca is before thee, take her & go, that she maie be thy masters sonnes wife, euen as god hath spoken hym. Abrahams seruaunt hard their wordes, he worshipped the lorde flat vpon the yerth. And the seruaunt toke furth iewelles of siluer and iewelles of gold and raiment, and gaue them to Rebecca. And vnto her brother, and to her mother, he gaue giftes, and thei did eat. and drynke, bothe he and the men that were with hym, and taried al night. And when thei rose vp in the morninge he said, let me depart vnto my master hyer brother, & her mother answerde: let the damosel abide with vs a while and it be but euen. x. daies, and then shall she go. He said vnto them, hinder me not: behold the lorde hath prospered my iourney. Send me awaie therefore, that I maie go vnto my master. And they said, we will call the damosel & enquire at her mouth. And they called furth Rebecca, & said vnto her: wilt thou go with this man? And she answered: I will go.

Gene. xxiiij.

So then let Rebecca their sister go and her nurse, and Abrahams seruaunt, and his men. And they blessed Rebecca, and said vnto her: thou art our sister, growe into thousandes thousandes, and thy seede possesse the gate of their enemies. And Rebecca arose, & her damosels, and set them vp vpon the Camels, and went their way after the man. And the seruaunt toke Rebecca, & went his way.

Gene. xxiij.

And Isaac was comming from the waie of the well, of the liuyng and seyng me, for he dwelt in the South countrey, and Isaac was gone out to praie in the feld, at the euentide. And he lift vp his eyes, and saw the Camels comming. And Rebecca lift up her eyes, and she sawe Isaac, and lighted of the camell, and said vnto the seruaunt, what man is this that commeth walking vpon vs in the feld? And the seruaunt said, it is my master. Therefore she toke her cloke, and put it about her. And the seruaunt told Isaac all thynges that he had doen. And Isaac brought

Saraes handmaide, bare vnto Abraham. And these are the names of the sonnes of Ismael in their names, according to their kinreden: the eldest sonne of Ismaell, Nabaioth, and Cedar: and Addeil, and Mibsam, and Mesma goest towardes the Assirians. And he died in the presence of all his brethren.

C. And these are the generacions of Isaac Abrahams sonne: Abraham begat Isaac. And Isaac was. xl. yere old, whē he tooke Rebecca to wife, the daughter of Bathuel the Syrian of Mesopotamia, and sister to Laba the Syrian. And Isaac made intercession vnto the lorde for his wife: because she was baren, and the lorde was intreated of hym, and Rebecca his wife conceiued, and the children stroue together within her. Wherefore she said: If it shall go so to passe, what helpeth it that I am with childe. Wherefore she went to aske the lorde. And the lorde said vnto her: Two maner of people in thy wombe, & two nacions shal be deuided out of thy bowels: and the one nacion shalbe mightier then the other, and the *elder shalbe seruaunt to the younger.

Wherefore, when her tyme was come to be deliuered: behold there were two twinnes in her wombe. And he that came out first was red and he was all ours as it were a rough garment, and they called his name Esau. And after hym, came his brother out, and his hande holdyng Esau by the heele. And his name was called Jacob. And Isaac was. lx. tie yere old whē they were borne, and the boyes greewe, and Esau became a cunnyng hunter, and a tiller of the yearth. But Jacob was a perfect manne, and dwelled in the Tentes.
Isaac loued Esau, because he did eate of his venesō, but Rebecca loued Jacob.

Jacob sodde pottage, and Esau came from the field and was faintie, and Esau saied to Jacob, feede me I praie thee, with that red pottage, for I am faintie. And therfore was his name called Edom. And Jacob saied: sell me this daie thy birthright. Esau said: lo I am at the pynt to die, and what profite shall this birth right woe me. Jacob answered: sweare to me then this daie. And he sware to hym, and solde his birthright vnto Jacob.
Then Jacob gaue Esau bread, and pottage of lēse. And he did eate and dranke and rose vp, and went his waie. And Esau regarded not his birthright.

And there came a derth in the lande, passyng the first dearth, that was in the da-yes of Abraham. And Isaac went vnto Abimelech kyng of the Philistines vnto Gerar.
And the lorde apered vnto hym, and said: go not downe into Egipte, but bide in the lande, whiche I shall shewe vnto thee. Sogeiorne in this lande, and I will be with thee, and will blesse thee, for vnto thee and vnto thy sede I will geue all these* countries. And I will as the starres of heauen, and will geue vnto thy sede all these countrees. And in thy sede shall all the nacions of the yearth be blessed because that Abraham harkened vnto my voyce and kept myne ordinaunces, my commaunde-mentes, my statutes, & my lawes. And Isaac dwelled in Gerar. And the men of the place asked hym of his wife, and he said: she is my *sister: for he feared to saie: she is my wife, lest the menne of the place should haue killed hym, because of Rebecca which was beautifull to beheld. And it happened, after he had been there long time, that Abimelech kyng of the Philistians looked out at a window, and saw Isaac sporting with Rebecca his wife.

And Abimelech called Isaac, and said: behold of a certeine thy wife, and why saiest thou, she is my sister? to whom Isaac answered:

I lyen by the that I am thy wife, and thou hast sayd: she is my sister? And Abimelech sayd vnto him: why hast thou done thus vnto vs? One of the people might lightly haue lyen by thy wife, and so shouldest thou haue brought synne vpon vs. And Abimelech charged all his people, sayng: he that toucheth this man or his wife shall dye the death. Isaac sowed in that land, and found an hundred measures in that same yere. And the Lorde blessed him, and the man waxed mighty, and went furth and grewe, till he was exceedyng great. For he had possession of shepe, of oxen, and a mighty houshold, and therefore the Philistians had enuie at him: for the Philistians stopped & filled vp with yearth all the welles, which his fathers seruaunts digged in his father Abrahams time. And Abimelech sayed vnto Isaac: get thee fro vs, for thou art mightier then we a great deale. Therefore Isaac departed thence, and abode in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there. And Isaac returnyng, digged again the welles of water, which thei digged in the dayes of Abraham his father, which the Philistians had stopped, after the death of Abraham, & gaue them the same names, which his father gaue them. Isaacs seruaunts digged in the valley, and founde a Welle of liuyng water. And the heardmen of Gerar, did stryue with Isaacs heardmen, sayng: the water is ours. Then called he the well * Esek, because thei stroue with him.

And thei digged another well, and stroue for that also. And he called the name of * it Sitina. And then he departed thence, & digged another well, for the which thei stroue not: therefore called he it * Rehoboth, sayng: the lorde hath now made vs rome, that we may increase vpon the yerth. And he went vp thence, to Beer Seba. And the lorde appeared vnto him the same night, and sayed: I am the God of Abraham thy father, feare not for I am with thee, and will blesse thee, and multiply thy seede, for my seruaunt Abrahams sake. And he buylded an altar there, & called vpō the name of the lord, & pitched his tent. And there Isaacs seruaunts digged a well.

Then came Abimelech to him from Gerar: and Ahuzath his frend, and Phicoll his chief capitain. And Isaac sayed vnto them: wherefore come ye to me, seyng ye hate me, and haue put me away fro you? Which answered: in seyng, we saw that the lord was with thee, and we sayed: let there be now an othe betwixt vs, euen betwixt vs and thee, & let vs make a bond with thee, that thou shouldest do vs no hurte, as we haue not touched thee, and as we haue done vnto thee nothyng but good, & sent thee away in peace, for thou art now the blessed of the lorde. And he made vs a feast, and they did eate and drinke. And they rose vp by tymes in the morenyng, and sware one to another. And Isaac sent them away, and they departed from him in peace. And that same day it happened, that Isaacs seruaunts came & told him of a well which they had digged: and sayd vnto him, we haue founde water. And he called it * Shaba. And the name of the citie is called * Beer Seba vnto this day. Esau was fortie yere old, and he toke a wife called Judith, the daughter of Beeri an Hethite, and Basmath the daughter of Elon an Hethite also. Which were disobedient vnto Isaac and Rebecca.

The xxvij. Chapiter.

AND it came to passe, that when Isaac waxed old, & his yien were dimme (so that he could not se.) he called Esau his eldest sonne, and sayed vnto him. My sonne, and he sayed vnto him: here am I. And he sayed, behold, I am now old, and knowe not the day of my death: and now therefore take thy weapons, thy quiuer and thy bowe, and get thee to the felde, that thou maist take me some venison, and make me meate such as I loue, and bryng it me, that I maie eate, & that my soule maie blesse thee, before that I dye. What Rebecca heard when Isaac spake to Esau his sonne. And Esau went into the felde, to catche venison, & to bryng it. And Rebecca sayd vnto Jacob her sonne, saying: behold, I haue hard thy father talkyng with Esau thy brother, and saying: bryng me venison, and make me meat, that I maie eate & blesse thee before the lorde, afore my death. Now therefore my sonne, heare my voyce, in that which I commaunde thee: Go thither to the flocke, and bryng me thence two good kydes, that I maie make meate of them for thy father, such as he loueth. And thou maist bryng it to thy father, that he maie eate, and that he maie blesse thee before his death. Then sayd Jacob to Rebecca his mother: beholde, Esau my brother is a rough manne, and I am smoth. My father shall peradventure fele me and I shall seme vnto him, as though I were about to begile him, and so shall he bryng a curse vpon me, and not a blessyng. And his mother sayd vnto him: vpon me be thy curse my sonne, onely heare my voyce, and go and fetche me them. And Jacob went and fetched, and broughte it to his mother. And his mother made meate, such as he knewe his father loued. And Rebecca set goodly rayment of her eldest sonne Esau, which she was in the house with her, and put them vpō Jacob her yongest sonne, and she put the skynnes of goten vpon his handes, and vpon the smoth of his necke. And she put the meate and breade, which she had prepared, in the hande of her sonne Jacob. Who he came to his father, he sayd, my father. And he answered: here am I, who art thou my sonne? And Jacob sayd vnto his father: I am Esau the eldest sonne. I here thou arte) bring me thy hande, & put me thy hande vnder my thye, that thy sonne may bleesse me in my life. And he said vnto him: Some coniecture is there, that thou hast founde it so quickly my sonne? He answered: the Lorde thy God brought it to my hande. Then said Jsaac vnto Jacob, come nere and let me fele thee my sonne, whether thou be my sonne Esau or not. Then went Jacob to Jsaac his father, and he felte and said: The voyce is Jacobs voyce, but the handes are the handes of Esau. And he knewe hym not, because his handes were rough, as his brother Esaus handes: and so he bleesed hym.

E. It happened that assone as Jsaac had made an ende of blessyng, & Jacob was scarce gone out from the presence of Jsaac his father, then came Esau his brother from his huntyng, and had made also meate, & brought it vnto his father, and said vnto his father: Let my father arise, and eate of his sonnes venison, that thy soule may bleesse me. Then his father Jsaac said vnto hym: Who art thou? he answered: I am thy eldest sonne Esau, and Jsaac was greatly astonied out of measure, and said: whiche is he, and where is he then that hath hunted venison, and brought it me? And I have eaten of all, before thou camest, and have bleesed hym, and he shalbe bleesed. When Esau heard the wordes of his father, he cried out greatly and bitterly above measure, and said vnto his father: bleesse me also my father. Who answered, thy brother came with subtilte, and hath take awaie thy bleessyng: and he said again: he may well be called Jacob, for he hath vndermined me now .ij. times: for he toke awaie my birthright, & se, nowe hath he taken awaie my bleessyng also. And he said, hast thou kept never a bleessyng for me? Jsaac answered, and said vnto Esau: Behold, I have made hym thy lorde, and all his brethren children have I made his seruauntes. Moreouer with corne and wine have I stablished hym, what can I do vnto thee my sonne? And Esau said vnto his father: hast thou but that one bleessyng my father? Bleesse me also my father. And lifted vp Esau his voyce and wepte. Then Jsaac his father answered, and said vnto hym: behold, thy dwellyng place shalbe the fatnesse of the yearth, and of the dewe of heauen from aboue. And by thy sweard shalt thou lyue, and shalt in thy brothers seruaunte. And it will come to passe, that when thou shalte get the maistery, thou shalt lose his yoke from of thy necke. And Esau hated Jacob, because of the bleessyng that his father bleesed him with all. And Esau said in his harte: the daies of my fathers sorowe are at hand, & I will slay my brother Jacob. And these wordes of Esau her eldest sonne, were told to Rebecca. And she sent and called Jacob her yongest sonne, and said vnto hym: behold, thy brother Esau threatneth to kill thee. Now therfore my sonne, heare my voyce, make thee ready, and flee to Laban my brother at Haran: and tary with hym a while, vntill thy brothers fearcenes be swaged, and vntill thy brothers wrathe turne awaie from thee, and he forget the thynges, whiche thou hast done to hym. Then will I sende and fet thee awaie from thence. Why should I be desolate of you both in one daie? And Rebecca spake to Jsaac, I am wery of my life, for feare of the daughters of Heth. If Jacob take a wife of the daughters of Heth, suche one as these are, of all the daughters of the lande, what good shall my life do me?

The .xxviij. Chapiter.

AND Jsaac called Jacob and bleesed hym and charged him, and said vnto him: Thou take not a wife, of the daughters of Canaā, but arise and get thee to Mesopotamia, to the house of Bethuel thy mothers father: & there take thee a wife, of the daughters of Laba thy mothers brother. And god almightie bleesse thee, and make thee to increase, and multiply thee, that thou maiest be a nomber of people, & gene thee the bleessyng of Abrahā: to thee, and to thy sede with thee that thou maiest possesse the lande (wherein thou art a straūger) whiche God gaue vnto Abraham. Thus Jsaac sent forth Jacob. And he went to Mesopotamia vnto Laban sonne of Bethuel the Syrien, and brother to Rebecca, Jacob and Esaus mother.

When Esau sawe, that Jsaac had bleesed Jacob, and sent hym to Mesopotamia, to fet him a wife thence, and that as he bleesed him he gaue him a charge, saying: thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan, and that Jacob had obeyed his father & mother and was gone to Mesopotamia: and Esau seyng also that the daughters of Canaā, pleased not Jsaac his father: then went he vnto Jsmael, and toke vnto the wife, whiche he had, Mahala, the daughter of Jsmael Abra-

Jacob departed from Beer Seba, to come vnto Haran, and came vnto a place by chaunce and taried there all night, because the sonne was wone, and toke a stone of the place, and put it vnder his heade, and laied him vowne in the same place to slepe, and he dreamed: and beholde, there stode a ladder vpon the yearth and the toppe of it reached vp to heauen. And se, the Angels of God went vp and downe by it: and se, the Lorde stode vpon it, and saied, I am the Lorde God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac: the lande whith thou slepest vpon, will I geue thee and thy seede. C. And thy seede shalbe as the dust of the yearth, and thou shalt spiede abrode to the West, to the East, to the North, and to the Southerd: and through thee, and in thy seede, shall all the kynredes of the yearth be blessed. And se, I am with thee, and wilbe thy keper in all places whether thou goest, and will bryng thee again into this lande: neither will I leaue thee, vntill I haue made good all that I haue promited thee. Whe Jacob was awaked out of his slepe, he saied: Surely the Lorde is in this place, & I was not aware. And he was afraied and said: How fearfull is this place! This none other but even the house of God and the gate of heauen. And Jacob rose vp early in the morning, and tok the stone that he had laied vnder his head, and pitched it vp an ende, * and poured oyle in the toppe of it. And he called the name of the place Bethel, but the name of the citee was called Luz before time. And Jacob vowed a vowe, saying: If God will be with me, and will kepe me in this iourney, whiche I go, and will geue me bread to eate, and clothes to put on, so that I come again to my fathers house in safetie, then shall the Lorde bee my God, and this stone, whiche I haue set vp an ende, shalbee Gods house: and of all that thou shalte geue me, will I geue the tenth vnto thee.

Euensong. A. Then Jacob lift vp his fete, and came into the East countree. And as he loked a-boute, behold, there was a well in the field, and thre flockes of shepe lay there by (for at that well wer the flockes watered) and there was a greate stone vpon the welles mouthe. And thether wer all the flockes brought, and thei tolled the stone from the welles mouthe, and watered the shepe, & put the stone again vnto the welles mouthe, vnto his place. And Jacob saied vnto them: brethren, whence be ye? And thei saied: Of Haran are wee. And he saied vnto them: knowe ye Laban the sonne of Nahor? Thei said: we knowe him. And he said vnto them, Is he in good healthe? And thei saied, he is in good health, and behelde his daughter Rahel cometh with the shepe. And he saied, Lo, it is yet hie day, neither is it time that the catell should be gathered together, water ye the shepe, and go and feede them. And thei said, we maie not, vntill all the flockes bee brought together, and till thei rolle the stone from the welles mouthe, and so we water our shepe. While he yet talked with them, Rahel came with her fathers shepe, for she kept them. And assone as Jacob saw Rahel the daughter of Laban his mothers brother, and the shepe of Laban his mothers brother, he went & rolled the stone from the welles mouth, & watered the flocke of Laban his mothers brother. And Jacob kissed Rahel, and lift vp his voyce & wept: and Jacob told Rahel, that he was her fathers brother and Rebeccas sonne, & therfore ran she and told her father. And it happened, when Laban hard tell of Jacob his sisters sonne, he ran to mete him: and embraced him, and kissed him, and brought him to his house. And he told Laban all the matter. To whom Laban said: Well thou art my bone and my flesh. And he abode with him the space of a moneth. And Laban said vnto Jacob: though thou be my brother, shouldest thou therefore serue me for naught? Tel me what shall thy wages bee? Laban had two daughters: the eldest called Lea, & the yongest Rahel. Lea was tender eyed, but Rahel was beutifull and well fauored. And Jacob loued Rahel, and said: I will serue thee seuen yere for Rahel thy yongest daughter. Laban answered: it is better that I geue her thee, then to another man: abide with me. And Jacob serued seuen yere for Rahel, and thei semed vnto him but a few daies, for the loue he had to her. And Jacob said vnto Laban: geue me my wife that I may lye with her, for my daies are fulfilled. Then Laban gathered together all the men of the place, and made a feast. And when even was come, he toke Lea his daughter, & brought her to him: he went in vnto her. And Laban gaue vnto his daughter Lea, Zilpha his maide, to be her seruaunt. To whom, when Jacob came in, according to the custome, and when the morning was come, behold it was Lea. Then said he to Laban, wherefore hast thou plaied thus with me? Did not I serue thee for Rahel? Wherefore then hast thou begiled me? Laban answered: it is not the maner of this place, to marie the yonger before the elder. Paase out this weeke, and then shal thee also be geue thee, for the seruice whiche thou shalte serue me yet seuen yere moe. And Jacob did euen so, and paased out that weke, & then he gaue him Rahell his daughter to wife also. Now Zilpha gaue to Rahell his daughter, Bilha her handmaide, to be her seruaunt. To whom he lay Rahel also, and loued Rahel more then Lea, and serued him yet seuen yere moe.

When

When the lorde sawe, that Lea was despised, he made her fruitfull. And Rahel remained barren. And Lea conceiued and bare a sonne, & called his name Ruben, for she said the Lorde hath loked vpon my tribulation. Now therefore my husbande will loue me. And she conceiued again and bare a sonne, and said: the lorde hath hard that I am despised and hath therfore geuen me this sonne also, and she called his name * Simeon. And she conceiued yet, and bare a sonne, and said: now this once will my husbande kepe me company, because I haue borne hym iij. sonnes: and therfore was his name called Leui. And she conceiued yet again and bare a sonne, saiyng nowe will I praise the lorde: therefore she called his name Juda, and left bearyng.

The xxx. Chapiter.

Rahel when she sawe that she bare Jacob no children, she enuied her sister, and said vnto Jacob: Geue me children, or els I am but ded. And Jacob was wroth with Rahel, saiyng: am I in Gods stede, whiche kepeth from thee the fruite of thy wombe? Then she said: here is my maide Bilha, go in vnto her and she shall beare vpō my lappe, that I may be increased by her. And she gaue hym Bilha her handmaide to wife. And Jacob went in vnto hers Bilha conceiued, and bare Jacob a sonne. Then said Rahel. God hath geuen sentence on my side, and hath also heard my voyce, and hath geuen me a sonne. Therfore called she him Dā. And Bilha Rahels maide conceiued again, & bare Jacob another sonne. And Rahell said, with Godly wrestlynges haue I wrestled with my sister, and haue gotten the vpper hand. And she called his name Nephtali. When Lea sawe, that she had left bearyng, she toke Silpha her maide, & gaue her Jacob to wife. And Silpha Leas maid bare Jacob a sonne. Then said Lea, good luck: & called his name Gad. And Silpha Leas maide bare Jacob another sōne. Then said Lea, happy am I, for the daughters will call me blessed. And called his name Aser.

And Ruben went out in the daies of the wheate haruest, and found Mandragoras in the fieldes, and brought them vnto his mother Lea. Then said Rahel to Lea: geue me of thy sonnes Mandragoras. To whom Lea answered: Is it not enough, that thou hast taken awaie my husbande, but wouldest take awaie my sonnes Mandragoras also? Then said Rahel: well, let hym kepe with thee this night, for thy sōnes Mādragoras.

And Jacob came from the fieldes at euen and Lea went out to mete hym, and said: come vnto me, for I haue bought thee with my sōnes Mandragoras. And he slept with her that night. And god heard Lea, that she conceiued & bare vnto Jacob the. v. sonne. Then said Lea, God hath geuen me a reward, because I gaue my maiden to my husband, and she called hym Jachar. And Lea conceiued yet again, and bare Jacob the vi. sōne. And Lea said: God hath indued me with a good dowry. Now will my husband dwell with me because I haue borne hym vi. sonnes: and called his name Zabulon. After that she bare a daughter, and called her name * Dina.

And God remembred Rahel, he hard her, and made her fruitfull: so that she conceiued and bare a sonne, and said: God hath taken awaie my rebuke. And she called his name Joseph, saiyng: the Lorde geue me yet another sonne. And assone as Rahel had borne Joseph, Jacob said to Laban: send me away that I maie goo vnto myne awne place and countree, geue me my wiues & my children for whom I haue serued thee, and let me go: for thou knowest what seruice I haue done thee.

To whō Laban answered, if I haue found fauoure in thy sight (for I suppose that the lorde hath * blessed me for thy sake) appoynt what thy reward shalbee, and I will geue it thee. And he said vnto hym, thou knowest what seruice I haue done thee, and in what takyng thy cattell haue ben vnder me: for it was but litle that thou hadst before I came and now it is increased into a multitude, and the lorde hath blessed thee for my sake. When now shall I make prouision for myne awne house also? And he said: what shall I then geue thee? And Jacob answered: thou shalt geue me nothyng at all, if thou wilt do this one thyng for me, and then will I turne again, and feede thy shepe, and kepe them.

I will go about all the shepe this daie, and seperat from them, all the shepe that are spotted and of diuerse colours, and al blacke shepe emong the lambes, and the partie, and the spotted emong the Kidde: and the same shalbe my reward. So shal my righteousnes answere for me to morowe, and shall come for my rewards before thy face, and euery one that is not speckeled and partie emong the goates, and blacke emong the shepe, the same shalbe theft with me. And Laban said: go to, would God it might be according to thy saiyng. Therefore he take out the same daie, the he goates that were partie, and of diuerse colour, and all the she Goates that were spotted and partie coloured, and al that had white in them, and all the blacke emong the shepe, and put them in the keepyng of his sonnes, and set three daies iourney betwixt hymself and Jacob. And so Jacob kepte the rest of Labans shepe.

Jacob tooke rodes of greene popular, of hasell, and of the chest nut trees, and pilled white strakes in them, and made the white appere in the Rodes. But that was whole, remained greene: and thus was it made a variable colour. And put the rods, which he

he had pilled, euen before the shepe, in the Gutters and watering troughes, when the shepe came to drynke: that thei should con-ceiue whē thei came to drynke. And the shep conceiued before the Rodden, and brought furthe Lambes straked, spotted, and partie.
And Jacob parted the lābes, and turned the faces of the shepe, toward spotted thynges, and toward all maner of blacke, that was among the shepe of Laban, namely, puttyng his awne flockes by themselfe, & not puttyng the with Labans shepe. And it cōtuned that in euery rāmyng tyme, of the stronger shep Jacob laied the Rodden before the yes of the shepe in the Gutters: namely, that he might make them conceine before the rods.
But when the shepe were feble, he put them not in. And so the febler were Labans, & the stronger Jacobs. And the man increased exceedyngly, and had a great flocke, maide seruauntes, & men seruauntes, camels & asses.

Out he hard the wordes of Labans sonnes, saiyng: Jacob hath taken awaie all that was our Fathers, and of our Fathers goodes, hath he gotten all this honor. And Jacob beheld the countenaunce of Laban, & behold, it was not as yesterdaie, and yes-terdaie. And the lord said vnto Jacob, turne again into the lande of thy Fathers, and to thy kynred, and I will be with thee. Therefore Jacob sent and called Rahel and Lea, to the feld vnto his flocke, and said vnto them: I se your fathers countenaunce, that it is not toward me as yesterday, and yester-daie. But the god of my father hath ben with me. And ye know how that I haue ser-ued your father with al my might. But your Father hath deceiued me, and chaunged my wages ten tymes: but God suffred hym not to hurt me. When he said, the spotted shalbe thy wages, then all the shepe bare spotted.

And when he said: the straked shalbe thy reward, then bare all the shepe straked: thus hath God taken awaie your fathers shepe, and geuen them me. But in rammyng tyme it happened, that I lifted vp myne yes, & sawe in a dreame, and behold: the rammes leaped vpon the shepe that were straked, spotted and partie. And the angell of god spake vnto me in a dreame, saiyng: Jacob. And I answered here am I. And he said: lifte vp now thyne yes, and se all the rammes leapyng vpō the shepe that are straked, spotted and partie: for I haue seen all that Laban doeth vnto thee, I am the God of Bethel, where thou Gen. xxvii. d anoyntedst the Stone, and where thou vo-wedst a vowe vnto me. Now therefore arise and get thee out of this countree, and re-turne vnto the land where thou wast borne. Gene. xxxii. e

Then answered Rahel and Lea, and said vnto hym: haue we a possession & inheritaunce in our fathers house? Doth not he cheyse vs euen as straungers? For he hath sold vs, & hath euen eaten vp our money. But all the riches which the god hath taken from our father, that is ours & our childrens. And now whatsoeuer God hath said vnto thee, that do. Then Jacob rose vp, and set his sonnes and wiues vp vpon camels, and caried awaie all his flockes, & all his substaunce, which he had procured, his riches and possessions, which he had gotten in Mesopotamia, for to go to Isaac his father, vnto the lande of Canaan. But Laban was gone to* shere his Ge. xxxbi shepe, and Rahel had stollen her fathers I- 3. Reg. xi mages. And Jacob stale awaie the harte of Laban the Sirian, in that he tolde hym not that he fled. So fled he and all that he had, and made hymself ready, and passed ouer the Riuer, and set his face straight toward the mount Gilead. Vpon the. iij. daie after, was D. it told Laban that Jacob fled. Then he take his Brethren with hym, and followed after hym seuen daies iourney, and ouertoke hym at the mount Gilead. And God came to Laban the Sirian, in a dreame by night, & said vnto hym: take hede that thou speake not to Jacob ought saue good. And Laban ouertoke Jacob: and Jacob had pitched his tent in the mount. And Laban with his brethren pitched their tent also vpon the mount Gilead. And Laban said to Jacob: why hast thou this wen, to steale awaie my harte, and cary awaie my daughters, as though thei had been taken captiue with the swearde?

Wherefore wentest thou awaie secretly vnknowen to me, and bidest not tell me, that I might haue brought thee on the way, with Mirthe, tungyng, timbrell and harpe, and hast not suffered me to kisse my children, and my daughters. Thou wast* a foole now to wit. 1. Reg. ij. for I am able to do you euill. But the God 2. Par. xv of your father spake vnto me yesterdaie, saiyng: take hede that thou speke not to Jacob ought saue good. And now, though thou wil fet thy waie, because thou longest after thy fathers house, yet, wherefore hast thou stollen my goddes. Jacob answered and said to Laban: because I was afraied, and thought that thou wouldest haue taken awaie thy daughters from me. But where as thou la- D. yest theefte to my charge, with whom soeuer thou findest thy goddes, let him die, here before our brethren. Seke that thine is by me and take it to thee. But Jacob wist not that Rahel had stollen them. Then went Laban into Jacobs tent, and into Leas tent, and into the twoo maidens tentes: but found theim not. Then went he out of Leas tent, and entered into Rahels tent. And Rahel had taken the Images, and put them in the camels straw, and sat vpon them. And Laban searched all the tent: but founde theim not.

Then saied she to her father: my lorde, be not angery that I cannot rise vp before thee for the custome of women is come vpon me. So serched he, but founde not those Idols. And Jacob was wroth, and chode with Laban. Jacob also answered and saied to hym: what haue I trespaced, or what haue I offended, that thou folowedst so after me? Thou hast serched all my stuffe, and what hast thou found of all thy houshold stuffe? Put it here before thy brethren and myne, that they may Iudge betwixt vs bothe. Behold: this .xx. yere haue I been with thee, thy shepe & thy goates haue not been baren, and the rammes of thy flocke haue I not eaten. Whatsoeuer was torne of beastes, I brought it not vnto thee, but made it good my self: of my hande diddest thou require it, euen as it that was stollen by daie or night. By daie the heate consumed me, and the frost by night, and my slepe departed fro myne yes. Thus haue I been .xx. yere in thy house, and serued* thee Gene. xxix.c. thre. yeres for thy two daughters, and sixe yeres for thy shepe, and thou hast chaunged my reward ten tymes. And excepte the God of my father, the God of Abraham, and the feare of Isaac had been with me, surely thou haddest sent me awaie nowe all emptie. But God beheld my tribulacion, and the labor of my handes, and rebuked thee yesterdaie.

Laban answered & saied vnto Jacob: these daughters are my daughters, and these children are my children, and these shepe are my shepe, and all that thou seest, is myne. And what can I do this daie vnto these my daughters, or vnto their children, which they haue borne? Nowe therefore, come on and let vs make a bonde, I and thou, whiche maie bee a witnesse betwene thee and me. Then toke Jacob a stone, and set it vp an ende, and Jacob saied vnto his brethren: gather stones. And they toke stones, and made an heape, and they did eate there vpon the heape. And Laban called it* Jegar Sahadutha, but Jacob called it Galeed. Either of them, accordyng to the propertie of his awne language.

Then said Laban: this heape is* witnes betwene thee and me this daie: therefore is it called Galeed. That is a heape of witnesse and* Mizpah for he said. The lorde loke betwene me and thee, whe we are departed one from another: if thou shalte vexe my daughters, or shalte take other wiues beside my daughters. Here is no man with vs: behold, God bee witnesse betwixt thee and me. And Laban said moreouer to Jacob: behold, this heape and this marke, which I haue set here betwixt me and thee: this heape be witnesse and also this marke, that I will not come ouer this heape to thee, & thou shalt not come ouer this heape and this marke vnto me: to do any harme. The god of Abraham, the god of Nahor, and the God of their father* be Iudge betwixt vs. And Jacob sware by the feare of his father Isaac. Then Jacob did sacrifice vpon the mount, and called his brethren to eate bread. And they did eate bread, and taried all night in the hill. And earely in the morning, Laban rose vp and kissed his children and his daughters, & blessed them & Laban departyng, went vnto his place again.

The. xxxi. Chapiter.

But Jacob went furthe on* his iourney. And the Angelles of God came, and met hym. And when Jacob sawe them, he saied: this is godes hoste: and called the name of the same place* Mahanaim, that is an armye. And Jacob sent messengers before hym to Esau his brother, vnto the lande* of Seir and the field of Edom. And he commanded them, saiyng: thus shall ye speake to my lorde Esau: thy seruant Jacob saith thus: I haue soiourned and been a straunger with Laban vnto this tyme, and haue oxen, asses and shepe, men seruantes, and women seruantes and haue sent to shewe it my lorde, that I may find greate in thy sight. And the messengers came again to Jacob, saiyng: wee came vnto thy brother Esau, and he commeth against thee, and hath foure hundred men with hym. But Jacob was greatly afraied, and wiste not whiche waie to turne hymself, and deuided the people that was with hym, and the shepe and the oxen and camels into two companies, and saied: If Esau come to the one part and smite it, the other shall saue it self.

And Jacob saied again: O God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac lorde whiche saidest vnto me,* returne vnto Gens. xxxi.b thy countree and to thy kynred, and I will c. all well with thee. I am not worthy of the least of all thy mercies and truthe, whiche thou hast shewed vnto thy seruant. For with my staffe came I ouer this Jordan, and nowe haue I gotten two droues. Deliuer me fro the handes of my brother Esau, for I feare hym: lest he will come and smite the mother with the children. Thou saidest: I will surely doo thee good, and make thy seede as the sande of the sea, whiche cannot be nombred for multitude. And he taried there that same night, and toke of that, whiche came to hand a present for Esau his brother. .c. he goetes, and .xx. he goates. .c. shepe & .xx. rammes: .xxx. milch camels with their colttes. xl. kyne, and ten bulles. .xx. he asses and ten coltes: and deliuered them into the hande of his seruauntes, euery droue by themselues, and saied vnto his seruauntes: go furthe before me, and put a spare betwixt droue & droue. And he commaunded the formoste, saiyng.

If Esau my brother meete thee, and aske D. thee, saiyng: whose art thou, & whether goest thou: and whose are these that goo before thee? Then shalt saie, thei be thy seruaunt Jacobs, and it is a present sent vnto my lorde Esau, and behold, he himselfe commeth after vs: and so commaunded he the secod, and the third, & all that followed the droues, saiyng on this maner: se that you speake vnto Esau when ye mete hym, & saie moreouer: thy seruaunt Jacob also commeth after vs, for he saied: I will peace his wrath with the present that goeth before me, and afterward I will see him my selfe, if peraduenture he will receiue me to grace. So went the present before hym, and he taried all that night in the company, and rose vp the same night, and toke his two wiues and his two maidens, and his eleuen sonnes, and went ouer the foord Jabok. And he toke them, and set them ouer the riuer, and sent ouer that he had, and taried behynd hymselfe alone. And there* wrestled a man with him, vnto the breakyng of the day.

f. And when he saw, that he could not preuaile against hym, he smote hym vnder the thie, and the senowe of Jacobs thie shranke as he wrastled with hym. And he said: let me go, for the daie breaketh. Whiche answered I wil not let thee go, except thou blesse me. And he said vnto hym: what is thy name? He answered, Jacob. He said: thou shalt be called Jacob no more, but * Israell. For as a prince hast thou wrastled with God and with man, and hast preuailed. And Jacob asked him, saiyng: tel me thy name. And he said wherefore wilt thou so aske after my* name? And he blessed hym there. And Jacob called the name of the place* Phaniel, for I haue seen god face to face, and my life is preserued. And as he went ouer Phaniel, the sone rose vpon hym, and he halted vpon his thye. And therefore is it that the children of Israell eate not of the senowe that shranke in that place of the thie, vnto this day: because that he touched the place of Jacobs thye, in the senowe that shronke.

B. And he answered: thei are the children whiche god hath geuen thy seruaute. Then came the maidens forth, and their children, and did their obeysaunce. Lea also with her children came and did their obeysaunce. And last of all came Joseph & Rahel, & did their obeysaunce.

And he said: what is all the droue whiche I met? He answered: that I may find grace in the sight of my lorde. And Esau said: I haue inough my brother, kepe that thou hast vnto thy self. To whom Jacob answered, oh nay, but if I haue found grace in thy sight, receiue my present of my hande: for I haue seen thy face* as though I had seen the face of god, & thou hast had a good will toward me. Oh take my blessyng that is brought thee, for god hath had mercie on me. For wesyng me all thynges. And I haue inough.

And so he compelled hym, and he tooke it. And he said: let vs take our iourney and go, I will go before thee. Jacob answered hym: my lorde, thou knowest, that the children are tender, and the ewes and kyne with young, vnder my hand, whiche if men should ouerdriue euen but one daie, al the shepe will dye. Oh let my lorde go before his seruaut, and I will driue faire and softly, according as the cattell that goeth before me and the children bee able to endure, vntill I come to my Lorde vnto Seir.

D. And Esau said: let me yet leaue some of my folke with thee. And he answered, what nedeth it? For this one thyng only haue I nede of: let me find grace in the sight of my Lorde. So Esau went his waie again that same daie vnto Seir. And Jacob toke his iourney toward Sucoth, and buylte hym an house, and made bothes for his cattell. And therefore is it, that the name of the place is called* Sucoth. And Jacob came to Salem a citee of Sichem, whiche is in the land of Canaan, after that he was come from Mesopotamia, and pitched before the citee, and bought a parcell of ground (where he pitched his tent) of the children of Hemor Sichems father for an hundreth peces of money. And he made there an Altar, and called vpon the mightie God of Israell.

¶ The. xxxiiij. Chapiter.

Dina the daughter of Lea* whiche she bare vnto Jacob, went out to see the daughters of the land. Whom, when Sichem the sonne of Hemor the Hemite Lorde of that countree sawe, he tooke her, and lay with her, and forced* her: and his harte lay vnto Dina the daughter of Jacob. And he loued that damosell, and spake kyndely vnto her, and Sichem spake vnto his father Hemor: saiyng, get me this mayden vnto my wife.

And Jacob hard, that he had defiled Dina his daughter, his sones lyng with their cattel in the field, & he held his peace, vntil thei were come. And Hemor the father of Sichem went out vnto Jacob, to commen with hym. And when the sonnes of Jacob

again, but that were not a like matche, because he had wrought folye in Israel, in that he had lien with Jacobs daughter, whiche thyng ought not to be men. And Hemor communed with them, saying: The soule of my sonne Sichem longeth for your daughter: geue her hym to wife, and make mariages with vs: and geue your daughters vnto vs, and take our daughters vnto you, & ye shall dwell with vs, and the lande shalbee before you, dwell and do your busines, & haue your possessions therein. And Sichem said vnto his father & his brethren, let me find grace in your eyes, & whatsoeuer ye appoynt me that will I geue. Aske freely of me, bothe the dowry and giftes, and I will geue according as ye saie vnto me, so that ye geue me the damosell to wife. But the sonnes of Jacob answered to Sichem and Hemor his father, talkyng among themselues deceiptfully, because he had defiled Dina their sister. And they said vnto them, we cannot do this thyng, that we should geue our sister, to one that is vncircumcised, for that were a shame vnto vs. But in this will we consent vnto you. If ye will be as we be, and all the men children among you be circumcised then will we geue our daughters to you, & take your daughters to vs, and will dwell with you, and be one people. But and if ye will not harken vnto vs, to be circumcised then will we take our daughter and go our waies. Their wordes pleased Hemor, and Sichem his sonne. And the young man deferd not for to do the thyng, because he had a lust to Jacobs daughter: he was also most set by of all that were in his fathers house.

Then Hemor & Sichem his sonne, went vnto the gate of their citee, and commoned with the men of their citee, saying: these men are vntained toward vs, & dwell in the land and do their occupations therin. And in the lande is rome inough for them, we will take their daughters to wifes, and will geue them our daughters, onely herein will they consent vnto vs, for to dwell with vs, and to be one people: if all the menne children that are among vs, be circumcised as they are. Shal not their goodes and their substaunce, and all their cattell bee ours, onely if wee consent vnto them? For they will dwell with vs.

And vnto Hemor and Sichem his sonne, harkened al that went out at the gate of his citee. And all the men children were circumcised, whatsoeuer went out at the gates of his citee. And it happened the third daie when it was painfull to them) two of the sonnes of Jacob, Simeon and Leui, Dinas brethren, toke either of them his sweard, & went into the citee boldly, and slewe all that was male and slewe also Hemor and Sichem his sonne with the edge of the sweard, and toke Dina out of Sichems house and went their waie. And the sonnes of Jacob commyng vpon the dead, spoyled the citee, because they had defiled their sister: and tooke their shepe, oxen and their asses, and whatsoeuer was in the citee and also in the fieldes. And all their goodes and all their children, and their wiues toke they captiue, & made bouoche of all that was in the house. But Jacob said to Simeon, and Leui: ye haue troubled me, and made me stynke before the inhabitours of the lande, before the Cananite, and Pherezite. And I beyng fewe in nomber, they shall gather them selues together against me, and slay me, & so shall I and my house be destroyed. And they answered: should they deale with our sister, as with an whore?

¶ The. xxxv. Chapitre.

AND God said vnto Jacob, arise, and get thee vp to Bethell, and dwell there. And make there an Altar vnto God, that appered vnto thee, when thou fledest from the face of Esau thy brother. Then said Jacob vnto his houshold, and to all that were with hym: put awaie the straunge Goddes that are among you, & be clene, and chaunge your garmentes, for we will arise and go vp to Bethel, and I will make an Altar ther, vnto god whiche hard me in the daie of my tribulacion and was with me in the waie whiche I went.

And they gaue vnto Jacob all the straunge goddes whiche they had in their hand, and al their earynges whiche were in their eares, and Jacob hid them vnder an Oke, whiche was by Sichem. And when they departed, the feare of God fell vpon the citees, that were round about them. And they did not follow after the sonnes of Jacob. So came Jacob to Luza, whiche is in the lande of Canaan. The same is Bethel, he & all the people that was with hym. And he builded ther an Altar, and called the place: The God of Bethel: because that god appered vnto him ther, whe he fled fro the face of his brother.

But Debora Rebeccas nurse died, and was buried beneth Bethel vnder an Oke. And the name of it was called: the Oke of lamentation. And God appered vnto Jacob again, after he came out of Mesopotamia, and blessed hym, and God said vnto hym: thy name is Jacob. Notwithstanding, thou shalt be no more called Jacob, but Israel shalbe thy name. And he called his name Israel.

And God said vnto hym: I am God almightie, grow and multiply: people & a multitude of people shal spryng of thee: yea, and kynges shall come out of thy loynes. And the lande whiche I gaue Abraham and Isaac, will I geue vnto thee, and vnto thy sede after thee, will I geue that lande also. And God departed vp fro hym, in the place where he had talked with hym. And Jacob set vp a make in the place, where he talked with him euen a make of stone, and powred drinke offering theron, and powred also oyle theron, and Iacob called the name of the place where God spake with him Bethel. And they departed from Bethel, and when he was but a The house of God. C. field breadth from Ephrath, Rahel began to trauaile: and in trauailyng, she was in perill. And it happened, as she was in paines of her labor, the midwife said vnto her, feare not, for this sonne is thyne also. Then as her 1.Reg.iiij.d. soule was a departyng, that she must die, she called his name Ben Ony, The sone of my sorow. But his father called him Ben Iamin. The sone of the right hand. And thus died Rahel, & was buried in the waye to Ephrath, whiche is Bethlehem. And Iacob set vp a stone vpon the graue, whiche is called Rahels graue stone vnto this daie. And Israel went theare, and pitched vp his tent Mich.iiij.c. beyond the tour of Eder. And it chaunced, as Israel dwelt in the land, that Ruben went Gen xlix.a. and laie with Bilha his fathers concubine and it came to Israels eare. The sonnes of D. Iacob were .xij. in nober. The sonnes of Lea Ruben Iacobs eldest sonne, and Simeon, Leui, Iuda, Issachar, & Zabulon. The sonnes of Rahel, Ioseph and Ben Iamin. The sones of Bilha Rahels maide: Dan and Nephtali. The sonnes of Silpha Leas maide Gad and Aser. These are the sones of Iacob, whiche were borne him in Mesopotamia. And so Iacob came vnto Isaac his father to Mamre, vnto Kiriah Arba, which is in Hebron: where Abraha and Isaac soiourned as straungers. And the daies of Isaac were an C.lxxv. yeres: and Isaac fell sicke and died, and was put vnto his people: beyng old and full of daies. And his sonnes, Esau and Iacob buried hym. ¶ The .xxxvi. Jacob dwelled in the land wherin his father was a straunger, euen in the land of Canaan. These are the generacions of Jacob: when Joseph was.xvij. yere old, he kept shepe with his brethren, and the ladde was with the sonnes of Bilha, and with the sonnes of Zilpha, his fathers wiues. And he brought vnto their father an euill saiyng of them. But Israel loued Joseph more then al his childre, because he begat him in his old age, & he made hym a coate of many colours.

And whē his brethren sawe, that their father loued hym more, then all his brethren, they hated hym, and could not speake peaceably vnto hym. Moreouer, when Joseph had dremed a dreme, he told it his brethre, which hated hym yet the more. And he saied vnto them: herke I praie you, this dreme which I haue dremed: behold, we wer byndyng sheues in the field: and lo, my sheue arose, and stode vp right, and youre stode rounde about, & made obeysaunce to my sheue. To whom his brethren saied: shalte thou bee our kyng in deede? Or shalt thou in deede haue dominion ouer vs? And they hated hym yet the more, because of his dremes and of his wordes.

And he dremed yet another dreme, & told it his brethren, saiyng: behold, I haue had one dreame more: me thought the Sunne and the Mone and.xi. sterres made obeysaunce to me. And when he had told it vnto his father, and his brethren, his father rebuked hym, & said vnto hym: what is this dreame, whiche thou hast dreamed? Shall I and thy mother, and thy brethren come to fall on the ground before thee? And his brethren hated hym, but his father noted the saiyng. His brethren also wēt to kepe their fathers shepe in Sichem, and Israell saied vnto Joseph: a not thy brethren kepe in Sichem? Come and I will sende thee to them. He answered: here am I. And he said vnto hym: go and se whether it bee well with thy brethren, and the shepe: and bryng me worde again. And so he sent hym out of the vale of Hebron, and he went to Sichem. And a certain man founde hym, & behold, he was wanderyng out of his waie in the field, & the man asked hym: what seekest thou? He answered: I seke my brethre tell me I praie thee, where thei kepe shepe. And the man said, thei are departed hēce, for I haerd them saie: let vs go vnto Dothan.

Then wēt Joseph after his brethren, and found them in Dothan. And when thei sawe hym a farre of, before he came at them, thei toke counsaill against hym, for to slee hym. For one saied to another: behold, this dremer commeth: come now therfore, and let vs slee hym, and cast hym into some pit, and we will saie, a wicked beast hath deuoured him, and he shall se what will come of his dremes. When Ruben herd that, he rid him out of their handes and saied, wee will not kill hym. And Ruben saied moreouer vnto them, shedde not his blood, but cast hym into this pitte, that is in the wildernesse, and laye no hande vpon hym. Thus he saied. Namely, that he might rid hym out of their handes, and deliuer hym to his father again.

And it happened, that when Joseph was come vnto his brethren, thei stript hym out of his coate, his partie coloured coate that was vpon hym, and thei toke hym, & cast him into an emptie pit: wherein was no water. And thei sat thē mune to eate bread. And as thei lift vp their ies and loked about, there came a company of Ismaelites fro Gilead, and their camels laden with spicery, baume and mirre, and wer goyng mune to carry it in to Egipt. And Juda saied vnto his brethren what auaileth it if we slay our brother, and kepe his blood secret, come on and let vs sell hym to the Ismaelites, and let not our handes be vpon hym: for he is our brother & our flesshe. And his brethren wer content. Then as the Madianites marchant men passed by thei drew and lift vp Joseph out of the pit & sold hym vnto the Ismaelites for.xx. peces of siluer. And thei brought him into Egipt.

And when Ruben came again vnto the pit and found not Joseph there, he rent his clothes, and went again vnto his brethren, saiyng: the lad is not yonder, and whether shall I go? And thei toke Josephs coate, & killed a goate, and dipped the coate in the blood. And thei sēt that partie coloured coat, & brought it vnto their father and saied: this haue we founde: se whether it be thy sonnes coate or no. And he knewe it, saiyng: it is my sonnes

cote, a wicked beast hath devoured hym, Ioseph is rent in peces. And Iacob rent his clothes, and put sacke cloth about his loynes, and tooke sore for his sone a long season. But all his sonnes and all his daughters rose vp to comforte hym. Neuertheles he would not be comforted, but saied: I will go downe into the graue vnto my sone, mourning. And thus his father wepte for hym. And the Madianites sold him into Egipt vnto Putiphar a lorde of Pharaos, a his chief Steward.

¶ The xxxviij. Chapiter.

IT chaunced at that tyme, that Iudas went from his brethren, and gat hym to a man called Hira of Odollam, and there he sawe the daughter of a manne called Sua a Chananite. And he toke her and went vnto her. And she conceiued and bare a sonne, and called his name Er. And she conceiued again and bare a sonne and called hym Onan. And she conceiued again, a bare yet a sonne, who she called Sela: and he was at Chezib why she bare hym. And Iudas gaue Er his eldest sone a wife, whose name was Thamar. And Er Iudas eldest sonne, was wicked in the sight of the lorde, and the lorde slewe hym.

And Iudas saied vnto Onan: go vnto thy brothers wife, and mary her: that thou maist stirre vp seede vnto thy brother. And why Onan perceiued that the seede should not be his therefore, when he went vnto his brothers wife, he spilled it on the ground, a gaue not seede vnto his brother. And the thyng which he did, displeased the lorde, wherfore he slewe hym also. Then saied Iudas to Thamar his daughter in lawe, remain a widowe at thy fathers house, till Sela my sonne be growen, for he saied: least peraduenture he dye also as his brethren did. And Thamar went and dwelt in her fathers house.

And in processe of tyme, the daughter of Sua Iudas wife died. When Iudas why he had left mourning, went vnto his shepe shearers to Thimnath, he and his frend Hira of Odolla. And one told Thamar saiyng: behold thy father in lawe goth vp to Thimnath, to shere his shepe. And she put her widowes garmentes of fro her, a couered her with a cloke and disguised her self: and sate her downe in a common place, whiche is by the hie waie vnto Thimnath, for because she saw that Sela was growen, a she was not geue vnto him to wife.

When Iuda sawe her, he thought it had been an whore, because she had couered her face. And he turned to her vnto the waie, and saide: come I praie thee, let me lye with thee, for he knew not that it was his daughter in lawe. And she answered: what wilt thou geue me, for to lye with me? Then saied he, I will sende thee a kid of the flocke. She saied: when geue me a pledge till thou sende it. He saied, what pledge shall I geue thee? She answered: thy signet, thy bracelet, and thy staffe that is in thy hand. And he gaue it her and lay by her, a she was with child by him. And she gat her vp, and went a put her widowes raiment from her, and put on her widowes raiment.

And Iudas sent the kid by his frend Odollam, for to receiue his pledge again, from the wifes hand. But he found her not. Then asked he the men of the same place, saiyng: where is the whore that satte openly by the waies side? They answered: There was no whore here. He came therfore to Iuda again and said vnto hym: I can not find her, and also the men of the place said, that there was no whore there. And Iuda said, let her take it to her, lest we be shamed. Behold, I haue sent the kidde, and thou hast not founde her.

And it came to passe, that after iij. monethes, one tolde Iuda, saiyng: Thamar thy daughter in lawe hath played the whore, and with playing the whore, is become greate with child. And Iuda saied: bryng her forth, that she may be brent. And whe they brought her forth, she sent to her father in lawe, saiyng: by the manne vnto whom these thynges pertain, am I with child. And saied also, loke whose are this seale, bracelet, a this staffe. And Iuda knewe them and said: she hath been more righteous then I, because I gaue her not to Sela my sonne. And he laie with her no more. It chaunced when tyme was come, that she should be deliuered, beholde, there was twoo twynnes in her bombe.

And it chaunced that when she trauailed, the one put out his hande, and the Widwife toke and bounde a red threde about it, saiyng: this is come out firste. And it chaunced, that he pluckd his hand backe again, and behold his brother came out. And she saied: wherefore hast thou rent a rent vpō thee? And called his name Pharez. Afterward came out his brother, that had the red threde about his hande, and his name was called Zarah.

¶ The xxxix. Chapiter.

IOseph was brought vnto Egipte, and Putiphar a lorde of Pharaos (and his chiefe Steward an Egiptian) bought hym of the Ismaelites, whiche had brought him thether. And God was with Ioseph, and he became a lucky man, continuing in the house of his maister the Egiptian. And his maister sawe that God was with hym, and that God made all that he did, to prosper in his hand. And Ioseph found grace in his maisters sight, and serued hym. And made hym ruler of his house, a put all that he had in his hand. And it chaunced fro the tyme that he had made him ruler ouer his house, and ouer al that he had the lorde blessed the Egiptians house for Iosephs sake, and the blessyng of the lorde was vpon all that he had in the house, and in the field. And therfore he left all that he had in Josephs house, and loked vpon nothyng that was with hym, saue onely on the breade which he dyd eate. And Joseph was a good

B. g. xvi. c. ly personne, and a well fauoured.

And it fortuned after this, that his Maisters wife cast her eyes vpon Joseph, & said come lye with me. But he refused, and said to his maisters wife: behold, my master wotteth not what he hath in the house with me, and hath committed all that he hath to my hande. There is no man greater in the house then I am, neither hath he kept any thyng frō me, but onely thee, because thou art his wife. Howe then can I do this great wickednes, & sinne against god? And after this maner spake he to Joseph day by day, but he herkened not vnto her to lye nere her, or to be in her cōpany.

C. And it fortuned on a certain conuenient day that Joseph entered into the house to do his busines: and there was none of the household in the house. And he caught hym by the garment, saying: come lye with me. And he left his garment in her hande, and fled, and got hym out. And it chaunced, when she saw that he had left his garment in her hand, and was fledde out. And she not regarded. She called vnto the men of the house, & told them saying: he hath brought in an Hebrue vnto vs to do vs shame: for he came into me, for to haue lyen with me. And I began to crye with a loude voyce. And when he hard that I lyft vp my voyce & cried, he left his garment with me, and fled away, and got hym out.

D. And she layed vp his garment by her, vntil her lorde came home. And she told hym with these wordes, saying: this Hebrues seruaunt which thou hast brought vnto vs, came into me, to me shame. But assone as I lift vp my voyce & cried, he left his garment with me, and fled out. When his master herde saying to his wife (which she told hym saying: after this maner did thy seruaunt to me) he waxed wroth.

And the Master toke Joseph, and put hym in prison, euē into the place where the kynges prisoners lay bound. And there cōtinued he in prison, but the lorde was with Joseph and shewed hym mercie, and got hym fauour in the sight of the lorde of the prison. And the keper of the prison, cōmitted to Josephs hand all the prisoners that were in the prison house. And whatsoeuer was doen there, that did he. And the keper of the prison loked vnto nothyng, that was vnder his hande, seyng that the lorde was with hym. For whatsoeuer he did, the lorde made it to prospere.

The. xl. Chapiter.

And it chaunced after these, that the butler of the kyng of Egipt, and his baker had offended their lorde the kyng of Egipt. And Pharao was angery against his two officers: against the chief butler, and against the chief baker: and put them to ward in the chief Marshes house, euen in the prison and place where Joseph was bound. And the chief Steward gaue Joseph a charge with them, and he serued them. And they continued a season in ward. And they dreamed either of them in one night, both the butler and the baker of the kyng of Egipt, which were bound in the prison house, either of them his dreame, and of the manner of a sundry interpretacio.

When Joseph came in vnto them in the morning, and loked vpon them, behold they were sad. And he asked Pharaos Officers that were with him in his masters ward, saying: wherefore loke ye so sadly to day? And they answered him: we haue dreamed a dreame, and haue no man to declare it. And Joseph said vnto them: do not interpretynges belong to God? Yet tell me: and the chief butler told his dreame to Joseph, and said vnto hym: in my dreame, me thought there stode a vine before me, and in the vine were three braunches and it was as though it budded, and her blossomes shotte further: and the grapes thereof waxed ripe. And I had Pharaos cup in my C. hand, and toke of the grapes, and wrong them into Pharaos cup, and deliuered Pharao cup into his hande. And Joseph said vnto hym: this is the interpretacion of it. The iij. braunches are thre daies: For within three daies shal Pharao lift vp thyne hed, and restore thee vnto thyne office again, and thou shalte deliuer Pharaos cup into his hande, after the old maner, wherein thou wast wōt to geue hym drynke. But if thou thynke on me with thee, when thou arte in good case, shew mercie (I pray thee) vnto me. And make mencion of me to Pharao, and bring me out of this house: For I was stollen out of the lande of the Hebrues, and here also haue I doen nothyng at all, wherefore they should haue put me into this Dongeon.

terpretacio was good, he said vnto Joseph: me thought also in my dreame, that I had iij. wicker basketes on my hed. And in the vppermost basket there was of all maner bake meates for Pharao. And the birdes did eate the out of the basket that was vpon my hed. And Joseph answered and said: this is the interpretacio therof. The iij. basketes are iij. daies, for this daie. iij. daies shall Pharao take thy hed frō thee, and shall hang thee on a tree, & the birdes shal eate the flesh frō thee.

And it came to passe the third daie, which was Pharaos birthday, that he made a feast vnto all his seruauntes. And he lifted vp the hed of the chief butler and of the chief baker, among his seruauntes. And restored the chief butler vnto his butlership again: which he also reched the cup into Pharaos hand: but he hanged the chief Baker: euen as Jo-

ceph had interpreted vnto the chief butler and baker, but gaue him no place.

The.xli. Chapiter.

Genesis.xl. AND it chaunced after twoo yeres, that Pharao dremed, and behold: he stode by a riuers side, and there came out of the riuer vij. goodly kyne and fat fleshed, and fed in a mewe, and. vij. other kine came vp after out of the riuer, euill fauored and leane fleshed, and stode by the other kine, vpon the brynke of the riuer. And the euill fauored & leane fleshed kyne, did eate vp the. vij. well fauored and fat kyne: and Pharao awoke. And he slept again, and dremed the seconde tyme.
And beholde, vij. eares of corne grewe vpon one stalke, rancke and goodly. And again. vij. thynne eares blasted with the East wynde, sprang vp after them: and the seuen thynne eares deuoured the. vij. rancke and full eares.
And Pharao awaked: & se, it was a dreame.

And when the morning came, his spirite was troubled. And he sent & called for all the Southsayers of Egipt, and all the wisemen therof, and Pharao told them his dreme: but there was none of them that could interpretate it vnto Pharao. Then spake the chiefe butler vnto Pharao, saying: I remember my faultes this daie. Pharao being angry with his seruantes, put me ward in the chief stewardes house, bothe me and the chief baker. And we dremed bothe of vs in one night and eche mannes dreme of sundery interpre-tacion. And there was with vs a yong man, an Hebrue borne, seruant vnto the chief steward. To whom, when we told them, he declared our dremes vnto vs, accordyng to either of our dremes. And as he declared them vnto vs, euen so it came to passe. For he restored me vnto myne office again, and hanged him. Pharao sent therfore & called Joseph.
And they brought him hastily out of prison.
And he mauen pyntelle & chaunged his raiment, & came in to Pharao. And Pharao said vnto Joseph: I haue seen a dreme, & no man can interpretate it, & I haue hard tell of the, that alone as thou hearest a dreme, thou canst interpretate it. Joseph answered Pharao, saying: Not I, but god shall gene Pharao an answere of peace. And Pharao said vnto Joseph: In my dreme me thought I stode by a riuers side, & there came out of the riuer. vij. fat fleshed, & well fauored kyne, and fed in the mewe. And then. vij. other kine came vp after them, poore and very euill fauored and leane fleshed: suche as I neuer saw in al the lande of Egipt, they were so euill fauored.
And the. vij. leane and euill fauored kyne, did eate vp the first. vij. fat kyne. And when they had eaten them vp, a man could not perceiue that they had eaten them: but they were still as euill fauored, as they were at the beginning. And I awoke. And I sawe again in my dreame, and beholde. vij. eares sprang out of one stalke, full and faire. And. vij. other eares again, withered, thynne and blasted with the East wynde, sprang vp after them. And the thynne eares deuoured the. vij. good eares.
And I haue told it vnto the Southsayers, but there was no manne that could tell what it meaneth. And Joseph answered Pharao: bothe Pharaos dreames are one. And God hath shewed Pharao what he is about to do.
The. vij. good kyne are. vij. yeres: and the
vij. good eares are. vij. yeres also, & it is but one dreame. Likewyse, the. vij. thynne & euill fauored kyne, that came out after them are vij. yeres: and the. vij. emptie and blasted eares, shalbe. vij. yeres of hunger. This is the thyng I haue told vnto Pharao, that God is about to do, and sheweth it vnto Pharao.
Behold, there come. vij. yeres of greate plen-teousnes, throughout all the lande of Egipt.
And again, there shall arise after them seuen yeres of hunger. And all the plenteousnes shalbe forgotten in the lande of Egipt. And the hunger shall consume the lande: neither shal the plenteousnes be knowen in the lande by reason of that hunger that shall come after, for it shalbe exceedyng great. And as concernyng that the dreame was doubled vnto Pharao the seconde tyme, behold, the thyng is certainly prepared of God, and God will shortly bryng it to passe. Now therfore let Pharao prouide for a man of vnderstandyng and wisedome, and set him ouer the lande of Egipt. And let Pharao do this also, that he make officers ouer the land, and take vp the fifth part of the lande of Egipt in the seuen plenteous yeres, and let them gather all the foode of these good yeres that come, & laye vp corne vnder the hande of Pharao, that there maie bee foode in the cities, and there let them kepe it: that there maie be found in store in the land, against the seuen yeres of hunger, whiche shal come in the land of Egipt, that the land perish not through hunger.
And the sayng pleased Pharao and all his seruantes. Then said Pharao vnto his seruauntes: where shall we finde suche a man as this is, in whom is the Spirite of God?
And Pharao said vnto Joseph: for asmuche as God hath shewed thee all this, there is no man of vnderstandyng nor of wisedom like vnto thee. Thou shalt be ouer my house, and accordyng to thy worde, shall all my people be ruled, onely in the kynges seat will I be aboue thee. And Pharao said again vnto Joseph: behold, I haue set thee ouer al the land of Egipt. And he toke of his ryng fro his hand, and put it vpon Josephs hand, and arayed him in clothe of sauour, and put a golden chayne about his necke, and set him vp in the seconde chaire that he had, that they cried before him: bow the knee, and

Pharao

Pharao made hym ruler ouer all the lande of Egipt. And Pharao sayd vnto Joseph: I am Pharao, without the shall no man lifte vp his hande or fote, in all the lande of Egipt.

F. And he called Josephs name Zaphnath Paneah. And he gaue hym to wife Aseath the daughter of Putiphar, preest of On. Then went Joseph abrode in the lande of Egipt. And he was .xxx. yere old, when he stode before Pharao kyng of Egipte. And Joseph departed fro the presence of Pharao, and throughout all the lande of Egipt. And in the seuen plenteous yeres, the yerth made frutes and gathered vp all the foode of the .vij. plenteous yeres, whiche were in the land of Egipt and laied vp the same in the cities. The foode of the fieldes, that grewe rounde about euery cities, laied he vp in the same. And Joseph laied vp corne in store, like vnto the sand of the sea, in multitude out of measure, vntill he left nombryng: for it was without nober. And vnto Joseph were borne two sonnes (before the yeres of hunger came) which Aseath the daughter of Putiphar, preest of On bare vnto hym. And Joseph called the name of the first sonne Manasse, for god (saith he) hath made me forget all my labour, and all my fathers houshold. The name of the second called he Ephraim, for God (said he) hath caused me to growe in the lande of my trouble.

And when the seuen yeres of plenteousnes that was in the lande of Egipt were ended, then come the seuen yeres of* derth, according as Joseph had said. And the derth was in all landes: but in all the lande of Egipte was there yet foode. And when the lande of Egipt also began to hunger, the people cried to Pharao for bread. And Pharao said vnto all the Egipcians, go vnto Joseph, & what he saieth to you, that do. And the derth was throughout all the lande. And Joseph opened all that was in the cities, and sold vnto the Egipcians. For the hunger waxed sore in the land of Egipt. And al countrees came to Egipt to Joseph for to bye corne: because that the hunger was so sore in all landes.

And Jacob seeyng, that there was corne vpon Egipt, said vnto his sonnes: why gape ye one vpon another? And he said: behold, I haue herd that there is corne in Egipt. Get* you vnto thether, and bye vs corne from thence, that wee maie liue and not dye. So went Josephs tenne brethren, vnto to bye corne of the Egipcians. But Benjamin Josephs brother, would not Jacob sende with his other brethren, for he said: lest some misfortune happen hym. And the sonnes of Israell came to bye corne, among other that came, for there was derth in the land of Canaan. And Joseph was gouerner in the land and sold to all the people of the land. And his brethren came, and fell downe on the ground before hym. Whe Joseph sawe his brethren, he knew them: and made hymself straunge vnto them, and spake roughly vnto them, saiyng: whence come ye? They answered, out of the lande of Canaan, to bye vitaill. And Joseph knewe his brethren, but they knewe not hym.

M. And Joseph remembred his dremes whiche he dremed of them, and said vnto them: ye are spies, and to se where the lande is weake, is your comming. And they said vnto hym: nay, my lorde, but to bye vitaill, thy seruauntes are come. We are all one mannes sonnes, and meane truly, and thy seruauntes are no spies. And he said vnto them again, nay, but euen to se where the lande is weake, is your comming. And they said: we thy seruantes are .xij. brethren, the sonnes of one man in the lande of Canaan. And behold, the yongest is this daie with our father, and one is not: which sayd where he is. And Joseph said vnto them, that is it that I spake vnto you, saiyng: Ye are spies. Hereby ye shalbe proued. By the life of Pharao, ye shal not go hence, except your yongest brother come hether. Sende out one of you, whiche maie fet your brother, and ye shal be kept in prison, that your wordes may be proued, whether there be any truthe in you: or els by the life of Pharao, ye are but spies. And he put them in ward three daies.

And Joseph said vnto them the third day: This do and liue, for I feare god. If ye mean no hurt, let one of your brethren be bounde in the house of your prison, and go ye and bryng the necessary foode vnto your houshold, but bryng your yongest brother vnto me: that your wordes maie be tried, and that ye dye not. And they did so. And one said to another: wee haue herely synned against our brother, in that wee saw the anguishe of his soule, when he besought vs, & we would not heare hym: is therefore is this trouble come vpon vs.

And Ruben answered them, saiyng: said I not vnto you, that ye should not* synne against the lad? And ye would not heare. And se his bloud is requited. They were not aware that Joseph vnderstoode them, for he spake vnto them by an interpreter. And he turned from them, and wept* and turned to them again, and communed with them, and tooke out Simeon from emong them, and bound hym before their eyes, & Joseph commanded to fill their sackes with corne, and put euery mannes money in his sacke, and to geue them vitaill to spend by the waie. And thus did he vnto them.

Quenlong. A. And the derth was greate in the land. And it came to passe, when they had eaten vp the corne, which they brought out of the lande of Egipt, their father sayde vnto them: go again, and buy vs a litle foode. Juda answered him, and sayed: The man did testify vnto vs, Gene. xliij. d saying: Ye shall not see my face, except your brother be with you. If thou wilt send our brother with vs, we will go downe, & buy thee foode. But if thou wilt not send him, we will not go downe: for the man sayed vnto vs, ye shall not see my face, except your brother be with you. And Israell sayed: wherefore haue ye so cruelly with me, as to tell the B. man, that ye had yet a brother? They answered: the man asked us straitly of our kynred saying: is your father yet aliue? Haue ye not yet another brother? And we told him, accor-dyng to these wordes. Could we know that he would say: bring your brother downe with you? Then sayed Juda vnto Israel his father: sende the lad with me, that we maye ryse and go, so that we may liue and not die, both we, and thou, and also our children. I will be surety for him, of my hande shalt thou require him. If I bring him not to thee again, and set him before thine eyes, then * let me Gen. xl.

had made soarying by delay, he had been there to fetche vs now again. Then their father Israel sayed vnto them: If it must needes be so, then do this. Take of the best fruites C. of the lande in your vessels, and bring the man a present, a litle of Basme, and a litle of honye, spices and Myrre, nutsey and Almondes. And take double money in your hande. And the money that was brought again in your sackes, take it again with you, lest peradventure it was some ouer sight.
Take also your brother with you, & arise and go again to the man. And God almightie gene you mercy in the sight of the man, that he maye deliuer you your other brother, and this Ben Jamin, and I shalbee robbed of my children, as I haue been robbed of the presente, & twise so much more money in their hand with Benjamin. And so he dyd, went vnto D. to Egipt, and stode before Joseph. Why Joseph saw Ben Jamin with them, he sayed vnto the ruler of his house: bryng these men home and slay, and make reade, for these men shall dine with me at noone. And the man dyd as Joseph bad, and brought them into Joseph's house. When the men were brought into Joseph's house, they were afrayed, and said: because of the money, that came in our sackes mouthes at the first tyme, are we brought in that he maie picke a querell with vs, and to take some thyng to our charge, and to bryng vs in bondage, and our Asses also. Therefore came they to the man, that was the ruler ouer Josephs house, and commoned with him, at the doore of the house, and sayed.

Oh sir, we came mynde hether at the first E. tyme, to buy foode: & as we came to an inne happened, that we opened our sackes, and beholde, euery mannes money was in his sacke, with full weight. And we haue brought Gene.

we brought also in our handes, to buy foode but we cannot tell, who put our money in our sackes. And he said, peace be vnto you, feare not: your God, and the God of your father, hath geuen you that treasure in your sackes.
I had your money. And he brought Symeon out to them, and the man led them into Joseph's house, and gaue them water to wasshe their feete, and gaue their Asses prouender.
And they made redy their presente, against Joseph came at noone, for they herd saie, that they should eate bread there. When Joseph came home, they brought the presente in to the house to him, and bowed vnto him to the ground. And he asked them how they did, and F. sayed: is your father well, the old man, of whom ye tolde vs? Is he yet aliue? And and thy housholde, and thy substaunce come vnto me. For there are yet fyue yeares of derth remaynyng, lest thou and thy housholde, and all that thou hast come to poouertie. Behold, your eyes see, and the eyes of my brother Beniamin, that it is my mouth that speaketh vnto you. Tell my father therefore of all my glorie in Egipte, and of all that ye haue seene, and make haste, and bring my father hyther vnto me. And he fell vpon his brother Beniamins neck, and wept, and Beniamin wept vpon his neck. Moreouer he kissed all his brethren, and wept vpon them, and after that his brethren talked with him.

And the fame of the matter was heard in Pharaos house, saying: Ioseph brethren are come. And it pleased Pharao well, and his seruauntes. Then Pharao said vnto Ioseph: Say vnto thy brethren: Do this, lade your beastes, and get you into the lande of Canaan, and take your father and your housholdes, and come vnto me, and I will geue you the best of the lande of Egipte, and ye shall eate the fatnesse of the lande. Commaunde them also, and say: Do this, take you wagons out of the lande of Egipte for your children and your wiues, and bring your father, and come. Regarde not your stuffe, for the best of all the lande of Egipte is yours. And the children of Israel did so, and Ioseph gaue them wagons, according to the commaundement of Pharao, and gaue them vitayles for the way. He gaue them all, euery man changeable rayment, but vnto Beniamin he gaue three hundreth pieces of syluer, and fyue changeable rayments. And he sent vnto his father after the same maner, and added ten asses that caried of the best thynges of Egipte, and ten she asses that caried corne, breade, and meate for his father by the way. So he sent his brethren away, and they departed, and he said vnto them: See that ye fall not out by the way. And they went vp out of Egipte, and came into the lande of Canaan vnto Iacob their father, and told him, saying: Ioseph thy sonne liueth, and he is ruler ouer all the lande of Egipte. And his heart beleued them not, for he thought they had lyed vnto him. But when they told him all the wordes that Ioseph had spoken vnto them, and when he sawe the wagons that Ioseph had sent to cary him, their father Iacob was reuiued, and said: It is inough for me, that Ioseph my sonne liueth. I will go and see him before I die.

So Israel toke his iourney with all that he had, and came to Berseba, and offered sacrifice vnto the God of his father Isaac. And God spake vnto Israel in the visions of the night, and said: Iacob, Iacob. And he answered: Here am I. And he said: I am God, the God of thy father, feare not to go downe into Egipte, for I will make of thee a great nation there. I will go downe with thee into Egipte, and I will bring thee vp again, and Ioseph shall put his hande vpon thine eyes. And Iacob arose from Berseba, and the children of Israel caried Iacob their father, and their children, and their wiues in the wagons which Pharao had sent to cary him. And they toke their cattell, and their substaunce which they had gotten in the lande of Canaan, and came into Egipte, Iacob and all his seede with him. His sonnes and his sonnes sonnes with him, his daughters and his sonnes daughters, and all his seede brought he with him into Egipte.

And these are the names of the children of Israel which came into Egipte, Iacob and his children. The first begotten of Iacob was Ruben. And the children of Ruben were Henoch, Phallu, Hesron, and Charmi. And the children of Simeon were Iemuel, Iamin, Ahod, Iachin, Sohar, and Saul the sonne of a Chanaanitish woman. And the children of Leui were Gerson, Caath, and Merari. And the children of Iuda were Her, Onan, Sela, Phares, and Zara. But Her and Onan died in the lande of Canaan. And the children of Phares were Hesron and Hamul. And the children of Isaschar were Thola, Phua, Iob, and Semron. And the children of Zabulon were Sared, Helon, and Iahelel. These are the children of Lia, which she bare vnto Iacob in Mesopotamia of Syria, and Dina his daughter. All the soules of his sonnes and of his daughters were thirty and three. And the children of Gad were Sephion, Aggi, Suni, Esebon, Heri, Arodi, and Areli. And the children of Aser were Iemna, Iesua, Iesui, Baria, and Sara their sister. And the children of Baria were Heber and Melchiel. These are the children of Zelpha, which Laban gaue vnto Lia his daughter, and she bare these vnto Iacob, sixteene soules. The children of Rachel Iacobs wife were Ioseph and Beniamin. And vnto Ioseph in the lande of Egipte were borne Manasses and Ephraim, which Aseneth the daughter of Putiphare the priest of Heliopolis bare vnto him. And the children of Beniamin were Bela, Bechar, Asbel, Gera, Naaman, Hoi, Ros, Mupim, Hupim, and Hard. These are the children of Rachel, which she bare vnto Iacob, fourteene soules. And the children of Dan were Husim. And the children of Nephthali were Iahasiel, Guni, Iesar, and Sellum. These are the children of Bala, which Laban gaue vnto Rachel his daughter, and she bare these vnto Iacob, seuen soules. All the soules that came with Iacob into Egipte, which came out of his loynes, besides the wiues of the children of Iacob, were sixty and six soules. And the children of Ioseph which were borne vnto him in Egipte were two soules. All the soules of the housholde of Iacob which came into Egipte were seuentie soules.

And Iacob sent Iuda before him vnto Ioseph, that he might come before him into the lande of Gosen. And they came into the lande of Gosen. And Ioseph made ready his charet, and went vp to meete Israel his father in Gosen, and fell vpon his neck, and wept vpon his neck a good while. And Israel said vnto Ioseph: Now let me die, seeing I haue seene thy face, that thou yet liuest. Then Ioseph said vnto his brethren, and vnto his fathers housholde: I will go vp and shewe Pharao, and say vnto him: My brethren and my fathers housholde which were in the lande of Canaan, are come vnto me. And the men are shepherdes, for their occupation hath been to feede cattell, and they haue brought their sheepe, their oxen, and all that they haue. Now therefore when Pharao shall call you, and say: What is your occupation? Then ye shall say: Thy seruauntes occupation hath been about cattell from our youth vp hitherto, both we and our fathers, that ye may dwell in the lande of Gosen. For the Egiptians abhorre all shepherdes.

Then Ioseph went in and told Pharao, and said: My father and my brethren, their sheepe, their oxen, and all that they haue, are come out of the lande of Canaan, and beholde, they are in the lande of Gosen. And he toke fyue men of his brethren, and presented them before Pharao. And Pharao said vnto his brethren: What occupation haue ye? And they said vnto Pharao: Thy seruauntes occupation hath been about cattell, both we and our fathers. And they said vnto Pharao: We are come to soiourne in this lande, because there is no pasture for thy seruauntes sheepe, for the famine is sore in the lande of Canaan. Now therefore let thy seruauntes dwell in the lande of Gosen. And Pharao said vnto Ioseph: Thy father and thy brethren are come vnto thee. The lande of Egipte lyeth before thee, make thy father and thy brethren to dwell in the best place of the lande, and let them dwell in the lande of Gosen. And if thou knowest any men of actiuitie among them, make them rulers ouer my cattell. And Ioseph brought in Iacob his father, and set him before Pharao, and Iacob blessed Pharao. And Pharao said vnto Iacob: How many are the dayes of the yeares of thy life? And Iacob said vnto Pharao: The dayes of the yeares of my pilgrimage are an hundreth and thirty yeares. Few and euill haue the dayes of the yeares of my life been, and haue not attained vnto the dayes of the yeares of the life of my fathers in the dayes of their pilgrimage. And Iacob blessed Pharao, and went out from before Pharao. And Ioseph placed his father and his brethren, and gaue them possession in the lande of Egipte, in the best place of the lande, in the lande of Ramesses, as Pharao had commaunded. And Ioseph nourished his father, and his brethren, and all his fathers housholde with bread, according to the number of their children.

And there was no bread in all the lande, for the famine was very sore, so that the lande of Egipte and the lande of Canaan fainted for hunger. And Ioseph gathered vp all the money that was found in the lande of Egipte, and in the lande of Canaan, for the corne which they bought. And Ioseph brought the money into Pharaos house. And when the money of the lande of Egipte, and of the lande of Canaan was spent, all the Egiptians came vnto Ioseph, and said: Geue vs bread, for why should we die before thine eyes? for our money is gone. And Ioseph said: Bring your cattell, and I will geue you for your cattell, if your money be gone. And they brought their cattell vnto Ioseph, and Ioseph gaue them bread for horses, for sheepe, for oxen, and for asses. And he nourished them with bread for all their cattell for that yeare. And when that yeare was ended, they came vnto him the second yeare, and said vnto him: We will not hide from my lorde, how that our money is spent, and my lorde hath our cattell, so that there remaineth nothing before my lorde, but our bodies and our landes. Wherefore shall we die before thine eyes, both we and our landes? Buy vs and our landes for bread, and we and our landes will be seruauntes vnto Pharao. Geue vs seede, that we may liue and not die, and that the lande be not desolate. So Ioseph bought all the landes of Egipte for Pharao, for the Egiptians solde euery man his fielde, because the famine preuailed against them. And the lande became Pharaos. And as for the people, he caried them into the cities from one ende of the borders of Egipte vnto the other ende. Only the landes of the Priestes bought he not, for the Priestes had a portion assigned them of Pharao, and did eate their portion which Pharao gaue them. Wherefore they solde not their landes. Then Ioseph said vnto the people: Beholde, I haue bought you this day and your landes for Pharao. Loke, here is seede for you, sowe the lande. And of that which ye reape, ye shall geue the fifth part vnto Pharao, and foure partes shall be your owne, for seede of the fielde, and for your meate, and for them of your housholdes, and for your children to liue on. And they said: Thou hast saued our liues, let vs finde grace in the sight of my lorde, and we will be Pharaos seruauntes. And Ioseph made it a lawe vnto this day ouer the landes of Egipte, that Pharao should haue the fifth part. Only the landes of the Priestes became not Pharaos.

And after these thinges it was told Ioseph: Beholde, thy father is sicke. And he toke with him his two sonnes Manasses and Ephraim. And it was told Iacob, and it was said: Beholde, thy sonne Ioseph commeth vnto thee. And Israel strengthened himself, and sate vpon the bed. And Iacob said vnto Ioseph: God almighty appeared vnto me at Luz in the lande of Canaan, and blessed me, and said vnto me: Beholde, I will make thee fruitfull, and multiply thee, and make of thee a multitude of people, and will geue this lande vnto thy seede after thee for an euerlasting possession. And now thy two sonnes which were borne vnto thee in the lande of Egipte, before I came vnto thee into Egipte, are myne: Ephraim and Manasses shall be myne, as Ruben and Simeon. And the children which thou begettest after them, shall be thine, and shall be called after the name of their brethren in their inheritaunce. For when I came from Mesopotamia, Rachel died by me in the lande of Canaan by the way, when there was yet a little way to come vnto Ephrata, and I buried her there by the way of Ephrata, which is Bethlehem. And Israel behelde Ioseph sonnes, and said: Who are these? And Ioseph said vnto his father: They are my sonnes, which God hath geuen me here. And he said: Bring them vnto me, I pray thee, that I may blesse them. For the eyes of Israel were dimme for age, so that he could not see well. And he brought them vnto him, and he kissed them and embraced them. And Israel said vnto Ioseph: I had not thought to see thy face, and beholde, God hath shewed me also thy seede. And Ioseph toke them from his fathers knees, and fell downe on his face before him. And Ioseph said vnto them: Take your children, Ephraim and Manasses, and bring them vnto me, that I may blesse them. And he brought them vnto him, and he kissed them and embraced them, and said vnto Ioseph: I will not depriue thee of thy children, for God hath shewed me also thy seede. And he brought them out from his knees, and fell downe on his face before him. And Ioseph said vnto them: See that ye fall not out by the way. And they went vp out of Egipte, and came into the lande of Canaan vnto Iacob their father, and told him, saying: Ioseph thy sonne liueth, and he is ruler ouer all the lande of Egipte. And his heart beleued them not, for he thought they had lyed vnto him. But when they told him all the wordes that Ioseph had spoken vnto them, and when he sawe the wagons that Ioseph had sent to cary him, their father Iacob was reuiued, and said: It is inough for me, that Ioseph my sonne liueth. I will go and see him before I die.

And the children of Ioseph which were borne vnto him in Egipte were two soules. All the soules of the housholde of Iacob which came into Egipte were seuentie soules.

And Iacob sent Iuda before him vnto Ioseph, that he might come before him into the lande of Gosen. And they came into the lande of Gosen. And Ioseph made ready his charet, and went vp to meete Israel his father in Gosen, and fell vpon his neck, and wept vpon his neck a good while. And Israel said vnto Ioseph: Now let me die, seeing I haue seene thy face, that thou yet liuest. Then Ioseph said vnto his brethren, and vnto his fathers housholde: I will go vp and shewe Pharao, and say vnto him: My brethren and my fathers housholde which were in the lande of Canaan, are come vnto me. And the men are shepherdes, for their occupation hath been to feede cattell, and they haue brought their sheepe, their oxen, and all that they haue. Now therefore when Pharao shall call you, and say: What is your occupation? Then ye shall say: Thy seruauntes occupation hath been about cattell from our youth vp hitherto, both we and our fathers, that ye may dwell in the lande of Gosen. For the Egiptians abhorre all shepherdes.

Then Ioseph went in and told Pharao, and said: My father and my brethren, their sheepe, their oxen, and all that they haue, are come out of the lande of Canaan, and beholde, they are in the lande of Gosen. And he toke fyue men of his brethren, and presented them before Pharao. And Pharao said vnto his brethren: What occupation haue ye? And they said vnto Pharao: Thy seruauntes occupation hath been about cattell, both we and our fathers. And they said vnto Pharao: We are come to soiourne in this lande, because there is no pasture for thy seruauntes sheepe, for the famine is sore in the lande of Canaan. Now therefore let thy seruauntes dwell in the lande of Gosen. And Pharao said vnto Ioseph: Thy father and thy brethren are come vnto thee. The lande of Egipte lyeth before thee, make thy father and thy brethren to dwell in the best place of the lande, and let them dwell in the lande of Gosen. And if thou knowest any men of actiuitie among them, make them rulers ouer my cattell. And Ioseph brought in Iacob his father, and set him before Pharao, and Iacob blessed Pharao. And Pharao said vnto Iacob: How many are the dayes of the yeares of thy life? And Iacob said vnto Pharao: The dayes of the yeares of my pilgrimage are an hundreth and thirty yeares. Few and euill haue the dayes of the yeares of my life been, and haue not attained vnto the dayes of the yeares of the life of my fathers in the dayes of their pilgrimage. And Iacob blessed Pharao, and went out from before Pharao. And Ioseph placed his father and his brethren, and gaue them possession in the lande of Egipte, in the best place of the lande, in the lande of Ramesses, as Pharao had commaunded. And Ioseph nourished his father, and his brethren, and all his fathers housholde with bread, according to the number of their children.

And after these thinges it was told Ioseph: Beholde, thy father is sicke. And he toke with him his two sonnes Manasses and Ephraim. And it was told Iacob, and it was said: Beholde, thy sonne Ioseph commeth vnto thee. And Israel strengthened himself, and sate vpon the bed. And Iacob said vnto Ioseph: God almighty appeared vnto me at Luz in the lande of Canaan, and blessed me, and said vnto me: Beholde, I will make thee fruitfull, and multiply thee, and make of thee a multitude of people, and will geue this lande vnto thy seede after thee for an euerlasting possession. And now thy two sonnes which were borne vnto thee in the lande of Egipte, before I came vnto thee into Egipte, are myne: Ephraim and Manasses shall be myne, as Ruben and Simeon. And the children which thou begettest after them, shall be thine, and shall be called after the name of their brethren in their inheritaunce. For when I came from Mesopotamia, Rachel died by me in the lande of Canaan by the way, when there was yet a little way to come vnto Ephrata, and I buried her there by the way of Ephrata, which is Bethlehem. And Israel behelde Ioseph sonnes, and said: Who are these? And Ioseph said vnto his father: They are my sonnes, which God hath geuen me here. And he said: Bring them vnto me, I pray thee, that I may blesse them. For the eyes of Israel were dimme for age, so that he could not see well. And he brought them vnto him, and he kissed them and embraced them. And Israel said vnto Ioseph: I had not thought to see thy face, and beholde, God hath shewed me also thy seede. And Ioseph toke them from his fathers knees, and fell downe on his face before him. And Ioseph said vnto them: See that ye fall not out by the way. And they went vp out of Egipte, and came into the lande of Canaan vnto Iacob their father, and told him, saying: Ioseph thy sonne liueth, and he is ruler ouer all the lande of Egipte. And his heart beleued them not, for he thought they had lyed vnto him. But when they told him all the wordes that Ioseph had spoken vnto them, and when he sawe the wagons that Ioseph had sent to cary him, their father Iacob was reuiued, and said: It is inough for me, that Ioseph my sonne liueth. I will go and see him before I die.

So Israel toke his iourney with all that he had, and came to Berseba, and offered sacrifice vnto the God of his father Isaac. And God spake vnto Israel in the visions of the night, and said: Iacob, Iacob. And he answered: Here am I. And he said: I am God, the God of thy father, feare not to go downe into Egipte, for I will make of thee a great nation there. I will go downe with thee into Egipte, and I will bring thee vp again, and Ioseph shall put his hande vpon thine eyes. And Iacob arose from Berseba, and the children of Israel caried Iacob their father, and their children, and their wiues in the wagons which Pharao had sent to cary him. And they toke their cattell, and their substaunce which they had gotten in the lande of Canaan, and came into Egipte, Iacob and all his seede with him. His sonnes and his sonnes sonnes with him, his daughters and his sonnes daughters, and all his seede brought he with him into Egipte.

And these are the names of the children of Israel which came into Egipte, Iacob and his children. The first begotten of Iacob was Ruben. And the children of Ruben were Henoch, Phallu, Hesron, and Charmi. And the children of Simeon were Iemuel, Iamin, Ahod, Iachin, Sohar, and Saul the sonne of a Chanaanitish woman. And the children of Leui were Gerson, Caath, and Merari. And the children of Iuda were Her, Onan, Sela, Phares, and Zara. But Her and Onan died in the lande of Canaan. And the children of Phares were Hesron and Hamul. And the children of Isaschar were Thola, Phua, Iob, and Semron. And the children of Zabulon were Sared, Helon, and Iahelel. These are the children of Lia, which she bare vnto Iacob in Mesopotamia of Syria, and Dina his daughter. All the soules of his sonnes and of his daughters were thirty and three. And the children of Gad were Sephion, Aggi, Suni, Esebon, Heri, Arodi, and Areli. And the children of Aser were Iemna, Iesua, Iesui, Baria, and Sara their sister. And the children of Baria were Heber and Melchiel. These are the children of Zelpha, which Laban gaue vnto Lia his daughter, and she bare these vnto Iacob, sixteene soules. The children of Rachel Iacobs wife were Ioseph and Beniamin. And vnto Ioseph in the lande of Egipte were borne Manasses and Ephraim, which Aseneth the daughter of Putiphare the priest of Heliopolis bare vnto him. And the children of Beniamin were Bela, Bechar, Asbel, Gera, Naaman, Hoi, Ros, Mupim, Hupim, and Hard. These are the children of Rachel, which she bare vnto Iacob, fourteene soules. And the children of Dan were Husim. And the children of Nephthali were Iahasiel, Guni, Iesar, and Sellum. These are the children of Bala, which Laban gaue vnto Rachel his daughter, and she bare these vnto Iacob, seuen soules. All the soules that came with Iacob into Egipte, which came out of his loynes, besides the wiues of the children of Iacob, were sixty and six soules. And the children of Ioseph which were borne vnto him in Egipte were two soules. All the soules of the housholde of Iacob which came into Egipte were seuentie soules.

And Iacob sent Iuda before him vnto Ioseph, that he might come before him into the lande of Gosen. And they came into the lande of Gosen. Ioseph coude no longer refrain before all them that stode by him: Wherefore he cried, Bydde all the men go me with hym. While Ioseph betred hymself vnto his brethrē, And he wept alonde, so that the Egiptians and the house of Pharao herde it. And Ioseph said vnto his brethren: I am Ioseph, with my father yet liue? And his brethren could not answere hym, they were so abashed at his presence. And Ioseph said vnto his brethren: come nere to me and they came nere. And he said: I am Ioseph your brother, who ye sold into Egipt.

Gene. xj. c. and. xlii. g.

Now therefore be not greued therwith, neither let it seme a cruell thyng in your eyes, that ye sold me hether. For God did send me before you to saue life. For this is the seconde yere of derth in the lande, and fiue yere are behind, in which there shalbe neither eareyng nor harueste. Wherefore, God sent me before you to make prouision, that ye might be continued in the yerth, and to saue your liues by a great deliuerance. So now it was not you that sent me hether, but god: which hath made me a father vnto Pharao: and lorde of all his house, and ruler throughout all the lande of Egipte. Haste you and go vp to my father, and tell hym. Thus saieth thy sonne Ioseph: God hath made me lorde of all Egipt. Come downe therefore vnto me, tary not. And thou shalt dwell in the lande of Gosen: and bide by me, thou and thy children, and thy childrens' children: thy shepe and thy beastes and all that thou hast. And there will I make prouision for thee, for there remain yet fiue yeres of derth, lest thou and thy household & all that thou hast, come to pouertie.

And behold, your eyes se, and the eyes also of my brother Beniamin, that mine owne mouthe speaketh to you. Therefore tell my father of all my honor in Egipte, and of all that ye haue sene, & make haste, and bryng my father hether. And he fel on his brother Beniamin's necke and wept, and Beniamin wept on his necke. Moreouer, he kissed all his brethren, and wept vpon them. And after that his brethren talked with hym. And the tydynges came vnto Pharaos house, so that they said: Ioseph's brethren are come, and it pleased Pharao well and all his seruauntes.

And Pharao spake vnto Ioseph: say vnto thy brethren, this doo ye: lade your beastes and get you hēce, vnto the lande of Canaan. & take your father, and your houholdes, and come vnto me, and I will geue you the good of the land of Egipt, and ye shall eate of the fat of the land. And thou also shalt cōmande them, this ye: take charettes with you out of the lande of Egipt, for your children and for your wiues: And bryng your father, and come. Also regarde not youre stuffe: for the good of all the lande of Egipt is yours.

And the children of Israel did euē so. And Ioseph gaue them charettes, according to the commaundment of Pharao, and gaue them vitaill also to ryde by the waie. And he gaue vnto eche of the chaunge of raiment: but vnto Beniamin he gaue .iij. c. pecyes of siluer, and fiue chaunge of rayment. And vnto his father he sent after the same maner, ten Asses laden with good out of Egipt, and tenne Asses laden with corne, bread and meate for his father by the waie. So sent he his brethren awaie to depart. And he said vnto them: se that ye fall not out by the waie.

Thei departed therefore from Egipt, and came into the lande of Canaan, vnto Iacob their father, and told hym saying: Ioseph is yet aliue, and is gouernor ouer all the lande of Egipte. And Iacobs hart mused, for he beleued them not. And they told hym all the wordes of Ioseph, which he had said vnto them. And when he sawe the charettes, which Ioseph had sent to cary hym, the spirite of Iacob their father reuiued. And Israel said: I haue inough, that Ioseph my sonne is yet aliue: I will go and se hym or that I dye.

The xlvi. Chapiter.

The. xxv. vers. xxxv. Gene. xxv. b. at Matty

Israel toke his iourney with all that he had, and came vnto Beer Sheba, and offered sacrifices vnto the God of his father Isaac. And God spake vnto Israell in a vision by night, saying: Iacob, Iacob. And he answered: here am I. And he said, I am god the God of thy father, feare not to go downe into Egipt. For I will there make of thee a greate people. I will go downe with thee into Egipt, and I will also bryng thee again, and Ioseph shall put his hande vpon thyne eyes. And Iacob rose vp from Beer Sheba. And the sonnes of Israel caried Iacob their father, and their children, and their wiues in the charettes, which Pharao had sent to cary him. And they toke their catell and their goodes, which they had gotten in the lande of Canaan, and came into Egipt: both Iacob, and all his seede with hym, his sonnes and his sonnes' sonnes with him, his daughters and his sonnes' daughters, and all his seede brought he with hym into Egipt.

The xlvij. Chapiter.

Joseph came therefore and told Pharao, and said: my father & my brethren, their sheep and their oxen, and all that they have, are come out of the land of Canaan, and behold: they are in the land of Gosen. And Joseph tooke of the vttermost of his brethren euen v. men, and presented them vnto Pharao. And Pharao said vnto his brethren: what is your occupacion? And they answered Pharao: Shepherdes are thy seruauntes, bothe we & also our father. They said moreouer vnto Pharao: for to * sogeorne in the lande are we come, for thy seruauntes haue no pasture for their sheep, so sore is the famine in the land of Canaan. Now therefore let thy seruauntes dwell in the lande of Gosen. And Pharao said vnto Joseph: thy father and thy brethren are come vnto thee. The lande of Egipt is before thee: In the best place of the lande, make both thy father and thy brethren dwell: euen in the lande of Gosen, let them dwell. Moreouer, if thou knowe any man of actiuitee among the, make them rulers ouer my cattell. And Joseph brought in Jacob his father, and set him before Pharao. And Jacob blessed Pharao. And Pharao said vnto Jacob: how old are thou? And Jacob said vnto Pharao: the dayes of my pilgrimage are an. c. and. xxx. yeere. Feme & euill haue the daies of my life been, and haue not attained vnto the yeres of the life of my fathers, in the daies of their pilgrimages. And Jacob blessed Pharao, & went out from him. And Joseph prepared dwellinges for his father and his brethren, and gaue them possession in the land of Egipt, in the best of the land: euen in the land of Rametes, as Pharao had commaunded. And Joseph made prouision for his father, his brethren: and all his fathers houshold with bread, euen as yong children are fed. There was no bread in all the lande, for the derth was exceding sore: so that the lande of Egipt, and the lande of Canaan, were famished by the reason of the derthe. And Joseph brought together all the money, that was found in the lande of Egipt, and of Canaan for the corne, which they brought: and he laied vp the money in Pharaos house. When money failed in the lande of Egipt, and of Canaan, all the Egiptians came vnto Joseph and said, gene vs bread: wherefore shuld we dye before thee, when our money is spent? Then said Joseph: bring your cattell, and I will gene you for your cattell, if ye bee without money. And they brought their cattell vnto Joseph. And Joseph gaue them bread for horses and sheep, and for oxen, and for asses, and fed them with bread for all their cattell that yere. But when that yere was gone, they came vnto him the next

gere, and saied vnto hym: we will not hyde it from my lorde, how that our money is spent my lorde also had our cattel and beastes, wherfore there ought lytel, in the sight of my lorde, but euen our bodyes and our landes. Wherefore letteth thou vs dye before thine eyes, and the land to go to naught? Buy vs and our landes for bread: and we and our landes will be bounde to pharao. Onely geue vs seede, that we maie liue & not dye, and that the land go not to wast. And so Ioseph bought all the land of Egipt for Pharao. For the Egiptians sold euery man his lande, because the derth was so sore vpon them, and so the lande became Pharaos. And he appoynted the people vnto the cities, from one side of Egipt, vnto the other euen the lande of the priestes bought he not. For the priestes had an ordinaunce of pharao, that they should eate that, which was appoynted vnto them: wherfore they sold not their landes. Then Ioseph saied vnto the folke: behold, I haue bought you this daie, & your lande for pharao. Take here seede, and sow the lande. And of the increase, ye shall geue the .v. parte vnto pharao, and iiij. partes shalbe your awne, for the seede of the field, and for you, and them of your housholdes, & for your children to eate. And they answered: thou hast saued our liues. Let vs finde grace in the sight of my lorde, and we will be pharaos seruauntes. And Ioseph made it a lawe ouer the land of Egipt, vnto this daie: that pharao should haue the .v. parte, except the landes of the priestes onely, which was not pharaos. And Israel dwelt in Egipt: euen in the countree of Gosan. And they had their possessions therin, and greewe and multiplied exceedyngly. Moreouer Iacob liued in the land of Egipt .xvij. yeere, so that the whole age of Iacob was an. C. xlvij. yere. When the time drewe nye, that Israel must dye, he sent for his sonne Ioseph, and saied vnto hym: If I haue found grace in thy sight, oh put thy hande now vnder my thigo, and beare mercifully and truely with me, that thou bury me not in Egipt, but I will lye with my fathers and thou shalt cary me out of Egipt, & bury me in their buriall. And he answered: I will do as thou hast saied. And he saied: Sweare vnto me, and he sware vnto hym. And Israel worshipped toward the bedes hed.

¶ The xlviij. Chapitre.

AFter these thinges it happened, that a messenger saied vnto Ioseph: thy father is sicke. And he toke with hym his two sonnes Manasses and Ephraim. Then was it saied vnto Iacob, behold: thy sonne Ioseph commeth vnto thee. And Israel toke his strength vnto hym, and sat vpon the bedde. And Iacob saied vnto Ioseph: God almyghty appeared vnto me at Luzain the lande of Canaan, & blessed me, and saied vnto me, behold, I will make thee grow, and will multiply thee, and will make a great number of people of thee, and will geue this lande vnto thy sede after thee, to an euerlastyng possession. And now thy two sonnes, Manasses and Ephraim, which were borne vnto thee in the lande of Egipt, before I came to thee into Egipt, are myne euen as Ruben and Simeon are myne. And the children, which thou hast gotten after them, shalt thine awne, and shalbe called after the names of their brethre in their inheritaunce. But when I came from Mesopotamia, Rachel died vpon my hande, in the land of Canaan, by the waie, and there was but a litle of lande to come vnto Ephrat. And I buried her there, in the waie to Ephrat. The same is Bethlehem. And Israel behelde Ioseph sonnes and saied, what are these? Ioseph saied vnto his father, they are my sonnes, which god hath geuen me here. And he said oh bring them to me, and let me blesse them. And the eyes of Israel were dim for age, so that he could not well se. And he brought them to hym, and he kyssed them, and embraced them. And Israel saied vnto Ioseph: I had not thought to have seen thy face, and yet hath god shewed me, and also thy sede. And Ioseph gokered them awaie from his lap, and bowed hym on the ground before hym. Then toke Ioseph the both: Ephraim with his right hande, toward Israelles left hand, and Manasses with his left hande, toward Israels right hand, & brought them vnto hym. And Israel stretched out his right hand, and laied it on Ephraims hed, which was the yonger, and his left hand vpon Manasses hed, guydyng his handes wisely, for Manasses was the elder. And he blessed Ioseph, and saied: God before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac were walke, God which hath fed me all my life long, vnto this daie, and the Angel, which hath deliuered me fro all euill, blesse the lasdren, and let my name be named in them, and the name of my fathers Abraham and Isaac, and that they may grow vnto a multitude in the myddes of the yerth. Whe Ioseph saw, that his father laied his right hande, vpon the hed of Ephraim, it displeased hym. And he toke his fathers hand, to haue remoued it, fro Ephraims hed vnto Manasses hed, and Ioseph saied vnto his father: not so my father, for this is the eldest, put thy right hand vpon his hed. And his father wouted not, but saied: I know it well my sonne, I know it well. He shalbe also a people, and shalbe great. But his yonger brother shalbe greater then he, and his sede shalbe full of people. And he blessed them that same daie, saieng: in thee let Israel bless and say, God make the as Ephraim & as

Israel. And Israel said vnto Joseph: Behold, I dye. And God shalbe with you, and bring you again, vnto the lande of your fathers. Moreouer, I haue geuen vnto thee, a portion of lande aboue thy brethren, which I gat out of the hande of the Amorite, in my sweard, and in my bowe.

Jacob called for his sonnes, & said: Come together, that I maie tell you what shal hap vnto you in the last daies. Gather you together, and heare ye sonnes of Jacob, harken vnto Israell your father. Ruben myne eldest sonne, thou art my might, and the beginnyng of my strength, the noblenesse of dignitee, and the noblenesse of power. Unstable as water. Thou shalt not be the chefest, because thou wentest vp to thy fathers bed. Euen then pyddest thou defile it, and it was no more my couche. Thy brethren Simeo & Leui, cruell instrumentes in their habitacions. Into their secretes come not my soule, vnto their congregacion bende not mine honor: for in their wrath they slewe a man, and in their selfe will they digged vppe a walle. Cursed be their wrathe, for it was vnmerciful, and their fearcenes, for it was cruel. I will deuide them in Jacob, and scatter them in Israell. Judas thou art he, whom thy brethren shall praise. Thy hande shalbe in the necke of thyne enemies, thy fathers children shal stoupe before the. Judas a lions whelp from thy preye my sonne, thou art come vp hye. He laieth hym vpne, and couched hym selfe as a lion, and as a lionesse. Who will stire hym vp? The scepter shall not departe from Juda, and a lawgeuer from betwene his fete vntil Silo come. And vnto hym shall the gatheryng of the people be. He shall bynd his colte vnto the vine, and his asses colte vnto the braunch. He washed his garmet in wine and his mantell in the bloud of grapes. His iyes are redder then wine, and his teth whiter then milke. Zabulon shall dwell beside the hauen of the Sea, and nye the Hauen of shippes. His border shalbe vnto Sidon. Issaar a strong asse, couchyng hym downe betwene two burdens, & saw that rest was good, and the lande that it was pleasant, and bowed his shulder to beare, and became a seruaunt vnto tribute. Dan shal iudge his people, and the tribes of Israell. Dan shalbe a Serpent in the waie, an Adder in the pathe biting the horse heles, & his rider fel backward after thy saluacion haue I looked, O lorde. Gad, an horde of men shall ouercome him, and he shal ouercome at the last. Of Aser his bread shalbe fatte, and he shall geue pleasures vnto a king. Nephthali is a swift hynde, geuyng goodly wordes. What shoulde I saye of Joseph, that plenteous child by the well side, the daughters came vpon the wall. The haue prouoked hym, and cast hym through with darts, & enuyed him: but his bowe abode fast, and the armes of his handes were made strong, by the handes of the mightie God of Jacob. Out of hym shall come an herdman, a stone in Israel: euen thy fathers God, which hath holpen thee, & with the almightie, who he hath blessed thee, with the blessynges from heuen aboue, with blessynges of the deepe that lieth vnder, and with blessynges of the brest, and of the wombe. The blessynges of thy father were stronger, then the blessynges of myne elders, vnto the vtmoste of the hilles of the world, and they shalbe on the hed of Joseph, and on the toppe of the hed of him, that was seperate from his brethren. Beniamin shall rauine as a wolfe. In the morning he shall deuoure the pray, and at night, he shal deuide the spoyle. All these are the .xij. tribes of Israell, and this their father spake vnto them, and blessed them, euery one of them blessed he, with a seuerall blessyng. And he charged them, and said vnto them: when I shalbe gathered vnto my people, bury me with my fathers, in the Caue that is in the field of Ephron the Hethite, in the double Caue that is in the field by the countree of Mamre, in the lande of Canaan. Whiche field Abraham bought of Ephron the Hethite, for a possession to burye in, where as wer buried, Abraham and Sara his wife. And where as were buried Isaac and Rebecca his wife. And there I buried Lea. The field and the caue that is therin, was bought of the children of Heth. And when Jacob had commaunded al that he would vnto his sonnes, he plucked vp his fete vnto the bed and died, and was put vnto his people. And Joseph fel vpon his fathers face, and wept vpon hym, and kissed hym.

And Joseph commaunded his seruauntes the Phisicions, to enbaulme his father, and the Phisicions enbaulmed Israel. xl. dayes long, for so long doeth the enbaumyng last, and the Egiptians bewailed hym .lxx. daies. And when the daies of weepyng were ended, Joseph spake vnto the house of Pharao, saiyng: If I haue founde fauor in your iyes, speake in the eares of Pharao, saiyng: my father made me sweare, and said: lo, I dye, bury me in my graue, whiche I haue made me in the lande of Canaan. Now therfore, let me go and bury my father, and then will I come again. And Pharao said: go and bury thy father, according as he made thee to sweare. And Joseph went vp to bury his father, and with hym went all the seruauntes of Pharao, that were the elders of his house and all the elders of the lande of Egipt, and all the house of Joseph, and his brethren, and his fathers house: onely their children, and their shepe, and their cattell left thei in Egipt, in the lande of Gosen, and there went with hym also, charettes and horsemen: and it was an exceadyng great company. And thei came to the corne flore of Atad, whiche is beyond Jordain, and there thei made a greate and exceadyng sore lamentacion. And he* mourned for his father seuen daies. And when the inhabiters of the land (euen the Cananites) sawe the mournyng in the corne flore of Atad, thei said: this is a great mournyng vnto the Egipcians: wherfore, the name of the place is called, the mournyng of the Egipcians, and it is beyond Jordain: and his sones did vnto him, accordyng as he had commaunded them. For his sones caried* hym into the lande of Canaan, and buried hym in the double cane of the field, whiche caue* Abraha bought, and the field also, to be a place to burye in, of Ephron the Hethite, before Mamre. And Joseph returned into Egipt again, he and his brethren (and all that went up with him, to bury his father) all one as he had buried hym. And when Josephs brethre sawe that their father was dede, thei said: Joseph might fortune to hate vs, and * reward vs again all the euill, whiche we did vnto hym. And thei did a commaundment vnto Joseph, saying: thy father charged vs before his death, saying: this wise shall ye say vnto Joseph: forgeue (I praie the) the trespace of thy brethre, and their synne: for thei rewarded thee euill. And now (me pray the) forgeue the trespace of the seruantes of the father of God. And Joseph wept, when thei spake vnto hym. For his brethren came and fell flat before his face, saying: behold, we be thy seruauntes. To whom Joseph said: feare not. Am I God? Ye thought euil against me: but god turned it vnto good to bring to passe, as it is this daie, and to saue muche people a liue: feare not therefore. Now I will norishe you, and your children, and he comforted them, and spake kindly vnto them. Joseph dwelt in Egipt, he and his fathers house, and Joseph lined an. C. and ten yere. And Joseph sawe* Ephraims children, euen vnto the third generacio. And vnto Machir the sonne of Manasses, were children borne, on Josephs knees. And Joseph said vnto his brethren: I dye. And god will surely visite you, and bring you out of this lande, vnto the lande, wherof he sware vnto Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. And Joseph took an othe of the children of Israel, saying: God will not faile, but visite you, ye shall cary my* bones hence. And so Joseph died, when he was an. C. and ten yere old. And thei enbaumed hym with spices, putting hym in a chest in Egipt.

THese are the names of the children of Israell, which came to Egipte with Jacob, euery man came with his houshold: Ruben, Simeon, Leui, and Juda, Isachar and Benjamin, Dan, Nepthali, Gad and Aser. All the soules that came out of the loynes of Jacob were lxx. but Joseph was in Egipt alredy. And Joseph died, and all his brethren, & all that generation, & * the children of Israel grewe, increased, multiplied, and waxed exceadyng mightie: and the lande was full of them. But there arose vp a new kyng in Egipt, which knewe not Joseph. And he said vnto his folke: behold, the people of the children of Israel are greater and mightier then we. Come on, let vs prouide wisely with them, lest they multiply, and when warre chaunceth, that they ioyne them vnto our enemies, and fight against vs, and so get them out of the lande. Therefore, the set taskemasters ouer them to kepe them vnder with burdens. And they built vnto Pharao treasure cities: Pithon and Rameses. But the more they vexed them, the more they multiplied and grewe, so that they abhorred the children of Israel. And the Egipcians helde the children of Israell in bondage without mercy. Therfore was their life bitter vnto them, in that cruell bondage, in clay and bricke, and all maner of seruice in the fieldes. For all their bondage, which they serued in, was full of tyranny. And the kyng of Egipt said vnto the Midwiues of the Hebrues wome, of which the ones name was Sephora, and the other Phua, when ye do the office of a Midwife, to the women of the Hebrues, and see in the birthe time, that it is a boye, ye shall kill it. But if it bee a daughter, it shall liue. But the midwiues feared God, & did not as the kyng of Egipte commaunded them, but saued the men children. And the kyng of Egipt called for the Midwiues, and said vnto them: why haue you done on this maner, and haue saued the men children? And the midwiues answered Pharao, that the Hebrues women, are not as the wome of Egipt: for they are liuely women, and are deliuered ere the midwiues come at them. And God therefore dealte well with the Midwiues. And the people multiplied, and waxed very mightie. And it fortuned, because the Midwiues feared god, he made them houses. And Pharao charged all his people, saying. All the men children that are borne, cast into the Riuer, and saue the maide children a liue.

AND there went a man of * the house of Leui, and tooke a daughter of Leui. And the wife conceiued & bare a sonne. And when she sawe that it was a proper child * she hid hym .iij. monthes: and when she could no lenger hide hym, she tooke a basket of bulrushes and daubed it with slime and pitch, and laied the child therin, and put it in the flagges, by the riuer brynke. And his sister stode a farre of, to wete what would come of it. And * the daughter of Pharao came downe to washe her self in the riuer, and her maidens walked a long by the riuers side. And when she sawe the basket emong the flagges, she sent her maide to fetche it. And when she had opened it, she sawe it was a child: & behold, the babe wept. And she had compassion on it, and said: it is one of the Hebrues children. Then said his sister vnto Pharaos daughter: Shal I go and call vnto thee a Nurse of the Hebrues women, to nurse the childe? Pharaos daughter answered her: go. And the maiden, and called the childes mother. To whō Pharaos daughter said: Take this child a way, and nurse it for me, I wil reward thee. And the woman tooke the child, and nursed it vp. The child grewe, and she brought it vnto Pharaos daughter, & it was made her sonne and she called the name of it Moses, because (said she) I toke hym out of the water. And it happened in those daies, whe Moses was waxed great, that he went out vnto his brethren, and loked on their burdens, and spied an Egiptian smityng an Hebrue, which was one of his brethren. And he loked rounde about, and when he sawe no man by, he slewe the Egiptian, and hid hym in the sande. And when he was gone out another daie, behold: two Hebrues stroue together: And he said vnto him that did the wrong, wherfore smitest thou thy felow? He answered: who made thee a manne of authoritee, to Iudge ouer vs? Speakest thou to kil me, as thou killedst the Egiptian? And Moses feared and said of a suretee this thyng is knowen: and Pharao hard of it, and wēt about to slay Moses. And Moses flyng fled the face of Pharao, dwelt in the lande of Madian, & he sat downe by a welles side. The priest of Madian had .vij. daughters, whiche came and drew water and filled the troughes, for to water their fathers shepe. And the shepherdes came and droue them awaye: but Moses stoode vp and helped them, & watered their shepe. And whē they came to Raguel their father, he said: how happeneth it, that ye are come so sone to daie? And they answered: a man of Egipt delinered vs from the hande of the shepherdes, and so drewe vs water, and watered the shepe. He said vnto his daughters: And where is he? Why haue ye so left the man? Call hym that he may eate bread. And Moses was content to dwell with the man. And he gaue Moses Zephora his daughter, which when she bare a sonne, * called his name Gerson: for he said, I haue been a straunger in a straunge lande. And she bare yet a nother sonne, whom he called Eliezer, say ng: the God of my father is my * helper, and hath rid me out of the handes of Pharao. And it chanced in proces of tyme, that the kyng of Egipt died, and the children of Israell sighed, be the reason of bondage, and cried. And their complaint came vp vnto god from the bondage: and GOD heard their mone. And God remembred his promise with Abraham, Isaac, and Iacob. And God loked vpon the children of Israell, and God had respect vnto them.

The. iij. Chapiter.

MOses kept the shepe of * Iethro his father in law, priest of Madian, and he droue the flocke to the backeside of the desert, and came to the mountain of God, Horob. And the angell of the lorde appered vnto him in a flame of fire, out of the middes of a bushe. And he looked, and behold, the bushe burned with fire, and the bushe was not consumed. Therefore Moses said: I will goo nowe, and se this greate sight, how it commeth, that the bushe burneth not. And when the lorde sawe, that he came forth to se, God called vnto him, out of the middes of the bush and said: Moses, Moses. He answered: here am I. And he said: * come not hether, put thy shoes of thy fete: for the place wher on thou standest, is holy ground. And he said: I * am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Iacob. And Moses hid his face, for he was afraied to loke vpon God. And the lord said I haue surely seen the trouble of my people, which are in Egipt, and * haue heard their crye, for the face of their taskemasters. For I knowe their sorowes, and am come downe to deliuer them out of the hand of the Egiptians, & to bring them out of that lande, vnto a good lande and a large: and vnto a lande that floweth with milke and hony, euen vnto the place of the Cananites & Hethites, and Amorites, and Pherezites, and Heuites, & of the Iebusites. Now therefore, the complaint of the children of Israell is come vnto me, and I haue also seene the oppression, wherewith the Egiptians oppresse them. Come thou therefore, and I will sende thee vnto Pharao, that thou mayest bring my people, the children of Israel out of Egipt. And Moses said vnto God: what am I, to go vnto Pharao, and to bring the children of Israell out of Egipt? And he answered: I will bee with thee. And this shalbee a token that I sende thee, that I haue sent thee: after that thou hast brought the people out of Egipt, ye shal serue God vpon this mountain. And Moses said vnto God: behold, whe I come vnto the children of Israell, I shall saie vnto them: the god of your fathers, hath sent me vnto you, & if thei saie vnto me, what is his name what answere shall I geue thei? And god answered Moses: I am that I am: & he said, this shalt thou saie vnto the children of Israel: I am, hath sent me vnto you. And God spake further vnto Moses: thus shalt thou saie vnto the children of Israel, the lord god of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath sent me vnto you: this is my name for euer, and this is my memoriall, into generacion and generacion. Go and gather the elders of Israel together, and thou shalt saie vnto them: the lorde God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, appered vnto me, and said: in visityng haue I visited you, and knowe that whiche is doen to you in Egipt. And I haue said, I will bryng you out of the tribulacion of Egipte, vnto the lande of the Cananites, and Hethites, and Amorites, and Pherezites, & Heuites, and Jebusites: Euen vnto a lande that floweth with milke and hony. And whe thei heare thy voyce, then go both thou and the elders of Israel, shall go vnto the kyng of Egipt, and saie vnto hym: the lorde God of the Hebrues hath met with vs: and nowe will we go therfore, three daies iourney into the wildernesse, and do sacrifice vnto the lorde our god. And I am sure, that the kyng of Egipt wil not let you go no not in a mighty hande: and I will stretche out myne hand and smite Egipt with all my wonders, whiche I will do in the middes therof, and after that he will let you go. And I will get this people fauor in the sight of the Egipcians: so that when ye goo, ye shall not goo emptie: but a wife shal borowe of her neighbor, and of her that dwelleth in her house iewelles of siluer and gold, and raiment. And ye shal put them on your sonnes and daughters, and shall rob the Egipcians.

Exo. xxv. and xxi. e.

The. iiij. Chapiter.

Moses answered and said: se, thei will not beleue me, nor harke vnto my voyce but wil saie, the lorde hath not appered vnto thee. And the lorde said vnto hym: what is that, whiche is in thy hande? He answered a rod. And he said, cast it on the ground. And he cast it on the ground, and it became a serpent. And Moses fled from the sight of it. And the lorde said vnto Moses: put furthe thine hand, and take it by the taile. And therfore he put furthe his hande, and caught it, and it became a rodde in his hande. For this cause (saith he) shal thei beleue that the lorde God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob hath appered vnto thee. And the lorde said further more vnto him, thrust thyne hand into thy bosome. And he thrust his hand into his bosome. And when he toke it out again, behold, his hand was leprous, euen as snow. And he said: put thyne hand into thy bosome again. And he put his hand into his bosome again, and plucked it out of his bosome, and beholde, it was turned again as his other flesshe. Therfore, if thei will not beleue thee neither heare the voyce of the first token, yet will thei beleue for the voyce of the seconde token. But and if thei will not beleue the .ij. signes, neither harken vnto thy voyce, thou shalt take of the water of the riuer, & powre it vpon the drye land. And the water, whiche thou takest out of the riuer, shall turne to bloud vpon the drie land. Moses said vnto the lorde: oh my lorde, I am not eloquent, nor yesterdaie nor yesterdaie, and namely sence thou hast spoken vnto thy seruant: but I am slowe mouthed and slowe tongued. And the lorde said vnto him: who hath made mannes mouthe, or who hath made the domme or the deafe, the seyng or the blynde? Haue not I the lorde? Therefore, I will be with thy mouthe, and teache thee what thou shalt say. He said: oh my lorde, sende I praie thee by the hand of hym, whom thou wilt sende. And the lorde was angrie with Moses, and said: do not I knowe Aaron thy brother the Leuite, that he can speake? For lo, he commeth furthe to mete thee, and when he seeth thee, he will be glad in his harte. Therfore, thou shalt speake vnto hym, and put these wordes in his mouthe, and I will be with thy mouth and with his mouth, & will teache you what ye ought to do. And he shalbe thy spokesman vnto the people: he also shalbe thy mouthe, and thou shalt be his god. And thou shalt take this rod in thy hande, wherewith thou shalt do miracles. Therfore, Moses went and returned to Jethro his father in lawe again, and said vnto hym: I will go now, and turne again vnto my brethre, whiche are in Egipt and se whether thei be yet aliue. And Jethro said to Moses, go in peace. And the lorde said vnto Moses in Midian: go & returne again into Egipt, for * thei are ded, whiche went about to kill thee. And Moses toke his wife and his sonnes, and put them on an asse, and went again into Egipte, and Moses toke the rod of God in his hande. And the lorde said vnto Moses: when thou art entred and come into Egipt again, se that thou doo all these wonders before Pharao, whiche I haue put in thy hand: but I will hold his hart, and he shall not let the people goo. And thou shalte saie vnto Pharao, thus saieth the lorde: Israel is myne eldest sonne, and I haue said vnto thee, that thou shouldest let my sonne go.

that he maie serue me, And thou wouldest not let hym go, behold, I will* slay thyne eldest sonne. And it chaunced by the waie, in the In that the lorde met hym, and would haue killed him. And Zephora tooke a stone, and cut away the foreskynne of her sonne, and cast at his fete, and said a bloudy husband art thou unto me. Then he let hym goo. And she said, a bloudy husbande, because of the circumcisiō. When said the Lorde vnto Aaron: go mete Moses in the wildernesse. And he went and met hym in the mount of God, and kissed him And Moses told Aarō all the wordes of the Lorde, whiche had sent hym, and all the tokens, whiche he had charged hym withall. So went Moses and Aaron, and gathered all the elders of the children of Israel. And Aaron told all the wordes, whiche the lorde had spoken vnto Moses, and did the miracles in the sight of the people, and the people beleued. And whē thei hard, that the lord had visited the children of Israell, and had looked vpon their tribulacion, thei bowed their hedde, and worshipped.

AFterward Moses and Aaron went in, & told Pharao, thus saieth the lorde god of Israell: let my people go, that thei maie kepe holy daie vnto me in the wildernes. And Pharao said: who is the lord, that I should heare his voyce, and let Israel go? I know not the lorde, neither will I let Israell go. And thei said: the God of the Hebrues hath met with vs: and therefore we will we go three daies iourney in the desert, and sacrifice vnto the lorde our God: lest there happen vnto vs, either pestilence or sweard. Then said the kyng of Egipt vnto them: wherfore (ye (Moses and Aaron) let the people frō their worke? Get you vnto your labor. And Pharao said furthermore: behold, there is muche people nowe in the lande, and ye make theim leane their worke. And Pharao commaunded the same daie vnto the taskemasters, whiche were emong the people, and vnto the officers saiyng: ye shal geue the people nomore straw to make Bricke withall, (as ye did in tyme passed) let them go, and gather them straw themselues, and the nomber of bricke, which thei were wont to make in tyme passed, laye vnto their charges also, and minish nothyng therof. For thei be idell, and therefore crie saiyng: we will go and do sacrifice vnto our God. Thei must haue more worke laied vpō them, that thei maie labor therin, and not regard vain wordes. Then went the taskemasters of the people, and the officers out, and told the people: thus saieth Pharao: I will geue you nomore straw, go your selues and gather you straw, where ye can finde it, yet shall none of your labor be minished. And so were the people scattered abrode, throughout al the lande of Egipt: for to gather stubble in steade of straw. And the taskemasters hasted the forward saiyng: fulfil your worke day by day, euen as if ye had straw. And the officers of the children of Israell whiche Pharaos taskemasters had set ouer thē, were beaten. And thei said vnto thē: wherfore haue ye not fulfilled your taske in makyng bricke, both yesterday and to day, as wel as in times past? The officers also of the children of Israel, came and complained vnto Pharao, saiyng. wherefore dealest thou thus with thy seruantes, there is no straw geuen vnto thy seruantes, & thei saie vnto vs: make bricke. And thy seruauntes are beaten, & the people is foule intreated. He said, idle, are ye, idle, and therfore ye say: We wil go and do sacrifice vnto the Lorde. Go therfore nowe and worke and there shal no straw be geuen you, & yet shal ye deliuer the whole tale of bricke.

And the officers of the children of Israel did with heuynesse loke on them that said: ye shal minishe nothyng of your daylye makyng of Bricke. And thei met Moses and Aaron whiche stode in their way as thei came out from Pharao, and said vnto them: The lorde loke vpon you & iudge you, which hath made the sauour of vs stincke in the eyes of Pharao and in the eyes of his seruantes: & haue put a sweard in their hand to slee vs. Moses returned vnto the lord, and said: Lord, wherfore hast thou delt cruelly with this people, and wherfore hast thou sent me? For sence I came to Pharao to speake in thy name, he hath cared foule with this folke, and yet thou hast not deliuered thy people at all. Then the lord said vnto Moses: Now shalt thou se, what I wil do vnto Pharao, for in a mighty hande shall he let them go, and* in a mighty hāde shal he driue thē out of his lāde

GOd spake vnto Moses, & said vnto him: I am the Lord: I appeared vnto Abraham Isaac and Iacob as an almightye god: & in my name Iehouah, was I not known vnto them. Moreouer* I made an appointment with them to geue them the lande of Chanaā: the lād of their pilgremage, wherin thei were strangers. And I haue also heard the groning of the children of Israel, whom the Egiptiās kepe in bondage, and haue remēbred my couenaunt. Wherfore say vnto the children of Israel: I am the Lorde, I will bryng you out frō the burdens of the Egiptians, and wil rid you out of their bondage, and wil deliuer you in a stretched out arme & in great iudgemētes. And I wil take you for my people, & wilbe to you a God. And ye shal know that I am the Lord your God, which bryng you out from the burdens of the Egiptians. And I wil bryng you vnto the lande cōcerning the which I did lift vp my hande to geue it vnto Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, & wil geue it vnto you for a possession: euen I the lord. And Moses tolde the childrē of Israel euen so. But thei harkened not vnto Moses, for anguishe of spirite and for cruell bondage. The Lord spake vnto Moses saiyng: Go in, & speake vnto Pharao kyng of Egipt, that he let the children of Israel go out of his land. And Moses spake before the Lord, saiyng: behold, the children of Israel herken not vnto me, howe then shal Pharao heare me, which am of vncircūcised lippes? And the lord spake vnto Moses & vnto Aaron, & gaue them a charge vnto the children of Israel: & vnto Pharao kyng of Egipt: to bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egipte. C. These be the heades of their fathers houses. The* children of Ruben the eldest sonne of Israel are these: Hanoch, and Pallu, Hezron, & Charmi, these be the houholdes of Ruben. The children of Simeon Gemuel, & Jamin, Ohad, and Jachin, Zoar, and Saul the sonne of a Cananite the wife: These are the kynredes of Simeon. These also * are the names of the children of Leui in their generacions: Gerson and Kahath and Merari. Leui liued an hundred and thirtye & seuen yere. The sonnes of Gerson: Libni and Semei by their kynredes. The children of Kahath: Amram and Jezehar, Hebron and Vsiel. And Kahath liued an hundred and thirtye & three yere: The children of Merari: Maheli and Muli: these are the kynredes of Leui by their generacions. Amram tooke Jochebed his nyce to wife and she bare hym Aaron and Moses. And Mariam. And Amram liued an hundred and thirtye and seuen yere. The children of Jezehar, Korah, Nepheg, & Sichri. The children of Vsiel, Misael, Elzaphan, and Sithri. And Aaron tooke Elizaba doughter of Aminadab: and sister of Nahason to wyfe: whiche bare hym Nadab, & Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. The children of Korah: Assir, and Elcana, and Abiasaph: these are the kynredes of the Korahites. Eleazar Aarons sonne take hym one of the doughters of Putuell to wife which bare him Phineas, & these are the principall fathers of the Leuites thorowe out their kynredes. This is that Aaron & Moses to whom the lord said: carry the children of Israell out of the lande of Egipt, accordyng to their armies. These are that Moses & Aaron which spake to Pharao kyng of Egipt, that thei might bryng the children of Israell out of Egipt. And in the day when the lord spake vnto Moses in the lande of Egipte he spake vnto him, saiyng: I am the Lord, speke thou vnto Pharao the kyng of Egipt all that I say vnto the. And Moses said before the lord. Behold, I am of* vncircumcised lippes, and howe shal Pharao geue me audience?

Moses and Aaron dyd as the Lorde commaunded them, euen so did they. Moses was. B. lxxx. yere olde, and Aaron. lxxxiij. when thei spake vnto Pharao. And the lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron saiyng: if Pharao speake vnto you saiyng: shewe a wonder, thou shalte say vnto Aaron: take thy rod & caste it before Pharao, that it may be a serpent. Then went Moses and Aaron in vnto Pharao, and dyd euen as the Lord had commaunded. And Aaron caste furth his rod before Pharao & before his seruantes* & it turned to a serpent. Then Pharao called for the wyse men* enchaunters, and those wyse men of Egipt did in lyke maner with their sorcery. For they caste downe euery man his rod, & thei turned to serpentes. But Aarons rod did eat vp their rodded. And he hardened Pharaos hert: that he harkened not vnto them, euen as the Lord had said. The Lorde said vnto Moses: Pharaos herte is hardened, he refuseth to lette the people go. Get the vnto Pharao in the morning, lo, he wil come vnto the water, and thou shalt stand vpon the riuers brincke against he come, and the rod which turned to a serpent, shalt thou take in thyne hande. And thou shalt saye vnto hym: the Lorde God of the Hebrues hath sent me vnto the, saiyng *let my people go, that thei may serue me in the wildernes. And beholde, hytherto thou wouldest not heare. Thus saith the Lord: In this thou shalte know that I am the Lorde. Behold, I wil smite (with the staffe that is in mine hande) the water that is in the riuer, and it shall turne to bloud. And the fishe that D. is in the riuer shall dye, and the ryuer shall stynke: and it shall greue the Egyptians to drynke of the water of the ryuer. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saye vnto Aaron: take thy staffe, and stretche out thyne hande ouer the waters of Egipt ouer their streames, ouer their riuers & ponds, & al pooles of water, whiche they haue, that they may be bloud, and that there may be bloud thorowout all the lande of Egipt: both in vessels of woode and also of stone. And Moses and Aaron dyd euen as the Lorde commaunded. And he lifte vp the staffe, and smote the waters that were in the riuer in the sight of Pharao, and in the sight of his seruauntes: and all the water that was in the ryuer, turned into bloud. And the fyshe that was in the riuer dyed, * and the riuer stanke: and the Egiptians coulde not drynke of the waters of the riuer. And there was bloud thorowout al the lande of Egipte. And the enchaunthers of Egipte dyd lyke wyse with their sorceries, & he hardened Pharaos hart: neyther dyd he harken vnto them * as the Lorde had sayde. And Pharao turned hym selfe, and went again into his house, & set not his hart therunto. And the Egiptians digged rounde about the riuer for water to drinke, for they could not drinke of the water of the ryuer. And it continued a weke after that the Lord had smyten the riuer.

THe Lord spake vnto Moses. Go vnto Pharao & tel him, thus sayeth the lorde: *let my people go that they maye serue me. Yf thou wilt not let them go: behold, I will smite all thy border with frogges. And the riuer shal sweal with frogges, which shal go vp and come in to thyne house: and in to thy preuye chamber where thou slepest, and vpon thy bed, and in to the house of thy seruantes, & vpon thy people, and into thine ouens, and vpon thy meates. And the frogges shall come vpon the and on thy people, and vpon al thy seruantes. * And the Lord spake vnto Moses: say vnto Aaron: stretche furth thine hande with thy rod ouer the stremes, ouer the riuers, and ouer the pondes, that thou mayst bryng vp frogges vpon the lande of Egipte. And Aaron stretched his hande ouer the waters of Egipte, and the frogges came vp, and couered the lande of Egipte. And the sorcerers did likewise with their sorcery, and brought frogges vp vpon the land of Egipte. Then Pharao called for Moses and Aaron and said: * pray ye vnto the lorde that he may take away the frogges from me: and from my people, & I wyll let the people go, that they maye do sacrifice vnto the Lorde. And Moses said vnto Pharao: determyne thou ouer me, and appointe when I shal pray for the and for thy seruantes, & for the people, to driue away the frogges from the, and thy houses, and that they may remayne but in the riuer onely. He said: to morow. And he sayd, euen as thou hast said that thou mayst know that there is none lyke vnto the Lord. oure God. And so the frogges shall departe from the and from thy houses, from thy seruantes, from thy people, and shal remayne in the ryuer onely. Moses and Aaron went out from Pharao, and Moses cried vnto the lord vp-on the appoyntment of frogges, which he had made vnto Pharao. And the lord dyd accordyng to the sayng of Moses. And the frogges died out of the houses, out of the courtis and feldes. And they gathered them together vpon heapes, and the lande stanke of them. But when Pharao saw that he had rest geuen hym, he hardened his hart and herkened not vnto them, as the lord had said. And the lord said vnto Moses: say vnto Aaron, stretch out thy rod & smit the dust of the lande, that it maye turne to lice thorowout al the lande of Egipt. And they did so. For Aaron stretched out his hande, & with his rod he smote the dust of the earth which turned to lice in men and beast, so that all the dust of the land turned to lyce, thorow out al the land of Egipte. And the enchaunters assayd likewise with their enchauntmentes to bryng furth lyce, but they coulde not. And the lyce were both vpon men & beastes. Then said the enchaunters vnto Pharao: it is the fynger of God. And Pharaos hart remained obstinat, and he harkened not vnto them, euen * as the lord had said. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: rise vp early in the morning, & stand before Pharao for he wil come furth vnto the water & thou shalt saye vnto hym: thus saith the Lord: Let my people go, that they maye serue me. Els, if thou wilt not let my people go: behold, I wil send al maner of flyes both vpon the and thy seruantes, and thy people, & into the houses & the houses of the Egiptians shalbe ful of flyes, and the grounde wheron they are. And the lande of * Goscan where my people are, wyl I cause to be wonderful in that day: so that there shal no flyes be there. Whereby thou shalt know that I am the Lorde in the middes of the earth. And I wil put a diuision betwen my people & thine. And euen to morow shal this miracle be don. And the lord did euen so: & there came noysome flyes into the house of Pharao, and into his seruantes houses, and into al the land of Egipte: and the lande was corrupt with these flyes. And Pharao called for Moses and Aaron and said: Go and do sacrifice vnto youre God in the lande. And Moses answered: it is not mete that we do so. For then we must offer vnto the Lord our God, that which is an abhominacion vnto the Egiptians. But and if we sacrifice that whiche is an abhominacion vnto the Egiptians before their eyes, shulde they not stone vs? we wil go thre dayes iorney into the desert, and sacrifyce vnto the Lorde oure God, * as he hath commaunded vs. And Pharao said: I wil let you go that ye maye sacrifice vnto the Lord your God in the wylderues: but go not farre away, pray for me. And Moses sayd: behold, I will go out from the, and praye vnto the Lorde, that the flyes maye departe from Pharao, and from his seruantes and from his people to morowe. Onlye lette Pharao from hence furthe decease no more, that he wyll not lette the people go to sacrifice vnto the Lorde. And Moses went out from Pharao and praid vnto the Lorde. And the Lorde did accordyng to the saiyng of Moses, and the flies departed from Pharao, and from his seruauntes, and from his people, and there remayned not one.

And Pharao hardened his harte euen then also, and did not let the people go.

THe Lorde sayd vnto Moses: go in vnto Pharao & thou shalt tel hym, thus saith the Lord God of the Hebrues: * let my people go, that thei may serue me. Yf thou wylt not let them go, and wylt holde them stil, behold: the hande of the lorde is vpō thy cattle which is in the feld: for vpon horses, asses camels, oxen, & sheepe, there shalbe a mighty great morain. And the lorde shall do wonderfully betwene the beastes of Israell and the beastes of Egipt: so that there shal nothyng dye of all that pertaineth to the children of Israel. And the Lorde appointed a time, saiyng: to morowe the Lorde shall fulfylle this worde in the lande. And the Lorde did it on the morow, and al the catel of Egipte dyed: but of the catel of the children of Israel died not one. And Pharao sent, and behold: there was not one of the catel of the Israelites deade. And the harte of Pharao was hardened that he wolde not let the people go.

B. And the Lorde said vnto Moses and Aaron: take your handes ful of ashes out of the fornace, and Moses shal sprinkle it vp into the ayre, in the sight of Pharao, and it shal turne to dust in al the lande of Egipt: that there may be swellyng sores with blaynes both on mā and beest thorow out al the lande of Egipte. And they toke ashes out of the furnace, and stode before Pharao: and Moses sprinkled it vp into the ayre. And there were sores with blaines both in men and in beastes, and the sorcerers could not stonde before Moses because of the blaines, for there were botches vpon the enchaunters and vpon al the Egiptians. And the Lord hardened the harte of Pharao, and he harkened not vnto them * as the Lord had said vnto Moses. And the lord said vnto Moses: rise vp earely in the morning, & stand before Pharao, and thou shalt tel him: thus saith the Lorde God of the Ebrues: * Let my people go, that they maye serue me: or elles I wil at this tyme send al my plages vpon thyne herte, and vpon thy seruauntes & on thy people, that thou mayst knowe, that there is none like me in all the earth. And in deed here, * for this cause have I kept the, for to shewe the my power: and that they might declare my name thorowout all the worlde. Yet thou exaltest thy selfe against my people, that thou wilte not let the go: behold, to morow this time I wil sende vnne a mighty great hayle: euen such a one as was not in Egipte, ceas it was grounded vnto this time. Sende therfore now, and gather thy beastes, and al that thou hast in the felde. For vpon all the men and the beastes which are found in the feld, and not brought home, shall the hayle fal & thei shal dye. And as many as feared the word of the lord emōg the seruantes of Pharao made their seruantes and their beastes flie into the houses, but he that regarded not the word of the Lord, lette his seruantes and his beastes in the feld. And the Lord said vnto Moses: stretch furth thyne hande vnto heauen, that there may be hayle in al the lande of Egipte: vpon man and vpon beastes, and vpon all the herbes of the felde, thorowout all the lande of Egipte. And Moses stretched out his rod vnto heauen: and the lord thundred & hayled, & the fyre ran along vpon the ground. * And the lord so hayled in the lande of Egipt, that there was hayle and fyre mingled with the hayle, so greuous, & such as there was none thorowout al the lande of Egipt, sence people inhabited it. And the haile smote thorowout al the land of Egipte, al that was in the felde both man & beaste. And the hayle smote all the herbes of the felde, and broke all the trees of the felde, only in the lande of Gosan, where the children of Israel were was no hayle. And Pharao sent & called for Moses and Aaron, & said vnto them, I have now sinned: the Lord is righteous, and I and my people are vngodly. * Praye ye vnto the Lorde: for it is inough that there shulde be thunders of God & payle. I wil let you go, and ye shal tary no longer. Moses said vnto him: assone as I am out of the cytie, I wyll spreade abrod my handes vnto the Lorde, and the thunder shall cease, neither shal there be any more hayle, that thou mayst know howe that the earth is the Lordes. But I knowe that thou & thy seruauntes yet feare not the face of the Lorde god. And so the flaxe and the barly were smitten, for the barly was shut vp, and the flaxe was boulled: but the wheate and the rye were not smitten, for thei were late sowen. And Moses went out of the cytie from Pharao & spreade abrod his handes vnto the Lord: and the thunder & hayle ceased, neither rayned it vpō the earth. And when Pharao saw that the rain & the hayle and thunder were ceased, he sinned again: and hardened his harte, he and his seruauntes. And the hart of Pharao was hardened: neither wolde he let the children of Israel go, as the lorde had saide by the hande of Moses.

AND the Lorde sayde vnto Moses, go in vnto Pharao: for* I haue hardened his herte, and the herte of his seruauntes, that I might put there my tokens amongest the, & that thou tell in the audience of thy sonne, & of thy sonnes sonne, what tyrages I haue done in Egipt, & the miracles which I haue done among them: that ye may knowe howe that I am the Lord. And to Moses and Aaron came vnto Pharao and saide vnto hym: Thus saith the Lord God of the Ebrues, how long shal it be or thou wilte submit thy selfe vnto me? * Let my people go, that they may serue me. Or els (yf thou do refuse and wylt not let my people go) behold, to morow wil I bring grashoppers into thy costes, & they shal couer the face of the earth, that it can not be sene: and they shal eate the residue which remaineth vnto you (is escaped from the hayle: and they shall eat euery grene tree that beareth you fruite in the feld) & they shal fil thy houses, and al thy seruantes houses, and the houses of all the Egiptians after suche a maner as neither thy father, nor thy fathers fathers haue sene, sence the tyme they were vpon the earth vnto this daye. And he turned himselfe about, and went out from Pharao. And Pharao seruantes sayde vnto hym, Howe long shall he be a snare vnto vs? Let the men go, that they may serue the Lord their God: knowest thou not that Egipt is destroyed? And Moses & Aaron were brought againe vnto Pharao, & he sayde vnto them go, & serue your lorde your god. Who are they that shal go? And Moses answered: we wyl go with our yong and with our olde, we wyl go with our sonnes & with our doughters, and with our shepe & with our oxen we must go. For we must holde a feast vnto the Lord. And he sayde vnto them: let it be so. The Lord be with you. When I lette you go, and your children also, take heede, for ye haue some mischief in hande. It is not so: but go they that are men and serue the Lorde: for that was your desire. And they thrust them out of Pharaos presence. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: stretche out thyne hande ouer the land of Egipt for grashoppers that they may come vpon the land of Egypte and eate all the herbes of the lande, and all that the hayle lefte behinde. And Moses stretched furthe his rod ouer the lande of Egipte: and the Lorde brought an east wynde vpon the lande al that day, and all that nighte. And in the morowyng, the east wynde* brought the grashoppers, and the grashoppers, went vp ouer all the lande of Egipte: and remayned in all quarters of Egypte very grieuously. Before them were there no suche grashoppers as were them after them shalbe: for they couered all the face of the earthe, so that the land was darke. And they did eate al the herbes of the land, & all the frutes of the trees, and whatsoeuer the hayle hadde lefte: there was no grene thynges lefte in the trees and herbes of the felde throughout all the lande of Egipte. Therfore Pharao called for Moses and Aaron in haste, and sayde: I haue sinned against the Lord your God and against you. And nowe forgeue me my synne onely this once: and * praye vnto the Lorde your God, that he maye take away from me this deth onely. And Moses wente out from Pharao, and prayed vnto the Lord. And the Lord turned a mighty strong weste winde, and it toke away the grashoppers, and caste them into the red see, so that there was not one grashopper in all the coste of Egypte. And the Lord* hardened Pharaos harte, so that he wolde not let the children of Israel go. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: stretche out thy hande vnto heauen, that there maye be vpon the lande of Egipte darkenes which may be felt. And Moses stretched furth his hande vnto heauen, and there was a thycke * darkenesse vpon all the lande of Egypte three daies long, no man sawe another, neither rose vp from the place where he was by the space of three dayes. But all the children of Israell had lyght where they dwelled. And Pharao called for Moses and sayde: go and serue the Lord, only let your shepe and your oxen abyde, and let your children goo with you. And Moses sayde: thou must geue vs also offerynges and burnte offerynges for to sacrifice vnto the Lorde our God: our catel also shall go with vs, and there shall not one hoofe be left behynde for therof must we take to serue the Lord our God. Neyther do we knowe what we shall offre vnto the Lorde, vntil we come thyther. But the Lord hardened Pharaos harte, and he wolde not let them go. And Pharao sayd vnto hym: get the fro me, and take heede to thy selfe, and se my face nomore. For when soeuer thou comest in my sight, thou shalt dye. And Moses sayde: Let it be as thou hast sayd, I wil se thy face nomore.

AND the Lord sayd vnto Moses: yet wyll I bryng one plage more vpon Pharao & vpon Egipte: & after that he will let you go hence. And when he letteth you go, he shall vtterly dryue you hence. Speake thou therfore in the eares of the people that euery man borow of his neighbour, and euery woman of her neyghboure * iewels of syluer & iewels of gold. And the Lorde shall geue the people fauour in the sight of the Egiptians. Moreouer, * Moses was very great in the land of Egipt, in the sight of Pharaos seruantes and in the sight of the people.

Moses called vnto him the Lorde: * At midgipt, shall dye, euen from the firste borne of Pharao that sytteth on his seate, vnto the firste borne of the mayd seruant that is behind the mylle, with the firste begotten of the catell.

And there shall be a great crye throughout all the lande of Egipt, such as there was neuer none like vnto, nether shall be lyke vnto it.
But vnto all the children of Israel shal not a dog moue his tonge, nether shall man or beast, that ye may know how that the Lorde by a great miracle putteth a difference betwen the Egiptians & Israell. And there shal thy seruantes shal all come downe vnto me, and fal before me, & say, get the out & all the people that are vnder the, & then will I departe. And he went out from Pharao with an angry countenaunce. And the Lorde saide vnto Moses: Pharao shal not heare you, that my wonders may be multiplied in the lande of Egipte. And Moses & Aaron did all these wonders. And tokens which are written

The .xij. Chapiter.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron in the lande of Egipte saying: This moneth shall be vnto you the beginnyng of monethes: and the firste moneth of the yere shall it be vnto you. Speake ye vnto all the congregacio of Israel saying: In the tenth day of this moneth euery man take vnto hym a lybe accordyng to the house of the fathers, a lambe throughout euery house. Yf the hous-holde be to litle for the lambe, let hym take his neighbour which is next vnto his house accordyng to the nombre of the soules: euery one of you, accordyng to his eatyng, shal make youre count for a lambe. And lette the lambe yt yours be without blemish, a male of a yere olde whiche ye shall take out from among the sheepe, or from among the goates.
And ye shall kepe him vntyl the .xiij. day of the same moneth. And euery man of the multitude of Israell shall kyll hym about euen. And they shall take of the blonde, and dyp it on the two syde postes and on the upper doore post euen in the houses, where they shall eate hym. And they shall eate the flesh the same nyght, rosted with fyre: with unleuened bread and with sower herbes they shal eate it. See that ye eate not therof rawe nor sodden in water, but rosted with fyre: the heade, fete, and purtenaunce therof. And ye shall lette nothyng of it remayne vnto the morowe. That which remayneth of it vn-tyl the morowe, shall ye burne with fyre.
And this maner shal ye eate it, with youre loynes girded, and youre shoes on youre fete and youre staues in youre handes. And ye shall eate it in hast: for it is the Lordes passeouer.
For I will passe thorowe the lande of E-gipte this same nyght, and will smite all the firste borne in the lande of Egipte both of man and beaste, and vpon all the gooddes of Egipte will I the Lorde do execucion. And the blonde shalbe vnto you a token in the houses where ye are. And when I se the blond, I will passe ouer you, and the plage shall not be vpon you to destroye you, when I smite the lande of Egipte. And this daye shalbe vnto you a remembraunce: and ye shal kepe it holy vnto the Lorde, euen thorowe out youre generacions shall ye kepe it holy daye, that it may be a custome for euer. Seuen dayes shall ye eate vnleuened bread: and the firste day ye shal put away leuen out of youre houses. For whosoeuer eateth leuened bread from the firste day vntyl the seuenth daye, that soule shalbe plucked out from Israel. * The firste daye shalbe an holy con-uocacion, and the seuenth day shall be an holy conuocacion vnto you. There shalbe no maner of worke done in them, saue about that onely whiche euery man must eate, that only maye ye do. And ye shall obserue vnleuened bread. For on this same daye haue I brought youre armies out of the lande of Egipte, therefore ye shall obserue this daye, and all your children after you, by a custome for euer.
In the firste moneth, and the fourtene daye of the moneth at euen, ye shall eate vnleuened bread vnto the .xxi. daye of the moneth at euen again. Seuen dayes shall there be no leuened bread founde in your houses. And who soe-uer eateth leuened bread, that soule shal be roted out from the multitude of Israell: whether he be a straunger or borne in the lande. Ye shall eate nothyng leuened: but in all your habitacions shal ye eate vnleuened bread.
Moses called for the elders of Israel and sayd vnto them: Fetche out and take you to e-uery housholde of youre sheepe, and kyll it for passeouer. And take a bunche of hyssope, and dyp it in the blonde that is in the bason, and stryke the vpper poste and the two syde postes with the blonde that is in the bason, & none of you go out at the doore of his house, vntyl the morowe. For the Lorde will go about to smite the Egiptians. And when ye seeth the blonde vpon the vpper doore poste and on the two syde postes: he will passe ouer the doore, and wil not suffer the destroyer to come in to your house to plage you. Therefore shall ye obserue this thynge, that it be an ordinaunce both to you and to youre sonnes for euer. And when ye be come into the lande which the Lorde will geue you, accordyng as he hath promised, ye shall kepe this seruice. And when youre children aske you what maner of seruice is this to you, ye shall say: It is the sacrifice of the Lordes passeouer whiche passed ouer the houses of the children of Israell in Egipte, as he smote the Egiptians, and saued our houses. And the people bowed them selues, and worshypped. And the children of Israell went, and dyd as the Lorde had commaunded Moses and Aaron. Euen to dyd they. And * midnight, the Lorde smote all the firste borne in the land of Egipt, from the firste borne of Pharao that sate on his seate, vnto the firste borne of the captyue that was in prison, and all the fyrste gendred of catel. And Pharao rose vp in the nyght, he and all his seruauntes and all the Egiptians: * and there was a great cryyng in Egipte, for there was no house where there was not one dead.

And he called vnto Moses & Aaron by night, saying: rise vp and get you out from among my people: both ye and also the children of Israel, and go and serue the Lorde as ye haue sayde. And take your shepe and your oxen with you as ye haue sayde, and departe and * blesse me. And the Egiptians were fearce vpon the people, that they might sende them oute of the lande in haste: for they sayde we dye all. And the people toke their dough before it was sowred, and their vnaufilles bounde in clothes vpon theyr shulders. And the children of Israel dyd accordyng to the saying of Moses: And they borowed of the Egiptians * iewels of syluer, iewels of gold, and rayment. And the Lorde gaue the people fauoure in the syghte of the Egiptians: so that they graunted suche thinges as they required. And they robbed the Egiptians. And the * children of Israell toke theyr iourney from Ramses to Sucheth * syxe hundred thousande men of fote, besyde children. And much comen people went out also with them, e shepe and oxen, an exceadyng great flocke.

And they baked swete cakes of the dough whiche they brought out of Egipte, for it was not sowred. For when they were thruste out by the Egiptians, they could not tary to prepare them selues any prouision of meat.
The dwellyng of the children of Israell, whiche they dwelled in Egipte was * foure hundred and thyrty yeres: and when the foure hundred and thyrty yeres were expyred, euen the selfe same daye departed all the hostes of the Lorde out of the land of Egipt.
It is a nyght to be obserued to the Lorde, in the whiche he brought them out of the land of Egipt. This is that nyght of the Lorde whiche all the children of Israell must kepe thorowout their generations. And the lorde sayd vnto Moses and Aaron: This is the lawe of the passouer: there shall no straunger eate therof. But euery seruaunt that is bought for money (after that thou hast circumcised him) shal eate therof. A straunger and hyred seruaut shall not eate therof. In one house shall it be eaten. Thou shalt cary none of the flesh out at the house. * Neyther shal ye breake a bone therof. If the multitude shall obserue it. If a straunger also dwel among you, and wyl hold passouer vnto the Lorde, let him circumcise all that be males: then let him come and obserue it, & he shalbe as one that is borne in the lande. For the vn-circumcised persone shal not eat therof. One maner of lawe shal be vnto him that is borne in the land: and vnto the straunger that dwelleth among you. And all the children of Israel dyd as the lorde commaunded Moses and Aaron. Euen so dyd they. And the selfe same day did the lord bryng the children of Israel out of the land of Egipt with their armies.

eaten seuen dayes, and there shall no leuened breade be sene, nor yet leuen with the in all thy quarters. And thou shalt shewe thy sonne in that daye saying, this is done because of that whiche the Lorde dyd vnto me, when I came oute of Egipte. And it shall be a signe vnto the vpon thyne hande, and for a remembraunce betwene thine eyes, that the Lordes lawe maye be in thy mouth. For * in a stronge hande the Lorde brought the out of Egipte.
Kepe therfore this ordinaunce in his season from yere to yere. And it wyll come to passe, that the Lorde shall bryng the into the land of the Cananytes, which he * swate the. And then thou shalte appoynte vnto the Lord all that openeth the matrice. And eue-ry catle thyng that fyrste doth open the ma-trice of a beaste which thou hast: yf they be males, they shalbe the Lordes. And euery fyrste gendred of an asse, thou shalte redeme shalte breake his necke. All the fyrste borne emong thy children also shalt thou bye out.

saying what is this, thou shalt say vnto him: With a mighty hande the Lorde brought vs out of Egipte, out of the house of bondage. The.xiij. Chapiter.

The.ij.day. at Maltyas. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speke to the children of Israell, that they turne & remayne before Pihiroth betwene Migdol and the see, ouer against Baalzephon: & before that shal they pitch by the see. For Pharao will say of the children of Israel they are tangled in the lande, the wildernes hath shut them in. And I will harden Pharaos hart that he shal folowe after you: and I wil get me honour vpon Pharao and vpon al his hoste: the Egiptians also shal know that I am the Lord: and they dyd euen so. And it was told the kyng of Egipte that the people fled. And the harte of Pharao and of his seruauntes turned against the people: and they sayde: why haue we this done that we haue let Israell go out of our seruice? & he made ready his charrettes: and tooke his people with him and toke sixe hundred chosen charrettes, and all the charrets of Egipte and captaines vpon euery one of them. And the Lorde hardened the hart of Pharao kyng of Egipte, and he folowed after the children of Israell. (For the children of Israell went out with an hye hande) and the Egiptians folowed after them, and all the horses and charrets of Pharao and his horsemen & his host ouertoke them abiding by the see, before Pihiroth before Baalzephon. And when Pharao drew nye, the children of Israel lifte vp their eyes & beholde, the Egiptians folowed after them, and they were sore afrayde: and the children of Israell cryed out vnto the Lorde. But they said vnto Moses: because there were no graues in Egipte, haste thou therfore brought vs alwaye for to dye in the wildernes? wherfore hast thou serued vs thus, for to cary vs out of Egipte? Dyd not we tell the thing in Egipt, saying: let vs be in rest, that we may serue the Egiptians? For it had ben better for vs to haue serued the Egiptians, then to dye in the wildernes. And Moses spake vnto the people: feare ye not, stand styl, and behold, how the Lord shal saue you this day. For ye that haue seue the Egiptians this day, shal see them nomore for euer. The Lord shall fight for you, and ye shall holde your peace. And the Lord said vnto Moses: wherfore crieste thou vnto me? speake vnto the children of Israell that they go forwarde. But lifte thou vp thy rod, and stretche out thy hand ouer the see and deuide it, & lette the children of Israell go on dry grounde thorow the middest of the see. And behold, I will harden the hart of the Egiptians that they may folowe them. And I wil get me honour vpon Pharao & vpon all his hoste, and vpon his charettes and vpon his horsemen. And the Egiptians shall knowe that I am the Lord when I haue gotten me honour vpon Pharao, vpon his charettes, & vpon his horsemen. And the angel of God which he went before the hoste of Israell remoued and begaune to go behynde them. And the cloudy piller that was before the face of them begaune to stande behynde them, and came betwene the host of the Egiptians and the hoste of Israell. It was also a darke cloude, and gaue lyght by nyght: and all the nyght longe the one came not at the other. And Moses stretched forth his hande ouer the see: and the Lord caried away the see, by a very strong East wynde all that nyght, and made the see dry lande, and the waters were deuided. And the children of Israel went out in to the middest of the see vpon the dry grounde. And the waters were a walle vnto them on the right hande, and on their left hand. And the Egiptians folowed & went in after them to the middest of the see, euen all Pharaos horses, his charettes & his horsemen. And in the morowe watche, the Lord loked vnto the hoste of the Egiptians out of the fyre and cloudy piller: and troubled the hoste of the Egiptians, and toke of his charet wheles & caried them away violently, so that the Egiptians said: let vs flee from dyuysyons of Israel, for the Lorde caused them against the Egyptians, and the Lorde bade vnto Moyses, stretche out thyne hande ouer the sea, that the waters maye come a-gaine vpon the Egyptians, vpon his charets and vpon his horsemen. And Moyses stretched forth his hande ouer the sea, and it came again to his rowme easily in the morning, and the Egyptians fled against it. And the Lorde ouerthrew the Egyptians in the middest of the sea: and the water returned and couered the charettes and the horsemen and all the host of Pharao that came into the sea after them, so that there remained not one of them. But the children of Israel walked vpon drye lande in the middest of the sea, and the water were a wall vnto them on the right hande of them, and on the left. Thus the Lorde deliuered Israel the selfe same day out of the hande of the Egyptians: and Israell sawe the Egyptians dead vpon the sea syde. And Israel sawe the mightye power which the Lorde shewed vpon the Egyptians: and the people feared the Lorde, and beleeued the Lorde and his seruaunt Moyses.

Then Moyses and the children of Israel songe this songe vnto the Lorde and spake: I will sing vnto the Lorde, for he hath triumphed gloriously: the horse & him that rode vpon hym hath he ouerthrowne in the sea. The Lorde is my strength and praise, & he is become my saluation. He is my god, and I will prepare hym a tabernacle: he is my fathers god, & I will exalte hym. The Lorde is a man of warre: the Lorde is his name. Pharaos charettes and his host hath he cast into the sea. His chosen captaynes also are drowned in the red sea, the deepe waters haue couered them: they sanke to the bottome as a stone. Thy right hande Lorde, is become glorious in power: thy right hande Lorde hath all to bruised the enemye. And in the greate glory thou hast ouerthrowen them that rose vp against thee: thou sentest forth thy wrath which consumed them euen as stobble. Thorow the blast of thy nostrels the waters gathered together, the flouds stode vpright as an heape, and the deepe waters congeled together in the myddes of the sea. The enemy sayd: I will followe, I will ouertake them, I will deuide the spoyle, I will satisfye my lust vpon them, I will draw my sworde, myn hande shall destroye them. Thou blewest with thy wynde, the sea couered them, they sanke as leade in the mighty waters. Who is like vnto thee O Lorde among gods? who is like thee so glorious in holynes, fearefull in prayses, doynge wonders? Thou stretchedest out thy right hande, the earth swalowed them vp. Thou in thy mercy hast led forth the people which thou hast redemed: thou hast brought them in thy strength vnto the habitacion of thine holynes. The nations haue heard and were afrayde, sorowe came vpon the Philistines. Then the Princes of the Edomites were amased, and the mightye of the Moabites, trembling came vpon them: all the inhabiters of Canaan were payne stricken. Let feare & dread fall vpon them in the greatnes of thine arme, let them be as dead as a stone, till the people passe thorow O Lorde, while the people passe thorow which thou hast gotten. Thou shalte bring them in, and plante them in the mountaine of thine enheritance, the place Lorde which thou hast made for to dwell in the landuerly O Lorde, which the hades haue prepared. The Lorde shall raigne ouer and alwaye. For Pharaos horse went in with his charettes and horsemen into the sea, and the Lorde brought the waters of the sea vpon them. But the children of Israel went on drye ground in the middest of the sea. And Marie a prophetesse, the sister of Aaron, toke a timbrell in her hande and all the women came out after her with timbrels and daunces. And Marie sange before them: Synge ye vnto the Lorde for he hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and his ryder hath he ouerthrowne in the sea. And so Moyses brought Israel from the red sea, and they went out into the wyldernes of Shur. And they went three dayes long in the wyldernesse, & founde no water. And when they came to Mara, they could not drynke of the waters of Mara: for they were bytter, therefore the name of the place was called Mara, that is to saye bytternes. And the people murmured against Moyses, saying: what shal we drynke? And he cried vnto the Lorde, and the Lorde shewed him a tree, which he when he had cast into the waters, the waters were made swete. There he made them an ordinaunce and a lawe, and there he proued them, and sayd: If thou wylt harken vnto the voyce of the Lorde thy God, and wylt do that which is right in his eyes, & wylt geue eare vnto his commaundementes, and kepe all his ordynaunces: then will I put none of these diseases vpon thee which I brought vpon the Egyptians: for I am the Lorde that healeth thee.

The children of Israell came to Elim where were twelue welles of water, and lxx. palme trees, and they rested there by the waters. And they toke their iourney from Elim: and all the whole company of the children of Israell came to the wyldernesse of Syn which is betwixte Elim and Sinai the eyghtene daye of the seconde moneth after they departed out of the lande of Egipte. And the whole congregacion of the children of Israell murmured against Moyses and Aaron in the wyldernesse, and the children of Israell

Moses sayde vnto them: why chyde ye with me wherefore do ye tempte the Lorde? Then the people thyrsted for water, and the people murmured against Moses, and sayde: Wherefore hast thou thus brought vs out of Egypte: to kyll vs and our children and catell with thyrste. And Moses cryed vnto the Lorde, sayinge: what shall I do vnto this people? they be almost ready to stone me. And the lorde sayd vnto Moses: go before the people, and take with the of the elders of Israell, and thy rod wherewith thou smotest the riuer, take in thyne hande, and go: Beholde, I stande before the there vpon a rocke vpon the hyll in Horeb: and thou shalte smite the rocke and there shal come water out thereof, that the people maye drinke. And Moses dyd euen so before the eyes of the elders of Israel. And he called the name of the place Massa and Meriba, because of the chydyng of the children of Israel, and because they tempted the Lorde, sayinge: is the Lord among vs or not? Then came Amalech and fought with Israel in Raphidim. And Moses sayde vnto Iosua: chose the out men, and go fight with Amalech, and to morowe I will stande on the toppe of the hyll, and the rod of God shalbe in my hande. Iosua did as Moses bade him, and fought with Amalech. And Moses, and Aaron, and Hur went vp to the toppe of the hyll. And it happened, that when Moses helde vp his hande, Israel had the better. And when he lette his hande downe, Amalech had the better.

But Moses handes were heuy, and therefore they toke a stone and put it vnder hym, and he sat downe theron. And Aaron and Hur stayed vp his handes, the one on the one side and the other on the other syde. And his handes remayned stedy vntyll the goinge downe of the sun. And Iosua discomfited Amalech and his people with the edge of the swearde. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: write this for a remembraunce in a boke, and committe it vnto the eares of Iosua for: I will vtterly put oute the remembraunce of Amalech from vnder heauen. And Moses made an aulter and called the name of it: The Lorde is he that worketh myracles for me. For he sayeth: the hande is on the seate of God, the Lorde will haue warre with Amalech from generacion to generacion.

The xviij. Chapiter.

Iethro the prieste of Madian Moses father in lawe, hearde of all that God had done for Moses, and for Israell his people, and that the Lorde had brought Israell out of Egypte. Therefore he toke Sephora Moses wife (after he had sent her backe) and her two sonnes, of whiche the one was named Gersam, for he sayde: I haue bene an alient in a straunge lande. The name of the other was Eliezer: for the God of my father (sayde he) was myne helpe, and deliuered me from the sworde of Pharao. And Iethro Moses father in lawe came with his two sonnes, and his wife vnto Moses into the wildernes: where he abode by the mount of God. And he sayde vnto Moses: I thy father in lawe Iethro am come to the, and thy wife also and her two sonnes with her. And Moses went out to mete his father in lawe and did obeysaunce and kyssed hym, and eache asked other of his health, and they came into the tent. And Moses told his father in lawe all that the Lorde had done vnto Pharao and to the Egipcians for Israels sake, and all the trauell that had happened them by the way, and howe the Lorde deliuered them. And Iethro reioyced ouer all the goodnesse which the lorde had done to Israel, because he had deliuered them out of the hand of the Egipcians. And Iethro sayde: blessed be the Lorde whiche hath deliuered you out of the hand of the Egipcians, and out of the hande of Pharao, whiche hath also deliuered his people from the captyuite of the Egipcians. Now I know that the lord is greater then all gods, for in the thyng wherein they dealte cruelly with them, are they themselues punished. And Iethro Moses father in lawe offered burnt offringes & sacrifices vnto God. And Aaron & all the elders of Israell came to eate bread with Moses father in lawe before God. And it chaunced on the morowe, that Moses sat to Iudge the people, & the people stode about Moses tyll morninge vnto euen. And when Moses father in lawe saw all that he did vnto the people, he sayde: what is this that thou doest vnto the people? why sittest thou thy selfe alone, and all the people stande about the from morninge vnto euen? And Moses sayde vnto his father in law: because the people come vnto me to seke counsel of god. When they haue a matter, they come vnto me, & I iudge betwene euery man & his neyghboure, & shew them the ordinaunces of God and his lawes. And Moses father in law sayd vnto him, it is not wel that thou doest. Thou both weryest thy selfe, and this people that is with the: for this thyng is of more weyght, then thou arte able to perfourme thy selfe alone. Heare nowe therfore my worde, and I wyl geue the counsel, and God shalbe with the. Be thou vnto the people to God warde, that thou mayste bring the causes vnto god, and thou shalte teache them ordinaunces, and lawes, and shewe them the waye wherin they must walke, and the worke that they must do. Moreouer, thou shalte sete out among all the people, men of auncte, and such as feare god true men, hating couetousnes: and make them heades ouer the people, captaynes ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fyftyes, and ouer tennes. And let them iudge the people at all seasons. And euery* great matter that happeneth, let them bryng vnto the, but let them iudge al smal causes them selues, and so shal it be easier for the selues, and they shal beare with the. If thou make be this thyng, (and God charge the withall) thou shalt be able to endure, and yet the people shall come to their place in peace. And to Moses obeyed the voyce of his father in lawe, and dyd all that he had sayd, and chose auyne men out of all Israell, and made them ouer heades ouer the people: namely captaynes ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fyftyes, and ouer tennes. And they iudged the people at all seasons, but brought the hard causes vnto Moses: and iudged al smal matters them selues. And Moses let his father in lawe departe, and he went into his owne lande.

In the third moneth, when the children of Israell were gone out of the lande of Egipt, the same day came they in to the wildernesse of Sinai. For they* departed from Raphidim, & were come to the desert of Sinai, and had pitched their tentes in the wyldernesse: And there Israel abode before the mount. And Moses went vp vnto God, and the Lord called to hym out of the mountayne, & sayd: thus shalt thou saye vnto the house of Iacob, and tel the children of Israel: ye haue sene what I dyd vnto the Egiptians, & take you vp vpon Egles wynges, and haue brought you vnto my self. Nowe therfore* yf ye wil heare my voyce in dede, & kepe min appointment, ye shalbe min owne, aboue all nations, for all the earth is myne. Ye shal be vnto me also a kyngdom of* Priests and an holy people: and these are the wordes which thou shalt say vnto the children of Israel. Moses came and called for the elders of the people, & layd before their faces al these wordes, which the Lord commaunded hym. And the people answered all together, and sayde: * All that the Lorde hath sayde, we wyl do. And Moses brought the wordes of the people vnto the Lorde.

And the Lorde sayd vnto Moses: Loo, I come vnto the in a thycke cloude, that the people maye heare me talkyng with the, and beleue the for euer. Moses shewed the wordes of the people vnto the Lorde.

And the Lorde sayd vnto Moses: Go vnto the people, and sanctifye them to daye and to morow, and let them washe their clothes, and be redy against the third daye. For the third daye the Lord wyl come downe in the sight of al the people vpon mounte Sinai. And thou shalt set markes rounde about the people and saye: beware that ye go not vp into the mounte, or touche the bounds of it. Who soeuer toucheth the* mounte, shall dye the dye. There shall not an hande touche it. Ether he shalbe stoned or shot thorowe, whether it be beast or man, it shal not liue: when the trumpe bloweth longe, then maye they come vp into the mountayne. And Moses went downe from the mount vnto the people, and sanctifyed them, and they washed their clothes. And he sayd vnto the people: be redye against the thyrde daye, and come not at your wyues. And the thirde day in the morning there was thunder, and lightyng and a thicke cloud vpon the mounte, & the voyce of the trumpe exceadyng lowde, so that all the people that was in the hoste was afrayd. And Moses brought the people out of the tentes to mete with God, and they* stode vnder the hill. And mount Sinai was altogether on a smoke because the Lord descended downe vpon it in fyre. And the smoke therof ascended vp, as the smoke of a kyle, and all the mount was exceadyng fearful. And when the voyce of the trumpe bleew and waxed lowder and lowder, Moses spake, and God answered hym by a voyce. And the Lord came downe vpon mounte Sinai, euen in the toppe of the hyll, and when the Lorde called Moses vp into the toppe of the hil, Moses went vp. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Go downe: charge the people, that they presse not vp to se the Lord, and so many of them perish. And let the priestes also which come to the Lorde sanctifye them selues, lest the Lorde destroye them. And Moses sayd vnto the Lord, the people can not come vp into the mounte Sinai, for thou chargedst me saying: set markes about the hil, and sanctifye it. And the Lord sayd vnto hym: Auaye, and get the downe: and thou shalt come vp, thou and Aaron with the. But let not the priestes and the people presume for to come vp vnto the Lorde: lest he destroy them. And so Moses went downe vnto the people and tolde them.

¶ The. xx. Chapiter.

And God spake all these wordes, & sayd: I am the Lorde thy God which haue* brought the out of the lande of Egipte, out of the house of bondage. Thou shalt haue none other goddes in my sight. Thou shalt make the no grauen ymage, neither any similitude that is in Heauen aboue, nether in the yearth beneth, or in the waters vnder the yearthe. Thou shalt not worship them, nether serue them: for I the Lorde thy God, I am a gelouse God: and visite the synne of the fathers vpon the children vnto the third & fourth generacion of them that hate me: and shewe mercy vnto thousandes in them that loue me and kepe my commaundementes. Thou shalt not take the name of the Lorde thy God in vayne, for the Lorde wyl not holde him giltles that taketh his name in Mother the Sabboth daye, thou thou laudest it. Syxe dayes shalte thou labour and do all that thou haste to do: but the seuenth day is the Sabboth of the lord thy GOD, in it thou shalte do no maner of worke, thou and thy sonne, and thy doughter, thy man seruaunt, and thy mayde seruaunte, thy cattell, and the straunger that is within thy gates. For in syxe dayes the Lord made Heauen & yearth, the sea, and al that in them is, and* rested the seuenth day, wherefore the Lorde blessed the Sabboth daye, and halowed it. * Honour thy father and thy mother, that thy dayes may be long in the land, whiche the Lord thy God geueth the.

Thou shalte not kyll. * Thou shalte not breake wedlocke. * Thou shalte not steale. * Thou shalt not beare false witnesse agaynst thy neyghbour. Thou shalte not couet * thy neyghbours house: neither shalt thou couet thy neyghbours wyfe, or his man seruaunte, or his mayde, or his Oxe, or his Asse, or what soeuer thy neyghboure hath. And all the people sawe the thunder, and the lyghtenyng, and the noyse of the trumpe, and the mountayne smokyng. And when the people sawe it, they remoued and stode a far of, and sayd vnto Moses, talke * thou with vs, and we wyll heare, but lette not God talke with vs, lest we dye. And Moses sayde vnto the people: feare not, for God is come to proue you, and that his feare may be in your face, that ye synne not. And the people stode a far of: and Moses wente into the thycke cloude where God was. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: thus thou shalte saye vnto the children of Israel. Ye haue seue that I haue talked with you from out of heauen. Ye shall not make therfore with me gods of syluer, neyther shall ye make you goddes of golde. * An aultar of yearth thou shalte make vnto me, and theron offer thy burnt offerynges, and thy peace offerynges, thy sheepe, & thyne oxen. In all places where I shal put the remembraunce of my name thyther I wyll come vnto the and blesse the. And yf thou wylt make me an aultar of stone, se thou make it not of hewen stone. Elis yf thou lyfte vp thy toole vpon it, thou hast polluted it. Neyther shalt thou go vp by steppes vnto myne aultar, that thy filthinesse be not shewed theron.

The. xxi. Chapitre.

These are the lawes: whiche thou shalte set before them. If thou bye a seruaunte that is an Hebrue, vi. yeres he shall serue, and in the seuenth he shal go out free, payeng nothyng. If he came alone, he shall goo out alone. And if he came maried, his wyfe shall go out with hym. And yf his master haue geuen hym a wyfe, and she haue borne hym sonnes or doughters, then the wyfe and her children shall be her masters, and he shall go out alone. And if the seruaunte saye: I loue my master, my wyfe and my children, I wyll not go out free. His master shall bryng hym vnto the Iudges, and set hym to the doore or to the doore poste, and his master shall bore his eare thorow with a nawle, and he shalbe his seruaunt for euer. And yf a man sell his doughter to be a seruaunt: he shall not go out as the men seruauntes do. If he also please not her master, and he geue her to no man to wyfe, then shall he lette her go free: to sell her vnto a straunge nacion shall he haue no power, seyng he despysed her. If he haue promised her vnto his son to wyfe, he shall deale with her, as men do with their doughters. And if he take him another wyfe, yet her fode, her rayment, and dutye of mariage shall he not minishe. And yf he do not these three vnto her, then shall she go oute free, and paye no money. * He that smiteth a man that he dye, shall be slayne for it. If a man laye not a wayte, but God delyuer hym into his hande, then I wyll poynte the a place whyther he shal flee. If a man come presumptuously vpon his neyghboure to slaye hym with gyle, thou shalte take hym fro myne * aultar that he dye. He that smiteth his father or his mother, lette hym be slayne for it. * He that stealeth a man and selleth hym (yf it be proued vpon hym) shalbe slayne for it. * And he that curseth his father or mother, shal be put to death for it. If men stryue together, and one smite another with a stone or with his fyste, and he dye not, but lyeth in bedde: if he ryse againe and walke without vpon his staffe, then shal he that smote hym go quyte: saue only he shall beare his charges for lesyng his tyme, and shall paye for his healyng. And yf a man smyte his seruaunt or his mayde with a rodde, and they dye vnder his hande, it shall be auenged in dede.

And yf they continue a daye or two, it shall not be auenged, for they are his money. If men stryue and hurte a woman with chylde, so that her fruite departe from her, and yet no misfortune followe: then shall he be mulcted accordyng as the womans husband wyll lay to his charge, and he shal paye as the iudges men appoynte hym. * And yf any misfortune followe: then shall he paye lyfe for lyfe, eye for eye, toth for toth, hande for hande, foote for foote, burnyng, for burnyng, wounde for wounde, stripe for stripe. And yf a man smite his seruaunte or his mayde in the eye, and it perishe, he shal let them go free for the eyes sake. And also if he smit out his seruaunte or his maydes toth, he shall lette them goo out free for the tothes sake. If an Oxe gore a man or a woman that they dye, then * the Oxe shall be stoned, and his fleshe shal not be eaten, but the owner of the Oxe shall go quyte. If the oxe vse wonte to pushe in tyme

If there be founde breakyng vp, and he smiten that he dye, there shall no bloude be shed for hym: but if the sunne be vp when he is founde, then there shalbe bloud shed for hym. He shall make restitucion: yf he haue not wherwith, he shalbe solde for his theefte. If the theefte be founde in his hande alyue, (whyther it be Oxe, Asse, or shepe) he shal restore double. If a man do hurte selde or vineyarde, and put in his beast to fede in another mans selde: of the beste of his owne selde, and of the best of his owne vineyarde shall he make restitucion. If fyre breake out and catche in the thornes and the tackes of corne, or the standing corne or selde be consumed therewith, he that kyndled the fyre, shal make restitucion. If a man deliuer his neyghboure money or stuffe to kepe, and it be stollen oute of his house, yf the thefe be found, let hym paye double. And if the thefe be not founde, then the good manne of the house shall be brought vnto the Iudges. And shall sweare whyther he haue put his hande vnto his neighbours good. And in al maner of trespasse, whether it be for Oxen, asse, shepe, rayment, or any maner of lost thing which another chalengeth to be his, the cause of both parties shal come before the Iudges. And whom the iudges condempne: let hym paye double vnto his neyghboure.

If a man deliuer vnto his neyghboure an hepe, asse, oxe, shepe, or what so euer beaste it be, and it dye or be hurte, or taken awaye (and no man se it) then shall an othe of the Lorde be betweene them, that he hath not put his hande vnto his neyghbours good, and the owner of it shal take the othe, and the other shal not make it good. reyne in thy land: the nombre of thy dayes wyl I fulfyl. I wyl sende my feare before the, and wyll trouble all the people whyther thou shalte go. And I wyl make al thine ennemyes turne their backes vnto the, and I wyl sende hornettes before the, whiche shall dryue oute the Hewites, the Chananites, and the Hethites before the. Neuertheles, I wyll not cast them out in one yere, lest the land growe to a wildernesse: and the beastes of the felde multiplye against the. By lytle and litle I wil dryue them out before the, vntil thou be increased, and inherit the lande.
And I wil make thy coastes from the red sea vnto the sea of the Philistiens, and from the desert vnto the ryuer. For I wyll deliuer the inhabiters of the lande into thyne hand, and thou shalte dryue them oute before the. Deut.vij.a.
* Thou shalte make none appointment with Exo.xxxiij.d them, nor with their goddes. Neither let them dwell in thy lande, lest they make the syn a-gainste me: for if thou serue their goddes, it wyll be thy decay.

The xxiiij. Chapiter.

And he talde vnto Moses: come vp vnto The.xix.day the Lorde: thou and Aaron, Nadab and at Sinai.
Abiu, and the lxx. elders of Israell, and ye shal worshippe a farre of. And Moses hymselfe alone shall go vnto the Lorde, but they shal not come nye, neyther shal the people go vp with hym. And Moses came, and talde the people * all the wordes of the Lorde and al Exo.xix.a. the lawes. And all the people answered with one voyce, and saide: all the woordes whiche the Lorde hath sayde, wyll we do.
And Moses wrote al the wordes of the lord, and rose vp earely, and set vp an * aulter vn- Exod.xx.b. der the hyl, and twelue stones accordyng to the twelue tribes of Israell, and sent younge men of the children of Israel, which brought burnte offrynges, and offered peace offerynges of oxen vnto the Lorde. And Moses tooke halfe of the bloud, and put it in basens, and the other halfe he sprinkled on the aulter. And he tooke the boke of the appointment and redde in the audience of the people. And they sayd. All that the Lorde hath sayd, we wyll do and be obedient. And Moses toke the * bloude, and sprynkled it on the people, 1.Pet.i.a and sayd: behold, this is the bloud of the ap- * Hebr.ix.c. pointmente, whiche the Lorde hathe made with you vpon all the wordes. Then went Moses and Aaron, Nadab, and Abiu, and the lxx. elders of Israell vp, and sawe the God Israell, and there was vnder his feta as it were a worke of a Saphir stone, as is mer the heauen when it is cleare, and vpon the nobles of the children of Israell he set not his hande. And they sawe God and dyd eat and drynke. And the Lorde said vnto Moses: come vp to me into the hyl, and be there, and I will geue the tables of stone, & a lawe & commaundementes, which I haue written D. that thou maist teach them. And Moses rose vp and his minister Iehosua, and Moses went vp into the hil of God and said vnto the elders: tary ye here vntil we come againe vnto you. Beholde here is Aaron, and Hur with you. If any man haue any matter to do: let hym come to them. And Moses went vp in to the mount, and a cloud couered the hil, and the glorye of the Lorde abode vpon the mount Sinai, and the cloud couered it sixe dayes. And the seuenth daye he called vnto Moses out of the cloude. And the fashion of the glory of the Lorde was lyke consumyng fyre on the toppe of the hyll in the sight of the children of Israell. And Moses went in-

And from thence I wyl testify vnto the and wyl comon with the from vpon the mercyseate: from betwene the two Cherubins whiche are vpon the arke of wytnesse, of all thynges whiche I wyll geue the in commaundement vnto the children of Israell.

C. Exo. xxxvij. [* Thou shalt also make a table of Sethym woode of. ij. cubytes longe, and one cubyte brode and a cubite and an halfe hye. And thou shalt couer it with pure gold, and make there to a crowne of golde round about. And make vnto that an whope of foure fyngers brode round about. And make a golden crowne also to the whope rounde about. And make for it foure ringes of golde, and put the ringes in the corners that are on the foure fete therof: euen ouer against the whope shal the ringes be, to put in barres, to beare the table withall. And thou shalte make the barres of sethym woode, and ouerlay them with golde, that the table maye be borne with them. And thou shalt make his dishes, and spones, flat peces, and potes to powre oute withall: Euen of fyne golde shalte thou make them. And thou shalt set vpon the table shew D. breade before me alwaye. * And thou shalte Exo. xxxvij. make a candelsticke of pure golde euen of a whole worke shall the candelsticke be made with his shafte, braunches, bolles, knoppes and floures proceedyng there oute: Syxe braunches also shal procede out of the sides of it: thre braunches of the candelsticke out of the one syde, and thre oute of the other. Three cuppes lyke vnto Almondes, with knoppes and flowers in one braunche. And thre Cuppes lyke Almondes in the other braunche, with knoppes and floures. And euen so throughout the syxe braunches, that procede oute of the candelsticke: and in the candelsticke selfe, foure cuppes lyke vnto Almondes with their knoppes and flowers, and there shalbe a knop vnder euery two braunches. (in thre somes) Of the syxe that procede out of the candelsticke. And the knoppes and the braunches shalbe of it self one whoole worke euen of pure golde. And thou shalte make the seuen lampes of it: and the tenth part thereof, shalt thou put in thy theron, to gewe light vnto the other side that is ouer against it. The tongues and the saucers thereof, shalbe of pure gold. Of an. C. pound weight of fine gold, shalt thou make it with all the apparell. Loke therefore that thou make them after the fashion that was shewed thee in the mount.

¶ The. xxvi. Chapiter.

Ouer the tabernacle shalt thou make with. x. curtaines of white twined silke, yelowe silke, purple and scarlet. And in them thou shalt make pictures of broydred worke. The length of one curtain shalbe. xxviij. cubites, and the breadth of one curtain. iiij. cubites, and euery one of the curtaines shal haue one measure: v. curtaines shalbe coupled to gether one to another: and other. v. curtaines shalbe coupled together one to another. And thou shalt make loupes of yelowe silke, a long by the edge of the one curtain, whiche is in the selfedge of the coupling curtain. And likewise shalt thou make in the edge of the vttermost curtain, that it may be coupled therwith on the other side. Fiftie loupes shalte thou make in the one curtain, and. l. loupes shalt thou make in the edge of the curtain, that is to bee coupled therewith on the other side: that the loupes maye take holde one of another. And thou shalt make. l. buttons of gold, and couple the curtaines together with the buttons, and it shalbee one habitacion. And thou shalt make. xi. curtaines of goates heer to bee a couering vpon the tabernacle. The length of a curtain shalbee. xxx. cubites, and the breadth iiij. and other shalbe all. xi. of one measure. And thou shalt couple. v. curtaines by themselues, and. vi. by themselues, and shalt double the vi. in the fore front of the Tabernacle. And thou shalte make fiftie loupes in the edge of the vtmost curtain, on the one side: euen in the edge of the coupling Curtain: and fiftie loupes in the edge of the other curtain, that must be ioyned vnto it. And thou shalt make fiftie buttons of braste, and put them on the loupes: and couple the couering together, that it maie bee one.

And the remnaunt that remeth in the cur-taines of the couering: euen the halfe curtain that remeth, shalbe left on the backe sides of the habitacion: That a Cubite on the one side and a Cubite on the other side, may remaine in the length of the curtaines of the couering, and that it may remain of either side of the habitacion to couer it withall. And vpon the tabernacle, thou shalt make a cou-ering of Rammes skinnes died redde: and yet a couering aboue all of Taxus skinnes.

And thou shalte make bordes for the ha-bitacion of Sethim woode, to stand vpright: tenne cubites long, shall euery borde be, and a cubite and an halfe borde. Two feete shall there be in one bordeboord, that shalbe seperate one from another. And thus shalt thou make for all the bordes of the Tabernacle. Xx. Exo. xxxvi. thou shalt make. xx. bordes for the habitacio on the south side, and thou shalt make. l. sokkettes of siluer, vnder the. xx. bordes: ij. sokkettes vnder one borde, for his two feete, and ij. sockettes vnder another borde, for his. ij. feete. In like maner in the North side of the E. habitacion there shalbe twentie bordes, and fortie sockettes of siluer: two sockettes vnder one borde, and. ij. sockettes vnder another borde. And in the West ende of the ha-bitacion, shalte thou make sixe bordes, and two bordes shalte thou make in the Corners of the habitacion, in the meeting together of the two sides. And they shalbe coupled together beneth, and likewise aboue to a Ryng. And thus shall it bee for the two bordes that are in the corners. And there shal bee eight bordes, hauyng sockettes of siluer, euen sixtene sockettes: That there maie bee two Sockettes vnder one borde, and Fe two Sockettes vnder another borde. And thou shalte make barres of Sethim woode, fiue for the bordes of the tabernacle in one side, and fiue Barres for the bordes of the Tabernacle, in the other side, and fiue Barres for the bordes of the Tabernacle in the West ende. And the middle barre shall goo a long through the middes of the bordes, from the one ende vnto the other. And thou shalte couer the bordes with gold, and make their ringes of golde, to put the barres through, and thou shalt couer the barres with golde also. And thou shalte rere vp the habitacion, according to the fashion thereof, as it was shewed thee in the Mounte. And thou shalte make a Vaile of yelowe Silke, of Purple, Scarlet, and white twined Silke. Of bray dered worke with pictures, shalt thou make it. And hang it vpon fource Pillers of Sethim woode, couered with gold. Whose hed-des shalbe of gold, hanging vpon foure sokkettes of siluer. And thou shalt hang vp the G.
Vaile with Ringes, that thou maiest bring in (within the Vaile) the Arke of witnesse.
And the Vaile shall vnto you deuide the holy from the most holy. And thou shalte put the mercie Seate vpon the Arke of witnesse, in the holiest place. And thou shalte put the table without the Vaile: And the Candelstick ouer against the Table, on the South side of the habitacion; and put the Table on the North side. And thou shalte make an han-gyng for the Doore of the Tabernacle, of yelowe Silke, Purple, Scarlet, and white twyned Silke, wrought with needle worke.
And thou shalte make for the hangyng, fiue pillers of Sethim wode, and couer them with gold, and their knoppes shalbe of gold, & thou shalt cast fiue sockettes of braste for them.

1. And thou shalt make an altar of Sethim Exo. xxxviij. a wode, v. cubites long, and v. cubites broode Exo. xlix. d. For it shalbe iij. square, and three cubites high. And thou shalte make it hornes in the iij. corners of it, the hornes shalbe of it self, and thou shalt couer it with brasse. And make his a de pannes, bouelles, bacons, fleshookes fire pannes, and all the apparell thereof: for the same of brasse. And thou shalte make vnto it a gredyron also (like a net) of brasse. And vpon that net shalt thou make foure brasen ringes, in the iij. corners thereof: and thou shalte put it vnder the compasse of the altar beneth, that the net may be in the midde of the altar. And thou shalt make (3.) barres for the altar of sethim wode, and couer the with brasse, and let the be put in ringes a long by the sides of the alter to beare it withal. And make the altar hollowe with bordes: euen as it was shewed thee in the mount, so shall thei make it. And thou shalt make the court of the habitacion, that there maie be in the South side hangynges of white twined silke, of an hundred Cubites long, for one side, and xx. pilleres therof, with their twentie sockettes of brasse: but the knoppes of the pilleres and their hoopes shalbee siluer. Lykewise on the North side, there shalbe hangynges of an hundred cubites long, and twentie pilleres with their twentie sockettes of brasse, and the knoppes and the hoopes of siluer. And the breadth of the Courte, whiche is Eastwarde, shall haue. l. cubites. Hangynges of
xv. cubites in the one side: and their pilleres with their three sockettes. And likewise on the other side shalbe hangynges of. xv. Cubites, with their three pilleres and sockettes.
C. And in the gate of the Courte shalbee a vaile of twentie cubites of Yelowe silke, Purple, and scarlet, and white twined silke wrought with nedle woorke: And foure pilleres with their foure sockettes. All the pilleres round about the courte, shalbe hooped with siluer, and their knoppes shalbe of siluer, & their sockettes of brasse. The length of the courte shalbe an hundred cubites, and the breadth l. and the height. v. And the hangynges shalbe of white twined silke, & their sockettes of brasse. All the vesselles of the Habitacion in all maner of seruice, and the pinnes therof, yea, and all the pinnes of Leuit xx. a. the Courte shalbee of brasse. And thou shalte commaunde the children of Israel, that thei geue the pure oyle olife beaten for the light, to powre alwaie into the lampes. In the tabernacle of witnes without the vaile, which is before the witnes, shal Aaron & his sones dresse it, bothe euenyng and morneyng before the lorde: and it shalbe a statute for euer, vnto the generacions of the children of Israell.

1. And take thou vnto thee Aaron thy brother, and his sonnes with him, out among the children of Israell, that thei maie minister vnto me. Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, Eleasar, & Ithamar, Aarons sonnes. And thou shalte make holy rayment for Aaron thy brother, that thei maie bee vnto glory and bewtie. And thou shalte speake vnto all that are wise hartes, and whomsoeuer I haue filled with the spirite of wisedome, that thei make Aarons rayment, to consecrate hym with, that he may minister vnto me. These are the garmentes, whiche thei shall make, a brest lap, Ephod, a Tonicle, a straighe coate, a Mytre and a girdle. These holy garmentes shal thei make for Aaron thy brother, and his sonnes, that thei maie minister vnto me. And let them take golde, Yelowe silke, Purple, Scarlet, and white twined silke. Thei shall make the Ephod of gold, yelowe silke, Purple, scarlet, 10. and white twined silke, with broydered woorke. The .ij. sides shal come together, and he closed vp in the .ij. edges thereof. And the girdle of the ephod, shalbe of the same woorkmanship, and of the same stuffe, euen of golde, yelowe silke, purple, scarlet, and white twined silke. And thou shalt take .ij. onix stones, and graue in them the names of the children of Israell: vi. names of them in the one stone, & the other. vi. in the other stone: according to the order of their birth. After the woorke of a stone grauer, and of him that grauyth sygnettes, shalt thou graue the .ij. stones with the names of the children of Israel, and shalt make them to bee set in golde. And thou shalte put the .ij. stones vpon the .ij. shulders of the Ephod, that thei maie bee stones of remembraunce, vnto the children of Israel. And Aaron shall beare their names before the lorde vpon his .ij. shoulders, for a remembraunce. 12.
And thou shalt make bokes of gold, and two cheines of fine gold, lyke woorke and maner, & fasten the wreathed cheines to the bokes. And thou shalt make the breast lap of iudgement with broydered woorke, euen after the woorke of the Ephod shalt thou make it: namely of gold, yelowe silke, purple, scarlet, & white twined silke, shalt thou make it. Foure square it shalbe and double, an hand broode and an hand brode shalbe. And thou shalt fill it with iij. romes of stones. In the first rome shalbe a Sardion, a Topas & Smaragdus.
In the .ij. rome a Ruby, Saphire, and Diamonde. In the .iij. a Ligurius, an Achat, and Amatistus. In the .iiij. a Turcas, Onix, & Jaspis.
And thei shalbe sette in golde in their enclosures.
And the stones shalbe graue as sygnettes be graues, with the names of the children of Israell, euen with the .xij. names, euery one with his name, according to the .xij. tribes. 21.
And thou shalt make vpon the breast lap, twoo faienyng cheines of pure gold, and wreathen 22.

worke. And thou shalt make vnto the brestlap two ringes of golde, and put the on the edges of the brestlap, and put the two wreathen cheines of golde in the two ringes which are in the edges of the brestlap. And the other two endes of the two cheines, thou shalt fasten in the two close holes, and put them vpon the shulders of the Ephod on the foreside of it. And thou shalt yet make .ij. ringes of golde, which thou maiest put in the .ij. edges of the brestlap, euen in the borders thereof, toward the inside of the Ephod ouer against it. And yet two other ringes of golde shalt thou make, and put them on the .ij. sides of the Ephod, beneth ouer against the brestlap, a lowe where the sides are ioyned together, vpon the broydered girdle of the Ephod. And they shall binde the brestlap by his ringes, vnto the ringes of the Ephod, with a lace of yelowe silke, that it may lye close aboue the broydered girdle of the Ephod, and that the brestlap be not loosed from the Ephod. And Aaron shal beare the names of the children of Israell, in the brestlap of iudgement vpon his harte, when he goeth in to the holy place, for a remembrance before the lorde alwaie. And thou shalt put in the brestlap of iudgement Urim and Thumim: and they shalbe euen vpon Aarons hart, when he goeth in before the lorde: Aaron shal beare the iudgement of the children of Israell vpon his harte, before the Lorde alwaie. And thou shalt make the Tunicle vnto the Ephod altogether of yelowe silke. And there shalbe an hole for the hede in the middes of it, hauyng a bonde of wouen worke, round about the coller of it, like vnto the coller of a iacket, that it rent not. And beneth vpon the hem, thou shalt make Pomgranettes of yelowe silke, and of purple and Crarlet, rounde about the hem, and belles of golde, betwene them round about: Let there be euer a golden bell and a Pomgranet, a golden bell and a Pomgranet, round about vpon the hem of the Tunicle. And Aaron shall haue it vpon him, when he ministreth, and the sound shal be heard, when he goeth into the holy place before the lorde, and when he commeth out, and he shall not die. And thou shalte make a plate of pure golde, and graue therein, as Grauettes are graue, The holines of the lord, and put it on a yelowe silke lace, to bee vpon the mitre, euen vpon the fore front of it. And it shalbee vpon Aarons forhed: that Aaron maie beare the synne of the holy thynges, which the children of Israel halowe in all their holy giftes. And it shalbe alwaies vpō his forhed, for the reconcilyng of thē before the lorde. And thou shalt make a linnen cote, and thou shalte make a mitre of linnen, and a girdle of needle worke. And thou shalt make for Aarons sonnes also coates, girdles, and bonettes, glorious and beautifull, and thou shalt put them vpon Aaron thy brother, & on his sonnes with him: and shalt anoynt them and fil their handes, & consecrate them, that they maie minister vnto me. And thou shalt make thē linnen breches, to couer their priuitees frō the loynes, vnto the thies shal they reche. And they shalbe vpon Aarō and his sonnes, Exod. xxix. a whē they cum into the tabernacle of witnes or when they come vnto the altar to minister in holines, that they beare no synne, & so die. And it shalbe a law for euer vnto Aaron and his sede after hym.

The. xxix. Chapiter.

This thyng also shalt thou do vnto them, N. to hallowe them, that they may minister vnto me in the office of preisthode. Take a calfe, euē a yong one, and .ij. rammes that are without blemishe, and vnleuened breade, and cakes of swete bread, tempered with Oyle, and wafers of swete bread, anoynted with oyle (of wheten flowre shalt thou make them) & put them in a maunde and bryng them in the maunde, with the calfe and the .ij. rammes. And bryng Aaron and his sonnes, vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of witnes, and washe them with water, and take the garmentes, & put vpon Aaron the straite cote, the Tunicle of the Ephod, and the Ephod, and the brestlap: and girde them to him with the broydered Girdle, which is in the Ephod. And put the mitre vpon his hed: and put the holy Croune vpon the Mitre. Then C. shalt thou take the annoynting Oyle, and powre it vpon his hed, and anoynt hym. And bryng his sonnes, and put Albes vpon them and gird them with girdles, euen Aaron & his sonnes, and put the Mitres on them, and the Preistes office shalbe theirs for a perpetuall lawe. And thou shalte fill the handes of Aaron and of his sonnes: And bryng the calfe before the tabernacle of witnes. * And Leuit. i. b. Aaron and his sonnes, shall put their handes vpon the hed of the calfe, and thou shalt kill hym before the lorde, by the mouth of the tabernacle of witnes. And take of the bloude of the calfe, and put it vpō the hornes of the altar with thy finger: and powre al the bloud beside the botome of the altar, & take all the fat that couered the inwardes, & the kal that is on the liuer, and the .ij. kidnes, and the fat that is vpon them, & burne them vpon the altar. But the flesh of the calfe and his skyn, and his mary shalt thou burne with fire without the hoste. It is a synne offeryng. D. Thou shalt also take one ram, & Aaron and his sonnes shal put their handes vpon the hed of the ram, and when thou hast slain the ram, thou shalt take his bloud, and sprinkle it round about vpon the altar, and cut the ram in peces and wash the inwardes of hym, and his legges, and put them vnto the peces, and vnto his heade: and then burne the whole ramme vpon the altar, for a burnt offeryng vnto the lord, and for a thele fanor is a sacrifice vnto the lorde. Leuit.viij.d. And* take the other ramme, and Aaron and his sonnes shal put their handes vpon his hed. Then shalt thou kill hym, and take of his bloud, and put it vpon the tipe of the right eare, of Aaron and of his sonnes, and vpon the thumbe of their right handes and vpon the greate toe of their right fete, and sprinkle the bloud vpon the altar rounde about. D. Then shalt take of the bloud that is vpon the altar, and of the anoyntyng oyle and sprinkle it vpon Aaron and his weskementes, and vpon his sonnes, and vpon their garmentes with hym. And he shalbe halowed and his clothes and his sonnes, & their clothes with hym. Leuit.viij.e. And* thou shalt take the fatt of the Ram and his rompe, and the fat that couereth the inwardes, and the halle of the liuer, and the .ij. kidneis, and the fat that is vpon them, and the right shulder: for the ram is a full offryng: and a basket of breade and a cake of oyle bread, & a wafer out of the basket of swete bread, that is before the lorde, and put al vpon the handes of Aaron, and vpon the handes of his sonnes: and waue them for a waue offryng before the lorde. And again thou shalte take it from of their handes, and burne it vpon the altar for a burnt offryng, to bee a fauor of swetenes before the lorde. For it is a sacrifice vnto the lorde. Leuit.viij.f. And* thou shalt take the brest of the ram of Aarons consecracion, and waue it for a waue offryng before the lorde: and it shalbe thy parte. And thou shalte sanctifie the brest of the waue offryng: and the shulder of the heue offryng, whiche is waued and heued vp of the Ram, of the consecration for Aaron, and for his sonnes. And it shalbe Aarons and his sonnes by a statute for euer, of the children of Israell: for it is an heue offryng: Euen an heue offryng of the children of Israell, of their peace offrynges. Their heue offrynges is the lordes. And the holy garmentes of Aaron shalbe his sonnes after hym, to be anoynted therein: and to fill their handes therin. And that sonne that is preiste in his stede after him, shall put them on .vij. daies, when he entreth into the tabernacle of witnes, to minister in the holy place. Leuit.viij.g. And* thou shalte take the ram of the consecracion, & seth his flesh in an holy place. And Aaron and his sonnes shalleate the flesh of the ram, and the bread that is in the basket, euen by the more of the tabernacle of witnes: and they shall eate them, because the attonement was made therwith, to fill their handes, and to consecrate them: but a straunger shall not eate therof, because they are holy. And if ought of the flesh of the consecracion, or of the bread, remain vnto the morowng, thou shalt burne it with fire: it shal not be eaten, because it is holy. Therefore shalt thou* vnto Aaron and his sonnes euen so, according to all thynges, whiche I haue commaunded thee: .vij. daies shalt thou fill their handes, and offer euery daie a calfe for a synne offryng, for to reconcile withall: that thou maiest clense the Altar, when thou reconcilest vpon it, and thou shalt anoynt it, to sanctify it. Seuen daies thou shalt reconcile vpon the altar, & sanctifie it, and it shalbe as an altar most holy. Euery one that toucheth the Altar, let hym bee holy. This* is, Num.xxviij.C. that whiche thou shalte offer vpon the altar: euen .ij. lambes of one yere olde, daie by daie continually: The one thou shalte offer in the morowng, and the other at euen. And with the one lambe a .x. deale of floure, myngled with the .iiij. parte of an hyn of beaten oyle, and the .iiij. part of an hyn of wyne, for a drinke offring. And the other lambe thou shalt offer at euen, and shalte in therto according to the meate offryng and drinke offryng in the morowng, to be an odour of a swete fauor, and a sacrifice vnto the lorde. And let this bee a continual burnt offryng emong your children after you before the more of the tabernacle of witnesse, before the Lorde, where I will mete* you, to speake there vnto thee. There I Leuit.i. will mete the children of Israel, and will be sanctified in myne honor. And I will sanctify the tabernacle of witnesse and the altar: And I will sanctifie also, bothe Aaron and his sonnes to bee my preistes. And I will* dwel Num.xxv.b. emong the children of Israell: and will bee their God. And they shall knowe that I am the Lorde their God, that brought them out of the lande of Egipte, for to dwell among them: euen I the Lorde their God. Leuit.i. Cor.vi.

AND thou shalt make an altar to burne incense, of Sethim wode shalt thou make it. Exo.xxxvij.D. a cubite long, and a cubite brode: euen foure square shall it be, and .ij. cubites hie, the hornes thereof shall proceede out of it, and thou shalte ouer laie it with fine golde, bothe the rofe and the walles rounde about, & his hornes also, and shalte make vnto it a croune of gold rounde about, and .ij. golden ringes on either side: euen vnder the croune, that they maie be as places for the barres to beare it withall. And thou shalt make the barres of Sethim wodde, and couer them with gold. And thou shalte put it before the vaile, that is by the Arke of witnesse before the mercy seate that is vpon the witnes, where I will mete thee. And Aaron shall burne thereon swete incense euery morowng, when he dresseth the lampes, euen then shall he burne it: and likewise at euen, when he setteth vp the lampes he shal burne incense: and this incensyng shalbe perpetually before the Lorde, throughout your generacions. Ye shal put no* strage in- Leuit.x. cense theron, burnt sacrifice, or meate offryng

And Aaron shall reconcile vpon the hornes of it once in a yere with the blood of the synne offryng of reconcilyng: euen once in the yere shall he reconcile it throughout youre generacions. It is moste holy vnto the lorde. And the lorde spake vnto Moses, sayyng: If thou take the come of the childzen of Israel after their nomber, then shall geue euery man a reconcilyng of his soule vnto the lorde, when thou tellest the, that there be no plage emōg them, when thou tellest the. And thus muche shall euery man geue, and that goeth into the nomber: halfe a sicle after the Sicle of the sanctuarie. a sicle is. xx. halfe pence. An halfe sicle shalbe the heue offryng of the lorde. All that are nombred fro. xx. yere old and aboue shall geue an heue offryng vnto the Lorde. The riche shall not passe, and the poore shall not go vnder halfe a sicle. But ye shall geue an heue offryng vnto the lorde, that he maie haue mercy vpon youre soules. And thou shalt take the reconcilyng money of the childzen of Israell, & shalte put it vnto the vse of the tabernacle of witnes, that it may be a memoriall vnto the childzen of Israell, before the lorde, that he may haue mercy vpō youre soules. And the lord spake vnto Moses, sayyng thou shalt make a lauer of brasse, & his fote also of brasse to washe withal, and shalt put it betwene the tabernacle of witnes and the altar, and put water therin. For Aaron & his sones, shall washe their handes and their fete therin: euen when thei go into the tabernacle of witnes, or when thei go vnto the altar to minister, and to burne the Lordes offeryng, thei shall washe themselues with water, least thei die. And it shalbe an ordinaunce vnto the for euer, bothe vnto him & his sede, throwe out their generacions. And the lord spake vnto Moses, sayyng: take vnto thee principall spices: of the moste pure mirre. v. C. sicles, of swete cinnamon halfe so muche, euen. ij. C. and. l. sicles: of swete calamus, ij. C. and. l. of casia. ij. C. and. l. after the holy sicle, and of oyle olife an hin. And thou shalt make of the oyle an holy oynt ment, euen an oyntment compound, after the craft of the Apticarie. And thou shalt anoynt the tabernacle of witnes therewith, and the Arke of witnesse and the table, and all his apparell, and the candlesticke, and all his apparell, and the altar of Incense, and the Altar of burnt sacrifice with all his vesselles, and the lauer and his fote. And thou shalt sanctifie them, that thei maie be moste holy: so that no man touche the but thei that be halowed. And thou shalt anoynte Aaron and his sonnes, and consecrate the, that thei may minister vnto me. And thou shalt speake vnto the childzen of Israel, sayyng: this shalbe an holy anoynting oyle vnto me, throughout youre generacions. Vpon mās flesshe shall it not be poured, neither shal ye make any other after the makyng of it, for it is holy, and shalbe holy vnto you. Whosoeuer maketh like that, or whosoeuer puttech any of it vpon a straunger, shal perishe from emong his people. And the Lorde saied vnto Moses: take vnto thee swete spices, Balme, Onicha, swete galbanum, these spices with pure Franckyncense, of eche like muche, and make of them swete smellyng Incense, after the craft of the apoticarie, mingled together pure and holy. And beate it to pouder, and put of it before the witnes, in the tabernacle of witnesse, where I will mete thee. It shalbe vnto you moste holy. And see that ye make none after the makyng of that. It shalbe vnto you holy for the Lorde. Whosoeuer shall make like vnto that, to smell therto, shall perishe from emong his people.

And the lorde spake vnto Moses, sayyng Beholde, I haue called by name, Bezaleel the sonne of Uri, the sone of Hur of the tribe of Juda. And I haue filled him with the spirite of God, in wisedom and vnderstandyng, in knowlege & in al maner of worke, to finde out subtle maters, and to worke in gold, siluer and brasse: and in the craft to set stones, and to carue in timber, and to worke in al maner of workemanship. And behold, I haue geuen hym to be his companion, Aholiab the sonne of Ahisamach of the tribe of Dan, and in the hartes of all that are wise harted, haue I put wisedom to make al that I haue commaunded thee, the tabernacle of witnesse, the Arke of witnes, and the mercie seat that is therupō: and al the ornamentes of the tabernacle, and the Table and his ornamentes, and the pure candlesticke with all his apparell, & the altar of incense, and the altar of burnt offryges, and all his vesselles, and the lauer with his fote. The vestimētes to minister in, and the holy garmentes for Aaro the priest, and the garmentes of his sonnes to minister in, and the anoyntyng oyle, and swete cence for the sanctuarie, accordyng to all that I haue commaunded thee shall thei do. And the lorde spake vnto Moses, sayyng: Speake vnto the childzen of Israell and saie: in any wise see that ye kepe my Sabboths: for it is a signe betwene me & you, in your generacions, for to knowe that I the lorde am he, that maeth sanctifie you. Kepe my Sabboth therefore for it is holy vnto you. He that defileth it, shalbe slain. For whosoeuer worketh therin, the same soule shalbe rooted out fro emong his people. Sixe daies shal men worke. AND when the people sawe, that it was long or Moses came downe out of the mountain, thei gathred themselues togethes vnto Aaron, and said vnto hym: vp, make vs goddes to go before vs: for of this Moses (the felowe that brought vs out of the land of Egipt) we wote not what is become. And Aaron said vnto them: plucke* of the golden earynges, whiche are in the eares of youre wiues, your sonnes, and of your daughters: and bryng them vnto me. And all the people plucked of the golden earynges, whiche thei had in their eares, & brought them vnto Aaron. And he* receiued them of their handes, and fashioned it with a grauer, and made of it a calfe of molten metall. And thei said: these be thy goddes, O Israell, whiche brought thee out of the land of Egipt. And whē Aaron saw that, he made an altar before it. And Aaron cried, saiyng: to morow it is the holy daie of the Lorde. And thei rose vp in the morning, and offered burnt offerynges, and brought peace offeryngs also. And the people sat them wune to eate and drinke, & rose vp again to playe. And the Lorde said vnto Moses: *go, get thee hence: thy people whiche thou broughtest out of the lande of Egipt, haue marred all, thei are turned at once out of the waie, whiche I commaunded them for thei haue made them a Calfe of molten metall, and haue worshipped it, and haue offered thereto, saiyng: these be thy gods, O Israell, whiche haue brought thee out of the lande of Egipt. And the lorde said vnto Moses: I haue seen this people: & behold, it is a stifnecked people, & now suffre me, that my wrath maie waxe hote against them, and consume them: & I wil make of thee a mightie people. And Moses besought the Lorde his God, and said: O Lorde, why wil thy wrath waxe hote against thy people, which thou hast brought out of the land of Egipt, with great power, and with a mightie hande. Wherfore should the Egiptians speake and saie: for a mischief did he bryng them out, euen for to slaie them in the mountaines, and to consume them from the face of the yerth? Turne from thy fearce wrath: and turne vnto this euill (deuise) against thy people. Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel thy seruauntes, to whō thou swarest by thyne awne self, and saidest vnto them, I will multiplie your seed, as the starres of heuen, and all this land that I haue spoken of, will I geue vnto your seede, and thei shall inherite it for euer. And the lord repented hymselfe of that euill, whiche he said he would do vnto his people. And Moses turned his backe, & went downe from the hill, and the two Tables of witnesse wer in his handes: and the same Tables wer written on both the sides, and were the worke of God, and the writyng was the writyng of God graue in the Tables. And when Iosua had the noyse of the people, as they howled, he said vnto Moses: there is a noyce of warre in the hoste. And he answered: it is not the cry of them that haue the maistrie, nor of them that haue the worse: but I do heare the noyse of them that syng. And it so tuned, whone as he came nie vnto the hoste he sawe the calfe and the daunsyng: and Moses wrath waxed hote, and he cast the tables out of his handes, and brake them beneth the hill. And* he toke the calfe, whiche thei had made, and burned it in the fire, & stampt it vnto pouder, and strawed it in the water, and made the children of Israell drinke of it. And Moses said vnto Aaron: What did this people vnto thee, that thou hast brought so great a synne vpon them? And Aaron answered: Let not the wrath of my lorde waxe fearce, thou knowest the people, that thei are set on mischief: for thei said vnto me: make vs gods to go before vs, for we wote not what is become of Moses, the felowe that brought vs out of the lande of Egipt. And I said vnto them: let them that haue gold plucke it of, and bryng it me: and I did cast it into the fire and there of came out this calfe. Moses ther fore sawe that the people were naked (for Aaron had made them naked, vnto their shame emong their enemies) and he went and stode in the gate of the hoste, and said: if any man pertain vnto the lorde, let him come vnto me. And all the sonnes of Leui gathered themselues togethee, and came vnto hym. And he said vnto them: Thus saieth the lorde god of Israell, put euery man his sweard by his side, and go in and out, from gate to gate throughout the hoste, and slaye euery manne his brother, and euery man his companion, and euery man his neighbour. And the children of Leui did as Moses had said. And there fell of the people the same daie, about three thousande men. And Moses said: fil your handes vnto the Lorde this daie, euery man vpon his sonne, and vpon his brother, and that there maie be geuen you a blessyng this day. And on the morow it so tuned that Moses said vnto the people: ye haue synned a greate synne. And now I will go vp vnto the Lorde: if peraduenture I maie purchase an attonement for your synne. Moses therfore went again vnto the Lorde, and said: O, this people haue synned a greate synne and haue made them Goddes of golde. And xxxij.c. now I praie thee, either forgeue them their synne: or (if thou wilte not) * wype me out of thy boke, whiche thou haste written. And the lorde saied vnto Moses: I will put hym out of my boke that hath synned against me. And nowe goo thou, bryng the people vnto the place whiche I saied vnto thee: * Beholde, myne Angell shall goo before thee, neuer-thelatter, in the daie when I visite, I will visite their synne vpon them. And the lorde plagued the people, because they made the Calfe, whiche Aaron made.

couerynge of the Table and his bottes, & all his vessell wherwith the Tabernacle/the candelsticke of light & his appurtenaunce and his lightes with the oyle for the light/the table and his furniture and the pure oyle and the sweete incense/and the hangynge of the dore at the entrynge of the Tabernacle/the aulter of burnte offrynge with his brasen grate which was his bottes and all his vessell/the lauer & his foote/and the hangynges of the courte, with his pilleres & their sockettes, & the hangynge for the dore of the courte/the pinnes of the habitacion, and the pinnes of the courte with their cordes/the mynistrynge garmentes to mynister in the holye place/& the holy garmentes for Aaron the preest, and the garmentes for his sonnes/that they may mynister vnto me in the preestes office. And all the company of the children of Israell departed from the presence of Moyses. And euery one whose mynde stirred him, and euery one whom his spirite made willynge, came and brought an offrynge vnto the Lorde for the worke of the tabernacle of witnesse, & for all his vse, and for the holye vestimentes. And they came bothe men & women (as many as were willynge harted) and brought bracelettes and earynges, ringes, and chaynes, all maner iewels of golde/and all the men brought euery man his offrynge of golde vnto the Lorde. And euery man with whome was found yelowe silke, purple, crasset, white silke and goates heare and redde skinnes of rames, and sayne skinnes, brought them. All that did offre an offrynge of siluer and brasse brought an offrynge vnto the Lorde. And all men with whome was founde Setim woode for any maner worke of mynistracio, brought it. And all the women that were wyse hearted did spynne with their handes, & brought the spunne worke both of yelowe silke, purple, crasset and white silke. And all the women whome their owne heate moued, in goates heare did spynne. And the rulers brought onix stones, and stones to be set in the Ephod and in the brestlap, and spice, and oyle for the light and for the anoyntynge oyle, & for the sweete incense. And the children of Israell brought a willynge offrynge vnto the Lorde both men and women, as many as had willynge hearte to bringe, for all maner of workes which the Lorde had commaunded to be made, by the handes of Moyses. And Moyses sayde vnto the children of Israell: Beholde, the Lorde hath called by name Bezaleel the son of Uri the son of Hur of the tribe of Iuda, & hath fylled him with the spirite of God, in wisdome and vnderstandynge, in knowlege, and in all maner worke, to finde out curious workes which are made in golde silver, and braste. In the cratte of stones to set them, & in carynge of wodde to make any maner of curious worke. And he hath put in his harte that he may teache: both he & Aholiab the sonne of Ahisamach of the tribe of Dan. The harte perfited them with wisedome to worke all maner of graued worke, & curious worke in yelowe silke, & purple, in crasset, & white silke, and in fyne linen. Yea & to make all maner of workes, & to finde out curious workes which are made. Then wrought Bezaleel & Aholiab, & all wise harted men, to whom the Lorde gaue wisdome & understandynge to knowe how to worke all maner workes for the seruice of the sanctuary, and all that the Lorde had commaunded. And Moyses called Bezaleel, Aholiab and all the wise harted men whom the Lorde had geuen wisdome vnto, and all whose hearte stirred them vnto, that they came vnto the worke, to doo it. And they receaued of Moyses all the offrynge, which the children of Israell had brought for the seruice of the worke of the tabernacle, to make it withall. And they brought yet vnto him free offrynges euery morninge. Then all the wise men that wrought all the holye worke, came euery man fro his worke which they made, and spake vnto Moyses, sayynge: The people bringe to muche and more then ynough, for the seruice of the worke which the Lorde hath commaunded to be made. Then Moyses gaue a commaundement, and they caused it to be proclaimed throughout the hoost sayynge: Let neither man nor woman prepare any more worke for the seruice of the sanctuarye. So the people were forbidden to bringe. For the stuffe they had was sufficient for all the worke to make it, and to muche. All the wise harted men there fore, and they that wrought in the habitacion, made ten curtaines of white twined silke, yelowe silke, purple and crasset: with pictures of Cherubes wrought made he them. The length of one curtaine was .xxviij. cubites, and the breade foure, & the curtaines were all of one size. And he coupled fyue curtaines by themselues, and other fyue by themselues. And he made lowpes of yelowe silke alonge by the edge of one curtaine, out in the selunge of the coupleynge curtaine. And lykewise he made on the side of the coupleynge courtaine on the other side. Fyfty lowpes made he in the one curtaine, and fyfty in the edge of the coupleynge curtaine ouer against other: and the lowpes were euen one against another. And he made fifty stapes of golde, and coupled the courtaines one to another with the stapes: & so was it made one habytacion. And he made eleuen curtaines of goates heare, to be a tent ouer the habytacle. The length of a curtaine was thirtye cubites and foure cubites brode. And the eleuen curtaines were all of one size. And he coupled fyue curtaines by them selues, and fyue by them selues/and he made fyftie lowpes alonge by the borders of the vtmost coupling curtaine, and fyftie in the edge of the other coupling curtaine. That they might be ioyned toge-

C. ther. And he made fyftie stages of braste to couple the tet together, that it might be one. And he made a couering vpon the tent of rammes skinnes red, & yet another of tanned skinnes Exo. xxvi.c. aboue that. And he made standyng bordes (for the tabernacle) of Sethim woode. The length of a borde was ten cubites, the bredth one cubite and an halfe. One borde had two sete, wherby they were ioyned one to another. And thus made he for all the bordes of the tabernacle. And he made twentie bordes for the south side of the habitatiō, and fortie sockets of syluer vnder the twentie bordes, two sockets vnder one borde, for his two sete, and two sockettes vnder another borde for his two sete. Where the two hyndes of the sides end in the corners. And for the other side of the dwellyng habitation toward the North, he made twentie bordes, & their fourty sockettes of syluer, two sockettes vnder one borde, and two sockettes vnder the other. And toward the West ende of the tabernacle. That is to saye, at that ende of the tabernacle where the enclynethor wawde the West, he made sixe bordes, & two other bordes made he in the corners of the habitation, for either side, and they were ioyned close beneth and aboue with a clampe and thus they did to both the corners. And there were eyght bordes and sixtene sockettes of syluer: vnder euery borde two sockettes.
D. And he made barres of Sethim woode, fyue for the bordes of the Tabernacle in the one side: and fyue for the bordes of the tabernacle in the other syde: and fyue barres for the hyndes of the habitation in the West ende. Towarde the West. And he made the middest barre to shote thorow the bordes: euen from the one end to the other, and ouerlaide the bordes with golde, & made stages of golde to thrust the barres thorow, & couered the barres with golde. And he made an hangyng of yelowe silke purple, scarlet, & white twined silke: wrought with pictures made he it of broded worke. And made therunto foure pillers of Sethim wood, & ouerlaide them with gold. Their knops were also of golde, & he calte for them foure sockets of syluer. And he made an hangyng for the tabernacle doore of yelowe silke, purple, scarlet, & white twined silke of needle worke. And the foure pillers of it with their knops, & ouerlaide the knoppes of the & the knoppes with golde: their fyue sockets also were of braste.

BEzaleel made the arke of Sethim Exo. xxv.a. wood, two cubites & an halfe longe, & a cubite & an halfe broade, and a cubite & an halfe hie: and ouerlaide it with fyne gold within & without, & made a crowne of gold to it rounde about. & cast for it foure rynges of gold for the foure corners of it, two rynges for the one side, & two for the other, & made barres of Sethim wod, & couered them with golde, & put the barres in the rynges a longe by the syde of the arke, to beare it withall. And he made the mercy seate. That is to say, a (with answering plate) of pure gold: two cubites & a halfe was the length therof, & one cubite and a halfe the breadth. & he made two Cherubins of thicke golde vpon the two endes of the mercye seate. One Cherub vpon the one ende, and another Cherub on the other side. Euen of the mercy seate made he
D. the Cherubins: namely, in the ende of therof. And the Cherubyns spredde out their wynges aboue an hie, & couered the mercye seate therwith. And their faces were one to another: euen to the mercy seate were the faces of the Cherubins. And he made the Exo xxv. table of Sethim wood, two cubites was the length therof, & a cubite the breadth, & a cubite & a halfe the height of it. And he ouerlaide it with fyne golde, and made therto a crowne of golde rounde about, & made therto an whope of an handē breade rounde about and made vpon the whope a crowne of golde rounde about, and caste for it foure rynges of golde, & put the rynges in the foure corners that were in the foure feete therof. Euē hard by the whope were the rynges, into the which the barres were put, to beare the table withall. And he made the barres of
C. Sethim wood, & couered the with gold to beare the table withall, & made the vessels (for the table) of pure golde: the tables, spones, flat pecces, & potles to powre withall. And he Exod. xxv made the candelsticke of pure golde: euen of one pece made he the candelsticke. For his fote, his shafte, his cuppes, his knoppes, & his floures, were of one pece. Sixe braunches procedde out of the sides therof, three out of the one side, & three out of the other. And in one braunche three cuppes made like vnto almondes with knoppes & floures. And in another braunche three cuppes made like almondes with knoppes & floures. And so throughout the sixe braunches that procedd out of the candelsticke. And vpō the candelsticke selfe were foure cuppes after the facion of almondes, with knoppes & floures vnder euery two braunches a knoppe. And the knoppes & the braunches procedd out of it, and it was all one pece of pure thicke gold. And he made his seuen lampes with the tonges & fyre shouelers therof, of pure gold. Euen of an hundred weight of pure gold made he it with al the vessels therof. And he
D. made the yens aulter of Sethim wood. The length of it was a cubite, and the breadthe a cubite, for it was foure square, and two cubites hie, with hornes proceedyng out of it. And he couered it with pure golde both the toppe and the sides therof rounde about, and the hornes of it, and made vnto it a crowne of golde rounde about. And he made two ringes of gold for it, euen vnder the crowne therof, by the two corners of it, and in the two sides therof, to put barres in, for to beare it withall: and made the barres of Sethim wod, & ouerlaide them with gold. And he made the holy anoyntyng oile, & the swete pure incense after the Apoticaries craft.

BEzaleel made the Arcke of Sethim wod, two cubites & a halfe was the length therof, and a cubite & a halfe the breadth therof, and foure cubites hie, and he ouerlaide it with pure golde within and without, and made a crowne of golde rounde about it. And he cast foure golden rynges for it, by the foure corners therof, two rynges on the one side, and two rynges on the other side. And he made barres of Sethim wod, & couered them with golde, and put the barres into the rynges on the sides of the Arcke, to beare it withall. And made the mercy seate of pure golde, two cubites & a halfe long, and a cubite & a halfe broade. And he made two Cherubins of golde, beaten worke made he them, in both the endes of the mercy seate, ouer against one another, and the Cherubins spred out their wynges on high, and couered the mercy seate with their wynges, and were ouer against one another, and their faces were euen toward the mercy seate, wherunto they were turned. And he made the table of Sethim wod, two cubites long, and a cubite broade, and a cubite & a halfe hie. And he ouerlaide it with pure golde, and made a crowne of golde rounde about it. Also he made vnto it a border of an hand breadth rounde about, and a crowne of golde rounde about the border therof. And he cast foure golden rynges for it, and put the rynges in the foure corners that were on the foure feete therof, ouer against the border, for the barres to beare the table withall. And made the barres of Sethim wod, & couered them with golde, that the table might be borne withall. And he made the vessels therupon, dishes, spones, boules, and cuppes, to powre withall, of pure golde. He made also the candlestycke of pure golde, beaten worke made he the candlestycke, his shaft, his braunches, his boules, his knoppes, and his flowres were of the same. And there went six braunches out of the sides therof, three braunches of the one side therof, and three braunches of the other side therof. Three boules made like vnto almondes, with knoppes & flowres in one braunche, and three boules made like vnto almondes in another braunche, with knoppes & flowres: so in the six braunches that went out of the candlestycke. And in the candlestycke were four boules made like vnto almondes, with their knoppes & flowres. And a knoppe vnder two braunches of the same, and a knoppe vnder two braunches of the same, and a knoppe vnder two braunches of the same, according to the six braunches that went out of it. Their knoppes & their braunches were of the same: all it was one beaten worke of pure golde. And he made the seuen lampes therof, & the snoffers therof, & the snoffe dishes therof, of pure golde. Of a talent of pure golde made he it, & all the vessels therof. He made also the altar of incense of Sethim wod, a cubite long, and a cubite broade, foure square, and two cubites hie, with hornes proceedyng out of it. And he couered it with pure golde, both the toppe and the sides therof rounde about, and the hornes of it, and made vnto it a crowne of golde rounde about. And he made two ringes of gold for it, euen vnder the crowne therof, by the two corners of it, and in the two sides therof, to put barres in, for to beare it withall: and made the barres of Sethim wod, & couered them with golde. And he made the holy anoyntyng oile, & the swete pure incense after the Apoticaries craft.

AND he made the burnt offeryng altar of Sethim wod, five cubites was the length therof, and five cubites the breadth therof, foure square, & three cubites hie. And he made vnto the hornes in the foure corners of it, proceedyng out of it, and he ouerlaide it with brasse. And he made all the vessels of the altar, the caudrons, shouels, basins, hookes, and coles pannes. All their vessels made he of brasse. And he made a brasen grate vnder of network, vnto the myddle of the altar rounde about, two cubites hie. And he cast foure rynges in the foure corners of the brasen grate, to put barres in. And made the barres of Sethim wod, & couered them with brasse, and put the barres into the rynges on the sides of the altar, to beare it withall, and made the altar hollowe with bordes. And he made the lauer of brasse, and the foote of it also of brasse, in the sight of them that dyd watch at the doore with the Tabernacle of witnesse, & made the courte on the South side, and the hangynges of the courte were of white twined silke, hangynges an hundred cubites. The pillers were twenty, and their sockettes twenty of brasse: the knoppes of the pillers & their hoopes were of siluer. And on the North side the hangynges were an hundred cubites, & their pillers were twenty, and their sockettes of brasse twenty: but the knoppes and the hoopes of the pillers were of siluer. On the west side were hangynges of fifty cubites, ten pillers and their ten sockettes. On the East side the knoppes & the hoopes, of the pillers were of siluer. And the hangynges on the one side, were fifteene cubites, their pillers three, and their sockettes three. And on the other side, were hangynges of fifteene cubites, their pillers three, and their sockettes three. And for the courte gate was there an hangynge of twenty cubites long, with three pillers and three sockettes.

All the hangynges of the courte rounde about were of twined silke: but the sockettes of the pillers were of brasse, and were of siluer, and the couerynge of the heades was of siluer, and all the pillers of the courte were whoped about with siluer. And the hangynge of the gate of the courte was nedle worke of yelowe silke, purple, scarlet and white twined silke. xx. cubites longe, and five in the breadthe, ouer against the hangynges of the courte. And their pillers were foure, and their foure sockettes of brasse: and the knoppes of siluer, and heades ouerlaide with siluer, and whoped about with siluer. And all the pinnes of the Tabernacle and of the courte rounde about, were of brasse. This is the sum of the habitacion of witnes, as it was counted according to the commaundement of Moses, for the office of the Leuites, by the hande of Ithamar sonne to Aaron the Preest. And Bezaleel the sonne of Uri the sonne of Hur of the tribe of Iuda made all that the Lorde commaunded Moses, and Aholiab with him the baliph sonne of Ahisamech, of the tribe of Dan, a craftye grauer and a worker of nedle worke in yelowe silke, purple, scarlet, and white twined silke. All the golde that was occupied for all the worke of the holy place, was the golde of the offeryng, xxix. hundred weyght, and seuen hundred and xxx. sicles, after the sicle of the sanctuary. And the coyne of siluer that came of the multitude, was an hundred weyght, and a thousande seuen hundred and lxv. sicles, after the sicle of the sanctuary. For euery man an halfe weyght, or ten halfe sicles after the sicle of the sanctuary, for all them that went to be numbred from xx. yere olde and aboue, came for six hundreth thousand and three thousande & five hundred and l. men. And of the fine score hundred weyght of siluer, were made the sockettes of the sanctuary, and the couerynge of the nayle, an hundred sockettes of the fine score hundred weyght an hundred weyght to euery socket. And of the thousand seuen hundreth and lxv. sicles, he made knoppes to the pillers, and ouerlaide the heades and whoped them with siluer. And the brasse of the offeryng was lxx. hundred weyght, and two thousand, and iiij. hundreth sicles. And therwith he made vnto the entrynge in the dore of the Tabernacle of witnesse, and the brasen altar and the brasen grate for it, with all the vessels of the altar, & the sockettes of the courte rounde about, and the sockettes of the courte gate, and all the pinnes of the habitacion, and all the pinnes of the courte rounde about.

OF the yelowe silke, purple, scarlet, they made the wellbeseruers of ministracion in the sanctuary, & the holy garmentes commaunded Moses. And he made the Ephod of golde, yelowe silke, purple, scarlet, and white twined silke. And they did beate the golde into thinne plates, and cut it into wyers to worke it in the yelowe silke purple, scarlet, and in the fine white, with knoppes made of golde. And they made two sides for it to close them vp by the two endes. And the broderynge of the girdell that was vpon it, was of the same sorte, and after the same worke: of golde yelowe silke, purple scarlet, and twined white silke as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And they wrought Onix stones closed in ouches of golde, and grauen as signettes are grauen with the names of the children of Israell. And put them on the shoulders of the Ephod, that they shulde be stones for a remembraunce of the children of Israell, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And he made the breastlap of iudgement worke and like the worke of the Ephod: euen of golde, yelowe silke, purple, scarlet and twined white silke. It was foure square. They made the breastlappe double, an hand breadth longe, and an hand breadth broade. And they filled it with foure rowes of stones. The first rowe was a Sardine, a Topas, and a Smaragd. The seconde rowe, a Rube, a Saphir and a Diamonde. In the thirde rowe, a Ligurion, an Achat, and an Amatist. In the fourth rowe, a Tharsis, an Onix, and a Jaspis. And they were closed in ouches of golde in their inclosures. And the twelue stones were grauen as signettes with the names of the children of Israell: euery stone with his name, according vnto the twelue tribes. And they made vpon the breastlap, twen fashioned chaynes of twethen worke and pure golde. And they made two holes of golde, and two golden ringes, and put the two ringes in the two corners of the breastlappe. And they put the two chaynes of golde in the two ringes, in the corners of the breastlap. And the two endes of the two chaynes they fastened in the two holes, and put them on the shulders of the Ephod vpon the fore fronte of it. And they made two ringes of golde, and putte them on the two corners of the breastlappe vpon the edge of it, which was on the inside by the Ephod. And they made two golde ringes, and put them on the two sides of the Ephod, beneth vpon the fore parte of it, and ouer against his ioyninge vpon the broderynge of the Ephod. And they fastened the breastlappe by his ringes vnto the ringes of the Ephod, with a lace of yelowe silke that it might be vpon the broderynge of the Ephod, and that the breastlap shulde not be loosed from the Ephod, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And he made pole in the middes of the tunicle, as the coller of a partlet, with a bonde rounde about the coler, that it shuld not rent. And in the tunicle they made hemmes with pomgranates, of yelowe silke, purple, scarlet, and white twined silke. And they made litle bells of pure golde, and put them amonge the pomgranates rounde about vpon the edge of the tunicle: a bell and a pomgranate, a bell and a pomgranate rounde about the hemmes of the tunicle to minister in, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And they made coates of fine white of innen worke for Aaron and his sonnes, and a mitre of fine white, and goodly bonettes of fine white, and linen breches of twined white, and a girdel of twined white, yelowe silke, purple and scarlet: euen of noble worke, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And they made the plate of the holy crowne of fine golde, and wrote vpon it with grauen worke, the holines of the Lorde: and tied vnto it a lace of yelowe silke to fasten it vpon his mytre, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. Thus was all the worke of the habitacion and of the Tabernacle of witnesse finished: and the children of Israell did according vnto all the Lorde had commaunded Moses: euen so did they. And they brought the habitacion vnto Moses: the tents and all his apparell, hookes, boordes, barres, pilleres, and sockets: and the couerynge of rammes skinnes dyed red, and the couerynge of badgers skinnes, and the partycion vaile: the Arcke of witnesse and the barres thereof, and the mercie seate: the table and all the vessell thereof, and the shewe breade: the pure candelsticke, with the lampes therof, euen with the lampes to be prepared, and all the vessell therof, & the oile for light: the golden aulter, and the anoynting oile, & the sweete encense, and the hangynge at the Tabernacle dore: and the brasen aulter, with his couerynge of brasse, his barres, & all his vessell: the laver and his fote, and the hangynges of the court with his pilleres and sockets: and the hangynge to the courte gate, his cordes, and pynnes, and all the vessell of the seruice of the habitacion for the Tabernacle of witnesse: the minystringe clothes to serue in the holy place, the holy vestimentes for Aaron the priest, & his sonnes vestymentes to minister in the preesthode. Euen as the Lorde commaunded Moses, so did the children of Israell make all the worke. And Moses sawe all the worke, and lo, they had done it euen as the Lorde commaunded: so did they. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying, in the arke of witnesse, and cover the arke with the vaile, and bring in the table, and appoynt it accordynge to the order there of. And thou shalt bringe in the candlestycke, & lighte his lampes, and sette the sence aulta-re of golde before the arke of witnesse, & put the hangynge at the dore of the habitacion. And sette the burnte offeryng aultare before the doore of the habitacion and Tabernacle of witnesse, and sette the lauer betwene the Tabernacle of witnesse and the aultare, and put water therin, and make the courte rounde about, and hange up the hangynge at the courte gate. And thou shalt take the anoyntynge oyle, and anoynte the habitacion, and all that is therin, and halowe it with all the vessels therof, that it maye be holy. And thou shalt anoynte the aultare of the burnt offeryng, and all his vessels and sanctifie the aultar, that it maye be an aultare moste holye. And thou shalt anoynte also the lauer and his fote, and sanctifie it. And thou shalt bringe Aaron and his sonnes vnto the dore of the Tabernacle of witnesse, and washe them with water. And thou shalt cut vppon Aarons the holye vestimentes, and anoynte him, and sanctifie him that he maye minister vnto me. And thou shalt bringe his sonnes, and clothe them with garmentes, and anoynte them as thou dyddest anoynte their father, that they maye minister vnto me. For their anoyntynge shall be an everlastynge preesthode vnto them throughout their generacions. And Moses dyd accordynge to all the Lorde commaunded him: euen so dyd he.

Num. iij. a.

Thus was the Tabernacle reared vp the first daye in the first moneth in the seconde yere. And Moses reared vp the Tabernacle and fastened his sockettes, and set vp the bordes therof, and put in the barres of it and reared vp his pilleres, and spredde abrode the tent ouer the habitation, and put the couerynge of the tente on his vpper side: as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And he toke the testimony, and put it in the arke, and sette the barres to the arke, and put the mercy seate on his vpper side, & broughte the arke into the habitacion, and hanged vp the vaile, and couered the arke of witnesse, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And he put the Table in the Tabernacle of witnesse in the North side of the habitacion, without the vaile, and sette the breade in order before the Lorde, euen as the Lorde had commaunded Moses. And he put the candelsticke in the Tabernacle of witnesse ouer against the Table towarde the South side of the habitacion, and sette vp the lampes before the Lorde, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And he put the golden aulter in the Tabernacle of witnesse before the vaile, and burnte sweete sence theron, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And he hanged vp the hangynge at the dore of the habitacion, and sette the burnte offeryng aultare by the entrynge in of the habitacion of the Tabernacle of witnesse, and offered burnt offeryngs and meate offeryngs theron, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And he sette the lauer betwene the Tabernacle of witnesse and the aultare, and put wa-ter therin, to washe withall. And Moses, Aaron and his sonnes, washed their handes and their fete there at: when they went into the Tabernacle of witnesse, and when they went to the aultar: they washed them selues, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And he reared vp the courte rounde about the habitacion and the aultar, & sette vp an hangynge at the courte gate. So Moses fynished the worke.

Then the cloude couered the Tabernacle of witnesse, and the glorie of the Lorde filled the habitacion. And Moses coulde not entre in to the Tabernacle of witnesse, because the cloude abode there, & the glorie of the Lorde filled the habitacion. For the cloud had couered all. And when the cloude was rered vp from of the habitation, the children of Israel toke their iourneys thorow out their armies. But when the cloude was not taken vp, they iourned not, till it was taken vp. For the cloude of the Lorde was vpon the habitacion by daye, and fire by nighte, in the sighte of all the house of Israell, thorowout all their armies.

The first Chapiter.

And the Lorde called Moses, and spake vnto him out of the Tabernacle of witnesse, saynge: Exo. xxix. f.

Speake vnto the children of Israel, and thou shalt saye vnto them.

If any of you bringe a sacrifice vnto the Lorde, ye shall bringe your sacrifice from amonge the catell, euen from among the oxen and the sheepe. If his sacrifice be a burnt offeryng, let him offer a male of the oxen without blemish, and bringe him (of his owne voluntary will) vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of witnesse before the Lorde. And he shall put his hande vpon the heade of the burnt sacrifice, and it shall be accepted for him, to be his attonemente. And he shall kill the calfe of the neate before the Lorde. And the preestes Aarons sonnes, shall bringe the blood, and sprenkle it rounde about vpon the aultar, that is by the dore of the Tabernacle of witnesse. And they shall burne offerynge and bothe pull it awaye and the tonnes of Aaron the prieste shall dresse the fyre vpon the aultare, and put wodde vpon the fyre. And the prieste Aaronis sonnes shall laye the peeces (with the heade and the fatte) vpo the wodde that is vpon the fyre in the aultare But the inwardes and the legges shall he washed in water, and the prieste shall burne all on the aultare, that they maye be a burnt sacrifice for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And yf his sacrifice be of the flockes (namely of the sheepe or goates) let him prepare a male without blemishe for a burnt offeryng. And he shall kill it on the north side of the aultare before the Lorde. And the priestes Aaronis sonnes shall sprenkle the bloud of it rounde about vpon the aultare. And he shall cut it in peeces euen with his heades and fat, & the prieste shall put them vpon the wodde that lieth vpon the fire on the aultare.

But he shall washe the inwardes, and the legges with water, and the prieste shall bringe al together & burne it vpon the aultare for a burnt offeryng of a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde.
But the burne offeryng for the sacrifice of the heade be of the foules, he shall bringe his sacrifice of the turtill doues or of the younge pigeons. And the prieste shall bringe it vnto the aultare, and wringe the necke a sunder of it, but not pulle it of the aultare. But the bloude of it shall runne out vpon the side of the aultare. And he shall plucke away his croppe with his feathers, & cast the holde the aultare on the Eastside vpon the place of ashes. And he shall breake the wynges of it, but plucke them not a sunder. And the Priest shall burne it vpon the aultare, euen vpon the wodde that is vpon the fire, that it maye be a burnt sacrifice for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde.

The. v. Chapiter.

THe soule that will offer a meat offeryng vnto the Lorde, the same offeryng shal be fine floure, and he shall powre oyle vpon it, and put frankencense thereon, and shall bringe it vnto Aarons sonnes the Priestes.
And he shall take thereout his handfull of the floure, and of the oyle with all the frankencense, and the Priest shall burne it for a memoriall of him vpon the aultare, to be an offeryng for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde.
And the remnaunt of the meat offeryng shall be Aarons and his sonnes, a thynge most holy of the sacrifices of the Lorde made by fyre.
And when thou bringest a meat offeryng that is baken in the ouen, it be a swete cake of fine floure migled with oyle, or an vnleuened wafer anoynted with oyle. If thy meate offeryge be bakē in the fryngē pan, it shalbe of swete floure myngled with oyle. And thou shalt breake it small, and powre oyle theron, that it is a meat offeryng.

flocke, or of the heard, for a burnt offeryng, or for a peace offeryng, to offer it vnto the Lorde: he shall put his hande vpon the heade of his offeryng, and kill it before the doore of the tabernacle of witnesse, & Aarons sonnes the Priestes shall sprenkle the bloud thereof rounde about vpon the aultare.
And he shall offer of the peace offeryng a burnt offeryng vnto the Lorde, the fat that couereth the inwardes, and all the fat that is vpon the inwardes, And the two kydneis, and the fat that is vpon them, which is vpon the lendes, and the rimme of the liuer with the kydneis shall he take away. And Aarons sonnes shall burne it on the aultare vpon the burnt sacrifice which is vpon the wodde that is on the fire to be a burnt sacrifice of a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. If he bringe a peace offeryng vnto the Lorde from of the flocke, be it male or female: but without blemishe shall he offer it. If he offer a sheepe for his sacrifice, he shall bringe it before the Lorde, & put his hande vpon his offeryngs head, hath done any of these thynges, which the Lorde hath forbidden in his commaundementes to be done: If the priest that is anointed the aulter of swete sauour which is in the tabernacle of witnes, and shall powre all the bloude of the yonge oxe at the dore of the aulter of burnt offerynge which is at the dore of the Tabernacle of witnesse. And he shall take away all the fat of the yonge oxe from him, euen the fat that couereth the inwardes, and all the fat that is vpon the inwardes, & the two kidnees, & the fat that is vpon them, vpon the leines, and the huntaunder vpon the liuer that he shall take the oxe of the sacrifice of the peace offerynges.

And the priest shall burne them vpon the aulter of burnt offerynge. But the skynne of the yonge oxe, & all the flesh with his head, & his leggs, with his wambe, & his dunge, shall he beare out, and cast them out at the place where the ashes are cast out, and he burne them vpon the wode with fyre: where the ashes are cast out shall they be burnt. And the priest shall make an atonement for them, and it shall be forgeuen them. And he shall bringe this yonge oxe without the hoste, and burne him as he burned the first oxe. For it is an oblacion for the sinne of the congregacion. When a ruler hath sinned, and committed ouersyght in any of these thynges (which the Lorde his God hath forbidden to be done in the commaundementes) and hath offended: and his synne be turned vnto him which he hath done, he shall bringe his offerynge: euen an hande vpon the head of the he goate, and kill him in the place where the burnt offerynge is wont to be killed before the Lorde: for it is and put it vpon the hornes of the hoste of the aulter of burnt offerynge, and powre the bloude at the bottome of the hoste of the burnt offerynge aulter, and burne all his fat vpon the aulter to him, or deale vnto his neighbour that which was taken him to kepe, or that was put into his handes, or doeth violet robberie or wrong vnto his neighbour, or if he haue found that which was lost, and denieth it, and sweareth falsely vpon whatsoeuer thing it be that a man doeth, and sinneth therin: If he haue so sinned or trespased, he shall restore again that he took violently away, or the wrong which he did or that which he was delyuered him to kepe, or the lost thing which he found, or all that about which he hath sworn falsely, he shall restore it again in the whole summe, & shal adde the fift part more therto, and giue it vnto him to whom it pertaineth, the same date that he offereth for his trespace, and let him bring for his trespace vnto the Lorde a ram without blemishe out of the flocke (that is esteemed worth a trespace offeryng) vnto the priest. And the priest shall make an attonement for him before the lorde, and it shalbe forgeuen him, what soeuer thing that it be that he hath done and trespased therin. And the lorde spake vnto Moses, saiyng: Commaunde Aaron and his sonnes, saiyng: This is the laime of the burnt offeryng. The burnt offeryng shalbe vpon the harth of the aultar all night vnto the morning, & the fire shalbe kindled on the aultar. And the priest shall put on his linnen albe, and his linnen breches vpon his leame, and take away the asches vpon the which the fire consumed the burnt offeryng on the aultar, and he shall put them beside the aultar, & put of his rayment, and put on other, and cary the asches out vnto a pure place without the tentes. The fire vpon the aultar shall burne therin, & neuer be put out. And the priest shall laye wood on it euery daye in the morning, and put the burnt sacrifice vpon it, and he shall burne therupon the fatte of the peace offeryngs. The fire shall euer burne vpon the aultar, and neuer go out. This is the laime of the meate offeryng: which Aarons sonnes shall bring before the Lord, euen before the aultar, and sweete them. And take his handfull of the floure of the meate offeryng, and of the oyle, and all the frankencense which is vpon the meate offeryng, and shall burne it vnto a remembraunce vpon the aultar for a sweete sauoure, euen a memorial of it vnto the Lorde. And of the rest therof, shall Aaron & his sonnes eate: vnleuened shal it be eaten in the holy place: euen in the court of the tabernacle of witnesse they shall eate it. It shall not be baken with leuen. I haue geuen it vnto them for their portion of my sacrifices. It is most holy as is the sinne offeryng and trespace offeryng. All the males among the children of Aaron shall eate of it: It shalbe a statute for euer in your generacions concerning the sacrifice of the Lorde. Euery one that toucheth it, he shalbe holy. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saiyng: This is the offeryng of Aaron and of his sonnes which they shall offer vnto the Lorde in the daye when he is anoynted: the tenth part of an Epha of floure, for a meate offeryng perpetuall: half in the morning and halfe in the night: In the frying pan it shalbe made with oyle. And when it is fried thou shalt bring it in, & the baken offeryngs of thy oblacion minced small, shalt thou offer for a sweete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And the priest of his sonne that is annoynted in his steade shall offer it. It is the Lordes dutie for euer: it shall be burnte altogether. For euery meate offeryng that is made for the priest, shalbe burnt altogether and shall not be eaten. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saiyng: Speake vnto Aaron, and vnto his sonnes, and saye: This is the laime of the sinne offeryng. In the place where the burnt offeryng is killed, shall the sinne offeryng be killed before the Lord, for it is most holy. The priest that offereth it, shall eate it: In the holy place shall it be eaten: Euen in the court of the tabernacle of witnesse. No man touche the fleshe therof, leaue he that is halowed. And whose sprinkleth of the bloud therof vpon any garment, thou shalt washe it in the holy place, there as it is sprinkled vpon. But the earthen pot that it is soden in, shalbe broken. And if it be soden in a brasen pot, it shalbe scoured and rynsed in the water. All the males among the priestes shall eate therof, for it is most holy. And no sinne offeryng, whose bloud is brought into the Tabernacle of witnesse to reconcile withall in the holy place, shalbe eaten: but shalbe burnt in the fire.

The.vi. Chapter.

This is the laime of trespasse offeryng, it is most holy. In the place where they kyll the burnt offeryng, shall they kyll the trespasse offeryng also, and his bloud shall be sprinkle round about vpon the aultar. All the fatte therof shall they offer: The lappe and the fat therof that cometh the inwardes and the two kidnies, and the tarrish that is on them and vpon the loynes: and the abundaunce that is on the liuer shalt thou take away with the kydnes, and the priest shall burne them vpon the aultar, to be a sacrifice vnto the Lorde for it is a trespasse offeryng. All the males among the priestes shall eate therof in the holy place for it is most holy. As the sinne offeryng is, so is the trespasse offeryng, one laime serueth for both, and it shalbe the priestes that reconcileth therwith. And the priest that offereth any mans burnt offeryng shall haue the skynne of the burnt offeryng which he hath offered. And all the meate offeryng that is baken in the ouen and that is dressed vpon the gredyron, and in the frying pan, shall be the priestes that offereth it: and euery meate offering that is mingled with oyle and that is dry, shall pertaine vnto all the sonnes of Aaron, and one shall haue as muche as another.

The lawe of the peace offering, whereby diuers vnto the Lorde. 7

This is the lawe of the peace offering, which they offer vnto the Lorde. If he offer it by reason of thankes, he shall offer vnleuened cakes tempered with oyle, and vnleuened wafers anointed with oyle, and cakes made of the floure of fine wheate ytoste and tempered with oyle. Vpon cakes of leuened bread shall he bring his offering vpon the sacrifice of his peace offering of thankes. And of euery one of them shall he offer one for an heue offering vnto the Lorde, and shall giue it vnto the priest that sprinkleth the bloud of the peace offerings, and the same priest shall haue the flesh of the peace offering, that is offered for thankes, vnto him selfe. And if his offering be a vowe, or a free offering, it shall be eaten the same day that he offereth his sacrifice: and on the morowe shall the remnaunt be eaten. But the remnaunt of the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace offering the third day, shall be burnt with fire. And if any of the flesh of his peace offerings be eaten in the third daye, then shall he that offereth it obtaine no fauour, neither shall it be reckened vnto him, but shalbe an abomination. And the soule that eateth of it, shall beare his sinne.

Of the flesh that toucheth any vncleane thing, shall not be eaten, but shalbe burnt with fire: and all true & cleane shall eate the flesh of it. But the soule of the man that eateth of the flesh of the peace offering that pertaineth vnto the Lorde hauing his vncleanesse vpon him, the same soule shall perish from amongst his people. Moreouer, the soule that both touch any vncleane thing, that is of the vncleanesse of man, or of any vncleane beaste, or any abominable thing, & eateth of the flesh of the peace offering that pertaineth vnto the Lorde hauing his vncleanesse vpon him, the same soule shall perish from amongst his people. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say: Ye shall eate no maner of fat, of oxe, or of sheepe, or of goate. The fat of that which dieth of it selfe, and the fat of that which is torne with wylde beastes, maye be occupied in any seruice: but ye shall in no wise eate of it. For whosoeuer eateth the fat of the beaste of which men vse to bring an offering vnto the Lorde, euen the soule that eateth it, shall perish from amongst his people. Moreouer, ye shall eate no maner of bloude, whether it be of foule or of beaste, in whatsoeuer place ye dwell in. Whatsoeuer soule it be that eateth any maner of bloude, the same soule shall perish from amongst his people. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto the children of Israel, saying: He that offereth the sacrifice of his peace offerings vnto the Lorde, let him bring his gift vnto the Lorde of his peace offerings. Let his owne handes bring vpon the offerings of the Lorde the fat with the breast, that the breast may be waued for a waue offering before the Lorde. And the priest shall burne the fat vpon the aulter, but the breast shall Aaron and his sonnes haue. And ye shall giue vnto the priest Eleazar and vnto Ithamar his sonnes the right shoulder of your peace offerings. He that offereth the bloud of the peace offerings, and the fat among the sonnes of Aaron, shall haue the right shoulder for his parte. For the waue breast and the heue shoulder haue I taken of the children of Israel, out of their peace offerings, and haue geuen it vnto Aaron the priest, and vnto his sonnes by a statute for euer of the children of Israel. This is the anointing of Aaron and the anointing of his sonnes in the sacrifices of the Lorde, in the daye when he caused them to come to minister the Lorde in the office of the priestes: which the Lorde commanded to be geuen them in the day that he anointed them, of the children of Israel by a statute for euer in their generations. This is the lawe of the burnt offering and of the meate offering, and of the sacrifice for sinne, and for the trespasse, for consecration, and for the peace offering: which the Lorde commanded Moses in the mount of Sinay, when he commaunded the children of Israel to offer their sacrifices vnto the Lorde in the wildernesse of Sinay.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Take Aaron and his sonnes with him, and the vestures and the anoynting oyle, and a young oxe for sinne, and two rammes, and a basket with swete bread: and gather thou all the congregation together vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse. And Moses did as the Lorde commaunded him: and the people gathered together vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse. And Moses said vnto the people: This is the thing which the Lorde commaunded to be done. And Moses brought Aaron and his sonnes, and washed them with water. And he put vpon him the coate, and girded him with a girdle, and put vpon him the mantle, and put the Ephod thereon, and girded him with the broidered girdle of the Ephod, and bounde vnto him therewith. Moses burnt the ram euery whit vpon the

The .ix. Chapiter.

AND it fortuned that in the eight daye H.
Moses called Aaron and his sonnes, and the elders of Israell: and sayed vnto Aaron: take the a calfe a yonge one out of the droue, for sinne, and a ram for a burnt offryng both without blemishe, and bring them before the Lorde. And vnto the children of Israel thou shalt speake, saying: take ye an he goate for sinne, and a calfe, and a lambe both two of a yeare olde, without blemishe, for a burnt sacrifice, and an Oxe and a ram, for peace of-fryngs, to offer before the Lorde, and a meate offryng mingled with oyle: for to day the Lorde will appeare vnto you. And they I. brought that (which Moses commaunded) before the tabernacle of witnes, and all the congregacion came & stode before the Lorde.
And Moses sayed: this is the thing which the Lorde commaunded that ye myght do: and the glory of the Lord shal appeare vnto you.
* And Moses sayed vnto Aaron: go vnto the Heb. v. a. aultar and offer thy sacrifice for sinne, and viii. a. make an attonement for thy selfe and for the people: And thou shalt offer the offryng of the people, to reconcile them, as the Lord commaunded. Aaron therfore went vnto the aul-tar, and slewe the calfe which he had for sinne. And the sonnes of Aaron brought the bloude vnto him, and he dipte his finger in the bloude, and put it vpon the hornes of the aultar, and powred the bloud vnto the botom of the vnlcane. But the fat and the two kidneys and the abundance of the lyuer of the sinne offerynge, he burnt vpon the aulter as the Lorde commaunded Moses: The hyde and the fyre he burnt with fyre without the hoste. And he slewe the burnt offerynge, and * Aarons sonne brought vnto him the bloud, whiche he sprinkled rounde about vpon the aulter. And they brought the burnt offeryng vnto him with the peces therof and the head, and he burnt it vpon the aulter. And did washe the inwardes and the legges, and burnt them vpon the burnt offeryng on the aulter. And then he brought the peoples offeryng, taking the goate that the people had for the sacrifice of sinne, and slewe it and offered it for sinne, as he did the first. And brought the burnt offeryng, and offered it after the maner. * And brought the meate offeryng, & filled his hand therof, & burnt it vpon the aulter, beside the burnt sacrifice of the morning. He slewe also the Oxe and the Ram for the peace offeryng, that the people had for them selues: and Aarons sonne brought vnto him the bloud, whiche he sprinkled vpon the aulter rounde about, and tooke the fat of the Oxe and of the Ram the rumpe, and the fat that coueryth the inwardes and the kidneis, and the abundance of the lyuer, and they put the fat vpon the breastes, and he burnt the fat vpon the aulter: but the breastes and the right shulder Aaron waued for a waue offeryng before the Lorde, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And Aaron lyft vp his handes ouer the people, and blessed them, and came downe from offeryng of the sinne offeryng, burnt offerynges and peace offerynges. And Moses and Aaron went into the tabernacle of witnesse and came out, and blessed the people, and the glorie of the Lorde appeared vnto all the people. ¶ And there came a fire out from before the Lorde, and consumed vpon the aulter the burnt offeryng and the fat: Whiche when all the people sawe, they gaue thankes, and fell on their faces.

* And Nadab & Abihu, the sonnes of Aaron, tooke either of them his censer, & put fire therin, and put sens thereupon, and offered straunge fire before the Lorde, * whiche he commaunded them not, and there went a fire out from the Lorde, and consumed them, and they died before the Lorde. Then Moses sayd vnto Aaron: this is it that the lord spake, saying: I will be sanctified in them that come me me, and before all the people I will be glorified. And Aaron held his peace. And Moses called Mishael and Elisaphan the sonnes of Oziell the brother of Aaron, and sayde vnto them: come on, carry your brethren from the holy place out of the hoste. And they went in them, and caried them in their sleues out of the hoste, as Moses had sayd. And Moses sayd vnto Aaron and vnto Eleazar and Ithamar his sonnes: vncouer not your heades, neither rent your clothes, lest ye die, and lest wrath come vpon all the people: but let your brethren the hole house of Israell bemone the burnyng which the Lorde hath kindled. And go not ye one from the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse, lest ye die: for the anoyntyng oyle of God is vpon you. And they did as Moses sayd. And the Lorde spake vnto Aaron, saying: Drinke not wine nor strong drinke, thou and thy sonne that are with the, when ye go into the tabernacle of witnesse, lest ye die. It shall be a lawe for euer thorowout your generacions, and that ye may haue knowledge to put difference betwene holy and vnholy, betwene cleane and vncleane, and that ye may teache the children of Israel all the statutes whiche the Lorde hath spoken vnto them by the handes of Moses. And Moses sayde vnto Aaron and vnto Eleazar and Ithamar his sonnes that were left: Take the meate offeryng that remaineth of the sacrifices of the Lorde, and bake it without leuen beside the aulter: for it is most holyge. And eate it in the holy place, because it is thy dutie and thy sonnes dutie geuen out of the sacrifice of the Lorde for so I am commaunded. And the wauebrest and heue shulder ye shall eate in a cleane place, thou and thy sonnes and thy doughters with the. For they be thy dutie and thy sonnes dutie geuen out of the peace offerynges of the children of Israel. The heue shulder & the wauebrest shall they bring in with the sacrifices of the fat, to waue it before the Lorde, and it shalbe thine and thy sonnes with the by a lawe for euer, as the Lorde hath commaunded. And Moses sought the goate that was offered for sinne, and se, it was burnt. And he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar the sonnes of Aaron which were left aliue, saying: wherfore haue ye not eaten the sinne offerynge in the holy place, seing it is most holy: and God hath geuen it you, to beare the sinne of the congregation, to make agremet for them before the lord. Behold, the bloud of it was not brought in within the holy place: ye should haue eaten it in the holy place, as I commaunded. And Aaron sayd vnto Moses: behold, this day haue they offered their sinne offerynge and their burnt offeryng before the Lord, and it is chaunced me after this maner. And if I had eaten the sacrifice to day, should it haue bene accepted in the sight of the Lord? And when Moses hearde that, he was content.

cutel that are on the ende: whatsoeuer parteth the hote, and deuideth it into twoo clawes, & chaweth cud among the beastes, that shall ye eate. Neuertheles, those shal ye not eate, of them that chewe cud, and deuideth the hote: as is the Camel, which chaweth cud, but he deuideth not the hote, therefore is he vncleane vnto you. Also the hare, though he chaweth the cud, yet he vncleane, he deuideth not the hote, he is therefore vncleane to you. And again, the Swyne though he deuide the hote into twa clawes, yet he chaweth not the cud. Hee is vncleane to you. Of their flesh shal ye not eate, and their carkeses shall ye not touche, but let them be vncleane to you. These shall ye eate of all that are in the waters: whatsoeuer hath finnes & scales in the waters, seas, and ryuers, that shall ye eate. And all that haue not finne and scales in the seas, and ryuers, of all that moue and liue in the waters, let them be abhominables vnto you: Ye shall not eate of their flesh, but abhorre their carkases. Let all that haue no finnes nor scales in the seas, be abhominable vnto you. These are they, which ye shal abhorre among the foules, and that ought not to be eaten, for they are an abhominacion. The eagle, the gorbanke and the cormorante, the vulture, and the kyte after hys kynde: and all Rauens after their kynde: the Ostriche, the Nyghtcrowe, the cuckowe, and the aules after hys kinde, the falcon, the Cooke, the great owle, the swanne, the pelicane, the pie, the heron, the Faye after his kynde, the lapwynge and the chamelion. And all foules that crepe and goo vpon all foure, be an abhominacion vnto you.

These may ye eate, of euery creeping thing that hath wynges and goo vpon foure: euen them that haue knees aboue vpon their feet, to leape withall vpon the earth. Euen these of them ye may eate: the Locuste after his kynde, the Solam after his kinde, and the Hagab after his kinde, & all other foules that moue & haue foure feete, shalbe abhominable vnto you. In such ye be vncleane, and whosoeuer toucheth the carkas of them, shall be vncleane vnto the euen: and whosoeuer beareth the carkas of them, shall washe his clothes and be vncleane vntill euen. And euery beaste that hath hoofes & deuideth it not into the clawes, nor chaweth cudde, such are vncleane vnto you: euery one that toucheth them, shalbe vncleane. And whatsoeuer goeth vpon his paunches among all manner beastes that go on all foure, for such are vncleane vnto you: and whosoeuer toucheth their carkas, shall be vncleane vntill the euen. And he that beareth them, and be vncleane vntil the euen, for such are vncleane vnto you. And let these also be vncleane to you among the thynges that creepe vpon the earth, the weasel, and the mouse, and the toode, after their kinde, the hedgehog, the Bellio, the lacerte, the snayle, and the mollet. These are vncleane to you among all that crepe whosoeuer doth touche them when they be dead, shalbe vncleane vntil the euen. And whatsoeuer any of the dead carkaises of them doth fall vpon, shalbe vncleane: whether it be vessel of wood, or rayment, or skynne, or sacke, or whatsoeuer vessell it be that any worke is wrought in. And it must be plunged in the water, and it shalbe vncleane vntill the euen, and so shall it be clensed. All manet of yeare then vessell wherunto any of them falleth, shalbe vncleane, with all that therein is: and it shalbe broken. All maner meate also that is vsed to be eaten, if any suche water come vpo, it shalbe vncleane. And all maner drinke that is vsed to be dronke in all maner suche vessels shalbe vncleane. And euery thyng that their carkas falleth vpon, shalbe vncleane. Whether it be ouen or kettel, let it be broke. For they are vncleane, and shalbe vncleane vnto you. Neuertheless, yet the fountaynes and welles and collection of waters shalbe cleane still: but whoso toucheth their carkases, shalbe vncleane. If the dead carkases any suche fall vpon any seede vsed to sowe, it shall yet be cleane still: but and if any water be poured vpon the seede, and a dead carkasse fall theron, it shalbe vncleane vnto you. If any beaste of whiche ye may eate, die and any man touche the dead carkas therof, he shalbe vncleane vntill the euen, he that eateth of the dead carkas of it, shall washe his clothes & be vncleane vntill the euen. And he also that beareth the carkas of it, shal washe his clothes, and be vncleane vntill euen. Let euery creeping thyng that creepeth vpon the yearth be an abhominacion, and not be eaten. Whatsoeuer goeth vpon the breste and whatsoeuer goeth vpon foure, or that hath mo feete among all creeping thinges that crepe vpon the yearth, of them ye eate not, for they are abhominable ye shall not make your soules abhominable with nothyng that creepeth, neyther make your selues vncleane with them: that ye should be defiled therby. For I am the Lorde your God. Be sanctified therfore and ye shalbe holy, for I am holy: ye shall not defile your soules with any maner of creeping thyng, that creepeth vpon the yearth. For I am the Lorde that brought you out of the lande of Egypte, to be your God, ye shalbe holy therfore, for I am holy. This is the lawe of beastes and foules, and of euery liuyng creature that moueth in the waters, & of euery creature that creepeth vpon the yearth: that ye may be able to discerne betwene the vncleane and cleane, and betweene the beast that may be eaten, and the beast that ought not to be eaten.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saynge: Speake vnto the children of Israel, & say: If a woman haue conceaued, and beare a manchilde, she shalbe vncleane seuen dayes, euen in the maner as when she is put a paste in time of her naturall disease. And in the eight daye the childe of the childpeece foreskynne shalbe circumcised. And she shall then continue in the bloud of her purifying .xxxiij. dayes and three dayes. She shall touche no halowed thynge, nor come into the sanctuary, vntil the tyme of her purifying be out. If she beare a maydechylde, she shalbe vncleane .ij. weekes, as when she hath her naturall disease. And she shal continue in the bloude of her purifying .lxvj. dayes. And when the dayes of her purifying are out, whether it be for a sonne or for a doughter, she shall bring a lambe of one yeares olde for a burnt offering, and a yonge pigeon or a turtil doue for synne vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnes vnto the priest: Which shal offer them before the Lorde, and make an attonement for her, and she shalbe pure out of the fluxe of her bloud. This is the lawe for her that hath borne a male or female. But and if she be not able to bring a lambe, she shall bringe two turtils or two yonge pigeons: the one for the burnt offering, and the other for synne. And the priest shall make an attonement for her, & she shalbe cleane.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses & Aaron, saying: When there appeareth a rysing in any mans flesh, either a scabbe or a fleckie spotte, and the plage of leprosy be sene vpon the skynne of his flesh, then shall he be brought vnto Aaron the priest, or vnto one of his sonne the priestes: & the priest shall loke on the plage vpon the skynne of his flesh. And when the heare is turned white in the plage, and the plage appeareth deeper then the skynne of his flesh, it is a plage of leprosy: and the priest shall loke on him, and iudge him vncleane. If there be yet a white fleckie in the skynne of his flesh, and seme not to be lower then the skynne, nor the heare thereof is turned white, the priest shall shut him vp seuen dayes. And the priest shall loke vpon him agayne the seuenth day. And if the plage seme to him to abide styll, and the plage grow not in the skynne, the priest shal shut him vp yet seuen dayes more. And the priest shal loke on him agayne the seuenth daye. And if the plage be paler, & not growen in the skynne, the priest shal iudge him cleane, for it is but a skirfe. And he shall wash his clothes, & be cleane. But if the skirfe grow ought at all in the skynne after that he is come to the priest agayne. If the priest se that the skirfe be growen abrode in the skynne, the priest shall make him vncleane: it is a leprosy. When the plage of the leprosy is in a man, he shall be brought vnto the priest, and the priest shall se him. And if the swellyng be white in the skin, and make the heare white, & there be alsoo quycke flesh in the rysing: it is a leprosy in the skynne of his flesh, and the priest shall make him vncleane, and shall not shut him vp: for he is vncleane. If a leprosy breake out abrode in the skynne, and couer all the skynne from his head to his foote, where soeuer the priest loketh, and the priest loke vpon him, & the leprosy haue couered all his flesh, he shall iudge the plaged to be cleane: forasmuch as all turned into white, he shalbe cleane. But and if there be quycke flesh in him, whe he is sene, he shalbe vncleane. And the priest shall se the quycke flesh, and iudge him to be vncleane. For the quycke flesh is vncleane, for it is a leprosy. Or if the quycke flesh departe againe and change vnto white: he shall come to the priest, and the priest shall se him, and beholde: If the plage be turned vnto white: then shall the priest iudge the plaged to be cleane: & he shalbe cleane.

If any flesh haue in it a boyle, and it be healed, and in the place of the boyle there appeare a rysing white, or a bright spotte, somwhat reddish, and it be shewed vnto the priest: And if when the priest seeth it, it be lower then the skynne, and the heare thereof be chaunged vnto white: the priest shall iudge him vncleane: for it is a plage of leprosy, broken out of the boyle. But and if the priest loke on it, & there be no white heares therin, & it be not lower then the skynne, but be somwhat dimme: then the priest shall shut him vp seuen dayes. If it spreade abrode in the skynne, the priest shall iudge him vncleane: it is a plage. But if the bright spotte remayne in his place, & spreade not, it is but a swellyng of the boyle: and the priest shall iudge him cleane.

Or if any flesh haue in it a burnyng of fyre, and the quycke flesh that burneth haue a bright spotte, somwhat reddish or white: the priest shall loke on it, & if the heare in the bright spotte be turned white, & it be lower then the other skynne, it is a plage of leprosy, broken out of the burnyng: wherfore the priest shall iudge him vncleane: for it is the plage of leprosy. But if the priest se therin no white heares, & it be not lower then the skynne, but be somwhat dimme: then the priest shall shut him vp seuen dayes. And the priest shall loke vpon it the seuenth day. If it spreade abrode in the skynne, the priest shall iudge him vncleane: it is a plage of leprosy. But if the bright spotte remayne in his place, & spreade not in the skynne, but be somwhat dimme: it is a rysing of the burnyng, & the priest shall iudge him cleane: for it is but a burnyng of the fyre.

Or if a man or woman haue a plage vpon the heade or beard: then the priest shall se the plage: & if it be lower then the other skynne, & there be in it yelowe thynne heare: then the priest shall iudge him vncleane: it is a skabbe, even a leprosy vpon the heade or beard. And when he seeth the plage of the skabbe, that it is lower then the skynne, & there be no blacke heare therin: the priest shall shut vp him that hath the plage of the skabbe seuen dayes. And the priest shall loke on the plage the seuenth day: & if the skabbe spreade not, & there be no yelowe heare therin, & the skabbe be not lower then the skynne: he shall shaue himself, but the skabbe shall he not shaue: & the priest shall shut vp him that hath the skabbe seuen dayes more. And the priest shall loke on the skabbe the seuenth day: & if the skabbe spreade abrode in the skynne, & be lower then the skynne: the priest shall iudge him vncleane: he is vncleane. But if the skabbe be at a stay in his sight, & there be blacke heare growen therin: the skabbe is healed, he is cleane, & the priest shall iudge him cleane.

If a man or woman haue in the skynne of their flesh bright spottes, euen white spottes: then the priest shall se: & if the bright spottes in the skynne of their flesh be somwhat darke white, it is a white skirfe that groweth in the skynne, he is cleane.

And the man whose heare is fallen of his head, he is bald, yet is he cleane. And if his heare be fallen of his head toward his face, he is forehead bald, yet is he cleane. But if there be in the bald head or forehead bald a white or reddish plage: it is a leprosy breaking out in his bald head or forehead bald. Then the priest shall se him: & if the rysing of the plage be white or reddish in his bald head or forehead bald, as the leprosy appeareth in the flesh of the skynne: he is a leprous man, he is vncleane, & the priest shall vtterly make him vncleane: his plage is in his head. And the leprous man in whom the plage is, his clothes shall be rent, & his head bare, & he shall put a couerynge vpon his vpper lippe, & crye: Vncleane, vncleane. All the dayes wherin the plage is in him, he shalbe vncleane: for he is vncleane. He shall dwell alone, & without the hoste shall his habitacion be.

The garment also wherin the plage of leprosy is, whether it be a woollen garment or a linnen garment, whether it be in the warpe or woofe of linnen or of woollen, whether it be in a skynne or in any thynge made of skynne: if the plage be greene or reddish in the garment or in the skynne, whether it be in the warpe or woofe of linnen or of woollen, or in any thynge of skynne: it is a plage of leprosy, & shalbe shewed vnto the priest. And the priest shall se the plage, & shut vp that which hath the plage seuen dayes. And he shall loke on the plage the seuenth day: if the plage be spredde abrode in the garment, either in the warpe or woofe, or in the skynne, or in any thynge made of skynne: the plage is a fretting leprosy, & it is vncleane. He shall therfore burne the garment, whether warpe or woofe of woollen or of linnen, or any thynge of skynne wherin the plage is: for it is a fretting leprosy, & shall be burnt in the fyre. But if the priest se, & the plage be not spredde abrode in the garment, either in the warpe or woofe, or in any thynge of skynne: he shall commaunde that they wash the thynge wherin the plage is, & shut it vp seuen dayes more. And the priest shall loke on it after that it is washed: & if the plage haue not changed his colour, & the plage be not spredde abrode, it is vncleane: thou shalt burne it in the fyre: for it is fretted inwardly, whether it be bare within or without. And if the priest se, & the plage be paler after the washyng: he shall cut it out of the garment, or of the skynne, or of the warpe, or of the woofe. And if it appeare yet in the garment, either in the warpe or woofe, or in any thynge of skynne: it is a spreadyng plage. Thou shalt burne that wherin the plage is. The garment, either warpe or woofe, or any thynge of skynne which thou shalt wash, if the plage be departed from it, shalbe washed the seconde time, & then shalbe cleane. This is the lawe of the plage of leprosy in a garment of woollen or of linnen, either in warpe or woofe, or any thynge of skynne, to pronounce it cleane or vncleane.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: This shalbe the lawe of the leper, when he is to be cleansed: He shall be brought vnto the priest, and the priest shall go out of the hoste, & se: & if the leper be healed of the plage of leprosy, then shall the priest commaunde to take for him that is to be cleansed, two liue cleane birdes, & cedre tree, & skarlet, & isope. And the priest shall commaunde to kyll the one of the birdes in a vessell of earth ouer runnyng water. Then shall he take the liue birde, & the cedre tree, & the skarlet, & the isope, & dippe them & the liue birde in the bloude of the birde that was killed ouer the runnyng water, & sprenkle vpon him that is to be cleansed of the leprosy seuen tymes, & pronounce him cleane, & let the liue birde flye out into the fielde. And he that is to be cleansed shall wash his clothes, & shaue of all his heare, & wash himself in water, that he may be cleane. After that he shall come into the hoste, & shall tarye without his tente seuen dayes. And the seuenth day he shall shaue of all his heare of his head, his beard, & his eye brows, & all his heare: & wash his clothes, & bathe his flesh in water, & he shalbe cleane. And on the eight day he shall take two lambes without blemysh, & one yeare olde ewe without blemysh, & three tenth deales of fyne flower for a meate offering, myngled with oyle, & one log of oyle. And the priest that maketh him cleane shall set the man that is to be cleansed, & those thynges before the Lorde in the dore of the tabernacle of witnes. And the priest shall take one lambe, & offer him for a trespasse offering, & the log of oyle, & waue them before the Lorde. And he shall kyll the lambe in the place where he killeth the synne offering & the burnt offering, in the holy place: for as the synne offering is the priestes, so is the trespasse offering: it is most holy. And the priest shall take of the bloude of the trespasse offering, & the priest shall put it vpon the tippe of the right eare of him that is to be cleansed, & vpon the thombe of his right hande, & vpon the great toe of his right foote. And the priest shall take of the log of oyle, & powre it into the left hande of the priest. And the priest shall dippe his right finger in the oyle that is in his left hande, & sprenkle of the oyle with his finger seuen tymes before the Lorde. And of the remnaunt of the oyle that is in his hande shall the priest put vpon the tippe of the right eare of him that is to be cleansed, & vpon the thombe of his right hande, & vpon the great toe of his right foote, vpon the trespasse offering of the bloude. And the remnaunt of the oyle that is in the priestes hande, he shall put vpon the head of him that is to be cleansed, to make an attonement for him before the Lorde. And he shall offer the synne offering, & make an attonement for him that is to be cleansed of his vncleanesse. And afterwarde he shall kyll the burnt offering, & offer the burnt offering & the meate offering vpon the altare before the Lorde, & make an attonement for him, & he shalbe cleane.

But if he be poore, & can not get so much, then he shall take but one lambe for a trespasse offering to be waued, to make an attonement for him, & one tenth deale of fyne flower myngled with oyle for a meate offering, & a log of oyle, & two turtils or two yonge pigeons, such as he is able to get: & the one shall be a synne offering, & the other a burnt offering. And he shall bringe them on the eight day for his cleansyng vnto the priest, vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnes before the Lorde. And the priest shall take the lambe of the trespasse offering, & the log of oyle, & waue them before the Lorde. And he shall kyll the lambe of the trespasse offering, & the priest shall take of the bloude of the trespasse offering, & put it vpon the tippe of the right eare of him that is to be cleansed, & vpon the thombe of his right hande, & vpon the great toe of his right foote. And the priest shall powre of the oyle into the left hande of the priest. And the priest shall sprenkle with his right finger of the oyle that is in his left hande seuen tymes before the Lorde. And the priest shall put of the oyle that is in his hande vpon the tippe of the right eare of him that is to be cleansed, & vpon the thombe of his right hande, & vpon the great toe of his right foote, vpon the bloude of the trespasse offering. And the remnaunt of the oyle that is in the priestes hande, he shall put vpon the head of him that is to be cleansed, to make an attonement for him before the Lorde. And he shall offer the one of the turtils or of the yonge pigeons, such as he is able to get: the one for a synne offering, & the other for a burnt offering, with the meate offering. And the priest shall make an attonement before the Lorde for him that is to be cleansed.

This is the lawe of him in whom is the plage of leprosy, whose hande is not able to get that which pertayneth vnto his cleansyng.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses & Aaron, saying: When ye are come into the lande of Canaan, which I geue vnto you for a possession, & I put a plage of leprosy in a house of the lande of your possession: then he that hath the house shall come & tell the priest, saying: It semeth me as though there were a plage in my house. And the priest shall commaunde that they cary out the thynges out of the house, before he go into it to se the plage, that all that is in the house be not made vncleane: & afterwarde the priest shall go in to se the house. And he shall se the plage: & if the plage be in the walles of the house with hollow strakes, greene or reddish, & it appeare lower then the wall: then the priest shall go out of the house to the dore of the house, & shut the house vp seuen dayes. And the priest shall come the seuenth day & se: & if the plage be spredde abrode in the walles of the house, then the priest shall commaunde that they take out the stones in which the plage is, & cast them into an vncleane place without the citie. And he shall cause the house within rounde about to be scraped, & they shall powre out the dust that they scrape off without the citie into an vncleane place. And they shall take other stones, & put them in the stede of those stones: & he shall take other morter, & plaster the house. And if the plage come again & breake out in the house, after that he hath taken away the stones, & after that the house was scraped & plastered: then the priest shall come & se: & if the plage be spredde abrode in the house, it is a fretting leprosy in the house, & it is vncleane. He shall therfore breake downe the house, the stones of it, & the timber of it, & all the morter of the house, & cary them out of the citie into an vncleane place. Moreouer he that goeth into the house all the while that it is shut vp, shalbe vncleane vntil the euen. And he that lyeth in the house shall wash his clothes: & he that eateth in the house shall wash his clothes. And if the priest come in, & se: & if the plage be not spredde abrode in the house after that the house was plastered: then the priest shall pronounce the house cleane, for the plage is healed. And he shall take to cleanse the house two birdes, & cedre tree, & skarlet, & isope. And he shall kyll the one of the birdes in a vessell of earth ouer runnyng water. Then shall he take the cedre tree, & the isope, & the skarlet, & the liue birde, & dippe them in the bloude of the birde that was killed, & in the runnyng water, & sprenkle the house seuen tymes. And he shall cleanse the house with the bloude of the birde, & with the runnyng water, & with the liue birde, & with the cedre tree, & with the isope, & with the skarlet. But he shall let the liue birde go out of the citie into the fielde, & make an attonement for the house: & it shalbe cleane.

This is the lawe of all plages of leprosy, & of skabbe, & of the leprosy of a garment, & of a house, & of a rysing, & of a scabbe, & of a bright spotte: to teache when it is vncleane, & when it is cleane. This is the lawe of leprosy.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses & Aaron, saying: Speake vnto the children of Israel, & say vnto them: When any man hath a runnyng issue out of his flesh, his issue is vncleane. And this shall be his vncleanesse in his issue: whether his flesh runne with his issue, or his flesh stande still from his issue, it is his vncleanesse. Euery bed whereon he that hath the issue lyeth, is vncleane: & euery thynge whereon he sytteth, is vncleane. And whosoeuer toucheth his bed, shall wash his clothes, & bathe himself in water, & be vncleane vntil the euen. And he that sytteth on any thynge whereon he that hath the issue sate, shall wash his clothes, & bathe himself in water, & be vncleane vntil the euen. And he that toucheth the flesh of him that hath the issue, shall wash his clothes, & bathe himself in water, & be vncleane vntil the euen. And if he that hath the issue, spytte vpon him that is cleane: he shall wash his clothes, & bathe himself in water, & be vncleane vntil the euen. And what saddle soeuer he that hath the issue rydeth vpon, is vncleane. And whosoeuer toucheth any thynge that was vnder him, shall be vncleane vntil the euen: & he that beareth those thynges, shall wash his clothes, & bathe himself in water, & be vncleane vntil the euen. And whomsoeuer he that hath the issue toucheth, & hath not washed his handes in water, he shall wash his clothes, & bathe himself in water, & be vncleane vntil the euen. The vessell of earth that he that hath the issue toucheth, shall be broken: & euery vessell of wood shall be washed in water. And when he that hath the issue is cleansed of his issue, he shall nombre vnto him seuen dayes for his cleansyng, & wash his clothes, & bathe his flesh in runnyng water, & be cleane. And on the eight day he shall take vnto him two turtils, or two yonge pigeons, & come before the Lorde vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnes, & geue them vnto the priest: & the priest shall offer them, the one for a synne offering, & the other for a burnt offering, & make an attonement for him before the Lorde for his issue.

And if any mans seede of generacion goe from him, he shall bathe all his flesh in water, & be vncleane vntil the euen. And euery garment, & euery skynne whereon is the seede of generacion, shall be washed with water, & be vncleane vntil the euen. The woman also with whom man shall lye with seede of generacion, they shall bathe themselues in water, & be vncleane vntil the euen.

And the woman that hath an issue, & her issue in her flesh is bloude, she shall be put apart seuen dayes: & whosoeuer toucheth her, shall be vncleane vntil the euen. And all that she lyeth vpon in her separacion, shalbe vncleane: all that she sytteth vpon, shalbe vncleane. And whosoeuer toucheth her bed, shall wash his clothes, & bathe himself in water, & be vncleane vntil the euen. And whosoeuer toucheth any thynge that she sate vpon, shall wash his clothes, & bathe himself in water, & be vncleane vntil the euen. Whether it be on the bed, or on the thynge whereon she sytteth, when he toucheth it, he shalbe vncleane vntil the euen. And if any man lye with her at all, & her flowers touche him, he shalbe vncleane seuen dayes: & all the bed whereon he lyeth, shalbe vncleane.

And the woman that hath an issue of bloude many dayes out of the time of her separacion, or if she haue a runnyng issue beyonde the time of her separacion, all the dayes of the issue of her vncleanesse shalbe as the dayes of her separacion: she shalbe vncleane. Euery bed whereon she lyeth all the dayes of her issue, shalbe vnto her as the bed of her separacion: & all that she sytteth vpon, shalbe vncleane, as the vncleanesse of her separacion. Whosoeuer toucheth those thynges, shalbe vncleane, & shall wash his clothes, & bathe himself in water, & be vncleane vntil the euen. But if she be cleansed of her issue, she shall nombre vnto her seuen dayes, & after that she shalbe cleane. And on the eight day she shall take vnto her two turtils, or two yonge pigeons, & bringe them vnto the priest, vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnes. And the priest shall offer the one for a synne offering, & the other for a burnt offering, & make an attonement for her before the Lorde for the issue of her vncleanesse.

Thus shall ye seperate the children of Israel from their vncleanesse, that they dye not in their vncleanesse, when they defile my tabernacle that is among them.

This is the lawe of him that hath an issue, & of him whose seede of generacion goeth from him, & is vncleane therby: & of her that is sicke of her flowers, & of him that hath an issue, both of man & woman, & of him that lyeth with her that is vncleane.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses after the deeth of the two sonnes of Aaron, when they offered before the Lorde, & dyed: & the Lorde said vnto Moses: Speake vnto Aaron thy brother, that he come not at all tymes into the holy place within the vayle before the mercy seate which is vpon the arke, that he dye not: for I will appeare in a cloude vpon the mercy seate. Thus shall Aaron come into the holy place: with a yonge bullocke for a synne offering, & a ram for a burnt offering. And he shall put the holy linnen coate vpon him, & the linnen breches shall be vpon his flesh, & girde him with a linnen girdle, & with the linnen mytre shall he be attyred. These are holy garmentes: therfore shall he bathe his flesh in water, & so put them on. And he shall take of the congregacion of the children of Israel two kydes of the goates for a synne offering, & one ram for a burnt offering. And Aaron shall offer his bullocke of the synne offering, which is for himself, & make an attonement for himself & for his house. And he shall take the two goates, & set them before the Lorde in the dore of the tabernacle of witnes. And Aaron shall cast lottes vpon the two goates, one lotte for the Lorde, & the other lotte for the scapegoate. And Aaron shall offer the goate vpon which the Lordes lotte fell, & make him a synne offering. But the goate vpon which the lotte fell to be the scapegoate, shall be set alyue before the Lorde, to make an attonement with him, & to let him go for a scapegoate into the wildernesse.

And Aaron shall offer his bullocke of the synne offering, which is for himself, & make an attonement for himself & for his house, & shall kyll his bullocke of the synne offering which is for himself. And he shall take a censer full of burnyng coles of fyre from off the aulter before the Lorde, & his handes full of swete incense beaten small, & bringe it within the vayle, & put the incense vpon the fyre before the Lorde, that the cloude of the incense may couer the mercy seate that is vpon the witnes, that he dye not. And he shall take of the bullockes bloude, & sprenkle with his finger vpon the mercy seate eastwarde: & before the mercy seate shall he sprenkle of the bloude with his finger seuen tymes. Then shall he kyll the goate of the synne offering, which is for the people, & bringe his bloude within the vayle, & do with his bloude as he did with the bullockes bloude, & sprenkle it vpon the mercy seate, & before the mercy seate. And he shall make an attonement for the holy place, because of the vncleanesse of the children of Israel, & because of their transgressions in all their synnes. And so shall he do vnto the tabernacle of witnes, that remayneth among them in the middes of their vncleanesse. And there shall be no man in the tabernacle of witnes when he goeth in to make an attonement in the holy place, vntil he come out, & haue made an attonement for himself, & for his houshold, & for all the congregacion of Israel. And he shall go out vnto the aulter that is before the Lorde, & make an attonement for it, & shall take of the bullockes bloude, & of the goates bloude, & put it vpon the hornes of the aulter rounde about. And he shall sprenkle of the bloude vpon it with his finger seuen tymes, & clense it, & hallowe it from the vncleanesse of the children of Israel. And when he hath made an ende of reconcylynge the holy place, & the tabernacle of witnes, & the aulter, he shall bringe the liue goate: & Aaron shall put both his handes vpon the head of the liue goate, & confesse ouer him all the wickednesse of the children of Israel, & all their transgressions in all their synnes, & put them vpon the head of the goate, & shall sende him away into the wildernesse by a man that is ready therfore. And the goate shall beare vpon him all their wickednesses vnto a lande not inhabited: & he shall let go the goate in the wildernesse.

And Aaron shall go into the tabernacle of witnes, & put off the linnen clothes which he put on when he went into the holy place, & shall leaue them there. And he shall bathe his flesh in water in the holy place, & put on his clothes, & come forth, & offer his burnt offering, & the burnt offering of the people, & make an attonement for himself & for the people. And the fat of the synne offering shall he burne vpon the aulter. And he that let go the scapegoate, shall wash his clothes, & bathe himself in water, & afterwarde come into the hoste. And the bullocke for the synne offering, & the goate for the synne offering, whose bloude was brought in to make an attonement in the holy place, shall one cary forth without the hoste, & burne in the fyre their skynnes, & their flesh, & their dounge. And he that burneth them, shall wash his clothes, & bathe himself in water, & afterwarde come into the hoste.

And this shall be an ordinaunce for ever vnto you: that in the seuenth moneth, the tenth day of the moneth, ye shall afflict your soules, & do no maner of worke, neither the borne citizen, nor the straunger that soiourneth among you. For on that day shall the priest make an attonement for you, to clense you, that ye may be cleane from all your synnes before the Lorde. It is a sabbath of rest vnto you, & ye shall afflict your soules: it is an ordinaunce for ever. And the priest whom he shall anoynte, & whom he shall consecrate to minister in the priestes office in his fathers stede, shall make the attonement, & put on the linnen clothes, even the holy garmentes, & make an attonement for the holy sanctuary, & for the tabernacle of witnes, & for the aulter, & for the priestes, & for all the people of the congregacion. And this shall be an ordinaunce for ever vnto you, to make an attonement for the children of Israel for all their synnes once a yere.

And he did as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto Aaron, & vnto his sonnes, & vnto all the children of Israel, & say vnto them: This is the thynge which the Lorde hath commaunded, saying: What man soeuer there be of the house of Israel, that killeth an oxe, or lambe, or goate in the hoste, or that killeth it without the hoste, & bringeth it not vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnes, to offer an offering vnto the Lorde before the tabernacle of the Lorde: bloude shall be imputed vnto that man, he hath shed bloude, & that man shall be cut of from among his people: to the intent that the children of Israel may bringe their sacrifices which they offer in the open fielde, that they may bringe them vnto the Lorde vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnes, vnto the priest, & offer them for peace offerynges vnto the Lorde. And the priest shall sprenkle the bloude vpon the aulter of the Lorde before the dore of the tabernacle of witnes, & burne the fat for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And they shall offer no more their sacrifices vnto deuyls, after whom they haue gone a whoryng. This shall be an ordinaunce for ever vnto them throughout their generacions.

And thou shalt say vnto them: What man soeuer there be of the house of Israel, or of the straungers that soiourne among them, that offereth a burnt offering or sacrifice, & bringeth it not vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnes, to offer it vnto the Lorde: euen that man shall be cut of from among his people. And what man soeuer there be of the house of Israel, or of the straungers that soiourne among them, that eateth any maner of bloude: I will set my face against that soule that eateth bloude, & will cut him of from among his people. For the life of the flesh is in the bloude: & I haue geuen it you vpon the aulter, to make an attonement for your soules: for the bloude it is that maketh an attonement for the soule. Therfore I haue sayde vnto the children of Israel: No soule of you shall eate bloude, neither shall the straunger that soiourneth among you eate bloude. And what man soeuer there be of the children of Israel, or of the straungers that soiourne among them, which hunteth & taketh any beast or foule that may be eaten: he shall powre out the bloude of it, & couer it with dust. For it is the life of all flesh: the bloude of it is for the life therof. Therfore I haue sayde vnto the children of Israel: Ye shall eate the bloude of no maner of flesh: for the life of all flesh is the bloude therof. Whosoeuer eateth it, shall be cut of. And what soule soeuer eateth of the beast that dyed of it self, or that was torne with beastes, whether it be borne citizen or straunger, he shall wash his clothes, & bathe himself in water, & be vncleane vntil the euen: then shall he be cleane. But if he wash them not, nor bathe his flesh, he shall beare his vnrighteousnesse.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto the children of Israel, & say vnto them: I am the Lorde your God. After the maner of the land of Egipte, wherin ye haue dwelt, shall ye not do: & after the maner of the land of Canaan, vnto which I bringe you, shall ye not do: neither shall ye walke in their ordinaunces. Ye shall do my iudgementes, & kepe mine ordinaunces, & walke therin: I am the Lorde your God. Ye shall therfore kepe my ordinaunces & my iudgementes, which if a man do, he shall liue therin: I am the Lorde.

None of you shall come nye to any of his kynne, to vncouer their shame: I am the Lorde. The shame of thy father, & the shame of thy mother shalt thou not vncouer: she is thy mother, thou shalt not vncouer her shame. The shame of thy father wife shalt thou not vncouer: it is thy fathers shame. The shame of thy sister, the doughter of thy father, or the doughter of thy mother, whether she be borne at home, or borne abrode, euen their shame shalt thou not vncouer. The shame of thy sonnes doughter, or of thy doughters doughter, their shame shalt thou not vncouer: for their shame is thine owne shame. The shame of the doughter of thy fathers wife, which she bare vnto thy father, she is thy sister, her shame shalt thou not vncouer. The shame of thy fathers sister shalt thou not vncouer: she is thy fathers kynne. The shame of thy mothers sister shalt thou not vncouer: for she is thy mothers kynne. The shame of thy fathers brother shalt thou not vncouer: thou shalt not come nye his wife: she is thy vncle wife. The shame of thy doughter in lawe shalt thou not vncouer: she is thy sonnes wife, her shame shalt thou not vncouer. The shame of thy brothers wife shalt thou not vncouer: it is thy brothers shame. The shame of a woman & her doughter shalt thou not vncouer: the doughter of her sonne, or the doughter of her doughter, shalt thou not take, to vncouer their shame: for they are her kynne: it is wickednesse. Thou shalt not take a wife to her sister, to vncouer her shame, besyde the other, while she liueth. Thou shalt not come nye vnto a woman to vncouer her shame, as long as she is put apart for her vncleanesse. Thou shalt not lye with thy neighbours wife, to defile thy self with her. Thou shalt not geue any of thy seede to offer it vnto Molech, that thou shouldest not prophane the name of thy God: I am the Lorde. Thou shalt not lye with mankynde, as with womankynde: it is abhominacion. Thou shalt not lye with any beast, to defile thy self withall: neither shall any woman stande before a beast to lye with it: it is abhominacion. Defile not your selues in any of these thynges: for in all these the nacions are defiled, which I caste out before you. And the lande is defiled: therfore I do visite the wickednesse therof vpon it, that the lande vomyteth out her inhabiters. Ye shall therfore kepe my ordinaunces & my iudgementes, & shall not do any of these abhominacions, neither borne citizen, nor straunger that soiourneth among you. For all these abhominacions haue the men of the lande done, which were before you, & the lande is defiled: that the lande vomyte not you out also, when ye defile it, as it vomyted out the nacions that were before you. For whosoeuer shall do any of these abhominacions, euen the soules that do them, shalbe cut of from among their people. Therfore shall ye kepe mine ordinaunce, that ye do not any of these abhominable customes, which were done before you, & that ye defile not your selues therin: I am the Lorde your God.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto all the congregacion of the children of Israel, & say vnto them: Ye shall be holy: for I the Lorde your God am holy. Feare euery man his mother & his father, & kepe my sabbathes: I am the Lorde your God. Turne not vnto idoles, nor make vnto you molten gods: I am the Lorde your God. And when ye offer a peace offering vnto the Lorde, offer it at your owne will: that ye may be accepted. It shalbe eaten the same day ye offer it, & on the morowe: & what remayneth vntil the thirde day, shall be burnt in the fyre. And if it be eaten at all on the thirde day, it is abhominable: it shall not be accepted. Therfore whosoeuer eateth it, shall beare his vnrighteousnesse, because he hath polluted the holy thynge of the Lorde: & that soule shall be cut of from among his people.

When ye reape the haruest of your lande, thou shalt not make cleane reapynge of the corners of thy fielde when thou reapest, neither shalt thou gather the gleanynges of thy haruest. Thou shalt not make bare thy vynyarde, neither shalt thou gather the grapes that fall of thy vynyarde: but shalt leaue them for the poore & for the straunger: I am the Lorde your God. Ye shall not steale, neither shall ye lye, neither shall ye beguile one another. Ye shall not sweare by my name falsely, that thou prophane not the name of thy God: I am the Lorde. Thou shalt not defraude thy neighbour, nor robbe him: the wages of him that is hyred shall not abyde with thee all night vntil the morow. Thou shalt not curse the deafe, nor put a stombling blocke before the blynde: but shalt feare thy God: I am the Lorde. Ye shall do no vnrighteousnesse in iudgement: thou shalt not consider the poore, nor honour the person of the mighty: but in righteousnesse shalt thou iudge thy neighbour. Thou shalt not go about as a backbyter among thy people, neither shalt thou stande against the bloude of thy neighbour: I am the Lorde. Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thine heart: but shalt in any wise rebuke thy neighbour, & not suffer synne vpon him. Thou shalt not auenge, nor beare any grudge against the children of thy people: but shalt loue thy neighbour as thy self: I am the Lorde.

Ye shall kepe my statutes. Thou shalt not let thy beast gender with a straunge kynde: thou shalt not sowe thy fielde with mingled seede: neither shall there come vpon thee a garment of two kyndes of stuffe. And whosoeuer lyeth with a woman, & she is a bonde mayde betrothed vnto a man, & not redemed, nor fredome geuen her: they shall be punished, but not put to death, because she was not fre. And he shall bringe his trespasse offering vnto the Lorde vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnes, euen a ram for a trespasse offering. And the priest shall make an attonement for him with the ram of the trespasse offering before the Lorde, for his synne that he hath done: & the synne that he hath done shalbe forgeuen him. And when ye are come into the lande, & haue planted all maner of trees for meate, then shall ye count their vncircumcision as vncircumcised: three yeares shall they be vncircumcised vnto you, & shall not be eaten. But in the fourth yere all their fruite shalbe holy, to geue prayse vnto the Lorde. And in the fifth yere shall ye eate of their fruite, that they may encrease vnto you their fruite: I am the Lorde your God. Ye shall not eate with the bloude. Ye shall not vse inchauntementes, nor soothsayenges. Ye shall not rounde the corners of your heades, neither shalt thou marre the corners of thy beard. Ye shall not make any cuttynges in your flesh for the dead, nor prynte any markes vpon you: I am the Lorde. Thou shalt not prophane thy doughter, to cause her to be an whore, that the lande fall not to whoredome, & the lande be full of wickednesse. Ye shall kepe my sabbathes, & reuerence my sanctuary: I am the Lorde. Turne not vnto them that haue familiar spirites, nor vnto soothsayers: seke not vnto them, to be defiled by them: I am the Lorde your God. Thou shalt rise vp before the hore head, & honour the face of the old man, & feare thy God: I am the Lorde. And if a straunger soiourne with you in your lande, ye shall not vexe him. But the straunger that dwelleth with you, shalbe vnto you as one borne among you, & thou shalt loue him as thy self: for ye were straungers in the lande of Egipte: I am the Lorde your God. Ye shall do no vnrighteousnesse in iudgement, in mete yarde, in weight, or in measure. Ye shall haue iust balaunces, iust weights, a iust Epha, & a iust Hin: I am the Lorde your God, which brought you out of the lande of Egipte. Therfore shall ye kepe all mine ordinaunces & all my iudgementes, & do them: I am the Lorde.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Thou shalt say vnto the children of Israel: What man soeuer there be of the children of Israel, or of the straungers that soiourne in Israel, that geueth any of his seede vnto Molech, he shall dye the death: the people of the lande shall stone him with stones. And I will set my face against that man, & will cut him of from among his people, because he hath geuen of his seede vnto Molech, to defile my sanctuary, & to prophane my holy name. And if the people of the lande do hide their eyes from the man, when he geueth of his seede vnto Molech, & kyll him not: then will I set my face against that man & against his kynred, & will cut him of from among his people, & all that go a whoryng after him, to commit whoredome with Molech. And the soule that turneth vnto inchauntementes & soothsayenges, to go a whoryng after them, I will set my face against that soule, & will cut him of from among his people. Sanctifie your selues therfore, & be holy: for I am the Lorde your God. And kepe my ordinaunces, & do them: I am the Lorde which sanctifie you. For whosoeuer curseth father or mother, shall be slayne: he hath cursed father or mother, his bloude shall be vpon him. And whosoeuer committeth adultery with another mans wife, euen he that committeth adultery with his neighbours wife, the adulterer & the adulteresse shall be slayne. And whosoeuer lyeth with his fathers wife, hath vncouered his fathers shame: both of them shall dye the death, their bloude shall be vpon them. And whosoeuer lyeth with his doughter in lawe, both of them shall dye the death: they haue wrought confusion, their bloude shall be vpon them. And whosoeuer lyeth with mankynde, as he lyeth with womankynde, both of them haue wrought abhominacion: they shall dye the death, their bloude shall be vpon them. And whosoeuer taketh a wife & her mother also, it is wickednesse: they shall be burnt with fyre, both he & they, that there be no wickednesse among you. And whosoeuer lyeth with a beast, he shall dye the death: & ye shall slay the beast. And if a woman approche vnto any beast, & lye therwith: thou shalt kyll the woman & the beast: they shall dye the death, their bloude shall be vpon them. And whosoeuer taketh his sister, his fathers doughter, or his mothers doughter, & seeth her shame, & she seeth his shame: it is a shamefull thynge, & they shall be cut of before the children of their people: he hath vncouered his sisters shame, he shall beare his synne. And whosoeuer lyeth with a menstruous woman, & vncouereth her shame, he hath discouered her fountayne, & she hath vncouered the fountayne of her bloude: both of them shall be cut of from among their people. Thou shalt not vncouer the shame of thy mothers sister, nor of thy fathers sister: for he hath discouered his kynne: they shall beare their synne. And whosoeuer lyeth with his vncles wife, he hath vncouered his vncles shame: they shall beare their synne, & dye childlesse. And whosoeuer taketh his brothers wife, it is vnclennesse: he hath vncouered his brothers shame, they shall be childlesse.

Ye shall therfore kepe all mine ordinaunces & all my iudgementes, & do them, that the lande vomyte not you out, whether I bringe you to dwell therin. And ye shall not walke in the maner of the nacion which I caste out before you: for they haue done all these thynges, & therfore I abhorred them. But I haue sayde vnto you: Ye shall possesse their lande, & I will geue it you to inherite it, euen a lande that floweth with mylke & honye. I am the Lorde your God, which haue put you apart from other people. Ye shall therfore put a difference betweene cleane beastes & vncleane, & betweene vncleane foules & cleane: & ye shall not make your soules abhominable in beast, or in foule, or in any maner of thynge that moueth vpon the earth, which I ha cyng of the daunyng, and the preest shall C. pronounce him cleane, seing it is the ryght of the daunyng. If a man or woman hath a sore vpon the head or the bearde, the preest shal serche. And if it appeare lower then the skynne, and there be nit a yelow heare and thin more then it was wont to be, the preest shall iudge him vncleane, seyng that the same sheweth it to be a kynd of leprosy vpon the heade or bearde. And if the preest loke on the sore of the ryinne, and it seme not lower then the skynne, and that the heare is not blacke, the preest shall shut vp the sore-ing sore seuen daies. And in the seuenth daye the preest shall loke on the sore, and if the sore be not growen, and there be in it no yelow heare, and the sore seme not lower then the skyn, he shalbe shaued: but the place of the sore shall he not shaue, and the preest shall shut vp the sore seuen dayes mo. And in the seuenth daye the preest shall loke on the sore: And if the sore be not growen in the skinne, nor seme lower then the other skyn, the preest shall cleanse him, and he shal wash his clothes, and be cleane. But if the sore growe in the flesshe after his cleansyng, the F. preest shall loke on him: and if the sore be growen in the skynne, the preest shall not seke for yelowe heare, for he is vncleane.

But if he se the ryinne standeth still, and that there is blacke heare growne vp therin, the sore is healed, and he shalbe cleane, and the preest shall declare him to be cleane. If there be white spottes in the skynne of the flesshe of man or woman, the preest shall loke vpon it. And if the spottes in the skynne of their flesh be somwhat darke and white with all, he maye wel knowe, that it is no leprosy but G. a freckell growyng in the flesshe. Wherfore he shall pronounce him cleane. And the man whose heade is be-ten of heare, (wherby he is made balde) is cleane. And he that hath his heare cut in his forehead, is forehed balde and cleane. If there be in the bauld head or balde forehead, a white reddish sore sceabbe, there is leprosie sprunge vp in his bauldе head or bauldе G. forehead. And the preest shal loke vpon him, and if the ryising of the sore be white red-dishe in his bauldе head or bauldе forehеade after the maner of leprosy which is in the skynne of the flesshe, then he is a leprous man and vncleane. And the preest shall make him vncleane, for the plage thereof is in his head.
The leper in whom the plage is shall haue his clothes rent, and his head bare, and shal put a couering vpon his lyppe, and shalbe called vncleane and defiled. And as long as the diseace lasteth vpon him, he shalbe defy-led and vncleane: he shall dwel alone, euen without the hoste shall his habitacion be.
The clothe that the plage of leprosy is in, whether it be linnen or wollen, whether it be in the warpe or woofe of linnen or wollen: either in a skin or any thing made of a skin, if the disease be pale or somwhat reddishe in the cloth or skin: whether it be in the warpe or woofe, or any thing that is made of skin, then it is a plage of leprosy & shalbe shewed vnto the preest. The preest therefore shal se the plage, & shut vp that same, & loke on the plage the seuenth day. Which if it be encrea-sed in the cloth (whether it be in the warpe or woofe, or in a skin) or in any thing that is made of skin, it is the leprosy of a freting leprosie & is vncleane: & that cloth shalbe burnt, either warp or woofe whether it be wollen or linnē, or any thing that is made of skin, wherin the plage is, for it is a freting leprosy, it shalbe burnt in the fire. If the preest se that the pla-ge is not growen in the cloth, either in the warp or woofe, or in whatsoeuer thing of this it be, the preest shal commaunde them to wash the thing wherin the plage is, & he shal shut it vp seuen daies mo. And the preest shal loke on the plage again, after that it is washed.
And if the plage haue not chaunged his colour, & is spred no further abrode, it is vn-clean. Thou shalt burne it in the fire, for it is a fret inwardly in part or in altogether. And if the preest se that the plage is darker after that it is washed, he shall rent it out of the cloth, or out of the skin, or out of the warp, or out of the woofe. And if it apeare any more in the cloth (either in the warp or in the woo-fe, or in any thing made of skin) it is a waxing plage. Thou shalt burne the plage that is in it. Moreouer the cloth, either warpe or woofe or whatsoeuer thing or skin it be which thou hast washed, if the plage be departed there fro, it shalbe washed once again: & the shal it be clean. This is the lawe of the pla-ge of leprosy in a cloth whether it be wollen or linnen: either in the warpe or woofe, or in any thing of skinne, to make it cleane or vncleane.

The xiii. Chapiter.

AND the lord spake vnto Moses, saying: M.
This is the lawe of the leper in the pai- Mat. viii. a. of his clensyng: He shalbe brought vnto the Marke. i. b. preest, and the preest shall go without the Luke. v. c. hoste, and loke vpon him. And if the plage and xvii. c. of leprosie be healed in the leper, then shall the preest commaunde that he which is to be clensed, bryng two lyuing birdes & clean, and cedar wood and purple cloth, and scope.
And the preest shall commaunde that one of the birdes be killed in an earthen vessell, and vpon renning water. And he shall take the lyuing bryde with the cedar wood, the purple and the scope, and shal dip them and the lyuing bryde in the blonde of the slayne bryde vpon the runnyng water, and sprinkle vpon him (that must be clensed of his leprosy) seuen tymes, and clense him, and shall let the lyuyng bryde go free into the fielde.

D. And he that is cleansed, shall washe his clothes, and shaue off his heare, and washe him selfe in water, that he may be cleane. And after that shall he come into the hoste, and shal tary without his tent seuen dayes, but in the seuenth daye he shal shaue off all his heare, namely, his head, his beard, and his browes: euen all his heare shall he shaue of. And he shall washe his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, and he shalbe cleane. In the eight daye he shall take two lambes without blemishe, and an ewe lambe of a yeare old without blemish, with the tenth deale of fine floure for a meate offering mingled with oyle, and a logge of oyle. And the priest that maketh him cleane, shall bring the man whiche is to be made cleane and those thynges, before the Lorde, euen before the doore of the tabernacle of witnes. And the priest shall take one lambe, and offer him for a trespace, and the logge of oyl, and waue them before the Lorde. And he shal slo the lambe in the place where the synne offering and the burnt offering are slayne: euen in the holy place. For as the synne offering is, euen so is the trespace offering the priestes: verily it is moste holy. And the priest shall take of the bloud of the trespace offering, and put it vpon the tip of the right eare of him that is to be cleansed, and vpon the thumbe of his right hande, and vpon the great too of his right fote. The priest shall take of the logge of oyle, and powre it into the palme of his lefte hande, & dip his right finger in the oyle that is in his lefte hande, and sprinkle of the oyle with his finger seuen tymes before the Lorde. And of the rest of the oyle that is in his hande, shall the priest put vpon the tip of the right eare of him that is to be cleansed, and vpon the thumbe of his right hande, and vpon the great too of his right fote, euen vpon the bloud of the trespace offering. And the remnaunt of the oyle that is in the priestes hande, he shall powre vpon the head of him that is to be cleansed: and he priest shall make an attonement for him before the Lorde. And the priest shall offer the synne offering, & make an attonement for him that is to be cleansed, for his vncleannesse. And then shall he slo the burnt offering, and the priest shall offer the burnt offering and the meat offering vpon the aultar: and the priest shall make an attonement for him, and he shalbe cleane. Leuit. b.b. If he be poore, and can not get so muche, he shal take but one lambe for a trespace offering to waue it for his cleansing, and a tenth deale of fine floure mingled with oyle for a meat offering, and a logge of oyl, and two turtle doues or two young pygeons, such as he is able to get, whereof the one shalbe for synne, and the other for a burnt offering. And he shal bring them the eyght daie for his cleansing vnto the priest before the doore of the tabernacle of witnes before the Lorde. And the priest shall take the lambe that is for the trespace, & the logge of oyle, and shall waue them before the Lorde. And he shal slo the lambe for the trespace, and the priest shall take of the bloud of the trespace offering, and put vpon the tip of his right eare that is to be cleansed, and vpon the thumbe of his right hande, and vpon the great too of his right fote. And the priest shal powre of the oyle into his owne hande, and the priest shal with his finger sprinkle of the oyle that is in his lefte hande, seuen tymes before the Lorde. And the priest shal put of the oyle that is in his hande vpon the tip of the right eare of him that is to be cleansed, & vpon the thumbe of his right hande, and vpon the great too of his right fote, euen in the place where the bloud of the trespace offering was put. And the rest of the oyle that is in the priestes hande, he shal put vpon the head of him that is to be cleansed, that he may make an attonement for him before the Lorde. And he shal offer one of the turtle doues, or of the young pigeons, such as he can get: the one for a synne offering, and the other for a burnt offering with the meate offering. And the priest shal make an attonement for him that is to be cleansed before the Lorde. This is the lawe of him in whom is the plague of leprosie, and whose hande is not able to get that whiche pertaineth to his cleansing. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses and Aaron saying, when ye be come vnto the lande of Canaan whiche I geue you in possession. And if I put the plague of leprosie in a house of the lande of your possession, he that owneth the house shall come, and tell the priest, saying me thinke that there is as it were a leprosie in the house. And the priest shall commaunde them to empeache the house before the priest go into it to se the plague, lest all that is in the house be not made vncleane, & then shall the priest go in to se the house. If the priest alow & that the plague be in the walles of the house, and that there be pale we strakes pale red or white come to be lower then the wall in sight, the priest shall go out at the house dore, and shut vp the house seuen daies. And the priest shall come againe the seuenth daye, and if he se that the plague be increased in the walles of the house, the priest shall commaunde them to take away the stones in whiche the plague is, and let them cast them into a foule place without the citie, and he shall commaunde the house to be scraped within rounde about, and powre out the dust (that they scraped) without the citie in to a foule place. And they shall take other stones, and put them in the places of those stones, and other morter, to plaster the house out in the house, after that he hath taken away the stones and scraped the walles of the house, and after that he hath plaistred the house a new: the priest shall come and se it. And if he perceaue that the plage hath growen further in the house, it is a fretting leprosy in the house. It is therfore vnclean. And he shall breake downe the house. And the stones of it, and the tymber therof, and all the morter of the house, shall he carye out of the citie vnto a foule place. Moreouer, he that goeth into the house all the whyle that it is shut vp, shalbe vnclene vntyll the euen. He that sleepeth in the house shall washe his clothes: he likewise that eateth in the house shall washe his clothes. And if the priest shall come and se, that the plage hath spred no further in the house after that it is new plaistred: the priest shall iudge that house cleane, because the plage is healed. And let him take to clense the house withall: two byrdes, cedar wood, purple cloth and yesope. And he shall kyl one of the byrdes in an earthen vessell, and vpon runnyng water: and take the cedar wood, and the yesope, and the purple with the liuyng byrde, and dippe them in the blood of the slayne byrde, and in the runnyng water, and sprynkle the house seuen tymes, and clense the house with the blood of the byrde and with the runnyng water, with the liuing byrde, with the cedar wood, and the yesope, and the purple cloth. But he shal let the liuing byrde flee out of the towne into the rode fieldes, and so make an attonement for the house, and it shalbe cleane. This is the lawe for all maner plage of leprosy and breakyng out and of the leprosye of cloth and house: for a swellyng: for a trab, and for a white bigther. To teache when it must be made vncleane and cleane. This is the lawe of leprosye.

1. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, & Aaron saying: speake vnto the children of Israel, & saye vnto them: whosoeuer hath a runnyng yssue out of his flesshe, is vncleane by reason of that yssue. And this shalbe the token of his vncleanes in his yssue: when he is vncleane. If his flesh runne, or if his flesh congele by the reason of his yssue, then is it vncleanes. The couche wheron he lieth that hath the yssue, is vncleane, and euery thyng wheron he sitteth, is vncleane: Whosoeuer toucheth his couche, shal washe his clothes, and bath himselfe in water, and be vncleane vntyll the euen. And he that sitteth on any thyng wheron he sat that hath the yssue, shal washe his clothes and bathe himselfe in water, and be vncleane vntyll the euen. He that toucheth the flesshe of him that hath the yssue, shall washe his clothes, and bathe himselfe in water, and be vncleane vnto the euen. If he also that hath the yssue, spit vpon him that is cleane, he shall washe his clothes, & bath himselfe with water, and be vncleane vntill euen. And what horse soeuer he rideth vpō that hath the yssue, shalbe vncleane. And whosoeuer toucheth any thyng that was vnder him, shalbe vncleane vnto the euē. And he that beareth any such thinges, shall washe his clothes, and bath himselfe in water, and be vncleane vnto the euen. And whosoeuer he toucheth that hath the yssue (and hath not first washed his handes in water) shall washe his clothes, and bath himselfe in water, and be vncleane vnto the euen. * The vessell of yearth that he toucheth, whithe hath the yssue, shalbe broken: and all vessell of wood shalbe rynsed in water. When he also that hath any yssue, is cleced of his yssue, he shal nombre seuen daies for his clensing, and washe his clothes, and bath his flesh in running water, and so shall he be cleane. And the eight day he shal take vnto him two turtill doues or two young pigeons, and come before the Lord vnto the doze of the tabernacle of witnes, and geue them vnto the priest. And the priest shall offer them: the one for a synne offrung, and the other for a burnt offerung: and the priest shall make an attonement for him before the Lorde, as concerning his yssue. If any mans sede departe from him in his slepe, he shal washe his flesh in water, & be vncleane vntill euen. And all the clothes and al the eueres wherin is such sede of slepe shalbe washed with water, & be vncleane vnto the euen. And if he that hath such an yssue of sede, to lie with a woman, they shall both washe themselues with water, and be vncleane vntill euen. If a womans naturall course of blonde do runne, she shalbe put a parte seuen dayes: whosoeuer toucheth her, shalbe vncleane vnto the euen. And al that she lieth vpō in the tyme of her naturall diseace, shalbe vncleane like as euery thyng also that she sitteth vpon, is vncleane. Whosoeuer toucheth her bed, shal washe his clothes, and bath himselfe with water, & be vncleane vnto the euen: and whosoeuer toucheth any thyng that she sat vpon, shall washe his clothes, and bath himselfe in water, and be vncleane vnto the euen: so that whether he touch her couche, or any vessell wheron she hath sitten he shalbe vncleane vnto the euen. * And if a man lye with her, and her vncleanes come vpon him, he shalbe vncleane seuen dayes, and all the couche wheron he lieth shalbe vncleane.

* When a womans blond runneth long tyme out of the tyme of her natural course: or if it renne beyond her naturall course, let all the dayes of the yssue be iudged vncleane, euen as the dayes of her naturall diseace. And he that be vncleane. All her couches whereon she lieth (as long as her yssue lasteth) shalbe as her couche when she hath her naturall vncleane. And whatsoeuer she toucheth vpon, shalbe vncleane, as is her vncleanesse when she is put a parte. And whosoeuer toucheth any of these shalbe vncleane, and shall wash hys clothes, and bathe hymselfe in water, and be vncleane vnto euen. And after that she is cleansed of her yssue, she shall counte her seuen dayes, and after that, she shalbe cleane. In the eyght daye she shall take vnto her two turtyls or two young pygeons, and bryngе them vnto the Priest before the doore of the Tabernacle of wytnes. And the Priest shall offer the one for a synne offeryng, and the other for a burnt offeryng: and make an attonement for her before the Lorde, as concernyng the yssue of her vncleanesse. Therfore shall ye seperate the chyldren of Israell from their vncleanesse, that they dye not in theyr vncleanesse, yf they defyle my habitation that is amonge them. This is the lawe of hym that hath a runnyng yssue, and of hym whose seed runneth from hym in his slepe, and is defyled therin, and of her, that for her naturall vncleanesse is put a part, and of whosoeuer hath a runnyng yssue: whether it be man or woman, and of hym that lyeth with her whiche is vncleane.

Leui. 7.a. AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, * after the death of the two Sonnes of Aaron, when they offered before the Lorde, and dyed: And he sayde vnto Moses: speake vnto Aaron thy brother, that he come not at all tymes into the holy place within the vayle before the mercy seate, whiche is vpon the Arke, that he dye not. For I wyll appeare in the* cloude vpon the mercy seate. But with this shall Aaron come into the holy place: euen with a bullocke for synne, and with a ram for a burnt offeryng. He shall put the holy lynnen albe vpon hym, and shall haue a lynnen breche vpon hys flesshe, and shalbe gyrded with a lynnen gyrdell, and put the lynnen mytre vpon hys head: These are holy garmentes: therfore shall he washe hys flesh in water, when he doth put them on. And he shall take of the multytude of the chyldren of Israell, two he goates for synne, and a ram for a burnt offeryng. And Aaron shall offer hys bullocke for synne, * and make an attonement for hym, and for hys house. And he shall take the two goates, and presente them before the Lorde at the doore of the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And Aaron shall cast lottes vpon the two goates: one lotte shall be for the Lorde, and the other for the scape goate. Then Aaron shall bryng the goate vpon whych the Lordes lotte fell, and offer hym for synne. But the goate on whiche the lot fell to scape, shalbe set a lyue before the Lorde, to reconcyle with, and to let hym go (as a scape goate) for into the wyldernesse. And Aaron shall bryng hys bullocke for synne and reconcyle for hymselfe, and for hys house, and shall kyll hys bullocke for synne.

And he shall take a censer full of burnyng coales out of the Aultar before the Lorde, and shall fyll hys handfull of swete sensyng beaten small, and bryng them within the vaile, and put the sens vpō the fire before the Lorde, that the cloude of the sens may couer the mercy seate that is vpon the wytnes, and that he dye not. And he shall * take of the blode of the bullocke, and sprynkle with hys finger vpon the mercy seate eall warde: and before the mercy seate shall he sprynkle of the blode with hys finger seuen tymes. Then shall he kyll the goate that is the peoples synne offeryng, and bryng hys blode within the vayle, and do with that blode, as he dyd with the blod of the bullocke, sprynkle it vpon the mercy seate, and before the mercy seate. And he shall reconcyle the holy place from the vnclennes of the chyldren of Israel, and from their trespaces in all their synnes. And so shall he do for the Tabernacle of wytnesse that is set among them euen among their vncleannes. * And let there be no body in the Tabernacle of witnesse, when he goeth in to make an attonement in the holy place, vntyl he come out. And let hym make an attonement for hymselfe and for hys houshold, and for all the multytude of Israel. And he shall goe out vnto the aultar that is before the Lorde, and reconcyle vpon it, and shall take of the blode of the bullocke, and of the blode of the goate, and put it vpon the hornes of the aultare round about, & sprynkle of the blood vpon it with hys finger seuen tymes, and cleanse it, and halowe it from the vnclennes of the chyldren of Israel. And when he hath made an ende of reconcelyng the holy place, and the Tabernacle of wytnes, and the aultar he shal bryng the lyue goate: and Aaron shall put both hys handes vpon the head of the lyue goate, and confesse ouer hym all the mysdedes of the chyldren of Israel, and all their trespaces in all their synnes, puttyng them vpon the head of the goate, and send hym away (by the hande of a conuenient man) into the wyldernesse. And the goate shall beare vpon hym all their mysdedes vnto the wyldernesse, and he shall let the goate go free into the wyldernes. And Aaron shall come into the tabernacle of wytnesse, and put of the lynnen clothes which he put on (when

And let hym washe hys flesh with water in the holy place, And put on his owne rayment, and then come out, & offer his burnt offeryng, and the burnt offeryng of the people, and make an attonement for hymselfe, & for the people, and the fat of the synne offeryng shall he burne vpon the aultar. And he that caried forth the goate to Azazel, shall washe his clothes, and bath hys flesh in water, and then come into the hoast. And the bullocke whiche is for synne, and the goate that is for synne, (whose blood was brought in, to clense the holy place) shall one cary out without the hoast, & he burnt in the fyre, with their synnes, their flesh, & their dung. And he that burneth them shall wash his clothes, and bath hys flesh in water, and then come into the hoast. And this shalbe an ordinaunce for euer vnto you, that in the tenth daye of the seuenth moneth, ye humble your soules, and do no worke at all, whether it be one of your selues or a straunger that soiourneth among you, for that daye shall the priest make an attonement for you to clense you, & that ye maye be cleane from all your synnes before the Lord. It is the a Sabboth of rest vnto you, and ye shall humble your soules, by an ordinaunce for euer. And the priest that is anoynted, and whose hande was consecrated (to minister in his fathers steade) shall make the attonement, and shal put on the linen clothes and holy vestimentes, and reconcile the holy tabernacle and the tabernacle of witnesse, and shall clense the aultar, and make an attonement then, for the priestes, and for all the people of the congregation. And this shalbe an * euerlastyng ordinaunce vnto you, that ye make an attonement for the chyldren of Israell for all their synnes once a yeare: and he dyd as the Lord commaunded Moses.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, Wo. saying: Speake vnto Aaron a to his sons and vnto all the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them: This is the thyng whiche the Lorde hath charged, saying: What man soeuer of the house of Israel kylleth an oxe, or lambe, or goate in the hoast, or that kylleth it out of the hoast, and bryngeth it not vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnes, to offer an offeryng vnto the Lorde before the dwelling place of the Lord, bloud shalbe imputed vnto that man, as though he had shed bloud, and that man shalbe rooted out from among his people. Wherfore when the chyldren of Israel bryng their offerynges, that they offer in the wyde field, they would bring them vnto the Lord euen vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnes to the priest, to offer them for peace offerynges vnto the Lorde. And the priest must sprinkle the bloud vpon the aultar of the Lorde, which is before the dore of the tabernacle of witnes, and burn the fat for a swete sauour vnto the Lorde. And let them no more offer their offerynges vnto deuils, after whom they haue gone a whorying. This shalbe an ordinaunce for euer vnto them in their generations. And thou shalt saye vnto them: Whatsoeuer man it be of the house of Israel, or of the straungers which soiourne among you that offreth a burnt offeryng or sacrifice, and bryngeth it not vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnes, to offer it vnto the Lorde, that man shall perish from among his people. And whatsoeuer man it be of the house of Israel or of the straungers that soiourne among you, that eateth any maner of bloud, I will set my face against that soule that eateth bloud, and will destroy hym from among his people: for the life of the flesh is in the bloud, and I haue geuen it vnto you vpon the aultar, to make an attonement for your soules, for bloud shall make an attonement for your soule. And therfore I sayde vnto the chyldren of Israel: let no soule of you eate bloud. Neither let any straunger that soiourneth among you, eate bloud. And whatsoeuer man it be of the chyldren of Israell, or of the straungers that soiourne among you, whiche hunteth and catcheth any beast or foule that maye be eaten, let hym powre out the bloud therof, & couer it with yearth, for the lyfe of al flesh is in the bloud of it, therfore I sayde vnto the chyldren of Israel * ye shall eate the bloud of no maner of flesshe, for the lyfe of al flesshe is the bloud therof: whosoeuer eateth it, shall perish. And euery soule that eateth it which dieth alone, or that which was torne with wild beastes, whether it be one of your selues or a straunger, he shall washe his clothes, and bath himselfe in water, and be vncleane vnto the euen and then shal he be clene. If he wash them not nor bath his flesh, he shal beare his sinne.

The xviii. Chapter.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them: I am the Lorde youre GOD. After the doynges of the lande of Egypte: wherin ye dwelt, shall ye not do: and after the doynges of the lande of Canaan, whether I wyll bryng you, shall ye not do, neyther walke in their ordinaunces, but do after my iudgementes, and kepe my ceremonies, to walke therin: I am the Lorde your God. Ye shall kepe therfore myne ordinaunces, and my iudgementes * which yf a man do, he shall lyue in them. I am the Lorde.

fore shalt thou not discouer her secretenes. * The secretes of thy fathers wyfe shalt thou not discouer, for it is the fathers secretes. ¶ Thou shalt not discouer the secretes of thy syster, the doughter of thy father or of thy mother, whether she be borne at home or without. Thou shalt not discouer the secretes of thy Nonnes doughter or thy doughters doughter, for that is thyne owne priuitie. Thou shalt not discouer the secretes of thy Fathers wyues doughter, whyche was begotten of thy Father, and of thy syster: thou shalt not discouer her secretes. * Thou shalt not discouer the secretes of thy Fathers syster, for she is thy Fathers nexte kynswoman. Thou shalt not discouer the secretes of thy Mothers syster, for she is thy Mothers nexte kynswoman. Thou shalt not discouer the secretes of thy Fathers brother: that is, thou shalt not goo into hys wyfe, whiche is thyne aunte. Thou shalt not discouer the secretes of thy doughter in lawe: for she is thy Sonnes wyfe: therefore shalt thou not discouer her secretes. * Thou shalt not discouer the secretes of thy Brothers wyfe, for that is thy brothers priuitie. Thou shalt not discouer the priuities of the wyfe and her doughter, neyther shalt thou take her Sonnes doughter, or her doughters doughter, to discouer their secretes: for they are her nexte kyn, and it were wickednes. * Thou shalt not take a wyfe and her syster also, to vexe her that thou wouldest discouer her secretes as longe as she liueth. * Thou shalt also not go vnto a woman to discouer her priuities as long as she is put a parte for her vncleanesse. * Moreouer, thou shalt not lye with thy neyghbours wyfe, to defyle her with lede. Thou shalt also not geue of thy sede to offer it vnto * Moloch: neither shalt thou defyle the name of thy God. I am the Lorde. * Thou shalt not lye with mankynde as with woman kynde, for it is abhominacion. ¶ Thou shalt lye with no maner of beaste to defyle thy selfe therewith, neyther shall any woman stande before a beaste, to lye downe thereto, for it is abhominacion. Ye shall not defyle your selues in any of these thynges, wherein also the nacions are defyled whyche I cast out before you: Where throwe the lande is defyled, and I will visyte the wyckednesse therof vpon it, ye and the lande it selfe hath cast out her inhabiters. * Ye shall kepe therfore myne ordinaunces, and my iudgementes, and committe none of these abhominacions: neyther any of you nor any straunger that soiourneth among you (for all these abhominacions haue the men of the lande done whyche were there before you, and the lande is defyled.) Shall not the lande throwe you out also (yf ye defyle it) as it spewed out the people that were before you? For whosoeuer shall commyt any of these abhominacions, the same soules that committe them, shall perysshe from amonge their people. Therfore shall ye kepe my lawe, that ye committe not one of these abhominable customes whyche were committed before you: and that ye defile not your selues therin. I am the Lorde your God.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto all the multitude of the children of Israel, and saye vnto them: * Ye shalbe holy, for I the Lorde your God am holy. Ye shall feare euery man his Father and his Mother, and kepe my Sabbothes I am the Lorde your GOD. Ye shall not turne vnto voyde, nor make you Goddes of metall. I am the Lorde your God. If ye offer a peace offering vnto the Lorde, ye shall offer it that ye maye be receyued. * It shalbe eaten the same daye ye offer it, and on the morowe: and ye maye remayne vntyll the thyrd daye, it shalbe burnt in the fyre. And if it be eaten the thyrd daye, it is vncleane and not receyued. He that eateth it, shall beare his synne, because he hath defyled the hallowed thyng of the Lorde, and that soule shall perysshe from among his people. * When ye reape downe the ripe corne of your lande, ye shall not reape downe the vtmoste border of your fielde, neyther shalt thou gather that which is lefte behynde in thy harueste. Thou shalt not plucke in all thy vynegarde cleane, neyther gather in the grapes that are ouerreaped. But thou shalt leaue them for the poore and straungers. I am the Lorde your God. * Ye shall not steale, neyther lye, neyther deale falsely one with another. * Ye shall not sweare by my name in vayne: neyther shalt thou defyle the name of thy God. When ye come to the lande, and haue planted all maner of trees conuenient to be eaten of, ye shall put away the foreskynne of euery one with the fruite thereof: euen three yere shall they be vncircumcysed vnto you, and shall not be eaten of. But in the fourth yeare all the fruite of the shalbe holy, and commendable to the Lorde. And the first yeare shall ye eate of the fruite of them. I am the Lorde your God. * Ye shall not eate vpon bloode, neither shall ye vse witchecraefte, nor obserue times. * Ye shall not round the lockes of your heades, neither shalt thou marre the tuftes of thy bearde. Ye shall not rent your flesshe for any corses sake, nor printe any markes vpon you. I am the Lorde. Thou shalt not make thy doughter common, that thou woudest cause her to be an whore: lest the lande also fall to whoredome, and be full of wickednesse. Ye shall kepe my sabbothes and feare my sanctuary: I am the Lorde. Ye shall not regarde them that worke with spirites, * neither seke after witchcraeme to be defyled by them: I am the Lorde your God. * Thou shalt ryse vp before the horyshed, and reuerence the face of the olde man, and dreade thy God, I am the Lorde. If a straunger soiourne with thee in your lande, ye shall not vexe him. * But the straunger that dwelleth with you, shalbe as one of your selues, and thou shalt loue him as thy selfe, for ye were straungers in the lande of Egipt. I am the Lorde your God. Ye shall do no vnrighteousnesse in Iudgment, in meteyarde, in weight or in measure. Iuste balaunces, iuste weyghtes, a iuste Epha and a iuste Hyn shall ye haue: I am the Lorde your God, which brought you out of the lande of Egipt. Therefore shall ye obserue all myne ordinances, and all my iudgementes, and do them. I am the Lorde.

The xx. Chapter.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying, Thou shalt say to the children of Israel, whosoeuer he of the children of Israel or of the straungers that dwell in Israel, that geueth of his sede vnto * Moloch, let him be slayne: the people of the lande shall stone him. And I will set my face against that man, and will destroye him from among his people, because he hath geuen of his sede vnto Moloch, for to defile my sanctuary, and to polute my holy name. And though that the people of the land hide their eyes from the man that geueth of his sede vnto Moloch, and will not slay him: I will put my face against that man, and against his kinred, and I will destroye him, and all that go a whoryng after him to commit whoredome with Moloch, from among their people. If a soule turne himself after such as worke with spirites, and after soothsayers, to go a whoryng after them, I will put my face against that soule, and will destroye him out among al his people. Sanctifye your selues therfore, * and be holy, for I am the Lorde your God. Kepe my ordinances, and do them. I am the Lorde which sanctifie you. * Whosoeuer curseth his father or his mother, let him die for he hath cursed his father and mother, his blood be vpon him. * And the man that breaketh wedlocke with another mans wife: euen he that breaketh wedlocke with his neighbours wife, let him be slayne both the aduoutrer and the aduoutresse. And the man that lieth * with his fathers wife, and vncouereth his fathers secretes, let the both die, their blonde be vpon them. * If a man lye with his doughter in lawe, let them both of them die: they haue wrought abhominacion, their blonde be vpon them. * If a man also lye with mankynde, as one lieth with woman kynde, they haue both committed abhominacion: they shall dye the blonde be vpon them. And if a man take a wife and her mother also, it is wickednes. They shalbe burnt with fyre both he and they, that there be no wickednes among you. And if a man lye with a beast, let him dye, and ye shall slee the beast also. If a woman go vnto any beast, and lye downe thereto: thou shalt kyll the woman and the beast also, let them die, their blondes be vpon them. If a man take his sister his fathers doughter, or his mothers doughter, and se her secretes, and she his: it is a shame. They shall perysh in the sight of their people, he hath vncouered his sisters secretes, he shall beare his synne. * If a man lye with a woman hauing her naturall syckenes, and vncouere her secretes, and open her fountaine, and she also open the countenaunce of her kynsse, they shall both perysh the myddes of their people. * Thou shalt not vncouer the priuytees of thy mother & sister: for she is thy kynswoman, vncouer not her priuytees. * Thou shalt not vncouer the priuytees of thy neyghbours wyfe, and defyle not thy self with her. * Thou shalt not vncouer the priuytees of thy doughter in lawe, for she is thy sonnes wyfe, vncouer not her priuytees. * Thou shalt not vncouer the priuytees of thy sisters doughter, for she is thy kynswoman, it is vnclenesse. * Thou shalt not vncouer the priuytees of thy mothers sister, for she is thy mothers kynswoman. * Thou shalt not vncouer the priuytees of thy fathers brothers wyfe, for she is thy fathers kynswoman. * Thou shalt not vncouer the priuytees of thy doughter in lawe, for she is thy sonnes wyfe, vncouer not her priuytees. * Thou shalt not vncouer the priuytees of thy brothers wyfe, for she is thy brothers kynswoman. * Thou shalt not vncouer the priuytees of a woman and her doughter, thou shalt not take her sonnes doughter, nor her doughters doughter, to vncouer her priuytees, for they are her kynswomen, it is wickednesse. * Thou shalt not take a wyfe to her sister, to vncouer her priuytees, besyde the other, in her lyfe. * Thou shalt not come at a woman to vncouer her priuytees, as long as she is vncleane by her vncleanesse. * Thou shalt not lye with thy neyghbours wyfe, and defyle thy self with her. * Thou shalt not geue any of thy seede to offer vnto Molech, that thou cause not the name of thy God to be polluted, for I am the Lorde. * Thou shalt not lye with mankynde, as with womankynde, for it is abhominacion. * Thou shalt not lye with any beast, to defyle thy self withall, neyther shall any woman stande before a beast to lye with it, for it is abhominacion. * Defyle not your selues in any of these thynges, for in all these haue the nacions defyled themselues, which I caste out before you. * And the land is defyled, therfore I visite the wickednesse therof vpon it, and the land vomyteth out her inhabiters. * Ye shall kepe therfore all myne ordinaunces and all my iudgementes, and do them: that the lande whether I bryng you to dwell therin, spewe you not out. * Ye shall not walke in the maners of this nacion which I cast out before you: for they committed all these thynges, * and therfore I abhorred them. * But I haue sayde vnto you: ye shall enioye their lande, and I will geue it vnto you to possesse it, euen a lande that floweth with hony and mylke. I am the Lorde your God, which haue separated you from other nacions, * and therfore shall ye put difference betwene cleane beastes and vncleane, betwene vncleane foules and cleane. Ye shall not defyle your soules in beastes and foules, and in all maner creepynge thynges that the grounde bryngeth forth which I haue separated from you as vncleane. * Therefore shall ye be holy vnto me, for I the Lorde am holy, and haue seuered you from other nacions, that ye should be myne. * If there be man or woman that hath with a spirite, or that is a coniurer, let them dye. Ston shall stone them with stones, their blond be vpon them.

AND the Lorde sayd vnto Moses: speake vnto the children of Aaron, & saye vnto them. Let none be defyled vpon a soule among his people: but vpon hys kynsman that is nye vnto him: vpon his father, and his mother, vpon his son and doughter, and his brother and on his vnmaryed sister that is nye vnto him, whom no man hath knowne, vpon her shall he be defyled. * But he shall not be defyled vpon him that hath auctho-rite among his people, to polute him selfe for him. Let them not make * baldnes vpon their head, nor shaue of the lockes of their bearde, nor make any markes in their flesh. * They shall be holy vnto their God, and not polute the name of their God, for the sacrifices of the Lorde which are the meate of their God, offer they therfore, & they shall be holy. * Let them not take a wife that is an abhominacion, or polluted, nor put from her husbande: for such a one is holy vnto hys God. * Thou shalt counte him therfore holy, for he offereth vp the bread of thy God: he shall therfore be holy vnto thee, for I the Lorde which counte you holy, * am holy. * If a priestes doughter fall to playe the whore, she polluteth her father: therfore shall she be burnt with fyre. * The chefe of the kynsmen among his brethren vpon whose heade the anoyntyng oyle hath ben poured, & whose hande is consecrated his office to put on the garmentes, shall not vncouer his head, nor rent his clothes. * Neyther go to any deade bo-dy, nor make himself vncleane on his father or his mother, neyther shall go out of the sanctuary, nor polute the holy place of his God, for the crowne of the anoyntyng oyle of his God is vpon him: I am the Lorde. * He shall take a mayde vnto his wife: but a wydow a deuorced woman, or an harlot, shall he not mary, but shall take a mayde of his own people vnto wife. * Neither shall he defyle his seede among his people: for I am the Lorde which sanc-tifie him. * And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: * speake vnto Aaron, and say: Whoso-euer of thy seede in their generacions hath any vnclenesse, let him not presume to offer bread vnto his God. * For whosoeuer hath any blemyshe, shall not come nere: as if he be blinde or lame, or that hath a slitted nose, or that hath any misshapen membre, or if he be fowle footed, or broken handed or fowle of feete or handes, or blere eyed, or skabbed, or scuruy in his eyen, or be mangie, or crushe, or hath his Cones broken. No man that hath a blemyshe of his seede of Aaron the priest shall come nye to offer the sacrifices of the Lorde. When he hath a blemyshe, let him not presume to offer the bread of his God. Let him eate the bread of his God: eyther of the most holy & of the holy: only let him not go in vnto the vayle, nor come nie the aultare, when he is defamed that he polute not my sanctuary, for I am the Lorde that sanctifie them. * And Moses tolde it vnto Aaron & to his sonnes, & vnto all the children of Israel.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: * speake vnto Aaro & his sonnes, that they be separated from the holy thynges of the children of Israel, & that they polute not my holy name in those thynges, which they halo-we vnto me: I am the Lorde. * Say vnto them: whosoeuer he be of all your sede among your generacions nere vnto the holy thinges which the children of Israel halowe vnto the Lorde, hauing his vncleanesse vpon him: that soule shall perish from out of my sight. I am the Lorde. * What man so-euer of the sede of Aaron is a leaper, or hath a running plage, he shall not eate of the holy thynges vntyl he be cleane. And whoso to-cheth any vncleane thyng vnder the soule of the head, or a man whose stre vnnetth hym-self: or whosoeuer toucheth any vncleane thyng of soeuer hee touche him, hee shall be vncleane vntill euen, and shall not eate of the holy thinges, vntill he haue washed his flesh with water. And when the Sunne is downe, he shall be cleane, and shall afterward eate of the holy thinges: for it is his foode.

Exo. xxii. c. 31. That which dyeth alone, or is rent with wilde beastes, (whereby he may be defiled) he shall not eate. I am the Lorde. Keepe therefore myne ordinaunce, lest they for the same lay sinne vpon them, and die for it, if they defile it. I the Lorde sanctifie them.

There shall no straunger eate of the holy thyng: neither a gest of the priest, neither shall an hyred seruaunt eate of the holy thyng. But if the priest bye any soule with money, he shall eate of it, like as he that is borne in his house, shall eate of his breade. If the daughter also be maried vnto a straunger, she may not eate of the lifted vp holy offrynges. But if a widdow or diuorced be the priestes daughter, be a barren or denoyded and haue no childe, but is returned vnto her fathers house againe, she shall eate of her fathers breade, as well as she dyd in her youth. But there shall no straunger eate ther of. If a man eate of the holy thyng vnwittingly, he shall put the fifte part therevnto, and geue it vnto the priest with the halowed thyng. And the priest shall not defile the holy thynges of the children of Israel, which they offer vnto the Lorde, to lade them selues with wickednes and trespasse whiles they eate their holy thynges, for I the Lorde do halowe them. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto Aaron and his sonnes, and vnto all the children of Israel, and saye vnto them: whatsoeuer he be of the house of Israel, or straunger in Israel, that will offer his sacrifice for all his vowes, and for all his freewill offrynges wherewith they will offer vnto the Lorde for a burnt offrynge, ye shall offer (to reconcyle your selues) a male without blemyshe of the oxen, of the sheepe, or of the goates. But whatsoeuer hath blemyshe, that shall ye not offer, for ye shall get no fauoure therwith. And whosoeuer bringeth a peace offrynge vnto the Lorde (according as he is appointed) man or woman, for a free will offrynge in oxen or sheepe, that is without blemyshe, he shalbe accepted. There shalbe also no blemyshe therin: blynde or broken, or wounded, or haue a wen, or be mangie, or scabbed. Ye shall not offer such vnto the Lorde, nor put an offrynge of any such vpon the aulter vnto the Lorde. Either an oxe or a sheepe that hath any member more or of proporcion more then other, for a freewill offrynge, but for a vowe it shall not be accepted. Ye shall not offer vnto the Lorde that which is broken, or plucked out, or cut away, neither shall ye make any such in your lande, neither of a straungers hande shall ye offer bread vnto your God, or any such. Because their corrupcion is therin, and their spottes are in them: therfore shall they not be accepted for you. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: When an oxe, or a sheepe, or a goate is brought forth, it shalbe seuen dayes vnder the dammes. And from the eyght daye forth, it shalbe accepted for a sacrifice vnto the Lorde. And whether it be oxe or sheepe, ye shall not kyll it and her yong both in one daye. When ye will offer a thanke offrynge vnto the Lorde, offer it that ye may be accepted. And the same day it must be eaten vp, so that ye leue none of it vntil the morow. I am the Lorde. Therefore kepe ye my commaundementes, and do them. I am the Lorde. Neither shall ye polute my holy name, but I will be halowed among the children of Israel. I am the Lorde which halowe you, and that brought you out of the lande of Egipt, to be your God: I am the Lorde.

The. xxiii. Chapiter.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto the children of Israel, & say vnto them: these are my feastes and the feastes of the Lorde, which ye shall call holy conuocations. Sixe dayes ye shall worke: But the seuenth day is the Sabboth of rest, an holy conuocation, so that ye do no worke therin, it is the Sabboth of the Lorde in all your dwellynges. These are the feastes of the Lorde, even holy conuocations, which ye shall proclayme in their seasons. In the. xiiij. daye of the firste moneth at euen is the Lordes passeouer. And on the fifteneth daye of the same moneth is the feast of vnsure bread vnto the Lorde: seuen dayes ye must eate vnleuened breade. In the first daye ye shall haue an holy conuocation: ye shall do no labour of worke therin. But ye shall offer sacrifices vnto the Lorde seuen dayes, and in the seuenth daye is an holy conuocation vnto you: ye shall do no labourous worke therin. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto the children of Israel, and saye vnto them: when ye become into the lande (which I geue vnto you) and reape downe the haruest therof, ye shall bring a sheafe of the firstfruites of your haruest vnto the priest, which shall haue the sheafe before the Lorde to be accepted for you: and euen the morowe after the Sabboth the priest shall waue it. And ye shall offer that day when ye haue the sheafe waued, an he lambe without blemyshe of a yeare olde, for a burnt offrynge vnto the Lorde: and the meate offrynge therof, shalbe two tenth deales of fine flour mingled with oyle, to be a sacrifice of a swete sauour vnto the Lorde: for a drinke offrynge therof shalbe of wine, euery fourth

Num. xv. a.

C. tells of an pin. And ye shall cease neither breake the sabboth, nor feare my sanctuarie: I am the Lord. If ye walke in my statutes, and keepe my commaundements, and doe them: Then will I giue you rayne in due season, and the earth shall bring forth her increase, and the trees of the fielde shall geue their fruite. And your threshing shall reache vnto the vintage, and the vintage shall reache vnto the sowing time: and ye shall eate your bread to the full, and dwell in your lande safely. And I will geue peace in the lande, and ye shall lie downe, and none shall feare: and I will cause the euill beastes to cease out of the lande, neither shall the sworde goe through your lande. And ye shall chase your enemies, and they shall fall before you by the sworde.
And fiue of you shall chase an hundreth, and an hundreth of you shall put ten thousande to flight: and your enemies shall fall before you by the sworde. For I will haue respect vnto you, and make you growe, and multiplie you, and stablish my couenaunt with you. And ye shall eate olde store, and cast out the olde because of the newe.
And I will set my tabernacle among you, and my soule shall not abhorre you. And I will walke among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people. I am the Lord your God, which brought you out of the lande of Egypt, that ye should not be their bondmen: and I haue broken the bandes of your yoke, and made you goe vpright.
But if ye will not heare me, and will not doe all these commaundements: And if ye despise my statutes, and if your soule abhorre my iudgements, so that ye will not doe all my commaundements, but that ye breake my couenaunt: I will euen thus doe vnto you, I will appoynt ouer you trouble, consumption, and burning ague, that shall consume the eyes, and cause sorrowe of heart: and ye shall sowe your seede in vayne, for your enemies shall eate it. And I will set my face against you, and ye shall be slayne before your enemies: they that hate you shall reigne ouer you, and ye shall flee when no man pursueth you. And if ye will not yet for all this heare me, then will I punish you seuen times more for your sinnes. And I will breake the pride of your power, and I will make your heauen as yron, and your earth as brasse. And your strength shall be spent in vayne: for your lande shall not geue her increase, neither shall the trees of the lande geue their fruite. And if ye walke contrarie vnto me, and will not heare me: I will bring seuen times more plagues vpon you according to your sinnes. And I will sende wilde beastes among you, which shall robbe you of your children, and destroye your cattell, and make you few in number, that your wayes shall be desolate. Are ye not better then they? Or shall I spare you for their sakes? Or shall I not rather punish you for your owne sinnes? For I know your vnrighteous dealing, and your stubborne hearte. Therefore I will not spare you, but will smite you, and will destroye you for your sinnes.
I will not spare you, but will smite you, and will destroye you for your sinnes. I will not spare you, but will smite you, and will destroye you for your sinnes. I will not spare you, but will smite you, and will destroye you for your sinnes. I will not spare you, but will smite you, and will destroye you for your sinnes.

¶ The xxv. Chapiter.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses in B. mount Sinai, saynge: Speake vnto the children of Israell, & saye vnto them: when ye be come into the land which I geue you, the lande shall rest, & kepe Sabboth vnto the Lorde. Sixe yeres thou shalt sowe thy Exo. xxiij.d. felde, & sixe yeres thou shalt cut thy vineyarde, & gather in the fruite therof. But the seuēth yere shalbe a Sabboth of rest vnto the Deut. xv.a. lande. The Lordes Sabboth it shalbe: thou shalt neyther sowe thy felde, nor cut thy vi-neyarde. That which groweth of the owne accorde thou shalt not reape, neyther gather the grapes that thou hast lefte behinde for it is a yere of rest vnto the lande. And the rest of the lande shalbe mete for you: euen for thee, for thy seruaunt and for thy mayde, for thy hyred seruaunt, and for the straunger that sogeourneth with thee and for thy catel and for the beastes that are in the lande, shall all the encrease therof be meate. And thou shalt numbre seuen Sabbothes of yeres vnto thee, euen seuen times seuen yeres: and the space of the seuen Sabbothes of yeres, shall be vnto the nyne & fourtie yere. And then thou shalt make a trumpe blowe in the tenth day of the seuen moneth, euen in the daye of atonement shall ye make the trompe blowe, throughout all your lande. And thou shalte halowe that yere: euen the fiftieth yere, & proclayme libertye throughout the lande: vnto all the inhabiters therof. For it shalbe a yere of iubilie vnto you, and ye shall returne euery man vnto his possession, and euery man vnto his kynred againe. A yere of iubelie shall that fiftieth yere be vnto you. Ye shall not sowe neither reape that which groweth of it self, neyther gather the grapes that are lefte.
For that yere of iubelie shall be holy vnto you: but ye shall eate of the increase therof out of the felde. In the yere of this iubelie ye shall returne euery man vnto his possession again. If thou sellest ought vnto thy neigh-boure, or buyest of thy neighbours hande, ye shal not disceaue one another: but accordyng to the nōbre of yeres after the iubelye yere thou shalte buye of thy neyghboure, and accordynge vnto the nomber of yeres and of C. the frutes, he shall sell vnto thee. Accordyng vnto the multitude of yeres, he shall encrease the price therof, and accordynge to the fewenesse of yeares, he shall minishe the price of it: for the nōbre of frutes doeth he sell vnto 1. Pet. iij.a. thee. * Disceaue not ye therfore euery man his neighboure, but thou shalte feare thy God.
For I am the Lorde your God. Wherfore ye shall do after mine ordinaunces: and kepe my lawes, and do them, and ye shall dwell in the lande in safety. And the Lord shall geue her frute, & ye shall eate your fyll: & dwell therin in safty. And yf ye shall saye: what shall we eat the seuenth yere, for we shal not sowe, nor gather in our increase? I will send my blessynge vpon you in the sixt yeare, and it shall bringe forth frute for three yeares: and ye shall sowe the eyght yeare, and eate yet of olde corne vntill the ninth yere: euen vntill her frutes come, ye shall eate of olde store.
D. The lande shal not be solde to be waste: for Deut. xxiij.a. † the lande is myne, & ye be but straungers and soiourners with me. In all the lande of your possession ye shall graunt a redemcio for the lāde. If the brother be waxed poore, Ruth. iij.a. & hath solde away of his possession, and yf Jere. xxxij.b. any of his kynne come to redeme it, let him but out that which his brother solde. And yf he haue no man to redeme it, let his hand get so much and may be sufficient to bye hym again, and let hym counte with hym from the yere that he solde hym vnto hym, and the money that he was solde for, shalbe after the rate of the yeres: as though the dayes of a seruaunte were but as the dayes of an hyred seruaunte with hym. And yf there be yet many yeres behynde, after the rate of them he shall gyue ageine vnto his redemption, out of the money that he was bought for. And yf there be but few yeres remaynynge vnto the yere of iubelie, then he shall counte with hym, and gyue ageine for his redemption, according vnto his yeres.

And as a hyred seruaunte shall he be with hym, and the other shall not rule crueldy ouer hym in thy sight. And yf he be not redemed by any of these meanes, then shall he go out in the yere of iubelie, both he and his children with him. For vnto me the children of Israell are seruauntes, whiche I brought out of the lande of Egipte: I am the Lorde your God.

The xxvi. Chapiter.

I shall ye make you no ydoll nor graue image, neither reare you vp any stone image, shall ye set vp ouer your land to bowe downe vnto it: for I am the Lorde your God.
Ye shall kepe my Sabbothes, & feare my sanctuary: for I am the Lorde. If ye walke in myne ordinaunces and kepe my commaundementes, and do them, I will sende you rayne in the right season, and the lande shall yelde her increase, and the trees of the feld shal geue their fruite. And the threshynge shall reache vnto wyne haruest, & the wine haruest shall reache vnto the sowynge tyme, and ye shall eate your breade in plenteousnesse, and dwell in your lande prosperously. And I will sende peace in the lande, & ye shal slepe without any man make you afrayde. And I will cause euell beastes out of the lande, and there shall no sworde go thorowout your lande. And ye shall chace your enemies, and they shall fall before you vpon the sworde.

E. to whom he solde it, that he may resume it to him selfe ageine. And as for his hande that was not able to gyue ageine, then he that bought it shall kepe it vntyll the yere of iubelie: for in the iubelie it shall go out, and he shall returne vnto his possession. And yf a man sell a house of a habitacion within the walles of a citie, he may bye it ageine within the space of a whole yere after it is solde: vnto any daye of the yere shall he redeme it ageine. But and yf he bye it not ageine within the space of a whole yere, then the house that is within the walled citie, shalbe stablished, and be his of whome that bought it, and his successours after hym, and shall not go out in the iubelie. But the houses of villages, whiche haue no walles aboute them, shalbe counted as the felde of the countre, they may be bought ageine, and shall returne in the iubelie.
Notwithstandyng the cities of the Leuites and the houses of the cities of their possession, may the Leuites redeme at all tymes.
And yf a man purchase oughte of the Leuites, the house that was solde and the citie of their possession shall go out in the yere of iubelie: for the houses of the cities of the Leuites, are their possession amonge the children of Israell. But the felde of the suburbe that is beside their Cities, may not be solde: for it is their perpetuall possession. If thy brother be waxen poore, & fallen in decaye with the, thou shalte relieue hym, both the straunger & sojourner, that he may liue with the. And thou shalt take none vsu-rye of him, or aduantage, but thou shalt feare thy God, that thy brother may liue with the.
Thou shalte not geue hym thy money vpon vsurye, nor lende him thy corne for en-crease. I am the Lorde your God, whiche brought you out of the lande of Egipte: to geue you the lande of Canaan, and to be your God. If thy brother that dwelleth by the, be waxen poore, and be solde vnto the, thou shalte not compell hym to the bondage of seruauntes: but as an hyred seruaunte, and as a sojourner he shall be with the, & shall serue the vnto the yere of iubelie, and then shall he departe from the: both he and his children with hym, and shall returne vnto his owne kinred ageine, and vnto the possession of their fathers. For they are my seruauntes, whiche I brought out of the lande of Egipte: and shall not therfore be sold as bonde men. Thou shalt not reigne ouer hym crueldy, but shalt feare thy God. Thy bonde seruaunt and thy bonde maydes which thou shalt haue, shall be of the heathen that are rounde about you: of them shall ye get your bonde seruauntes & maydens. And of the children of the straun-gers that are sojourners amonge you, and of their generacion that are with you, whiche they haue begotten in your lande. Them shall be your possession, and ye shall take them as inheritaunce for your children after you, to possesse them, they shall be your bondemen for euer. But ouer your brethren the children of Israell, ye shall not reigne one ouer another crueltie. If a sojourner or a straunger waxe ryche by the, and thy brother that dwelleth by hym waxe poore, & sell him selfe vnto the straunger or sojourner by the, or to any of the straungers kyn, after that he is solde, he may be redemed ageine: one of his brethren that will rather bye vnto him, or his vncles son may bye hym out: or any that is nye of kyn vnto hym of his kynred, may redeme him: rather yf his hande can gette so muche, he may be loced. And he shall reken with hym that bought hym from the yere that he was solde to him, vnto the yere of iubelie: & the price of his bying shalbe valued according vnto the nombre of yeres. As an hyred seruaunt shal he be with hym. If there be yet many yeres behynde, according vnto the[m] let hym gene ageine for his reliuerance, of the money that he was bought for. If there remayne but few yeres vnto the yere of iubelie, let him counte with him ageine, & according vnto his yeres gene hym ageine for his redemption and he shalbe with him yere by yere as an hyred seruaunt and the other shall not reigne crueltie ouer him in thy sight. If he be not redemed thus, he shal go out in the yeare of iubelie, both he and his children with him: for the children of Israel are my seruauntes, which I brought out of the lande of Egipt. I am the Lorde your God.

downe vnto it: for I am the Lorde your God.
Ye shall kepe my Sabbothes, & feare my sanctuary: for I am the Lorde. If ye walke in myne ordinaunces and kepe my commaundementes, and do them, I will sende you rayne in the right season, and the lande shall yelde her increase, and the trees of the
ye shall eate your breade in plenteousnesse,
without any man make you afrayde. And I
they shall fall before you vpon the sworde.

* And five of you shall chase an hundred, and an hundred of you shall put ten thousand to flight, and your enemies shall fall before you upon the edge of the sword. For I will have respect unto you, and make you encrease & multiplie you, and stablish my covenaunt with you. And ye shall eate olde store, and cary out olde for the newe. * And I will make my dwellynge place amonge you, and my soule shall not loth you. I will walke amonge you, and wilbe your God, & ye shalbe my people. I am the Lorde youre God, which brought you out of the lande of Egipt, that ye shuld not be their bondmen and I have broken the thonges of your yoke, and made you go upright. * But and ye wyl not harken unto me, nor will not do after these commaundementes. And ye ye shall despise myne ordinaunces, other ye your soule abhorre my lawes, so that ye will not doo all my commaundementes, but breake myne appointmente, I also will do this unto you. For I will bringe upon you fearfulnesse, swellynge of body, and the burnynge ague to consume your eies, and grieve your sede in vaine, for your enemies shall eate it. And I will set my face against you, and ye shall fal before your enemies and they that hate you shal reigne over you, * and ye shal flee, when no man followeth you. And yf ye will not yet for all this herken unto me, then will I punishe you seuen times more for your synnes, and will breake the pride of your stubbernes. And I will make your heauen as iron, and your earth as brasse, and your labour shalbe spent in vain. For your lande shall not geue her increace, neither shal the trees of the lande geue their frutes. And ye ye walke contrarye unto me, and will not harken unto me. I will bringe seuen times mo plagues upon you accordynge to your synnes. I will also sende in wilde beastes upon you, which shall rob you of your children, and destroie your catel, & make you fewe in nombre, & cause youre hie waies to growe unto a wildernesse. And ye ye may not be reformed by these thynges but shall walke contrary unto me, then will I also walke contrary unto you, and wil punishe you yet seuen times for your sinnes. And I will sende a swearde upon you, that shall auenge my couenaunte. And whē ye are gathered togethers within your cities, I will sende the pestilence amonge you, and ye shalbe deliuered into the hand of the enemie. And when I have broken the staffe of your breade, ten wiues shall bake your breade in one ouen, & they shall deliuer you your breade againe by weight * ye shall eate, and not be satisfied. And yf ye will not yet for all this, herken unto me, but shall walke against me, I will walke contrari unto you also in indignacion, and will chastise you seuen times more for your sinnes. * And ye shall eate the flesshe of your sonnes and the flesshe of your doughters shall ye deuoure. I will destroye your hie places, and rote out your images, & cast your caraskes upon the bodies of your gods, & my soule shal abhorre you. And I will make your cities desolate, & bringe your sanctuary unto nought, and will not smell the swetenesse of your odoures. I will bringe the land unto a wildernesse, & your enemies which dwell therin, shal wonder at it. And I will skater you amonge the heithen, and will drawe out a swearde after you, & your land shalbe waste and your cities desolate. Then shal the lande enioye her Sabbothes, as longe as it lieth voyde, & ye shalbe in your enemies lande, even then shall the lande rest, and rejoyce in her Sabbothes. As longe as it lyeth voyde, it shall rest, because it did not rest in your sabbothes, when ye dwelte upon it. And upon them that are lefte alive of you, I wil sende a faintenesse into their hertes in the lande of their enemies, and the sounde of a shakynge leafe, shall chase them, and when they flee the swearde, they shall fall: no man followynge upon them. They shall fall one upon another, as it were before a swearde, euen no man followynge upon them, and ye shall have no power to stande before your enemies. And ye shall perishe amonge the heithen, and the lande of your enemies shall rate you up. And they that are lefte of you, shall pine awaie in their unrighteousnesse in their enemies lande, and in the misdedes of their fathers shall they consume. And they shall confesse their misdedes and the misdedes of their fathers for their trespace, which they have trespaced against me, and for that also that they have walked contrary unto me. Therfore, I also wil walke contrary unto them, and will bringe them into the lande of their enemies. And then at the lest may their unreuerencised hertes be tamed, and they shall make attonement for their misdedes. And * I will remember my couenaunt with Jacob, and my bonde with Isahac, and mine appointment with Abraham will I remember, and will thinke on the lande. The lande shalbe left of them, and shal enioye her Sabbothes while she lieth waste without them. And they shall make an attonement for their misdedes, because they despised my lawes, & because their soule refused mine ordinaunces. And yet for all that when they be in the land of their enemies, * I will not cast them away, neither will abhorre them, to destroie them vtterly, and to breake myne appointmente with them: for I am the Lorde their God. N. AND the Lord spake vnto Moses, saiyng speake vnto the children of Israell, and saye vnto them: Yf any man will geue a singuler vowe vnto the Lord, accordyng to the value of the soules, the value of the male fro twenty yere olde vnto sixtie shalbe fifty* sicles Numb.3. of siluer, after the weight of the sanctuary. And yf it be a female the value shalbe thirtie sicles. And fro fiue yeres to twenty, the male shalbe set at twenty sicles, and the female at x. sicles. And from a moneth vnto fiue yere, the male shalbe set at fiue sicles of siluer, and the female at three. And he that is sixtie yere olde, and aboue, shall be valued at fifteene sicles, and the woman at ten. But yf he be to poore to be set he shall presente hym selfe before the Priest: and the Priest shall value hym accordyng as the hand of hym that vowed is able to gette, euen so shal the Priest value hym. If it be a beaste of B. which men bring an offering vnto the Lord: all that any man geueth of such vnto the lord shall be counted holye. He shall not auitar it nor chaunge it a good for a bad, or a bad for a good. And yf he chaunge beaste for beaste, then both the same beast & it also whom it was chaunged shalbe holye. Yf it be any maner of vnclean beast, of which men do not offer a sacrifice vnto the Lorde, he shall set the beaste before the Priest, and the Priest shal valuit, whether it be good or bad. And as the Priest setteth it, so shal it be. But he will bye it a nue, he shall geue the fifte parte more aboue that it was set at. Yf any man dedicate his house to be holy vnto the Lord: the Priest shall set it, whether it be good or bad, and as the Priest hath set it, so shall the value be. And when he that sanctified it will redeme his house, let hym geue the fiftye part of the money that it was iudged at ther-to, and it shalbe his. Yf a man bequeathe a pece of his enheritedland vnto the Lorde: it shal C. be set accordyng to the sede therof. Yf it beare an homer of barly it shalbe set at fifty sicles of siluer. Yf he bequeathe his feelde im-mediatly from the yere of iubelie, it shall be worth accordyng as it is esteemed. But and yf he bequeathe his feelde after the iubelye, the Priest shall reken the money accordyng to the nomber of the yeres that remaine vnto the yere of iubelie folowyng and ther after it shalbe lower set. Yf he that consecrated the feelde, will redeme it againe, let hym put he fifte parte of the price that it was set at therunto, and it shalbe his. And if he will not redeme the feelde, but selleth the feelde another man, he (that nowe) may redeme it nomore.
But when the feelde goeth out in the yeare of iubilie, it shalbe holy vnto the Lorde, as a feelde that is vtterlie dedicated: it shalbe the Priestes possession. Yf a man sanctifie vnto the Lorde a feelde which he hath bought, and is not of his enheritaunce, the Priest shall reken vnto him, what it is worthe vnto the yere of iubelie, & he shal geue the price that it is set at, the same daye, as a thyng consecrated vnto the Lorde. And in the yeare of iubelie, the feelde shal return vnto hym whose enheritaunce of lande it is. And all estymage shalbe accordyng to the sicle* of the san- Exo.xxx. ctuarye. One sicle conteineth twenty halfepens.* But the firste borne of the beast, that Deut.xv. is appointed vnto the Lord, may no man sanc-tifie: whether it be oxe or shepe, for it is the Lordes alredy. Yf it be an vnclean beast, Dt he shall redeme it, as it is set at, & geue the fifte parte more therto: Or if it be not redeemed, it shalbe solde, according to the value.
Notwithstandyng, no deuoted thyng that a man putteth from him & dedicateth vnto the Lord of all his good (whether it be man or beast or land of his enheritance) may be solde or redemed: for euery thynge so put away is most holy vnto the Lord. Let no deuoted thing that a mā seperateth be redemed, but dye the death. Euery tith of the land which is of the sede of the lande, or of the frute of the trees is the Lordes: it is sanctified vnto the Lord.
And yf a man will redeme ought of his tyth-thes, let him adde the fifte part therto. And e-uery tyth of oxe & of shepe & of euery beaste that goth vnder the rod, euen euery tith shal be holy vnto the Lord. He shall not loke if it be good or bad, nor chaunge it. Else yf he chaunge it, both it, & that it was chaunged withal, shalbe halowed vnto the Lord, & may not be redemed. These are the cōmaundmēts which the Lord cōmaunded by Moses vnto the children of Israell in mounte Sinai.

from .xx. yere & aboue: all thos go forth to the warre in Israell, thou and Aaron shall nomber them, thorowout their armies, & with you shalbe men of every tribe, euery one is principall of the house of his fathers. And these are the names of the men that shall stande with you: of the tribe of Ruben Elisur, the sonne of Sedeur: of Symeon: Selumiel the son of Suri. Iudah: Nahasson, the sonne of Aminadab. Of Isachar, Nathanael, the son of Suar. Of Zabulon, Eliab, the son of Helon. Amonge the children of Ioseph: of Ephraim, Elisama, the son of Ammihud: of Manasse, Gamaliel, the sonne of Pedahzur: of Ben Iamin, Abedan the sonne of Gedeoni: of Dan, Ahiezer, the son of Ammi, Sudai: of Aser, Pagiel, the son of Ocran: of Gad: Eliasaph, the sonne of Deguel: of Nephthali, Ahira the son of Enan. These were de greate fame in the congregacion, Lordes of the tribes of their fathers, and heades ouer thousandes in Israel. And Moses & Aaron tooke these men (whiche are expressed by their names) & gathered all the congregacion together, the first day of the seconde moneth, & they were reckened thorowout their kynredes & houses of their fathers & by name from twenty yere & aboue, head by head. As the Lord commaunded Moses, euen so he nombred them in the wildernes of Sinai. And the children of Ruben Israels eldest sonne thorowout their generacions, & their kynredes & houses of their fathers in the nombre of names head by head (al males from twenty yeare & aboue) as many as did go forth to the warre: the nombre of them that were of the tribe of Ruben, was .xlvi. thousande, & fiue hundred. Of the children of Symeon thorowout their generacions & their kynredes, and houses of their fathers, the summe of them in the nombre of names, head by head, all the males fro twenty yeres & aboue, who soeuer might go forth to the warre: the summe of them that were of the tribe of Symeon .lix. thousandes & three hundred. Of the children of Gad thorowout their generacions & their kynredes and houshoides of their fathers, the nombre of the names from twenty yere and aboue, all that went forth to the warre: the nombre of them that were of the tribe of Gad, was .xlv. thousande, fyue hundred and fifty. Of the children of Iuda thorowout their generacions, & their kynredes & houses of their fathers, the nombre of names from twenty yere & aboue, all that were able to go forth to the warre: the nombre of them that were of the tribe of Iuda was .lxxiiii. thousand & fyue hundred. Of the children of Isachar thorowout their generacions and their kynredes & houses of their fathers: the nombre of names from twenty yeres & aboue, which went all forth to warre, the nombre of them that were of the tribe of Isachar, was .liii. thousand & .iiii. hundred.

Of the children of Zabulon, thorowout their generacions & their kynredes & houses of their fathers, the nombre of names from twenty yere & aboue, which were able to go forth in the hoste: the nombre of them that were of the tribe of Zabulon, was .lvii. thousandes & four hundred. Of the children of Ioseph: Namely, of the children of Ephraim thorowout their generacions & their kynredes and houses of their fathers, the nombre of names from twenty yere & aboue, al that went forth to the warre: the nombre of them that were of the tribe of Ephraim was .xl. thousande and fiue hundred. Of the children of Manasse thorowout their generacions, and their kynredes, and houses of their fathers, the nombre of names from twenty yere olde and aboue, al that went out to the warre: the nombre of them that were of the tribe of Manasse was .xxxii. thousande and .ii. hundred. Of the children of Ben Iamin thorowout their generacions, and their kynredes and houses of their fathers, the nombre of names from twenty yeare and aboue, all that went forth to the warre. The nombre of them that were of the tribe of Ben Iamin was .xxxv. thousande & .iiii. hundred. Of the children of Dan thorowout their generacions & kynredes & houses of their fathers: the nombre of names from twenty yere olde & aboue, all that went forth to the warre: the nombre of them that were of the tribe of Dan was .lxii. thousande & seuen hundred. Of the children of Aser thorowout their generacions & their kynredes and houses of their fathers, the nombre of the names from twenty yeres & aboue, all that went out to warre. The nombre of them that were of the tribe of Aser was .xli. thousande and fiue hundred. Of the children of Nephtali thorowout their generacions & their kynredes & houses of their fathers: the nombre of names from twenty yeres & aboue, all that might go forth to the warre: the nombre of them that were of the tribe of Nephtali, was three & fifty thousande & foure hundred. These are the summes which Moses & Aaron nombred and the princes of Israell: three twelue men, which were every one ouer the house of their fathers. And all the nombres of the children of Israell, thorowout the houses of their fathers, fro twenty yere and aboue, all that went forth to the warre in Israell, euene all vnto the summe of six hundred and three thousand, fiue hundred and fifty. appoint the Leuites ouer the habitacion of witnesse, and ouer all the vessels therof, and ouer all thynges that apertayne vnto it. Yee, they shall beare the tabernacle and all the vessels therof, and they shall minister vnto it, and shall dwell rounde about the tabernacle. And when the tabernacle goeth forth, the Leuites shall take it downe: and when the tabernacle is to be pitched, they shall set it vp: yf any straunge thynge come nye, he shall dye. And the children of Israell shall pitche their tentes, euery man in his owne company, and euery man vnder his owne standerd throughout their hoostes. But the Leuites shall pitche rounde about the tabernacle of witnesse, that there be no wrath vpon the congregacion of the children of Israel, & the Leuites shall kepe the watch of the tabernacle of witnesse. And the children of Israel dyd accordyng to all that the Lorde commaunded Moses, euen so dyd they.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron, saying: euery man of the children of Israell shall pitche vnder his owne standerd and vnder the armes of their fathers house: on the other syde rounde about the tabernacle of witnesse shall they pitche. On the east syde towarde the rysyng of the Sonne, shall they of the standerde of the hoost of Iuda pitche, throughout their armies. Nahasson the sonne of Aminadab shall be captayne of the children of Iuda. Now his hoost and the nombre of them, lxxiiij. thousande and fyue hundred. Nere vnto him shal they that be of the tribe of Isachar pitche and Nathanaell the sonne of Suar shall be captayne of the children of Isachar: his hoost, and the sum of the nombre therof, liij. thousande and foure hundred. And then shall the tribe of Zabulon and Eliab the sonne of Helon, captayne ouer the children of Zabulon, and his hoost, and the nombre of them, lvij. thousande and foure hundred: so that the whole nombre of the whole hoost of Iuda is an hundred thousande, clxxvi. thousande and foure hundred. Thus shall they go before. On the South syde shall the standerd of the hoost of Ruben kepe throughout their companyes: and the captayne ouer the sonne of Ruben, was Elezur the sonne of Sedeur. And his hoost and the nombre of them, xlvi. thousande and fyue hundred. Vnderneth him shall the tribe of Symeon pitche, & the captayne ouer the sonnes of Symeon, was Salumiell the son of Surisadai. And his hoost and the nombre of them, lix. thousande & three hundred. And the tribe of Gad also: and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Gad, was Eliasaph the sonne of Reguell. And his hoost and the nombre of them, xlv. thousande fyue hundred & fyfty. All that were nombred with the tribe of Ruben, an hundred thousande, & fyfty thousande fyue hundred and fyfty, shall go out their armies, and they shall go in the seconde place. And the tabernacle of witnesse shall go with the hoost of the Leuites, in the myddes of the hoostes. And as they lye in their tentes, euen so shall they procede in their iourney, euery man in his rowe, and vnder their owne standerdes. The Weste syde shall the standerd of the hoost of Ephraim kepe with their armies and the captaine ouer the sonnes of Ephraim, was Elisama the sonne of Ammihud. His hoost and the nombre of them, xl. thousande and fyue hundred. And next by him, shall the tribe of Manasse, and the captaine ouer the sonnes of Manasse was Gamaliel the sonne of Pedazur. His hoost and the nombre of them, xxxij. thousande & two hundred. And the tribe of Benjamin also: and the captaine ouer the sonnes of Benjamin was Abidan the son of Gideoni. His hoost & the nombre of them, xxxv. thousande and foure hundred. All that were appointed with the hoost of Ephraim were an hundred thousande & eyght thousande and an hundred, those out their armies, and they shall go in the thirde place. The standerd of the hoost of Dan shall kepe the North syde with their armies: the captaine ouer the children of Dan, was Ahiezer the sonne of Ammi Sadai. His hoost and the nombre of them, lxij. thousande and seuen hundred. And next by him shall the tribe of Aser pitche and the captaine ouer the sonnes of Aser, was Pagiell the sonne of Ocran. His hoost and the nombre of them, xli. thousande & fyue hundred. And the tribe of Nepthali also, and the captaine ouer the children of Nephtali was Ahira the sonne of Enan. His hoost and the nombre of them, liij. thousande & foure hundred. All they that were appointed with the hoste of Dan, was an hundred thousande, lvij. thousande and .vij. hundred. And they shall go hyndmoste with their standerdes. These are the summes of the children of Israell throughout their houses of their fathers: all the nombres that pitched thorowout their hoostes, vi. hundred thousande thre thousande fyue hundred and fyfty. But the Leuites were not nombred amonge the children of Israell as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And the children of Israel dyd accordyngly to all that the Lorde commaunded Moses, so: as they pitched with their standerdes, and so they iourned euery one out their kynredes and throughout the houshoulde of their fathers.

The .iij. Chapiter.

THese are the generacions of Aaron and Moses, in the day that the Lorde spake with Moses in mount Sinay. And these are the names of the sons of Aaron: Nadab the eldest son & Abihu, Eleazar & Ithamar. These are the names of the sonnes of Aaron which were * numbred and appointed, and whose hande was consecrated to minister. * And Nadab and Abiud died before the Lord: when they offered strange fire before the Lord in the wildernesse of Sinai, and had no children. And Eleazar and Ithamar ministred in the sight of Aaron their father. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: bringe the tribe of Leui, & ioyne them before Aaron the Priest, that they maye serue him, and waite vpon him and vpon all the multitude, before the tabernacle of witnesse, to do the seruice of the habitacion. They shall kepe all the apparell of the tabernacle of witnesse, and waite vpon the children of Israell to do the seruice of the habitacion. And thou shalt geue the Leuites vnto Aaron and his sons: for they are geuen and deliuered vnto him of the children of Israell. And thou shalt appoint Aaron and his sonnes to waite on their priestes office: and the straunger that commeth nye, shall be slaine. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: beholde, I haue taken the Leuites from amonge the children of Israell for all the firste borne that openeth the matrice amonge the children of Israel, & the Leuites shall be mine: for all the firste borne are mine: for the same daye that I smote all the firste borne in the lande of Egypte, I halowed vnto me all the firste borne in Israell, both man and beaste, and myne they shalbe: I am the Lord. And the Lord spake vnto Moses in the wildernesse of Sinai, saying: Nombre the children of Leui after the houses of their fathers and their kinredes. All that are males from a moneth olde and aboue shalt thou nombre. And Moses nombred them according to the commaundement of the Lord, and as he had commaunded. * And these were the children of Leui in their names: Gerson and Cahath and Merari. And these are the names of the children of Gerson in their kynredes: Libni and Semei. The sonnes of Cahath in their kynredes: Amram, Iezehar, Hebron and Uziel. And the sonnes of Merari in their kinredes, Mahali and Musi. These are the kynredes of the Leuites, according to the houses of their fathers. Of Gerson came the kinred of the Libnites & the kinred of the Semeites. These are the kinredes of the Gersonites. And the summe of them after the nombre of all the males from a moneth olde and aboue, was seuen thousande and fiue hundred. And the kynredes of the Gersonites shall pitche behinde the habitacion Westward. The captaine & most auncient of the house of the Gersonites, was Eliasaph the sonne of Lael. And vnder the keepinge of the children of Gerson in the tabernacle of witnesse was the habitacion and the tent the couerynge thereof, & the hangynge of the doore of the tabernacle of witnesse, the hangynges of the court, & the curtaine of the doore of the courte which is rounde about the tabernacle and the aulter, and the cordes of it for all the seruice thereof. And of Cahath came the kynredes of the Amramites, & the kinred of the Iezeharites, the kynred of the Hebronites, and the kynred of the Ozielites. These are the kynredes of the Cahathites. And the nombre of all the males from a moneth olde and aboue, was eight thousandes & fyue hundred, & these shall kepe the thinges that are to be kept in the holy place. And the kynred of the children of Cahath shall pitche on the south side of the tabernacle. The captaine & most auncient of the house of the kynred of the Cahathites, was Elisaphan the son of Uziell, and vnder their keepinge was the arke, the table, the candelsticke, & the aulters, and all the vessels of the sanctuary that they ministerin, and the vaile, & what soeuer belonged to the ministracion thereof. And Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the Priest, was captaine ouer all the captaines of the Leuites, & had the ouersyghte of them that waited vpon the sanctuarye. And of Merari, came the kynred of the Mahelites, & the kynred of the Musites. These are the kynredes of Merari. And the summe of them, according to the nombre of all the males from a moneth olde and aboue was six thousande and two hundred. The captain and the most auncient of them house that were of the kynred of Merari, was Zuriell the son of Abihaell, & these shall pitche on the North side of the tabernacle. And vnder the custody of the sonnes of Merari shall be the bordes of the dwellynge, and the barres, pillers and sockettes thereof, all the vessell thereto, & all that serueth thereto: the pillers of the courte round about, with their sockets, their pynnes & their cordes. But on the fore front of the habitacion before the tabernacle of witnesse Eastwarde shal Moses and Aaron and his sons pitche & waite to kepe the sanctuary, and to kepe the children of Israell. And the straunger that commeth nye, shalbe slaine. And the whole Summe of the Leuites whiche Moses and Aaron nombred, at the commaundemente of the Lord throughout their kynredes (euen all the males from a moneth olde and aboue) was * xxij. thousand. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses, Nombre all the firste borne that are males among the children of Israel (from a moneth olde and aboue) and take the number of their names. And thou shalt appointe the Leuites to me (for I am the Lord) for all the firste borne of the children of Israell, and the cattell of the Leuites for all the firste geuniche of the cattell of the children of Israell. And Moses nombred as the Lord commaunded him, all the firste borne of the children of Israell. And all the firste borne males (after the

the woman. If no man haue lien with thee, neither hast gone aside to vncleanes, being out of thy husbande, then shalt thou be innocent of this bitter and cursed water. But if thou hast gone aside, being vnder thy husbande, and art defiled, and some other man haue lien with thee, beside thy husbande, (or they shall charge the woman) with an horrible curse, and the priest shall say vnto the woman: The Lorde make thee to be an abhominacion, and a curse among thy people, when the Lorde doth make thy thigh rot, and thy belly to swell: and this cursed water shall go into thy belly, and make thy belly to swell, and thy thigh rot. And the woman shall say: Amen. Amen. And let the priest write these curses: And when she hath dronken the bitter water, then shall he cause the woman to drinke the bitter and cursed water: and when she hath dronken the bitter water, then shall he take the gelousy offring out of the womans hande, and waue the offring before the Lorde, & bring it vnto the altar, and the priest shall take an handfull of the offring, (as a memoriall) and burne it vpon the altar, & then shall cause the woman drinke the water: and when he hath made the woman drinke the water, (if she be defiled, and haue trespaced against her husband) then shall the cursed and bitter water go into her, and her belly shall swell, & her thigh shall rot, & the woman shalbe a curse among her people. And if the woman be not defiled, but (is) clene, she shall haue no harme, but shall conceiue and beare. This is the lawe of gelousie, when a wife goeth aside, being vnder her husbande, and is defiled, or when the spirite of gelousie cometh vpon a man, and he beyng gelous ones his wife, with bring her before the Lorde. And the priest shall do according vnto all this lawe, and the man shalbe giltlesse, and the woman shall beare her synne.

1. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto the children of Israell, and saie vnto them: when either man or woman, doth seperate themselues, to vowe a vowe of an abstinence, and appoynt themselues vnto the Lorde, he shall seperate himself from wine & strong drinke, and shall drinke no vineger of Wyne, or of strong drynke, nor shall drynke whatsoeuer is pressed out of grapes, & shall eate no fresshe grapes, neither nor dried. And long as his abstinence indureth, that he eate nothyng, that is made of the vineyerd, as of the cornelles, vnto the huske of the grape. And as long as he voweth, and is seperated, there shall no rasure come vpon his heed, vntill his daies be out, in the which he seperateth himself vnto the Lorde, he shalbe holy, and shall let the lockes of his heed grow. As long as he consecrateth himself vnto the Lorde, he shall come nere vnto no deed corse. He shall not make himself vncleane at the death of his father, mother, brother, or sister, because the crowne of the abstinence of his God is vpon his heed. All the dayes of his consecracion, he is holy vnto the Lorde. And if one dye very sodenly by him, so that the head of his consecracion is defiled, he shall shaue his heed the same day: the seuenth day shall he shaue it. And the eight day he shall bring two turtles, or two yonge pigeons vnto the priest, vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse. And the priest shall offer the one for a synne offring, and the other for a burnt offring, and shall make a reconciliacion for him, for that he hath synned by the dead, and shall halowe his heed the same day, and consecrate vnto the Lorde the dayes of his abstinence, and offer a lambe of a yere old for a trespace offring: but the dayes before are lost, because his abstinence is defiled. This is the lawe of the Nazarite. When the dayes of his abstinence are fulfilled, he shall bring him vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse, and offer his offring vnto the Lorde, a lambe of a yere old without blemysh, for a burnt offring, and a shee lambe of a yere old without blemysh, for a synne offring, and a ram without blemysh, for a peace offring, and a basket of vnleuened bread, euen cakes of fine flowre, myngled with oyle, and vnleuened wafers anointed with oyle, with their meate offring and their drinke offrings, and the priest shall bring them before the Lorde, and make his synne offring, and his burnt offring, and shall offer the ram for a sacrifice of peace offring vnto the Lorde, with the basket of vnleuened bread: the priest shall offer also his meate offring and his drinke offring. And the Nazarite shall shaue the head of his consecracion, at the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse, and shall take the heere of his consecracion, and put it in the fire, which is vnder the sacrifice of the peace offring. And the priest shall take the sholder of the ram sodden, and one vnleuened cake out of the basket, and one vnleuened wafer, and put them vpon the handes of the Nazarite, after he hath shaue his consecracion, and the priest shall waue them for a wauyng before the Lorde. And they are holy vnto the priest, with the wauyng breast and heue sholder, and then the Nazarite may drinke wine. This is the lawe of the Nazarite, which hath vowed his offring vnto the Lorde for his consecracion: beside that his hand can get, according to the vowe which he vowed, euen so he must do after the lawe of his abstinence. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto Aaron and his sonnes, saying: This shall ye blesse the children of Israell, and saie vnto them:

And thou shalt clense them, and waue them, for they are geuen and deliuered vnto me, from emong the children of Israell, for suche as open euery wombe: euen from the first borne of all the children Exod.xiij.a. of Israell, haue I taken them vnto me. For Luke.j.d. all the first borne of the children of Israell are myne, bothe man and beast: since the daie that I smote euery first borne in the land of Egipte, I sanctified them for my self: and I haue take the Leuites, for al the first borne of the children of Israel, and haue geuen the Leuites as a gift, vnto Aaron and his sonnes, from emong the children of Israell, to do the seruice of the children of Israell, in the tabernacle of witnesse, to make an attonement for the children of Israell, that ther be no plague emong the children of Israell, if the children of Israell come nye vnto the holy thynges. And Moses and Aaron, and al the congregation of the children of Israel did with the Leuites, accordyng vnto al that D. the Lorde commaunded Moses, concernyng the Leuites: euen so did the children of Israell vnto thē. And the Leuites were purified and washed their clothes. And Aaron waued them before the lorde, & made an attonement for them, and clensed them, After that went the Leuites, to do their seruice in the tabernacle of witnes, before Aarō and his sonnes: as the Lorde had commaunded Moses, concernyng the Leuites, euen so they did vnto them. And the lorde spake vnto Moses, saiyng: this is it that belongeth vnto the Leuites: from. xxv. yere vpward they shall go Num.viij.c. in, to waite vpon the seruice of the tabernacle of witnesse, and from the age of .l. yere, they shall cease waityng vpon the seruice thereof, and shall serue no more: but shal minister vnto their brethren, in the tabernacle of witnesse, to waite, but shall serue no more seruice. Thus therefore shalte thou do vnto the Leuites, in their watche.

B. AND the lorde spake vnto Moses, in the wildernesse of Sinai, in the first moneth Exod.xij.a. of the second yere, after they were come out Leuit.xxiij.a. of the lande of Egipte, saiyng: let the chil- Num.xxviij.c dren of Israell offer passouer, in his seasō: Deute.xvi.a. euen the .xiij. daie of this moneth at euen, let them kepe it vp in his season, accordyng to all the Ceremonies of it, and accordyng to al the maners therof. And Moses spake vnto the children of Israell, that they should offer passouer, and they offred passouer the xiij. daie of the first moneth at euen, in the wildernesse of Sinai, accordyng to all that the Lorde had commaunded Moses, euen so did the children of Israell. And certain men B. were defiled vpon the soule of a man, that they might not offer passouer the same daie. And they came before Moses and Aaron the same daie. And the men said vnto him: we are defiled vpon the soule of man: wherfore are we kept backe, that we may not offer an offryng vnto the lord in due season, emong the children of Israell? And Moses said vnto them: stande still, and I will heare what the lorde will cōmaunde, concernyng you. And the lorde spake vnto Moses, saiyng: speake vnto the children of Israell & saie: if any man emong you, or your children after you be vncleane, by the reason of a coarse, or is in the waie farre from you, and will offer passouer vnto the lorde: the .xiij. daie of the seconde moneth at euen, let the offer it, and eate it with sweete bread and sower herbes: let them leaue Exod.xij.g. none of it vnto the morowyng, nor breake Iohn.xix.f. any bone of it: but accordyng to all the ordi- C. naunce of the passouer, let the offer it. But the man that is clene, and is not in a iourney and yet was negligent to offer passouer: the same soule shall perishe from his people, because he brought not the offeryng of the lorde, in his due season, that man shall beare his synne. And if a stranger dwel emong you and will offer passouer vnto the Lorde, accordyng to the ordinaunce of passouer, and maner therof, he shall offer it thus. Ye shall haue one lawe, bothe for the straungier, and for hym that was borne at home in the land. At the same daie that the tabernacle was reared vp, a cloude couered the habitacō, which Exod.xl.c. was a tabernacle of the witnesse: and at xij.Weg.viij.b euen ther was vpō the habitation, as it were the similitude of fire, vntil the morowyng. So it was alwaie, the cloude couered it by daie, and the similitude of fire by night. And whē the cloude was taken vp frō of the tabernacle, then the children of Israell iourneied: & wher the cloude abode, there the children of Israel pitched their tentes. At the mouth of the lorde, the children of Israell iourneyed, and at the mouth of the lord, they pitched. And as long as the cloude abode vpon the habitation, they lay still: and when the cloude taried still vpon the habitacion long tyme, the children of Israell kepte the watche of the lord, and iourneied not. And it chaunced that when the cloude abode a few daies vpō the habitacion, they abode in their tentes, accor- D. dyng to the commaundement of the lorde: and they iourneyed also at the commaundement of

D. the lord. And it happened that whē the cloud abode vpon the habitacion, frō euen vnto the morowyng, and was taken vp in the morowyng, then they iourneyed. Whether it were by daie or by night, that the Cloude was taken vp, they iourneyed. Or if the cloude taried two daies or a moneth, or a long season, vpō the Habitacion, and remained thereon, the children of Israel abode still, and iourneyed not And assone as the cloud was taken vp, they iourneyed. At the mouthe of the lorde they rested in their tentes, and at the commaundmēt of the lord, they iourneyed, kepyng the watch of the Lorde, at the commaundement of the Lorde, by the hande of Moses.

The. xj. daie. Euensong A. AND the lorde spake vnto Moses, saiyng Make thee two trompettes of siluer: of an whole pece shalte thou make them, that thou maiest vse them, to cal the congregacion together, and when the hoaste shall iourney. Therefore shall they blowe with them, that all the multitude maie resorte to thee, before the doore of the tabernacle of witnesse. And if they blowe but one trompet, then the paūces, which are the heades ouer thousādes of Israell, shal come vnto thee. But if ye trōpe the hoste that lie on the East partes shal go forward. And if ye trompe the seconde tyme, the hoste that lieth on the Southe side, shall take their iourney: for they shall tromp, whē they take their iourneyes. But when the congregacion is to bee gathered together, they shal blowe onely, and not tromp. And the sōnes of Aarō the priest shall blowe with their

B. trompettes, and ye shall haue them as a lawe for euer in your generations. And if ye goo to warre in your lande against your enemies that vexe you, ye shall blowe with the trompettes, and ye shalbee remembred before the lord your God, to be saued frō your enemies. Also in the daie of your gladnes, and in your feast daies, and in the beginnyng of your monethes, ye shall blowe the Trompettes ouer your burnt sacrifices and peace offrynges, that they maie be a remembraunce for you before your God. I am the lorde your god. And it came to passe the. xx. day of the secōd moneth in the second yere, that the cloude was taken vp from of the habitacion of witnesse. And the children of Israell toke their iourney out of the desert of Sinai, and the cloude rested in the wilderneſſe of Paran. And they first toke their iourney at the mouthe of the lord, by the hand of Moses. In the first place went the standerde of the hoste of Iuda ariseyng to their armies, whose captain was Nahasson the sonne of Aminadab. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the children of Issachar, was Nathanael the sonne of Zuar. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the children of Zabulon, was Eliab the sonne of Helō. And the habitacion was taken downe: and the sonnes of Gerson and Merari went furth, beryng the habitacion. And the hoste of Ruben C. went furthe with their standerd and armies, whose captain was Elizur the sonne of Sedeur. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the children of Symeon, was Salamiel the sōne of Suri Saddai. And ouer the hoaste of the tribe of the children of Gad, was Eliasaph the sonne of Raguel. The Cahathites also wēt forward and bare the sanctuarie, and the other did set vp the Habitacion against they came. And the standard of the hoste of the children of Ephraim went furthe, accordyng to their armies, whose Capitain was Elisama the sonne of Amiud. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the sonnes of Manasse, was Gamaliel, the sonne of Pedazur And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the sonnes of Beniamin, was Abidan the sonne of Gedeoni. And the standard of the hoste of the children of Dan came furthe chaūging all the hostes together, throwe out their armies: whose capitain was Ahiezer the sōne of Ammi Saddai. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the children of Aser was Pagiel the sonne of Ocrā. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the children of Nephtali, was Ahira the sonne of Enan. These are the iourneyes of the children of Israel, throwe out their armies. And thus the hostes remoued. And Moses saied vnto Hobab the sonne of Raguel the Madianite, which was Moses father in lawe we go into the place of which the lorde saide: I will geue it you. Come thou therefore with vs, and we will do thee good: for the lorde hath promised good vnto Israell. And he answered hym: I will not go: but will depart to myne awne land, & to my kynred. He saied: Oh naie, leue vs not for thou knowest our māsions in the wilderness: and thou hast been to vs in stede of eyes And if thou go with vs, loke what goodnesse the Lorde sheweth vnto vs, the same will we shewe vnto thee. And they departed from the mount of the Lorde, iij. daies iourney: and the arke of the Testament of the lorde, went before thē in the. iij. daies iourney, to serche out a restyng place for them. And the lorde was a shadow for them, through the cloud by day when they went out of the tentes And it fortuned, that whē the arke went furth, Moses said: Vp lorde, and let thyne enemies be scattered: and let them that hate thee, fly before thee. And whē the arke rested, he said: returne O lorde vnto the many thousādes of Israel.

AND it fortuned, that when the people did murmure euil, it was a displeasure in the eares of the lorde, and when the lorde harde it, his displeasure was prouoked to wrath, & the fire of the lorde burnt emong them, and consumed them that were the vttermost of the post. And the people cried vnto Moses. And when Moses made intercessiō vnto the lord the fire quenched. And the name of the place was called Thaberah, because the fire of the lord burnt emong them. And the rascall people that was emong them, fell a lusting, and turned themselues and wept (euen as did also the children of Israell) and said: Who shall geue vs flesshe to eate? Wee remember the fishe, whiche wee did eate in Egipte for naught, and the Cucumbers and Melons, Leekes, Onyons and Garlike. But nowe our soule is dried awaie, for we can see nothyng els, saue Manna. The Manna was as* Coriander seede, and (to see to) like Bedellion. And the people went aboute and gathered it and ground it in milles, or beat it in morters, and baked it in pannes, and made cakes of it and the taste of it, was like vnto the taste of an Oyle cake. And when the dewe fell vpon the hoste in the night, the Manna fell vpon it. And when Moses heard the people wepe, throughout their houholdes, euery mā in the dooze of his tent, the face of the lord was prouoked vnto wrathe exceedyngly: and it greued Moses also. And Moses said vnto the Lorde: wherefore hast thou dealt cruelly with thy seruaunt? And wherefore haue I not founde fauor in thy sight, seeyng that thou puttest the weight of all this people vpon me? Haue I conceiued all this people? Or haue I begotten them? That thou shouldest saie vnto me: cary the in thy bosome (as a Nurse beareth the suckyng child) vnto the land, which thou swarest vnto their fathers? Where should I haue flesshe, to geue vnto all this people, whiche wepe before me, (sayng geue vs flesshe that we maie eate? I am not able to beare all this people alone, seeyng it is to heuie for me. If thou deale thus with me, kill me, I praie thee, if I haue founde fauor in thy sight, that I se not my wretchednesse. And the Lorde said vnto Moses, gather* vnto me. lxx. men of the Elders of Israell, whiche thou knowest, that thei are the elders of the people, and Officers ouer them and thou shalt bryng them, vnto the Tabernacle of witnesse, that thei maie stande there with thee: and I will come doune, and talke with thee there, and take of the spirite, whiche is vpon thee, and putte vpon them, and thei shal beare the burthē of the people with thee, least thou be constrained to beare it alone. And saie thou vnto* the people, be hallowed against to morowe, and ye shall eate flesshe: For your whinyng is in the eares of the Lorde, seyng ye said: who shall geue vs flesshe to eate? Wee were happie in Egipte: therefore the lorde will geue you flesshe, and ye shall eate. Ye shall not eate one daie nor two, nor fiue daies, neither ten, nor twentie daies, but euen a moneth long, vntill it come out at the nosthrelles of you: And make you to pertaste, because that ye haue cast the Lorde aliue, whiche is emong you: and haue wept before hym, saying: why came we thus out of Egipte? And Moses said:* sixe hundred. M. footemen are there of the people, emong whiche I am. And thou hast said: I will geue them flesshe, that thei maie eate a monethe long. Shall the shepe and the oxen be slain for them, to finde them? Either shal all the fishe of the sea be gathered together for them, to serue them? And the lorde said vnto Moses: shall* the lordes hand be waxed short. Thou shalt se now whether my worde shal come to passe vnto thee, or not. And Moses went out, and told the people, the saying of the Lorde, and gathered the. lxx. Elders of the people, and set them round about the Tabernacle. And the Lorde came doune in a Cloude, and spake vnto hym, and tooke of the spirite that was vpon hym, and gaue it vnto the. lxx. elders. And it fortuned, that whē the spirite rested vpon them, they* Prophesied, and did not cease. But there remained twoo of the men in the hoste: The name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad. And the spirit rested vpon them, and they were of them that were written, and went not out vnto the Tabernacle, but Prophecied in the hoste. And there ran a young manne, and tolde Moses, and said: Eldad and Medad, doo Prophecie in the hoste. And Josua the sonne of Nun, the seruaunt of Moses, one of his young mennе, answered and said: master Moses, forbid* them. And Moses said vnto hym: enuiest thou for my sake? Would* God that all the lordes people could Prophecie, and that the lorde would put his spirit vpon them. And Moses gat hym into the hoste, he and the Elders of Israell. And there went furthe a wynde from the lorde: and* brought quailes from the sea: and let them fall about the hoste, euen a daies iorney round about on euery side of the hoste, and thei did flie in the aire (as it were .ij. cubites hie ouer the yerth. And the people stode vp, and al that daie and al that night, and on the morowe thei gathered quales. And he that gathered a little, gathered. x. homers ful. And thei spred them abrode round about the hoste. And* while the flesshe was yet betwene their teethe, and yet it was chewed vp: behold, the countenaunce of the lorde, was moued against the people, and the lorde* slewe the people with an exceedyng greate plague. And the name of that place was called, the graues of lust, because thei buried the people that lusted there. And the people tooke their* iorney frō the graues of lust vnto Hazeroth, and bode at Hazeroth.

which he had taken: for he had take to wife one of Inde. And thei said: hath the lorde in deede, spoken onely through Moses? hath he not spoken also by vs? And the lorde hard it. But Moses was a very meke man, above all the men of the yearth. And the lorde spake at once vnto Moses, vnto Aaron, and to Mir Jam, come out ye iij. vnto the tabernacle of witnes, and thei came out all iij. And the lorde came vnto in the pitler of the cloud, & stode in the mie of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Mir Jam. And thei went out both of them. And he said, heare my wordes. If eyther be a prophet of the lorde emong you: I will be knowen of hym in a vision: and will speke vnto hym in slepe. My seruant Moses is not so, which is faithfull in al mine house. Vnto hym will I speake mouth to mouth in a vision: but in riddles and similitudes, wch not he se the lorde. Wherefore then wer ye not afraied to speke against my seruant Moses? And the lorde was moued vnto wrath against them, and he went his way: and the cloud departed from the tabernacle. And behold Mir Jam was become leprous, as it wer snowe And Aaron loked vpon Mir Jam, and behold she was leprous, and Aaron said vnto Moses I beseche thee my lorde, put not the sinne vpon vs, which we have foolishly committed & synned. And Mir Jam was shut out of the hoste vij. daies, and the people remoued not, til she was brought in again. And afterward the people remoued fro Haseroth and pitched in the wilderneste of Pharan.

And the lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Sent men out, to serch the land of Canaan, which I gene vnto the children of Israell: of euery tribe of their fathers, shall ye send a man, and let them all be suche, as are rulers emong them. And Moses at the commandment of the lorde, sent furth out of the wilderneste of Pharan, suche men as wer all heddes of the children of Israell: their names are these. Of the tribe of Ruben, Sammua the sonne of Zacur. Of the tribe of Simeō, Saphat the sonne of Hori. Of the tribe of Juda, Caleb the sōne of Jephune. Of the tribe of Isachar, Igeal the sonne of Joseph Of the tribe of Ephraim, Oses the sonne of Nun. Of the tribe of Benjamin, Palti the sonne of Raphu. Of the tribe of Zabulon. Gadiell the sonne of Sodi. Of the tribe of Joseph, namely of the tribe of Manasse, Gad of the sonne of Suci. Of the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the sonne of Gamali. Of the tribe of Aser, Sethur the sonne of Michael. Of the tribe of Nephtaly, Nahebi the sonne of Vaphi. Of the tribe of Gad, Guel the sonne of Machi. These are the names of the mē, which the Moses sett to spy out the land. And Moses called the name of Osea the sōne of Nun Josua. And Moses sent the furth, to spy out the land of Canaan, & said vnto thē: get you vp this waie Southward, that ye may go vp into the hie countree, & se the land what maner thyng it is, and the people that dwelleth therin: whether thei be stōg or weake, ether fewe or many, & what the lande is that thei dwel in, whether it be good or bad: and what maner of cities thei be, that thei dwel in, whether thei dwell in tentes or walled townes: & what maner of landit is: whether it be fat or lene, & whether there be trees therin or not Be of a good corage, & bring of the fruite of the land. And it was about the tyme that grapes are fyrste ripe. And so thei went vp, and serched out the land, fro the wildernesse of Sin vnto Rehob, as men came to Hemath, & thei ascended vnto the south, and came vnto Hebron, wher Ahiman was and Sesai & Thalmai, the sōnes of Enack. Hebron was buylt vij. yere before Zoan in Egipt. And thei came vnto the riuer of Escol, and cut owne there a braunche, with one cluster of grapes, and they bare it vpon a staffe: and thei brought also of the Pōgranates and of the Figes. And the place was called the riuer Escol: because of the cluster of grapes, which the children of Israel cut owne there. And thei turned back again, from serchyng of the land after xl. daies. And thei went and came to Moses and Aaron, and vnto al the multitude of the children of Israel, in the wildernesse of Pharan ijshche is Cades, and brought them worde, and also vnto al the congregation, & shewed them the fruite of the land. And thei told hym and said: wer came vnto the lande, whether thou sendest vs, and surely it floweth with Milke and Hony: and here is of the fruite of it. Neuertheless, the people ber stronge that dwell in the lande, and the Cities are walled, and exceadyng greate: and moreouer, wee saw the children of Enack there. The Amalechites dwell in the South countree, and the Hethites, Jebusites, and the Amorites dwell in the Mountaignes, and the Cananites dwell by the sea, and by the coast of Jordane. And Caleb stilled the murmure that was raised vp of the people before Moses, saying: We will goo vp, and conquere it: for we be able to ouercome it. But the men that went vp with hym, said: we be not able to go vp against the people: for thei are stronger then wee. And thei brought vp an yll report of the land, which they had serche, saying vnto the children of Israel: the lande which we haue gone thorow to serche it out, is a lande that eateth vp the inhabiters therof: & the people that we saw in it, are men of a great stature. And there we saw also giaunts, the children of Anak, which come of the giaunts. And we seemed in our syght as it were grashoppers, and so we dyd in their syght.

ALl the multitude of the people cried out, and wept thorough out that night, and all the children of Israell murmured against Moses & Aaron. And the whole congregation said vnto them: wolde God that we had dyed in the lande of Egipte, either that we had dyed in this wildernesse. Wherfore hath the Lorde brought vs vnto this lande to fal vpon the swerde: and that our wyues & our children shulde be a praye? Were it not better that we returne vnto Egipte againe? And they said eche to another: We will make a captaine and returne vnto Egipte again. But Moses and Aaron fel on their face before all the congregacion and multitude of the children of Israel. And Iosua the sonne of Nun, and Caleb the sonne Iephunne (which were of them that serched the lande) rent their clothes, and spake vnto all the company of the children of Israell, saying: The lande whiche we walked thorowe to serche it, is a very good lande. If the Lord hath lust to vs, he wil bring vs into this lande and geue it vs, which is such a lande as floweth with milke and hony. But in any wyse rebel not ye against the Lorde, neyther nede ye to feare the people of the lande for they are but bread for vs. Their shadow is departed from them, and the Lord is with vs, feare them not therfore. But all they whiche were in that multitude bad stone them with stones. And the glory of the lord, appeared in the Tabernacle of witnesse, before al the children of Israel. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: howe long do this people prouoke me, and howe long wyll it be ere they beleue me? for all the signes which I haue shewed among them? I will smite them with the pestilence and destroy them: and wil make of the a greater nation and mightyer then they. And Moses sayde vnto the Lord: then the Egiptians shall heare it, for thou broughtest this people in thy might from among them. And it wil be told to the inhabiters of this land also: for they haue heard lykewyse, that thou Lorde arte among this people: and that thou Lorde arte seene face to face, and that thy cloude standeth ouer them: and that thou goest before them by daye time in a piller of a cloude, and in a piller of fyre by nyghte. Yf thou shalt kyll all this people as they were but one man, then the nations which haue heard the fame of the, wyll saye: The Lorde is not able to bringe in this people into the land, which he sware vnto them: but hath slayne them in the wyldernesse. And nowe I beseech the, let the power of my Lorde be greate, according as thou hast spoken: saying: the Lorde is longe ere he be angrye, and full of mercye, and forgeueth iniquitie, and syn, and leaueth no man innocente, and visiteth the vnrighteousnesse of the fathers vpon the children, vnto the third and fourth generacion: be mercyful I beseech the vnto the synne of this people, according vnto thy gentle mercye, as thou hast forgeuen this people from Egipte, euen vntil now. And the Lorde sayde: I haue forgeuen it, according to thy request. But as truely as I lyue, all the earth shalbe fylled with the glory of the Lorde. But all those men which haue seene my glorye and my miracles which I dyd in Egipt and in the wyldernesse, and haue tempted me nowe this ten times and wyl not hearken vnto my voyce, shall not se the lande whiche I sware vnto their fathers: neither shal any of them that prouoked me se it. But my seruaunt Caleb with whome there was another maner of spirite, and because he hath followed me vnto the vttermost, him will I bringe into the lande whiche he hath walked in, and his seede shal inherite it, and also the Amalechites and Chananites which dwell in the plaine countrey. To morowe turne you, and get you into the wyldernesse: euen by the waye of the red sea. And the Lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron, saying: howe longe doth this euell multitude murmure against me? I haue heard the murmurynges of the children of Israel, with the which they murmur against me: Tel them therfore: As truely as I lyue (sayeth the Lorde) I wil do vnto you euen as ye haue spoken in mine eares. Your carkesses shall lye in this wyldernes. And all you that were tolde thorough oute your nombre, from twenty yere and aboue, (whiche haue murmured against me) shall not come into the lande, ouer whiche I lifted vp myne hand, to make you dwel therin, saue Caleb the sonne of Iephune, and Iosua the sonne of Nun. But your children, whiche ye sayde shulde be a praye, them I wyl bring in, and they shall knowe the lande whiche ye haue refused, and your carkesses shall lye in this wildernesse. And youre children shall wonder in this wyldernesse, forty yeres, and suffer for your whoredome, vntyl youre carkasses be wasted in the wildernesse, after the nombre of the dayes in whiche ye serched out the lande, euen forty dayes, a euery daye for a yere shall ye beare your vnrighteousnesse euen forty yere, and ye shall know my displeasure. I the Lorde haue sayde that I will do it vnto all this euell congregacion that that are gathered togethee against me. For in this wyldernesse they shalbe consumed, and there they shall dye. And the men whiche Moses sent to searche the land, whiche when they came again made all the people to murmure before hym and broughte up a sclaunder vpon the land, euen those men that dyd bringe vp that sclaunder vpon it, a. Esd. v.b. though it had bene euell, dyed in a greate plage before the Lord. But Iosua the sonne of Nun, & Caleb the sonne of Iephunne whiche were of the men that went to searche the lande, lyued styl. And Moses tolde these sayinges vnto all the children of Israell, and the people toke greate sorowe. And they rose vp early in the morninge, and gatte them vp G. into the toppe of the mountayne, saiyng: * lo, Deut. i.c. we be here, and wyll go vp vnto the place of whiche the Lorde spake vnto vs, for we haue synned. And Moses sayde: wherfore wyll ye go on this maner, beyonde the worde of the Lorde? it wyll not come wel to passe: go not vp therfore: for the Lorde is not amonge you, that ye be not slayne before youre enemies. For the Amalechites and the Cananites are there before you, and ye wyll fall vpon the swurde because ye are tourned away from the Lorde, and the Lorde wyll not be with you. But they presumed obstinately to go vp vnto the hyll toppe. Neuerthelater, the Arke of the testamente of the Lorde, and Moses departed not out of the hoste. Then the Amalechites and the Cananites, whiche dwelte in that hyll came downe and smote them, and hewed them, euen vnto Horma.

AND the lorde spake vnto Moses, saiyng: Speake vnto the children of Israell, and saye vnto them: * when ye be come into the Leui. xxiij. b. lande of youre habitacions, whiche I geue vnto you, and wyll offer an offeryng vnto the Lorde. Namely a burnte offeryng or a speciall sacrifice, eyther of a vow or of a willyng minde and in youe principall feastes, to make a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde of the oxen or of the sloeke. Then * lette him that Leui. ii. a. offereth his offeryng vnto the Lorde, bring and. vi. b. also a meate offering of a tenth deale of floure myngled with the fourth parte of an hin of oyle, and the fourthe parte of an hin of wyne for a drynke offeryng, to offer with the burnt offeryng or any other offeryng when it is a lambe. Or yf it be a ram, thou shalt offer for a meate offeryng, two tenth deales of floure mingled with the. iij. parte of an hin of oyle: and for a drynke offeryng, thou shalte offer the third parte of an hin of wyne for a swet sauoure vnto the Lorde. And when thou offerest a bullocke for a burnt offeryng or for a speciall vowe or peace offeryng vnto the Lorde, lette hym bring with a bullocke a meate offeryng of three tenth deales of floure mingled with halfe an hin of oyle. And thou shalt bring for a drynke offeryng: euen halfe an hin of wine, for an offering of a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. After this maner shal it be done for an Oxe, or for a ram, or for a lambe, or a hyd. Loke what nombre thou makest in these, suche a nombre shalt thou make in them also. And accordyng to the nombre of suche offeringes, thou shalte encrease the meate offeryngs and the drynke offeryngs.

All that are of youre selues shall do these thynges after this maner, to offer an offeryng of swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And yf a straunger sogeorne with you, or who soeuer he amonge you in your generacions, wyll offer an offeryng of a swete sauour vnto the lorde, euen as ye do, so he shal do. One ordinaunce shalbe bothe for you of the congregacion, and also for the straunger. It shalbe an ordinaunce for euer in your generacions, both vnto you and to the straunger before the lord. One law and one maner shal serue both for you and for the straunger that sogeorneth with you. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saiyng: Speake vnto the children of Israell, and saye vnto them: * When Deut. vi. ye be come into the lande to the whiche I bryng you, then when ye wyl eat of the bread of the lande, ye shal take vp an heue offeryng vnto the Lord. Ye shall take vp a cake of the C. Deu. xxi. fyrste of youre dowe for an heue offeryng, * as ye do the heue offeryng of the barne, Leu. xxiij. euen so ye shal heue it. Of the fyrste of your dowe ye shall geue vnto the Lorde an heue offeryng in youre generacions. And yf ye ouerse youre selues, and obserue not all these commaundementes, whiche the Lorde hathe spoken vnto Moses, euen all that the Lorde hath commaunded you by the hande of Moses from the fyrste daye that the Lorde commaunded Moses, and hence forward amonge your generacions. If it happen that ought is committed ignorantly of the congregacion, all the multitude shal offer a bullocke for a burntofferyng, to be a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde, with the meate offeryng and drinke offeryng therto, accordyng to the maner, and an he gote for synne. And the priest shal make an attonnement for all the multitude of the children of Israell, and it shalbe forgeuen them: for it is ignorannce. And they shall bringe their offeryng for a sacrifice vnto the Lorde: and their synne offeryng before the lord for their ignorannce. And it shalbe forgeuen vnto all the multitude of the children of Israel, and vnto the straunger that dwelleth among you: seynge all the people were Leui. iij. in ignorannce. * If any one soule synne thorowe ignorannce he shall bringe a he goate of a yere olde for synne. And the priest shal make an attonnement for the soule that synned ignorantly, with the synofferyng before the

Lorde to cercuncise hym: and that it maye be to geuen him. And both thou that arte borne of the children of Israell, and the Straunger that dwelleth among you, shal haue both one lawe, who so both synne thorow ignorannce But the soule that doth ought presumptu-ously, whether he be an Israelite or a stranger, the same blaspheneth the Lorde. And that soule shalbe rooted out from amonge his people, because he hath despised the worde of the Lord, and hath broken his commaun-dement, that soule therfore shal perishe, and his synne shalbe vpon hym. And whyle the children of Israell were in the wyldernesse, Exod. xxxi.e. there founde a man that gathered sticks vp-on the * Sabboth day. And they that founde hym gathering sticks, brought hym vnto Moses and Aaron, and vnto all the congregacion: * and they put hym in warde, seyng it was not declared what should be done vnto hym. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: let the man dye: let all the multitude stone hym with stones without the hoste. And all the multitude brought hym without the hoste, and stoned hym with stones, and he dyed as the Lord commaunded Moses. And the lord spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto the

* make them gardes in the quarters of their garmentes thorough out their generacions, and put vpon the garde of the quarters a ribande of yelowe silke. And the garde shalbe vnto you to loke vpon it, that ye may remembre all the commaundementes of the Lorde, and do them: and that ye seke not after youre owne harte, or youre owne eyes: after the whiche ye vse to go a whoryng: but ye shall remembre rather and do all my commaunde-mentes, and be holy vnto your God: I am the it but a small thyng vnto you that the God of Israell hath separated you from the multitude of Israell: and brought you to hym selfe, to do the seruice of the dwelling place of the lord, and to stande before the multitude and to minister vnto them? he hath taken the to hym and all thy brethren the sons of Le-ui with the, & seke ye the office of the priest also? For which cause both thou and all thy company are gathered together against the lorde. And what is Aaron, that ye murmur a-gainste hym? And Moses sente, and called Nathan, and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab, whiche sayde we will not come vp. Is it a smal thyng that thou hast brought vs out of T. a lande that floweth with milke and hony, to kyl vs in the wildernesse, and to raygne ouer vs also? Hast thou brought vs vnto a lande that floweth with milke and hony, and geuen vs inheritaunce of feldes and vineyardes?

Wilt thou put out the eyes of these men? we will not come vp. And Moses waxed very angry, and said vnto the lord. Turne not thou vnto their offering. I haue not taken so mu-che as an asse from them, neither haue I hurt any of them. And Moses sayde vnto Corah: Be thou and al thy company before the lord: bothe thou, they, and Aaron to morowe. And take euery man his censer, and put cens in them, that ye maye offer before the Lorde: euery man of the two hundred and fyfty take his censour, thou also Aaron, that euery one maye haue his censer. And they take euery man his censer, and put fyre in them, & layde cens theron, and stode in the doze of the Tabernacle of witnes with Moses and Aaron.
And Corah gathered all the congregacion against them vnto the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse. And the glozye of the lorde appeared vnto all the congregacion. And the lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron, saying: Separat your selues from amonge this con-gregacion, that I may consume them at once.
And they fell vpon their faces and sayde, O most mighty god of the spirites of al flesh, Num. xxvij.a ye one man hath synned, wilte thou be wroth with al the multitude? And the lord spake vn to Moses, saying: speake vnto the congrega-cion and say: Get you awaye from about the dwellynge of Corah, Nathan, and Abiram.
And Moses rose vp, and went vnto Nathan and Abiram, and the elders of Israell folo- W. wed him. And he spake vnto the congregacion, saying: departe from the tentes of these

wycked men, and touche nothyng of theyrs: lest ye perish in all theyr synnes. And so they gate them from the dwelling of Corah, Dathan and Abiram on every syde. And Dathan and Abiram came oute and stode in the doze of theyr tentes with theyr wyues, theyr sonnes, & theyr litle children. And Moses sayde: Here by ye shal know that the Lord hath sent me to do all these workes, and that I haue not done them of myne owne minde. If these men dye the comen death of al men: or if they be visited after the visitacion of al men, then the Lorde hath not sent me. But and if the Lorde make a newe thynge, and the yearthe open her mouthe, and swalowe them vp with all that they haue: and they go down quycke into hell: then ye shal vnderstande, that these men haue prouoked the Lord. And it Deute. xi. a Nu. xxvi. b. Psal. cvi. c. E. fortuned that assone as he had made an ende of speakyng al these wordes, the ground sloue vnder them that was vnder them: and the yearth opened her mouth, and swalowed them vp, & their houses, and all the men that were with Corah, and al their goodes. And they and al that they had, went down alyue vnto hel, and the yearthe closed vpon them: they perished from among the congregacion. And all Israel that were about them fled at the crye of them. And they sayd: lest the yearth swalowe vs vp also. And there came oute a fyre from the Lord, and consumed the two hundred and fyftye men that offered cense. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto Eleazar, the son of Aaron the Priest that he take vp the censers out of the burnyng and and skater the fyre here & there, for the censers of these synners are halowed in theyr deathes: and let them make of them thin beaten plates for a coueryng of the altar. For they offered them before the Lord, and therfore they are halowed, and they shalbe a tokē vnto the children of Israel. And Eleazar the priest toke the brasen censers which they that were burnt had offered, & beate them thyn for a coueryng of the altar, to be a remembraunce vnto the children of Israel, that no straunger which is not of the sede of Aaron, come nere to offer cense before the Lord, that it happen not vnto hym: lyke as vnto Corah and his company, as the Lord sayde of him by the hande of Moses. But on the morowe all the multitude of the children of F. Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron, saying: ye haue kylled the people of the Lord. And it fortuned that when the multitude was gathered against Moses & Aaron, they loked towarde the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And beholde, when they were entred into it the cloud couered it, and the glory of the Lorde appeared. And Moses and Aaron came before the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Get you from among this congregacion, that I may consume them quyckly. And they fell vpon their faces. And Moses sayde vnto Aaron: take a censer, and put fyre therin out of the altar, and poure on cense, & go quyckly vnto the congregacion, that thou mayst obtayne the forgeuenes for them. For there is wrath gone out from the Lorde, & there is a plage begonne. And Aaron toke as Moses commaunded hym & ranne into the middes of the congregacion, and beholde, the plage was be- G. gone amonge the people, and he put on cense, and made an attonement for the people. And when he stode betwen the dead and them that were alyue, the plage ceased. They that died in the plage were fourteen thousande and seuen hundred: besyde them that dyed about the busynesse of Corah. And Aaron went againe vnto Moses before the doze of the Tabernacle of wytnes, and the plage ceased.

AND the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto the children of Israell: and take of euery prince of them a rodde, after the houses of theyr fathers, euen twelue rodes: & write euery mans name vpon his rod. And write Aarons name vpon the rod of Leui: for euery rode is for an house of their fathers. And put them in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, euen in the place where I mete you. And the mans rod whome I chose, B. shal blossom. And I wyl make ceasse from me the grudgynges of the children of Israell wherby they grudge against you. And Moses spake vnto the children of Israell, and all the princes gaue hym euery prince ouer their fathers houses, a rod, euen twelue rodes: and the rod of Aaron was amonge the C. rodes. And Moses put the rodes before the Lorde, in the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And on the morowe, Moses went into the Tabernacle of wytnesse: and beholde, * the Hebr. iij. rod of Aaron for the house of Leui was budded, and bare blossoms & almondes. And Moses brought oute all the rodes from before the Lord vnto al the children of Israel: and they loked vpon them, and toke euery man his rod. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: bryng Aarons rod again before the wytnesse to be D. kepte for a token at the childrens rebellion, & that their murmurynge may cease from me, and that they dye not. And Moses dyd as the Lorde commaunded hym, euen so dyd he. And the children of Israell spake vnto Moses, saying: behold, we are wasted away and consumed: we all come to nought, euery one of vs commeth nye the dwellyng of the Lord, dieth: shall we vtterly consume away?

AND the Lorde sayde vnto Aaron, thou A. Gunde and thy sons and thy fathers house with amisse in the holye place. And thou and thy sonnes with the shal beare the faute of that whiche is done amisse in youre priesthode.

Num.iij.b

And thy brethren of the tribe of Leui and of their fathers houshold thou shalt take vnto the, that they may be ioyned vnto the & minister vnto the: euen vnto the and thy sonnes with the before the tabernacle of witnesse.

They shall wayte vpon the and vpon all the tabernacle concerninge: but them not come nye the vessels of the sanctuary and the aultar, that they and ye also dye not. And they shalbe by the, and wayte on the tabernacle of witnesse for all the seruice of the tabernacle, and let no straunger come nye vnto you. Therfore shall ye kepe the holye place and the aultar, that there fal no more wrath vpon the children of Israell: beholde, I haue taken youre brethren the Leuites from among the children of Israel, whiche as a gifte of rownes are geuen vnto the Lord, to do the seruice of the tabernacle of witnesse. Therfore shalte thou and thy sonnes with the take heede vnto youre priestes office for al thinges that pertaine vnto the aultar, & for al that are within the vayle. And se that ye serue: for I haue geuen youre Priestes office vnto you as a gyfte: and therfore the straunger that commeth nye, muste be slayne. And the Lord spake vnto Aaron: beholde, I haue geuen the the keepyng of mine heue offerynges, of al the halowed thynges of the children of Israel. Euen vnto the, I haue geuen them for the anoyntyng & to thy sonnes, for a duty for euer. This shalbe thyne of moste holy from the fyre of the aultar. All their sacrifices for al their meate offerynges, sinne offerynges & trespasse offerynges, whiche they bring vnto me, are moste holy. Like thine & thy sonnes. In the moste holy place shalt thou eate it: and al that remayles shall eate of it, let it be holy vnto the. And this also is thyne: the heue offerynges of their gyftes, throughout al the haue offerynges of the children of Israel: I haue geuen them vnto the & thy sonnes & thy doughters with the, to be a duty for euer, & al that are clean in thy house, shal eate of it. All the fat of the oyle, & al the fat of the wine and of the rowne, whiche they shal offer vnto the Lord for their firstes, the same haue I geuen vnto the. And whatsoeuer is first ripe in their lande which they bring vnto the Lord shalbe thine, & al that are clean in thy house shal eate of it. All deuirate thinges in Israel, shalbe thine. All that breaketh the matrice in al flesh that men bring vnto the Lord, whether it be of men or beastes, shalbe thine. Neuertheles the first borne of man shalt thou redeme: & the first borne of vncleane beastes shalt thou redeme likewyse. Those that are to be redemed, shalt thou redeme from the age of a moneth, for the value of the money, namely for syue sicles after the sicle of the sanctuary. A sicle maketh twenty halpenes. But the firste borne of oxen, sheepe & goates shalte thou not redeme. For they are holy: therfore thou shalt sprinkle their blood vpon the aultar, and shalte burne their fat vpon the sacrifice for a sweete sauour vnto the Lorde. And the flesshe of them is thyne: as the wane breast and the right shulder. Those are thyne. All the holy heueofferinges which the children of Israel offer vnto the Lord, haue I geuen the, and thy sonnes and thy doughters with the, to be a duty for euer. It is be a saled couenaunt for euer: before the Lord, both vnto thee and to thy sede with the. And the Lorde spake vnto Aaron: thou shalt haue none inheritaunce in their lad, neither shalt thou haue any part among them. I am thy part and thy inheritaunce among the children of Israell.

Eccl.xliii.f

Beholde I haue geuen the children of Leui al the tenthe in Israel to inherite, for the seruice whiche they serue in the tabernacle of witnesse. Hether muste the children of Israel henceforth come nye the tabernacle of witnes, lest they beare sinne, and dy. But the Leuites shal do the seruice in the tabernacle of witnesse and beare their sinne. It shalbe a law for euer in your generacions that amog the children of Israel they possesse none inheritaunce. But the tithes of the children of Israel, which they pay as an heue offeryng vnto the Lord, I haue geuen the Leuites to inherit. And therfore I haue said vnto them. Among the children of Israel ye shal possesse none inheritaunce. And the lord spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto the Leuites: and say vnto them, when ye take of the children of Israel the tithes which I haue geuen you of them for youre inheritaunce, ye shal take an heue offeryng of that same for the Lord, euen the tenth part of the tith. And this your heue offeryng shalbe reckened vnto you, euen as though it were the corne of the barne, or out of the fulnesse of the win presse.

Of this maner ye shall therfore separate an heue offering vnto the Lord of al your tithes which ye receiue of the children of Israel, ye shal geue therof vnto the lord an heue offring, whiche shal belong to Aaron the priest. Of al your gyftes, ye shal take out al the Lordes heue offeringes, euen the fat of their halowed thinges. Therfore thou shalt say vnto them: when ye haue taken away the fat of it frō it, it shalbe counted vnto the Leuites, as ye it were the encrease of the corne floor, or the encrease of the wyne presse. And ye shal eate it in al places, both ye & your houshold: for it is your reward for your seruice in the tabernacle of witnes. And ye shal beare no sinne by the reason of it, when ye haue taken frō it the fat of it: neither shal ye prophane the holy thinges of the children of Israel, lest ye die.

And the lorde spake vnto Moses, and Aaron saying: this is the ordinaunce of the lawe: which the Lorde hath commanded, saying: speake vnto the children of Israell that they bring the a red kowe without spot, and wherin is no blemishe, and vpon whiche neuer came yoke. And ye shall geue her vnto Eleazar the priest, that he may bring * her without the hoste, and cause her to be slayne before his face. And let Eleazar the priest take of her bloud with his finger, and sprinkle it before the Tabernacle of witnesse seuen tymes. And cause the kowe to be burnt in his sighte with her * dunge, fleshe, bloud. And the dunge of her shal be burne also. And let the priest take Cedre woode, and hysop and purple clothe, and cast it vpon the kowe as she burneth. Then let the priest wash his clothes, and he shal bath his fleshe in water, and then come into the hoste and the priest shalbe vncleane vnto the euen. And he that burneth her, shal wash his clothes in water, and bath his fleshe in water, and he vncleane vntyll euen. And a man that is clean shal take vp the ashes of the kowe, and put them without the hoste in a cleane place. And it shalbe kept for the multitude of the children of Israel * for a sprynckling water and for an attonement of synne. Therfore he that gathereth the ashes of the kowe, shall wasshe his clothes, and remayne vncleane vntyll euen. And this shalbe vnto the children of Israel and vnto the straunger that dwelleth amonge them, a statute for euer. * He that toucheth the deade bodye of any man, shalbe vncleane seuen dayes. And he shall purifye hymselfe with this water the thyrd day and the seuenth daye, and he shalbe cleane. But yf he purifye not hym selfe the thyrde daye and the seuenth daye, he shal not be cleane. Whosoeuer toucheth the corse of any man that is deade, and sprynckleth not hymselfe, defyleth the dwellyng of the Lorde, and that soule shalbe roted oute of Israell, because the sprynckelyng water was not sprynkled vpon him. He shalbe therfore vncleane, and his vncleanesse shall remayne vpon hym. This is the lawe of the man that dyeth in a tente: all that come into the tent, and all that is in the tent shall be vncleane seuen dayes. And all the vessell that be open whiche haue no lyd nor couerynge vpon them shalbe vncleane. And who so euer toucheth one that is slain with a sword in the felde, or a dead persone, or a bone of a dead man or a grane shalbe vncleane seuen dayes. Therfore, for an vncleane persone they shal take of the burnte ashes of the sinofferyng, a runnyng water shal be put therto in a vessel. And let a cleane persone take Hysope and dippe it in the water, and sprinkle it vpon the tente, and vpon all the vesselles, and vpon the soules that were there, and vpon hym that touched a bone, or a slayne persone, or a dead body, or a grane. And the cleane persone shal sprynkle vpon the vncleane the third day and the seuenth day, and the seuenth daye he shall purifye hym selfe, and wasshe his clothes, and bath his fleshe in water, and shall be cleane at euen. But the man that is vncleane and wil not purifye hym selfe, that same soule shalbe destroyed from among the congregacion, because he hath defyled the sanctuary of the Lorde, and the sprynckelyng water hath not bene sprynkled vpon him, he is vncleane. And this shalbe a perpetual law vnto them. And he that sprynckleth the sprynkelyng water, shall wasshe his clothes. And he that toucheth the sprynkling water, shal be vncleane vntyll euen. And whatsoeuer the vncleane persone toucheth shall be vncleane. And the soule that toucheth shalbe vncleane vntyll euen.

And the children of Israel came with the whole multitude into the desert of Sin in the first moneth, and the people abode at Cades. And there dyed Mir, and was buried there. And there was no water for the multitude, and they gathered them selues together against Moses and Aaron. And the people chode with Moses, and spake, saying: wolde God that we had perished, when oure brethren dyed before the Lorde. Why haue ye brought the congregacion of the Lorde into this wyldernesse, that both we and our cattell shulde dye in it? Wherfore haue ye made vs to ascende out of Egipte, to bring vs into this vnpleasaunt place, where is no place of seed nor of figures, nor vynes, nor of pomgraunates, neither is there any water to drynke. And Moses and Aaron went from the congregacion vnto the dore of the Tabernacle of witnesse, and fell vpon their faces. And they cryed vnto the Lorde and sayd, O Lord god heare the cry of this people, and open them thy treasure, euen a fountaine of lyuyng water, that they may be satisfied, & that their vnrighteousnesse may cease. And the glorye of the Lorde appeared vnto them. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: take the rodde, and gather thou and thy brother Aaron the congregacion together, and speke vnto the rocke before their eyes, and it shall geue forth his water. And thou shalte bring them water out of the rocke, to geue the company drynke, and thou shalte geue them and their beastes also. * And Moses tooke the rod from before the Lorde, as he commanded hym. And Moses and Aaron gathered the congregacion together before the rocke, and Moses sayde vnto them: heare ye rebellious: must we fet you water out of this rocke? And Moses lyfte vp his hande, and with his rod he smote the rocke two times, and the water and their beastes also. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron: Because ye beleued me not to sanctifie me in the eyes of the children of Israell, therfore ye shall not bring this congregacion into the lande which I haue geuen them. This is the water of strife, because the children of Israell stroue with the Lorde, and he was sanctified in them.

And Moses sent messengers from Cades vnto the kynge of Edom: Thus sayth thy brother Israell: Thou knowest all the trauayle that hath happened vs. Our fathers went downe into Egipte, and we haue dwelt in Egipte a longe tyme, and the Egiptians vexed vs and our fathers. And when we cried vnto the Lorde, he hearde our voyce, and sent an Aungell, and hath led vs out of Egipte. And beholde, we are in Cades, euen in the vttemost cyttie of thy borders. We wil go now thorowe thy countre: but we will not go thorowe the fieldes or vineyardes, neyther will we drincke of the water of the pyttes: we will go by the kynges hye waye, and neyther turne vnto the right hande nor to the lefte, vntyll we haue past thy countre. And Edom answered him. Thou shalt not go by me, lest I come out against the with the swearde. The children of Israell sayde vnto him: we will go by the beaten waye: and yf I and my cattel drynke of thy water, I wil paye for it, I will but only (without any harme) go thorowe on my fete. He answered: Thou shalt not go thorowe. And Edom came out against him with mighty people, and with a stronge power. And thus Edom denied to geue Israell passage thorowe his countrey: wherfore Israell turned away from him. And the children of Israel departed fro Cades, & came vnto mounte Hor with all the congregacion. And the lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron in mounte Hor, harde by the coste of the lande of Edom, saying: Aaron shalbe gathered vnto hys people, for he shal not come into the lande which I haue geuen vnto the children of Israell, because ye disobeyed my mouth at the waters of Strife. Take Aaron and Eleazar his son and bring them vp into mounte Hor, and thou shalte strippe Aaron out of his vestimentes and put them vpon Eleazar his sonne, and Aaron shall be gathered vnto his people and shal dye there. And Moses dyd as the Lorde commaunded and they went vp into mounte Hor in the sight of all the multitude. And Moses tooke of Aarons clothes, and put them vpo Eleazar his son, and Aaron dyed there in the top of the mount. And Moses and Eleazar came downe out of the mount. When all the multitude saw that Aaron was dede, they mourned for Aaron thyrty dayes throughout all the housholdes of Israel.

And the kyng of Arad the Cananite which dwelte vnder the south hearde tell that Israel came by the waye that the spyes had vewed out, he fought against Israel, and tooke some of them prisoners. And Israel vowed a vowe vnto the Lord, and sayd: If thou wilte deliuer this people into my hande, I will vtterly destroye their cyties. And the Lorde hearde the voyce of Israell, and deliuered the Cananites. And they destroyed them and their cyties, and called the name of the * place Horma. * And they departed from mounte Hor by the waye of the red see, to compasse the lande of Edom. And the soule of the people fainted by the waye. And the people spake against God and against Moses: wherfore hast thou brought vs out of Egipte, for to dye in the wyldernesse, for here is neyther breade nor water, and our soule lotheth this light breade. * Wherfore the Lorde sent fyrye serpentes amonge the people which stonge them: and moche people of Israel dyed. Therfore the people came to Moses and sayd: we haue synned, for we haue spoken against the Lorde and against the, * make intercession to the Lorde that he take awaye the serpentes from vs. And Moses made intercession for the people. And the Lorde sayd vnto Moses: make the a fyrye serpent, and set it vp for a signe, that as many as are bitten, maye looke vpon it, and lyue. * And Moses made a serpent of braste, and set it vp for a signe. And when the serpentes had bitten any man, he beheld the serpent of braste, and was healed. * And the children of Israell departed thence, and pitched in Oboth. And they departed from Oboth, and pytched at the heapes of Abarim: euen in the wyldernesse whiche is by the plaine of Moab on the east syde. And they remoued thence, and pytched vpon the ryuer of Zared. And they departed thence and pytched on the other syde of Arnon, whiche is in the wyldernesse, & commeth out of the coostes of the Amorites: for Arnon is the border of Moab, betwene Moab and the Amorites. Wherfore it is spoken in the boke of the warres of the Lorde, what thyng he dyd in the red sea, and in the ryuer of Arnon. And the heade of the ryuer that goeth down to the habitacion of Ar, & stretcheth vnto the border of Moab, fro me thence it turneth vnto Beer. The same is Beer or wel wherof the Lord spake vnto Moses: gather the people together, and I wil geue them water. Then Israel sang this song. Aryse vp wel, syng ye vnto hym. The princes digged this wel, the captaynes of the people digged it, with the scepter, and with their staues. And from the wyldernesse they went to Mathana, and from Mathana to Nahaliel, and from Nahaliel to Bamoth, and from Bamoth to the

valey that is in the felde of Moab, vnto the top of the hyl that loketh before Jesimon. And Israell sente messengers vnto Sehon, kyng of the Amorites, sayinge: * I will go thorowe thy lande: we will not tourne into the feldes or vineyardes, neyther drynke of the waters of the wel, but we will go alonge by the kynges hye waye vntill we be paste thy coastes. * But Sehon wolde geue Israell no licence to passe thorowe his coastes, but gathered all his people together and went out against Israell into the wildernesse. And he came to Jehaza and fought against Israell. * And Israel smote him in the edge of the sweardе, and conquered his lande from Arnon vnto Jabok, and vnto the children of Ammon. For the bordes of the children of Ammon was* strong. And Israell toke all these cities, and dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites: in Hesebon and in all the townes that long thertо. For Hesebon was the Citye of Sehon the kyng of the Amorites, whiche fought before against the kyng of Moabites, and toke all his lande out of his hande, euen vnto Arnon. Wherfore they saye in the prouerbe: come to Hesebon, and let the cytie of Sehon be bylt and repared: for there is a fyre gone out of Hesebon, a flamme from the cytie of Sehon, and hath deuored Ar in Moab, and the inhabitours of the hye places in Arnon. Wo be to the Moabi: O people of Chamos, ye are vndone, he hathe put his sonnes to flyght, and his doughters to captiuite vnto Sehon the kyng of Amorites. Their empire is lost frō Hesebon vnto Dibon, & we made a wildernesse euen vnto Nopha, which reacheth vnto Medeba. And thus Israell dwelt in the lande of the Amorites.

And Moses sent to searche out Jazer, and they toke the townes belongyng thertо, and costed oute the Amorites that were therein.

* And they turned and went vp towarde Basan. And Og the kyng of Basan came out against them, he and all his people to fyght at Edrei. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses, feare hym not, for I haue delyuered hym into thy hande and all his people, and his lande. And thou shalte do to hym as he dyddest vnto Sehon the kyng of the Amorites whiche dwelt at Hesebon. They smote hym therfore, and his sonnes, and all his people, vntyl there was nothyng lefte hym. And they conquered his lande.

The .xxj. Chapiter.

And the children of Israell departed & pitched in the feldes of Moab, on the other syde of Jordane, ouer against Jericho. And * Balac the sonne of Zippor saw all that Israell had done to the Amorites: and the Moabites were sore afrayde of the people, because they were many, and Moab in feare of the children of Israel. And Moab sayd vnto the elders of Madian: now shall this company lycke vp all that are rounde about vs, as an oxe lycketh vp the gresse of the felde. And Balac the sonne of Zippor was kyng of the Moabites at that time. He sent messengers therfore vnto Balaam the sonne of Beor in Pethor, whiche lyeth by the riuer of the lande of the children of his people: to call him, saying: beholde, there is a people come out of Egipt, and beholde, they couer the face of the earth, and dwell ouer against me. Come nowe therfore, and curse this people for my sake. For they are to mightye for me, yt peraduenture I might be able to smite them and to dryue them out of the lande. For I wote that he whom thou blessest, is blessed, and whome thou cursest, is cursed. And the elders of Moab and the elders of Madian departed, hauyng the rewardes of the diuynyng in their handes. And they came vnto Balaam, and tolde him the wordes of Balac. * And Balaam sayd vnto them: lye here this nyght, and I will bringe you worde, euen as God shall say vnto me. And the lordes of Moab abode with Balaam. And God came vnto Balaam: and sayd, what men are these with the? And Balaam sayd vnto god: Balac the sonne of Zippor, kyng of Moab hathe sente vnto me, saying: behold, there is a people come out of Egipt and coueteth the face of the earth: come nowe therfore, and curse them for my sake, ye peraduenture I maye be able to ouercome them in battel, & so dryue them out. And God sayde vnto Balaam. * Go not with them, neyther curse the people, for they are blessed. And Balaam rose vp in the morninge, and sayd vnto the Lordes of Balac: get you vnto your lande: for the Lorde will not suffer me to go with you. And the Lordes of Moab rose vp, and went vnto Balac & sayd: Balaam wold not come with vs. And Balac sente agayne a greater company of Lordes & more honorable then ther: which came to Balaam, & sayd vnto him: * Thus sayth Balac the sonne of Zippor: let nothyng, I beseche the, let the come vnto me, for I will surely promote the vnto great honor, and will do all maner of thinge that thou sayest vnto me, come I praye the, curse this people for my sake. And Balaam answered and sayd vnto the seruauntes of Balac: * If Balac wolde geue me his house full of syluer and gold, I can not go beyonde the mouth of the lorde my god, to do lesse or more. Now therfore tary ye here this nyght: that I may wete, what the Lord will say vnto me more. And god came vnto Balaam by nyght, and sayde vnto him: If these men come to call the, aryse vp and go with them: but loke what I saye vnto the, that shalt thou do. And Balaam rose vp early, and saddled his asse, and went with the Lordes of Moab. And the

went. And the angell of the lorde toke in the waie against hym, as he rode vpon his asse, and his .ij. seruantes were with him. And whē the asse sawe the angell of the lorde stande in the waie, and hauyng a sworde naked in his hande, the asse turned aside out of the waie, and went out into the fielde. And Balaā smote the asse, to cause her turne to the waie. But the angell of the lorde stode in a pathe, betwene the vineyardes, and there was a wall on the one side, and another on the other. And when the asse sawe the angell of the lorde, she crouched vnto the wall, and thrust Balaams foote vnto the wall, he smote her again And the angel of the lorde went further, and stode in a narowe place, where was no way to turne, either to the right hande or to the left. And when the asse sawe the angell of the lorde, she fell downe vnder Balaam: and Balaā was wroth, and smote the asse with a staffe. And the lorde opened the mouth of the asse, and she saied vnto Balaam: what haue I done vnto thee, that thou hast smitē me now .iij. times? And Balaam said vnto the asse: thou hast mocked me: I would wish there were a sworde in myne hande, for then would I slee thee. And the asse said vnto Balaam: am not I thyne asse, whome thou hast ridden vpon euer since thou waste borne, vnto this daie? Was I euer wont to do so vnto thee? He saied: nay. And the lorde opened the eyes of Balaam, and he sawe the angell of the lorde stande in the waie, hauyng a sworde drawē in his hande. He bowed himself therfore, and fell flat on his face. And the angel of the lorde saied vnto hym: wherefore hast thou smitten thyne asse these .iij. times? Beholde, I came out as an aduersary, because thou ma[illegible]t thy waye peruerse vnto me, & the asse sawe me, & went backe from me .iij. times: or els she had not turned her self from me. Surely I had euen nowe slaine thee, and saued her alyue. Balaam saied vnto the angell of the lorde: I haue synned, for I wist not that thou stodest in the waie against me. Now therefore, if it displease thee, I will turne home again. The angell saied vnto Balaam: go with the men: but what I saie vnto thee, that maiest thou speake. And so Balaam went with the lordes of Balac. And when Balac harde that Balaam was come, he went out to mete hym, vnto a citie of Moab, whiche is in the border of Arnon, euen in the vttermost coste. And Balac saied vnto Balaam: did I not sende to thee, to call thee? And wherefore camest thou not vnto me? Seruaūte I am not able to promote thee vnto honoure? And Balaam made answere vnto Balac: lo, I am come vnto thee. And ca I now say any thyng at all? The woorde that God putteth in my mouth, that shall I speake. And Balaam went with Balac, and they came vnto a Citie of Hirsetes. And Balac offered oxen and shepe, and sent vnto Balaam, and to the lordes that were with hym. And on the morowe Balac take Balaam, and brought hym vpon to the high place of Baall, that thence he might se the vttermost part of the people.

The xxiij. Chapiter.

AND Balaam said vnto Balac: build me here .vij. altares, and prepare me here .vij. Oxen, and .vij. Rammes. Nowe Balac did as Balaam saied. And Balac and Balaam offered on euery Altar, one Oxe and a Ram. And Balaam saied vnto Balac: Stande by thy sacrifice, and I will go: if happely the Lorde will mete me, and whatsoeuer he sheweth me I will tell thee: and he went further a lone. And God met Balaam, and Balaam said vnto hym: I haue prepared .vij. Altares, and haue offered vpon euery Altar, an Oxe and a Ram. And the lorde putte a saying in Balaā's mouth and said, go again to Balac, and saie on this wise. And when he went again vnto hym, lo, he stoode by his sacrifice, he and all the lordes of Moab. And he take vp his parable and said, Balac the kyng of Moab, hath fet me from Mesopotamia, out of the Mountaines of the Eastlād, saying: come, curse Jacob for my sake: come and defie Israel. How shall I curse hym, whom God hath not cursed? Or how shall I defie hym, whom God hath not defied? From the toppe of the rockes I se hym, and from the hilles I beholde hym: lo, the people shall dwell by themselues, and shal not be reckened emong the nations. Who can tell the dust of Jacob, and the number of the .iij. parte of Israell? I praie God, that my soule maie die the death of the righteous and that my laste ende maie be like his. And Balac saied vnto Balaam: what hast thou done vnto me? I toke thee to curse myne enemies, and beholde, thou hast blessed them. He answered and said: must I not kepe that and speake, which the Lorde hath putte in my mouthe? And Balac saied vnto hym: come I praie thee with me vnto another place, where thou maiest se them, and thou shalt se but the vttemoste parte of them, and shalt not se them all: curse them out of the place for my sake And he brought hym into a fielde (where men might see farre off) euen to the toppe of an hill, and built .vij. Altares, and offered an oxe and a Ram on euery Altar. And he saied vnto Balac: Stande here by thy sacrifice, while I go yonder. And the lorde met Balaam and put a woorde in his mouthe, and said: go again vnto Balac and saie thus. And when he came to hym: beholde, he stoode by his sacrifice, and the lordes of Moab with hym. And Balac said vnto hym: what hath the lorde said? And he tok vp his parable and answered: rise vp Balac and heare, and herken vnto me thou sonne of Siphor.

man, that he should lie, neither the sonne of a man that he should repent. Wonde he say it & not do? Or wonde he speake, & not make it good? Beholde, I have taken vpon me to blesse, for he hath blessed, and I can not turne it. He beheld no wickednes in Jacob, nor sawe trauaile in Israel. The Lorde his God is with him, and the presence of the King is among them. God brought them out of Egipte, he hath strength as an vnicorne. There is no Sorcerie in Jacob, nor Soothsaying in Israel. It is now tolde vnto Jacob and Israel, what God hath wrought. Beholde, the people shall rise vp as a Lionesse, and heue vp themselues as a Lion. He shall not lye downe, vntill he eate of the praie, and drinke the bloud of them that are slain. And Balac said vnto Balaam: Neither curse them nor blesse them. But Balaam answered, and said vnto Balac: Sawe not I thee, saying, all that the Lorde speaketh, that I must doe? And Balac said vnto Balaam: Come I praie thee, and I will bring thee yet vnto another place, if peraduenture it will please God, that thou maiest then curse them for my sake. And Balac brought Balaam into the toppe of Peor, that boweth toward the wilderneſſe of Jeſhimon. And Balaam said vnto Balac: make me here vij. altares, and prepare me here vij. Oxen, and seuen Rammes. And Balac did as Balaam had said, and offered an Ox and a Ram on euery altar.

WHen Balaam sawe, that it pleased the Lorde, that he should blesse Israel, he went not as he did twise before, to seke coth saying: but set his face toward the wilderneſſe. And Balaam lifte vp his eyes, and sawe Israel as he lay, according to his Tribes, and the spirite of God came vpon him. And he tooke vp his parable and said. Balaam the sonne of Beor hath said, and the man whose eye is open hath said. He hath said, which heareth the wordes of God and seeth the visions of the Almightie. And falleth downe with open eyes. How goodly are thy tentes, O Jacob, and thyne habitacions; O Israelite. Euen as the valleis are they laied abrode, and as gardeins by the riuers side: as the Tentes, which the Lorde hath pitched, and as cedre trees by the waters. The water droppeth out of his bucket, and his seede shalbee many waters, and his kyng shalbee higher then Agag. And his kyngdome shalbee exalted. God brought him out of Egipte: and he hath strength of an vnicorne, to be vnto him. He shall eate the nacions of his enemies, & gnawe their bones, and pearce them through with his arrowes. He couched himself, and laied him downe as a Lion, and as a lioneſſe, who shall stire him vp? Blessed is he that blesseth thee, and curseth him that curseth thee. And Balac was wroth with Balaam, and smote his handes together: and Balac said vnto Balaam: I sent for thee to curse myne enemies, and beholde thou hast blessed them these three times. Therefore now gette thee quickly vnto thy place. I thought to haue promoted thee vnto honour, but lo, the Lorde hath kept thee backe from honour. Balaam answered vnto Balac: told I not thy messengers, which thou sentest vnto me, saying: If Balac would giue me his house full of Siluer and gold, I can not passe the worde of the Lorde, to do either good or bad, of myne owne mynde. But what the Lorde saieth, that will I speake? And now beholde, I go vnto my people: come therefore, and I will aduertise thee, what this people shall do to thy folke, in the latter time. And he tooke vp his parable and said: Balaam the sonne of Beor hath said, the man whose eye is open, hath said. He hath said, which heareth the wordes of God, and hath the knowlege of the most high, and beholdeth the vision of the Almightie, & that falleth with open eyes: I shall see him, but not now: I shall beholde him, but not nie. There shall come a Starre of Jacob, and a rise a scepter of Israel, and smite the corners of Moab, and vndermine all the children of Seth. And Edom shalbee possessed, and Seir shall fall to the possession of their enemies, and Israel shall be mightie. Out of Jacob shall come he that shall haue dominion, and shall destroye the remnaunt of the citie. And when he loked on Amalech, he tooke vp his parable, and said: Amalech is the firste of the nacions, but his latter ende shal perishe vtterly. And he loked on the Kenites, and tooke vp his parable, and said: Strong is thy dwelling place, and thou puttest thy nest in a roche. Neuertheleſſe, the Kenite shalbe rooted out, vntil Asur take thee prisoner. And he tooke vp his parable, and said: Alas, who shall liue when God doth this? The shippes also shall come out of the coaste of Italia, and subdue Asur, and subdue Heber, and he himself shall perishe at the last. And Balaam rose vp, and went and returned to his place: and Balac also went his waye.

AND Israel abode in Sittim, and the people began to commit whoredom with the daughters of Moab, which called the people vnto the Sacrifice of their Goddes. And the people did eate, & worshipped their Goddes, and Israel couples himself vnto Baal Peor. And the indignacion of the Lorde was prouoked against Israel, and the Lorde said vnto Moses: take all the heades of the people, and hang them vp before the Lorde, against the Sunne, that the wrathe of the Lorde may turne away

And the other lambe thou shalt offer at euẽ, after the maner of the meate Offeryng, and the drinke offeryng of the morning: a Sacrifice shalte thou offer for a swete sauor vnto the lorde. And on the Sabboth daie, twoo lambes of a yere old a pece, and without spotte, and .ij. tenth deales of floure for a meate offeryng, myngled with Oyle, and the drinke offeryng thereto. The burnt offeryng of the Sabboth, must be doen in the self Sabboth, besides the daily burnt offeryng, and his drinke offeryng. And in the beginning of your monethes, ye shall offer a burnt offeryng vnto the lorde: .ij. yong bullockes, and a ram, and .vij. lambes of a yere old, without spotte: and .iij. tenth deales of floure for a meate offeryng myngled with oyle for one bullocke, and twoo tenth deales of floure for a meate offeryng, myngled with oyle for one ram. And a tenth deale of floure mingled with oyle, for a meate offeryng vnto one lãbe for a burnt offeryng and a swete sauor, and a Sacrifice vnto the Lorde. And their drinke offrynges, shalbe halfe an Hin of wyne vnto one bullocke, and the third part of an Hin of wine vnto a ram, and the fourthe parte of an hin vnto a lambe. This is the burnt offeryng of the moneth in his moneth, throughout the monethes of the yere: and one he gote for a synne offeryng vnto the lorde shalbe offred, after the daily burnt offeryng, and his drinke offeryng. And* the .xiiij. daie of the first moneth, is the passeouer of the lord. And in the xv. daie of the same mouethe is the feast: and vij. daies long shall vnleauened breade be eaten. In the* first daie shalbe an holy conuo-cacion, ye shall in no maner of seruile woorke therein. But ye shall offer a Sacrifice for a burnt offryng vnto the Lorde. ij. yong bullockes, one Ram, and. vij. Lambes of a yere old, whiche are to you without spot, and let their meate offryng bee of floure, myngled with oyle: thre tenth deales also shall ye offer for a bullocke, and. ij. tenth deales for a ram: one tenth deale shalt thou offer for euery lambe, of the vij lambes: and an he gote for synne, to make attonement for you. Ye shall offer there, beside the burnt offryng in the morning, whiche is a continuall burnt sacrifice. After this maner ye shall offer throughout the. vij. daies: the fode of the Sacrifice for a swete sauor vnto the Lorde. And it shalbe men beside the daily burnt offryng, and his drink offryng. And in the. vij daie ye shall haue an holy conuocacion, and ye shall do no seruile woorke. Therefore in the daie of your firste fruites, when ye bryng a new meate offryng vnto the Lorde (according to your woorkes) ye shall haue an holy conuocacion, & ye shal in no seruile woorke in it: but offer a burnt offryng, for a swete sauor vnto the Lorde. ij. yong bullockes, a ram, & and. vij. lambes of a yere old a pece, with their meate offrynges of floure myngled with oyle, iij. tenth deales vnto a bullocke, ij. tenth deales to a ram, and one tenth deale vnto a lambe, throughout the vij lambes, and an he gote to make an attonment for you. This ye shal do beside the cōtinual burnt offryng, and his meate offryng: and they shalbe vnto you without spotte with their drinke offrynges. The. xxix. Chapter

AND in the firste daie of the. vij. monethe, ye shall haue an holy Conuocacion: & ye shall do then no seruile woorke. For it is a daie of blowyng vnto you. But ye shall offer a burnt offryng, for a swete sauor vnto the Lorde: one yong bullocke, one ram, and. vij. Lambes of a yere olde a pece, that are pure. And their meat offryng shalbe made of floure myngled with oyle, iij. tenth deales vnto the bullocke, and. ij. vnto the ram: and one tenthe deale vnto one lābe, throughout the. vij. lābes. And an he gote for synne, to make an attonement for you, beside the daily burnt offryng of the moneth, and his meate offryng, and beside the daily burnt offryng, and his meate offryng, and the drinke offrynges of the same, whiche must be dooen, according vnto the maner of them, for a sauor of swetenesse of the Sacrifice of the Lorde. And ye shall haue the tenthe daie of that same. vij. moneth an holy conuocacion: & ye shall humble your soules, and shall do no maner of woorke therin. But ye shall offer a burnt offryng vnto the Lorde, for a swete sauor: one bullocke, a Ram, and. vij. Lambes of a yere olde a pece, whiche shalbe vnto you without fault. Their meate offryng shalbe of floure, myngled with oyle, iij. tenth deales to a bullocke, and. ij. to a ram, and a tenth deale vnto a lambe, throughout the. vij. lambes. An he gote for synne, beside the synne offryng of attonemēt, and daily burnt offryng, and the meate and drinke offrynges, that long to the same. And in the. x

daie of the. vij. moneth, ye shall haue an holy conuocacion, and in then no seruile woorke, & ye shall kepe a feast vnto the Lorde. vij. dayes long. And ye shall offer a burnt offryng for a sacrifice, of a swete sauor vnto the lord xiij. bullockes, ij. rammes, and. xiiij. lambes of a yere old, whiche shalbe without blemish And their meat offryng shalbe of floure mingeled with oyle, iij. tenthe deales vnto euery one of the. xiij. bullockes, ij. tēth deales vnto either of the rāmes, & one tenthe deale vnto eche of the. xiiij. lambes. And one he gote for synne, beside the daily burnt offryng, with his meate and drinke offryng. And the. ij. day ye shall offer. xij. young bullockes, ij. rāmes C. xiiij yerelyng lambes without spot: and lette their meate offryng and drinke offrynges, vnto the bullockes, rammes, and lambes, bee according to the nomber of theim, and after the maner. And an he Goate for synne, beside the daily burnt offryng, and his meate and drinke offrynges. And the. iij. daie, ye shall offer. xi. bullockes. ij. rammes, and. xiiij. yerelyng lambes, without spotte: and let their meate and drinke offrynges, vnto the Bullockes, Rammes, and Lambes, be after the nomber of them, and according to the maner. And there shalbe offred an he gote for synne beside the daily burnt offryng, and his meate and drinke offryng. In the. xiiij. daie, ye shal offer. x. bullockes, ij. rammes, and. xiiij. lambes yerelynges, and pure: let their meate and drinke offrynges, vnto the bullockes, rāmes and Lambes, be according to the nomber of them, and after the maner. And an he gote for synne, beside the daily burnt offryng, and his meate and drinke offryng. In the. v. daie, ye shall offer. ix bullockes, ij. rammes, and. xiiij lambes of one yere old a pece, without spot. And let their meate and drinke offrynges, vnto the bullockes, rammes, and lambes, bee according to the nomber of theim, and after the maner. And an he Gote for synne, beside the daily burnt offryng, and his meate and drinke offryng. And in the. vi. daie, ye shall offer. viij. Bullockes, ij. Rammes. and. xiiij. yerelyng lambes without spot. And let their meate and drinke offrynges, vnto the bullockes, rammes, and Lambes, be according to the nomber of them, and after the maner. And an he Gote for synne, beside the daily burnt offryng, and his meat and drinke offrynges. In the. vij. daie, ye shall offer seuen Bullockes, two rammes, and. xiiij. lambes, that are yerelynges and pure. And let their meat and drinke offrynges, vnto the bullockes, ram-wes, and lambes, be accordyng to their nombers, and after the maner. And an he gote for tyme, beside the daily burnt offryng, and his meate and drinke offryng. In the. viii. day ye shall haue a collection of the feast vnto you, and ye shall no seruile worke therein. But ye shall offer a burnt offryng, a sacrifice for a swete sauor vnto the lorde: one Bullocke, one ram, and. vii. yerelyng Lambes without spot. Let their meate and drynke offrynges, vnto the bullocke, ram and lambes, be accordyng to the nomber, and accordyng to the maner. And an he Gote for synne, beside the daily burnt offryng, & his meate and drynke offrynges. These thynges shall ye geue vnto the lorde in your feastes: beside your vowes and free will offrynges, in your burnt offrynges, meate offrynges, drinke offrynges, and peace offringes. And Moses told the children of Israel, all that the lorde cõmaunded hym.

Euensong ti. And Moses spake vnto the heddes of the tribes of the children of Israel, saiyng: this is the thyng, whiche the lorde hath cõmaunded. If a manne vowe a vowe vnto the Lorde, or sweare an othe to binde his soule: he shall not go backe with his wourde: But shall fulfill all that is proceded out of his mouthe. If a woman also vowe a vowe vnto the lorde, and bynde her self, beyng in her fathers house in the tyme of her youthe, and her father heare her vowe and bond, whiche she hath made vpon her soule, and holde his peace thereto: then al her vowes and bondes whiche she hath made vpon her soule, shall stande in effect. But and if her father forbad her the same daie, that he heareth it, none of her vowes nor bondes, whiche she hath made vpon her soule, shalbe of value: and the lorde shall forgeue her, because her father forbad her. If she had an husbande, when she vowed or pronounced ought out of her lippes, wherwith she bounde her soule, and her husbande heard it, and held his peace thereat, the same daie he hard it, then her vowes and her bondes, wherwith she bound her soule, shal stand in effect. And if her husbande forbad her the same daie, that he hard it: and made her vowe whiche she hath vpon her of none effect, and reuealed the openyng of her lippes, wherewith she bound her soule, the lorde shall forgeue her. But euery vowe of a widowe, and of her that is deuorced (that they haue bound their soule withall) shall stand in effect with them. If she vowed in her husbandes house, or bound her soule with an oth, and her husbande hard it, and held his peace, and forbad her not, then all her vowes & bondes wherwith she bound her soule, shall stande. But if her husbande dissanulled them, the same daie that he hard them, then nothyng that proceedeth out of her lippes, in vowes and bondes (wherewith she bound her soule) shall stande in effect: for her husbande hath loosed them. And the lorde shall forgeue her. All vowes and other that bynd to humble the soule, may her husbande stablishe or breake. But if her husbande hold his peace, from one daie vnto another, then he stablisheth all her vowes and bondes, whiche she had vpõ her, because he held his peace the same daie that he hard them But if he breke thẽ, after that he hath hard them, he shall beare her synne hymselfe. These are the ordinaunces, whiche the lorde commaunded Moses, betwene a man and his wife: and betwene the father and his daughter, beyng yet a damosel in her fathers house

The. xxiii. dai. N. Mattini. Num. xxv. d.

And the lorde spake vnto Moses, saiyng: Auenge the children of Israell, of the Madianites, and afterward shalt thou be gathered vnto thy people. And Moses spake vnto the folke, saiyng: Harnesse some of you vnto warre, and let them go vpon the Madianites, and auenge the lorde of the Madianites. Let there be chosen a. M. out of euery tribe of Israell, that out of all the tribes ye maie sende some to the warre. And there were taken out of the thousandes of Israel, xii. M. prepared vnto warre, of euery Tribe a. M. And Moses sent them to the warre, euen a thousand of euery Tribe, and with them Phineas the sonne of Eleazar the Priest, and the holy vessels: and the Trompettes to blowe were in his hand. And they warred against the Madianites, as the Lorde commaunded Moses, and slewe all the Males. And they slewe the kynges of Madian emõg other that were slain: namely, Eui, and Rekem. Zur and Hur, and Reba, fiue kynges of Madian with Balaam, the sonne of Beor, whom they slewe with the sweard: And the children of Israel toke all the women of Madian prisoners, and their children, and spoyled all their cattell, and all their flockes, and all their goodes. And they burnt all their cities, wherein they dwelt, and all their castles with fire. And they toke all the spoyle, and al that they could catche, bath of men and beastes. And they brought the captiues, and that whiche they had taken and the spoyle, vnto Moses and Eleazar the priest, and vnto the company of the children of Israel, euen vnto the hoste that were in the fieldes of Moab by Jordan, ouer against Jericho. And Moses & Eleazar the priest, and all the lordes of the congregation, went out of the hoste against them And Moses was angrie with the officers of the hoste, with the capitaines ouer thousandes & ouer hundredes, whiche came frõ the warre & battaill: and Moses said vnto them: haue ye saued all the women alyue? against the Lorde, in the busynesse of Peor and there folowed a plague emong the congregacion of the lorde. Slow therfore, slaie all the menne children, and the women that haue lien with men lewdely. But all the women children, that haue not lien with menne, kepe a live for your selues. And ye shall remain without the hoste seuen daies, all that haue killed any persone: and all that haue touched any ded body, and purifie bothe your selues and your prisoners, the third daie and the seuenth. And sprinkle all your rayments and all that is made of skynnes, and all workes of Goates heere, and all thynges made of Woode. And Eleazar the Priest, saied vnto the menne of warre, whiche came from the battaill: This is the ordinaunce of the lawe, whiche the Lorde commanded Moses. Gold, Siluer, Braſſe, and Iron, Tynne, and Lead, and all that maie abide the fire, ye shal make it go through the fire, & it shalbe clene Neuertheles, it shalbe sprinkled with sprinkelyng Water. And all that suffereth not the fire, ye shal make go through the water. And washe your clothes the seuenth daie, and ye shalbe cleane. And afterwarde come into the hoste. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saiyng: take the some of the praie that was taken, both of the women, and of cattell, thou and Eleazar the priest, and the auncient fathers of the congregacion. And diuide it in to two parties, betwene theim that toke the warre vpon theim, and went out to battaile, and all the congregacion. And take a portiō vnto the Lorde of the men of warre, whiche went out to battail: one coute of fiue hundred bothe of the women, and of the Oxen, and of the Asses, and of the Shepe: and ye shal take it of their half, and geue it vnto Eleazar the Priest, as an heue offeryng of the Lorde. And of the halfe of the childrē of Israell, thou shalte take one portion of fiftie, of the women, of the Oxen, of the Asses, and of the Shepe, and of al maner of beastes: and geue theim vnto the Leuites, whiche waite vpon the habitacion of the lorde. And Moses and Eleazar the Priest, did as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And the botie and the praie whiche the menne of warre had caught, was sixe hundred thousande, and. lxxv. thousande Shepe: and. lxxij. thousand Oxen. lxi. thousande Asses: and. xxxv. thousande coutes of women, that had lien by no manne. And the halfe, whiche was the part of them that went out to warre, was three hundred thousandes and seuen and thirtie thousande, and fiue. C. Shepe. And the Lordes part of the Shepe was sixe hundred and. lxxv. And the Oxen were. xxxvi. M. of whiche the Lordes parte was. lxxij. And the Asses were. xxx. M. and v. C. of whiche the Lordes parte was. lxi. And the coutes of the women were. xvi. M. of whiche the Lordes parte was. xxxj. coutes. And Moses gaue that some, which was the Lordes heue offeryng, vnto Eleazar the Priestes, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And the other halfe of the children of Israel, whiche Moses seperated from the menne of warre, (that is to wete, the half that pertained vnto the congregacion) was three. C. thousande, and. xxxvi. thousand, and fiue. C. Shepe: and. xxxvi. thousand Oxen: and. xxx. thousande Asses, and fiue hundred and. xvi. thousand coutes of women. And Moses toke of this half, that pertained vnto the children of Israel, one portion of fiftie, bothe of the women, and of the cattell, and gaue them vnto the Leuites, whiche waited vpon the habitacion of the lorde, as the lorde commaunded Moses. And the Officers of thousandes of the hoste, the Capitaines ouer the thousandes, and the capitaines ouer the hundredes came further, and saied vnto Moses: thy seruauntes haue taken the some of the men of warre, whiche are vnder our authoritee, and there lacketh not one manne of vs. Wherfore haue therefore brought a present vnto the Lorde, what euery man found of iewelles of golde, cheines, bracellettes, ryngs, eare ringes, and spangelles, to make an attonement for our soules, before the lorde. And Moses and Eleazar toke the golde of them, iewelles of all maner fashions. And all the golde of the heue offeryng, that thei heued vp to the Lorde, (of the Capitaines ouer thousandes and hundredes) was. xvi. thousande seuen. C. and fiftie Sicles, for the men of warre had spoyled, euery man for himselfe. And Moses and Eleazar the Priest, toke the golde of the Capitaines ouer the thousandes, and of the capitaines ouer the hundredes, & brought it into the tabernacle of witnesse, for a memorial of the children of Israel before the lord.

¶ The. xxxii. Chapiter.

The childrē of Ruben, and the children of Gad, had an exceding greate multitude of cattell. And when thei sawe the land of Jazer, and the lande of Gilead, that it was an apte place for cattell: the children of Ruben and the children of Gad, came and spake vnto Moses and Eleazar the Priest, and vnto the Lordes of the Congregacion, saiyng: The lande of Ataroth and Dibon Jazer, and Nemrah, Hesbon and Eleale, Sabam and Nebo and Beon: whiche countree the lorde smote before the congregacion of Israel: is a lande mete for cattell, and we thy seruauntes haue cattell: wherefore (saied thei) if we haue founde grace in thy sight, let this land be geuē vnto thy seruantes to possesse, and bryng vs not ouer Jordane. And Moses saied vnto the children of Gad and of Ruben: shall your brethren go to warre, and ye shall sit here? Wherefore discourage ye the harte of the children of Israel: that thei Nume. xiij. d. wolde not go ouer into the lande, whiche the lorde hath geuen them?* Thus did your fathers when I sente them from Cades Barne to se the lande. For when they wente vp euen vnto the riuer of Eschol, and sawe the lande: they discouraged the hartes of the children of Israell, that they wolde not go into the lande, whiche the lord hath geuen them.

C. And the Lord was wrothe the same time, Num. xiiij. c. and sware, saiyng:* None of the men that haue not wholy folowed me: saue Caleb the sonne of Jephune the Kenesite, & Josua the son of Nun: for they haue folowed the lorde.

And the lorde was angrye with Israell, and made them wander in the wildernesse forty yere, vntil all the generacion that had done euel in the sight of the Lorde were consumed. And beholde, ye are risen vp in your fathers stede, as an encrease of sinful men, to augment the feerce wrath of the Lorde, to-warde Israell. For if ye turne away from hym, he will yet againe leaue the people in the wildernesse, and ye shal destroye all this folke. And they wente nere hym and sayd: we wil build shepe foldes here for our shepe and for oure cattell, and walled cities for oure children. But we oure selues wyll go ready armed before the children of Israel, vntil we haue brought the vnto their place. And our children (and whatsoeuer we may haue) shal dwell in the fenced cyties, because of the inhabiters of the land. We wil not returne vnto oure houses, vntil the children of Israell haue inherited, euery man his inheritaunce.
Neither will we inherite with them on yonder syde Jordan forwarde, because our inheritaunce is fallen to vs on this syde Jordan will do this thynge, and go harnessed before the lorde to warre, and wyll go all of you in harnesse ouer Jordan before the Lorde, vntil he haue cast out his enemies before him: & vntil the land be subdued before the lorde, then ye shal returne and be without sinne before the Lorde, and before Israell, and this lande shalbe your possession before the lord.

But and yeye wyll not do so, behold, ye haue sinned against the Lorde: be sure your sinne wyll finde you out. Make therefore, buylde cities for your children and foldes for your shepe, and do that ye haue spoken. The chil-E. dren of Gad & the children of Ruben spake vnto Moses saiyng, thy seruauntes wyll do Num. xiij. c. as my Lord commaundeth our children, oure wyues, oure shepe, and our cattel shal remayne here in the cities of Gilead. But* thy seruauntes wil go al harnessed to warre, & vnto battaile before the lord, as my Lorde sayth.
And for them takes Moses commaunded Eleazar the priest, and Josua the son of Nun, and the auncient fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel: & Moses said vnto them: Yf the children of Gad and the children of Ruben wil go with you ouer Jordan, al prepared to fight before the lord, then when the lande is subdued before you, ye shal geue them the lande of Gilead to possesse: but and if thei wyll not go ouer with you in harnesse, thei shal haue their possessions among you in the lande of Canaan. And the children of Gad and the children of Ruben answered, saiyng: As the lorde hath said vnto thy seruauntes, so wyl we do. We wyl go harnessed Josu. xxij. a. before the Lorde into the lande of Canaan: that the possession of our inheritaunce maye be on this syde Jordan. And Moses gaue vnto the children of Gad, & to the children of Ruben, and vnto halfe the tribe of Ma-nasse the sonne of Joseph, the kyngdome of Sehon kyng of the Amorites, and the kingdome of Og kyng of Basan, the land with the cities therof in the costes and cities of the country rounde about. And the children of Gad buylt Dibon, and Ataroth, and Aro-er, and Atroth, Sophan Jaezer, and Jogabea, Bethnimra, and Betharan, fenced cities, and thei buylt foldes for the shepe. And the G. children of Ruben buylte Hesbon, Eleale, Kiriathaim, Nebo, Baal, Meon, and turned their names, & Sibama also, and gaue other names vnto the cities which they buylded.
And the children of Machir: the sonne of Manasse went to Gilead, and toke it and put out the Amorites that dwelte therein. And Moses gaue Gilead vnto Machir the sonne of Manasse, and he dwelt therin. And* Jahir Deut. iij. b.

quarter shalbe fro the wyldernes of Sin, a long by the coste of Edom, so that your south quarter reache vpon the syde of the salte sea eastwarde, and fet a compasse from the south vp to Acrabim: and reache to Zinda. And go out from the southe to Cades Barne, and go out also to Hasar Addar, and go along to Asmon, and fet a compasse againe from Asmon vnto the riuer of Egipte, and shall go out at the sea. And lette youre westquarter be the great sea: fet the same sea be your westcoste. And this shalbe youre northquarter: ye shall compasse your border from the great sea vn-

And from mount Hor, ye shall describe youre border, tyll it come vnto Hemath, and the ende of the coste shalbe at Zedada, and the coste shal reach out to Ziphron, and go oute at Hazar Enan. This shall be youre northquarter, And ye shall compasse youre eastquarter from Hazerenan to Sephan. And the coste shal go downe from Sephan to Ribla on the easte syde of Ain. And ye shal take also a lord of D. euery tribe when ye deuide the land. The names of the men are these: Of the tribe of Iuda, Caleb the sonne of Iephune. Of the tribe of the children of Simeon, Semuel the sonne of Amiud. Of the tribe of Ben Iamin, Elidad: the sonne of Ciclon. Of the tribe of the children of Dan the lord Bucki, the sonne of Iagli. From amonge the children of Ioseph for the tribe of the children of Manasse the lord Haniel, the sonne of Ephod. Of the tribe of the children of Ephraim, the Lorde Camuel, the sonne Siphtan. Of the tribe of the sonnes of Zabulon, the lord Elizaphan: the sonne of Parnache. Of the tribe of the children of Isachar, the lorde Paltiell: the sonne of Ran. Of the tribe of the sonnes of Aser, the lord Ahihud the sonne of Salomi. Of the tribe of the children of Nepthali, the Lorde Peda, El, the sonne of Ammihud. These are they whome the lord commaunded to deuide the inheritaunce vnto the children of Israel in the lande of Canaan.

N. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses in the feldes of Moab by Iordan, ouer against Iericho, saiyng: commaunde the children of Israell, that they geue vnto the Leuites of the inheritaunce of their possession, * cyties to dwell in. And ye shal geue also vnto the Cities of the Leuites, suburbes harde by their cities rounde about them. The cities shal they haue to dwell in, and the suburbes for their catell, and for their possession and all maner of beastes of theirs. And the suburbes of the cities which ye shall geue vnto the Leuites, shal reach from the wal of the citie outward, a thousand cubites rounde about. And ye shal measure without the citie of the eastesyde, two thousand cubites. And of the southsyde, two thousande cubites. And of the westsyde two thousand cubites. And of the northsyde two thousand cubites also: and the citie shalbe in the middes. And these shalbe the suburbes of their cities. And from amonge the cities which ye shall geue vnto the Leuites, * three shalbe cyties for refuge, whiche ye shal appointe to that entente, that he whiche kylleth, maye flye thether. And to them ye shall adde. xlij. cityes moo: so that all the Cities whiche ye shall geue the Leuites, maye be. xlviij. with their suburbes. And the Cyties which ye shal geue, shalbe out of the possession of the children of Israel. Thes that haue many, shal geue many. But of them that haue fewe, ye shal take fewe. Euery one shal geue of his cities vnto the Leuites accordyng to the inheritaunce whiche he inheriteth. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saiyng: speake vnto the children of Israel & say vnto them: Deut. xix. a. * when ye be come ouer Iordan into the land Iosu xx. a. of Canaan, ye shal appointe you cities to be cities of refuge: for you: that he which sleeth a soule vnwares: maye flye thether. And the citie shalbe to se from the auenger of blonde that he which kylleth dye not, vntyl he stãde before the congregation in iudgement. And of these syxe Cities whiche ye shal geue, C. ye shall geue thre on this syde Iordane, and thre in the lande of Canaan. And these syxe cities shalbe a refuge both for the children of Israel, and for the straunger, and for hym that dwelleth among you: that all they which kyll any persone vnwares, maye flye thether. * And if any man smite another with Exod. xxi. d. an instrument of yron that he dye, then is he a murtherer, and shall dye for it. Ye he smite hym with a throwyng stone that a man maye dye with, and if he dye, he that smote hym is a murtherer, let the same murtherer be slayne therfore. Or ye he smite hym with a hande weapon of wod that a man may die with, then ye he dye, he is a murtherer, lette the murtherer be slayne therefore. The iustyce of blonde shall slaye the murtherer: when he meteth hym, he maye slaye hym. But ye he thrust at hym * of hate, or hourle at him with Deute. xx. a. laiyng of wayte, that he dye, or smite hym with his hande of enuye, that he dye, he that smote him, shall dye, for he his a murtherer. The Iustice of blond shall slaye the murtherer as soone as he tyndeth hym.

But and ye he pushed hym by chaunce, and not of hate, or cast of him with any maner of thyng, and not of layeng of handes: cast any maner of stone at him (that a man may dye with) and slay hym not. And ye caste it vpon hym and he dye, and was not his enemy, neyther sought him any harme. Then the Con-gregacion shal iudge betwene the slayer and the executer of blood in such cases. And the Congregacion shal deliuer the slayer out of the hande of the auenger of blonde, and the congregacion shal restore hym again vnto the cytie of his refuge, whether he was fledde.

John. xx. b.

And he shal byde there * vnto the death of the hye Priest, whiche was anoynted with holy oyle. But and yf the slayer come with-oute the borders of his priuyleged Cytie whether he was fledde, if the auenger of blonde find him without the borders of his free towne, and slaye the murtherer, he shall be giltelesse, because he shuld haue bidden in his free towne, vntill the deathe of the hye Priest, and after the death of the hye priest, to retourne again vnto the lande of his possession. These commaundementes shall be a lawe vnto you, for youre generations in all youre dwellynges. Whosoeuer killeth a soule, the same man slayer must be slayne him selfe, through * witnesses. Neither shall one witnes answere to put a man to death. Moouer ye shal take none amendes for the lyfe of the murtherer, whiche is worthye to dye: But he shal be put to death. Also ye shal take no money of him that is fledde to a free Cy-tie, that he shuld come again, and dwel in the lande, before the deathe of the hye Priest.
And se that ye polute not the lande which ye shall dwell in: for blonde defileth the lande.
And the lande can none otherwise be cleansed of the blond that is shedde therin, but by the blond of hym that shedde blonde. Defile not therfore the lande whiche ye shall inhabite, for I am in the middes thereof: Euen I the Lord dwel among the children of Israel.

Cadesh in Gyhal. On the other syde Iozue in the land of Moab began Moses to declare this lawe, saynge: the lord our God spake vnto vs in Horeb, saynge: ye haue dwelte long ynough in this mounte, departe therfore and take your iorney, and go into the hill of the Amorites, and vnto all places yͤ are nyghe vnto: both vnto the playne, & hylles and valeys: to the south, to the sea shore, to the land of Chanaan and vnto Libanon: euen vnto the great ryuer Euphrates. Beholde, I haue set the lande before you: go in and possesse the lande which the lord sware vnto your fathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, to geue vnto them and their sede after them. And I spake vnto you the same season, saynge: I am not able to beare you my selfe alone. For the lord your God hath multiplied you: and beholde, ye are this day as the starres of heauen for multitude. The lord God of your fathers make you a thousande tymes so many mo as ye are, and blesse you as he hath promised you) how can I my selfe alone heare the vnbraunce, charge and stryfe that is among you? Fetche from among you men of wysedome and of vnderstandynge, and experte, accordyng to your tribes, and I will make them rulers ouer you. Then ye answered me and sayde: that whych thou hast spoken is good for vs to do. And to the ye of your tribes I toke the Captaines, men of wysdome: & that were expert) and made them rulers ouer you, captaines ouer thousandes, and ouer hundredes ouer fyftes and ouer ten, and officers among your tribes. And I charged your Iudges that same time saynge: heare the cause of your brethren, and * iudge righteously betwene euery man and his brother, & the straunger that is with him. Ye shall haue no faces in iudgement: * but heare the small as well as the great, and be afrayd of no man, for the iudgement is Gods. And the cause that is too harde for you, bringe vnto me, and I will heare it. And I commanded you the same season all the thynges whiche ye shulde do. And when we departed from Horeb, we went thrughout all that great and terrible wildernesse, as ye haue seen along by the waye of the hyll of the Amorites, as the lord our god commanded vs, and came to Cades Barne.

And I sayd vnto you: Ye are come vnto the hyll of the Amorites, whiche the Lorde our God wyll geue vnto vs. Beholde, the Lorde thy God hath set the lande before the: go vp and conquere it, as the Lord God of thy fathers hath sayde vnto the? feare not, neither be discouraged. Then ye came vnto me euerye one and sayde: we will sende men before vs, to serche vs out the lande: and to bringe vs worde againe, what waye we must go vp by, and vnto what Cities we shall come. And the saynge pleased me wel, and I toke twelue men of you, of euery tribe one. Which departed, and went vp into the hyll countrey, and came vnto the riuer Escol, and serched it out, and toke of the frute of the lande: & to declare the plentyousnesse thereof in theyre handes, and brought it vnto vs, and brought vs worde again, and sayde: it is a good lande, whiche the Lorde our God doth geue vs. Notwithstandyng, ye wolde not consent to go vp, but were disobedient vnto the mouthe of the Lord your god, and murmured in your tentes, and sayde: because the Lorde hateth vs, therefore hath he brought vs out of the lande of Egipte, to deliuer vs into the hande of the Amorites, and to destroye vs. Whyther shall we go vp? Oure brethren haue discouraged oure hartes, saynge: the people is greater and taller then we, and haue Cyties great and walled euen vp to heauen, and moreouer we haue sene the sonnes of the Enarytes there. And I sayd vnto you: feare not nor be afrayd of them. The Lord your God whiche goeth before you, he shall fight for you, accordyng to all that he dyd vnto you in Egipte before your eyes. In the wyldernes also thou hast sene: how that the Lorde thy God bare the, euen as a man doth beare his sonne in all the way which ye haue gone vp, vntyl ye came vnto this place. And yet in this thyng ye did not beleue the Lorde your God, * which went the way before you to serche you out a place to pytche your tentes in, * in fyre by nyght, that ye might se what waye to go, and in a cloud by day. And the Lorde hearde the voyce of your wordes, and was wroth, and sware, saynge: * there shall not one of these men and of this frowarde generacion se that good lande which I sware to geue vnto your fathers, saue Caleb the sonne of Jephune, he shall se it: and to him will I geue the land that he hath treaden vpon, and to his children, because he hathe folowed the Lord: Moreouer was the indignacion against the people, saynge that the Lorde was angrye with me likewise for youre sakes, saynge: thou also shalt not go in thyther. But Josua the sonne of Nun which standeth before the, he shall go in thyther. Wolden him therefore, for he shall cause Israel to inherite the lande. * Moreouer, your children whiche ye sayde shulde be a praye, and your sonnes which in that daye had no knowlege betwene good & euell, they shall go in thyther, and vnto them will I geue it, and they shall enioye it. But as for you, turne your faces, and take your iourney into the wildernesse: euen by the way of the red sea. ¶ The. ij. Chapitre.

THen we turned our face, and toke oure iourney into the wildernesse, euen by the way of the red see, as the lorde spake vnto me, And we compassed mount Seir a long time. Then the lorde spake vnto me, saying: Ye haue compassed this mountain long ynough, turne you northwarde. And warne thou the people, saying: Ye shall go thorowe the coste of your brethren the children of Esau which dwell in Seir, and they shalbe afrayd of you: Take ye good hede vnto your selues therfore. Ye shal not prouoke them, for I wyl not geue you of their land, no not so muche as a foote breddth, because I haue geuen mount Seir vnto Esau to possesse. Ye shall bye meate of them for money to eate, and ye shall receiue water of them for money to drynke. For the Lorde thy God hath blessed thee in all the workes of thy hande. He knew thy entryng into this great wildernesse these forty yeres, and the lorde thy God hath ben with the, so that thou hast lacked nothyng. And when we were departed from our brethren the children of Esau which dwelte in Seir, the plaine waye from Elath and from Ezion Gaber, we turned and wente by the way of the wildernesse of Moab. And the lorde sayd vnto me: Thou shalte not fight against the Moabites, neyther prouoke them to battell, for I wyll not geue the of their land to possesse: because I haue geuen it vnto the children of Loth to possesse. The terrible people the * Emims dwelt therin in times past, a people greate, many and tall, as the Enakims which also were taken for giauntes as the Enakims: whom the Moabites cal Emims. The Horims dwelt in Seir before time, whose possession the children of Esau occupied, and destroyed them before them, and dwelte in their steade: as Israel did vnto the lande of his possession, which the lord gaue them.

Now rise ye (sayd I) and get you ouer the riuer Gared: and we went ouer the riuer Gared. The space in which we came from Cades barne vntil we were come ouer the riuer Gared was. xxxviij. yeres, vntil all the generation of the men of warre were hewed out from among the host, as the Lorde sware vnto them. For in deede the hande of the Lorde was against them, to destroye them from among the host, vntil they were consumed. And so it came to passe, that all the men of warre were consumed and dead from among the people. And the Lorde spake vnto me, saying: Thou hast gone thorow the coste of Moab this nyght: and when thou comest nye vnto the Children of Ammon, thou shalte not lande nye vnto them, nor moue warre against them. For I wil not geue the of the lande of the children of Ammon possession: but I haue geuen it vnto the children of Loth to possesse. That also is taken for a lande of giauntes, and giauntes dwelt therin also of whom the Ammonites call them Zamzummim. A people that was greate, many and tall, as the Enakims. But the Lorde destroyed them before them, and they succeded them in the inheritaunce and dwelt in their steade: as he did to the children of Esau * which possessed Seir when he destroyed the Horims before them: they conquered them, possessed them, and dwelte in their steade vnto this day. And the Auims which dwelt in Hazerim euen vnto Azza, the Caphthorims which came out of Caphthor destroyed them and dwelt in their stead. Rise ye vp therfore, & take your iourney ouer the riuer Arnon. Beholde, * I haue geuen into thy hande Sehon the Amorite king of Hesebon, and his lande. Begyn to conquer it, and prouoke him to battell. This day wil I beginne to cast the feare and dread of thee vpon all nations that are vnder all the heuens: so that they which here speake of the shall tremble and quake before the. And so I sente messengers out of the wilderness of Kedemoth vnto Sehon king of Hesebon with wordes of peace, saying: * I wil go thorow thy land. I wil go along by the hye waye: I wyl neither turne vnto the right hande nor to the lefte. Thou shalt sell me meate for money to eate, and geue me water for money to drynke. Only graunte me that I may go thorow with my feete: as the children of Esau which dwell in Seir, and the Moabites which dwelleth in Ar, do vnto me, vntil I be come ouer Iordane into the lande which the lorde our God geueth vs. But Sehon the king of Hesebon wolde not let vs passe by him. For the lorde thy God hardened his harte, & made his hart tough, because he wolde deliuer him into thy handes, as it is come to passe this day. And the lorde sayde vnto me: Beholde, I haue begonne to set Sehon and his lande before the: go to and conquere, and possesse his lande. * Then both Sehon and all his people came out against vs to fight at Iaza. And the lorde set him before vs, and we smote him and his sonnes and all his people. And we toke all his cities the same season and slew the men, women and children of all the cities, and let nothing remayne save the cattel only we raught vnto our selues, and the spoyle of the cities which we toke from Aroer which is by the brynke of the riuer of Arnon, and from the citie that is in the riuer, vnto Gilead there was not one citie to strong for vs. The lorde our God deliuered all vnto vs: only vnto the lande of the children of Ammon thou camest not, nor vnto euery place of the riuer Jabok, nor vnto the cities in the mountaynes, nor vnto whatsoeuer the Lorde our God forbad vs.

Then we turned and went vp the waye to Bacan. * And Og the kyng of Bacan came out against vs, he and all his people to battel at Edrai. And the lorde saide vnto me: feare him not, for I will deliuer him, and all his people, and his lande into thy hande, and thou shalt do vnto him, as thou didest vnto Sehon kyng of the Amorites, which dwelt at Hesbon. And so the lorde our God deliuered into our handes, Og also the kyng of Bacan and all his citie. And we smote him, vntill none was lefte him alyue. And we toke all his cities the same season (neyther was there a citie which we toke not from them) xxx. cities throughout all the region of Argob, the kyngdome of Og in Bacan. All these cities also were made stronge with hye walles, gates and barres, besyde vnwalled townes a great many. And we vtterly destroyed them, as we did vnto Sehon kyng of Hesbon, bringyng to nought all the cytees, with men, wemen, and children. But all the catell and the spoyle of the cytees, were caught for our selues. And thus we toke the same season, out of the hand of two kynges of the Amorites, the lande that was on the other side Jordan from the riuer of Arnon vnto mounte Hermon (which Hermon the Sidony cal Sirion, and the Amorites cal it Senir) all the cities that lay in the plaine and al Gilead and al Bacan vnto Salecha & Edrai cities of the kingdom of Og in Bacan. For only Og kyng of Bacan remayned of the remaunte of the giauntes, whose bed was a bed of yrō. And is it not yet at Rabah amonge the children of Ammon? ix. cubites is the length therof, contayne, and foure cubites the breadth of it, after the cubite of a man. And so we conquered this land the same time, from Aroer which is by the ryuer of Arnon, vnto half mount Gilead, * and the cities therof gaue I vnto the Rubenites and Gadites. And the rest of Gilead and al Bacan of the kyngdome of Og, gaue I vnto the halfe tribe of Manasse: euen al the region of Argob with all Bacan: which is called the land of giauntes. Jair the sonne of Manasse toke all the region of Argob, vnto the coastes of Gesuri and Maachati, and called them after his owne name: Bacan Hauoth Jair vnto this daye. And I gaue Gilead vnto Machir. And vnto the Rubenites & Gadites I gaue halfe Gilead, vnto the riuer of Arnon, haue the valey and beyond, euen vnto the riuer Jabock, which is the borders of the children of Ammon: the plaine also of the wilderness and Jordan & the coastes therof, from Cenereth euē vnto the see which lyeth in the plaine euen the salte sea vnder the sprynges of the hil eastwarde. * And I commaunded you the same time saying: the lorde your God hath geuen you this lande to enioye: ye shall go harnessed before your brethren the children of Israel all that are mete for the warre. Your wyues only, your children, & your catell (for I wote that ye haue much catell) shall abide in your cities, which I haue geuen you, vntill the lorde haue geuen rest vnto your brethren as wel as vnto you, and vntill they also haue conquered the land, which the lorde your god hath geuen them beyonde Jordan: and then shall ye returne againe, euery man vnto his possession whiche I haue geuen you. * And I charged Josua the same time, saying: thine eyes haue sene al that the lorde your god hath done vnto these two kynges, euen so shall he do vnto all kyngdomes whether thou goest. Ye shal not feare them, for the Lorde your God, he shall fight for you. And I besought the lord the same time, saying: O lord God, thou hast begonne to shew thy seruaunt thy greatnesse and thy mighty hande, for elles where is there a God in heuen or in yearth, that can do after thy workes, and after thy power? let me go ouer and se the good lande that is beyonde Jordan, that goodly mountaine, and Libanon. * But the lord was angrye with me for your sakes, and wolde not heare me. And the lord sayd vnto me: be content, speake nomore vnto me of this matter. * Get the vp into the top of the hill, & lifte vp thyne eyes westward, northward, southward, and eastward, and behold it with thyne eyes, for thou shalt not go ouer this Jordā. But charge Josua: and corage him, & holden him. * For he shall go before this people, and he shall deuide vnto them the lande whiche thou shalt se. And so we abode in the valley ouer against the house of Peor.

And now herken O Israel vnto the ordinaunces and lawes which I teach you for to do them, that so ye may liue and go in and conquer the lande, whiche the lorde God of your fathers geueth you. * Ye shall put nothing vnto the word which I commaund you, neither do ought therefro, that ye may kepe the commaundementes of the lord your God whiche I commaunde you. trye: what the lord did vnto Moab and Peor for all the men that followed Moab and Peor, the lord your God hath destroyed from amonge you. But ye that cleave vnto the lorde your God, are alive euery one of you this day. Behold, I haue taught you ordinaunces and lawes, euen as the Lorde my God commaunded me, that ye shoulde so worcke in the lande, whyther ye go to possesse it. Kepe them therefore and do them, for that is your wysdome & vnderstandinge in the sight of the nacions: that they may heare all these ordinaunces, & saye Surely it is a wise and vnderstandinge people: it is a greate nacion. For what other nacion is so great, the Goddes come so nye vnto them as the Lord our God is nye vnto vs, in all thynges as often as we call vnto hym? And what nacion is so greate, that hathe ordinaunces and lawes so righteous, as all this law whiche I set before you this daye.

Deut. vi.b. Take hede to thy self therefore, and kepe thy soule diligently, that thou forget not the thinges which thine eyes haue seene, & that they departe not out of thyne harte, all the dayes of thy lyfe: but teache them thy children & thy children's children: Specially the day that thou stoodest before the lorde thy God in Horeb, when the Lord sayd vnto me: gather me the people together, and I will make them heare my wordes, that they may learne to feare me all the dayes that they shall lyue vpon the yearth, and that they may teache their children: & ye came and stode also vnder the hyll & the hil burnt with fyre euen vnto the myddes of heauen, and there was darcknesse, clowdes, and mist. And the lorde spake vnto you out of the myddes of the fyre, & ye hearde the voyce of the wordes, but sawe no Image, saue heard a voyce only. And he declared vnto you his couenaunt which he commaunded you to do, euen ten verses which he wrote vpon two tables of stone. And the Lorde commaunded me that same season, that I should teach you ordinaunces and lawes, whiche ye ought to do in the lande whyther ye go to possesse it. Take therefore good hede vnto your selues, as pertayninge vnto your soules, for ye sawe no maner of ymage in the daye that the lorde spake vnto you in Horeb out of the myddes of the fire: lest ye marre your selues and make you a grauen ymage and picture of any maner of figure: the likenesse of man or woman, the likenesse of any maner of beast that is on yearthe, or the likenesse of any maner feathered foule that flyeth in the ayre or the likenesse of any maner worme that crepeth on the yearth, or the likenesse of any maner fish that is in the waters beneth the yearth. And lest thou lyfte vp thyne eyes vnto heauē & when thou seest the sonne the mone & starres with all the hoost of heauen, thou

Deut. xxx.c. Mat. xxiii.b. be deceaued, and worshipe them and serue the thynges, which the lord thy God hathe made to serue all nacions vnder the whole heauen. But the lord hath taken you and brought you out of the yron furnace: euen out of Egipte to be vnto him a people and inheritaunce as ye be this day. Furthermore the lorde was angry with me for your sakes, and sware that I should not go ouer Iordane, & I that should not go in vnto that good lande, whiche the lord thy God geueth the to enherytaunce. But I must dye in this lande, and shal not go ouer Iordan. But ye shal go ouer, & conquere that good lande. Take hede vnto your selues, that ye forget not the appointment of the lorde your God whiche he made with you, and that ye make you no grauen ymage, nor any picture that the lorde your God hath forbydden the. For the lorde thy God is a consumynge fyre, a iealous God. Deut. iv.b. When thou shalt beget children and children's children, and when ye haue dwelt in the lande, ye do wickedly, and make any maner of grauen ymage and worke euyll in the sight of the lorde thy God, to prouoke him to wrathe. I call Heauen and yearth to recorde against you this day, that ye shal hastely perish out of the lande, whyther ye go ouer Iordane to possesse it: ye shal not prolonge your dayes therin, but shal vtterly be destroyed. And the Lord shall scatter you among the nacions, & ye shalbe left few in number among the people, whether the lorde shal bring you: there ye shall serue godes which are the worke of mans hand, wodde and stone, which neither se, nor heare, nor eate, nor smell. And there thou shalt seke the lord thy God: and thou shalt finde him, if thou seke him with all thine hert, and with all thy soule. When thou art in tribulation, and when all these thinges (that be here spoken of) are come vpon thee in the latter dayes, thou shalt returne vnto the lorde thy God, & be obedient vnto his voyce. For the lorde thy God is a mercifull God: he will not forsake the, neyther destroy the, nor forget the appointment of his fathers which he sware vnto them. For ask of the dayes that are past, whiche were before the sence the day that God created man vpon the yearth, and aske from the one syde of Heauen vnto the other, if there hath ought such a thyng bene heard. Dyd euer a nacion heare the voyce of God speakyng out of the myddes of a fyre, as thou hast heard, and yet lyued? either whether God assayed to go and take him a people from among nacions by tokens temptacions, tokens, wonders, warre, & mighty hande, & stretched out arme, & the-rowe great sightes, according vnto all that the lord youre god did vnto you in Egipte before your eyen? The Lorde talked with you face to face in the mount, out of the midst of the fire. And I stode betwene the Lord and you the same time, and shewed you the woorde of the lorde, for ye were afrayd at the light of the fire, & went not vp into the mount. And it fortuned, that when ye heard the voice out of the middest of the darkenesse, and saw that the hill did burne with fire, ye came vnto me with the captaynes of your tribes and your elders, & ye saide: Behold, the Lord our God hath shewed vs his glorye and his greatnesse, and we haue heurde his voice out of the middest of the fire: we haue seene this daye that

THese are the commaundementes, ordinaunces, and lawes, which the Lorde your God commaunded me to teache you, that ye might do them in the lande whither ye go to possesse it: namely, that thou might feare the Lorde thy God, and kepe all his ordinaunces and commaundementes which I commaunde the: thou and thy sonne, and thy sonne sonne all the daies of thy life, that thy daies maie be prolonged. Heare therfore O Israell, and take hede that thou do therafter that it maie go wel with the, and that ye may encrease mightely, euen as the Lord God of thy fathers hath promised the a lande that floweth with milke and hony. ¶ Heare O Israell, the Lord our God is Lord onely. * thou shalt loue the Lord thy God with all thine harte, and with all thy soule, and with all thy myght. And these wordes which I commaunde the this day, shalbe in thine hart and thou shalt shewe them vnto thy children, and shalte talke of them when thou arte at home in thine house, and as thou walkest by the waie, and when thou liest downe, & when thou risest vp: and thou shalt bynde them for a signe vpon thine hande. And they shalbe as frontgeres betweene thine eies, & thou shalt write them vpon the postes of thy house, and vpon thy gates. And when the lord thy God hath brought the into the lād which he sware vnto thy fathers, Abraham, Isahac, & Iacob, and geueth the great and goodly cities which thou hast not built, houses full of all maner of goodes which thou filledst not, and hole digged welles which thou diggedst not, vynes, yardes and olyne trees which thou plantedst not, and when thou hast eaten and art ful: Then beware lest thou forget the Lorde, which brought the out of the lande of Egypte, from the house of bondage. * Thou shalt feare the Lord thy God, and serue him, and sweare by his name. * Se that ye walke not after straunge goddes: the goddes of the nacions which are about you. For the Lorde thy God is a gelous God amonge you: lest the displeasure of the Lorde thy God be moued to wrath against the, and destroye the from of the earthe. * Ye shall not tempte the Lorde your God, as ye did in the temptacion. But kepe the commaundementes of the lorde your God, and his witnesses and his ordinances which he hath commaunded the, and thou shalte do that which is right and good in the sight of the Lord, that thou maist prospere, and that thou maiste go in, & conquere that good lande which the Lorde sware vnto thy fathers, to caste out all thine enemies before the as the Lorde hath saide.

haue compassion on them. Thou shalt make no mariages with them, neither geue thy doughter vnto his son, nor take his doughter vnto thy sonne. For they will peruerse thy sonne that he walde not serue me, & they shall serue straunge goddes, and then will the wrath of the Lorde waxe whote against you, and destroie you sodenly. But thus ye shal deale with them: Ye shal ouerthrowe their altares, and breake downe their pillers, cut downe their groues, and burne their grauen images with fire. For thou arte an holy nacion vnto the Lord thy God: the Lord thy God hath chosen the, to be a seuerall people vnto hym selfe, aboue all nacions that are vpon the earth. It was not because of the multitude of you aboue all nacions that the Lorde had lust vnto you & chose you, seynge ye were fewest of all nacions. But because the Lorde loued you, and because he wolde kepe the othe which he had sworne vnto your fathers, therfore hath the lord brought you out thorow a mighty hand and deliuered you out of the house of bondage, euen fro the hande of Pharao kynge of Egipte. Vnderstande therfore, that the Lord thy God he is God, and that a trewe God, which kepeth appointment and mercye vnto them that loue hym and kepe his commaundementes, euen thorowe out a thousande generacions, & rewardeth them that hate him before his face to that he bringeth them to nought, & doth not defer the time, but rewardeth hym that hateth him, before his face. Kepe thou therfore the commaundementes, and ordinances and lawes, which I commaunde the this daie that thou do them. If ye hearken vnto these lawes, and obserue and do them, the Lord thy God also shall kepe vnto the the appointment and the mercy which he sware vnto thy fathers. He will loue the, and blesse the, and multiplye the: he will also blesse the frute of thy wombe, & the frute of thy land thy corne, thy wyne and thine oyle, and the encreace of thine oxen, and the flockes of thy sheepe in the lande, which he sware vnto thy fathers to geue the. Thou shalt be blessed aboue all nacions: ther shal be neither man nor woman barreyn amonge you, nor any thynge vnfruteful amonge your catell. Moreouer, the Lord will take away from the all maner infirmities, and will put none of the sore diseases of Egypte (which thou knowest) vpon the, but will leade them vpon all them that hate the. Thou shalt consume all nacions which the Lord thy God shall deliuer the: thine eie shall haue no pitie vpon them, neither shalt thou serue their goddes, for that shalde thy decaye. If thou saye in thine harte: these nacions are mo then I, howe can I caste them out? Thou shalte not feare them, but remembre what the Lorde thy God did vnto Pharao & vnto all Egypte: the great temptacions which thine eies sawe, and the tokens and wonders, and the mighty hand and stretched out arme, where with the Lord thy God brought the out, euen so shall the Lorde thy God do vnto all the nacions of whom thou arte afraide. Moreouer the Lorde thy God will sende hornettes among them vntill they that are lefte, and hide them selues from the, be destroied. Thou shalte not feare them, for the Lorde thy God is amonge you a mighty God and a terrible. For the Lorde thy God will put out these nacions before the by a litle & a litle: thou maist not consume them at once, least the beastes of the felde encrease vpon the. But the Lorde thy God shall geue them ouer before the, and shal destroie them with a mighty tempeste, vntill he haue brought them to naught. And he shall deliuer their kynges into thine hande, and thou shalt destroie their name from vnder heauen. There shall no man be able to stande before the, vntill thou haue destroied them. The grauen images of their goddes shalt thou burne with fire, and couet not the golde and siluer that is on them, nor take it vnto the, lest thou be snared therin. For it is an abhominacion before the Lorde thy God. Brynge not therfore abhominacion into thine house, lest thou be a damned thynge, as it is: but vtterly detye it and abhorre it, for it is damned thynge.

All the commaundementes which I commaunde the this daye, shall ye kepe for to do them that ye maie liue, and multiplie and goo in, and possesse the lande which the Lorde sware vnto your fathers. And thou shalt thynke on all the waye which the Lord thy God led the this fourtye yeare in the wildernesse, for to humble the and to proue the, and to wete what was in thine herte, whether thou woldest kepe his commaundementes or no. He humbled the, and suffered the to hunger, and fedde the with Manna, which neither thou nor thy fathers knewe of, to make the to knowe, that a man doth not liue by breade onelye, but by euery worde that proceadeth oute of the mouth of the Lorde, doth a man liue. The rayment wexed not olde vpon the, neither did thy foote swell these fourtye yeares. HEare O Israell, thou passest ouer Iordoun this day, to go in, & conquer nacions greater and mightier then thy selfe: Cities greate and walled vp to heuen, & * people great and tall, euen the children of the Anakims, which thou knowest of, and of whom thou hast herde saie, who will stande before the children of Enacker? Understande therefore this daie, that the Lord thy God is euen he which goeth ouer before the as a deuouringe and a consuming fire he shall destroy them and he shall bringe them downe before thy face. He shall caste them out and bringe them to naught quickely, as the Lord hath said vnto the. Speake not thou in thine harte (after that the Lorde thy God hath caste them out before the) saying for my righteousnesse the Lord hath brought me in, to possesse this lande. Naie: but for the wickednesse of these nacions the Lorde hath caste them out before the. Ieis not for thy righteousnes sake, or for the righte harte that thou goest to possesse their lande. * But for the wickednesse of these nacions, the Lorde thy God doth caste them out before the, euen to performe the worde which the Lord the God sware vnto thy fathers, Abraham, Isahac, & Iacob. Vnderstande therefore that it is not for the righteousnes sake, that the Lorde thy God giueth the this good lande to possesse it: seinge thou arte a stifnecked people. Remembre and forget not, howe thou prouokedst the Lorde thy God in the wildernesse, euen the daye that thou diddest departe out of the lande of Egypte vntyl ye cam vnto this place: ye haue rebelled against the Lord. * Also in Horeb ye angred the Lord, so that the Lorde was wroth with you, euen to haue destroied you, when I was gone vp in to the mounte to receaue the tables of the couenaunte, which the Lord made with you. And I abode in the mount fourty dayes & fourty nightes, when I neither did eat bread nor drinke water. * And the Lord deliuered me two tables of stone, written with the fynger of God, and in them was accordynge to all the wordes which the Lorde spake vnto you in the mount out of the middest of the fire in the day of the gatheringe together. And when the fourty dayes & fourty nightes were ended, the Lorde gaue me the two tables of stone, the tables of the couenaunt & the Lord saide vnto me. * Vp, get the downe quickely from hence, for thy people whiche thou haste brought out of Egypte, haue marred them. They are sowne aside out of the waye, whiche I commaunded them, and haue made them a molten ymage. Furthermore, the Lorde spake vnto me, saienge: I haue sene this people, and beholde it is a stifnecked people, let me alone that I maye destroie them, and put out the name of them from vnder heauen, and I will make of the a mighty nacion and greater then they be. So I turned me, and came downe from the hill (seinge the hill did burne with fire) & the two tables of the appointmente were in my handes. And I lokede, and beholde, I had sinned against the Lorde your God, and had made you a molten calfe, and had turned aside out of the waye which the Lorde had commaunded you. * And I toke the two tables and caste them out of my two handes, and brake them before your eies. * And I fell downe flatte before the Lorde: euen as at the first time, and fourty dayes, and fourty nightes I did neither eate bread nor drinke water: because of all your sinnes, which ye sinned in doynge wickedlye in the sighte of the Lorde in that ye prouoked him vnto wrathe.

For I was afrayde that for the wrath and

But the Lorde heard me at that time also.
D. The Lorde was very angry with Aaron also euen to haue destroyed him, and I made Exod. xxxv. e intercession for Aaron also the same time.
And I toke your synne the calfe which ye had made, and burnt him with fire, & stamped him and grounde him a good euen vnto small mouth of the Lorde your God, and neither beleued him, nor hearkened vnto his voice.

Ye haue bene disobedient vnto the Lorde, sence the day that I knewe you. And I fell downe flat before the Lorde forty dayes & forty nightes which I laye there for the Lorde sayde, that he wolde destroye you. I made intercession therfore vnto the Lorde, Ps. cxxviii. a. and sayde: O Lorde God, destroye not thy people and thyne enheritaunce, which thou hast deliuered thorowe thy greatnesse and which thou hast brought out of Egypte thorowe a mighty hand. Remember thy seruaunte Abraham, Isahac, and Iacob, & loke not to the hardnesse of this people, nor to their wickednes & synne: lest the land where thou broughtest them say: The Lord is not able to bringe them into the lande which he promised them: and because he hated them, therfore hath he caried them oute, to slaye them in the wildernesse. Beholde, they are people, and thine enheritaunce which thou broughtest oute in thy mighty power and in thy stretched oute arme.

Deut. xxxi. c. At the same season the Lorde sayde vnto me: * heme the two Tables of stone like vnto the first, and come vp vnto me into the mounte, & make the an arke of wood, & I will write in the tables, the wordes that were in the first tables which thou brakest, and thou shalt put them in the arke. And I made an arke of the wood and hewed two tables of stone, like vnto the first, and went vp into the mountaine, hauyng the two tables in mine hande. And he wrote in the tables ac-cordyng to the first writyng (thereto perteyn which the Lorde spake vnto you in the mounte oute of the midres of the fire in the day of the gatheryng together) and the Lord gaue them vnto me. And I departed, and ran Deut. xxxi. c. downe from the hill, and put * the tables in Num. xxxiij. d. the arke which I had made: and there they be, as the Lord commaunded me. * And the children of Israell toke their iourney from Beeroth of the children of Iaakan to Mosera, where Aaron died, and was buried, & Eleazar his sonne became preest in his steade.
From thence they departed vnto Gudgada, from Gudgada to Iathbath a lande which hath riuers of water. * The same season the Lord seuerated the tribe of Leui to beare the arke of the appointement of the Lorde, & to stande before the Lord and to minister vnto him, and to blesse in his name vnto this daye. * Wherfore the Leuites haue no part nor enheritaunce with their brethren. But the Lord is their enheritaunce as the Lord thy God hath promised them. * And I taried in the mount, euen as at the first time, forty dayes and forty nightes, and the Lord hearkened vnto me at that time also, & the Lorde wolde not destroye the. And the Lorde sayde vnto me: vp and go forth in the rowmnes before the people, that they maye go in & conquer the lande which I sware vnto their fathers, to geue vnto them. And now Israel, what doth the Lord thy God require of the but to feare the Lord thy God, & to walke in all his wayes, & loue him, and to serue the Lorde thy God with all thine hatte and with all thy soule. Namely: that thou kepe the commaundementes of the Lorde, and his ordinaunces which I commaunde the this daye, for thy welth. Beholde, heauen and the heauen of heauens is the Lordes thy God, and the earth with all that therin is. Not-withstandyng, the Lord had a lust vnto thy fathers to loue them, and chose their sede after them, euen you, aboue all nacions, as thou seest this daye. * Circumcise therfore the foreskyn of your herte, and be no more stiff-necked. For the Lorde your God, is God of gods, and Lord of lordes, a great God a mighty & a terrible * which regardeth no mans persone nor taketh gifte. He doth right vnto the fatherlesse and widowe and loueth the straunger to geue him fode and raiment.
* Loue ye therfore the straunger also, for ye were straungers youre selues in the lande of Egypte. * Thou shalt feare the Lord thy God, and him (onely) shalt thou serue to him shalt thou cleue, and sweare by his name he is thy praise and thy God, that hath done for the these great and terrible thynges, which thyne eies haue seene. Thy fathers went downe into Egypte with lxx. soules and now the Lord thy God hath made the as multiplied the, as the * starres of heauen.

your God, his greatnesse, his mighty hande and his stretched out arme, his miracles, & his deedes which he did in the middes of Egypte, vnto Pharao the kyng of Egypte and vnto all his lande: and what he did vnto the hoste of Egypte, vnto their horses and chariotes: * howe he brought the waters of the red see vpon them as they pursued you behinde: and howe the Lord hath brought them to nought vnto this daye, and what he did vnto you in the wildernesse, vntill ye came vnto this place: and what he did vnto Dathan and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab the sonne of Ruben, how the earth opened her mouth, and deuoured them with their housholdes & their tentes, & all their substaunce that was in their possession, in the middes of Israell. Moreouer, your eyes haue seene all the great actes of the Lorde which he dyd. Therefore shall ye kepe all the commaundementes which I commaunde you this day, that ye maye be stronge: and ye go in and conquer the lande whether ye go to possesse it, and that ye may prolonge your dayes in the lande which the Lorde sware vnto your fathers, to giue vnto them and to their seede, a lande that floweth with milke & honye. For * the lande whether thou goest to possesse it, is not as the lande of Egypte from whence ye came out of where thou sowedst thy seede & watredst it with thy feete as a garden of herbes: but the lande whether ye go ouer to possesse it, is a lande that hath hilles and valleys, & drinketh the water of the raine of heauen. This lande doeth the Lord thy God care for, & the eyes of the Lorde thy God are all waies vpon it, from the beginning of the yere, vnto the ende of the yere. Yf ye shall hearken therefore vnto my commaundementes, which I commaunde you this daye, that ye loue the Lord your God and serue him with all your hart, & with all your soule: * I also will geue raine vnto your lande in due season: the first raine and the latter: that thou maiest gather in thy corne, thy wine, and thine oile. And I will sende grasse in thy fieldes for thy cattel: that thou maiest eate, and fill thy selfe. But beware that your harte deceaue you not and ye turne aside, and serue straunge gods, & worshippe them, and then the Lordes wrath wexeth hote against you, * and he shut vp the heauen that there be no raine, and that your lande yelde not her fruite: & leste ye perish quickly from of the good lande, which the Lorde giueth you. Therefore shall ye putte vp these my wordes in your harte and in your soule, and binde them for a signe vpon your hande, that they maie be as a frontayne betweene your eies, and ye shall * teach them your children that they may talke of them, when thou sittest in thine house and when thou walkest by the waye: when thou liest downe, and when thou risest vp: & ye shall write them vpon the dore postes of thine house, & vpon thy gates: that your dayes maie be multiplied, and the dayes of your children in the lande which the Lorde sware vnto your fathers to giue them, as long as the dayes of heauen tarie vpon the earth. For yf ye shall diligently kepe all these commaundementes which I commaunde you, to doe them: to loue the Lorde your God, and walke in all his wayes and cleaue vnto him: then will the Lorde caste out all these nations before you, and ye shall be the possessours of greater nations & of more than your selues. * All the places whereon the soles of your feete shall treade, shalbe yours: from the wildernesse and Libanus, from the flood Euphrates, and vnto the vttermost sea, shall your coste be. There shall no man be able to withstande you: for the Lorde your God shall raise the feare and dread of you vpon all the lande that ye shall treade vpon, as he hath sayde vnto you. * Beholde, I set before you this day a blessynge and a curse: a blessynge, yf ye obey the commaundementes of the Lorde your God which I commaunde you this day: * and a curse, yf ye will not obey the commaundementes of the Lorde your God, but turne out of the waye which I commaunde you this daye, to go after straunge goddes, which ye haue not knowen. When the Lorde thy God shall haue brought thee into the lande whether thou goest to possesse it, thou shalt put the * blessynge vpon mount Garizim, and the curse vpon mount Ebal, which mountaines are on the other syde Iordan on the backe syde of the waye towarde the going downe of the sunne, in the lande of the Chananites which dwell in the plaine ouer against Galgal beside the groue of Moreh, fast by the coastes ouer Iordan to go in, and possesse the lande, which the Lord your God giueth you, and ye shall possesse it, and dwell therein. Take heede therefore that ye do all the commaundementes and lawes, which I sette before you this day.

The. xj. Chapiter.

These are the ordinaunces and lawes, which ye shall obserue & do in the lande which the Lord God of thy fathers geueth the to possesse it, as longe as ye liue vpon the earth. * Ye shal destroy all places wherein the nations which ye shal conquer serued their goddes, vpon hie mountaines & on hilles and vnder euery thicke tree. Ouerthrowe their aultares, and breake their pillers and burne their groues with fire and hewe downe the graue ymagery of their goddes that they haue, and bring the names of them to nought out of that place. Ye shall not so do vnto the Lorde your God, but ye shall seke the place which the Lord your God shall haue chosen out of all youre tribes, to put his thou shalt come, and thyther ye shall bring your burnt sacrifices, your offerynges, your tythes and heue offerynges of youre lande, your vowes, your free will offerynges, and the fyrst gropes of your oxen and of your shepe. And there ye shall eate before the lorde your God, and ye shall reioyce in all that ye put your hande vnto both ye and your hou-holdes, wherin the Lorde thy God hath blessed the. Ye shall not do after all these thynges that we do here thys daye, euery ma what semeth hym good in his owne eyes.

For ye are not yet come to rest, and to the en-heritaunce which the Lorde your God giueth you. But when ye go ouer Iordane, and dwell in the lande which the Lorde your God hath geuen you to enherite, and when he hath geuen you rest from all your enemies rounde about, so that ye dwell in safetie, then vnto the place with the the Lorde your God hath chosen, to put his name to ore, ye shall bring all that I commaunde you. Namely your burnt sacrifices, your offerynges, your tythes, the heue offerynge of your hande, & all your specialle vowes which ye vow vnto the Lorde. And ye shall reioyce before the lorde your God, ye and your children & your doughters, your seruauntes and your maidens, & the Leuite that is within your gates: for as much as he hath no part nor enheritaunce with you. Take hede that thou offer not thy burnt offerynges in euery place that thou seest, but in the place which the lorde shal haue chosen in one of thy tribes, there thou shalt offer thy burnt offerynges, & there thou shalt do al that I commaūde the. Notwithstanding thou maist kil & eate flesh in all thy cities, whatso euer thy soule lusteth after according to the blessing of the lorde thy God which he hath geuen the: both the vncleane & the clean may eate thereof, euen as the roo, or the hart: only ye shal not eat the bloud, but powre it vpō the earth as water. Thou maist not eate within thy gates the tith of thy corne, or thy wine, & of the oyl, & the fyrst gendred of thine oxen, & of thy shepe, neither any of thy vowes which thou vowest, nor thy free offerynges or heue offerynge of thine hand: but thou must eate them before the Lorde thy God, in the place which the lorde thy God hath chosen thou & thy sonne, & thy doughter, thy seruaunt & thy maide, & the Leuite that is within thy gates: and thou shalt reioyce & be refreshed before the lorde thy god in all that thou puttest thine hand to. Beware that thou forsake not the Leuite, as long as thou liuest vpō the earth.
When the lorde thy God hath enlarged thi border as he hath promised the, thou saye: I will eat flesh, because thy soule lōgeth to eate flesh: thou maist eat flesh whatsoeuer thy soule lusteth. If the place which the Lorde thy God hath chosen to put his name there, be to far fro the, then thou shalt kil of thy oxen & of thy shepe which the Lorde hath geuen the, as I haue commaunded the, & thou shalt eat in thine owne cities, whatsoeuer thy soule lusteth. And as the roo & the harte is eaten euen so thou shalt eate them both the cleane and the vncleane shall eate of them. But be stronge that thou eat not the bloud. For the bloude, that is the lyfe: thou maist not eate the life with the flesh: thou shalte not eat it, but powre it vpon the earthe as water. Ne thou eate it not, that it may go well with the & with thy children after the: But thou shalt no that which is right in the sight of the lorde. But the holy thynges which thou hast & thy vowes thou shalt take and come vnto the place which the Lorde hath chosen, & thou shalt offer thy burnte offerynges, both flesh and bloud vpon the aulter of the Lorde thy God, and the bloude of thine offerynges shalbe powred out vpō the aulter of the lorde thy God, and thou maiest eat the flesh. Take hede & heare all these wordes which I cōmaunde the, that it may go wel with the and with thy children after the for euer, if thou doest that which is good & right in the sight of the lorde thy God. When the lorde thy God hath destroied the nations before the, whither thou goest to conquere them, & thou succeedest in their enheritaunce and dwellest in their lande: Beware that thou be not taken in a snare after them, after that they be destroied before the, & that thou aske not after their goddes, saying: how did these nations serue their gods? I wil do so likewise. Thou shalt not so do vnto the lorde thy God: for all abhominations & that which the lorde hateth, the same have they done vnto their gods. For they burn both their sonnes & their doughters with fire before their gods. Therfore what soeuer I cōmaunde you, that take hede you do vnto the lorde, & put thou nought thereto nor take ought there from.

enheritaunce with the. * At the ende of thre yeares, thou shalt bryng forth all the tythes of thyne encrease the same yeare, and laye it vp within thyne owne gates. And the Leuite whiche hath no parte nor enheritaunce with the, shall come, and the Straunger, the fatherlesse and the widowe, whiche are within thy gates, shall eate and be fylled: that the Lorde thy God may blesse the in all the workes of thine handes whiche thou doest.

AT the seuenth yeare, thou shalt make a fredome. * And this is the maner of the fredom. * Whosoeuer lendeth ought vnto his neyghboure, may not axe agayne (that is to say he hath lent of his neyghbour or of his brother, because it is called the Lordes free yeare: yee of a straunger (and of an alyaunt) thou mayst call it home agayne) But * perhaps to thy brother hym shalt thyne hande remyt. Nenertheles there shalbe no begger among you. For the Lorde shall blesse the in the lande, whiche the Lord thy God geueth the, an heritaunce to possesse it: so that thou herken vnto the voyce of the Lorde thy God to obserue and do all these commaundementes, which I commaunde the this daye. For the Lorde thy God hath blessed the as he hath promysed the, * and thou shalt lende vnto many nacions, but thou thy selfe shalt not borowe: And thou shalt raygne ouer many nacions, and they shall not raygne ouer the. If one of thy * brethren among you be poore within any of thy gates in thy lande, whiche the Lorde thy God geueth the: thou shalt not harden thine hart nor shut thyne hand from thy poore brother: But open thyne hand vnto hym and lend him sufficiente for his nede whiche he hath. Beware, that there be not a wycked poynt in thine hart, that thou wouldest saye: The seuenth yeare, the yeare of fredome is at hand, and therfore it greueth the to loke on thy poore brother, and geuest hym nought, and he then crye vnto the Lorde agaynst the, and it be synne vnto the: But gene hym, and let it not greue thine hart to gene vnto hym. Because that for this thynge, the Lorde thy God shall blesse the in all thy workes, and in all that thou puttest thyne hande to. * The lande shall neuer be without poore: And therfore I commaunde the, sayeng: Thou shalt open thine hande vnto thy brother, that is nedy and poore in thy lande. * If thy brother an Hebrue sell hymselfe to the, or an Hebruesse, and serue the syx yere, in the seuenth yeare thou shalt let him go free from the. And when thou sendest hym out free from the, thou shalt not let him go alwayes empty, but shalt gene hym of thy sheepe, of thy corne, and of thy wyne, and gene hym of that wherwith the Lorde thy God hath blessed the. And remember that thou wast a seruaunt in the lande of Egypt, and the Lorde thy God deliuered the thence: and therfore I commaunde the this thyng to daye. And if he saye vnto thy * I will not go awaye from the, because he loueth the and thy house and is well at ease with the: Then shalt thou take a nayle, and nayle his eeare to the doze therwith, and he him bethy seruaunt for euer: And vnto thy maide seruaunt thou shalt do likewise. And let it not greue thyne eye, when thou lettest hym go out free from the, for he hath done vnto a double hired seruaunt to the in his seruice syx yeares. And the Lorde thy God shall blesse the in all that thou doest. * All the first gendred that come of thyne oxen, and of thy sheepe that are males, thou shalt halowe vnto the Lorde thy God. Thou shalt do no worke with the first gendred of thyne oxen, nor sheare the first gendred of thy sheepe: Thou shalt eate it before the Lorde thy God yeare by yeare, in the place whiche the Lord hath chosen both thou & thyne household. If there be any defaute therin, as if it be lame or blynde, or haue any other euell fauoure: thou shalt not offer it vnto the lord thi God: But shalt eate it within thyne owne * gates, the vncleane and the cleane indifferently, as the roe and the hert. Only eate not the bloud therof, but powre it vpō the ground as water.

OBserue the * moneth of newe corne that thou maist offer * passeouer vnto the lord thy God. For in the moneth when corne begynneth to ripe, the Lord thy God brought the out of Egypt by nyght. Thou shalt therfore offer passeouer vnto the Lord thy God, (and sheepe and oxen) in the place whiche the Lorde shall chose to put his name there. Thou shalt eate vnleuened bread with it: but seuen dayes shalt thou eate vnleuened bread therwith: euen the bread of tribulacion (for thou camest out of the lād of Egipt in haste) that thou mayst remembre the daye when thou camest out of the lande of Egipt, all dayes of thy lyfe. And there shalbe no leuened bread seene in all thy coastes seuen dayes long, neither shal there remayne any thing of the flesh whiche thou offerest the first daye at euen, vntyll the morowe. Thou mayst not offer passeouer within any of thy gates, which the Lorde thy God geueth the: but * in the place whiche the Lorde thy God shal chose, to set his name in, there thou shalt offer passeouer at euen about the goyng downe of the sonne, euen in the season that thou camest out of Egypt. And thou shalt seth and eate it, in the place whiche the Lorde thy God hath chosen, and repayre on the morowe, and get the vnto thy tentes. Syx dayes shalt thou eate vnleuened bread, and the seuenth daye is a gatheryng together before the Lorde thy God

Then

thou shalt do no worke therin.* Seuen weekes shalt thou nombre vnto the and begyn to nombre the .vii. wekes, when thon beginst to put thy sickel to the corne,* & kepe the feast of wekes vnto the lorde thy God, with a free will offering of thine hand, which thou shalt geue vnto the lorde thy God, according as the lord thy God hath blessed the. And reioyce before the lord thi God, thou and thy sonne, thy doughter, thy seruaunt, & thy mayde, and the Leuite that is within thy gates, and the straunger, the father lesse, & the widow, that are among you, in the place whiche the lord thy God hath chosen to put his name there And remembre that thou wast a seruaunt in Egipte & thou shalt obserue & do these ordinaunces. Thou shalt also obserue the feaste of tabernacles. vii. daies, after that thou hast gathered in thy corne & thy wyne, And thou shalt reioyce in that thy feast: thou and thy son, thy doughter, thy seruaunt & thy mayde the Leuite, the straunger, & the fatherlesse, & the widow, that are within thy gates.* Seuen daies shalt thou kepe holy daye vnto the lorde thy God, in the place which the lord shal chose: for the lord thy God shall blesse the in all thy frutes, & in all the workes of thine handes, therfore shalt thou be glad.* Thre times in the yere shal all thy males apere before the lord thy God in the place whiche he shal chose: In the feast of swete bread, in the feast of wekes, & in the feast of tabernacles. And they shall not apeare before the Lorde empty, but euery man according to the gyft of his hand, & according to the blessing of the lorde thy God, whiche he hath geue the. Iudges & officers shalt thou make the in all thy cities, whiche the lorde thy God geueth the thorowout thy tribes: and they shal iudge the people rightuously.* Wrest not thou the iuste, nor knowe any persone, neither take any rewarde: for gyftes blinde the wise, and peruerte the wordes of the righteous. That which is iuste and right shalt thou folowe, that thou maiest lyue and enioye the lande, which the Lord thy God geueth the. Thou shalt plet the no grone of what frute soeuer tree it be, nie vnto the aulter of the Lorde thy God, whiche thou shalt make the. Thou shalt set the vp no* piller, which the Lorde thy God hateth.

THou shalt offer vnto the Lord thy God no oxe nor shepe* wherin is blemyshe or any deformitie: for that is an abhominacion vnto the Lorde thy God. If there be founde among you within any of thy gates, whiche the Lorde thy God geueth the, man or woman that hath wrought wickednesse in the sight of the Lorde thy God, so that they haue gone beyond his appointment and gone and serued straunge Goddes, and worshipped them * the Sonne or Moone or any of the hoste of heauen, whiche I haue not commanded, and it is told the, and thou hast herde of it: then shalt thou enquire diligently. And if it be treme, & the thing of a suretie, that suche abhominacion is wrought in Israel, thy shalt thou bryng forth that man or that woman (which haue committed that wicked thyng) vnto the gates, and shalt stone them with stones, till they dye.* At the mouthe of two or three witnesses shall he that is worthy of death, die: and at the mouthe of one witnesse let no man die. The handes of the witnesses shalbe first vpon hym, to kill hym, and afterwarde the handes of all the people, and thou shalt put the wicked away out of the. If there arise a matter to harde for the in iudgement be twene bloud and bloude, betwene plee and plee, betwene plage and plage, and the matters come to stryke within thy gates. Then shalt thou arise, & get the vp vnto the place which the Lorde the God hath chosen out: come vnto the preestes the Leuites, and vnto the iudge that shalbe in those dayes, and aske* and they shal shewe the sentence of iudgement, and thou must do according to that: whi. pe they of that place (which the lorde hath chosen) shewe the, and thou shalt obserue to do, according to all that they enfourme the. According to the sentence of the lawe which they teache the and according to the iudgement which they tell the shalt thou do, and* bowe not from that which they shewe the, neyther to the right hand nor to the left. And that man that will be presumptuous, and will not herken vnto the preest (that ministreth before the Lorde thy God to minister) or vnto the iudge, that man shal dye and thou shalt put away euell from Israel. And all the people shall heare and feare, and shall presume no more presumptuously. When thou art come vnto the lande which the Lord thy God geueth the, and enioyest it, & dwellest therin, & shalt say* I will set a king ouer me, like as all the nacions that are about me: thou shalt make him king ouer the, whom the Lord thy God shall chose: euen one from among thy brethren shalt thou make king ouer the, and thou mayest not set a straunger ouer the which is not of thy brethren.* But he shal not multiply horses to himselfe, nor bryng the people againe to egypt therto: the multitude of horses, forasmuche as the lord hath saide vnto you: ye shall henceforth go no more again that waye. Also he* shall not multiplie wyues to himselfe, lest his hart turne* away, neither shal he gather him* syluer and golde to moche. And when he is set vpon the seate of his kingdom, he shall write him out a copy of this lawe in a boke before the preestes the Leuites. And it shalbe with him, & he ought to reade therin* all dayes of his life.

that he may learne to feare the lorde his god, and to kepe all the wordes of this lawe, and these ordinaunces, for to do them: and that his hart ryse not above his brethren, and that he turne not from the commaundement: to the ryght hande or to the lefte, but that he maye prolonge his dayes in his kyngdome he, and his children in Israel.

The prieste, the Leuites, & all the tribe of Leui must haue no part nor inheritaunce with Israel: but shall eate the offringes of the Lorde & his inheritaunce: therefore shall they haue no inheritaunce among their brethren: but the Lorde he is their inheritaunce, as he hath sayde vnto them. And this is the prieste duety of the people, and of them that offer sacrifice, whether it be oxe or sheepe: they must geue vnto the prieste, the shulder & the two cheekes, and the mawe, the first frutes also of thy corne, wyne and oyle, and the first of the wol of thy shepe shalt thou geue him: For the lorde thy God hath chosen hym out of all thy tribes, to stande and to minister in the name of the Lorde: he and his sonnes for euer. If a Leuite come out of any of the cities of all Israel, where he is a sojourner, and come with all the lust of his hart vnto the place which the Lorde hath chosen: he shall minister in the name of the Lorde his god, as his other brethren the Leuites do, which remayne there before the Lorde. And they shall haue lyke portions to eate, beside that which commeth to hym of the patrimonie of his elders. When thou art come into the lande which the Lorde thy God geueth the, learne thou not to do after the abhominacions of those nations. Let there not be founde among you any one that maketh his sonne or daughter to go thorowe the fyre, or that vseth witchecrafte, or enchaūter out of dayes, or that regardeth the flying of fowles, or a sorcerer, or a charmar, or that counceleth with spretes, or a sothsayer, or that asketh the trouthe of them that be dead. For all that do these thynges, are abhominacion vnto the Lorde, and because of these abhominacions the lorde thy God doth cast them out before the. Thou shalt be perfect therfore: and without blemish in the syght of the Lorde thy God. For these nacions which thou shalt conquer, herken vnto chasers out of dayes, and vnto sorcerers: but the Lorde thy God hath not suffered the so to do. The Lorde thy God wyll stere vp vnto the a Prophet among you: euen of thy brethren, lyke vnto me: vnto hym ye shall herken, accordyng to all that thou desiredest of the Lorde thy God in Horeb, in the daye of the gathering together, when thou sayedst: Let me heare the voyce of my lorde God no more, nor se this great fyre any more, that I dye not. And the lorde sayde vnto me: they haue well spoken. I will rayse them vp a Prophet from among their brethren lyke vnto the, and will put my wordes in his mouthe, and he shall speake vnto them all that I shal commaunde him. And whosoeuer will not herken vnto the wordes which he shall speake in my name, I will require it of hym. But the Prophet which shal presume to speake a worde in my name, which I haue not commaunded hym to speake, or that speaketh in the name of straunge Goddes, the same Prophet shall dye. And if thou saye in thyne hart howe shall we knowe the worde which the Lorde hath not spoken? This token shalt thou haue. Euen when a prophet speaketh in the name of the lorde, if the thyng folowe not, nor come to passe, that is the thynge which the lorde hath not spoken. But the prophet hath spoken it presumptuously. Thou shalt not therfore be afraid of hym.

When the lord thy God hath rooted out the nacions, whose lande the lorde thi God geueth the, and thou succedest in their inheritaunce, and dwellest in their cities, and in their houses: thou shalt appointe three cities for the in the myddes of the land which the Lorde thy God geueth the to possesse it: thou shalt prepare the waye, and deuide the coastes of thy lande, which the Lorde thy God geueth the to enherit, into three partes, that whosoeuer committeth murther, maye flee thyther. For this cause must the slayer flye thyther, that he maye lyue. Whoso kylleth his neyghbour ignorauntly, and hated hym not in tyme passed. And when a mā goeth vnto the wood with his neyghbour to hewe wood, thinkyng no harme: and as his hande fetcheth a stroke with the axe to cut downe the tree, the head slippeth from the helue, and smyteth his neyghbour that he dieth: the same shall flye vnto one of these cities and lyue. Lest the executer of bloude folowe after the slayer whyle his hart is whote and ouertake hym, because the waye is long: and slaye hym, and yet there is no cause worthy of death, in asmuche as he hated hym not in tyme passed. Wherfore I commaunde the, saying: thou shalt appoint out three cities for the. And if the lord thy God enlarge thy coastes (as he hath sworne vnto thy fathers) and geue the all the lande which he sayde he would geue vnto thy fathers, thou shalt kepe all these commaundementes to do them, which I commaunde the this daye, that thou loue the lorde thy God, and walke in his wayes euer, and ad three cities mo for the, but all those three that innocent bloud be not shed in thy lande, which the Lorde thy God geueth the to enherit, and so bloud come vpon the. If a mayde be handfasted vnto an husband, and then a man fynde her in the towne and lye with her, ye shall bryng them both out vnto the gates of the same citie, and shall stone them with stones to death: The damsell, because she cryed not, beyng in the citie. And the man: because he hath humbled his neyghbours wyfe, and thou shalt put awaye euell from the. But if a man fynde a betrothed damsell in the fyeld, & force her, & lye with her: Then the man that laye with her shall dye alone: but vnto the damsell thou shalt do no harme: because there is in the damsel no cause of death. For as why a man ryseth against his neyghbour & sleyeth hym, euen so is this matter. For he founde her in the fieldes, and the betrouthed damsel cried: and there was no man to succour her. * If a man finde a mayde that is not betrouthed, and take her, and lie with her, & they be founde: Then the man that laye with her shall geue vnto the damsels father fyftie syclers of syluer. And she shalbe his wyfe, because he hath humbled her: he may not put her away all his dayes. * No man shal take his fathers wyfe, nor vncouer his fathers coueryng.

The. xxiij. Chapiter.

* One that is gelded or hath his privy membres cut of, shall come into the congregacion of the Lord. And he that is borne of a comen woman, shall not come into the congregacion of the Lorde, no, not in the tenth generacion he shal not entre into the congregacion of the Lorde. * The Ammonites and the Moabites shall not come into the congregacion of the Lord, no, not in the tenth generacion, no they shall neuer come into the congregacion of the lord, because they met you not with bread and water in the waye, when ye came out of Egipt, and because they hyred against the * Balaam the son of Beor, of Pethor, of Mesopotamia, to curse the. Nuerthelesse, the Lorde thy God would not herken vnto Balaam, but the lord thy god turned the curse to a blessyng vnto the, because the lord thy God loued the. Thou shalt not seke the prosperite or welth of them all the dayes for ever. Thou shalt not abhorre an Edomite, because he is thy brother, neither shalt thou abhorre an Egyptian, because thou wast a straunger in his lande. The children that are begotten of them, shall come into the congregacion of the Lorde, in the third generacion. When thou goest out with the host against thyne enemies, kepe the from all wickednesse. If there be amōg you any man that is vncleane by the reason of vnclennes that chaunseth hym by nyght, let him go out of the host, & not come in againe into the host, but at euen let hym wasshe himselfe with water, & then when the sonne is downe, let hym come into the host againe. Thou shalt haue a place also without the host, whither thou shalt resort for thy naturall necessitie: and thou shalt haue a sharpe poynt vpon thy weapō, and when thou wylt ease thy selfe, dyg therwith, and turne & couer that which is departed from the. For the Lorde thy God walketh in the myddest of thyne host, to rid the, and to set thine enemies before the. Therfore shall the place of thine host be pure, that he se no vnclenly thyng in the and so turne hymselfe from the. Thou shalt not deliuer vnto his maister the seruaunt which is escaped from his master vnto the. He shall dwell with the, euen among you in what place he himselfe liketh best, in one of thy cities where it is good for him, and thou shalt not vexe him. There shalbe no whore of the doughters of Israel, nor whoremonger of the sonnes of Israel. Thou shalt neither bryng the hire of an whore, nor the price of a dog into the house of the Lorde thy God in any maner of vowe: for euen both of the are abhominacion vnto the lorde thy God. * Thou shalt not hurt thy brother by vsury of money, nor by vsury of corne, nor by vsury of any thyng that he may be hurt withall. Vnto a straunger thou maiest lende vpon vsury, but not vnto thy brother: that the Lorde thy God may blesse the in al that thou settest thine hand to, in the lande whither thou goest to conquer it. * When thou hast vowed a vow vnto the Lord thy God, thou shalt not tarrie to pay it. For the Lorde thy God wyll surely require it of the, & it shalbe sin in the. If thou shalt leaue vowing, it shalbe no sinne in the: but that which is gone out of thy lippes thou must kepe & do, according as thou hast vowed vnto the Lorde thy God of a free wyll: as thou hast spoken with thy mouth. When thou comest vnto thy neighbours vineyard, thou maiest eate grapes thy belle ful at thine owne pleasure: but thou shalt put none in thy vessell. Euen so when thou comest into thy neighbours corne, * thou maiest plucke the eares with thine handes, but thou shalt not move a sickle vnto thy neighbours corne.

When thou art come into the lande which the Lorde thy God geueth the to enherit, and hast enioyed it and dwellest therin. * Take of the first of all the fruite of the yearth, and bryng it out of the lande that the lorde thy God geueth the, & put it in a maunde and go vnto the place which the Lorde thy God shal chose to set his name in it. And thou shalt come vnto the priest that shalbe in those dayes, and saye vnto hym: I knowlege this daye vnto the Lorde thy God, that I am come vnto the countrey which the lorde sware vnto our fathers for to geue vs. And the priest shall take the maunde out of thine hand, and set it downe before the altar of the lorde thy God, and thou shalt answere and saye before the Lorde thy God: The Syrians went about to destroy my father, * and he went downe into Egipt, and soiourned there with a fewe folke, & grew there vnto a nacion great mighty, and full of people. * And the Egiptians vexed vs, and troubled vs, and layed vs with moste cruel bondage. And whe we cried vnto the Lorde God of our fathers, * the lorde heard our voice, and loked on our aduersitie, labour and oppression. And the lord * brought vs out of Egipte in a mighty hande, and a stretched out arme, and in great terribilnes, & signes and wonders. And he hath brought vs into this place, and hath geuen vs this lande that floweth with milke and hony. * And nowe lo, I haue brought the firste fruites of the lande which (thou O Lorde) hast geuen me. And thou shalt set it before the Lorde thy God, and worship before the Lorde thy God, and reioyce in all the good thinges which the Lorde thy God hath geuen vnto the and vnto thyne house, thou and the Leuite, & the straunger that is amog you. When thou hast made an ende of tithyng all the tithes of thine encrease the third yeare, which is the yeare of tithyng: thou shalt geue it vnto the Leuite, the straungers, the fatherles and the wydowes, that they may eate within thy gates, & fyll themselues. And thou shalt saye before the lorde thy God: I haue brought the holowe thynges out of myne house, and haue geuen it vnto the Leuites, the straungers, the fatherles and the wydowes, according to all thy commaundementes which thou hast commaunded me: I haue not ouerstepped thy commaundementes, nor forgotten them. I haue not eaten therof in my mourning, nor taken ought to prophane therof for the dead, but haue herkened vnto the voyce of the Lorde my God, & haue done * after all that thou hast commaunded me. * Loke downe therefore from thy holy habitacion, euen from heauen, and bleisse thy people Israel, and the lande which thou hast geuen vs (as thou sworest vnto our fathers) a lande that floweth with milke and hony. This daye the Lorde thy God hath commaunded the to do these ordinaunces, and lawes, kepe them therefore, and do them with all thyne hart, and all thy soule. * Thou hast set vp the Lorde this daye to be thy God, and to walke in his wayes, and to kepe his ordinaunces, his commaundementes, and his lawes, and to herken vnto his voice. * And the lord hath set the vp this daye, to be a speciall people vnto hym as he hath promysed the, and that thou kepe his commaundementes, and to make the hyghe aboue all nacions which he hath made, in prayse in name and honoure: * and that thou maiest be an holy people vnto the Lorde thy God, as he hath sayde.

* If thou shalt herken diligently vnto the voyce of the Lorde thy God: and obserue and do all his commaundementes, which I commaunde the this daye: The Lorde will set thee on hygh aboue all the nations of the earth: * and all these blessynges shall come on the, and ouertake the, if thou herken vnto the voyce of the Lorde thy God. * Blessed shalt thou be in the towne, and blessed shalt thou be in the fielde. * Blessed shall the fruite be of thy body, and the fruite of thy ground, and the fruite of thy cattell, the encrease of thy kyne, and the flocke of thy sheepe. * Blessed shall thy basket and thy dosor be. * Blessed shalt thou be, when thou goest out, and blessed when thou comest in. * The Lorde shall cause that enemies that ryse against the, that they may smite them before thy face. They shall come out against the one waye, and flee before the seuen wayes. The Lorde shall send the blessyng vpo thy barnes, and vpon all that thou settest thine hande vnto, and blesse the in the lande which the Lorde thy God hath geuen the. * The Lorde shall make the an holy people ly treasure vnto thy lande in due season, and to blesse all the laboures of thy hande.

* And thou shalt lende vnto many nacions, but shalt not borowe of them. * And the Lorde shall set the before, and not behynde, and thou shalt be aboue onely, * not beneth: if that thou herken vnto the commaundementes of the lord thy God, which I commaunde the this daye to kepe and to do them. * And if that thou bowe not * eyther from any of these wordes, which I commaunde this daye: eyther to the right hande or to the lefte, that thou wouldest go after straunge Goddes to serue them. * But and if thou wilt not herken vnto the voice of the Lorde thy God, to kepe and to do all his commaundementes and his ordinaunces which I commaunde the this daye: all these cur ses shall come vpon the, and ouertake the. Cur sed shalt thou be in the towne, and cursed in the fielde: cursed shall thy basket be, and thy dosor. Cursed shall the fruite of thy body, & the fruite of thy lande, and the fruite of thine oxen, and the flockes of thy sheepe. Cursed shalt thou be when thou goest in, and cursed when thou goest out. The Lorde shall sende of thine inuencions, and because thou hast for saken me. The Lorde shall make the pestilece clene vnto the, vntyll he haue consumed the from of the lande, whether thou goest to pos sesse it. * The Lorde shall smyte the with Cal tyne, with feuers, hote burnyng, and with the Turkye, with wetherynge and with blastyng.

And they shall followe the vntyll thou perish.
* And the heauen that is ouer thy head shalbe brasse, and the yearth that is vnder the, yron.
* The Lorde shall turne the rayne of the lande into powder and dust: euen from heauen shall they come downe vpon the, vntyll thou be destroyed to nought. And the Lorde shall cause the before thine enemies. Thou shalt come out one waye against them, and shalt flee before them, and shalt be scattered among all kingdomes of the yearth. And thy carkas shall be meate vnto all maner foules of no man shall fray thou away. * Thou lest wil smite the with the botch of Egipt, & the Emerodes, scalle, & mangines, that thou canst not be healed therof. And the lorde shal smite the with madnes, and blindnes, and dulnes of hert. Thou shalt grope at noone dayes, as the blynd gropeth in darkenes, & shalt not prospere in thy waies. Thou shalt be oppressed with wrong, & be pouled euermore and no man shall succour the. * Thou shalt be betrouthed vnto a wife, & another man shal lye with her. * Thou shalt buylde an house, and not dwell therin. Thou shalt also plant a vineyarde and shalt not gather the grapes. Thine oxe shall be slayne before thine eyes, & thou shalt not eate therof. Thine asse shalbe violently take away euen before thi face, & shall not be restored to the again. Thy shepe shalbe geuen vnto thine enemies, & no man shal rescue the. Thi sonnes and thy doughters shalbe geuen vnto another nation, and thine eyes shall se it, and waste vpon them all the daye long, & there shal be no myght in thyne hande. The fruite of thy lande and al thi labours shal a nation vnknowen not, eate, and thou shalt continually suffre violence onely, and be oppressed alwaye so that thou shalt be cleane beside thy selfe, for the syght of thyne eyes which thou shalt se. The Lorde shal smyte the in the knees and legges, with a mischeuous botch that cannot be healed: euen from the sole of thy fote vnto the top of thy head. * The lord shall bryng the & thy kyng (which thou shalt set ouer the) vnto a nacion, which neither thou nor thi fathers haue knowen, that there thou maist serue straunge Goddes: euen wood and stone. And thou shalt be wondred at, skorne of, and iested at among al nations, whether the Lorde shall carye the. Thou shalt cary much sede out into the fielde: and shalt gather but lytle in, for the grashoppers shall deuoure it. Thou shalt plant a vineyarde and dresse it, but shalt neither drinke of the wyne, neither gather the grapes, for the wormes shal eate it. Thou shalt haue Olyue trees thorowout all thy coastes, but shalt not anoynte thi self with the oyl, for thine olyue trees shalbe roote doune. Thou shalt beget sonnes and doughters, but shalt not haue them: for they shalbe caried awaye captiue. All thy trees & fruite of thy land shalbe marred with blastyng. The straunger that is amõg you, shall clime aboue the vp on hye, and thou shalt come downe beneth alow. He shall lende the, & thou shalt not lende him: he shalbe before, and thou behind. Moreouer, all these curses shal come vpon the, & shal followe & ouertake the, till thou be destroyed, because thou hearkenest not vnto the voice of the lorde thy God, to kepe his cõmaundements, & his ordinaunces which he commaunded the, & they shalbe vpon the for a signe & wonder, and vpon thy seed for euer, because thou serueddest not the lorde thy God with ioy fulnes & with a good hert, why? thou haddest aboundaunce of al thinges, therfore thou shalt serue thine enemy which the lorde shal sende vpõ the: in hunger & thurst, in nakednes, and in nede of all thyng & he shal put a yoke of yron vpon thy necke vntil he have brought the to nought. And the lorde shall bryng a nacion vpõ the fro fer, & from the end of the world as swyfte as an Egle flyeth: a nation whose tonge thou shalt not vnderstande: a hard fauoured nacion, which shall not regarde the person of the olde, nor have cõpassion of the yonge. Moreouer shall eate the fruite of thy cattell, & the fruite of thy lande vntil he have destroyed the: and shal leave the neither corne, wyne, nor oyle, neither the encrease of thyne oxen nor the flockes of thy shepe vntil he have brought the to nought. And he shall kepe the in all thy cities, vntil he have cast downe thy hie walls and strong holdes, wherin thou trustest, thorowout all the lande. And he shall besege the in all thy cities thorowout all thy lande, which the lorde thy God hath geuen the. * And thou shalt eate the fruite of thyne owne body, the flesh of thy sonnes and of thy doughters which the lorde thy God hath geuen the in that straitnes and tege wherwith thine enemy shall besege the: so that it shall greue the man that is tender & exceding delicate among you to loke on his brother, & vpon his wife that lieth in his bosome, and on the remnaunt of his children, which he hath yet left for fere of geuing vnto any of them of the flesh of his children, whom he shal eate, because he hath nothing lefte him in that straitnesse and tege, wherwith thine enemy shal besege the in all thy cities. Yea, & the tender man that is so tender & delicate, that he dare not aduenture to set the sole of her fote vpon the ground (for softnes & tendernes) shalbe greued to loke on her husbande that lieth in her bosome, & on her sonne & on her doughter, & on her after birth that is to com out fro betweene her legges & her children which she shal beare: for why? all things shall eate them secretly, in the tege & straitnes, wherwith thine enemy shal besege the in thy cities. * If thou wilt not kepe & do all the wordes of this lawe that are written in this boke, & feare this glorious & fearful name of the lorde thy God, the lorde will sende vnto the and thy seed greate plages and of long continuaunce, euell & sore sicknesses & of long beraunce. Moreouer he will bryng vpon the all the sicknesses of Egipt, which thou hast ofte afrayd of, & they shall cleave vnto the. Also all manner sicknesses & all manner plages which are not written in the boke of this lawe, shall the lorde bryng vpon the vntil thou be destroyed. And ye shall be left few in nombre, whereas before ye were as the starres of heaven for multitude, because lande: before thou shouldest not herke vnto the voice of the Lorde thy God. * And it shall come to passe, that as the Lorde reioyced ouer you, to do you good, and to multiplie you, euen so will he reioyce ouer you, to destroy you, & bring you to nought. And ye shalbe rooted from of the lande, whether thou goest to enioye it. And the Lorde shall scatter the among all nacions, from the one ende of the worlde vnto the other, and there thou shalt serue straunge goddes which thou nor thy fathers haue knowe: euen wood and stone. And among these nacions thou shalt finde no ease, neither shal the sole of thy foote haue rest. But the Lord shall geue the there an vnquiet hart, & dasyng eyes, and sorow of minde. And thy lyfe shall hange before the: & thou shalt feare both daye and nyght, and thou shalt haue no trust in thy lyfe. In the morning thou shalt saye wolde God it were euening: and at euen thou shalt say wolde God it were morning: for feare of thine hart, which thou shalt feare: and for the sight of thine eyes, which thou shalt se. And the Lord shall bring the into Egipt agayne with shippes, by the waye whiche I had the, that thou wouldest * neit nomore. And there ye shalbe solde vnto your enemies for bondmen & bondwemen: and no man shal bie you.

The. xxix. Chapiter.

THese are the wordes of the * apointment which the Lorde commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the lande of Moab, beyde the apointment whiche he made with them in Horeb. And Moses called all Israel, and sayde vnto them: ye haue sene all that the Lorde dyd before youre eyes in the lande of Egypte: vnto Pharao and vnto all his seruauntes, and vnto all his lande the great temptacions whyche thyne eyes haue sene, those great miracles and wo ders: and yet the Lord hath not geuen you an hart to perceaue, and eyes to se, and eares to heare, vnto this day. And I haue led you forty yeare in the wylderues, and youre * clothes are not waxen olde vpon you, and thy shoo is not waxen olde vpon thy fote. Ye haue eaten no breade, nor dronke wyne, or strong drynke, that ye myght knowe, howe that I am the Lorde youre God. * And ye came vnto thys place and Sehon the kyng of Hesbon, and Og kyng of Basan came out agaynst vs vnto battell, and we smote them, & tokе their lande, and gaue it for an inheritaunce vnto the Rubenites, and Gadites, and to the halfe tribe of Manasse. * Kepe therfore the wordes of this apointment and do them, that ye maye vnderstande all that ye ought to do. Ye stande this daye euery one of you before the Lorde your God: your captaynes, your tribes, your elders, your officers, and all the men of Israel: your children also, your wi ues, and the straunger that is in the hoste * from the hewer of thy wood, vnto the drawer of thy water: that thou mouldest go into the apoyntment of the Lorde thy God, and into hys othe * whiche the Lorde thy God maketh with the thys daye. For to make the a people vnto hymselfe, and that he maye be vnto the a God, as he hath sayde vnto the, and as he hath sworne vnto thy fathers Abraham, Isahac, and Jacob. I make not thys bonde and thys othe with you only, but both with hym that standeth here with vs thys daye before the Lorde our God, and also with hym that is not here with vs this daye. For ye knowe, howe we haue dwelt in the lande of Egypte, and howe we came thorowe the myddes of the nacions whiche ye passed by. And ye haue sene their abhominacions and their idols (wood and stone, syluer and golde) whiche were among them. Leaste there be amonge you man or woman, kynred or tribe, whose harte turneth awaye thys daye from the Lorde youre God, to go and serue the Goddes of these nacions: and leaste there be among you som roote that beareth gall and worme wood, so that when he heareth the wordes of this othe, he blesse hymselfe in his harte saying, * I shall haue peace. I wyll walke in the meanyng of myne owne harte, (to put the dronken to the thirstie). And so the Lorde wyll not consent to be merciefull vnto hym, but then the wrath of the Lorde and hys gelousye shall smoke agaynst that man, and all the curses that are wrytten in this booke, shall lyght vpon hym and the Lorde shal do out hys name from vnder heauen, and the Lorde shall separate hym vnto euell out of all the tribes of Israel, according vnto all the curses of the apointment that are written in the booke of this lawe. So that the generacio to come of your children, that shall ryse vp after you, & the straunger that shall come from a farre lande shall saye when they se the plages of that lande, and the diseases wherwith the Lorde hath smitten it, howe all the lande is burnt vp with brymstone & salt, & that it is neither sowen nor beareth, nor any gras groweth therin, lyke as in the plaine of the ouerthrowing of Sodome, Gomor, Adame, and Seboim, which the Lorde ouerthrewe in his wrath and angre: Euen then shall al nacions say: * wherfore hath the Lorde done of this maner vnto this lande? Whose feare is this great wrath? And men shall saye, because they left the testamēt of the Lord God of their fathers which he made with them, whē he brought them out of the land of Egipt. For they left and serued straunge Goddes and worshipped them: Goddes which they knew not & which had geuen them nought. And the wrath of the Lorde was kyndled ouer this lande, to bringe vpon it all the curses that were

WHen all these wordes are come vpō the, the blessynge and the curse which I haue set before the, thou shalt turne vnto thine hart, among all the nacions whether the Lorde thy God hath chaced the, and come again vnto the Lorde thy God, and herken vnto his voyce in all these thinges that I cōmaunde the this daye: Thou and thy children with all thy harte and all thy soule. And the Lorde thy God will turne thy captiuite, and haue compassion vpon the and will turne, and set the agayne from all the nacions, among whiche the Lorde thy God hath scattered the. Though thou wast cast vnto the vttrame parties of heauen: euen thē thēce will the Lorde thy God gather the, & thence will he fet the, and the Lorde thy God will bryng the into the lande which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt enioye it. And the Lorde thy God will put all these curses vpon thyne enemies, and on them that hate the, and that persecute the. But thou shalt turne, and herken vnto the voyce of the Lorde, and do all his commaundementes, which I commaunde the this day. And the Lorde thy God will make the plenteous in all the workes of thyne hande, in the fruite of thy bodie, and in the fruite of thy cattell, and in the encrese of thy lande for thy welth. * For the Lorde will turne agayn and reioyce ouer the to do the good, as he reioyced ouer thy fathers. If thou herken onely vnto the voyce of the Lorde thy God to kepe his commaundementes and his ordinances whiche are written in the bobe of this lawe, and if thou turne vnto the Lorde thy God with all thyne hart and all thy soule. But the worde is very nye vnto the, euē in thy mouthe and in thyne hart, that thou do it. * Beholde, I haue set before the this daye lyfe and good, death and euell. For

But and yf thyne harte turne alwaye so that thou wylt not heare: but shalt go aweye and worshippe straunge Goddes, and serue them, I pronounce vnto you this daye, that ye shall surely perysshe, and that ye shal not prolonge your dayes vpon the lande whether thou passest ouer Iordan to go possesse it. I call heauen and earth to recorde this daye against you, that I haue set before you lyfe and death, blessynge and cursynge. Therefore chose lyfe, that both thou and thy sede maye lyue, that thou mayest loue the Lorde thy God, and be obedient to his voyce, and cleaue vnto hym. AND Moses went and spake these wordes vnto all Israell, and sayde vnto them, I am an hundreth and twenty yere olde this daye, and can no more go out and in. Also the Lorde hath sayd vnto me: Thou shalt not go ouer this Iordane. The Lorde thy God he will go ouer before the, and he will destroye these nacions before the, and thou shalt conquere them. * And Iosua, he shall go before the as the Lorde hath sayde. And the Lorde shall do vnto them as he dyd to * Sehon and Og kynges of the Amorytes and vnto the lande of them: whom he destroyed. And the Lorde shall geue them ouer before youre face, that ye maye do vnto them accordynge vnto all the commaundementes which I haue commaunded you. Quyte ye yo⁹ selues therefore, and be stronge, feare not, nor be afrayd of them, for the Lorde thy God he wyll go with the. He shall not fayle the, nor forsake the. Gather the people together, men, women, and children, & the straunger that is within thy gates, that they may heare and learne & feare the Lord your God, and kepe, and obserue all the wordes of this lawe, and that their children which knowe nothyng may heare, and learne to feare the Lord your God, as long as ye liue in the land, whither ye go ouer Iordan to possesse it. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: Behold thy dayes are come, that thou must die. Call Iosua therfore, and stande in the tabernacle of witnesse that I may geue hym a charge. And Moses, and Iosua went, and stode in the tabernacle of witnesse. And the Lorde apeared in the tabernacle, out in the piller of the cloude. * And the piller of the cloude stode ouer the dore of the tabernacle. And the lord sayde vnto Moses: beholde thou shalt slepe with thy fathers, and this people will ryse vp, and go a whorying after straunge Gods of the lande (whither they go) and will forsake me, and breake the appointment, which I haue made with them. And then my wrath will waxe whote against them, and I will forsake them, and will hyde my face from them, and they shalbe consumed. And much aduersyte and tribulacions shall come vpon them, so that then they wyl saye: Are not these troubles come vpon me, because God is not with me? And I also will surely hyde awaye my face in that day, for all the euels sake which they shall haue wrought, in that they are turned vnto straunge Gods. Nowe therfore wryte ye this song for you and teache it the children of Israel, and put it in their mouthes, that this song may be my witnesse against the children of Israel. For I will bryng them into the lande (whiche I sware vnto their fathers) that floweth with mylke and hony, and they shal eate, and fill them selues, and waxe fat, and turne vnto straunge Gods, and serue them, and blaspheme me, & breake my couenaunt. And then when much myschief & tribulacion is come vpō thē this song shal answere them as a witnesse. For it shall not be forgotten out of the mouthes of their sede: for I knowe their ymaginacō which they go about euen nowe, before I haue brought them into the lande which I sware. Moses therfore wrote this song the same season and taught it the children of Israel. And he gaue Iosua the sonne of Nun a charge, and sayde: * be holde, and stronge, for thou shalt bryng the children of Israel into the lande, which I sware vnto them, and I wyl be with the. HEare O ye heauens, and I will speake, and let the yearth heare the wordes of my mouthe. * My doctrine shal droppe as doth the rayne, and my speache shal flowe as doth the dewe, as the mowen vpon the herbes, and as the droppes vpon the grasse. For I will call on the name of the Lorde: Ascrybe ye honoure vnto our god. * Perfect is the worke of the moste mighty God: for all his waies are iudgement. He is a God of truthe, without wickednesse: ryghteous, and iust is he. Frowardly haue they done against hym thorowe their deformities: not his owne children, but a wicked and frowarde generation. Do ye so rewarde the Lorde, O foolyd nacion and vnwyse? * Is not he thy father, and thyne owner? Hath he not made the, and ordeined the? Remembre the dayes of the worlde that is past: consyder the yeares from tyme to tyme. * Aske thy father, and he will shewe the: thy elders, and they will tell the. When the moste highest deuided the nations, & when he separated the sonnes of Adam, he put the borders of the nations fast by the multitude of the children of Israel. For the Lordes part is his folke, and Iacob is the porcion of his enheritaunce. He founde hym in a desert land, in a boyde grounde, and in a roaryng wyldernes. He led him about, he gaue him vnderstāding, and kept hym as the apple of his eye. As an egle that stereth vp her nest and flotereth ouer her young, and stretcheth out her wynges, so doth he take them vp, and beareth them on his shoulders. The Lord alone was his guide, and there was no straunge God with him. He caried hym vp to an hie lande, that he myght eate the encrease of the fieldes * and he fed hym with honye out of the rocke, and with oyle out of the moste harde stone.

with fat of the lambes, and of fat rammes and he goates, with the fat of moste pleteous wheate and thou myghtest drinke the moste pure bloude of the grape. But he that should have bene vpryghte, when he waxed fat, spurned with his hele. Thou art well fed, thou arte growen thycke thou arte laden with fatnesse. And he forsoke God his maker, and regarded not the God of his saluacion. They prouoked hym to anger with straunge Goddes: euen with abhominacions prouoked they hym.* They offered vnto deuels, and not to God, euen to Goddes whom they knewe not: to newe Goddes that came newely vp, whome their fathers feared not. Of God that begate the thou arte vnmyndfull, and hast forgotten God that made the. The Lorde therfore sawe it, and was angry, because of the prouokyng of his sonnes and of his doughters. And he sayde: I wyll hyde my face from them, and wyll se what their ende shalbe. For they are a very frowarde generacion, chyldren in whom is no faith. They have angred me with that which is no God, and prouoked me with their vanities.* And I also wyll prouoke them with those whiche are no people, I wyll anger them with a foolysh nacion. * For fyre is kyndled in my wrath, and burneth vnto the bottome of hel. And hath consumed the yearth with her increase, and set a fyre the bottomes of the mountaynes. I wyll heape myscheues vpon them, and wyll destroye them with myne arrowes. They shalbe burnt with hunger, and consumed with heate, and with bitter destruction.* I wyll also sende the teeth of beastes vpon them, with the furiousnes of serpentes in the dust. Without for the, shall the swoorde robbe them of their chyldren: and within in the chambre, feare bothe young men and young wemen, and the sucklynges with the men of gray heades. I have sayde: I wyll scatter them abroode and make the remembraunce of them to cease from among men. Were it not that I feared the wrath of the enemie, lest their aduersaries should vtterly withdrawe them selues and lest they should saye: our hye hande hath done all this, and not the Lorde. For it is a nacion without counceall, neyther is there any vnderstanding in them: O that they were wise, and vnderstode this, that they would consyder their later ende. Howe should one chace a thousande, and two put ten thousande to flyght: except their maker had solde them, & except the Lord had shut them vp? For their God is not as our God, * our enemies also themselues are iudges. For their vyne is of the vyneyarde of Sodome, and of the fieldes of Gomorra: Their grapes are grapes of gall, and their clusters be bitter. Their wyne is the poyson of dragons, and the cruell gall of aspes. Is not this layd in store with me, and sealed vp among my treasures?* Vengeaunce is myne, and I wyll rewarde, their fete shall slyde in due tyme: For the daye of their destruccion is at hande, and the thynges that shall come vpon them, make haste.* For the Lorde shall iudge his people, and have compassion on his seruaunes: when he seeth that their power is gone, and that there be in a maner shut vp, or brought to naught and forsaken. And he shall saye:* where are their Goddes, their God in whom they trusted. The fat of whose sacrifices they dyd eate and dranke the wyne of their drinke offrynges. Let them ryse vp and healpe you, & be youre protectour in necessite. See nowe howe that I,* I alone am God, and there is none but I:* I kyll, and wyll make alyue: I wounde, and I wyll heale:* neyther is there any that can deliuer out of my hande. For I wyll lyfte vp myne hande to heauen, and wyll saye: I lyue euer. If I whet the edge of my swoorde, & mine hand take hold to do iustice, I wil recōpeare vengeaunce on mine enemies, and I wyll rewarde them that hate me. I wyl make myne arrowes dronke with bloude, and my swearde shall eate flesshe, and that for the bloud of the slayne, and for their captiuitie, cens the beginnyng of the wrath of the enemie.* Reioyce ye Heathen his people, for he wyll auenge the bloude of his seruaunes, and wyll auenge hym of his aduersaries, and wyll be mercyfull vnto his lande, and to his people. And Moses came and spake all the wordes of this songe in the eares of the people, he and Iosua the sonne of Nun. And Moses spake all these wordes vnto the ende to all the people of Israel, and sayde vnto them:* Set your hartes vnto all the wordes which I testifie vnto you this day: and ye shall commaunde them vnto your chyldren, that they maye obserue and do all the wordes of this lawe. And let it not be a vayn worde vnto you: for in it is your lyfe, and therfore this worde ye shall prolonge your dayes in the lande whether ye go ouer Iordane, to conquere it. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses the selfe same daye, saying: get the vp into this mountayne Abarim, that is to saye a passage vnto the mounte Nebo, whiche is in the lande of Moab ouer against Iericho. And beholde the lande of Canaan, whiche I geue vnto the chyldren of Israel to possesse: And dye in the mount whiche thou goest vp vnto, and thou shalt be gathered vnto thy people.* As Aaron thy brother dyed in mounte Hor, and was gathered vnto his people, because ye trespaced against me among the chyldren of Israel,* at the waters of Meriba, at Cades in the wylderneses of Sin: for ye sanctified me not among the

The xiiii. day Nouēb.

This is the blessyng wherwith Moses the man of God blessed the chyldren of Israel before his death, and sayde. The lord came from Sinai and shewed his beames from Seir vnto them, and appeared from mount Pharan, & he came with thousandes of saynctes, and in his ryght hande a lawe of fyre for them. And he loued the people. * All his saynctes also are in thy handes. They were smitten to go after thy fete and to receyue of thy wordes. Moses gaue vs a lawe to be an enheritaunce of the congregacion of Jacob. And he was in Israel kyng when the heades of the people, and the tribes of Israel were gathered together. Let Ruben lyue, and not die: and be fewe in nōbre. This came also happened to Juda. And he sayde: heare Lord the voice of Juda, and bryng him vnto his people: his handes shalbe good ynough for hym, & thou helpe him agayne his enemies. And vnto Leui he sayde: Thumim and Urim shalbe with the, and with euery one that is godly in the. Thou diddest proue hym also in the temptacion and striuedest with him at the waters of strife. He that hath sayde to his father and to his mother: I haue not sene hym. And he that knewe not his brethren, nor knewe his owne chyldren, those are they that haue obserued thy worde, and shall kepe thy couenaunt. They shal teache Jacob thy iudgementes, and Israel thy lawe. They shall put cens before thy nose, & the burnt sacrifice vpon thine aultar. Blesse Lorde his strēgth and accept the worke of his handes, smite the loynes of them that ryse against him, and of them that hate hym, that they ryse not againe. And of Ben Jamin he sayde. The Lordes derlyng shall dwell in safetie vpon him and the Lord shall couer him all the daye long, and he shall dwell betwene his shoulders. And of Joseph he sayde: blessed of the Lorde is his lande for the fruites of heauen, therowe the dewe and sprynges that lye beneth, and for the swete fruites of the encreace of the sonne and rype fruites of the moone: for the fyrst fruites of the principall mountaynes, and for the fruites that the hilles bryng forth for euer, and for the fruites of the yearth, and fulnes therof: and for the good wyll of hym that dwelt in the bushe, * shall the blessyng come vpon the head of Joseph, and vpon the toppe of the heade of hym that was seperated from amōg his brethren: his first borne ore hath bewtie, and his hornes are as the hornes of an vnicorne. And with them he shall trouble the nacions together, euen vnto the endes of the worlde. Theise are also the many thousandes of Ephraim, and the thousandes of Manasse. And vnto Zabulon he sayde: reioyce Zabulon in thy goyng out, and thou Isachar in thy tentes. They shall call the people vnto the hyll and there they shall offer offeringes of righteousnes. For they shall sucke of the aboundaunce of the sea, and of treasure hyd in the sande. And vnto Gad he sayde: blessed be the rowme maker Gad: he dwelleth as a lyō, that catcheth the arme with the head. He saw therfore his beginning, and that there was a portion there to hyde the lawgeuer, and he came with the heades of the people, and executed the righteousnes of the Lorde and his iudgementes with Israel. And vnto Dan he sayde: Dan is a lions whelpe, he shal leape from Bacan. And vnto Nepthali he sayde: Nepthali hath aboundaunce of Gods good pleasure, and is fylled with the blessyng of the Lorde, and shall haue his possessions towardes the southwest. And to Aser he sayde: Aser shalbe blessed with children: he shalbe acceptable vnto his brethren and shal dippe his foote in oyle. Thy dwellyng be yron and brasse, and thine age be as thy youth. There is none lyke vnto the God of Israel: whiche though he syt vpon the heauen as vpon a horse, yet is he thy helper, whose glory is in the celestiall places. The eternal God is thy refuge, and vnder the armes of the euerlasting God shalt thou liue. He shal cast out the enemie before the, and saye: destroye, Israel then shall dwell in safetie, and alone. And the eye of Jacob shall be vpō a lande of corne and wyne, and his heauens shall droppe the dewe. Happy art thou O Israel, who is like vnto the? O people that art saued in the lord whiche is the shilde of thi helpe, and sworde of thy glory. Thine enemies haue lost their strength to the warde, and thou shalt treade vpon the heyght of them.

AND * Moses went from the playne of Moab vp into mount Nebo and vnto the toppe of * the hyll that is ouer against Jericho. And the Lorde shewed him all the lande of Gilead, euen vnto Dan, and all Nepthali and the lande of Ephraim and Manasse, and all the lande of Juda: euen vnto the vtmoste sea, and the southe, and the regiō of the plain of Jericho the Citie of Palmetrees, euen vnto Zoar. And the Lorde sayde vnto hym. * This is the lande whyche I sware vnto Abraham, Isahac and Jacob, saying: I will geue it vnto thy sede, I haue caused the also to se it with thyne eyes, * but thou shalt not goo ouer thyther. So Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde dyed there in the lande of Moab accordyng to the worde of the Lorde. And he buryed hym in a valey in the lād of Moab ouer against the house of Peor, but no man knoweth of his sepulchre vnto this daye. Moses was an hundred and twenty yeare olde when he dyed: his eye was not dymme nor his naturall coloure abated. Num. xx.d. And the childzen of Israel * wept for Moses in the plaine of Moab thirty dayes. And the dayes of weepyng & mournyng for Moses were ended. And Iosua the sonne of Nun was Num. xxvii.d D. full of the spirite of wisdome: * for Moses had put his handes vpon hym. And the childzen of Israel were obedient vnto hym, and dyd as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And there arose not a prophet sence in Israel like vnto Moses, whom the Lorde knewe face to face, according vnto all the miracles and wonders which the Lorde sent hym to do in the lande of Egipte, vnto Pharao and all his seruauntes and before all his lande: and according to all that myghtie hande, and all the great visions, which Moses shewed in the syght of all Israel.

The. xv. day. Mattins. A. AFter the death of Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde, it happened also that the Lord spake vnto Iosua, the sonne of Nun, Moses ministre saiyng: Moses my seruaunt is dead. Nowe therfore vp & go ouer Iordan thou and all this people, vnto the lande which I geue vnto the childzen of Israel. * All the places that the sooles of your fete shall treade vpon, haue I geuen you as I sayd vnto Moses. Deut. xi.c From the wildernes, & this Libanon vnto the great ryuer Euphrates: all the lande of the Hethites, euen vnto the great sea towarde the going doune of the sonne, shalbe your coaste. There shall not a man be able to withstand the all the dayes of thy lyfe. * For as I was with Moses so wyll I Iosu.iii.b. B. Heb.xiii.b. Deut.xxxi.c. iii.Reg.ii.a. be with the, * and will not fayle the, nor forsake the. * Be strong therfore and bolde: for vnto this people shalt thou deuide the lande which I sware vnto their fathers to geue them. Only be thou stronge and as bolde as thou canst, that thou maiest obserue and do according to all the lawe, which Moses my seruaunt commaunded the. * Tourne there Deut.v.g. from neither to the right hande, nor to the lefte: that thou maiest do wyesely in all that thou takest in handes: * Let not the booke of Deut. xvii. v. C. this lawe departe out of thy mouthe: But vse to be therin day and nyght that thou maiest obserue and do according to all that is written therin. For then shalt thou make thy waye prosperous, and then shalt thou wysely. Haue not I commaunded the, that thou shouldest be strong and hardy and not feare nor be fayntehartede? For I the Lorde thy God am with the, whythersoeuer thou goest. Then Iosua commaunded the officers of the people, saiyng: Go thorowe the mydes of the hoast, and commaunde the people, saiyng: prepare you vitayles: for after thre dayes ye shall passe ouer thys Iordan, to go in and enioye the lande, whiche the Lorde your God geueth you to possesse it. And vnto the Rubenites, Gadites, and halfe the tryde of Manasses spake Iosua saiyng: * Remember the worde, whiche Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde commaunded you, saiyng: the Lorde your God hath geuen you rest, and hath geuen you thys lande: youre wyues, your childzen, and your catell shall remayne in the lande whiche Moses gaue you on this syde Iordane: but ye shall go before your brethren, armed all that be men of warre, and helpe them vntyll the Lorde haue geuen your brethren rest, as he hath you, and vntyll they haue also obteyned the lande, whiche the Lorde your God geueth them. And then shall ye returne vnto the lande of your possession and enioye it, whiche lande Moses the Lordes seruaunt gaue you on thys syde Iordane towarde the sonne rysyng. And they answered Iosua saiyng: * All that thou hast commaunded vs, we will do, and whythersoeuer thou sendest vs, we will go. According as we obeyed Moses in all thinges so will we obeye the, onely the Lorde thy God be with the as he was with Moses. And whosoeuer he be that doth disobey thy mouthe, and will not herken vnto thy wordes in all that thou commaundest hym, let hym dye: Only be strong and of good courage.

Euensong. A. AND Iosua the sonne of Nun sent out of Settim two men to spye secretely saiyng, go and beme the lande, and also Iericho. And they went, and came into a harlotes house, named Rahab, and lodged there. And it was tolde the kyng of Iericho and sayde: Beholde, there came men in hyther to nyghte, of the childzen of Israel, to spye out the countrey. And the kyng of Iericho sent vnto Rahab saiyng: bringe forth the men that ute come to the, and whyche are entred into thyne house: for they be come to searche out all the lande. And the woman tooke the twoo men, * and hyd them. Heb. xi.f. Jaco. ii.d. B. And sayde thus in dede: there came men vnto me, but I wyste not whence they were. And about the tyme of the shuttyng of the gate when it was darke, the men went out, whether the men went I wote not: followe ye after them quickely, for ye shall

to the wall of the house, and hid them with the flaxe of flaxe, whiche he had layde vpon the roffe. And the men of the citie purfued after them, the waye to Jordan, euen vnto the fordes, & assone as they which purfued after them were gone oute, they shut the gate. And or euer they were a slepe, she came vp vnto them vpon the roffe, and saide vnto the men: I knowe that the Lorde hath geuen you the lande, for the feare of you is fallen vpon vs, & the inhabiters of the lande fayne at the presence of you. For we haue heearde, howe the Lorde dried vp the water of the reed sea before you, when you came out of Egypte: & what you did vnto the two kynges of the Amorites, that were on the other side Jordan, Sehon & Og, whom ye vtterlie destroied. And as sone as we had heard these thynges, we were sore afraid, & oure hertes dyd faynte. And there remained no more courage in any man at the presence of you. For the Lorde your God, he is the God in heauē aboue, & in earth beneth. Now therfore (I praie you) sweare vnto me by the Lorde, that as I haue shewed you mercye, ye shall also shewe mercye vnto my father, houfe, and geue me a true token. And that ye shall saue aliue, both my father, and my mother, my brethren and my sisters, and all that they haue. And that ye shall deliuer oure soules fro death. And the men answered her: oure liues for you to die, ye ye vtter not this oure busines. And when the Lord hath geuē vs the lande, we will deale mercifullye and truelye with the. And then she let them downe by a corde, thorowe a window: For her house was by the towne walle. And she dwelt by the towne walle. And she saide vnto them, gette you into the mountaine, leste the purfuers mete you, & hide your selues there three dayes vntil the purfuers be returned, and then shall ye go your iourney. And the men saide vnto her: we will be blamelesse of this thy othe, whiche thou hast made vs sweare. Beholde, when we come into the lande, thou shalt bynde this purple corde in the windowe whiche thou letteste vs downe by. And thou shalt bringe thy father and thy mother, thy brethren & all thy fathers houshalde, vnto thy house. And whosoeuer doth goe out at the dores of thy house, into the streate his bloud shalbe vpon his owne heade, & we will be giltelesse: and whosoeuer shalbe within the house, his bloud shal be on oure heade, if any mannes hande touche hym. And if thou vtter these oure wordes, we will be quite of the oth whiche thou hast made vs sweare. And she saide: accordyng vnto youre wordes, so be it: and she sent them away to departe: and they departed. And they departed, and came into vntill the purfuers were returned. And the purfuers sought them thorowe out all the waie but founde them not. And the two men returned, and descended from the mountaine, and passed ouer, and came to Josua the sonne of Nun, and tolde him all that had chaunced them. And they saide vnto Josua: the Lorde truly hath deliuered into oure handes all the lande, and all the inhabiters of the countrey faynte at the presence of vs.

The. xvi. day at Mattyas.

C. The.iij. Chapiter.

AND Josua rose early and they remoued from Settim, & came to Jordan, he and all the children of Israel, and lodged there, before they went ouer. And after three dayes it came to pas, that the officers went thorowe out the host, and commaunded the people, saiynge: when ye see the Arke of the Testamente of the Lord youre God and the Priestes that are Leuites beareyng it, ye shall departe from youre place, and go after it. Yet yet that there shall be a space betwene you and it, about two thousande cubites by measure. And ye shall not come nye vnto it, that ye may know the waye by whiche ye muste go: for ye haue not gone this waye in times paste. And be ware that ye approche not nye vnto the Arke. And Josua said vnto the people: Sanctifie your selues, for to morowe the Lord shall do wonders amonge you. And Josua spake vnto the Priestes, saiynge: Take vp the Arke of the couenaunte and go before the people. And they tok vp the Arke of the Testamente and went before the people. And the Lord saide vnto Josua: this day will I beggyne to magnifie thee in the sight of all Israel, that they may knowe howe that I was with Moses, so will I be with thee. And thou shalte commaunde the Priestes that beare the Arke of the couenaunte, saiynge: when ye are come to the edge of the water of Jordan, ye shall stande still in it. And Josua saide vnto the children of Israell: come hither, and heare the wordes of the Lorde youre God. And Josua saide: Hereby ye shall knowe that the liuyng God is amonge you, and that he will without faile caste out before you, the Cananites, and the Hethites, the Henites, the Pherezites, the Gergesites, the Amorites, and the Jebusites. Beholde, the Arke of the appointmente of the Lorde of all the worlde goeth before you into Jordan. Now therfore take from among you twelue men of the tribe of Israell, oute of euery tribe a man. And assone as the soules of the fete of the Priestes that beare the Arke of the Lorde the Gouernoure of all the worlde treade in the waters of Jordane, the waters of Jordane (those that beneth shall vanne downe, and shalbe diuided: and the waters that come dynge to the nōbre of the tribes of the children of Israell and caried them awaie with them vnto the place where they lodged, and laied them downe there. And Josua sette vp twelue stones also in the midest of Jordan, in the place where the feete of the priestes which bare the Arke of the testamente, stode and there they remayne vntill this daye.

For the priestes which bare the Arke stode in the midest of Jordan, vntill all thinges were done that the lord co̅maunded Josua to saye vnto the people, accordyng to all that Moses charged Josua. And the people hasted & went ouer. It co̅tinued also, that when al the people were cleane ouer, the Arke of the lord went ouer also, and the Priestes before the people. * And the children of Ruben, and the children of Gad, and halfe the tribe of Manasses went before the children of Israel armed as Moses charged them. Euen xl thousande prepared for warre, went before the lord vnto battell, vnto the plaine of Jericho, * that day the Lorde magnified Josua in the sighte of all Israell, & they feared him, as they feared Moses all daies of his life.

And the Lorde spake vnto Josua, saynge: commaunde the Priestes that beare the arke of witnesse, to come vp out of Jordan. Josua therefore commaunded the Priestes, saynge: Come ye vp oute of Jordan. And when the Priestes that bare the Arke of the appointment of the Lorde were come vp out of the midest of Jordan, and as sone as the soules of the Priestes feete were set on the drie lād the waters of Jordane returned againe vnto their place, and went ouer all their bank-es as they did before. And the people came vp out of Jordane the tenth day of the first moneth, and pitched in Gilgall, euen in the east border of the citie Jericho. And the twelue stones which they toke out of Jordan did Josua pitche in Gilgall. And he spake vnto the children of Israell, saynge: * ye

And this is the cause why Iosua circumcised all the people that came out of Egypte: Namely, such as were males because that all the men of warre, died in the wilderneſs by the waie, after they came out of Egypte. For all the people that came oute were circumcised. But all the people that were borne in the wilderneſſe by the waye after they came out of Egipte, were not circumcised. For the children of Israell walked fourty yeres in the wilderneſſe, till al the people of the men of warre that came oute of Egypt, were consumed because they harkened not unto the voice of the lord. Wherefore the Lord sware, that he wolde not shewe the the lande* which the Lord sware unto their fathers, that he wolde give us, euen a lande that floweth with milke & hony. And their children whom he set up in their steade, them Iosua circumcised: for they were uncircumcised, because they circumcised them not by the waie. And when they had circumcised all the people they abode still together in the host till they were whole. And the Lord said unto Iosua: this day I have taken away the shame of Egypt from you: wherfore the name of the same place is called Gilgal unto this daye. And the children of Israell abode in Gilgall* and held the feast of passeouer the fourteene daye of the moneth at euen in the plaine of Jericho. And they did eate of the corne of the lande on the morowe after passeouer swete cakes* & parched corne in the selfe same day. For the manna ceased on the morowe after they had begonne to eat of the corne of the land, neither had the children of Israell Manna any more, but did eate of the corne of the lande of Canaan that yere. And it fortuned that when Iosua was nye to Jericho, he lift up his eies and loked, and beholde, there stode a man against him, hauynge a swearde drawen in his hande. And Iosua went unto him, and said unto him: are thou on our side or on our aduersaries. And he said: Naye, but as a Captaine of the host of the Lord am I now come. And Iosua fell on his face to the earth, and did reuerence, and sayde unto him: what saith my Lord unto his seruaunte? And the captaine of the Lordes host said unto Iosua, Put thy sho of thy foote, for the place wherein thou standest, is holy. And Iosua did so.

The. vi. Chapiter.

Iericho was shut up, and locked because of the children of Israell, neither might any man go out or in. And the Lorde sayde unto Iosua: beholde, I have geuen into thine hande Jericho and her King & the strongemen of warre. And ye shall compasse the citie all ye that be men of warre, and go aboute it once: thus shalt you do six dayes. And seuen Priestes shall beare before the arke seuen trompettes of rammes horne, and the seuenth day, ye shall compasse the citie seuen times, & the Priestes shall blowe with the trompettes. And when they make a longe blaste with the rammes horne, & ye heare the sounde of the horn, all the people shal showte with a great showte. And then shal the wal of the citie fal downe, & the people shal ascend up, every man streight before him. And Iosua the sonne of Nun, called the priestes, and said unto them: take up the Arke of the appointmente, & let seuen priestes beare seuen trompets of rammes hornes before the arke of the Lord. And he said unto the people, go & compasse the citie: & him that is harnessed, go before the arke of the lord. And when Iosua had spoken unto the people the seuen Priestes bare the seuen trompettes of rammes hornes, & went forth before the arke of the Lorde & blew with the trompettes, & the Arke of the couenaunte of the Lord followed them. And all the men of armes went before the Priestes, that blewe with the trompets, and the common people came after the Arke: & the Priestes that went blew with trompets. And Iosua commaunded the people, saiynge: Ye shal not showte, nor make any noise with your voice, neither shall any worde procede out of your mouth, until the daye I bid you showte, then shall ye showte. And so the Arke of the Lord compassed the citie, and went about it once: & they returned into the host, and lodged ther. And Iosua rose earlye in the morynge, and the Priestes toke up the Arke of the Lorde, and seuen Priestes bare seuen trompettes of rammes hornes, & went before the Arke of the Lorde, & blewe with the trompettes. And all the men of armes went before them, but the common people came after the arke of the Lord, which went before with the blowyng of the trompettes. And the seconde day they compassed the citie once, & returned againe into the host, & so they did sixe dayes. And when the seuenth day came, they rose early: euen with the dawnynge of the day, & compassed the citie after the same maner seuen times: only that day they compassed the citie seuē times: & at the seuenth time, when the Priestes blewe with the tropets, Iosua saide unto the people, showte, for the Lord hath geuen you the citie. And the citie shalbe damned both it and all that are therin unto the Lord: onely Rahab the harlot shall liue, & all that are with her in the house, because she hid the messengers that we sent. Iosua. j. a. And in any wise be ye ware of the excommunicate thynges, lest ye make your selues excommunicate, and take of the excommunicate thynges, & make the host of Israell excommunicate & trouble it. C.

And the people harkened, and blewe with trompettes. And when the people heard the sounde of the trompe, they shouted with a greate noise: and the * wall fell downe, so that the people went up into the citie, every man streight before him and toke the citie. And they vtterly destroyed all that was in the citie, bothe man and woman, younge and olde, oxe, sheepe, and asse, with the edge of the sweorde. Then Iosua sayde vnto the two men that had spied out the countrey: * go into the harlottes house, and bringe out thence the woman, and all that she hath, as ye sware to her. And the younge men that were spies, went in, and brought out Rahab, and her father and mother and her brethren, & all that she had. And they brought out all her kynrede and putte them without the hoste of Israell. And they burnt the citie with fier, and al that was therin. Only the silver and the golde, the vessels of brasse and yron they put vnto the treasure of the house of the Lorde. * And Iosua saued Rahab the harlotte, and her fathers household, and all that she had, and she dwelt in Israell, euen vnto this daie: because she hid the messangers, whiche Iosua sent to spie out Iericho. And Iosua sware at that time, saynge: * cursed be the man before the Lorde, that riseth vp, and buildeth this citie Iericho: he shal laie the foundacion * in his eldest sonne, and in his youngest sonne shall he sette vp the gates of it. And so the Lorde was with Iosua, and his fame was noysed thorowe out all landes.

The .vj. Chapiter.

But yet the children of Israell trespaced in the * excommunicate thinges. And * Achan the sonne of Carmy, the son of Zabdi, the sonne of Zareth of the tribe of Iuda toke of the excommunicate thynges. And the wrath of the Lorde was hote vpon the children of Israell. And Iosua sent men from Iericho to Hay, whiche is beside Bethauen on the East side of bethell, and spake vnto them, saynge: get you vp, and biewe the countrey. And the men went vp, and spied out Hai. And returned to Iosua, and saide vnto him: let not all the people go vp, but lette as it were a two or three thousande men go vp, and smite Hai and make not all the people to labour thether, for they are but fewe. And so there went vp thether of the people, about three thousande men, and they fled before the men of Hai. And the men of Hai smote of the vpon a thirtie and six men: for they chased them from before the gate euen vnto Sebarim, & smote them in the going downe. Wherefore the hertes of the people * for feare melted away like water. Now Iosua rente his clothes, and fell to the earth vpon their faces. And Iosua sayde * Alas, O Lorde God, wherefore hast thou brought this people ouer Iordane, to deliuer vs into the hande of the Amorites, and to destroie vs: wolde to God we had bene content, and dwelte on the other side Iordan. Oh Lorde what shall I saye, when Israell turneth their backes before their enemies? Surely the Cananites, and all the inhabiters of the lande shall heare of it, & shal conspire against vs, and destroie the name of vs out of the worlde: and what wilt thou do vnto thy mightye name? And the Lorde sayde vnto Iosua, get the vp: wherefore lyest thou thus vpon thy face? Israell hath sinned, & they haue transgressed mine appointement, whiche I commaunded them: for they haue taken of the excommunicate thynges, & haue stolen, and dissembled, & put them vnto their owne stuffe. And therfore is it that the children of Israell cannot stand before their enemies, but shal turne their backes before their enemies, because they be excommunicate. Neither will I be with you any moare, except ye cute out the excommunicate from amonge you. * Vp therfore, and sanctifie the people, and saie: sanctifie your selues against to morowe vnto the Lord God of Israel: Therein is a damned thynge amonge you, O Israel, and therfore ye cannot stande against your enemies, vntill ye haue put the damned thynge from amonge you. To morowe morynge therfore ye shalbe brought acrosse vnto your tribes. And the tribe which the Lord taketh, shall come accordyng to the kynredes therof. And the kynred which the Lord shall sinde giltie, shal come by houshold. And the household which the Lord shall finde faultye, shall come man by man. And he that is founde in the excommunicacion, shalbe burnt with fier, he & all that he hath, because he hath transgressed the ordenaunce of the Lorde, wrought folie in Israell. And so Iosua rose vp early in the morninge & brought Israell by their tribes, and the tribe of Iuda was caught. And he brought the kynredes of Iuda, & toke the kynrede of the Zarhites. And he brought the kynrede of the Zarhites man by man, and Zabdi was caught. And he brought his household man by man, & toke the son of Carmy, the sonne of Zabdi, the son of Zareth in the tribe of Iuda was caught.

And Iosua saide vnto Achan, my son, I beseche the, geue glorye to the Lorde God of Israell, & confesse vnto him, & shewe me what thou hast done, hide it not from me. And Achan answered Iosua, & saide, of a truthe I haue sinned against the Lord God of Israell, and and take their cattell and spoyle vnto themselues, according vnto the worde of the Lorde, which he commaunded vnto Iosua. So Iosua came vnto them sodenly, and all the people that were with him, against Sichem by the waye: for they thought no harme. But the Lorde had delyuered them into the handes of Israel, which slewe them, and pursued them with a great slaughter vnto Gabaon, and vnto Bethoron, and vnto the valley of Mageddon, and vnto Thamnathsare, which is in the mountaines of Ephraim. And when they were fled before the children of Israel, and were in the descente of Bethoron, the Lorde cast downe great stones from heauen vpon them vnto Azeca, and they died: there were more which died with the hailestones, then they whom the children of Israel slewe with the sworde. Then spake Iosua vnto the Lorde in the time when the Lorde gaue the Amorites into the handes of the children of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel: Sunne, stande thou still vpon Gabaon, and thou Moone in the valley of Aialon. And the sunne stode still, and the moone stayed, vntil the people auenged themselues of their enemies. Is not this written in the booke of Iasher? So the sunne stode still in the middest of heauen, and hasted not to go downe about a whole day. And there was no day like vnto that before it or after it, that the Lorde hearkened vnto the voyce of a man: for the Lorde fought for Israel. And Iosua returned, and all Israel with him vnto the hoste to Galgal.

These kynges fled, and hyd themselues in a caue at Maceda. And it was told Iosua, saying: The fyue kynges are found hyd in a caue at Maceda. And Iosua said: Roll great stones vpon the mouth of the caue, and set men by it to watche them. But stande ye not still, pursue your enemies, and smite the hyndmost of them: suffer them not to get into their cities, for the Lorde your God hath deliuered them into your handes. And when Iosua and the children of Israel had made an ende of slayinge them with a very great slaughter, vntil they were consumed, and the residue of them that were escaped, entred into the strong cities: then all the people returned safe to the hoste vnto Iosua at Maceda in peace: there durst not a man stirre his tongue against any of the children of Israel. Then said Iosua: Open the mouth of the caue, and bring forth vnto me those fyue kynges out of the caue. And they did so, and brought forth those fyue kynges out of the caue vnto him, euen the kynge of Hierusalem, the kynge of Hebron, the kynge of Iarmuth, the kynge of Lachis, and the kynge of Eglon. And when they had brought out those kynges vnto Iosua, Iosua called for all the men of Israel, and said vnto the captaines of the warre which went with him: Come nere, and put your feete vpon the necks of these kynges. And they came nere, and put their feete vpon their necks. Then Iosua said vnto them: Feare not, nor be discomforted, but be strong and of good courage: for thus shall the Lorde do to all your enemies against whom ye fight. And Iosua slewe them afterwarde, and hanged them on fyue trees: and they hanged vpon the trees vntil the euentide. And at the going downe of the sunne Iosua commaunded, and they toke them downe from the trees, and cast them into the caue wherein they had hyd themselues, and layde great stones in the caues mouth, which remayne vntil this very day.

AND when Adonizedec the kynge of Hierusalem had heard how Iosua had taken Hai, and vtterly destroyed it, as he had done vnto Hiericho and her kynge, so had he done vnto Hai and her kynge: and how that the inhabitours of Gabaon had made peace with Israel, and were among them: they were very sore afrayde, because Gabaon was a great citie, as one of the royall cities, and greater then Hai, and all the men therof were valiaunt. F. pitched not his hande backe againe, vntyll he had vtterly destroyed all the inhabitauntes of Hai.

Num. xxxi.d. Deut. xx.c. 27 Onely the catell and the spoyle of the cyte Israell toke vnto them selues, according vnto the worde of the Lorde, which he commaunded Iosue. And Iosue cast fire, and made it an heape for euer, a wilderneße euen vnto this time. Moreouer the kyng of Hai he hanged on a tree, vntyll euen. And assone as the Sonne was downe, Iosue commaunded, 28 that they shulde take the carcaße downe of the tree, and caste it at the entrynge in of the gate of the cyte, and rayse there a greate heape of stones, that remayneth vnto this day. 29 Then Iosue * built an aultare vnto the Lord God of Israell, euen vnto mount Ebal, as Moyses the seruaunt of the Lorde commaunded the children of Israell, & as it is written in the * boke of the lawe of Moyses, an aultare of whole stones, ouer whiche no man hath lifte any tole of yron. And they sacrificed therevnto burnt sacrifices vnto the Lorde, and offred peace offringes. And he wrote there vpon the stones, a rehearsall of the lawe of Moyses, wrote it in the presence of the children of Israell. And all Israel and the elders thereof, and their officers and iudges stode, gante on this side the arke, and gante on that side, before the Priestes that were Leuites, which bare the arke of the appointment of the lorde: as well the straunger, as they that were borne amonge them: halfe of them on the foreside of mounte Garezim, and halfe of them on the foreside of mounte Ebal: as Moyses the seruaunte of the Lorde had commaunded before that they shulde bleße the people Israell. Afterwarde, he red all the wordes of the lawe, the bleßynges and curßynges, according to all that is written in the bokes of the lawe. And there was not one worde of all that Moyses commaunded, whiche Iosue red not before all the congregacion of Israell: the women & children and the straungers that were conuersaunt amonge them.

The .ix. Chapiter.

1 And it fortuned that when all the kynges which dwelt on this side Iorde in the hilles and valeyes and along beside the coaste of the great See ouer against Libanon (as the Hethites, the Amorites, the Cananites, the Pherezites, the Hevites, and the Iebusites) heard therof, they gathered them selues together, to fight against Iosue and against Israell with one accorde. 2 And the inhabitauntes of Gibeö hearde what Iosue had done vnto Iericho, & to Hai. And they did vnder hande, and went, and made them selues ambassadours, and take them asses, & olde sackes vpon their asses, and wine bottelles olde, and cracked vpon them, & olde shoes & clowted vpon their feete, & their garmentes olde vpon them, & all their prouision of breed was dry & mouldy. And they came vnto Iosue vnto the hoste at Galgal, and saide vnto him and vnto all the menne of Israell: We come from a farre country, & now make ye a couenaunt with vs. And the men of Israell saide vnto the Hevites: peraduenture ye dwelle amonge vs, and then howe can I make peace with you? And they saide vnto Iosue: We are thy seruauntes. And Iosue saide vnto them: Whence come ye? and what is your name? 9 They answered him: Thy seruauntes are come from a very farre country, for the name of the Lorde thy God we haue hearde the fame of his power, & of all that he did in Egipte, 10 and all that he did vnto the two kynges of the Amorites that were beyonde Iorde, vnto Sehon kynge of Hesebon, and Og kynge of Basan, which was at Astharoth. Wherfore our elders & all the inhabitauntes of our country spake vnto vs, saynge: take vitailes with you to ferne by the wage, and go vnto them, and say vnto them: we are your seruauntes. And now make ye a couenaunt of peace with vs. This our bread we toke hote, for our prouision out of our houses wholle, the day we departed to come vnto you. But now behelde, it is drie and mouldy. 13 And these bottelles of wine which we filled, were new: & lo they be rent. And these our garmentes and hoses, are worne for olde nesse, by the reason of the exceadynge longe iourney. 14 And the men tooke of their vitailes, & counceled not with the mouth of the Lorde. 15 And Iosue made peace with them, and made a couenaunt with them, that they shulde haue lyfe geuen vnto them: and the rulers of the congregacion sware vnto them. 16 And it fortuned that three dayes after they had made peace with them, they hearde that they were their neighbours, & that they dwelt amonge them. 17 And the children of Israell take their iorney, and came vnto their cyties the third day. Their cyties were Gibeon, Kamath, Kafira, and Beeroth. 18 And the children of Israell smote them not, because the rulers of the congregacion had sworne vnto them by the Lorde God of Israell. And all the congregacion murmured against the rulers. 19 But all the rulers answered all the congregacion: We haue sworne vnto them by the Lorde God of Israell, therfore may we not touche them. 20 This we will do vnto them: we will let them liue, lest wrath come vpon vs, because of the othe which we sware vnto them. 21 And the rulers saide vnto them: Let them liue. And they were hewers of wodde & drawers of water vnto all the congregacion, as the rulers had spoken vnto them. 22 Then Iosue called them, and spake vnto them, saynge: Wherfore haue ye deceaued vs, saynge: We dwell very farre from you, when ye dwell amonge vs? 23 Now therfore ye are accursed, and there shall none of you be ridde of seruage, but hewers of wodde & drawers of water for the house of my God. 24 And they answered Iosue, & saide: Because it was shewed thy seruauntes for certayne, how that the Lorde thy God commaunded Moyses his seruaunte, that he shulde geue you all the lande, & destroye all the inhabitauntes of the lande before you: therfore we were sore afrayde of our liues for your sakes, and haue done this thinge. 25 Now therfore, beholde, we are in thine hande: as it semeth good & right vnto thee to do vnto vs, do. 26 And so dyd he vnto them, & delyuered them out of the hande of the children of Israell, that they slewe them not. 27 And Iosue ordeyned them the same day hewers of wodde & drawers of water vnto the congregacion, & vnto the aultare of the Lorde, vnto this day, in the place which he shulde chose.

mbl and peteth of wood and hewers of stone to make them a house of the Lord. And they smote Jesus and the people and sayde thy seruaunte Moyses, hath commaunded vs to destroye all the countrey, but the Lord the God hath commaunded his seruaunte Moyses to gene you all the lande, and to destroye all the inhabitours before you, for feare of you, and therefore we were exceedyng sore afrayde and for drede for our lyues at the presence of you, we have done this thynge, and behold we are in your hande, as it semeth good and right vnto you to do vnto vs, to vs. And euer to dye be vnto them, and deliuer vs out of the hande of the children of Israell, y they slewe vs not.

¶ The. x. Chapiter.

NOw it chaunced that when Adonizedech kynge of Jerusalem had herde howe Josua had taken Hai and had vtterly destroyed it, and how as he had done to Jericho & her kynge euen so he had done to Hai and her kynge and howe the inhabitours of Gibeon had made peace with Israell, and were amonge them, they feared exceedyngly, for Gibeon was a greate cite, as any cite of the kyngdome, and was greater then Hai, and all the men thereof were very mighty. Wherfore Adonizedech kynge of Jerusalem sente vnto Hoham kynge of Hebron, and vnto Piream kynge of Jarmuth, and vnto Japhia kynge of Lachis, and vnto Dabir kynge of Eglon, saynge. Come vp vnto me, and helpe me, that we may smite Gibeon, for they have made peace with Josua and with the children of Israell. Therefore the fyue kynges of the Amorites, the kynge of Jerusalem, the kynge of Hebron, the kynge of Jarmuth, the kynge of Lachis, and the kynge of Eglon, gathered them selues together, and went vp they with all their hoostes, and besieged Gibeon, and made warre against it. And the men of Gibeon sent vnto Josua vnto the hoost to Galgall, saynge, Withdrawe not thy hande from thy seruaunte come vp to vs quickly, and helpe vs. For all the kynges of the Amorites which dwell in the mountaynes are gathered together against vs. Then Josua came vp from Galgall he and all the people of warre with him, and all the valyaunte men of strength. And the Lord said vnto Josua, feare them not, for I have delyuered them into thine hande, there shall not a man of them stande before the. Josua therefore came vnto them sodenly, for he went vp from Galgall all the nyght. And the Lord discomfited them before Israell, and slewe them with a greate slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them by the waye that goeth vp to Bethoron, and smote them vnto Azeca and vnto Maceda. And it came to passe as they fled before Israell, and were in the goynge downe to Bethoron, the Lord cast downe stones from heaven vpon them vnto Azeca, and they dyed.
And there were more which dyed with hayle stones, then they were whom the children of Israell slewe with the swearde. Then spake Josua before the Lorde in the day when the Lorde delyuered the Amorites before the children of Israell, and he sayde in the sight of Israell, Sonne stande thou still vpon Gi- Eccl. xlvi. a. beon, and thou Moone in Aialon. And the Sonne abode, and the Moone stode still, vntil the people auenged them selues vpon their enemies. Is not this written in the boke of the righteous. The Sonne [I say] abode in the myddest of heauen, and hasted not to go downe by the space of an hole day. And there was no daye like that, before it, or after it, that the Lord hearde the voice of a man. For the Lorde fought for Israell. And Josua returned, and all Israell with him vnto the hoost of Galgall: but these fyue kynges fled, and were hid in a caue at Maceda. And it was told Josua, of one, saynge: the fyue kynges are founde hid in a caue which is at Maceda. And Josua sayde rolle greate stones vpon the mouth of the caue, and set men by it, for to kepe them. And stande ye not still, but fo-lowe after your enemies, and smite all the hyndermoste, and suffre them not to entre into their cities, for the Lord your God hath de-liuered them into your hande. And it fortuned when Josua and the children of Israell had made an ende of smyte them with an excedyng great slaughter, till they were wasted, the reste that remained of them, entred into walled cities. And all the people returned to the hoste to Josua at Maceda in peace, neyther did any man moue his tonge against the children of Israell. Then sayde Josua, open the mouth of the caue, and bryng out these fyue kynges vnto me out of the caue.
And they did so, & brought those fyue kynges vnto him out of the caue, euen the kynge of Jerusalem, the kynge of Hebron, the kynge of Jarmuth, the kynge of Lachis, & the kynge of Eglon. And it fortuned, that when they brought out those kynges vnto Josua: Josua called for all the men of Israell, and sayde vnto the chefe of the men of warre, which went with him, come nere, and putte your feete vpon the neckes of these kynges.
And they came nere and putte their feete vp-on the neckes of them. And Josua sayde vnto them. Be not afrayde nor be dismaied, but be stronge and plucke vp your hertes, for thus shall the Lorde do to all your enemies against whom ye fight. And after Josua smote them, and slewe them, and hanged them on fyue trees. And they were hanged vpon the trees vntil the euenyng byeth. As the lorde commaunded Moses his seruaunt, so did Moses commaunde Iosua, and euen so did Iosua: so that he mynished no worde, of all that the lorde commaunded Moses. And to Iosua toke all the lande, the hil-les and all the Southe countree, and all the lande of Gosan, and the lowe countree, and the plain, and the Mountain of Israell, and the lowe countree of the same, euen from the Mount of Hartyng, that goeth vp to Seir, vnto the plain of Gad, in the valleye of Libanon, vnder mount Hermon. And al the kynges of the same he toke, and smote them, And slewe them. Iosua made warre long tyme with those kynges: neither was there any Citee, that made peace with the children of Israell, saue those Hethites, that inhabited Gibeon, and therefore all other, they tooke with battaill, for it came of the lorde, which did harde their hartes, that they should com against Israell in battaill, y that they should destroye them vtterly, and haue them no mercie, but to bryng them to naught: as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And that same season came Iosua, and destroyed the Ena-kites, out of the mountaines: Namely out of Hebron, Dabir, Anab, & out of all the moun-taines of Iuda, and out of all the Mountai-nes of Israel. And Iosua destroyed them vtterly, with their cities. There was not one Enakite lefte in the lande of the children of Israell, onely in Azah, * Geth, and Asdod, there remained of them. And Iosua toke the whole lande, accordyng to all that the lorde said vnto Moses, & Iosua gaue it for a possession vnto Israel, ‡ according to their par-

And all the plain of Medeba, vnto Dibon, and al the cities of Sehon kyng of the Amorites, whiche reigned in Hesbon, euen vnto the border of the childrē of Ammō: and Gilead, and the border of Gesuri and Machati, and all Mounte Hermon, with all Basan, vnto Salecah: Euen all the kyngdome of Og in Basan, whiche reigned in Astharoth and Edrai: whiche same remained yet of the relike of the Giauntes. These did Moses smite, and cast them out. Neuertheles, the children of Israel, expelled not the Gesurites, and the Machathites: but the Gesurites and the Machathites, dwell emong the Israelites, euen vnto this daye.
Num. xviij.c. Onely to the tribe of Leui, he gaue none inheritaunce: but* the offryng of the lorde god of Israel, is their inheritaunce, as he saied vnto them.
C. Moses gaue vnto the tribe of the children of Ruben inheritaunce, accordyng to their kynredes. And their coast was from Aroer, that lieth on the bancke of the riuer Arnon, and from the citie, that is in the middest of the riuer, and all the plain, whiche is by Medeba, Hesbon, with all their townes, that lie in the plain: Dibon, and the hill places of Baal, and the house of Baalmeon: and Jahazah, and Kedemoth, and Mephaeth Kiriathaim, Sabamath, & Zarath Zahar in the mount of the valleye, the house of Peor, and the springes of the hilles: and Bethpheor, and the springes of Phasgah: and Bethiesimoth: And al the cities of the plain. And al the kyngdome of Sehon, kyng of the Amorites: whiche reigned in Hesbō, which Moses smote, with* the lordes of Madian, Eui, Rekem, Sur and Hur, and Reba, the whiche were dukes of Sehon, dwellyng in the countree. And Balaam also the sonne of Beor, the Southsaier, did the children of Israell slaie with the sweard, emong other of theim that were slain. And the border of the children of Ruben was Jordan, with the countree that lieth thereon. This was the inheritaunce of the children of Ruben, after their kynredes cities and villages perteinyng thereto.

AND the seconde lotte, came out for the Tribe of the childzen of Simeon, by their kinredes. And their inheritaunce, was in the midde of the Inheritaunce, of the childzen of Juda. And they had in their inheritaunce, Berlabe, Sabe, and Moladah, Hazorsuall, Balah, and Azan. Eltholad, Bethul and Hormah. Ziklag, Bethmarcaboth and Hazersusah, Bethlebaot, and Sarahen xiij. Citees, with their villages. Ain, Remon, Ether, and Asan, foure citees with their villages: and thereto all the villages, that were round about these citees, euen vnto Balalath, Beer and Ramath, Southwarde. This is the Inheritaunce of the tribe, of the childzen of of Simeon, throughout their kynredes. Out of the lotte of the childzen of Juda, came the inheritance of the childzen of Simeon. For the parte of the childzen of Juda, was to muche for them: And therefore the childzen of Simeon, had their Inheritaunce, in the inheritaunce of them. And the third lotte, arose for the childzen of Zabulon, throughout their kynredes. And the coastes of their inheritaunce came to Sarid, and went vp west warde, and to Marialah, and reached to Dabaseth, and came thence to the Riuer, that lieth before Jokneuen: and turned from Sarid, Eastwarde, towarde the Sunne rising, vnto the border of Chisloth Thabor: And then goeth out to Dabereth, and goeth vp to Japhia: and from thence goeth a long Eastwarde, to Gethah. Jepher, Ithah and Hazin, and goeth to Remon, Methoar, and Neoh. And compasseth it on the North side to Nathan, and endeth in the Valleye of Jephthahell. And Katath, Nahaloll, Semron, Idealah, and Bethlehem: twelue citees with their villages: This is the Inheritaunce of the childzen of Zabulon, throughout their kynredes, and these are the Citees, with their villages. And the. iiij. lotte came out, for the childzen of Issachar, by their kindredes. And their coaste was Jestraelah, Casuloth, and Sunen. Naphtaraim, Sion, and Anaharath: Narabith, Rision, and Abez Rameth, Enganim, Enhadah, and Bethphazez. And his coast reacheth to Thabor, and Sahasimah and Bethsames, and endeth at Jordan: xvi. citees with their villages. This is the inheritaunce of the Tribe, of the childzen of Issachar, by their kynredes. And these are the citees with their villages. And the fifte lotte came out, for the Tribe of the childzen of Aser, by their kynredes. And their coast was: Helkath, Hali, Beten and Achsap: Alamelech, Amaad and Misael: and came to Carmel, Westward, and to Sihor, Labanath, and turned toward the Sunne rising, to Bethdagon, and commeth to Zabulo, and to the valley of Jephthahel, toward the North side of Bethemek and Negel, and goeth out on the left side of Cabul: and to Hebron, Rohob, Ramo and Kanah, euē vnto great Sidon. And then the coast turneth to Ramah, and to the stroge citee of Tyr, and turneth to Hozah, and endeth at the sea, by the possession of Achzibah: Ammah also and Aphek and Rohob: xxij. citees with their villages. This is the inheritance of the childzen of Aser, by their kynredes: these are the citees with their villages. And the sixte Lotte came out, for the childzen of Nephthali, by their kynredes. And their coast was from Heleph, and from Elon to Zaananim, Adami, Nekeb and Jabneell, euen to Lakum, and doeth go out at Jordan. And then the coast turneth Westward, to Asanoth Thabor, and then goeth out from thence to Hukokah, and reacheth to Zabulon, on the South side, and goeth to Aser, on the West side, and to Juda vpon Jordan, towarde the Sonne rising. And their strong citees are Zidim, Zer, Hamath, Racad, and Cenereth, Adamah, Hermah, and Hazor, Redes, Edrai, and Enhazor: Jeron, Magdelel: Horem, Bethanah, and Bethsames: nyne tene citees with their villages. This is the inheritaunce of the Tribe, of the childzen of Nephthali, by their kynredes: These also are the Citees and their villages. And the seuenth Lotte came out, for the Tribe of the childzen of Dan, by their kynredes. And the coaste of their Inheritaunce was: Zarah, Esthaoll, Irsames, Sacladin, Ajalom, Jethlah: Elon, and Themnathah, and Akaron: Elthekeh, Gibethon, and Baalath: Jehud Banebarak and Gathermon, Meiericon and Jarcon, with the border that lieth before Japho. And the coastes of the childzen of Dan went out from them. And the childzen of Dan, went vp to fight against Lesen, & toke it, and smote it with the edge of the sweard, and conquered it, and dwelt therein, and called it Dan, after the name of Dan their father. This is the inheritaunce of the Tribe of the childzen of Dan, in their kynredes: these also are the citees, with their villages. When they had made an ende, of deuydyng the lande, by their coastes, the childzen of Israell gaue an Inheritaunce, vnto Josua the sonne of Nun, emong them, accordyng to the worde of the Lorde, they gaue hym the Citee, whiche he asked, euen * Thamnoth Serah in mount Ephraim. And he buylt the citee, and dwelte therein. These are the inheritaunces, whiche Eleazar the preist, and Josua the sonne of Nun, and the ancient fathers of the tribes, of the childzen of Israel deuided by lot in Silo, before the lorde, in the doze of the tabernacle of witnes, and so they made an ende of deuydyng the countree.

The. xxb. daie Nathan. A. AND then came the principall fathers of the Lewites, vnto Eleazar the priest, and vnto Josua the sonne of Nun, and vnto the auncient fathers, that were ouer the Tribes of the children of Israell, and spake vnto them at Silo, in the lande of Canaan, saying Num. xxxv. a, *the Lorde commaunded by Moses, to geue Iosua. xx. a. vs citees to dwel in, with the suburbes ther of, for our cattell. And the children of Israell, gaue vnto the Lewites, out of their inheritaunce, at the biddyng of the lorde, these citees folowyng, with their Suburbes. And the lot came out, for the kyndred of the Cahathites: And the children of Aaron the Priest, whiche wer of the Lewites, had geuen them by Lot, out of the Tribe of Juda, out of the tribe of Simeon, & out of the tribe of Ben Jamin: thirtene citees. And the rest of the children of Cahath had by Lotte, out of the kyndredes of the Tribe of Ephraim, out of the tribe of Dan, and out of the halfe tribe of Manasses: ten citees. And the children of Gerson had by lotte, out of the kyndredes of the Tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Aser, out of the tribe of Nephthali, & out of the other half tribe of Manasses in Bacan: xiij. Citees. And the children of Merari, by B. their kyndredes, had out of the tribe of Ruben, and out of the Tribe of Gad, and out of the Tribe of Zabulon, twelfe citees. And the children of Israell gaue by Lotte, vnto the Lewites, these citees with their Suburbes, as the Lorde commaunded by Moses. And thei gaue out of the tribe of the children of Juda, and out of the tribe, of the children of Simeon, these Citees by name, whiche the children of Aaron, beyng of the kindredes of the Cahathites, and of the children of Leui, obteined: for theirs was the first Lotte. And thei gaue them Kariath Arbe, of the father of Enacke (whiche is Hebron) in the Hille countree of Juda, with the Suburbes of the same, round aboute it. But the land that perteined to the citee, and the Villages thereof, gaue thei to * Caleb, the sonne of Jephune, Iosua. xiij. b. to bee his possession. And thus thei gaue, to the children of Aaron the Priestes, a Citee, to the whiche the slayer might flie: Euen He-Ain with her Suburbes: Jutah with her sub urbes: Bethsames with her Suburbes: ix.

Citees out of those twoo Tribes. And oute of the Tribe of Ben Jamin, thei gaue Gibe-on with her Suburbes: Gaba with her sub- C. urbes: Anatoth with her Suburbes: Almon with her Suburbes: foure Citees. All these Citees of the children of Aaron Priestes, wer. xiij. cities with their suburbes. And the kinredes of the childrē of Cahath that wer Lewites: That is to saie, the other children of Cahath, had citees geuen them for their lotte, out of the Tribe of Ephraim. For thei gaue them the Citee, that the slayer might flie vnto: Sichē with her suburbes, in moūt Ephraim: And Gezer with her Suburbes: and Kabzaim with her Suburbes: And Bethoron with her Suburbes: Foure Citees.
And out of the Tribe of Dan: Elthek with her Suburbes: Gibthon with her Subur-bes: and Aialon with her Suburbes: Gath-remon with her suburbes: foure citees. And out of the half tribe of Manasses, Thanach with her suburbes: and Gathremon with her suburbes: ij. Citees. All the citees for the o- D. ther kinredes of the children of Cahath, wer ten with their Suburbes. And vnto the children of Gerson, whiche wer of the kinredes of the Lewites, thei gaue out of the other halfe Tribe of Manasses, the citee of refuge for the slaier: Golā in Bacan with her suburbes

And Beetheraath, with her suburbes: ij. cities And out of the tribe of Issachar, Kisō, with her suburbes: Daberah with her suburbes and Jarimoth, with her suburbes: Enganim with her suburbes: iiij. cities. And out of the tribe of Aser, Michael with her suburbes: Ab don with her Suburbes. Malakath with her suburbes: and Rohob with her suburbes: iiij cities. And out of the tribe of Nephthali, the citee for the slear to flie vnto: Kedes in Ga-lile, with her Suburbes: And Hamothdor, with her Suburbes: And Carthan with her Suburbes: three cities. All the cities of the Gersonites, throughout their kinredes, wer thirtene Cities with their Suburbes. And [E. vnto the other kynredes of the children of Merari, the reste of the Leuites, thei gaue out of the Tribe of Zabulon: Jecnam with her suburbes: and Carthah with her subur-bes: Damna with her suburbes, and Nahalall with her suburbes: foure cities. And out of the Tribe of Ruben, Bezor with her sub urbes: and Jahelah with her suburbes: Kedmoth with her suburbes, and Mephaath with her Suburbes: foure cities. And out of the Tribe of Gad, thei gaue the Citee, for the slear to flee vnto: Ramoth in Gilead, with her suburbes, and Mahanaim with her suburbes, Hesbon with her suburbes: and Ja-zer with her suburbes, foure cities in all, so that all the cities of the children of Merari throughout their kynredes (which wer the reste of the kynredes of the Leuites) were by their lotte twelue cities. And all the cities, that the Leuites had, emong the possession, of the children of Israell, were. xlviij. with their suburbes. And these cities laye, euery one severally, hauyng their suburbes round about them, throughout all the saied cities.
Gene. xxvj. a. And the lorde gaue vnto Israel all the land which he sware, to geue vnto their fathers.

¶ The. xxij. Chapiter.

Euenlong. A. THen Josua called vnto the Rubenites,

And whē thei came to the place of Gelloth beside Jordan (that is in the land of Canaā) there the children of Ruben, & the children Gad, and the halfe tribe of Manasses, builte an Altare, faste by Jordan, and that a greate Israell heard of, thei saied: behold, the children of Ruben, the children of Gad, and the halfe Tribe of Manasses, haue buylt an Altare, in the foreffronte of the lande of Cana-an, euen in Gelilath beside Jordan, on the side of the children of Israel. And when the children of Israell heard of it, the whole congregacion of the children of Israel, gathered them together to Silo, to make battaill against them. And the children of Israell, sent vnto the children of Ruben, and to the children of Gad, and to the halfe tribe of Manasses, into the lande of Gilead, Phinewere heddes of their fathers houholdes, emong the thousandes of Israell. And thes went vnto the children of Ruben, and to the children of Gad, & to the children of the halfe Tribe of Manasses, vnto the land of Gilead, and thei spake with them, saiyng. Thus saie we, that if they shuld so saye to vs or to oure generations in time to come, that we wolde say again: Behold the fashion of the aulter of the lord, which our fathers made nether for burntoffrynges nor sacrifices, but for a witnes betwen vs and you. God forbyd, that we shuld rebel against the Lord, and turne this day from after hym, and build any other aulgregacio and heades ouer the thousandes of Israel which were with hym, heard these wordes that the children of Ruben, and the children of Gad and the children of Manasses spake, thei were wel content. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar the priest said vnto the children of Ruben and to the children of Gad, & to the children of Manasses: this day we perceaue, that the lorde is among vs, because ye haue not done this trespasse against the lord: Now ye haue rid the children of Israel oute of the hand of the Lorde. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar the Priest with the lordes returned from the children of Ruben, and from the children of Gad out of the lande of Gilead vnto the lande of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and brought them this word again. And the saying pleased the children of Israel, and thei blessed God, and did not entende to go against them in batel, and to destroye the land which the children of Ruben and Gad dwelte in. And the children of Ruben and the children of Gad called the aulter: Our witnesse, that the lord is God.

AND it came to passe a longe season after A. day that the lord had geuen rest vnto Israell at matyns. from al their enemies round about, that Jo-

And beholde, this daye, do I entre into the way of all the worlde, and ye knowe in all youre hartes and in all youre soules, that * nothynge hath failed of all the good thynges which the Lorde youre God promised you: But all are come to passe, and nothyng hath failed therof. Therfore as all good thynges are come vpon you, which the Lorde youre God promised you, so shall the Lorde bryng vpon you all euel, vntil he haue destroyed you from of this good land, which the Lord your God hath geuen you, when ye haue transgressed the appointemente of the Lord your God, which he commanded you, and haue gone and serued straunge goddes, and bowed youre selues to them. Then shall the wrath of the lord waxe whote vpon you and ye shal perishe quickly from of the good lande, which he hath geuen you.

¶ The. xxiiii. Chapiter.

AND Iosua gathered all the tribes of Israel to Sichem, and called for the elders of Israell, and for theyr heades, Iudges and officers, and they presented them selues before God. And Iosua sayde vnto al the people: thus saithe the Lorde God of Israell: * your fathers dwelt on the other syde of the floude in olde time: euen Thareth father of Abraham and of Nachor, and serued straunge goddes. And I toke youre father Abraham from the other side of the floude, and brought hym thorowe out al the land of Canaan, and multiplied his seed, and * gaue hym Isaac. And I gaue vnto Isaac, Iacob & Esau * And I gaue vnto Esau mounte Seir, to possesse it. But Iacob and his children wente downe into Egipt. I sente Moses also and Aaron. And I * plaged Egipt: & when I had so done amongthem, I brought you out. & I brought youre fathers out of Egipt. And as they came vnto the sea, the Egiptians folowed after youre fathers with charrettes and horsmen vnto the red sea. * And when they cried vnto the lord, the Lord put darknesse between you and the Egiptians, and brought the sea vpon them, and couered them. And youre eyes haue sene what I haue don to the Egiptians. And ye dwelt in the wildernes a long season. And * I brought you into the land of the Amorites, which dwelt on the other syde Iordane. And they fought with you and I gaue them into youre hand, that ye might conquere their coütre. And destroyed them from out of youre sight. * Then Balac the sonne of Ziphor, kyng of Moab arose & warred against Israel, and sent and called Balaam the sonne of Beor, for to curse you. But I wolde not herken vnto Balaam, and therfore he rather blessed you: And so I deliuered you out of his hande. And ye wente ouer Iordane, and came vnto Iericho, and the men of Iericho fought against you: the Amorites, Pherezites, Cananites, Hethithes, Girgesites, Heuites, & Iebusites, and I deliuered them into youre hande. And I sente * hornetes before you, whiche cast them out of your sight: euen the two kynges of the Amorites: but not with youre owne sword, or with youre owne bowe. And I haue geuen you a lande, in whiche ye did not labour, & cities which ye builte not, and whiche ye dwell in: vineyardes also and olyue trees which ye planted not, and whereof ye do eate. * Now therfore feare the lord, and serue hym in perfectnesse and truth: And put away the goddes, whiche youre fathers serued on the other syde of the floude, and in Egipte, and serue ye the lord. And if it seme euel vnto you to serue the Lorde, then chose you this daye whom you will serue whether the goddes whiche your fathers serued that were on the other syde of the floude, either the goddes of the Amorites, in whose lande ye dwel. As for me & my house, we wil serue the Lorde. The people answered and saided: God forbyd, that we shuld forsake the Lord, and serue straunge goddes. For the lord our God, he it is that brought vs & our fathers out of the land of Egipt, and from the house of bondage, and whiche did those great miracles in oure sight, and preserued vs in all the way that we went, and among all the nacions which we came thorow. And the lorde did cast oute before vs all the nacions, especially the Amorites which dwelt in the land. And therfore wyl we also serue the lord, for he is our God. And Iosua said vnto the people. Ye can not serue the lorde: for he is an holye God, and a gelous God, and can not beare youre iniquitie and sinne. If ye forsake the Lord and serue straunge goddes, * he wil turne & do you euel, & consume you, after that he hath done you good. And the people said vnto Iosua: nay, but we will serue the lord. And Iosua said vnto the people: ye are witnesses youre selues, that ye haue chosen you the lorde, to serue him: and they said: we are witnesses. Then put away (sayde he) the straunge goddes which be among you, and bowe your hartes vnto the lord God of Israel. The people said vnto Iosua: the Lorde our God wil we serue, and his voyce wil we obey. And so Iosua * made a couenaunt with the people the same day, & set an ordinaunce and law before them in Sichem. And Iosua wrote these wordes in the boke of the lawe of God, and* toke a great stone, & pitched it vnder in the same place, euen vnder an oke that was in the sanctuarie of the lorde. And Iosua said vnto al the people: beholde: this stone shalbe a witnesse vnto vs, for it hathe heard all the wordes of the lorde which he spake with vs. It shalbe therfore a witnesse vnto you, lest ye denye and dissemble with your God. And so Iosua lette the people departe, euery man vnto his inheritaunce. And after these thinges it came to passe, that Iosua the sonne of Nun, the seruant of the lorde died, beynge an hundreth and ten yeres olde. And they buried him in the coostes of his inheritaunce euen in Thamnath Sareth, which is mounte Ephraim, on the northside of the hyl of Gaas. And Israel serued the lorde all the dayes of Iosua, and all the dayes of the elders that outer liued Iosua, and which had knowen al the workes of the lorde, that he had done for Israell. And the* bones of Joseph, which the children of Israell brought out of Egipt buried they in Sichē* in a parcel of grounde which Iacob bought of the sonnes of Hemor the father of Sichem, for an hundreth peces of siluer, & it became the inheritaunce of the children of Ioseph. And Eleazar the sonne of Aaron died, whom they buried in a hill that pertained to Phinehes his sonne, which (hyll) was geuen hym in mount Ephraim.

After the death of Iosua it came to passe, that the children of Israel asked the lorde saynge: who shal go vp for vs against the Cananites, & who shal first fight against them. And the lorde saide: Juda shal go vp. * behold I haue deliuered the land into his handes. And Juda said vnto Simeon his brother: come vp with me in my lotte that we may fight against the Cananites, and I likewise will go with the into thy lot. And so Simeō went with him. And Juda went vp, & the lorde deliuered the Cananites and Pherezites into their handes. And they slew of them in Bezek ten thousand men. And they founde Adonibezek in Bezek. And they fought against him, & slewe the Cananites & Pherezites. But Adonibezek fled, & they followed after him, and caught him, & cut of his thombes & his great toes. And Adonibezek said: three score & ten kynges hauyng their thombes & great toes cut of, gathered their meate vnder my table: * as I haue done, to god hath done to me againe. And they brought hym to Jerusalem, and there he died. The children of Juda fought against Jerusalem, & toke it * and smote it with the edge of the swerde, & set the cytie on fyre. Afterward the children of Juda went to fight against the Cananites, that dwelt in the mountayns, & towarde the south, and in the low countrey. And Juda went against the Cananites that dwelt in Hebron, which before tyme was called Kariath Arbe. And slew Sesai, Ahimā & Thalmai. And from thence they went to the inhabiters of Dabir, whose name in old time was called Kariathsepher, that is a citie of letters. And Caleb said: * he that smiteth Kariathsepher, and taketh it, to him wil I geue Achsah my doughter to wyfe. And Othoniell the sonne of Kenez Calebs younger brother toke it: to whō he gaue Achsah his doughter to wife, & as they went, she counseled hym to aske of her father a felde. And then she lighted of her asse: & Caleb said vnto her: What ayleth thee? She answered vnto him: geue me a blessyng: for thou hast geuen me a Southward (or drie) lande: geue me also springes of water. And Caleb gaue her springes both aboue & beneth. And the children of the Kenite, Moses father in lawe went vp* oute of the citie of* palme trees with the children of Juda into the wildernes of Jura, that lieth in the Southe of Arad, and they wente and dwelte amonge the people. And Juda wente with Simeon his brother, and they slew the Cananites that inhabited Zephath, and vtterly destroyed it, * and called the name of the citie Horma. And at the laste Juda toke Azah with the coastes therof, & Askalon with the coastes therof. And Akaron with the coastes therof. And the lorde was with Juda, and he conquered the mountaynes, but could not dryue out the inhabiters of the valeyes, because they had charrets of yron. And they gaue* Hebron vnto Caleb, as Moses sayde: And he expelled thence the three sonnes * of Enack. * And the children of Benjamin dyd not caste oute the Jebusites, that inhabited Jerusalem, but the Jebusites dwel with the children of Ben Jamin in Jerusalem vnto this day. * And in like maner they that were of the house of Joseph wente vp to Bethel, and the Lord was with them, & the house of Joseph serched out Bethel which before time was called Luz. And the spies saw a man come oute of the citie, & they said vnto hym: shew vs the way into the citie, * and we will shewe the mercy. And when he had shewed thē the way into the citie, they smote it with the edge of the swerde, but let the man and al his household go free. And the man went into the lande of the Hethites, and buylt a cytie, and called the name therof Luz which Euenlong. A And the angel of the Lorde came vp from Gilgall to Bochim, and said: I made you to go oute of Egipte, and haue brought you vnto the lande whiche I sware vnto youre fathers. And I sayd: I wyl not breake mine Deut. vij. a. and. xij. a. appointmente that I made with you. And ye also shall make no couenaunt with the inhabitours of this lande, but shall breake down their aulters: Neuertheles ye haue not herkened vnto my voyce, why haue ye this don. Wherfore, I haue lykewyse determined, that I wyll not caste them oute before you: but they shalbe thornes vnto you, and their goddes shalbe a snare vnto you. And when the angel of the Lorde spake these wordes vnto all the children of Israell, the people cried oute and wepte: And called the name of the A place of such as wepe sayde place. * Bochim, and offered sacrifices vnto the Lorde. And when Josua had sente the people awaye, the children of Israell wente euery man into his inheritaunce Jo. xxiij. g. to possesse the lande. * And the people serued the Lorde all the dayes of Josua, and all the dayes of the elders that oute lyued Josua, and had sene all the greate workes of the Lorde that he dyd for Israell: and Josua the sonne of Nun the seruaunt of the lorde dyed, Jo. xxiiij. a. when he was an hundred and ten yeres old: whome they buried in the coaste of his inheritaunce: euen in Thamnah Saraes in mounte Ephraim on the northside of the hil Gaas. And euen so all that generacion were put vnto their fathers, and there arose another generacion after them whiche neyther knewe the Lord, nor yet the workes whiche he had done for Israell. And then the children of Israel * did wyckedly in the sight of Jud. ij. the Lorde, and serued Baalim, and and forsoke the Lord God of their fathers, whiche brought them oute of the lande of Egipte, and folowed straunge goddes, euen of the goddes of the nacions that were rounde about them, and bowed them selues vnto them, and angred the Lord. They forsoke the lord, and serued Baal & Ascharoth, and the wrath of the Lorde waxed hote againste Israell, and he deliuered them into the handes of raueners, that spoyled them, and solde them into the handes of their enemies rounde about them, so that they had no power any longer to stande before their enemyes. But whyther so euer they wente oute, the hand of the Lord was against them with euell lucke, euen as the Lorde promised them, and as he sware vnto them. And he punished them sore.

Neuertheles the Lorde raysed vp Iudges, which deliuered them out of the handes of their oppressers, and yet for all that they wold not harken vnto their Judges. But thether went a whoryng after straunge goddes, and bowed them selues vnto them, and turned quickely out of the way which their fathers walked in, obeyng the commaundementes of the Lorde: But they did not so. And when the lord raised them vp Judges, he was with the Judge, and deliuered them oute of the hande of their enemies all the dayes of the Judge * for the lord had compassion ouer their sorowynges, which they had, by the reason of them that oppressed them and vexed them: yet for all that * as soone as the Judge was Jud. ij. b. dead they turned and did worse then their fathers, in folowynge straunge goddes, and in W. serving them, and ceased not from their owne inuencions, nor from their malicious way.

And the wrath of the Lorde was moued against Israell, and he said: because this people hath transgressed mine appointment which I commaunded their fathers, & haue not herkened vnto my voyce, I wyll hence forth not caste oute before them one man of the nacions, which Josua lefte when he died, that through them I maye * proue Israell, whether they wyll kepe the way of the Lord, and Deut. viij. a.

And to the Lorde lefte thofe nacions, and drone them not oute immediatly, neither deli-uered them into the hande of Iosua.

The.ii. Chapiter.

Deu.vii. xx.

These are the nacions whiche the Lorde left, that he might proue Israel by them: euen as many of Israell as had not knowen all the warres of Canaan: Only for the lernynge of the generacion of the children of Israel: that he also might teache the warre, in asmuch as thei that wer before the, knew nothynge therof. Of those whom he left, ther were fyue lordes of the Philistines, and all the Cananites, & the Sodomites, & the He-wites that dwelt in mount Libanon: euen from mout Baal Hermon vnto Hemath. Those remained to proue Israel by, and to wete whether thei wolde herken vnto the commaunde-mentes of the Lorde, whiche he commaunded their fathers by the hand of Moses. And the children of Israel dwelt among the Cananites, Hethites, Amorites, Pherezites, Hewites, and Iebusites, * and take the doughters of them to be their wyues, & gaue their awne doughters to their sonnes, and serued their goddes. And the children of Israell did wyckedly in the sight of the lord, and forgat the Lord their God and serued Baalim and Ase-roth. Therefore the Lorde was angry with Israel, and deliuered them into the handes of Chusan Risathaim kyng of Mesopotamia, and the children of Israell serued Chusan Risathaim. viii. yeres. And when the children of Israell cried vnto the lord, the lord stired vp a sauer, to the children of Israel, & saued them: one Othoniel the sonne of Kenes, Ca-lebs yonger brother. And the spirite of the lord came vpon him. And he iudged Israell & went out to warr. And the lord deliuered Chu-san Risathaim kynge of Mesopotamia into his hande, and his hande preuayled againste Chusan Risathaim. And the lande had* rest foxty yeres, & Othoniel the sonne of Kenes died. And the children of Israell wente to again, & committed wickednes in the sight of the lorde. And the lord strengthed Eglon the kyng of the Moabites, againste the children of Israel, because thei had committed wickednes before the lorde. And this (Eglon) gathered vnto him the children of Ammon and the Amalekites, and went and smote Israell, & conquered the citie of Paulme trees. And so the children of Israell serued Eglon the kyng of Moab. xviii. yeres. But when they cried vnto the Lord, the lord stired them vp a sauer, Ehud the sonne of Gera the sonne of Gemini, a man that could do nothyng hand-somly with his right hande. And by hym the children of Israell sent a present vnto Eglon the kyng of Moab: but Ehud made him a dagger with two edges, of a cubite length, & he did gyrde it vnto his rayment vpon his right thygh, and caried the present vnto Eglon the kyng of Moab: And Eglon was a very fatte man. And it fortuned that when he had presented the present, he sent the people that bare it away, but he himselfe turned a-gayn (from the place of grauen ymages, that was by Gilgal) and said: I haue a secret errand vnto the, O kyng. Which saide kepe silence. And al that stode before him, went out from hym. And Ehud came vnto him, and in a somer parler, whiche he had, sat he hym self alone, and Ehud sayd* I haue a message vnto the from God. And he arose out of his seat.
And Ehud put forth his lefte hand, and toke the dagger from his right thyghe, & thrust it into his bely, and the hafte went in after the blade. And the fatte, closed the hafte to that he might not draw the dagger out of his bely, but the dirt came out. Ehud gat him out at a posterne dore, and shut the doores of the parler about him, and locked them. When he was gone out, his seruauntes came, and when they sawe that the doores of the parler were locked, they sayd: peraduenture he covereth his fete in his somer chamber. And thei tarryed tyl thei wer ashamed, and behold: seyng he opened not the doores of the parler, they toke a key, & opened them. And beholde, their Lorde was fallen downe dead on the yearth. And Ehud escaped (while thei tarried) & was gone beyond, to the place of the grauen ymages, and escaped into Seirath. And when he was come* he blewe a trompete in mount Ephraim. And the children of Israell went downe with him from the hil & he went before them. And he sayde vnto them, folowe me: the lord hath deliuered your enemies the Moabites into your hand. And they defended after hym, and toke the passages of Jordan, towarde Moab and suffered not a man to passe ouer. And thei slewe of the Moabites, the same time vpon a ten thousande men, which were al fatte and men of warr and ther escaped not a man. * So Moab was subdued that day, vnder the hande of Israell: and the lande had rest. lxxx. yeres. After hym was Samgar the sonne of Anath, which slew of the Philistines. vi. hundred men with an ox goade, and deliuered Israel also.

And she sent and called * Barak the sonne of Abinoam, oute of Kedes Nephthalim, and said vnto him. Hath not the lord God of Israel commanded the, to lead with eaxe wodes men to mount Thabor, & take with the ten thousand men, of the chyldren of Nephthalim and of the children of Iudi. v.b. And Barak saide vnto her: if thou wylte go with me, I wil go: But and if thou wylte not come with me, I will not go. She sayde: I wyll surely go with the, but this iourney that thou takest, shall not be for thyne honor, for the lorde shal sel Sisara into the hande of a woman. Deboza went with Barak to Kedes. And Barak called Zabulon and Nephthalim to Kedes, & he after hym ten thousand men: and Deboza wente vp with hym. But Haber the Kenite (whiche was of the children of Num. x.b. * Hobab the father in law of Moses) remoued from the other Kenites, and pitched his tent vntil the plaine of Zaanaim which is by Kedes. And they shewed Sisara, that Barak the sonne of Abinoam was gone vp to mount Thabor. And Sisara gathered together all his charettes euen .ix. hundred charettes of yron, and all the people that were with him from of Haroseth of the gentiles, vnto the riuer of Kyson. And Deboza sayde vnto Barak: vp, for this is the day in which the Lorde hath deliuered Sisara into thyne hand: Is not the lorde gone out before the? And so Barak went down from mount Thabor, and ten thousand men after hym. But the lord destroyed Sisara and all his charrets, and al his host with the edge of the swearde, before Barak: so that Sisara lighted downe of his charet, and fled away on his fete. But Barake folowed after the charettes and after the host, euen vnto Haroseth of the gentiles. And al the host of Sisara fel vpon the edge of the sweard, and there was not a man lefte. Howbeit Sisara fled away on his fete to the tente of Jael the wyfe of Haber the Kenite, for there was peace betwene Jabin the kyng of Hazor, and the housholde of Haber the Kenite. And Jaell went out to mete Sisara, and sayd vnto him: turne in my lord, turne into me, feare not. And when he had turned in vnto her into her tent, she couered him with a mantel. And he said vnto her: geue me a litle water to drynke, for I am thirsty. Judi. v.b. And she opened * a bottle of mylke, and gaue hym drynke and couered hym. And agayne he sayd vnto her: Stande in the doze of the tente, and whan any man doth come and enquere of the, whether ther be any man here, thou shalt saye, naye. Then Jael Habers wyfe toke a nayle of the tent, and an hammer in her hand, and went softly vnto him, and smote the nayle into the temples of his heade, and fastened it into the grounde, for he slombred sore, and was wery. And so he dyed. And beholde, as Barak folowed after Sisara, Jael came out to mete hym and said vnto hym: come, and I wyll shewe the the man, whome thou seekest. And when he came into her tente: Beholde, Sisara laye dead, and the nayle was in his temples. And so God brought Jabin the kyng of Canaan into subiection that day before the children of Israel. And the hand of the children of Israell prospered, and preuayled against Jabin the kyng of Canaan, vntil they had brought hym to nought.

Then Deboza & Barak the sonne of Abinoam sange the same daye, saying: Prayse ye the lord, for the auengyng of Israel, and for the people that became to wylling. In the dayes of * Samgar the sonne of Anath, in the daies of * Jael, the hye wayes were vnoccupied: And the trauelers of the pathes walked aboute by wayes. of Zabulon they that goueine the penne of the writer. And of Isachar, there wer princes with Debora, Isachar also and Barak were sent on their fete into the valley, whan in the departyng awaye of Ruben there wer greate men, and wyse of hart? Why abodest thou amonge the hepe folded, to heare the bleatynges of the flockes, and to separate thy selfe awaye with greate men and wyse of hart. Galead also abode beyonde Jordane: and why doth Dan remayne in shyppes? Aser continued on the see shore, and taried in his decayed places. But the people of Zabulon haue looperde their lyues euen vnto the death, lyke as did Nephthalim in the hye places of the felde. The kynges came and fought, then foughte the kynges of Canaan in Thaanah, by the waters of Megiddo, and wanne no money. They fought from heauen, euen the starres in their courses fought against Sisera. The ryuer of Cison remoued them, that auncient riuer, the riuer Cyson: My soule shal treade them downe mightely. Then were the horse hoffes smitten a sunder by the meanes of the praunsynges that their mighty men made. He bowed hym downe at her fete, he fel downe and lay styl: At hyr fete he bowed hym downe, and fel. And when he had soncke downe, he laye styl desolate. The mother of Sisera lokede oute at a windowe, and cried thorowe the latteise? Why is his charett so long a comming? Why tary the wheles of his cartes? All the wyse ladies answered her, yea, and her owne wordes answered her selfe. Surely they haue founde, they deuide the spoyles: euery man hath a damsel or two: Sisera hath a pray of diuers coloured garmentes: euen a pray of raiment died with sondry colours, & that are made of nedle worke: raiment of diuers colours and of nedle worke whiche is mete for hym that is chefe in distributynge of the spoyles. So perishe all thyne enemies: O Lorde: but they that loue hym, let them be as the Sonne when he ariseth in his mighte. And the lande had rest fourtye yeres.

And the children of Israell * committed wickednes in the sight of the lorde. And the lorde delyuered them into the handes of Madian seuen yeres. And the hande of Madian preuayled against Israell, and because of the Madianites, the children of Israell made them dennes in the mountaines & caues and strong holdes. And when Israell had sowen, the Madianites, the Amalechites and they of the east countrey came vp together against them: and pitched their tentes against them, and destroyed the encrease of the yearthe, euen tyll thou come vnto Azah and lefte no sustinaunce for Israell, neyther shepe, oxe, or asse: for they went vp, they and their cattel, and came with their tentes as a multitude of grashoppers: so that both they and also their camels wer without nombre. And they entred into the lande to destroy it. And so was Israel sore plagely impouerished in the sight of the Madianites, & cryed vnto the Lorde. And when the children of Israel cried vnto the Lorde because of the Madianites, the Lorde sente vnto them a prophete, which he said vnto them: Thus sayeth the lorde God of Israell: I set you from Egipte and brought you oute of the house of bondage, and I ryd you oute of the handes of the Egiptians, and oute of the hande of all that oppressed you and cast them oute before you, and gaue you their land. And I said vnto you: I am the lord your God, * feare not the goddes of the Amorites in whose lande you dwel. But you haue not obeyed my voyce. And the Angell of the Lorde came, and sate vnder an Oke which was in Ephrah, that pertained vnto Joas the father of the Ezerites. And his sonne Gedeon pulled out wheate out of the corne in a pressle, to hyde it frō the Madianites: and the Angell of the Lorde appeared vnto hym, & said: the lord is with the, thou mightie man of warre. And Gedeon answered hym: Oh my lord, if the lord be with vs, why is all this come vpon vs? yea, and where be all his miracles which oure fathers told vs of and said: Dyd not the Lord bring vs out of Egipte? But now the Lorde hath forsaken vs, and delyuered vs into the handes of the Madianites. And the Lord loked vpon hym, and sayde: Go hence in this thy mighte, and thou shalte deliuer Israell out of the handes of the Madianites. Haue not I sente the? And he answered hym: Oh Lord, wherwith shal I saue Israel? Behold, my kynred is poore in Manasses, and I am litle in my fathers house. The lord said vnto him: I wyl be with the, and thou shalt smite the Madianites, as they were but one man. And he answered hym: Oh, if I haue founde grace in thy syghte, then shewe me a sygne, that is, it thou that talkest with me. Departe not hence, vntyll I come againe vnto the, and till I bryng myne offeryng, and haue set it before the. And he sayde: I wyll tary vn-

till thou come again. And Gedeon went in, and made ready a kyd, and vnlete cakes of an Epha of floure, and put it with the flesh in a basket, & put the broth in a pot, and brought it out vnto hym vnder the Oke, and presented it. And the angel of God saide vnto hym: take the flesh and vnlete cakes, and lay them vpon this rocke, & poure out the broth. And he dyd so. Then the angel of the Lorde put forth the ende of the staffe that he held in his hand, and touched the flesh & the vnlete cakes. 6 Ma. xviij. c And there arose vp fire out of the rocke, and consumed the flesh and the vnlete cakes. But the angell of the Lorde vanished oute of his sighte. And when Gedeon perceyued that it was an angel of the Lorde, he said, Alas, O Lorde God, * haue I therfore seene an angell Exo. xxxiij. b C. of the Lorde face to face, that I shulde dye? And the Lorde saide vnto hym: peace be vnto the, feare not, thou shalte not dye. Then Gedeon made an aultar there vnto the Lorde, and called it: The Lorde of peace. And vnto this day it is yet in Ephrath, that pertayneth vnto the father of the Ezerites. And it fortuned that the same night the Lorde said vnto hym: take a yong bullocke out of thy fathers stone, and another of .vij. yeres olde, and destroye the aultare of Baall that thy father hath, and cut downe the grone that is by it, and make an aultare vnto the Lorde thy God vpon the top of this rocke in a conuenient place. And take the seconde bullocke and offer burnte sacrifice vpon the woode of the grone, whiche thou shalt cut downe. Then Gedeon toke ten men of his seruauntes, and dyd as the Lorde had hym. But because he durst not do it by day for feare of his fathers houshold and of the men of the cytie, he dyd it by night. And when the men of the Citye F. were vp early in the morning: Behold, the aulter of Baal was broken, and the grone cut down that was by it, and the second bullocke offered vpon the aulter that was made.

And they said one to another: who hath done this thyng? and when they enquired and asked, they sayde: Gedeon the sonne of Joas hath done this thyng. Then the men of the citie said vnto Joas: bryng oute thy sonne, that he maye die, because he hath destroyed the aulter of Baal, and cut downe the grone that was by it. And Joas saide vnto all that rode by hym: will ye pleade Baals cause? or will ye be his defenders? he that hath medled against hym, let hym dye or the morning. If he be a God let hym be auenged of hym that cast downe his aulter. And from that day was Gedeon called: Jerobaal, because his father had sayde: Let Baal be auenged of hym, that hath broken downe his aulter. All the Ma- G. dianites therfore and the Amalekites & they of the east, were gathered together, & went, and pitched in the valey of Jesrael, but the spirite of the Lorde came vpon Gedeon. * And Nume. x. a. he blewe a trompete, and called Abiezer to Iu. vij. a. folowe hym, and sente messengers throughout Manasses, and called them, which also did folow hym. And he sent messengers vnto Aser, Zabulon and Nephthalim, and they came to mete hym. And Gedeon said vnto God: syth thou saue Israell in my hande, as thou hast sayde? Behold, I wyl put a fleece of wolle in the threshyng place. And if the dewe come on the fleece onely, and it be drye vpon all the earth beside, then shall I be sure, that thou wylte saue Israel by my hand, as thou saidest. And it came so to passe. For he rose vp early on the morowe, and thrust the fleece together, and wrong the dewe therout, and filled a bowle of water: and Gedeon said again Gen. xviij. A vnto God: be not angrye with me, that * I speake once more. For I wyl proue once again by the fleece. Let it be drie only vpon the fleece, and dew vpon all the ground. And God did so that same night: for it was drye vpon the fleece only and there was dewe on all the ground.

Then * Jerobaal (otherwise called Gede- The. xxx. M at matt. vs. on) and all the people that were with hym rose vp early, and pitched beside the well of Harad, so that the hoste of the Madianites were on the North syde of the Mocke that boweth towarde the valley. And the Lorde said Iud. vij. g. vnto Gedeon: the people that are with the are to many for me to gene the Madianites into their handes, lest Israel make their bannte against me and say: mine owne hande hath saued me. Nowe therfore make a proclamacion in the eares of the people, and say: * yf a- Deut. xx. b. ny man dreade or be afeerde, let hym returne. f. Mach. ij. g And the people arose early. And there departed and returned of the people which were at mount Gilead. xxij. thousand, and there abode ten thousande. And the Lorde said vnto Ge- B deon: the people are yet to many, bryng them downe vnto the water, and I wyll trye them vnto the there. And of whom I say vnto the, this shal go with the, the same shall go with the. And of whom soeuer I say vnto the, this shall not go with the, the same shall not go. So he brought downe the people vnto the water, and the Lorde sayde vnto Gedeon: as many as lappe the water with their tonges as a dogge doth, them put by them selues, & so do them that knele down vpon their knees to drincke. And the nombre of them that put their handes to their mouthes and lapped, were .iij. hundred men. But al the remnaunt of the people kneled downe vpon their knees to drincke water. And the Lorde said vnto Gede- B. on: By these thre hundred men that lapped water, wyll I saue you and deliuer the Madianites into thine hand. And let al the other people go euery man vnto his place. Then the lorde of the people, lokeyng vnder fro and their trompettes. And he sent all the rest of Israell, euery man vnto his tent and comforted them. Sir. with hym: And the hoste of Madian, was beneth hym in a valley. And it fortuned that the same nyght, the Lorde saied vnto hym: Aryse, get thee downe vnto the hoste, for I haue deliuered it, into thyne handes. But and if thou feare, to go downe, then go thou Phurah thy lad, downe to the hoste, and thou shalt herken what they say, and so shall thyne handes be strong, to go downe vnto the hoste.

Then went he downe, and Phurah his lad, euen vnto the men of armes, that were in the hoste. And the Madianites, the Amalekites and all they of the East lay along in the valleye, like a multitude of Grashoppers, and their Camelles, were without nomber, euen as the sand by the sea side, in multitude. And when Gedeon was come: behold, there was a man, that told a dreame vnto his neighbour, and saied: behold, I dreamed a dreame, and me thought, that a lofe of Barley bread tombled into the host of Madian, and came vnto a tent and smote it, that it fell, and ouer turned it, that the tent lay along. And his fellowe answered and saied: This is nothyng else, saue the sworde of Gedeon, the sonne of Joas, a man of Israell: for into his handes, hath God deliuered Madian, & all the hoste. When Ge-dion heard the telling of the dreame, and the interpretation of the same, he worshipped, and returned vnto the hoste of Israell: and saied, vp, for the Lorde hath deliuered into youre handes, the hoste of Madian. And he deuided the .iij. C. men into three companies, and gaue euery man a trompet in his hande, with an emptie pitcher, and lampes therein, and saied vnto them: loke on me, and vse like wise, that when I come to the side of the hoste, euen as I do, so do you: when I blowe with a trom-pette, and all that are with me, blowe ye with trompettes also, on euery side of the host, and saie: here is the sweard of the Lorde, and of Gedeon. And so Gedeon, and the .iij. C. men that were with hym, came vnto the side of the hoste in the beginnyng of the middle watche, and exited vp the watch men. And they blew with their trompettes, and brake the pitchers that were in their handes. And all the .iij. companies blewe with trompettes, and brake their pitchers, and held the lampes in their left han-des, & the trompettes in their right, to blow withal. And they cried: the sweard of the lorde and of Gedeon. And they stode still, euery man in his place, rounde about the hoste: and they within the hoste, ran and cried, and fled. And the .iij. C. blewe with trompettes, and the Lorde set euery mannes sweard vpon his neighbour throughout all the hoste. And the hoste fled to Beth Sitha in Zererath. And to the edge of the valley of Meholah, vnto Tabath. And the men of Israell beyng gathered together out of Nephthalim, & out of all Manasses, followed after the Madianites.
And Gedeon sent messengers, vnto all mount Ephraim, saying: come wone against the Ma-dianites, & take before them the waters, vnto Bethbarah, and to Jordan. Then all the men of Ephraim gathered together, & toke the waters vnto Bethbarah, & to Jordan. And they toke .ij. capitaines of the Madianites. Oreb and Zeb, and slewe Oreb, vpon the rocke Ore-reb, and Zeb, at the pitte Zeb, & followed after Madian. And brought the heddes of Oreb & Zeb, to Gedeon, on the other side Jordan.

¶ The. viij. Chapiter.

AND the men of Ephraim, saied vnto hym: A. Euen so.
Why hast thou serued vs thus? That thou calledest vs not, when thou wentest to fight with the Madianites: And they chode with hym a good. And had almoste ben him violence. And he said vnto them: what deede haue I doen, like vnto yours? is not a cluster of Ephraim better, then the wine harueste of Abiezer? God hath deliuered into your han-des, the lordes of Madian, Oreb and Zeb. And what was I able to doo, like as you haue doen? And then their spirites abated, from of hym, whe he had said that. And Gedeon came to Jordan to passe ouer, he and the .iij. C. me that were with hym, very faint, and yet folo-wed the chace. And he saied vnto the men of B.
Socoth: gene I praie you, cakes of breade, vnto the people that folowe me: for they be faynte, that I may folowe after Zebah and Zalmona, Kynges of Madian. And the Lor-des of Socoth saied: are the handes of Ze-bah and Zalmona, now in thyne handes, that we should gene bread vnto thine armie? Ge-dion saied therefore, when the lorde hath de-liuered Zebah and Zalmona, into myne hand, I will teare thy flesh of you, with the thornes of the wildernesse, and with briers. And he went vp thence to Phanuel, and spake vnto them likewise. And the men of Phanuell answered hym, as did the menne of Socoth. C.
And he saied also vnto the men of Phanuell, when I come again in peace, I will breake downe this Towre. Zebah and Zalmona were in Carkar, and their hostes with them, vpon a .xv. M. men, whiche were all that were left, of all the hostes of them of the East: for there was slain an. C. and .xx. M. men, that drewe sweardes. And Gedeon went through them, that dwelt in the Tabernacles, on the East side of Nobah and Jebahah, and smote the hoste: for the host did cast no perils. And when Zebah and Zalmona fled, he followed after them, and toke the .ij. Kynges of Madian Zebah and Zalmona, & discomfited all the host.
And Gedeon the sonne of Joas, returned fro battell, afore the sonne was downe, & caught D. a lad, of the men of Socoth, and inquired of him.

hym. And he wrote hym, of the ladies and lordes of Socoth .lxvij. men. And he came vnto the men of Socoth, and saied behold, here I haue Zebath and Salmona, with whiche ye did cast me in the teethe, saiyng: are the handes of Zebath & Salmona, already in thine hand, that wee should geue breade vnto thy faintie men? And he toke the elders of the citee, and thornes of the wildernesse and briers, and made the men of Socoth to feele therin. And
i. Reg. xij. c. he brake downe the towre of Phanuel, & slew the men of the citee. And then saied he vnto Zebath and Salmona, what maner of men were thei, whom ye slew at Thabor? And thei answered: the likenesse of thee and them, is all one, euen after the fashion, of the children of a kyng. And he saied, thei were my brethren, euen my mothers children. As truely as the Lorde liueth, if ye had saued their liues, I would not slay you. And he saied vnto Jether his eldest sonne: vp and slay them: but the lad drewe not his sweard, for he feared, because he was yet yong. Then Zebath and Salmona saied: rise thou, and fall vpon vs: For as the man is, so is his strength. And Gedeon arose and slewe Zebath & Salmona, and toke awaie the ornamentes, that were on their camelles neckes. Then the men of Israell saied vnto Gedeon: reigne thou ouer vs, bothe thou, thy sonne, and thy sonnes sonne, for thou hast deliuered vs out of the hande of Madian. And
f. Gedeon said vnto them: I will not reigne ouer you, neither shall my childe reigne ouer you, but the lorde shall reigne ouer you. And Exod. xxxij. a again Gedeon said vnto them: I would desire a certain request of you, euen that you would geue me euery mā the[e] earynges of his praie. For thei had golden earynges, because thei were Ismaelites: and thei answered: we will geue them. And thei spred a mantell, and did cast therin, euery mā the earyng of his praie and the weight of the golden earynges, that he required, was a .M. vij. C. sicles of gold, beside cheines, pommaunders, and purple raiment, that was on the kynges of Madian and beside the cheines, that were about their camelles neckes. And Gedeō made an Ephod thereof, & put it in his citee of Ephrah. And Exe. xxij. a. and. xx. a. all Israell went a[n] whoryng after it, in the same place, whiche thyng became a ruin vnto Gedeō, and to his house. Thus was Madian brought low, before the children of Israel, so that thei lift vp their heddes no more.
g. And the countree was in quietnes .xl. yeres in the daies of Gedeon. And Jerobaall the sonne of Joas went, and dwelte in his awne Iud. Reg. x. a. house. And Gedeon had[e] .lxx. sonnes, of his body begotten, for he had many wiues. And his concubine that was in Sichem, bare him a sonne also, whose name he called Abimelech. And Gedeō the sonne of Joas died in a good age, and was buried in the sepulchre of Joas his father, euen in Ephrah, that perteined vnto the father of the Ezrites. But it fortuned, that assone as Gedeon was ded, the children of Israel turned vnto, and went a whoryng after Baalim, and made a couenant with Baal, to be their God, and the children of Israell, thought not on the Lorde their God, which had deliuered them out of the handes of all their enemies, on euery side. Neither shewed thei mercy, on the house of Jerobaal otherwise called Gedeō, according to all the goodnes, whiche he had shewed vnto Israel.

Abimelech the sonne of Jerobaal went to Sichem, vnto his mothers brethren, and commoned with them, and with all his mothers fathers kynred, saiyng: Loke I praie you, in the eares of all the inhabitors of Sichem: whether is better for you, that all the sonnes of Jerobaal (whiche are .lxx. persones) reigne ouer you, either that one reigne ouer you? Remember, that I am of your bone, and of your flesh. And his mothers brethren spake of hym, in the audience of the men of Sichē all these wordes, and their hartes were moued to folowe Abimelech. For thei said: he is our brother. And thei gaue him .lxx. peces of siluer, out of the Temple of Baal Berith, wherewith Abimelech hired vaine and light persones, whiche went with him. And he went vnto his fathers house at Ephrah, and slew Iud. xxi. a. all his brethren, the sonnes of Jerobaall: euen .lxx. persones, with one stone. Notwithstanding, yet Joathan the yongest sonne of Jerobaal escaped, for he hid himself. And all the men of Sichem gathered togither, and all the house of Mello, and cameand made Abimelech kyng, in the plaine, where the greate stone was by Sichē. And when thei told it to
B. Joathan, he went a lode in the top of mount Garizim, and lift vp his voice, and cried, and said vnto thē: herken vnto me, you men of Sichem, that God maie herken vnto you. The
iij. Esd. iij. b trees went furth, to anoynt a kyng ouer thē, and said vnto the olyue tree: reigne thou ouer vs. But the olyue tree said vnto them: should I leaue my fatnes, whiche bothe God and men praise in me, and go to be promoted ouer the trees? And the trees said to the Figge tree: come thou, & be kyng ouer vs. The figge Tree answered them: should I forsake my swetenesse, and my good fruite, and go to be promoted ouer the trees? Then said the trees vnto the Vine: come thou and be kyng ouer vs. The vine said vnto them: should I leaue my wine, wherby I cheere bothe Godes and men, and go to be promoted ouer the Trees? Then said al the trees vnto the Fitze bushe: come thou and reigne ouer vs. And the fitze bushe said vnto the Trees: if it be true, that ye will anoynt me kyng ouer you, then come, and put your trust vnder my shadowe. If not, the fire come out of the fire bushe, and wast C. the Cedre trees of Libanon. Now therefore if ye wt truely and uncorruptly, to make Abimelech kyng, and if ye have dealte well with Jerobaal, and his house, and have wo̱ken unto hym, accordyng to the deservyng of his han-des, iudge ye. For euen he (my father) fought for you, and aduentured his life, and rid you out of the hande of Madian. And ye are risen vp against my Fathers house this daie, and have slain his children, euen lxx. persones, with one stone, and have made Abimelech the sonne of his maide seruaunt, kyng ouer the men of Sichem, because he is your brother: if ye then have dealte truly and purely, with Jerobaal, and with his house this daie, then reioyce ye with Abimelech, and let hym re-ioyce with you. But if ye have not dealt truly, then I praie God, a fire maie come out of Abimelech, and consume the men of Si-chem, and the house of Mello. And that there may come a fire from among the men of Si-chem, and out of the house of Mello, and consume Abimelech. And Jonatham ran away, and fled, and went to Beer, and dwelte there, for feare of Abimelech his brother. When Abimelech had reigned three yeres, God sent a spirite of hate, betwene Abimelech, and the men of Sichem. And the citezens of Sichē railed vpon Abimelech, and wished, that the wickednesse wer to the lxx. sonnes of Jerobaal, might come on him, and that God would laie the bloud of theim, vnto Abimelech their brother, whiche slewe them, and vpon the other men of Sichem, whiche aided hym in the killyng of his brethren. And the citezens of Sichem, sett men to laye awaite for hym, in the toppe of the mountaines: whiche meane while thei taried for his comming, robbed all that came a long the waie by them. And it D. was told Abimelech. And Gaall the sonne of Abed, came with his brethren, and thei gatte thē to Sichem. And the men of Sichem put their confidence in hym. And thei went out into the fieldes, and gathered in their Vea-per, and trode them, and made merie: and went into the house of their Goddes, and did eate and drinke, and cursed Abimelech. And Gaal the sonne of Abed saied: what is Abimelech?

And what is Sichem? That we should serue hym? Is he not the sonne of Jerobaall? And zebull is his officer? Serue rather the men Ge. xxxiij. 2. of Hemor, the father of Sichem, for what reason is it, that we should serue him? Would God this people were vnder my hande, then would I take Abimelech out of the way. And he spake against Abimelech: make thine host greater: and go out. And when zebull the ruler of the citie, hard the wordes of Gaall the sonne of Abed, he was wrothe, and sent messengers vnto Abimelech priuily, saiyng: Behold, Gaal the sonne of Abed & his brethren be come to Sichem: And behold, thei stre the citee against thee. Now therefore vp by nyght thou and al the people that is with thee, and lie in waite in the field. And rise early in the morning, assone as the Sonne is vp, & fall vpon the citee. And if he and the people that is with hym, come out against thee, vse to hym what thyne handes shalbe able. And Abime-lech rose vp, and al the people that wer with E. hym by nyght. And thei laied awaite against Sichē, in iiij. cōpanies. And Gaal the sonne of Abed went out, and stode in the entryng of the gate of the citee. And Abimelech rose vp, and the folke that were with him, out of lying a-waite. And when Gaall sawe the people, he saied to zebul: behold, there come people mune out of the top of the mountaines. And zebul said vnto him: the shadowe of the hilles seme men vnto thee, and by that error art thou deceiued. And Gaal answered again, and saied: se, there come folke mune by the middell of the land, and another cōpany come a long by the plain of the Thurmars. Then said zebul vnto him: where is now thy mouthe that saied: what felow is Abimelech, that we should serue hym? Is not this the people, that thou haste despised? go out now & fight with them. And Gaal went out before the citezens of Sichē and fought with Abimelech. And Abimelech chased him, that he fled before him: & he drou him into the citee: & many wer ouer throwen & wounded, euen vnto the entryng of the gate.
And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah. And zebul thrust out Gaal & his brethrē, that thei should not dwel in Sichē: & suffred thē not to tary therin. And on the morowe, it happened that F. the people went out into the field. And thei told Abimelech. And he toke the people, & deuided them into iij. cōpanies, & laied awaite in the fieldes, and loked, and behold, the people wer come out of the citee, and he ran vpon them, & smote them. And Abimelech, & the companies that wer with him, reched further, and stode in the entryng of the gate of the citie. And the ij. other cōpanies ran vpon al the people that wer in the fieldes, & slew thē. And when Abimelech had fought against the citee all that day, he toke it, and slew the people that was therin, and destroied the citee, and sowed salt through it. And whē al the men of the toure of Sichem hard that, thei entred into a strō hold, of the house of their God Baal Berith, where thei made a bonde with hym: & thereof did the place take the name, whiche place was exceding strong. And it was told Abimelech, that all the men of the toure of Si-chem wer gathered together, and Abimelech gat hym to mount Zelmon, both he and all the people that were with hym, and toke axes in his hande, and cut vnto bowes of trees, & tolde them, & bare them on his shulder, & saied vnto Iudic. ix. the folke that were with hym: what ye have G.

G. ... and all the people ... [illegible] ... out. And all the men that were among the people, and dwelt in the tower, fled unto Thimelech, and ... [illegible] ... and set fire upon them: so that all such smoke and fire fell the men of the toure of Sichem were slain, to the .M. men and women. Then went Abimelech to Thebez, and besieged it, and took it. But there was a strong toure within the citie, and thither ran all the men and women, and all the chiefe that were in the citie, & shut to them, and gat them vp to the toure. And Abimelech came vnto the toure, & fought against it and wet hard vnto the doze of the toure, to set it on fire. And a certain woman cast a piece of a milstone vpon his hed, and all to brake his braine pan. Then Abimelech called hastily vnto the yong man that bare his harnes, and said vnto him: draw thy sweard, and slay me, that men saie not of me: a woman slewe hym. And his lad thrust hym through, and he died. And when the men of Israell saw that Abimelech was ded, they departed euery man into his owne houle. And thus the wickednes of Abimelech, which he did vnto his father, in slaying his .lxx. brethren, and therto all the wickednesse of the men of Sichem, did God bring vpon their hedes. And vpon the came the curse of Joathā the sonne of Jerobaal.

After Abimelech there arose, to defende Israell, one Thola the sonne of Phuah his Uncles sonne, a man of Issakar, which dwelte in Samir, in mount Ephraim. And he Judged Israell .xxiij. yere, and died, and was buried in Samir. And after hym arose Jair, a Gileadite, and Judged Israell .xxij. yere. And he had .xxx. sonnes, that rode on .xxx. asse colues, and they had .xxx. cities, which are called the tounes of Jair vnto this daye and are in the lād of Gilead. And Jair died, and was buried in Kamon. And the children of Israel wrought wickednes yet again in the sight of the lorde, and serued Baalim and Astaroth, and the goddes of Syria, the goddes of Sidon, and the goddes of Moab, the goddes of the children of Ammō, and the goddes of the Philistines, and forsoke the lorde, and serued not him. And the lord was wroth with Israell, and sold hym into the handes of the Philistines, and into the handes of the children of Ammon: which from that yere forth vexed & oppressed the children of Israel .xviij. yere, all that were on the other side Jordan in the land of the Amorites, which is in Gilead. Moreouer, the children of Ammon went ouer Jorde, to fight against Juda, Beniamin & the house of Ephraim: so that Israel was sore vexed. And the children of Israel cried vnto the lorde, saying: We haue synned against thee, for we haue forsaken our God, and serued Baalim. And the lorde said vnto the children of Israel: Did not the Egyptians, the Amorites, the children of Ammon, the Philistines, the Sidonians, the Amalekites, and the Moabites oppresse you? And ye cried to me, and I deliuered you out of their handes. And for all that ye haue forsaken me, & serued straunge goddes, therefore I will help you no more. Go & cry vnto the goddes which ye haue chosen, and let them saue you in the tyme of your tribulacion. And the children of Israel said vnto the lorde: we haue synned: vnto vs, whatsoeuer pleaseth thee, deliuer vs onely this day. And they put away the straunge goddes from them, and serued the lord. And his soule had pitie on the misery of Israell. Then the children of Ammō gathered to gether, and pitched in Gilead. And the children of Israell gathered the to gether, and pitched in Maspa. And the lordes of Gilead, said eche to other: whosoeuer will begin the battell against the children of Ammon, the same shalbe hed ouer all the inhabiters of Gilead. ¶ The .xi. Chapt.

And there was one Jephthah a Gileadite a strong man, the sonne of an harlot: and Gilead begat Jephthah. And Gileads wife bare hym sonnes, which, when they were come to age, thrust out Jephthah, & said vnto hym thou shalt not inherite in our fathers houle, for thou art the sonne of a straunge woman. Then Jephthah fled from his brethren, and dwelt in the land of Tob. And there gathered idle and theuish men to Jephthah, and went out with hym. And it chaunced in procesle of time, that the children of Ammon made war against Israel. And when the children of Ammō fought thus against Israel, the elders of Gilead went to fet Jephthah out of the land of Tob, to help them, and said vnto hym: come and be our capitain, that we maie fight with the children of Ammon. Jephthah answered the elders of Gilead: did not ye hate me, and expel me out of my fathers houle? Wherfore come ye vnto me now, in tyme of your tribulacion? And the elders of Gilead said vnto Jephthah: therefore we turne again to thee now, that thou maiest go with vs, & fight against the children of Ammon, and bee our hed ouer all the inhabiters of Gilead. And Jephthah said vnto the elders of Gilead: if ye bring me home again, to fight with the children of Ammon, then if the Lorde deliuer them before me, shall I be your hed? And the elders of Gilead said to Jephthah: the lorde be witnesse betwene vs if we do not according to thy wordes. Then Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, And the people made hym hed and ruler ouer them. And Jephthah rehersed all his wordes before the lorde in Maspa. And Jephthah sent messengers vnto the king of the children of [illegible] ... with me that thou art come against me, to fight in my landes? The kyng of the children of Ammon answered vnto the messengers of Iephthah Because Israell toke awaie my lande, when thei came out of Egipt: euen from Arnon vnto Jabok, and vnto Jordan. Now therefore, restore those landes again, with faire mea-nes. And Iephthah sent messengers again vnto the kyng of the children of Ammon: and sayed vnto hym: thus saieth Iephthah: * Israel toke not awaie the lande of Moab, nor the land of the children of Ammon. But whē Israell came out of Egipt, and walked thorowe the wildernesse, euen vnto the red sea, and came to Cades, and sent messengers vnto the kyng of Edom, saiyng: let me I praie thee, go through thy lande. But the kyng of Edom would not agree thereto. And in like maner thei sent vnto the kyng of Moab, but he would not consent. And so Israell abode still in Cades. And then thei wente along through the wildernesse, and compassed the lande of Edom, and the lande of Moab, and came along by the East side of the lande of Moab, and pitched on the other side of Ar-non, and would not come within the coast of Moab: * for Arnon was the vttmoste border of Moab. And then Israell, * sent messengers vnto Sehon, kyng of the Amorites, and kyng of Hesbon, and saied vnto hym: Let vs passe through thy lande, vnto oure awne countree. But Sehon consented not to Israel, that he would go through his coaste: but gathered all his people together, & pitched in Jahah, and fought with Israel. And the lorde God of Israell, deliuered Sehon and all his folke, into the handes of Israel.

And so Israell smote them, and conquered al the lande of the Amorites, the inhabiters of those saied countres: and thei conquered all the Coastes of the Amorites, from Arnon vnto Jabok, and from the wildernesse vnto Jordan. So now, seyng the lorde God of Israel, hath caste out the Amorites, before his people Israell, shouldest thou possesse the land? Nay, but what people Camos thy God driueth out, that lande possesse thou. Euen so, whatsoeuer nacion, the Lorde oure God, expelleth, that lande ought we to inioye. And * art thou better then Balac the sonne of Sephor, kyng of Moab? Did he striue with Israel, or fight against them, al the while Israel dwelt in Hesbon, and her townes, in Ar-oer and her townes, & in all the cities, that be along by the coastes of Arnon three C. yeres? Why diddest thou not recouer theim in al that space? Wherefore, I haue not sy-ned against thee. But thou doest me wrong, to warre against me. The Lorde therefore, which is a iudge, be iudge this daie, betwene the children of Israell, and the children of Ammon. Howbeit, the kyng of the childrē of Ammō harkened not vnto the wordes of Iephthah, whiche he sent hym. Then the spirit of the lorde came vpō Iephthah. And he passed ouer vnto Gilead, & to Manasses, and came to Mizphah, that lieth in Gilead, and from thēce vnto the children of Ammon. And Iephthah vowed a vowe vnto the lorde and said: F. if thou shalt deliuer the children of Ammon, Num.vi.a. into my handes, then that thyng, that cōmeth out of the doores of my house against me, whē I come home in peace, from the children of Ammon, shalbe the lordes, and I will offer it vp for a burnt offryng: and so Iephthah went vnto the children of Ammon to fight with thē.

And the lorde deliuered thē into his handes.
And he smote them from Aroer, till thou come to Menith, euen. xx. cities: and so vnto the plain of the Vineyardes, with an exceadyng great slaughter. And thus the children of Ammon were brought vnder, before the children of Israell. When Iephthah came to Mizphah, vnto his house, lo, his daughter came against hym, with timbrelles & daunces, which was his onely child: so that beside her, he had nether sonne nor daughter. And whē he saw her he rent his clothes, & said: alas my daughter G. thou hast brought me low, and art one of thē that trouble me: For I haue opened my mouth vnto the Lorde, and cannot go backe. And she said vnto hym: my father, if thou haue opened thy mouthe vnto the lorde, then do with me, according to it that proceaded out of thy mouthe, for asmuche as the lorde hath auenged thee of thine enemies, the children of Ammon. And she said vnto her father: do this muche for me: let me alone. ij. monethes, that I may go mune to the moūtaines, and bewaile my virginitie. I and my felowes. And he said, go, and he sent her a waie. ij. monethes. And so she went with her companions, and lamēted her maydenhed, vpō the mountaines. And after the ende of. ij. monethes, she turned again vnto her father, whiche did with her, according to his vow, whiche he had vowed, and she had knowen no mā.
And it grewe to a custome in Israell. The daughters of Israell, came yerely by yere, to lament the daughter of Iephthah the Giliadite, iij. daies in a yere. ¶ The xij. Chapi.

AND the men of Ephraim, gathered them- A. Euen tong selues together, and went Northward, & Judic.viij.a. said vnto Iephthah: wherfore * wentest thou to fight with the children of Ammon, & diddest not call vs to go with thee? We will therfore burne thyne house vpon thee with fire: and Iephthah said vnto them: I and my people were at great strife, with the children of Ammon. And when I called you, ye deliuered me not out of their handes. And whē I sawe that ye deliuered me not, I * put my life in my han- Iob.xiij.a. des, and went vpon the children of Ammon.
And the lorde deliuered them into my handes.

Wherefore then are ye come vpon me now, to fight with me? Iephthah therefore gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought B. with the Ephraites. And the men of Gilead smote the Ephraites, because they said: Ye Gileadites, are but runnagates of Ephraim among the Ephraites, and the Manassites.
Moreouer, the men of Gilead tooke their passages of Iordan, before the Ephraites. And whē those Ephraites that were escaped, said let vs go ouer, then the men of Gilead said vnto them: art thou an Ephraite? They said:
C. naye. Then said they vnto him: Then say: Schibboleth: who che is by interpretation, an eare of corne. And he said: Sibboleth: for he could not so pronounce. And then they tooke him, and slewe him at the passages of Iordan. And there were ouerthrowen at that time of the Ephraites. xlij. M. And Iephthah iudged Israel. vi. yere, and died, and was buried in one of the cities of Gilead. After this man, iudged Israel one Abezan of Bethlehē and he had. xxx. sonnes, and. xxx. daughters, whom he sent out, and toke. xxx. other in, for his sonnes. And whē Abezan had iudged Is-D. rael. vij. yere, he died, & was buried at Bethlehem. After him, Elon a Zabulonite iudged Israel. x. yere, and Elon the Zabulonite died and was buried in Aialon, in the countree of Zabulon. After him, Abdon the sonne of Hillel a Pharathonite iudged Israel. And he had xl. sonnes, and. xxx. nephewes, that roade on lxx. Asse colttes. And whē Abdon the sonne of Hillel the Pharathonite, had iudged Israel viij. yere he died, and was buried in Pharathō in the lande of Ephraim, in the mount of the Amalekites. ¶ The. xiij. Chapiter.

AGayne the children of Israell began again to commit wickednesse, in the sight of the lorde. And the lorde deliuered them into the handes of the Philistines. xl. yere. And there was a man in Zarah, of the kynred of Dan named Manoah, whose wife was barren, and bare not. And the Angell of the lorde, appered vnto the woman: And said vnto her: Behold, thou art barren, & beareste not: But thou Num. vi. a. shalte conceiue, and beare a sonne. And now beware, that thou drinke no wine, nor strōg drinke, neither eate any vncleane thyng: For I. Reg. i. b. lo, thou shalt conceiue, and beare a sonne. And Num. vi. a. there shall no rasor come on his hedde. For the lad shalbee an abstainer vnto God, euen from his infancie, and from his birthe. And he shall begin to deliuer Israell, out of the handes of the Philistines. Then the wife came, and told her husbande, saying: a man of God came vnto me, & the fashion of him was like the fashion of the Angell of God, exceding fearfull. But I asked him not, whence B. he was, neither told he me his name, but said Gene. xvi. c. vnto me: Behold, thou shalt be with child and Luke i. c. beare a sonne, and nowe drynke no wine, nor strōg drinke, neither eate any vncleane thyng for the lad shalbee an abstainer to God, euen from his infancie, and from his birth, to the daie of his death. Then Manoah made inter cession to the Lorde, and said: I praie thee my Lorde, lette the man of God, whiche thou sendest, come once more vnto vs, and teache vs what we shall do vnto the lad, when he is borne. And God heard the voyce of Manoah and the Angell of God came again, vnto the wife, as she sat in the field. But Manoah her husbād, was not with her. And the wife made hast and ranne, and shewed her husbande, and said vnto him: behold, the man appered vnto me, that came vnto me to daie. And Manoah arose, and wēt after his wife, and came to the man, and said vnto him: art thou the man that spakest vnto my wife? And he said: Iam. Ma-noah said: now, when thy saying is come to C. passe: what shalbe the maner of the child, and what shall he be? And the Angell of the lorde said vnto Manoah: thy wife must abstein frō all that I said vnto her: she maie eate of nothyng, that commeth of the Vine Tree, nor drinke Wine or strong drinke, nor eate any vncleane thyng: but muste obserue all that I bad her. Manoah said vnto the Angell of the lorde: we will kepe thee still, vntill we haue Toby. xij. made redy a Kid, and haue set it before thee.
And the Angell of the lorde, said vnto Ma-noah: though thou make me abide, I will not Gene. xviij. a. eate of thy bread: And if thou wilte offer a Toby. xij. b. burnt offryng, thou muste offer it vnto the lorde. For Manoah wist not, that it was an Angell of the lorde. And Manoah said again vnto the Angell of the Lorde: What is thy name, that when thy saying is come to passe, we maie do thee some worshipe? And the Angell of the lorde said vnto him: why askest Gen. xxxij. f. thou after my name, whiche is secrete. And so Manoah toke a Kid, with a meat offryng D. and offered it vpon a Rocke, vnto the lorde.
And the Angell did wōderously. Manoah and his wife lokyng vpon. And when the Flame came vpward, euen from the Altar, the Angell of the Lorde ascended vp, in the flame of the Altar. And Manoah and his wife, loked vp it, & fell flat on their faces, vnto the ground.
But the Angell of the lorde, did no more appere, vnto Manoah and his wife. Then Manoah knewe, that it was an Angell of the lorde, and said vnto his wife, we shall surely Exo. xxxiij. dye, because we haue seen God. But his Iudic. vi. c. wife said vnto him: if the Lorde would kill vs, he would not haue receiued a burnt offeryng, and a meate offeryng of oure handes, neither would he haue shewed vs, all these thynges, nor would nowe haue tolde vs any suche. And the wife bare a sonne, and called his name Samson. And the ladde grewe, and the Lorde blessed him. And the spirite of the lorde, began to moue him in the hoste of Dabetwene Zarah and Eschaoll.

Euangel. M. SAmson wente doune to Thamnath, and saw a woman in Thamnath, of the daughters of the Philistines, and he came vp, and tolde his father and his mother, and saied: I haue seen a woman in Thamnath, of the daughters of the Philistines. And nowe gene me her to wife. Then his father and mother said vnto hym: Deut. vij. a. * Is there neuer a woman, emong the daughters of thy brethren, and emong all my people, but that thou muste go, and take a wife, of the vncircumcised Philistines? And Samson saied vnto his father: gene me this woman for she pleaseth me well. But his father and mother wist not, that it was the lorde doyng, and that he sought an occasion, against the Philistines, for at that tyme, the Philistines raigned ouer Israel. Then wet Samson, and his father & his mother, doune M. to Thamnath, and came to the vineyardes of Thamnath. And behold, a yong wood Lion roared vpon hym. And the spirite of the lord came vpō hym. And he tare hym, as he would haue rent a kidd, and yet had nothyng in his hande, neither tolde his father and mother, what he had doone. And he went doune, and talked with the woman, whiche semed well fauored, in the sight of Samson. And within a whyle space after, as he went thether again to take her to wife, he turned out of the waie to se the carcasse of the Lion. And behold, there was a swarme of Bees and hony, in the carkasse of the Lion. And he toke of the hony in his handes, and went eatyng, and came to his father and mother, and gaue them also. And thei did eate. But he tolde not theim, that he had taken the Hony, out of the carkasse of the Lion. And to his father came vnto the woman, and Sāson made there a feast for so vsed the young men to doo. And when thei C. the citezens of that place saw hym, thei brought thirtie companions to be with hym. And Samson said vnto theim: I will now put furthe a riddle vnto you: And if you can declare it me within seuen daies of the feast, and finde it out, I will gene you thirtie shirtes, and thirtie chaunge of garmentes: but and if you cannot declare it me, then shall ye gene me thirtie shirtes, and. xxx chaunge of garmentes. And thei answered hym: putte furthe thy riddle, that wee maie heare it. And he said vnto theim: Out of the eater came meate: and out of the strong came swetnesse. And thei could not in three daies expound the riddle. And when the seuenth daie was come, thei said vnto Samsons wife: Flatter thyne husbande, and persuade hym, that he maie declare vs the riddle, least we burne thee and thy fathers house with fire. Haue ye called vs hether, to make vs beggers? And Samsons wife wept before him, complained and said: Surely thou hatest me, and louest me not: for thou hast putte furthe a riddle: vnto the children of my folke, and hast not told it me. And he said vnto her: behold, I haue not told it my father and my mother, and shall I tell it thee? And Samsons wife, wept before hym seuen daies, while the feast lasted. And the seuenth daie he told her, because she laie so sore vpon hym. And she told it the children of her folke. And the men of the citee, said vnto hym the seuenth daie, before the Sonne went doune. What is sweter then Hony, and what is stronger then a Lion? Then said he vnto theim: If ye had not Plowed with my Calfe, ye had not founde out my riddle. And the spirite of the Lorde came vpon hym. And he went doune to Ascalon, and slewe thirtie menne of theim, and spoyled theim, and gaue chaunge of garmentes vnto them, which expounded the riddle. And he was wroth, and went vp to his fathers house. But Samsons wife, was geuen to one of his companions, that he had taken vnto hym.

¶ The. xv. Chapiter.

BUT it chaunced within a while after, The. iij. daie Haruest. in the tyme of Wheate Haruest, that Samson visited his wife with a Kidde, saying: I will go into my wife, into the Chamber: But her father would not suffer hym to go in. And her father said: I thought that thou hadest hated her, and therefore gaue I her, vnto one of thy companions. Is not her younger sister, fairer then she? Take her in stede of the other. Samson said vnto them: Now am I more blameles, then the Philistines, and therefore, will I do them displeasure And Samson went out, and caught. iij. hundred Foxes, and tooke fire brandes, and fastened taile to taile, and putte a fire brande in the middes, betwene twoo tailes. And whē he had set the brandes of fire, he sent theim out, that thei might runne abrode, whiche went immediatly into the standyng Corne of the Philistines, and burnt vp bothe the reaped Corne, and also the standyng, with the Vineyardes and Olives. Then the Philistines said: who hath done this? And it was B. tolde theim, that Samson the sonne in lawe of the Thamnite, because he had taken his wife, and geuen her to his companion. And the Philistines came vp, and burnt her, and her father with fire. And Samson said vnto theim: Though ye haue doone this, yet will I bee auenged of you, and then I will cease. And he smote theim legge and thigh, with a mightie plague. And then he went, and dwelte in the Caue, of the Rocke Etam. Then the Philistines came vp, and pitched in Juda, and laye in a place, that was afterward called Lehi, that is a iawe bone, where their host was scatered abrode. And the meane of Juda said, why are ye come vp vnto vs? Then answered they to hym: Samson, we come vp, and to do to hym, as he hath

C. doone to vs. Then .iij. M men of Iuda, went downe to the rocke Etam, and said to Samson: wotest thou not that the Philistines are rulers ouer vs? wherefore then hast thou wrought thus vnto vs? He answered them, as Leui. xxiiij. c. Iudic. i. b. they did vnto me, so haue I done vnto them. And they said vnto hym again: we are come downe to binde thee, to deliuer thee into the hande of the Philistines. And Samson said vnto them, sweare vnto me, and promise me that ye shal not fal vpō me your selues. They answered hym, saying: no, but we will binde thee, and deliuer thee vnto their handes. But we will not kil thee. And they bound hym with .ij. newe cordes, and brought hym from the rock. And when he came to Lehi, the Philistines shouted against hym. And the spirit of the lord came vpon hym, and the cordes that were vpō his armes, became as flax that was burnt with fire, so the bandes loosed from of his handes. And he found a rotten iawbone of an Asse, & put furth his hand, and caught it, &
D. slew a .M. men therwith. And Samson said: with the iaw of an asse, haue I made heapes of them: with the iawe of an asse, haue I slain a M. men. And whē he had left speking: he cast awaie the iaw bone out of his hand, & called the place: Ramath Lehi. That is by interpretation: the lifting vp of the iawe bone. And he was sore a thirst, & called on the lord and said: thou hast geuen this great victory, in the hād of thy seruant. And now I must die for thirst, & fall into the handes of the vncircumcised. But God brake a greate tothe, that was in the iawe, and there came water therout. And when he had dronke, his spirit came again, and he was refreshed, wherefore the name therof, is called vnto this day, the well of the caller on, which he came of the iaw. And he iudged Israell, in the daies of the Philistines twentie yeres.

The .xvi. Chapiter.

Euensong A. * Otherwise called Gazah

THen went Samson to Azah, and * saw ther an harlot, and went in vnto her. And it was tolde the Azathites, saying: Samson is come hether. And they went about, & laied waite for hym there all night, in the gate of the citee, and were still all the night, saying: in the morning, when it is daie, we shall kill hym. And Samson tooke his rest til midnight and rose at midnight, and tooke the dooores of the gate of the Citee, and the .ij. side postes, and rent them of, with the barre and all, and put them vpon his shulders, and caried them vp, to the toppe of an hill, that is before Hebrō. And after this it fortuned, that he loued a woman called Dalila: vnto whom came the lordes of the Philistines, and said vnto her: Perswade hym, and see, wherein his greate strength lieth, and by what meane we may ouercome hym, that we maie bind hym, to bring hym vnder: and euery one of vs, shall geue thee a .xi. C. siluerlynges. And Dalila said to Samson, tell me, where thy greate strength lieth, and how thou mightest be bound, and brought vnder. Samson answered vnto her: if they bynde me with .vij. greene withes, that were neuer dried, I shalbee weake as other menne. And then the Lordes of the Philistines, brought her seuen withes, that were yet greene, and neuer dried, and he bound him therwith. Notwithstanding, he had menne lying in waite with her in the chamber. And she said vnto hym: the Philistines be vpon thee Samson. C. And immediatly he brake the withes, as a tryng of Towe (that is twined) breaketh, when it feleth fire. And so his strength was not knowen. And Dalila said vnto Samson see, thou hast mocked me, and tolde me lies. Now therefore, tell me wherwith thou mightest be bound. He answered her: if they bynde me with newe ropes, that neuer were occupied, I shalbe weake, and as another manne. Dalila therefore toke newe ropes, and bound hym therewith, and said vnto hym: the Philistines be vpon thee Samson. And ther were liers of waite in the Chamber, and he brake them from of his armes, as they had been but
D. a threde. And Dalila said to Samson, hetherto thou hast begiled me, and told me lies yet tell me how thou mightest be bounde. He said vnto her: If thou plattest the seuen lockes of my hed, with an heere lace. And she fastened them with a Nayle, and said vnto hym the Philistines be vpon thee Samson. And he awoke out of his sleepe, and plucked awaie the Naile, that was in the platting, with the heere lace. And she said vnto hym again: How canst thou saie, that thou louest me, when thyne harte is not with me? Behold thou hast mocked me this three tymes, & hast not told me, wherein thy great strength lieth. And as she laie vpon hym with her wordes, continually vexing of hym, his soule was in combred, euen vnto death. And so he told her all his harte, and said vnto her: * there neuer Num. vi. a Iudic. xiij. a came Rasour vpon my hedde, for I haue been an abstciner: (that is to saie, consecrate) vnto GOD, euen from my mothers wombe: therefore, when I am shauen, my strength will go from me, and I shal ware weake, and bee like all other menne. And when Dalila sawe, that he had tolde her all his harte, she sent, and called for the lordes of the Philistines, saying: come vp yet this once, for he hath shewed me all his harte. Then the lordes of the Philistines, came vp vnto her, & brought the money in their handes. And she made him sleepe vpon her knees, & to laie his hed vnne in her lap, and she sent for a man, and he did shaue of the .vij. lockes of his hed, and began to vexe him, and his strength was gone from him. And she saide: the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And he awoke out of his sleepe, and said: I will go out now as at other times before, & shake my self, & he wyst not that the lord was departed from him. But the Philistines toke hym, and put out his eyes, and brought him down to Azath, and bound hym with two fetters of brasse. And he did grind in the prison house: howbeit the heare of his heed began to growe again after that he was shaven. Then the lordes of the Philistines gathered them togyther for to offre a solempne offrynge vnto Dagon their God, and to reioyce: for thei said: our God hath delivered Samson our enemie into our handes. And when the people sawe him, they prayed their god, for thei said: our god hath delivered into our handes our enemy and destroyer of our country, which slew many of vs. And when their hartes were merye, it fortuned, that thei said: sende for Samson, that he may make vs laugh. And thei set Samson out of the prison house, and he played before them, & thei set him between the pilleres. And Samson saide vnto the ladde that led hym by the hande: set me that I may touche the pilleres that the house stande vpon, that I maye leane to them. And the house was ful of men and women. And there were all the lordes of the Philistines. And there were vpon the roofe a three thousande men and women that beheld while Samson played. And Samson called vpon the lord, and sayd: O lorde God thynke vpon me, and strengthen me, at this time only: O God that I may be auenged of the Philistines for my .ij. eyes. And Samson caught the two middle pilleres on which the house stode, and on whiche it was borne vp: the one in his right hande, and the other in his left, and said: my soule shal dye with the Philistines, & bowed the with all his might. And the house fel vpon the lordes & vpon all the people that were therein. And so the dead whiche he slewe at his death were mo then thei which he slew in his life. And then his brethren and al the house of his father came downe and toke hym vp, and brought him and buried hym betwene Zarah and Eschaol, in the buryinge place of Manoah his father. And he iudged Israel twentye yeres.

THere was a man in mount Ephraim named Micah, & he saide vnto his mother: the leuen hundred siluerlynges that were taken from the about which thou cursedest and spakest it in mine eares. Beholde, the siluer is with me, I toke it awaye. And his mother said: blessed be thou my sonne in the lorde. And when he had restored the leuen hundred siluerlynges to his mother againe, his mother saide I vowed the siluer to the lord of myne hande for the my son, that thou shuldest make a grauen image and an ymage of metal. Now therefore I wil gene it the againe. And when he restored the money again vnto his mother, his mother tooke .ij. hundred siluerlynges, & gaue them to a goldsmith, which made therof a grauen image, and an image of metal, and it was in the house of Micah. And the man Micah had a temple of goddes, and made an Ephod and Theraphim: that is to saye a garment for the priest, and goods. And filled the hand of one of his sonnes which bare him Priestes. In those dayes there was no kyng in Israell, but euery man did that which him good in his own eyes. And there was a yonge man out of Bethlehem Juda, of the kynred of Juda, whiche yonge man was a Leuite, and soiorned there. And the man departed out of the citie of Bethlehem Juda, to goo dwell where he could finde a conuenient place. And he came to mount Ephraim to the house of Micah as he iourneyed. And Micah saide vnto hym: Whence comest thou? The Leuite answered hym: I am of Bethlehem Juda, and go to dwel where I may finde a place. And whence I may espie it to be for my profit. And Micah sayd again vnto hym: dwell with me and be vnto me a father and a priest. And I wil gene the ten siluerlynges by yere, two garmentes, and thy meate & drinke. And the Leuite was content to dwell with the man, & was vnto hym as one of his owne sonnes. And Micah consecrated the hande of the Leuite, and the yonge man became his priest, and was in the house of Micah. Then said Micah: now I am sure that the lord wil be good vnto me, seyng I haue a Leuite to my priest.

IN those dayes there was no kyng in Israel. And in those dayes the tribe of Dan sought them an inheritaunce to dwel in, for vnto that time there fel none inheritaunce vnto them amonge the tribe of Israell. And the childre of Dan sent of their kynred .v. actiue men in feates of warre out of their coostes, euen out of Zarah and Eschaol, to vewe the lande and searche it out, and sayde vnto them: go, and searche out the lande. Whiche when thei came to mounte Ephraim euen to the house of Micah thei lodged there. And when thei were in the house of Micah, thei knewe the voyce of the yong mā the Leuite: & when thei turned in thither, thei saide vnto hym: who brought the hyther? what makest thou in this place? and what halte thou here? And he answered them thus & thus dealeth Micah with me, and hath hyred me, and I am become his priest. And thei said vnto him again: Aske counsaile now of God, that we maye know whether the way which we go shall be prosperous or no. And the priest saide vnto them:

the gaue peace, for the lorde guideth your way which ye go. Then the fyue men departed & came to Laish, and sawe the people that were therein, howe they dwelte careleslie, after the maner of the Sidonims, still and without care, lyke of peril: & that no man made any trouble in the lande, or vsurped any dominion, but were farre from the Sidonims, and had no businesse with other men. And they came vnto their brethren to Zarah and Eshtaol. And their brethren saide vnto them: what haue ye done? And they answered: Arise, that we may go vp against them, * for we haue sene the lande: surely a very good one. And do ye yet still? be not slouthfull to depart, But come to conquere the lande. It shalbe no labour. When ye will go ye shall come vnto a people that feareth no perill, and it is a very large countrye, which God hath geuen into your handes. It is also a place where doeth lacke nothyng that is in the worlde. And there departed thence of the kynred of the Danites, euen out of Zarah & Eshtaol, sixe hundred men appointed with instrumentes of warre. And they went vp & pitched in Kiriath Iarim which is in Iuda. Wherefore they call the place, the host of Dan vnto this daye: and it is on the backeside of Kiriath Iarim. And they went thence vnto mounte Ephraim, and came to the house of Micah. Then answered the fyue men that went to spye out the countrye of Laish and saide vnto their brethren: wot ye not, that there is in these houses an Ephod, Theraphim, a grauen image and an image of metall? Now therefore consider what ye haue to do. And they turned thether warde & came to the house of the yong man the Leuite, euen vnto the house of Micah and saluted him peaceably. And the sixe hundred men gyrded with weapons of warre whiche were of the children of Dan, stode by the entryng of the gate. And the fyue men that went to spie out the lande, went in thether and tooke the kerued image & the Ephod, Theraphim and the image of metal. And the priest stode in the entryng of the gate with the. vi. hundred men that were armed vnto battail, while the other went into Micahs house, & fet the kerued image, the Ephod, Theraphim & the image of metall. Then saide the priest vnto them: what do ye? They answered him: holde thy peace, lay thine hand vpon thy mouth, and come with vs to be our father and priest. Is it better for the to be a priest vnto the house of one man, then to be a priest vnto a tribe or kynred in Israel? And the priests hart was glad & tooke the Ephod and Theraphim, and the grauen image, & went with the people. And they turned and departed, and put the children, the catel and their other substaunce before them.

And when they were a good waye from the house of Micah, the men that were in the houses nye to Micahs house, made an out rode, and followed after the children of Dan, and called vnto them. And they turned their faces, and saide vnto Micah: what ayleth the, that thou makest an outcrye? And he sayde: ye haue taken away my goddes which I made, & also the priest, and go youre wayes with them. And what haue I more? howe then saye ye vnto me: what ayleth the? And the children of Dan saide vnto him: let not thy voyce be heard among vs, lest angrye felowes runne vpon the, and thou lose thy lyfe with the lyues of all thyn houshold. And so the children of Dan wente their wayes. And when Micah sawe that they were to stronge for him, he turned, and went backe vnto his house againe. And they take the thinges which Micah had made, and the priest which he had, and came vnto Laish, euen vnto a people that were at rest and without mistrust, and smote them with the edge of the swearde, and burnt the citie with fyre. And there was no man to helpe, because Laish was farre from Sidon, and they had no meddlyng with any other man. And the citie stode in the valleye that lyeth by Bethrehob. And they built them there a citie, and dwelte therein. * And called it Dan after the name of Dan their father which was borne vnto Israell. Howbeit, in very dede the name of the citie was Laish at the beginnyng. And the children of Dan set them vp the grauen image. And Ionathan the sonne of Gerson the sonne of Manasses and his sonnes were the priestes in the tribe of Dan * vntyll they were caried awaye oute of the lande captiue. And they set them vp the kerued image which Micah made, all the whyle that the house of God was in Silo.

And her husbande arose and went after her, to speake friendly vnto her, and to bringe her home again, hauing his seruaunt with hym: and a couple of asses. And she brought hym into her fathers house, and when the father of the damosel sawe him, he reioyced of his commyng. And his father in law the damoselles father kepte hym. hym to returne again, and tarye al nyght ther.
And he arose vp early the xxth daye to departe, and the damcels father saide: comfort thine hart: and thei taried vntil after mid day.
C. And they did eate bothe of them together.
And when the man arose to departe with his concubine and his lad, his father in law the damcelles father sayde vnto hym: beholde, the daye goeth fast awaye and draweth to-tarye this daye here, that thyne hart may be but arose and departed, and came ouer as Iebus (whyche is at Jerusalem) and his ij. asses laden, and his concubine and his ladde with hym. And when they were nere by Je-bus the daye was fore spent, and the yonge man sayd vnto his master: come I praye the, busites, and lodge all nyghe there. His maister answered him: we wyll not turne in to a straunge citie that are not of the children of Israell: we wyll go forth to Gibea. And he sayde vnto his lad: go forewarde, and we shal come to one of these places, to lodge al nyght eyther in Gibea or in Rama. And thei wente forewarde vpon their waye, and the sunne wente downe vpon them, when they were nere by Gibea which belongeth to them of Benjamin. And thei turned thether warde to go in and lodge al nyght in Gibea. And when he came he sat him downe in a strete of the citie, for there was no man that tooke them to lodging. And behold there came an old man from his worke out of the feld at euen, which was E. also of mount Ephraim, and dwelt as a stranger in Gibea. But the men of the place were the children of Jemini. And when he had lift vp his eyes, he sawe a wayfaring man in the stretes of the citie. And the olde man sayde: whether goest thou? And where comest thou?

We answered hym: we came from Bethlehem Juda, towarde the side of mounte Ephraim: from thence am I, and I went to Bethlehem Juda, and go now to the house of the Lord.
And there is no man that receiueth me to house. We haue straw and prouander for our asses, and bread and wyne for me and thy handmayde, and for the lad that is with thy seruant: we lacke nothyng. The olde man sayde: peace be with the, all that thou lackest F. shall thou fynd with me: only abide not in the strete al nyght. So he brought him into his house, and gaue fodder vnto his asses. And thei washed their fete, and did eat and drinke.
And as they were makyng their hartes merye, beholde the men of the citie which were wicked, beset the house round about, & thruste at the doze and spake to the wan of the house, the olde man, saiyng: bryng forthe the man that came into thyne house that we may know hym. And the man of the house, the olde Gene. xix. b. man went out, and sayde vnto them: Oh nay my brethren do not so wickedly, seyng that this man is come into mine house: do not so vnmete a thyng. Beholde, here is my daughter, a mayden, and this mans concubine, them wyll I bryng out nowe vnto you, and humble them, and do with them what semeth you good: but to this man do not so abhominable a thyng. But the men wold not her ken to him.
And the man toke his concubine, and brought her out vnto them, which knewe her and abused her all the nighte, euen vnto the morning. And when the day began to spryng, they G. let her go. And then came the woman in the dawnyng of the daye, and fell downe at the doze of the mans house where her lord was till it was day. And her lorde arose vp in the morning, and opened the dores of the house and went out to go his waye. And behold, the woman, euen his concubine laye along before the doze of the house, and her handes stretched out vpon the thresholde. And he thinking her to haue bene a slepe, sayd vnto her: vp and let vs be going. But she answered not.
Then the mā perceiuing that she was dead toke her vp vpon an Asse, and rode vp, & gate him vnto his owne home. And when he was come to his house, he toke a knyfe & caught his concubine and deuided her with the bones into twelue peces, and sente her into all quarters of Israell. And all that sawe it said:

uisement and say your myndes.

The xx. Chapiter.

Then all the children of Israel went out, A Quen tong. and the congregation was gathered together as it had bene but one man, euen from Dan to Beersaba, and vnto the lande of Gilead vnto the Lorde in Mispa, and there stode folke out of all quarters and of all the tribes of Israell, in the congregation of the people of God foure hundred thousand footemen that drewe swordes. And when the children of Ben Jamin herde that the children of Israel were gone vp to Mispa, and had said, O ye children of Israell, tell vs howe this wickednesse happened. And the Leuite the womans husband that was slayne, answered and said, I came into Gibea that is in Ben-Jamin with my concubine to lodge al night, and the men of Gibea arose against me, & beset the house rounde about vpon me by night

and thought to haue slayne me: & my concubine haue they forced that she is dead. And I toke my concubine, & cut her in peces, and sente her throughout all the landes of the inheritaunce of Israell. For they haue committed abhominacion and folye in Israel. Beholde, ye are all children of Israell. Yeue this matter, and geue your counsell in the case.

8. And all the people arose as it had ben one man, saying: there shall not a man of vs go to his tente, neither turne into his house. But this shalbe it that we will do to Gibea. We will go vp by lotte against it. And we will take ten men of the hundred throughout all the tribes of Israell, and an hundred of the M. and a thousand out of .x. M. to set victuals for the people to make that they may go against Gibea Ben Jamin, because of all the abhominacio, that they haue wrought in Israel. And so all the men of Israell gathered together against the citie, knit together, as it had ben but one man. And the tribes of Israell sent men throwe all the tribe of Ben-Josu. xxii. a. Jamin, saynge: what wickednesse is this that is happened amonge you? Nowe therefore deliuer vs the men, those children of Belial whiche are in Gibea, that we maye slay them, and put away euil from Israel. Neuerthelater, the children of Ben Jamin wold not herken vnto the voyce of their brethren the children of Israell: but gathered them selues together out of the cities vnto Gibea, to come out and fight against the children of Israel. And the children of Ben Jamin were nombred at that time out of the cities .xxvi. thousand men that drue swordes, beside the inhabitours of Gibea, whiche were nombred seuen hundred chosen men. And amonge all these folke were seuen hundred lefte handed men, which euery one could sling stones at an heer breadth, and not misse. And the children of Israel beside Ben Jamin, were nombred foure hundred thousand men that drewe
C. swordes, and were all men of warre. And the children of Israel arose, and went vp to Bethel, and asked counsell of God who shulde begyn the battaill against the children of Ben Jamin. And the Lorde sayde: Juda shall begin. And the children of Israell rose vp early and besieged Gibea. And the men of Israel went out to battail against Ben Jamin, and the men of Israel put them selues in araye to fight against them, beside Gibea. And the children of Ben Jamin came out of Gibea, and destroyed of the Israelites that day .xxii. thousand men, and brought them to the grounde. And the folke of the children of Israell pluckede vp their hartes, and wente to againe, and made battail in the same place where they did the first day. And the children
D. of Israel went vp and wepte before the lord vnto euen, and asked of the lord, saynge: Shall we go againe to battaile against the children of Ben Jamin oure brethren? And the Lorde sayde: go vp against them. And the children of Israell came onto against the children of Ben Jamin the seconde daye. And the children of Ben Jamin went against them out of Gibea the seconde day, & destroyed to the grounde of the children of Israell once agayne .xviii. thousande men that drewe swordes euery man of them. Then the children of Israell and all the people wente vp and came vnto Bethell, and wepte and satte there before the Lorde, and fasted the same daye vnto euen, and offered burnte offringes and peace offeringes before the Lorde. And the children of Israell asked the Lorde: for there was the arke of the appointemente of God in those dayes. And Phinehes the son of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron waytyng vpon it at that time, sayde: Shall I get me vp to go oute any more to battaill against the
E. children of Ben Jamin my brethren, or shall I ceasse? The Lord sayde: go, for to morowe I will deliuer them into youre handes. And Israell set liers alwaye rounde about Gibea. And the children of Israell went vp against the children of Ben Jamin the thyrde tyme, and put them selues in araye against Gibea, as twyce before. And the children of Ben Jamin came out against the people, and were drawen alwaye from the citie. And they began to smite of the people dead (as twyce before, by .x. high wayes of which one goeth vp to Bethell and the other to Gibea throwe the felde) vpon a thirty men of Israel. And the children of Beniamin sayde: They are fallen before vs, as at the tyrste. But the children of Israel sayde: let vs flye and pluche them away from the citie vnto the high wayes. And all the men of Israell rose vp oute of their places, and put them selues in araye at Baal Thamar. And likewyse the lyers in wayte of Israell came forth oute of their places, euen oute of the medowes that were aboute Gibea, and came against Gibea ten thousande chosen men out of all Israell, and there was a sore battaill. But the other wyst not that so great euil was to vpe them. And the Lord plaged Ben Jamin before Israel, and the children of Israel destroyed
F. of the Beniamites the same days .xxv. thousande and an hundred men, that drewe swordes euerye one of them. And when the children of Ben Jamin sawe that they were put to the worse, the men of Israell gaue rowme to the Beniamites, because they trusted vnto the lyers in wayte whiche they had before Gibea. And the lyers in wayte hasted, and runne vpon Gibea, and went and smote all the Citie with the edge of the sworde. And an appointemente had the men of Israell from the lyers in wayte, that they shulde make a greate smoke rise vp out of the citie. And when the men of Israel fled in the batel: Ben Jamin began to smit dead of the children of Israel, about .xxx. persounes, and sayde: the other are put to the worse before vs, as in the firste batel. But whan there began to aryse oute of the citie a piller of smoke, the Beniamites loked backe: & behold, the wasteyng of the hole citie began to accende vp to heauen. When the men of Israel also turned again, the men of Ben Jamin were abashed, for they sawe that euell approched them. And therfore they turned their backes before the men of Israell vnto the waye that leadeth to the wyldernesse, but the men of warre ouertoke them. And beyonde that, they which came out of the citie, destroyed them in the middle of them. And thus they compassed the Benimites about, and chased them to Menuha, and ouer ranne them to Gibea on the eastsyde: and ther wer slayne of Ben Jamin, .xviii. thousand, which wer all men of warre. And they turned and fled to the wyldernesse ward, and vnto the the rocke of Rimmon. And the other slew by the waye of the rest of them, fyue thousande men, and stycked vnto them, vntil they came to Gibeon, and slew two thousand men of the.

So that all that wer slayne that same daye of Ben Jamin were. .xxv. thousande men that drue swordes, whiche were al men of warre: only .vi. hundred men turned & fled to the wil-dernes, vnto the rocke of Rimmon, & abode there. iiii. monethes. And the men of Israell turned backe again vnto the children of Ben Jamin, and smote them with the edge of the swearde in the cities, both man and beast and all that came to hande, and set on fyre al the cities that they could come by.

The. bi. day. Mattyns.

A Nd every man of Israel sware in Mizpa, saying: ther shall none of vs geue his doughter vnto any of Ben Jamin to wyf. And the people came to Bethel & abode there tyl euen before God, and lifte vp their voyces, & wepte sore, and said. O lord God of Israel, why is this chaunced in Israell, that there shuld be this day one tribe lacking in Israel?
And on the morow the people rose vp be-time, & made ther an aulter and offered burnt offrynges and peaceoffrynges. And the children of Israel asked, who are they among al the tribes of Israell, that came not vp with the congregacion vnto the lorde? for they had made a greate othe concernyng hym that came not vp to the Lorde to Mizpa, saying: he shal surely die. And the children of Israel had pite on Ben Jamin their brethren, & sayde: there is one tribe cut of fro Israel this day:
what shall we do vnto the remnaunt of them, that they may haue wyues? we haue sworne by the lord: that we wil not geue them of our doughters to wyues. And they said: Is ther any of the tribes of Israel, that came not vp to Mizpa to the Lorde? And behold, there came none of the inhabitours of Jabes Gilead vnto the hoole congregacion. For the people wer vewed, and behold: there wer none of the inhabiters of Jabes Gilead there. And they sent thither a multitude, euen .xii. thousande men of the stoutest of them, and commaunded them, saying go & smit the inhabiters of Jabes Gilead with the edge of the sworde, both wemen & children. * And this is it that ye shal do, vtterly destroye all the males, & al the wemen that haue lyen by men. And they found among the inhabiters of Jabes Gilead foure hundred damoselles, virgins, that had knowen no man by lyeng with any male.
And they brought them vnto the hoole to Silo, which is in the lande of Canaan. And the hole congregacion sente and spake with the children of Ben Jamin that wer in the rocke of Rimmon, & called peaceably vnto them: and Ben Jamin came again at that time, and they gaue them wyues whiche they had saued alive of the wemen of Jabes Gilead. But they sufficed them not. And the people had compassion on Ben Jamin, because that God had made a gappe in the tribes of Israel. And then the elders of the congregacion, sayde: what shall we do to the remnaunt of them, to get them wyues, seyng all the wyues of Ben Jamin are destroyed? And they said: ther must be an inheritaunce for them that be escaped of Ben Jamin, that a tribe be not destroyed out of Israel, howbeit, we may not geue the wyues of oure doughters. For the children of Israel had sworne, saying: cursed be he, that geueth a wife to Ben Jamin. Then they said: behold, there is a feast of the lord yerly in Silo, whiche is on the northsyde of Bethel, and on the eastsyde of the way that goeth from Bethel to Sichem and south from Libanon. Therfore they commaunded the children of Ben Jamin, saying: go & lye in wayte in the vineyardes. And whan ye se that the doughters of Silo come out to daunce in a row, then come ye out of the vineyardes, and catche you every man a wyfe of the doughters of Beniamin. And whan their fathers or brethren come vnto vs to complayne, we wyl say vnto them: haue pitie on vs for their sakes, because we reserued not to eche man his wyfe in time of warre. Neither haue ye geuen vnto them, that ye shuld be giltie at this time. And the children of Ben Jamin dyd euen so: and toke them wyues accordyng to the nombre of them that daunced, whome they caught. And they went, and returned vnto their inheritaunce, and repayred the cities and dwelt in them. And the children of Israel departed thence at that time, and went every man to his tribe, and to his kynred, and went oute from thence every man to his inheritaunce.

Euensong. A

IT fortuned that (in the dayes of a certaine Iudge) when the iudges iudged, there fell a darthe in the lande, and a certaine man of Bethlehem Iuda wente for to soiorne in the countrey of Moab: he and his wyfe, and his .ij. sonnes. The name of the man was Elimelec, and the name of his wyfe, Naomi and the names of his .ij. sonnes were, Mahlon and Chilion, and they were Ephraites, oute of Bethlehem Iuda. And when they came into the land of Moab, they continued there. And Elimelec Naomies husband dyed, and she remayned with her two sonnes whiche tooke them wyues of the nacions of the Moabites: the ones name was Orpha, and the others Ruth: And they dwelled there about a ten yere. And Mahlon and
.v. Chilion dyed also euen both of them, and the woman was lefte desolate of her two sonnes and of her husbande. Then rose she vp with her doughters in law, and returned from the countrey of Moab: for she had hard saye in the countrey of Moab, how that the Lorde had visited his people, and geuen them bread. Wherefore she departed oute of the place where she was, and her two doughters with her. And they wente on their way to returne vnto the lande of Iuda. And Naomi said vnto her two doughters in lawe: go and returne eche of you vnto your mothers house: and the Lorde deale as kyndly with you, as ye haue dealte with the dead, and with me. And the Lorde geue you, that you may finde rest, either of you in the house of her husbande. And when she kyssed them, they lyft vp their
.x. voyce, and wepte, and said vnto her: we will go with the vnto thy folke. And Naomi said turne againe my doughters: for what cause will you go with me? are there any mo children in my wombe, to be your husbandes? Turne againe my doughters, and go: for I am to old to haue an husbande. And if I said, I haue hope, if I toke a man also this nyght ye and thoughe I had already borne sonnes, wolde ye tary after them, till they were of age? for wolde ye for them so longe refrayne fro takyng of husbandes? Not so my doughters: for it greueth me much for your sakes that the hande of the Lorde is gone oute against me. And they lyfte vp their voyces, and wepte againe, and Orpha kyssed her mother in law but Ruth abode still by her. And Naomi said vnto her, thy sister in lawe is gone backe again vnto her people and vnto her goddes: returne thou after her. And Ruth answered entreate me not to leaue the, and to returne from after the: for whither thou goeste, I will go also, and where thou dwellest, there I will dwell: thy people shalbe my people, and
.xvj. thy god my god. Where thou dyest there will I dye, and there will I be buried. The Lorde do so and more vnto me, if ought but death only depart the and me a sonder. When she saw that she was stedfastly minded to go with her, she lefte speakyng vnto her. And so they went both, vntil they came to Bethlehem. And when they were come to Bethlehem, it was noysed of them throwe all the citie, and the women said: is not this Naomi? And she answered them: call me not Naomi (that is to say, beautiful) but call me Mara, (that is to saye, bytter.) For the almighty hath made me verye bytter. I went out full and the Lorde hath brought me home againe empty. Why then call ye me Naomi seyng the lord hath humbled me, and the almighye hath brought me vnto aduersite? And so Naomi with Ruth the Moabitesse her doughter in law returned oute of the countrey of Moab and came to Bethlehem in the beginnynge of Barley haruest.

¶ The .ij. Chapiter.

The .vj. day at matyns.

AND Naomies husbande had a kynsman of
.i. strengthe and myght (whiche was of the kynred of Elimelec) named Booz. And Ruth the Moabitesse saide vnto Naomi: let me go to the felde, and gather eares of corne (eche as the reapers leaue) after any man in whose sight, I fynde grace. And she said vnto her: go my doughter. And she went and came to the felde, and gathered after the reapers, and her chaunce was, that the same felde pertayned vnto Booz, whiche was of the kynred of Elimelec. And beholde, Booz came from Bethlehem, and said vnto the reapers: the Lorde be with you. And they answered him: the Lorde blesse the. Then sayde Booz vnto
.v. his yong man that stode by the reapers. Whose damosell is this? And the yonge man that stode by the reapers answered, and said: it is the Moabitish damosel, that came with Naomi out of the countrey of Moab, and she said vnto vs: Oh let me leale and gather after the reapers the eares that remayne: and so she came, and hath continued euen from the morowe vnto now, saue that she tarried a
.vij. little in the house. Then sayde Booz vnto Ruth: hearest thou my doughter? go to no nother feld to gather, neither go from hence: but abide here by my maydens. Let thine eyes be on the felde that they mape reape, and go thou after the mayden. Haue I not charged the yong men, that they shall touche the no harme

Moabiter, when thou art a thirste, go vnto the vessellan and drinche of that whiche the lardes yonge men haue drawen. When she fell on her face xxxiij. a and bowed her selfe to the grounde, and said vnto him: how is it that I haue found grace in thine eyes, and that thou shuldest knowe C. me, seyng I am an alian? And Booz answered and saide vnto her: all is told and shewed me, that thou hast done vnto thy mother in lawe, since the death of thyne husband, howe thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the lande where thou wast borne, and art come vnto a nacion whiche thou knewest not in time passed. The Lorde quite thy worche, and a full rewarde be geuen the of the Lorde God of Israell: vnder whose wynges thou art come to abide. When she said: let me finde fauour in thy sight my Lorde, thou that hast comforted me, and spoken pitefully vnto thy mayd, whiche yet am not like vnto one of thy maydens. Booz saide vnto her againe: in time of refection come thou hyther, and eate of the breade, and dyp thy soppe in the vineger.
And she satte downe by the reapers, and he reached her parched corne: of the whiche she did eate, and was satisfied, and lefte parte.
And when she was risen vp to gather, Booz commaunded his yonge men, saiyng: let her gather euen among the heapes, and forbyde her not. And leaue her some of the sheues for the nonce and let it lye, that she maye gather it vp, without shame! and rebuke her not And so she gathered in the felde, vntill euen, and threshed that she had gathered, and it was in measure vpon an Ephat that is three bush-D. ells of barley. And she toke it vp, and wente into the citie: and when her mother in lawe had seene what she had gathered, she plucked out also, and gaue to her that she had reserued, when she had eaten enough. And her mother in lawe said vnto her: where hast thou gathered to day? and where wroughtest thou? blessed be he, that knewe the. And she shewed her mother in lawe howe she had wrought with hym and said: the mannes name with whom I wrought to day is Booz.
And Noemi said vnto her doughter in lawe: blessed be he of the Lorde, for he ceaseth not to do good vnto the liuynge and to the deade.
And Noemi said againe vnto her: the man is nye vnto vs, and of oure nerre kynne. And Ruth the Moabite saide: he sayde vnto me also. Thou shalte be with my yonge men, vntil they haue ended all my harueste. And Noemi answered vnto Ruth her doughter in lawe: it is best my doughter that thou go out with his maydens, that they fall not vpon the in any other felde. And so she kepte her by the maydens of Booz, to gather, vnto the ende of barley harueste, and of wheate harueste also:
and dwelt with her mother in lawe.

C The .3. Chapitre.

AND Noemi her mother in lawe said vn- I Cuntcous to her: my doughter, shall I not seke restes for the, that thou mayste prospere?
And is not Booz oure kynsman, with whose maydens thou wast? Beholde, he winnoweth barley to night in the threshyng floure: wash thy selfe therefore, and anoynte the, and put thy rayment vpon the, and get the downe to the barne. But lette not a man knowe of the, vntyl he haue leafte eatynge and drynckyng.
And when he goeth to sleape, marke the place where he layeth hym downe, and then go and lifte vp the clothes, that are on his fete, and laye the downe there, and he shall tell the what thou shalte do. And she answered B. her: all that thou hydest me, I wyll do. And so she wente downe vnto the barne, and dyd accordynge to all that her mother in lawe bade her. And when Booz had eaten and droncken, and made hym merry, and was gone in, to lye downe beside the heape of corne, she came softly, and lifte vp the clothes of his fete, and layde her downe. And at midnight the man was a frayde and groped. And be-holde: a woman laye at his fete. And he saide: what art thou? she answered, I am Ruth thyn handmayd, spreade thy wyng ouer thine handmayd, for thou art the nexte of the kynne.
He sayde: blessed be thou in the Lorde my doughter, for thou hast shewed more goodnesse in the later ende, then at the begyn-nynge, in as muche as thou folowedest not C. yonge men, whether they were poore or ri-che. And nowe my doughter feare not, I wyll do to the all that thou requyrest, for all the Citie of my people dothe knowe, that thou art a woman of vertue. And it is true that I am of thy nexte kynne, howbeit, there is one nyer than I. Tary this nighte. And when morynge is come, yf he wyll mary the, it is good, let hym do. But and yf he wyll not haue the, as sure as the Lorde lyueth I wyll haue the: lye styl vntyll the morynge. And so she laye at his fete vntyll the morynge. And she arose vp before one could knowe another. And he sayde: lette no man knowe, that D. there came any woman into the barne. And he said again, bryng the mantell that thou hast vpon the, and holde it vp. And when he helde it vp, he mette in three measures of barley, and layde it on her. And she gat her into the Citie, and when she came in to her mother in lawe, she said howe is it with the my dough-ter? And she tolde her all that the man had done to her. And sayde also: these three measures of barley gaue he me, and sayde: thou shalte not come emptye vnto thy mother in lawe. When saide she, my doughter, lye styl, vntyll thou knowe howe the matter wyll chaunce. For the man wyll not be in rest, vntil he haue finished the thing this same dare.

C The .iij. Chapitre.

Then

Then went Booz vnto the gate and sate him downe there: and beholde the kynſman of whiche Booz ſpake, came by. Vnto whome he ſayde: come and ſyt downe here and called hym by hys name. And he turned in, and ſat downe. And he toke ten men of the elders of the citie, and ſayde: ſyt ye downe here. And they ſat downe. And he ſayde vnto the kyns-man: Noomi that is come ayen out of the countrey of Moab, wil ſel a parcel of lande which he was owte brother Elemeleck. And I thought to do the to wete, and bid the bye it before the inhabitoures & elders of my people. Yf thou be diſpoſed to redeme it, do: but and ſe thou wilte not purchase it, then tell me, that I may knowe. For there is none to chalenge it, ſaue thou, and I nexte the. And the other answered, I wyl purchase it. Then ſaid Booz, what daye thou byeſt the felde of the hande of Noomi, thou muſte take also Ruth the Moabite the wyfe of the dead, to reyſe vp the name of the deade vpon his inheritaunce.
The kynſman answered: I can not purchase it, for marryng of mine owne inheritaunce: take thou my ryghte to the, for I can not purchase it. Now this was the maner of olde tyme in Iſraell concernyng purchaſſe and chaungynge, for to eſtabliſhe all thyng: that a man muſt plucke of his shoe and geue it his neyghbour, and this was a ſure witneſſe in Iſrael. Therfore the kynſman ſayde to Booz: Wye it thou: and ſo drue of his shoe. And Booz ſayde vnto the elders and vnto all the people: ye are witneſſes this day, that I have bought all that was Elimeleks, and all that was Chilions and Mahlons, of the hande of Noomi. And moreouer, Ruth the Moabite the wyfe of Mahlon, have I purchaſed to be my wyfe, to reyſe vp the name of the dead vpon his inheritaunce, that his name be not put out from among his brethren, and from the gate of his place: ye are witneſſes this day. And all the people that were in the gate, and the elders ſayde: we are witneſſes: the Lorde make the woman that is come into thyne houſe, like Rachel and Lea, whiche twayne dyd build the houſe of Iſrael: be thou alſo valeauntie in Ephrata, and be renoume in Bethlehem. Thy houſe be like the houſe of Pharez, whom Thamar bare vnto Iuda, eben of the ſede which the Lorde shal geue of this yong woma. And ſo Booz toke Ruth and she was his wyfe. And when he went in vnto her, the Lorde gaue, that she conceyued, and bare a ſonne. And the women ſayde vnto Noomi: bleſſed be the Lorde, the whiche hath not left the without a kynſman, to haue a name in Iſrael, and that he shal bryng the life ageyn, and cherysshe thine olde age. For thy doughter in law hath loued the, which is better vnto the, then ſeuen ſonnes. And Noomi toke the chyld, and layed it in her lappe, and became nurſe vnto it. And her neyghboures gaue it a name, and ſayde: there is a child borne to Noomi, and called it Obed, the same is the father of Iſai, the father of Dauid. These are the generations of Pharez: Pharez begat Hezron, Hezron begat Ram, Ram begat Aminadab, Aminadab begat Nahaſon, Nahaſon begat Salmon, Salmon begat Booz, Booz begat Obed, Obed begat Iſai, Iſai begat Dauid.

¶ The ende of the boke of Ruth.

The firſt boke of Samuel called the firſte booke of the kynges.

¶ The firſt Chapiter.

There was a man of one of the two Ramathes (of the kynde of Zophim, of mount Ephraim named Elkana the ſonne of Jeroham the ſonne of Elihu, the ſonne of Thohu, the ſonne of Zuph, an Ephrathite: which had two wiues, the one called Hanna, and the other Phe-nenna. And Phenenna had children, but Hanna had none. And the ſame man went vp out of his citie euery yeare, to prayse and to offre vnto the Lorde of hoſtes in Silo, where were the .ii. ſonnes of Eli (Hophni and Phinehes) the lordes prieſtes. And vpon a ſolempne day, that Elkana offered, he gaue to Phenenna his wyfe and to all her ſonnes and doughters a portion. But vnto Hanna he gaue a portion with a good cheare (for he loued Hanna, and the Lord had made her barren.
And her enemye Phenenna vexed her ſore continually, to moue her, because the Lorde had made her barren. And ſo did he yeare by yeare as often as she went vp to the house of the Lord. And ſo chafed her, which wept, and eate not. Then ſaid Elkana her husbande to her: Hanna, why weepeſt thou? and why eateſt thou not? & why is thyne harte troubled? am not I better to the, then ten ſonnes?
So Hanna rose vp after that she had eaten & dronke in Silo. And Eli the prieſte ſate vpon a ſeate by one of the poſtes of the temple of the Lorde. And she was troubled in her minde, and prayed vnto the Lorde, & wept ſore, and vowed a vowe, and ſayde: O Lorde of hoſtes, if thou wilte loke on the trouble of thyne handmaid & remember me, and not forget thine handmaid, but geue vnto thine handmaid a manchilde: I will geue him vnto the Lorde all the dayes of his life, & there shall no rasor come vpon his head. And as she continued prayeng before the Lorde, Eli marked her mouth. For Hanna ſpake in her harte, and only her lippes moued, but her voyce was

Anna answered and said: not so my lorde. I am a woman of a sorowfull herte. I have dronke neither wine nor strong drinke, but have powred out my soule before the Lorde. Count not thine handmaide for a daughter of Belial, for out of the abundaunce of my heuines & griefe have I spoken hitherto. Eli answered her again, and said, go in peace: the God of Israell graunt thee thy petition that thou hast asked of him. She said: let thine handmaid finde grace in thy sight. And so the woman went her way, & ate, and looked no more so sad. And they rose early, and worshipped before the Lorde, & then returned & came to their house to Ramath. And when Elkana knewe Anna his wife, the Lorde remembred her: for in processe of time it came to passe, that she conceyued, and bare a sonne, and called his name Samuel (saying) because I have asked him of the Lorde. And Elkana and all his house went up to offer unto the Lorde the offering due to the feast, and to his vowe. But Anna went not up but said unto her husband: I will tary untyll the lad be weaned, & then I will bring him that he may appeare before the Lorde, & there abide for ever. Elkana her husbande answered her: do what semeth the best to thee, tary at home, untill thou hast weaned him, and I beseche the Lorde, to make good his saying. And so the woman abode, & gaue her sonne sucke untill she weaned him. And when she had weaned him she toke him with her, with three bullockes & an Ephi of flour, and a bottle of wine, and brought him vnto the house of the Lorde in Silo, and the childe was yet but tender of age. And they slue a bullocke, and brought in the lad to Eli & the said: Oh my lord: as truly as thy soule liueth my lorde, I am the woman that stode before thee here praying vnto the Lorde. For this ladde I prayed, and the Lorde hath geuen me my desire which I asked of him: & therefore I have geuen him vnto the Lorde for longe as he is mete for the Lorde. And they worshipped the Lorde there.

The. 1. Chapiter.

Anna prayed and said: mine herte reioyceth in the lorde, and mine horne is exalted in the Lorde. My mouthe is wide open ouer mine enemies, for I reioyce in thy saluation. There is none so holy as the lorde for without thee, is nothyng: neither is there any so strong as is our God. Talke not so much proudely, lette not thy tongue depart out of your mouthes: for the Lorde is a God of knowledge, & by him purposes come to passe. The bowe of the mighty are broken: & they that were weake, have gyrde them selues with strength. They that were full, have hyred out them selues for bread, and they that were hungry, ceased: so that the barren hath borne seuen and she that hath many children is waxed feble. The Lorde killeth, & maketh alyue: bringeth downe to the graue and fetcheth up again. The lorde maketh poore and maketh riche: bringeth lowe, & lifteth up. He lifteth up the poore out of the dust and lifteth vp the beggar from the dounghill to set them amonge princes, and to endowe them with the seate of glory. For the pilleres of the earth are the Lordes, and he hath set the round worlde vpon them. He will kepe the feete of his saintes, and the wicked shall kepe silence in darcknesse, for in his owne myghte shall no man be strong. The Lordes aduersaries shall be destroied of him: and one of heuen shall he thonder vpon euery one of them. The Lorde shall iudge the endes of the worlde, and shall geue myght vnto his kyng, and exalte the horne of his anoynted. And Elkana went to his house to Ramath, and the ladde did minister vnto the Lorde before Eli the priest. Now the sonnes of Eli were children of Belial, and knewe not the Lord. And the priestes vsed it also for the people that whensoeuer any man offered any offering, the priestes lad came, while the flesse was a sodyng, and a fleshhoke with three tethe in his handes, and thrust it into the panne, kettle, caldron or potte. And all that the fleshhoke brought vp, that the priest toke away vnto him self. And so they did vnto all the Israelites, that came thither to Silo. Yea, and there also, before they burnt the fatte, the priestes lad came and said to the man that offered: geue flesse that I may rooste it for the priest, for he will not have sodden flesh of the, but raw. And ye any man said vnto him, let them burne the fat accordyng to the day, & then take as much as thine herte desireth: the lad wold answere him, yea, thou shalt geue it me now: and if thou wilt not, I will take it with violence. And the sinne of the young men was very great before the Lord. For men abhorred the offering of the Lord. But the child Samuell ministred before the Lorde, girded about with a linen Ephod. Moreouer his mother made him a litle cote, & brought it to him from yere to yere, when she came vp with her husband, to offer the yearely offering. And Eli blessed Elkana & his wife, and said: the Lord graunt the seed of this woman, for the petition that she asked of the Lord. And they went home to their owne home. And the Lorde visited Anna, so that she conceiued, and bare three sonnes and two daughters. And the child Samuel grew before the Lorde. [illegible] and yeare all the dayes of his life, and

G. howe they lye with the women that watch at the dore of the tabernacle, and he said vnto them: whie do ye suche thinges? For of all these people I heare euil reported of, you my sonnes, for it is no good report that I heare howe that ye make the Lordes people to trespasse. If one man sinne against an other, iudges men may be ingreat, but yet man sinne against the Lord, who will be his daysman? Notwithstanding they hearkened not vnto the voice of their father, because the Lord wold slay them. And the childe Luke.2.c. Samuell prospred * and grewe and was in fauour both with the Lorde, and also with men. And there came a man of God vnto Eli, F. and said vnto him: thus saieth the Lord: did not I appeare vnto the house of the father, whe they were in Egypt, subiect vnto Pharaos house? And I chose the father out of all the tribes of Israel to be my priest, to go vp vpon mine aultar, to burne incense, to weare an Ephod before me. And I gaue vnto the house of thy father all the burnt offerynges of the children of Israel. Wherfore treade you downe my sacrifice and mine offerynge, which I commaunded to be made in the tabernacle, and honourest thy children aboue me, to make your selues fat of the first fruites of all the offerynges of Israell my people? Wherefore, the Lord God of Israell saieth: Leuit.2.d. Deut.33.b. I saide that thy house and the house of thy father should walke before me for euer. But now the Lord saieth: that be farre fro me: for them that worship me, I will worship: & they that despise me, shall come to name. Behold, G. the daies come, that I will cut of thine arme and the arme of thy fathers house that there shall not be an elder in thine house. And thou shalt se thyne enemy in the tabernacle (of the Lord) and in all the wealth which (God) shall geue Israell, and there shall not be an elder in thine house for euer. Howbeit I will not destroy all the males that come of the fro mine aultar. But to make thine eyes pale, and to make thine hert melte. And all they that be multiplied in thine house * shall die yet they be men. And this shalbe a signe vnto the, that shall come vpon thy two sonnes * Hophni & Phinehes: euen in one day they shal dye both. And 1.Mac.2.b. 1.Reg.2.g. I will stere me vp a faithfull Priest, that shall do accordyng to my herte and mind. And I will builde him a sure house. And he shall walke before mine anoynted for euer: and they that are left in thine house, shall come and crouche to him for a litle pece of siluer and a cake of bread, and shall say: put me (I praye the) in one office or other among the Priestes, that I may eat a morsell of bread.

Enenlong. AND the childe Samuel ministred vnto the Lord before Eli: & the word of the Lord was precious in those dayes, neither was there any open vision. And it chanced at that time, that Eli lay in his place, & his eien 1.Reg.3.a. begunde to waxe dym, so that he could not se. And yer the lampe of God went out, Samuell laie in the temple of the Lord, where the Arke of God was. And the Lord called Samuell, and he said: here I am, and he ran vnto Eli & said: here am I, for thou diddest call me. Then said he: I called the not, go again and lye downe. And he went and laid him downe to sleape. And the Lord called once again: Samuell, and Samuell arose and went to Eli, and said: I am here: for thou diddest calle me. And he answered: I called the not my sonne, Go again and take thy rest. Samuel knewe not yet the Lord, neither was the worde of the Lord yet opened vnto him. And the Lord called Samuell the thirdtime. And he rose and went to Eli, and said: I am here, for thou hast called me. Then E. perceaued Eli that the Lorde had called the childe. Wherfore Eli said vnto Samuell: go and lie downe and ye he call the again, then saye: speake on Lorde, for thy seruaunte heareth. So Samuell went, and laid him downe in his place. And the Lord came, and stode and called as before: Samuel Samuell. Samuell. Samuell answered: speake on, for thy seruaunte heareth. And the Lord said to Samuell: beholde, I will do a thyng in Israell, that both the eares shall many an one heareth of, shall tingle. In that day I will raise vp against Eli, all thinges which I haue spoken concernyng his house from the beginnyng to 1.Reg.3.b. the endyng. I haue told him that I will iudge his house for euer. For the wickednes C. which he knoweth. For when the people cursed his sonnes for the same wickednes, he hath not corrected them. And therfore I haue sworne vnto the house of Eli, that the wickednesse of Elies house, shal not be put away with sacrifice nor offerynge for euer. Samuell laye till the morowyng, and opened the doores of the house of the Lord. And Samuell feared to shew Eli the vision. Then Eli called Samuell, and said: Samuell my sonne. And he answered: here I am. He said: what is it that the Lord hath said vnto the? I pray the hide it not from me. * God do so Rut.1.c. and so to the, yf thou hide any thyng fro me D. of all that he said vnto the. And Samuell told him euery whit, and hid nothyng from him. And he said: it is the Lorde, let him do what semeth him best. And Samuell grewe, & the Lorde was with him, and lette none of his wordes vnperformed. And all Israell from Dan to Berlabe wist that faithful Samuel was made the Lordes Prophete. And the Lord appeared again in Silo: for the Lorde opened him selfe to Samuell in Silo, throw the worde of the Lord.

The.iv. Chapiter.

And Samuell spoke vnto al Israell. And the Philistines gathered them together to fight against Israell. And when Israell went out against the Philistines to battaile, and pitched beside the stone of helpe, and the Philistines pitched in Aphek. And set them selues in araye against Israell. And when they ioyned the battel, Israell was put to the worse before the Philistines: and the Philistines slue in araie in battaile by the fielde, about foure thousand men. And when the people were come into their tentes, the elders of Israell said, wherefore hath the Lord smitten vs this day before the Philistines? let vs fetche the arke of the couenant of the Lord out of Silo vnto vs, that when it commeth among vs, it may saue vs, out of the hand of our enemy. And so the people sente to Silo, and fetche from thence the arke of the appointment of the Lord of hostes, which dwelleth betweene the cherubyns. And there were the two sonnes of Eli, Hophni & Phinehes with the arke of the appointment of God. And it fortuned, that why the arke of the appointment of the Lord came into the host, al Israell howled a mighty howte, so that the earth clouen againe. And when the Philistines heerde the noise of the howte, they said: what meaneth the sounde of this mighty howte in the host of the Ebrues? And they vnderstode, how that the arke of the Lord was come into the host. And the Philistines were afraid, and said: God is come into the host. And they said again: Wo vnto vs, for it was neuer so before this. Wo vnto vs, who shall deliuer vs out of the hande of these mighty Goddes? these are the Goddes that smote the Egypcians with so many plagues in the wildernes.
Be strong & quite your selues like men, O ye Philistines, that ye be not seruantes vnto the Ebrues, as they haue bene to you. Be ye manly, fight & fight. And the Philistines fought, & Israell was put to the worse and fled euery man into his tente. And there was an exceeding great slaughter, for there were ouerthrowen of Israell .xxx. M. footemen. And the arke of God was taken, &
the two sonnes of Eli, Hophni & Phinehes were dead. And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the araie, & came to Silo the same day with his clothes rent & earth vpō his head.
And when he came, Eli sate vpon a stole, & looked towarde the waye, for his harte trembled for the arke of God. And when the man came into the citie, & told it, all the citie cried. And when Eli hearde the noise of the crying, he said: What meaneth this noise of the crying?
And the man came in hastely, & told Eli. Eli was .xcviii. yere old, & his eyes stode so that he could not see. And the man said vnto Eli: I am he that came out of the araie, and I am this day come out of the araie. And he said vpon thyng is it, my sonne? & the messenger answered & said, Israell is fled before the Philistines, & there is a great slaughter among the people. Thy sonnes also Hophni & Phinehes are dead, & the arke of God is taken. And it fortuned that when he made mention of the arke of God, Eli fell of his stole backward vpō the side vnto the dore of the gate, & his necke brake, & he died for he was an olde man & heuy. And he iudged Israell fourty yeres. And his daughter in law Phinehes wife was with child & ape the bierthe.

And when she heard the tidynges that the arke of God was taken, & that her father in law, & her husband were dead, she bowed her selfe, & trauelled, for her paines came vp-on her. And about the time of her death, the women that stode about her, said vnto her: feare not, for thou hast borne a sonne. But he answered not nor regarded it. And he named the child Ichabod, saying: the glory is departed from Israell. Because the arke of God was taken, & because of her father in laws & her husband. And she said again: the glory is gone from Israell, for the arke of God is taken.

The .v. Chapiter.

And the Philistines tooke the arke of God and caried it out of the helpe stone vnto Ashdod, against the Philistines tooke the arke of God, and brought it into the house of Dagon, and set it by Dagon. And when they of Asdod were vp in the next daye in the mornyng, behold, Dagon lay vpon the earth before the arke of the Lorde. And they tooke Dagon, and set him in his place againe. And whē they were vp early in the next morning behold, Dagō lay vpō the ground before the arke of the lord, & his head, & his two handes cut of vpon the threshold, that only the wayte of a fish was left on him. And therefore is it, that the Priestes of Dagon (neither any man that cometh into Dagons house) treade not on the threshold of Dagon in Asdod, vnto this day. But the hand of the Lord was heuy vpō them of Asdod, & he destroied them, & smote them with emerodes, both Asdod and all the coastes thereof. The villages also & the fieldes in the middes of the coastes were full, & there came vp mice, ether was a confusion of great death in the citie. And when the men of Asdod sawe that it was so, they said: the arke of the God of Israel shal not abide here with vs, for his hand is heuy vpō vs & vpon Dagō our God. Therfore they sente & gathered all the lordes of the Philistines vnto them, & said: what shall we do with the arke of the God of Israell? They answered: let the arke of the God of Israell be caried about vnto Gath. And they caried the arke of the God of Israel about. And it fortuned, that whether they had caried it about, there was a the hand of the Lord a mighty great noise in the citie, & he smote the men of the citie both cunsell and gyue them boy secrete instruccyon. Then the Princes toke counsell, and made vp a cofered offrynge of thynnes. Wherefore they sent the Duke of Gad to Thamna. And before all the seke of God came to Thamna, the Philistines cried and sayd: they have brought the seke of the God of Israell to vs: to slee vs and our people. And so they sent and gathered to gether all the Lordes of the Philistines and sayd. Sende away the seke of the God of Israell, to go againe to his owne place, that it slee vs not and our people. For there was great lamentacion ouer the hole cheyse out all the cytie, and the hand of God was exceedyng sore there. And the men that died not, were smitten with the Emerodes: and the crie of the cytie went vp to heauen.

And the seke of the Lorde was in the countree of the Philistines seuen moneths. And the Philistines called for the Priestes and the Southsayers, sayng, what shall we do with the seke of the Lorde? tell vs where with we shal send it home again? They sayd. If ye send the seke of the God of Israell home again, send it not empty. But reward it with the trespasse offeryng and then ye shalbe hole, and it shalbe knowen to you, why his hand departeth not fro you? Then sayd they: And what shalbe the trespasse offeryng, which we shall reward him with? They answered: Fyue golden ares and fyue golden mice, according to the nombre of the Lordes of the Philistines. For ye and one maner of plage on you all, and on your lordes. Wherefore ye shal make ymages like to your ares and ymages like to your mice that corrupt the land, and ye shall geue glory vnto God of Israel that he may take his hand from of you, and from of your goddes, and from of your land. Wherefore do ye harden your hertes as the Egyptias & Pharao hardened their hertes? which when he toke on against them, did they not let the people go, & they departed? Now therefore make a newe carte, and take two milche kine on whose neckes there hath come no yocke. And tye the kyne to the carte, and bryng the calues home from them. And take the seke of the Lord, & laie it vpon the carte, and put the iewels of gold which ye reward him with for a trespasse offeryng in a cofre by the side thereof, and send it away, that it may go. And se ye that he go vp by the waye of his owne coaste to Bethshames, for he it is that did vs this great euell. And we shall knowe then, that it was not his hand that smote vs: but it was a chaunce that happened vs. And the men did so, and toke two milche kine and bounde them to the carte, & shut the calues at home, and they laide the seke of the Lord vpon the carte & the cofre with the mice of golde and with the ymages of there ares. And the kyne toke the right way to Bethshames, and went on the streight waye and cried, lowed, and turned not ther to the right hande nor to the left. And the Lordes of the Philistines went after them, vnto the borders of Bethshames. And they of Bethshames were reapyng there wheate in the valey. And they lifte vp their eyes, and spied the seke. And reioyced when they sawe it. And the carte came into the feld of one Iehosua a Bethshamite, and there stode there. There was also a great stone, and they clane the wood of the carte & offred the kine a burntofferyng vnto the Lord. And the Leuites toke downe the seke of the Lorde & the cofre that was by it, wherein the iewels of golde were, and set it on the great stone. And the men of Bethshames sacrificed burntsacrifice, and offred sacrifices the same day vnto the Lorde. And when the Lordes of the Philistines had sene it, they returned to Ekron the same day. And these are the golden ares which the Philistines gaue for a trespasse offeryng to the Lord. For Asdod one, for Gaza one, for Askalon one, for Gath one, and for Akaron one. And golden mice, according to the nombre of all the cities of the Philistines, euen of fenced cities to the fine Lordes both of walled townes & of townes vnwalled, and vnto the great stone of lamentacio, whereon they layed the seke of the Lord: which stone remaineth vnto this day in the feld of Iehosua the Bethshamite. And he plaged the men of Bethshames, because they had sene the seke of the Lorde. And he slue among the people fifty thousand & three score & fyuemen. And the other people lamented, because the Lorde had slayne the people with so great a slaughter. Wherefore the men of Bethshames sayd: who is able to stande before the Lord to holy a Worde? to who shall he go from vs? And they sent messengers to the inhabiters of Kiriath Iarim, sayng: the Philistines have brought again the seke of the Lord, come ye downe therefore, and fetche it vp vnto you.

Deuteron. 8.

And the men of Kiriath Iarim came, and fetched vp the seke of the Lorde, and brought it into the house of Aminadab in Gibea, and sanctified Eleazar his son, to kepe the seke of the Lord. And while the seke abode in Kiriathiarim the time was multiplied, & there was lamentacion made vnto all the house of Israell. And Samuell spake vnto all the house of Israell, sayng: If ye be come again vnto the Lord with all your hertes, then put away the straunge goddes & Astaroth from among you, and prepare your hertes vnto the Lord, and serue him only: so he shall rid you out of the hande of the Philistines. Then the children of Israell put away Baalim and Astaroth, and vs? gather all Israell to Mizpa, & I will praye for you vnto the Lorde. And they gathered together to Mizpa, and drewe water and pow-red it out before the Lorde, and fasted the same daye and saide there: We haue sinned against the Lorde. And Samuell iudged the children of Israell in Mizpa. When the Philistines heard that the children of Israell were gathered together to Mizpa, the lordes of the Philistines went vp against Israell.

And when the children of Israell hearde that they were afeared of the Philistines, the children of Israell said to Samuell: Cease not to crie vnto the Lorde oure God for vs, that he maye saue vs out of the hande of the Philistines. And Samuell toke a sucking lambe, and offered it altogether for a burnt offring vnto the Lord, & cried vnto the Lord for Israell, and the Lord heard him. And as Samuell offered the burntoffring, the Philistines came to fight against Israell. But the Lord thonred a great thonder that same day among the Philistines, & terrified them, that they fell before Israell. And the men of Israell went out of Mizpa, and pursued the Philistines, and followed vpon them vntill the place that is vnder Bethcar. And then Samuell toke a stone & pitched it betwene Mizpa and the marke of the rocke, & called the name thereof, the Stone of helpe, saying: Hytherto hath the Lorde helped vs. And so the Philistines were brought vnder, & they came nomore into the coastes of Israel: and the hand of the Lord was against the Philistines all the daies of Samuell. Wherefore the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israell, were restored again to Israel, euen from Ekaron to Gath: with the coastes of the same, and Israell pluckte them out of the handes of the Philistines. And there was peace betwene Israell & the Amorites. Samuell iudged Israel all the daies of his life & went about yere by yere to Bethell, Gilgal and Mizpa, & iudged Israel in all those places, and came againe to Rama: for there was his house, & there he iudged Israell also and there he built an altare vnto the Lorde.

1. WHen Samuell was olde, he made his sonnes iudges ouer Israel. The name of his eldest sonne was Joell. And the name of the seconde Abiah: and they were iudges in Beersheba. And his sonnes walked not in his wayes: but turned aside after lucre, & toke rewarde, and perverted the right. Then all the elders of Israell gathered them together, and came to Samuel vnto Rama, & said vnto him: Beholde thou art old, & thy sonnes walke not in thy wayes. Nowe therefore make vs a kynge to iudge vs as all other nacions haue. But the thinge displeased Samuell, wordes of the Lorde vnto the people that asked a kynge of him and he saide: This shalbe C. the authorite of the kynge that shall raigne ouer you: he will take youre sonnes & putte them to his charettes and make them horsemen of them, to runne before his charet and will make him of them, rulers ouer thousandes and ouer fiftes, and will set them to eare his grounde, and to gather in his har-

And he shall take the beste of youre men seruauntes sheepe, & ye shalbe his seruauntes. And ye shall Dc crie out all that time vpon your kyng, which ye shall haue chosen you, and the Lorde will not heare you at that day. Neuertheles, the people wold not heare the voice of Samuel, but they saide: nay, not so. But there shalbe a kyng ouer vs, that we may be like other na-cions, and that our kynge may iudge vs, and go out before vs, and fight our battailes for vs. Wherefore, when Samuell hearde all the wordes of the people, he rehearsed them in the eares of the Lorde. And the Lord saide to Samuell: herke vnto their voice, and make them a kyng. And Samuell said vnto the men of Israell: go euery man vnto his citie.

¶ The.ix. Chapiter.

THere was a man of Benjamin named Cueuenog.
Kis the sonne of Abiel, the sonne of Ze- 1. Me. xiij. c. ror, the sonne of Bechorath, the son of Aphiah, ij. Para. viij. b the sonne of a man that was a Jemmite, a man of strengthe and might: and the same had a sonne called Saul, a goodly younge man and a faire: so that amonge the children of Israell there was none goodlyer then he.
For from the shoulders vpwarde, he was higher then all the other people. And the Asses of Kis the father of Saul, were lost: and Cis caule to Saull his sonne: take one of the landed with the, and go vp, & seke the asses.

And he went thorowe mount Ephraim, and thorow the lande of Salisa: but they found them not. Then they went thorowe the land of Salim, where they were not. When they went also thorow the londe of Iemini, they found them not. At the last when they were come to the land of Zuph, Saul said vnto his lad that was with him: Come let vs returne, lest my father leue caring for the asses, & take thought for vs. He answered vnto him: behold, there is in this citie a man of God, and he is a worshipful man, all that he saieth commeth surely to passe. Now then let vs go thither, peraduenture he shall shewe vs what waye we may go. Then said Saull to his lade:
If we will go, what shal we bring the man?
For our bread is all spent out of our vessels, and there is none other present to bring the man of God: what haue we? And the lad answered Saul againe, and said: I haue found about me the fourth part of a sicle, that will I geue the man of God, to tell vs our way.
(Before time in Israell when a man went to seke an answere of God, thus wise he spake: come, and let vs go to the seare: for he that is now called a Prophet was in the old time called a seare.) Then said Saull to his lade: well said of thee: come, let vs go. And so they went vnto the citie where the man of God was. And as they were going vp into the citie, they mette with damsels that came out to drawe water, and said vnto them: is there here a seare? And the maydens answered them: yea, here is one. Beholde, he is before you. Make haste now, for he came thes day to the citie, for there is an offering of the people this daye in the hyll.
When ye become into the citie ye shall finde him straight waye ere he go vp to the hill to eate: for the people will not eate vntill he come, because he doth bleste the offring. And then eate they that be bidden to the feast.
Go now therfore get you vp, for this daye shall ye finde him. And they went vp into the citie. And when they were come into the middes of the citie: beholde, Samuell came out against them, for to go vp to the hill. But the Lord had told Samuell in his eare (a day before Saull came) saying: Tomorowe this time I will sende the a man out of the land of Ben Iamin, him shalte thou annoynte to be captaine ouer my people Israell, that he may saue my people out of the handes of the Philistines: for I haue loked vpon my people, and their crie is come vnto me. When Samuell therfore saw Saull, the Lorde answered him: se, this is the man whom I spake to the of. Even he shall reigne ouer my people. Then went Saull to Samuell in the middle of the gate, & said: tell me I pray the where the seare house is. Samuell answered Saull and said: I am the seare, go vp before me vnto the hill, for ye shall eate with me to daye. And tomorowe I will let the go, and will tell the all that is in thine hart. And as for thine asses that were lost thes daies agoo, care not for them, for they are founde.
Moreouer whose shall the beautifull thinges of Israell be? Belonge they not to the and to all thy fathers house? Then Saull answered and said: Am I not the sonne of a Ieminite of the smallest tribe of Israell? & my kynred is the least of all the kynredes of the tribe of Ben Iamin. Wherfore then speakest thou so to me? And Samuell toke Saull and his lad, and brought them into the parlour, and made them sit in the chefest place among them that were bidden: which were vpon a thirtie personnes. And Samuell said vnto the coke: bring forth the portion which I gaue the, and of which I said vnto the: kepe it with the. And the cooke toke vp the shoulder, and that which was vpon it: and set it before Saull. And Samuell said: behold that which is left: out it before the and eate: for hetherto hath it ben kept for the, of purpose when I called the people. And so Saull ate with Samuell the daye. And when they were come downe from the hill into the ci-tie, Samuell communed with Saull vpon the toppe of the house. And whil they arose early about the spring of the daye, Samuell called Saull vpo the toppe of the house, crying: vp, that I may sende the awaye. And Saull arose. And they went out at the doores both he and Samuell. And when they were come all out of the towne, Samuell said to Saull: bid the lad go before vs (as he must before) but stand thou still a while, that I may shew the what God saith.

wine. And they will salute the and geue the two loaues of breade, which thou shalt receiue at their handes. After that shalt thou come to the hil of God, where the Philistines kepe their watch. And when thou art come thither to the citie, thou shalt meete a company of prophetes comming downe from the hil with a psalter, a tymbrell, a pipe, and an harp before them: and they shall prophesy. And the spirite of the Lorde will come vpon the, and thou shalt prophesy with them, and shalt be turned into an other man. And he drue his face to go from Samuell, God gaue him an other maner of heert: and all those tokenes came to passe that same day. And when they came to the hil: behold, the company of prophetes with him: & the * spirite of God came vpon him also, and he prophecied among them. And all that knewe him before, when they saw that he prophecied among the prophetes, they said eche to other: what is this that is happened vnto the son of Cis? is Saull also among the prophetes? And one of the same place answered and said: who is their father? And there of came the prouerbe, what is Saul also among the prophetes? And when he had made an ende of the prophetying, he came to the hil. And Sauls fathers brother said vnto him, & to his lad: whither went ye? He said: to seke the asses, & when we saw that they were no where, we came to Samuel. And Sauls vncle said: tell me what Samuel said vnto you. Saull answered his vncle: he told vs plainely, that the asses were found. But of the kyngdo whereof Samuel spake, told he him not. And Samuell called the people together vnto the Lorde to Mizpe, and said vnto the children of Israell, thus saith the Lorde God of Israell. I brought Israell out of Egipt, and deliuered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, & out of the handes of all kyngdomes that troubled you. And ye haue this day cast away your God that helpes you out of all your aduersities and tribulacions. And ye haue said vnto him: make a king ouer vs. Now therfore stande ye before the Lord by your tribes and your thousandes. And when Samuell had brought all the tribes of Israel, the tribe of Benjamin was taught. And he had brought the tribe of Benjamin by their kynredes, the kynred of Matri was taught: and at the last Saull the son of Cis was caught. And when they sought him he

Lord further, ye the man should come thither. And the Lorde answered: behelde, he hath hidden hym selfe among the stuffe. And they ranne and fet him thence. And when he stode among the people, he was higher then all the people from the shoulders vpward. And Samuell sayed to all the people: se ye not him, who the Lord hath chosen? how there is none like him among all the people. And all the people shouted and cried: God saue the kyng. Then Samuell tolde the people the duty of the kyngdom, & wrote it in a booke, & laied it vp before the Lord, & sent all the people away, euery man to his house. And Saull also went home to Gibea, & there folowed him strong men, whose hartes God had touched. But the children of Belial said: how shall he saue vs? and they despised him, and brought him no presentes. And he helde his tonge.

Then the Ammonite came, & besieged Jabes in Gilead. And all the men of Jabes said vnto Nahas: make a couenaute with vs, & we wilbe thy seruauntes. And Nahas the Ammonite auntwered them. In this will I make a couenaunt with you, ye I may thrust out al your right eien, and brynge that shame vpon al Israell. To whom the elders of Jabes said: geue vs seuen dayes respite: that we may sende messengers vnto all the coastes of Israell. And then ye there be no man to helpe vs: we will come out to the. Then came the messengers to Gibea vnto Saull, & told this tidynges in the eares of the people. And all the people lift vp their voices & wept. And behold, Saull came folowynge the catteil out of the felde, and Saull said: what ayleth the people, that they wepe? And they tolde him the tidynges of the men of Jabes. And the spirite of God came vpon Saull, when he heerde those tidynges, and he was exceding angry, and toke a yoke of oxen: and hewed them in peces, and sent them thorow out all the coastes of Israell by the handes of messengers, saying: Whosoeuer commeth not forth after Saull & after Samuel, to him yoxen be serued. And the feare of the Lorde fell on the people, and they came out as it had ben but one man. And when he * nombred them in Bezeck, the children of Israell were three hundred thousand men: and the men of Juda thirty thousand. And they said vnto the messengers that came: so say vnto the men of Jabes in Gilead: to morowe be ye shall haue helpe, when the sonne be hote. ye shall haue helpe. And the messengers came and shewed the men of Jabes, which were glad. Therfore the men of Jabes said: to morowe we will come out vnto you, and ye shal do with vs all that pleaseth you. came in vpon the host in the morninge watche and slue the Ammonites vntill the heate of the day. And they that remained were scatered abrode, so that no two of them remayned together.

Then said the people vnto Samuell: Who is he that sayde: Shall Saul raigne ouer vs? bringe those men, that we may slaye them. And Samuell sayde: There shall no man die this daye, for to daye the Lorde hath caused Israell to fight. Then said Samuel vnto the people: Come that we maye go to Gilgall, and renue the kyngdom there. And all the people went to Gilgall, and made Saull kyng there before the Lord in Gilgall. Samuell sayde vnto all Israell: Beholde, I have herkened vnto your voice in all that you saide vnto me, and have made you a kyng. Now therefore, your kyng walketh before you. And I am old and graie headed, and behold, my sonnes are with you, and I have walked before you from my childehode vnto this daye. Beholde, here I am: beare recorde of me before the Lord & before his annoynted. Whose oxe have I taken? whose asse have I taken? whom have I done wronge to? whom have I hurte? of whose hande have I receyued any bribe, to blinde mine eies therwith, and I will restore it you againe. He said vnto them againe: the Lorde is witnesse against you, and his annoynted is witnesse this day, that ye have founde nought in my handes. And they answered: he is witnesse. And Samuel said vnto the people: it is the Lorde that made Moses and Aaron, and that brought your fathers out of the land of Egypt. Now therfore stand stil, that I maye reason with you before the Lord, according to all the righteousnesse of the Lord, which he shewed both you and your fathers. After that Iacob was come into Egypt, & your fathers cried vnto the Lord, the Lord sent Moses and Aaron which brought your fathers out of Egypt, and made them dwell in this place. And when they forgat the Lord their God, he deliuered them into the hande of Sisara captaine of the hoste of Hazor, & into the hand of the Philistines, & into the hand of the kyng of Moab, and they fought against them. And they cried vnto the Lord, and said: we have sinned, because we have forsaken the Lorde, and serued Baalim and Astaroth. Now therfore deliuer vs out of the handes of our enemies, and we will serue the. Then the Lord sent Jerobaal, Dauid, Samuell, and deliuered you out of the handes of your enemies on euery side, & ye dwelled safe. And when ye saw that Nahas the kyng of the children of Ammon came against you, ye said vnto me: nay, but a kynge shall reigne ouer vs, when yet the Lorde your God was your kynge. Now therfore behold the kynge whom ye have chosen, and whom ye have desired, the Lord hath set a kynge ouer you. If ye will feare the Lord and serue him, and heare his voice, and not disobey the mouthe of the Lord: both ye and the kyng that raigneth ouer you, shall followe the Lorde your God: but if ye will not herken vnto the voice of the Lorde, but disobey the Lordes mouth, then shall the hand of the Lord be vpon you, and on your fathers. Stande also & beholde this great thyng which the Lord will do before your eyes: Is it not now wheate harueste? I will call vnto the Lorde, and he shall sende thunder and raine, that ye may perceiue and se, how that your wickednesse is great, which ye have done in the sight of the Lorde in asking you a kyng. And so Samuell called vnto the Lorde, and the Lord sent thunder & raine the same day. And all the people feared the Lord and Samuell exceedingly. And all the people said vnto Samuell: Praye for thy seruantes vnto the Lord thy God, that we dye not: for we have synned in asking vs a kyng before all the synnes that euer we did. And Samuell said vnto the people: feare not. Ye have done all this wickednesse, yet departe not from followyng the Lord. But serue him euen with all your hertes. Neither turne ye after vaine thynges which are not able to profite you, for they are but vanitie. For the Lorde will not forsake his people, because of his great name, sithe it hath pleased the Lord to make you his people. Moreouer, God forbid: that I should synne against the Lord, & cease praying for you, but to teache you the good & right way. Therfore feare you the Lord, and serue him in the truthe, and with all your hertes, and consider how great thinges he hath done for you. But and ye be wickedly, then shall ye perish, both ye and your kyng.

The. xij. Chapitre.

Saul had raigned one yeare (whe his thynges came to passe:) and he raigned two yeares ouer Israell. And Saull chose him three thousande men of Israell. Two thousande were with Saul in Michmas & in mount Bethell, and a thousand with Jonathe in Gibea Ben Iamin. And the rest of the people he sent euery man to his owne house again. And Jonathe smote a hold of the Philistines, that was in the hill: and it came to the Philistines eares. And Saull blewe the trompette throughout all the lande, saying: Let the Hebrues heare. And all Israell herde saye how that Saul had destroyed an holde of the Philistines, wherefore Israel was become odious vnto the Philistines. And the people gathered them together after Saul to Gilgal.

D. The Philistines also gathered themselues together to fight with Israel, thirty thousand charettes, and syx thousand horsemen, with other people like the sande by the sea syde in multitude, and came vp, & pitched in Bichmas eastwarde from Bethaven. And when the men of Israel sawe it, they were in a straite, and feare came vpo the people, & they hid themselues in caues, and in thicke holes, and in rockes, and in high places, and in pittes. And some of the Hebrues went ouer Iordan to go into the land of Gad and Gilead. And Saul was yet in Gilgal, and all the people that folowed hym were astonnied. And he targed seuen dayes, euen vnto the time that Samuel had apointed. But Samuel came not to Gilgal: and the people were therefore scattered from hym. And Saule sayde: bring a burnt sacrifice to me and peace offeryngs. And he offered burnt sacrifice. And assone as he had made an ende of offeryng the burnt sacrifice, beholde, Samuel came. And Saul went against him, to bidde him. And Samuel sayd: what hast thou done? Saul sayde: because I sawe that the people scattred from me, and that thou camest not within the dayes apoin-ted, and that the Philistines gathered themselues together to Michmas: therefore sayde I: the Philistines shall come downe vpon me to Gilgal, and I haue not made supplica-C. tion vnto the Lorde. And when I had ouer-come my selfe, I offered a burnt offeryng. And Samuel sayde to Saul: thou hast become a foole, thou hast not kept the co-mmaundement of the Lorde thy God, which he commanded the. For at this time would the Lorde haue stablished thy kyngdome vpon Israel for euer. But nowe thy kyngdom shal not continue. The Lorde hath sought hym a man after his owne harte, and the Lorde hath commanded hym to be captayne ouer his people because thou hast not kept that which the Lorde commaunded the. And Samuel arose, and gat hym vp from Gilgal to Gibea Ben Iamin. And the remnaunt of the folke went vp after Saul, to mete the people which fought against them, as they were comming from Gilgal to Gibea in the hille of Ben-D. Iamin. And Saul nombred the people that were founde with hym, and they were about syx hundred men. And Saul & Ionathas his sonne, and the people that were founde with them, dwelte in the hill of Ben Ia-min. But the Philistines pitched in Bichmas. And there came out of the host of the Philistines thre companies to destroye: one company turned vnto the waye that leadeth to Ophra vnto the lande of Saul. And an other company turned the waye to Bethoron.
And the third company turned to the way of the coast that is ouer ahoue the valey of Zeboim toward the wilderneß. There was no smyth founde throughout all the lande of Israel. For the Philistines sayde: Lest the Hebrues make them swordes & speares.
But all the Israelites went downe to the Philistines, to amende euery man his share, his mattocke, his axe and his pecke axe, & coolers. And then the edges of the shares, mattockes, dongforkes, and axes were blunt, and al to the forkes were to be set in. And so in tyme of battaile there was neyther sworde nor speare founde in the hande of any of the people that were with Saul and Ionathas. But with Saul & Ionathas his sonne was there ynough founde. And the watche of the Philistines came out to go ouer vnto Bichmas.

yong man that bare his harneß: come, and let vs go ouer to the Philistines watche, that are yonder on the other syde. But he tolde not his father. And Saul taried in the vtter-moste parte of Gibea vnder Rimmon, which is in Migron, and the people that were with hym were vpon a syx hundred men. And Ahia the sonne of Ahitob, Ichabods brother, the sonne of Phinehes, the sonne of Eli, was the Lordes priest in Silo and ware an Ephod.
And the people wist not that Ionathas was gone. And in the mydes of the passage B. thy whiche Ionathas sought to go ouer to the Philistines watche, were there two sharpe rockes, euen one on the one syde, and the other on the other syde: the one called Bozez, and the other Senne. The foreffront of the one leaned northwarde toward Bichmas, and the other southward toward Gibea. And Ionathas sayde to the yonman that bare hys harneße: come, and let vs they say: come vp vnto vs, then we will go vp for the Lorde hath delyuered them into the men of the watche aunswered Jonathas and his harnesbearer, and sayde: come vp to vs, and we wyll shewe you a thyng. And Jonathas sayde vnto his harnesbearer: come vp after me, for the Lorde hath delyuered them into the hande of Israel. And Jonathas clame vp vpon handes and fete, and his harnesbearer after hym. And so when they had slayne Jonathas and his harnesbearer slew them after hym. And the first slaughter which Jonathas and his harnesbearer made, was vpon a twenty men, within a compasse as it were about an half acre of lande. And there was a feare in the hoost in the fielde, and among all people: into muche that they that were gone out of the watche to robbe, were afraged also: and the yearth trembled for the feare that was sent of God. And the watchemen of Saul in Gibea Ben Jamin sawe. And beholde, the people of the Philistines were scattered and were smitten as they went. Then sayde Saul vnto the people that were with him. Searche ye, who is gone away fro vs. And whe they had nombred, behold, Jonathas and his harnesbearer were not there. And Saul sayde vnto Ahia: bryng hither the arke of God. For the arke of God was at that tyme with the chyldren of Israel. And it fortuned that while Saul talked vnto the priest, the noyse that was in the hoost of the Philistines spred farther abrode, and encreased by litle and litle, and gaue a more clear sounde: Saul sayde vnto the priest, withdrawe thyne handes. And Saul ioyned himselfe vnto all the people that were with hym, and they came to the battayle. And behold, * euery mans sword was against his felow, and ther was a very great tumult. Moreouer, the Hebrues that were with the Philistines before that time, and were come with them into all parties of the hoost, turned to be with the Israelites that were with Saul and Jonathas. And al the men of Israel also which had hid themselues in mount Ephraim, as soone as they heard, howe the Philistines were fled, they followed after them in the battayle. And so God holpe Israel that daye. And the battayle continued vnto Bethauen. And when the men of Israel were kept down with hunger that daye, Saul charged the people with an oth, saying: Cursed be the man that eateth any foode tyll nyght, tyll I be auenged of myne enemies. And so none of the people tasted any sustenaunce. And all the enhabiters of the lād came to a wood, where hony laye vpon the ground. And the people came into the wood. And behold, the hony dropped, & no man moued his hande to his mouthe, for the people feared the oth. But Jonathas herde not whe his father charged the people with the oth, wherfore he put forth the end of the rod that was in his hand, and dipt it in an hony combe and put his hande to his mouthe, and his eyen receiued light. Then aunswered one of the people, & sayd: thy father adiured the people saying: Cursed be the man that eateth any sustenaunce this daye. And the people were faynty. The sayd Jonathas, my father hath troubled the lande: how mine eyen haue receiued light, because I tasted a litle of this hony, howe muche more then to daye if the people had eaten of the spoyle of their enemies which they founde? And had there not bene then a much greater slaughter among the Philistines? And they layed on the Philistines that daye, fro Michmas to Aialon. And the people were exceding faint. And the people gat vnto the spoyl, & toke shepe, oxen, and calues, and slew them on the grounde, and the people did eate them with the bloud. Then men tolde Saul, saying: Behold, the people synne against the lorde, in that they eate with the bloud. And he sayde: ye haue trespassed. Rolle a great stone vnto me this daye. And Saul sayd again. Go abrode among the people, and bid them bryng me euery man his oxe, & euery man his shepe and slaye them here, and synne not against the lorde in eatyng with the bloude. And the people brought euery man his oxe in his hande by night and slewe them there. And Saul made an aultar vnto the lord. And that was the first aultar that he made vnto the lord. And Saul sayde: let vs go down after the Philistines by night, and spoyle them vntill it be daye in the morning, and let vs not leue one man of them. And they sayde: do whatsoeuer thou thinkest best. Then sayd the priest: let vs come hether vnto God. And Saul asked of God: shal I go downe after the Philistines? Wilt thou deliuer them into the handes of Israel? But he aunswered him not at that tyme. And Saul sayde: let the people come hither out of all quarters, and know and se by whom this sin is chaūced this day. For as truly as the lord liueth which hath saued Israel, though it be in Jonathas my son, he shall dye the death. But there was no man among all the people that aunswered him. Then he said vnto all Israel: be ye on one syde, & I & Jonathas my sonne will be on the other syde. And the people said vnto Saul: what thou thinkest best, that do. Therfore Saul sayde vnto the lorde God of Israel: geue a perfect lot. And the lorde God gaue thou the iudgement. Howe happeneth it, that thou geuest thi seruaunt no aunswere to day? If this sin be in me or in Jonathas my sonne, geue it, or if this iniquite be in thy people. And Saul & Jonathas were caught, but the people escaped free. And Saul sayde: cast lotes betwene me and Jonathas my son. And Jonathas was caught. Then Saul sayde to Jonathas: tell me what thou hast done. And Jonathas tolde hym, and sayde: I tasted a litle hony

Saul held the kyngdō ouer Israel, & fought against all his enemies on every side, against Moab, against the children of Ammō, against the Philistines. And whether soeuer he turn

¶ The. xv. Chapiter.

Samuel sayd vnto Saul: * the Lorde sent me to anoynt the, to be kyng ouer hys people Israel. Now therfore hearken thou vnto the voyce of the wordes of the Lorde.
Thus sayth the lorde of hoastes: I remēbre that whiche Amalek did to Israel, * how thei layed wayte for them in the waye, as they came out of Egipt. Go nowe therfore go, and smite Amalek, and destroye ye all that pertay neth vnto them, and let thou haue no compas sion on them. And couete nothyng that they haue, but slay both man and woman, infante and suckelyng, oxe and shepe, camel, and asse. And Saul gathered the people together, and nom bred them in Telaim, C. C. thousand fotemen, and .x. thousand men of Juda. And Saul came to a citie of Amalek, and set watch in the val ley. And Saul sayd vnto the Kenites, go, and departe, and get you downe from among the Amalekites, least I destroye you with them: for ye shewed mercy to all the children of Is rael, when they came out of Egipt. And so the Kenites departed from among the Amaleki tes. And Saul smote the Amalekites from Ha uila as thou commest to Sur, that lyeth be fore Egypte, and toke Agag the kyng of the Amalekites aliue, and vtterly destroyed all the people with the edge of the swearde.

But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the best shepe, and the fatter oxen, and the lambes and all that was good, and would not destroye them. But all that was foule and nought worth, that they destroyed vtterly.
Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto Sa muel, saying: it * repenteth me that I haue made Saul kyng. For he is turned fro me, and hath not performed my commaundemen tes. And Samuel was euyll apayed, and cried vnto the Lorde all nyght. And when Sa muel arose early to mete Saul in the mor ning, it was tolde Samuel, that Saul was come to Carmel: and beholde, he hath made hym there a place, and is turned, and depar ted, and gone downe to Gilgal. And Samuel came to Saul, and Saul offered burnt sacri fice vnto the Lord of the first of the spoyles whiche he had brought from Amaleth: and when Samuel was come vnto Saul, Saul sayde vnto hym: Blessed be thou in the Lord.
I haue fulfilled the cōmaundemēt of the lord.
Samuel sayd: what meaneth thē the bleating of the shepe in mine eares, & the noyse of the oxen whiche I heare? Saul answered: they haue brought them fro the Amalekites. For the people spared the best of the shepe and of the oxen, to sacrifice them vnto the Lord thy God. And the remnaunt haue we destroyed vt terly. Samuel sayde to Saul: let me tell the what the Lorde hath sayde to me this nyght.
And he sayde vnto hym: saye on. Samuel sayde.* When thou wart lytle in thyne owne sight, wart thou not made the head of the tri bes of Israel? And the Lorde anoynted the, kyng ouer Israel. And the Lorde sent the on a iourney, and sayde: Go, and vtterly destroye those synners, the Amalekites, and fyght a gainst them, vntil they vtterly destroy them.
And wherfore hast thou not herkened vnto the voyce of the Lorde but hast turned to the praye, and hast done that whiche is wycked in the syght of the Lorde. And Saul sayd vn to Samuel: yea, I haue herkened vnto the voyce of the Lorde: and haue gone the waye whiche the Lorde sent me vnto, and haue brought Agag the kyng of Amalek, and haue vtterly destroyed the Amalekites. But the people take of the spoyle, shepe, oxen, and the chefest of the thynges which should haue bene destroyed, to offer vnto the Lorde thy God, in Gilgal. And Samuel sayde: hath the Lorde as great pleasure in burnt sacrifices and offerynges, as when the voyce of the Lord is obeied? Behold, to obey is better the sacrifice, & to herken is better then the fat of rams. For rebellion is as the synne of witch craft, and stubburnes is as the wickednes of idolatrye. Because thou hast cast away the worde of the Lorde, therfore hath the Lorde cast away the also from beyng kyng. And Saul sayde vnto Samuel: I haue synned.

for I haue gone further then the saying of the Lorde and thy wordes, because I feared the people, and obeyed their voyce. Nowe therefore take awaye my synne, and turne a-gayn with me, that I may worshyp the lord. And Samuel sayde vnto Saul: I will not returne with the: for thou hast cast away the worde of the Lorde, and the Lorde hath cast awaye the, that thou shalt not be kyng ouer Israel. And as Samuel turned hymselfe to go awaye, he caught the lappe of his coote, and it rent. And Samuel sayde vnto hym: the Lorde hath rent the kyngdome of Israel frō the this daye, and hath geuen it to a neyghbour of thyne, that is better then thou. The strength of Israel will not begylen nor repent: for he is not a man that can repent. He sayde: I haue synned. But nowe honoure me before the elders of my people, and before Israel and turne agayne with me, that I maye worshyp the Lorde thy God. And so Samuel tourned again, and followed Saul. And Saul worshypped the Lorde. Then sayd Samuel: Bryng ye hether to me Agag the kyng of the Amalekites. And Agag came vnto hym delicately. And Agag sayde: truely thy bytter death commeth on. And Samuel sayd: as thy swerde hath made women childlesse, so shall thy mother be childlesse aboue other women: And Samuel hewed Agag in peces before the Lorde in Gilgal. And then Samuel departed to Rama. And Saul wēt home to his house to Gibea Saul. And Samuel came nomore to se Saul vntil the day of his death. Neuertheles Samuel mourned for Saul, & the Lorde repented, that he had made Saul kyng ouer Israel.

The. xvi. Chapiter.

The Lorde sayde vnto Samuel: How long wilt thou mourne for Saul, sying I haue cast hym away from raygning ouer Israel? Fyll thyne horne with ointment, and come, that I may sende the to Iesse the Bethlehemite, for I haue prouyded me a kyng among his sonnes. And Samuel sayde: howe can I go? For if Saul heare it, he wyl slyt me. The Lorde answered: Take an heyfer with the, and saye: I am come to offer to the Lorde. And call Iesse to the offeryng, and I wyll shewe the, what thou shalt do: and thou shalt anoint hym whom I name vnto the. And to Samuel did as the Lorde had bym, and came to Bethlehem. The elders of the towne were astonied at his commyng, and sayde: Commest thou peaceably? He answered: yea, I am come to offer vnto the Lorde. Sanctifie your selues, and come with me to the offeryng. And he sanctified Iesse and his sonnes, and bad them to the offeryng. And when they were come he loked on Eliab, and sayde: Surely the Lordes anoynted is before hym. But the Lord sayde vnto Samuel: loke not on his fashion, or on the heyght of his stature, because I haue refused hym: For God seeth not as man seeth. For man loketh on the outwarde appearaunce: but God beholdeth the hart. Then Iesse called Abinadab, & made hym come before Samuel. And he sayd: neither hath the Lorde chosen this. Then Iesse made Samma come, and he sayde: neyther yet hath the Lorde chosen him. Agayne Iesse made seuē of his sonnes to come before Samuel: and Samuel sayde vnto Iesse: the Lorde hath chosen none of these. And Samuel sayde vnto Iesse: are here all thy children? He sayde: there is yet a litle one behynde that kepeth the shepe. And Samuel sayde vnto Iesse: sende and fet hym, for we will not yet downe, tyll he be come hyther. And he sent, and brought hym in. And he was brown and of an excellent beauty, and welfauoured in syght. And the Lorde sayde: Aryse, and anoynt hym, for this is he. Therefore Samuel toke the horne with the ointment, and anoynted hym in the midder of his brethren. And the spirite of the Lorde came vpon Dauid from that daye forewarde. And Samuel rose vp, and went to Rama. But the spirit of the Lorde departed from Saul, and an euell spirite sent of the Lord vexed hym. And Saules seruauntes sayde vnto hym: Behold, an euell spirite sent from God vexeth the, let our Lorde therfore commaunde his seruauntes (that are before the) to seke a man, that is a conning player with an harpe: that when the euell spirite sent of God commeth vpon the, he may playe with his hande, and thou shalt be eased. Saul sayde vnto his seruauntes: prouide me a man then that can playe well, & bring him to me. Then answered one of his seruauntes, and sayde: Behold, I haue sene a sonne of Iesse a Bethlehemite, that can playe vpon instrumentes, and is an actiue felowe, & a man of warre and prudent in tonge of feates and well made, and the Lorde is with hym. Wherfore Saul sent messangers vnto Iesse, and sayde: sende me Dauid thy sonne, which is with the shepe. And Iesse toke an asse laden with breade, a bottell of wyne, and a kyd, and sent them by Dauid his sonne vnto Saul. And Dauid came to Saul, and stode before hym, and he loued him very well, and he was made his harnesbearer. And Saul sent to Iesse, saying: let Dauid remayne with me, for he hath found fauoure in my sight. And it came to passe, that when the euell spirite sent of God came vpon Saul, Dauid toke an harp and played with his hande, and so Saul was releued, and was amended, and the euell spirite departed from hym.

The. xvii. Chapiter.

The Philistines gathered their hoste to gether, and came to gether to Soccoth which is in Iuda, and pitched betwene zeth and Ekkah, in the coast of Dammim. And Saul and the men of Israel came together, and pitched in the vale valley, and put them selues in a raye to fyght against the Philistines. And the Philistines stode on an hyll on the one syde, and Israel stode on an hyll on the other syde, and there was a valley betweene them. And there came a man betweene them both out of the tentes of the Philistines, named Goliah* of Gath, vj. cubytes & an handebredeth long, and had an helmet of braste vpon his head and a cote of mayle about him. And the weight of his cote of mail was fyue thousand syckles of braste. And he had bootes of braste vpon his leggres, and a shild of braste vpon his shoulders. And the staff of his speare was lyke a weauers beame. And his speare head weyed six hundred syckles of yron. And one bearyng a shilde went before him. And he stode & cried against the hoast of Israel, and sayd vnto them, Wherfore are ye come out in a raye to battayle? am not I a Philistine and you seruauntes to Saul? chose you a man from among you, and let him come downe to me. And if he be able to fyght with me, and to beate me: then wyl we be your seruauntes. But if I can ouercome hym and beate hym: then shall ye be our seruauntes, and serue vs. And the Philistine sayde: I defy the hoast of Israel this daye, geue me a man that we maye fyght together. When Saul and all Israel heard those wordes of the Philistine they were discouraged, and greatly afrayed. Dauid was the sonne of an Ephrathite, of whom mention is made afore, of Bethlehem Juda, named Isai which he had eyght sonnes. And was an olde man in the dayes of Saul, and came to age among men. And the three eldest sonnes of Isai went, and followed Saul to the battayl. And the names of his three sonnes that went to battayll were: Eliab the eldest, and the next Abinadab, and the third Samma. And Dauid was the least. And the three eldest went after Saul. Dauid also went, and returned from Saul to feede his fathers shepe at Bethlehem. And the Philistine came forth in the mornyng, and euenyng, and continued fourty dayes. And Isai sayd vnto Dauid his sonne: take for thy brethren an Epha of this parched corne, and these ten loues, and bring it vnto the host to thy brethren. And cary these ten cheses vnto the capitayne: and loke how thy brethren fare, & fet out their pledge. Now Saul and they, and all the men of Israel were in the vale valley, fyghtyng with the Philistines. And Dauid rose vp early in the mornyng, and left the shepe with a kepar, and toke and went as Isai had commaunded hym, and came within the compasse of the hoast. And the hoast went out in a raye, and mounted to the battayle: for Israel and the Philistines set them selues in a raye, the one against the other. And Dauid put downe his gere from hym, and put them vnder the handes of the kepar of the barrelles, and ran into the hoast, and came and saluted his brethren. And as he talked with them: Beholde, there rose a man (in the middes) Goliah the Philistine by name of Gath, out of the araye of the Philistines, & spake on the maner afore rehersed, that Dauid heard it. And all the men of Israel, when they saw the man, ran away from hym, and were sore afrayed. And euery man of Israel sayd: Sawe ye this man come forth? for to reuile Israel is he come. And to hym that beateth hym wyll the kyng geue great ryches, and wyl geue hym his daughter therto, yea and make his fathers house free in Israel. And Dauid spake to the men that stode by, and sayde: What shalbe done to the man that beateth this Philistine, and taketh away the shame from Israel? for what is this vncircumcised Philistine, that he shold reuyle the hoast of the lyuyng God? And the people answered him after this maner, sayng: so shall it be done to the man, that beateth him. And Eliab his eldest brother heard when he spake vnto the men, and Eliab was angry with Dauid, and sayde: why camest thou downe hither? and with whom hast thou left those fewe shepe in the wylderneße? I know thy pryde and the malice of thine hart, that thou art come downe to se the battayle. And Dauid sayde: And what haue I nowe done? is there not a worde? And he departed from hym into the presence of an other, and spake of the same maner, & the people answered hym agayn as before. And they that herd the wordes which Dauid spake, repeated them before Saul, which he caused hym to here. And Dauid sayde to Saul: Let no mans hart fayle hym because of hym. Thy seruaunt wyll go, and fyght with yonder Philistine. And Saul sayde to Dauid agayne: thou art not able to go against yonder Philistine to fyght with hym. For thou art but a chylde, but he is a man of warr, euen from his youth. Dauid answered vnto Saul: Thy seruaunt kept his fathers shepe, & there came a lyon, and lykewyse a beare, and toke a shepe out of the flocke. And I went out after him & smote hym, and toke it out of his mouth. And when he arose against me, I caught hym by the beerde, and smote hym and slue hym. And thy seruaunt slue the lyon, and the beare (also) hath thy seruaunt slayne. And seyng this vncircumcised Philistine shalbe as one of them, I owe will I go and take away the rebuke of the people, for what is this vncircumcised Philistine? seyng he hath rayled on the hoast of the lyuyng God. And Dauid spake moreouer: the Lorde that deliuered me out of the handes of the lyon, and out of the handes of the beare, he will deliuer me also out of the lyfe of the Philistine, and Saul gaue vnto Dauid the[m] and the Lorde shalbe with the. And Saul put his armour vpon Dauid, & put an helmet of braſſe vpon his heade, & put a rose of mayle vpon hym, and girded Dauid with his ſwoorde vpon his armour. And he assayed to go. And because he neuer proued it, Dauid said vnto Saul: I cannot go with these, for I haue not vsed my selfe therto. And Dauid put them of hym, and toke his staffe in his hande, and chose hym fyue ſmothe ſtones out of a broke, & put the in a shepeherdes bag which he had, and in a ſlynge poke: and his ſlynge was in his hande, and he went to the Philistine. And the Philistine came and drue nere against Dauid, & the man that bare the shylde went before hym. And when the Philistine loked about and saw Dauid, he disdayned him, for he was but young, and well coloured, and goodly to loke vpon. And the Philistine sayde vnto Dauid: am I dog, that thou commest to me with a staffe? And the Philistine cursed Dauid in the name of his goddes. And the Philistine sayd to Dauid: come to me, and I wil geue thy flesh vnto the foules of the ayre, and to the beastes of the fielde. Then sayde Dauid to the Philistine: thou commest to me with a ſwoorde, a ſpeare and a shylde: But I come to the in the name of the Lorde of hoastes, the God of the hoste of Israel, whom thou hast railed vpon. This daye shall the Lorde deliuer the into my hande, and I shall smyte the, and take thyne head fro the, and will geue the carkasses of the hoast of the Philistines this daye vnto the foules of the ayre, and to the beastes of the yearth, that all they whiche be in the worlde maye knowe that there is a God in Israel. And all this congregation shall knowe that the Lorde saueth not with ſwoorde & ſpeare. For the battaile is the Lordes, & he shall geue you into our handes. And when the Philistine arose to come & drawe nie vnto Dauid, Dauid hasted and ran into the battaile ouer against the Philistine. And Dauid put his hand in his bag, and toke out a stone, and slange it & smote the Philistine in his forehead, that the stone sonke into his forehead, & he fell groueling to the yearth. And so Dauid ouercame the Philistine with a slyng and a stone, & smote the Philistine and slue him, euen when Dau-id had no ſwoorde in his hande. But Dauid ran, and stode vpon the Philistine, and toke his ſwoorde and drue it out of his sheth, and slue hym, and cut of his head therwith. And when the Philistines ſawe that their champion was dead, they fled. And the men of Israhel & Iudah arose, and shouted, and followed after the Philistines, vntyl they came to the valley, and vnto the gates of Akaron. And the Philistines fell downe wounded by the waye to Shaaraim, euen vnto Gath and Akaron.

And the children of Israel returned fro chasing after the Philistines, and spoyled their tentes. And Dauid toke the head of the Philistine, and brought it to Ierusalem. But he put his armour in his tent. When Saul saw Dauid go forth against the Philistine, he sayd vnto Abner the captayne of his hoast: i. Reg. xiiii.
Abner, whose sonne is this young man? Abner answered: as truely as thy soule liueth, (O king) I cannot tel. And the king sayd: enquire thou whose sonne the youngling is. And when Dauid was returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner toke hym, and brought him before Saul, with the head of the Philistine in his hand. And Saul sayd to him: whose sonne art thou, thou yong man?
Dauid answered: I am the sonne of thi ser-uaunt Iesse the Bethlehemite.

The. xviii. Chapiter.

AND when he had made an ende of speaking The. xviii. hea vnto Saul, the soule of Ionathas was ding Matthias, knit with the soule of Dauid, and Ionathas B. loued hym as his owne soule. And Saul toke hym that daye, and would let him go no more home to his fathers house. And Ionathas made a couenaunt with Dauid, because he loued him as his owne soule. And Ionathas put of his owne coat that was vpon him and gaue it Dauid, and therto his clothe, his ſwoorde, his bowe and his girdle. And Da-uid went out whether soeuer Saul sent hym, and behaued hymselfe wiſely. And Saul set him ouer his men of warre, & he was accepted in the ſyght of all the people: and in the ſight of Saules seruauntes. And it happened B. as they went, when Dauid was returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, the women came out of all cities of Israel, singing & daunsing against king Saul, with tymbrels, with ioye, & with instrumentes of muſycke. And the women aunſwered one another in their playe, and sayde: Saul hath slayne i. Reg. xviii. his thousand, & Dauid his ten thousand. And and. xxi. k.
Saul was exceedyng wroth, and the ſaying displeased hym, and he sayd: they haue ascribed vnto Dauid x. M. & to me but a thousand & what can he more haue, saue the kyngdome?
Wherefore Saul loked an yuel on Dauid fro that daye forewarde. And it happened on the C. morowe, that the euill spirite sent of God came vpon Saul, & he prophecied in the middest of the house. And Dauid plaied with his hande like as at other times, and there was a launce in Saules hande. And Saul toke the launce, and sayd: I will nayle Dauid to the wall with it. But Dauid auoyded out of his presence ii. times. And Saul was afraid of Dauid, because the lorde was with him, & was departed from Saul. Wherefore Saul put him fro him, & made him a captayn ouer a M. and he went out and in before the peo- M. ple. And Dauid behaued himselfe wiſely in all hys wyues, & the Lorde was with him. Wherfore when Saul sawe that he was so exceedyng wyse, he was afrayd of hym. But all Israel and Iuda loued Dauid, because he went out & in before them. And Saul saide to Dauid: Behold, my eldest doughter Merob, her I will geue the to wife. Only play the the man with me, & fight the lordes battayles. For Saul thought: mine hand shall not be vpon him, but the hand of the Philistines. And Dauid answered Saul: what am I? or what is my life, or the kinred of my father in Israel, that I should be sonne in lawe to the kyng? Now be it whē the time was come that Merob Saules doughter should haue bene geuen to Dauid, she was geuen vnto Adriel a Meholathite, to wyfe. Howebeit, Michol Saules doughter loued Dauid. And they shewed Saul, and the thyng displeased hym not. And Saul saide I will geue him her that she may be a snare to him, & that the hād of the Philistines may be against hym. Wherfore Saul saide to Dauid: thou shalt this day be my sonne in law in the other doughter. And Saul cōmaūded his seruauntes to cōmen with Dauid secretly, & to say: Behold, the kyng hath a fauour to the, and all his seruauntes loue the, be now therfore the kynges sonne in lawe. And Saules seruauntes spake these wordes in the eares of Dauid. And Dauid sayde, semeth it to you a lyghte thyng to be a kynges sonne in lawe. I am a poore man & of smal reputatiō. And the seruauntes brought Saul worde again, saying: of this maner spake Dauid. And Saul sayde: this wyse shall ye saye to Dauid: the kyng desireth no other dowry, but cc. an hundred foreskinnes of the Philistines, to be auenged of the kynges enemies. But Saul thought to make Dauid fal into the hādes of the Philistines. And when his seruauntes tolde Dauid these wordes it pleased Dauid well, to be the kynges sonne in lawe. And or the dayes were expired, Dauid arose with his men, & went & slew of the Philistines. ii C. men, and Dauid brought their foreskins, and ratified the king therof, to be his sonne in lawe. Wherfore Saul gaue him Michol his doughter to wyfe. And Saul sawe & vnderstode how that the Lorde was with Dauid, & that Michol his doughter loued hym, and he was the more afrayed of Dauid, and Saul became alwaye Dauids enemy. The Lordes of the Philistines vsed to go forth. And it fortuned, that when they went forth Dauid behaued hymselfe wyselyer then all the seruauntes of Saul: so that hys name was muche set by.

The. xix. Chapiter.

And Saul spake to Ionathas his sonne, and to all his seruauntes, that they shoulde kyll Dauid. But Ionathas Saules sonne had a great fauour to Dauid, and Ionathas tolde Dauid, saying: Saul my father goeth about to slay the. Now therfore take hede to the selfe vntill the morowning, & abide in some secrete place, & hyde thy selfe. And I will go out & stande by my father in the field where thou art, & wil commune with my father of the, and what soeuer I se, I wil tell the. And Ionathas spake good of Dauid vnto Saul his father, & sayd vnto hym, let not the kyng syn against his seruaunt Dauid, for he hath not sinned against the, & his workes haue ben to the ward very good. For he did put his lyfe in his hande, & slue the Philistine, & the lord brought to passe a great health for al Israel. Thou sawest it, & thou reioycedest: wherfore then wilt thou sinne against innocent blood, and slaye Dauid without a cause? And Saul herkened vnto the voyce of Ionathas, and sware: as truely as the Lorde liueth, he shal not dye. And Ionathas called Dauid, & shewed hym all these wordes, and brought Dauid to Saul, and he was in his presence as in tymes past. And the warre began again, & Dauid went out and fought with the Philistines, and slue them with a great slaughter, and they fled from hym. And the euell spirite sent from the Lorde was vpon Saul as he sat in his house hauing a iauelyn in his hand and Dauid played with his hande. And Saul entended to nayle Dauid to the wal with the iauelyn. But he ryd himselfe out of Saules presence, as he smote the speare with a vayn stroke into the wall. And Dauid fled, & was saued the same nyght. Saul also sent messengers vnto Dauids house, to watche hym, and to slaye hym in the morowning. And Michol Dauids wife told it him, saying: if thou saue not thyselfe this nyght, to morowe thou wilt be slayne. And co Michol let Dauid downe thorowe a wyndowe, and he went and fled, & was saued. And then she toke an ymage and layed it in the bed, & put a pyllowe full with goates heere vnder the head of it, and couered it with a cloth. And when Saul sent messengers to fetche Dauid, she sayd he is sicke. And Saul sent the messengers agayne to se Dauid, saying: bryng hym to me, bed and all, that I maye slaye hym. And when the messengers were come in: Behold, there laye an ymage in the bed, with a pyllowe of goates heere vnder the head of it. And Saul said vnto Michol: why hast thou mocked me so, and sent awaye myne enemy, that he is escaped? Michol answered Saul: for he sayde vnto me: let me go, or els I wyll kyll the. And so Dauid fled, and escaped, and came to Samuel to Rama, and tolde hym all that Saul had done to hym. And he and Samuel went and dwelt in Naioth. And one tolde Saul, saying: Behold, Dauid is at Naioth in Rama. And Saul sent messengers to fet Dauid. And when they saw a company of prophetes prophecying, and Samuel standyng vpt by them, the spirite of God set vpō the messengers of Saul, & they prophecied. And when it was told Saul, he sent other messengers, and they prophecied likewyse. And Saul sent messengers yet agayne the third tyme, and they prophecied also. Then went he hymselfe to Rama, & came to a great well that is in Sechu, and he asked and sayd: where are Samuel and Dauid? And one said: behold, they be at Naioth in Rama, and he went thether, euen to Naioth in Rama, and the spirite of God came vpon hym also, and he went prophecying vntyll he came to Naioth in Rama. And he stripte of his clothes, and prophecied before Samuel like wise, & fell naked all that daye, and all that nyght. Wherefore it is, that they saye: Is Saul also among the prophetes?

The. xx. Chapiter.

AND Dauid fled from Naioth beyonde in Rama, and came and sayde before Jonathas: what haue I done? wherin am I faultie? what is the cause that I haue committed before thy father, that he seketh my life? He sayde vnto hym: God forbyd, thou shalt not die. Beholde, my father will do nothyng either great or small, but that he wyll shewe it me. And howe should my father hyde this thyng from me? He wyll not do it. And Dauid made answere and sayde: thy father knoweth that I haue founde grace in thyne eyes, and therefore he sayeth: Jonathas shall not knowe it, least he be sory. And in very deede, euen as truely as the Lorde liueth, and as truely as thy soule liueth, there is but a step betwene me and death. Then sayde Jonathas vnto Dauid: whatsoeuer thy soule desireth, that I wyll do vnto the. And Dauid sayde vnto Jonathas: Behold, to morowe is the beginnyng of the moneth, and I should sit with the kyng at meate. But let me go that I may hyde myself in the fieldes vnto the third daye at euen. If thy father speake of me, then saye: Dauid asked leaue of me, that he might go to Bethlehem his owne cytie, for there is holden a yerely feaste for all the kynred. And if he sayeth: it is well done, then thy seruaunt shall haue peace. But and if he be angry then be sure, that wickednesse is vtterly concluded of hym. And then thou shalt shewe mercy vnto thi seruaunt, for thou hast made with me thy seruaūt a bonde in the lorde. Notwithstandyng, if there be in me any trespasse then slaye me thy selfe, and bryng me not to thy father. And Jonathas answered: God kepe that from the, for assuredly if it were full concluded of my father to come vpon the: thynkest thou, that I should not tell it the? Then sayde Dauid: who shall tell me, if thy father answere cruelly? And Jonathas sayde vnto Dauid, come, and let vs go out into the fielde. And then went out both of them into the fielde. And Jonathas sayde vnto Dauid: the Lorde God of Israel loke on it, when I haue groped my fathers mynde, one tyme or other within this three dayes, & if I finde well with Dauid, & I then sende not vnto the and shewe it the, the Lorde do so, and so, vnto Jonathas. But if my father haue any pleasure to do the euel, I will shewe the also, and sende the away that thou mayest go in peace. And the Lorde be with the as he hath bene with my father. And thou shalt performe vnto me the mercy of the Lorde, not only whyle I liue, but euen when I am dead, and pluckе not thy mercy away fro my house for euer: No, not whē the Lorde hath destroyed the enemies of Dauid, euery one from the face of the earth. And so Jonathas made a bonde with the house of Dauid, desyryng that the Lorde should seke it out by the hādes of Dauids enemies. (If it were broken.) And with other wordes dyd Jonathas sweare vnto Dauid, because he loued hym. For he loued hym as his owne soule. Then sayde Jonathas to Dauid: to morowe is the firste daye of the moone. And thou shalt be myssed, because the place where thou wast wont to sytt shalbe empty. Therefore this daye three dayes, come do warn any wyfe vnto the place where thou diddest hyde thy selfe, whē the busines was in hande: euen by the stone Ezel: And I wyll shoote three arrowes by the one syde therof, as though I shot them at a marke, and wyll sende a lad, and bydd hym go seke the arrowes. And if I saye vnto the lad: se, the arrowes are on this syde the: bryng them then come thou, for it is peace & no hurt, as sure as the Lorde liueth. But and if I saye vnto the lad: behold, the arrowes are beyonde the, then go thy way in peace: for the Lorde hath sent the away. And as touchyng that whiche thou and I haue spoken: behold, the Lorde be betwene the and me for euer. And so Dauid hyd himselfe in the fielde. And when the newe moone was come, the kyng sat hym downe to eate meate. And the kyng sat hym downe after the olde maner, in his seate by the walle. And Jonathas arose, and Abner sat by Saules syde, & Dauids place was empty. Neuertheles, Saul sayde nothyng at all that day. For he thought: some thyng hath chaunced hym, that he is not clene. But on the morowe whyche was the seconde daye of the newe moone, it happened, that Dauids place was empty agayne. Then Saul sayde vnto Jonathas his sonne: Wherefore cometh not that sonne of Isai to meate, neither yesterdaye nor to daye? And Jonathas answered vnto Saul: Dauid asked licence of me to go to Bethlehem, for he said: let me go, I praye the, for our kynred holdeth a sakyng in the title, and my brother hath tolde me. And therefore yf I haue founde fauoure in thyne eyen: let me go, and se my brethren. This is the cause that he commeth not vnto the kynges table. Then was Saul angrye with Jonathas, and sayde vnto hym: Thou wicked rebel, do not I knowe, that thou haste chosen the sonne of Jesai vnto thyne owne rebuke, and vnto the rebuke and shame of thy mother? For as long as the sonne of Jesai liueth vpon the yearth, thou shalt not be stablished, nor yet thy kyngdom. Wherefore nowe sende and fetche him vnto me: for he is the childe of death. And Jonathas answered vnto Saul his father, and sayde vnto hym: Wherefore should he dye? what hath he done? Then Saul lifte vp a speare to thrust hym: whereby Jonathas vnderstode well that it was vtterly determined of his father to haue Dauid slayne. And so Jonathas arose from the table in a great angre, and dyd eate no meate the seconde daye of the moneth, for he was sorye for Dauid, because his father had done him shame.

On the nexte morninge Jonathas remembred vnto the fielde, at the tyme appointed with Dauid, and a lytle lad with hym. And he sayde vnto his boye runne, and fetche me the arowes which I shote: and as the boy ranne he shot an arrowe beyonde hym. And when the lad was come to the place whether Jonathas had shotte the arrowe, Jonathas cried after the lad, and sayde: Is not the arrowe beyonde the? And Jonathas cryed after the lad agayne, make spede, and tarde not. And Jonathas lad gathered vp the arrowes, and came to his maister. But the lad wist nothinge of the matter. Onely Jonathas and Dauid wyst it. And Jonathas gaue hys weapon vnto the lad that was with hym, and sayde vnto hym: go and carry them to the towne. And assone as the lad was gone, Dauid arose out of a place that was towarde the south, and fell on his face to the ground and worshipped thryse: and they kyssed eyther other, and wept together, longe, yet Dauid excedinge sore. And Jonathas sayde vnto Dauid: go in peace. And the tyrannes whyche we haue sworne both of vs in the name of the Lorde sayinge: the Lorde be betwene me and the, and betwene thy seed and myne, for euer more. And he arose and departed. And Jonathas went into the towne.

The xxi. Chapter.

Then came Dauid vnto Achimeleth the preest. And Achimeleth was abashed at the tokayne comminge of Dauid, and sayde vnto hym: Why art thou alone? and no man with the? And Dauid sayde to Achimeleth the preest, the kyng hath commanded me to do a certayne thynge, and hath sayde vnto me: Let no man knowe where about I sende the, and what I haue commanded the to do. And I haue appointed my seruauntes to such and such places. Nowe therefore, yf thou haue any thinge vnder thyne hande, geue me fyue loues of breed, or what soeuer it be, hold me styll and lette me haue them. And the preest answered Dauid, and sayde: I haue no common breed vnder myne hande, but here is halowed breed, yf the yonge men haue kept themselues fro the vncleane thinges, especially women. Dauid answered the preest and sayde vnto hym: of a truthe women hath bene locked vp fro vs about these .iii. dayes when I came out, and the vessels of the yonge men were holy. Howebeit, this maye is vnpure, and howe much more shall there be holynesse in the vessell? And the preest gaue hym halowed breed, for there was none other breed there but the shewbreades that were taken from before the Lorde, to put fresshe breed there, the same daye it was taken away. And there was there the same daye a certayne man of the seruauntes of Saul abydynge before the Lorde, named Doeg an Edomite, the chefe of Saules heerdmen. And Dauid sayde vnto Achimeleth: is not here vnder thyne hande eyther speare or swearde, for I haue neyther brought my swearde nor my harnesse with me, because the kynges busynesse requyred haste. And the preest sayde: the swearde of Goliath the Philistine whom thou slewest in the valley of Elah, beholde, it is yonder wrapt in a cloth behynde the Ephod. If thou wylt take that, take it: for there is none other saue that here. And Dauid sayde: there is none to lyke, geue it me. And Dauid arose and fledde that same daye from the presence of Saul, and went to Achis the kynge of Geth. And the seruauntes of Achis sayde vnto hym: is not this Dauid the kynge of the lande? dyd they not synge vnto hym by turnes, sayinge: Saul hath slayne hys thousande, and Dauid his ten thousande? And Dauid put those wordes into his harte, and was sore afrayed of Achis the kynge of Geth. And he chaunged his facion before them, and fayned himselfe madde in their handes, and rambled on the doores of the gate, and let his spettle fall downe vpon his beerde. Then sayde Achis vnto his seruauntes: Lo, ye se that the man is madde, wherefore then haue ye brought hym to me? Haue I nede of mad men, that ye haue brought this folome to playe the madde man in my presence? Shall he come into my house?

The xxii. Chapter.

Dauid therefore departed thence, and escaped, and came vnto the caue Odollam. When his brethren also and all his fathers house herde it, they went downe thyther to hym. And there gathered vnto hym all men that were in combraunce, and dett, and troubled in their myndes, and he became a capitayne ouer them. And there were with hym vpon xxx. hundreth men, and Dauid went thence to Achis the kynge of Geth. And they tolde Achis and the messengers of Saul to the vttermost. Then Achis sayde vnto Dauid, I vnderstande that God will be to me mercyfull, therfore bethynke the kynge of Dauid. And they dwelt with hym all the while that Dauid was in holde. And the Prophet God sayde vnto Dauid, Abyde not in holde, but departe and go into the lande of Iuda. Then Dauid departed and came into the coaste of Hareth. And Saul hearde that Dauid was come abrode, and also the men that were with hym. And Saul satte in Giba vnder a tree in Rama, hauing hys speare in hys hande, and all hys men stode about hym. And Saul sayde vnto hys seruauntes that stode about hym. Heare I praye you, ye sonnes of Beniamin, will the sonne of Iesse gene euery one of you fieldes and vineyardes, and make you all capitaynes ouer thousandes, and ouer hundredes? that ye haue also conspired agaynst me, and there is none that telleth it me in myne eare. f. Mc. xbiii. a. and. ff. d. And where as my sonne hath made a bonde with the sonne of Isay, there is none of you that mourneth on me, or declareth it in myne eare. Beholde, my sonne hath stered vp my seruaunt to lye a wayte agaynst me, as yonge dayes. Then answered Doeg the Edomite which also stode by the seruauntes of Saul, and sayde, I sawe the sonne of Isai, when he came vnto Nob, to Ahimelech the sonne of Ahitob, where he asked counsayle of the Lorde for hym, and gaue hym vitayles, and the sworde of Goliah the Philistine also. Then the kynge sente and called for Ahimelech the priest the sonne of Ahitob, and all hys fathers house, that were priestes in Nob. And euery one of the kynges seruauntes stode before hym. Then Saul sayde vnto hym, Heare me thou sonne of Ahitob. He answered, Here I am my lorde. Then Saul sayde vnto hym, Why haue ye conspired agaynst me, thou and the sonne of Isai, in that thou hast geuen hym wayne, & swerdes, and hast asked counsayle of God for hym, that he should arise and lye in wayte for me, as yonge dayes? Ahimelech answered the kynge, and sayde, Who is so faythfull amongest all thy seruauntes as Dauid, and there is the kynges sonne in law, and goeth at thy biddyng, and is honest in thyne house, hath I this daye first begonne to aske counsayle of God for hym? That be far fro me. I pray you let not the kynge put ought vnto his seruaunt, in all the house of my father. For thy seruaunt knewe nothing of all this, either little or more. The kynge sayde, thou shalt surely dye Ahimelech, thou, and all thy fathers house. And the kynge sayde vnto the foote men that stode about hym: Tourne, and slaye the priestes of the Lorde, because their hand is with Dauid, and because they knewe when he fledde, and haue not shewed it vnto me. But the seruauntes of the kynge would not moue their handes to fall vpon the priestes of the Lorde. And the kynge sayde vnto Doeg, Tourne thou, and fall vpon the priestes. Then Doeg the Edomite tourned, and fell vpon the priestes, and slewe that same daye foure score and xv. persones that did weare a lynnen Ephod. And smote the citie of the priestes smote he with the edge of the swerde, both men and women, children and sucheynges, oxen, asses and sheepe, and one of the sonnes of Ahimelech the sonne of Ahitob (named Abiathar) escaped and fled vnto Dauid. And Abiathar shewed Dauid, howe that Saul had slayne the Lordes priestes. And Dauid sayde vnto Abiathar, I wist the same daye when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would tell Saul. And I am cause of the death of all the soules of thy fathers house. Abyde thou with me and feare not. For he that seketh my soule, he shall seke thy soule also, with me thou shalt be in safegarde.

The first Chapiter.

Dauid was tolde vnto the kynge, Beholde, the Philistines fyght agaynst Keilah, and spoyle the barnes. Then Dauid asked the Lorde aduise, saying: Shall I goe and smyte these Philistines? And the Lorde answered vnto Dauid: go and smyte the Philistines, and saue Keilah. And Dauids men that were with hym, sayde vnto hym: Se we be afrayde here in Iuda. How muche more then if we come to Keilah against the hoste of the Philistines? Then Dauid asked the Lorde agayne. And the Lorde answered hym and sayde: Aryse, and go downe to Keilah, for I will deliuer the Philistines into thyne handes. And so Dauid and hys men went to Keilah, and fought with the Philistines, and droue away their cattell, and smote them with a great slaughter. And so Dauid saued the inhabitauns of Keilah. And it chaunced when Abiathar the sonne of Ahimelech fled to Dauid to Keilah, that he brought an Ephod with hym in his hande. Quentyn. A. i. Mc. xi. ind. ff.

And it was tolde Saul that Dauid was come to Keila. And Saule sayde, God hath deliuered hym into myne handes, for he is shut in, sith that he is come into a towne that hath gates and barres. And Saul called the people altogether to warre, for to goe downe to Keila, and to besege Dauid and hys men. And Dauid knewe that Saul imagined mischefe agaynst him, and sayde to Abiathar the priest: Bryng the Ephod. Then sayde Dauid: O Lorde God of Israel, thy seruaunt hath herde, that Saul is about to come against Keila, to destroye the citie for my sake: will the men of Keila yelde me vnto his hande? And will Saul come, B. C. D. i. Mc. xxx. b.

come beinge as thy seruaunt hath heard say? O Lorde God of Israel, tell thy seruaunt. And the Lorde sayde: he will come downe. Then sayde Dauid, will the men of Keila deliuer me and the men that are with me into the hande of Saul? And the Lorde sayde: they will betraye you. Then Dauid and his men whyche were vppon a sixe hundred arose, and departed out of Keila, and went whether they coulde. And it was tolde Saul that Dauid was fled from Keila, and he let the iourney alone. Dauid abode in the wyldernesse in strong holdes, and remayned in a mountayne in the wyldernesse of Ziph. And Saul sought hym euery daye, but God delyuered hym not into hys hande. And Dauid sawe that Saul was come out to seke hys life. And Dauid was in the wyldernesse of Ziph in a thycket. And Jonathan Saules sonne arose and went to Dauid into the thicket, and comforted hys hande in God, and sayd vnto hym: feare not, for the hande of Saul my father shall not fynde the, and thou shalt be kyng ouer Israel, and I must be next vnto the. And that doth Saul my father knowe. And they made a bonde both of them together before the Lorde. And Dauid tarryed styll in the thicket, and Jonathan went to his house. Then came the Ziphites to Saul to Gibea, saying: doth not Dauid hyde himselfe by vs in strong holdes in a thicket that is by the hyll of Hachila, on the ryght syde of the wildernesse? Now therefore kyng, thou mayest come downe accordyng to all the luste of thy soule: come downe, and our part shalbe to deliuer hym into the kynges hande. And Saul sayde: blessed are ye in the Lorde: for ye haue compassion on me. Go I praye you, and order the matter well, knowe and se hys haunt, where his fote hath ben, and who hath sene hym there, for it is tolde me that he is very subtyle, and worketh craftely. Se therefore, and knowe all the lurkyng places where he hydeth himselfe, and come ye agayn to me with the certaintie, and I will go with you. And if he be in the land, I will serche him out thorowout all the thousandes of Iuda. And they arose and went to Ziph before Saul. But Dauid and his men were in the wilderneſs of Maon, in the playne that is on the ryght hand of Jesimon. Saul also and his men went to seke and they told Dauid. Wherefore he went vnto a rocke, and abode in the wilderneſſe of Maon. And when Saul heard that, he followed after Dauid in the wilderneſſe of Maon. And Saul and his men went on the one syde of the mountayne, and Dauid and his men on the other syde. And Dauid sore thought how to get from Saul. For Saul and his men compassed Dauid and his men rounde about, to take them. But there came a messenger to Saul saying: haste the, and come, for the Philistines are come into the land. Wherefore Saul returned from persecuting Dauid, and went against the Philistines. And therefore men call that place: the rocke of deuision. And Dauid went thence, and dwelt in strong holdes at Engaddi.

The. xx. daye. Setting.

AND when Saul was come again from folowyng after the Philistines, it returned that there were whych tolde him, saying: behold, Dauid is in the wildernesse of Engaddi. Then Saul tooke thre thousande chosen men out of all Israel, and went to seke Dauid and his men in the hyghe of the rockes, where wilde goates remayne. And he came to the sheepe cotes in the way. And Saul went into a caue to couer his fete. And Dauid and his men remained in the inward partes of the caue. And the men of Dauid sayde vnto hym: se the daye is come, of whyche the Lorde sayde vnto the: Beholde, I will delyuer thyne enemies into thyne hand, and thou shalt do to them as it shall seme good in thy syght. Then Dauid arose and cut of a lappe of Saules garment priuely. And immediatly Dauids herte smote hym, because he had cut of a lappe of Saules garment. And he sayde vnto his men: The Lorde kepe me from doyng that thynge vnto my maister the Lordes anoynted, to laye myne hande vpon hym, seyng he is the anoynted of the Lorde. For as truely as the Lorde liueth, excepte the Lorde smyte hym, or his dye daye come, or he go not downe to warre and perysshe: the Lorde be mercyfull vnto me, that I laye not myne hande vpon the Lordes anoynted. And so Dauid kept of his seruauntes with these wordes, and suffered them not to arise against Saule. But Saul rose vp out of the caue and went awaye. Dauid also arose, and went out of the caue, and cryed after Saul seyng: My Lorde kyng. And whē Saul looked behynde hym: Dauid coupeth to the yearth, and bowed himselfe, and sayde to Saul: wherefore geuest thou an eare to mens wordes that saye: Dauid seketh euell against the? Beholde, this daye thyne eyes hath sene, howe that the Lorde hath deliuered the this day into myne hande in the caue. And some bad me kyll the, but I had compassion on the, and sayde: I will not laye myne hande on my maister, for he is the Lordes anoynted. And moreouer my father: behold, se, yet the lappe of thy garment in my hande, in as much as I kylled the not, when I cut of the lap of thy garment. Vnderstande then and se, that there is neither euell nor wickednesse in me, and that I haue not synned against the. And yet thou huntest after my soule to take it. The Lorde iudge betwene thee and me, and the Lorde auenge me of the. But myne hande be not vpon the. As vnto the

as the olde prouerbe techeth: wyckednesse proceadeth from the wycked. But myne hande be not vpon the. Onely whome is the kyng of Israel come after? After whome doest thou make pursuyte? after a dead dogge, and after a flee? The Lorde be Iudge, and Iuge betwene the and me, and se, and pleade my cause, and auenge me of thyne hande. When Dauid had made an ende of speakyng these wordes to Saul, Saul sayde: "Is this thy voyce my sonne Dauid?" And Saul lyft vp 1. Reyse. xxvi. his voyce, and wepte, and sayde to Dauid: thou art righteouster then I, for thou hast rewarded me with good, where as I haue rewarded the with euell. And thou hast shewed thys daye, howe that thou hast dealt louyngly with me, forasmuche as when the Lorde had delyuered me in thyne handes, thou killedst me not. For who shall fynde his enemy, and let him departe vnto a good waye? Wherefore the Lorde reward the with good, for that thou hast done to me this daye. And nowe beholde, I wote well that thou shalt be kynge, and that the kyngdome of Israel shalbe stablyshed in thyne hande. Sweare nowe therefore vnto me by the Lorde that thou shalt not destroye my seede after me, and that thou shalt not put my name out of my fathers house. And Dauid sware vnto Saul: and Saul went home. But Dauid and his men gat them vp vnto an holde.

The. xxv. Chapter.

And* Samuel dyed, and all the Israhe- 1. Reg. xxviii. a lites gathered together, and lamented him, and buried him in his own house at Rama. And Dauid arose, and gat him to the wylderneslle of Pharan. And there was a man in Maon whose possession was in Carmel, and the man was exceadyng mychty, and had three thousand sheepe, and a thousand goates. And he was shearyng his sheepe in Carmil. The name of the man was Nabal, and the name of his wyfe was Abigail, and he was a woman of a singuler wisdome, and beautiful. But the man was churlysh, and of euyll condityons, and was of the kynred of Caleb. And Dauid hearde in the wylderneslle that Nabal dyd shere his sheepe. And Dauid sent out ten yong men, and sayde vnto them: Get you vp to Carmel and go to Nabal, and greete him in my name, and thus shall ye saye: peace be to the, peace be to thy house, and peace be vnto all that thou hast. Beholde, I haue hearde saye, that thou hast shearers. Nowe thy shepeherdes were with vs (in the wylderneslle) and we did them no spite, neither was there ought lacke vnto them all the while they were in Carmel: as many dayes and they were there. Wherefore let these yong men finde fauour in thyne eyes (for we come in a good season) and* geue I pray the, what soeuer cummeth to thyne hande vnto thy seruauntes, and to thy sonne Dauid. And when Dauids yong men came, they tolde Nabal all those wordes in the name of Dauid, and then held their peace. And Nabal answered Dauids seruauntes, and sayde: what is Dauid? and what is the sonne of Isai? there is plenty of seruauntes now a dayes, that breake awaye euery man from his master. Shall I then take my bread, my water and my flesh, that I haue killed for my shearers, and geue it vnto men whom I wote not whence they be? And to Dauids seruauntes turned their waye, and went agayne, and came and tolde him all those thynges. And Dauid sayde vnto his men, gyrde euery man his swearde about him. And they gyrded euery man his swearde about him: and Dauid gyrded with his swearde. And there followed Dauid vpon a foure hundred men, and two hundred abode by the stuffe. But one of the ladees told Abigail Nabals wyfe, sayyng: Beholde, Dauid sent messengers out of the wylderneslle vnto our master to salute him, and he rayled on them. And yet the men are very good vnto vs, and vse vs no displeasure, neyther missed vs any thing all ong as we were conuersant with them, when we were in the fielde. Yea they were a wall vnto vs both by nyght & daye, all the whyle we were with them kepyng sheepe. Nowe therefore take hede, and se what thou hast to do, for there is no ordynary of euell geuen against our master and all his houshold, seyng he is a sonne of Belial that no man can speake to. Then Abigail made haste, and toke two hundred loues, and two bottels of wyne, and fyue sheepe dressed, and fyue measures of parched corne, and an hundred traysles of rey syngers, and two hundred topnettes of figges, and layde them on asses, and sayde vnto her yong men: go ye before me. Behilde, I come after you. But she told her husband Nabal nothyng thereof. And as she rode on her asse, she came priuely downe the eyde of the hil, and behold, Dauid and his men came down against her, and she met them. Dauid sayde: in vayne haue I kept all that this felowe hath in the wylderneslle, so that nought was myssed of all that pertayned vnto him. And he hath quyted me euil for good. So and so do God vnto the enemies of Dauid, if I leue of all that pertayneth to him, by the dawnyng of the daye, any thyng that pysseth against the wall. And when Abigail sawe Dauid, she hasted & lyghted of her asse, and fell before Dauid on her face, & bowed herselfe to the ground, & fell at his feete and sayde: Let this vnhappy deed be done vpon me, my lord, & let thine handmaid speake in thine audience, & heare the wordes of thyne handmaide. Set not my lorde [the kyng] regarde this vncharitty man Nabal: for as his name is, so is he: Nabal is his name, & folly with hym. But I thyne handmayde sawe not the yonge men of my Lorde whom thou sendest. Nowe therfore my Lord, as sure as the Lorde liueth, and as thy soule liueth, the Lord hath withholden the from commyng to shed bloude, and withdrawne thou thyne hand from bloudshed. Nowe I praye God, that thyne enemies and they that intende to do my Lorde euel, may be as Nabal. And nowe this is the blessyng which thyne handmayd hath brought vnto my Lord, and let it be geuen vn to the youngmen, that folowe my Lord. Forgeue the trespasse of thine handmayd, for the Lord wil make my lord a sure house, because my lorde fighteth the battayles of the Lorde and there could none euell be founde in the in all thy dayes. And if any man ryse to persecute the, and to seke thy soule, the soule of my lorde shalbe bounde as in the bondel of the liuing with the Lorde thy God. And the soules of thine enemies shall God cast out, euen as out of the myddle of a sling. And when the Lord shal haue done to my lord all the good that he hath promysed the, & shall haue made the ruler ouer Israel: then shall it be no offence vnto the, nor discountage of hart vnto my lorde, that thou hast not shed bloude causeles, nor auenged thyselfe. But when the Lorde shall haue dealt well with my lorde, then thinke on thine handmayde. And Dauid sayde to Abigail blessed be the Lorde God of Israel, whiche sent the this daye to mete me. Blessed is thy sayyng, and blessed art thou, whiche hast kept me this daye from commyng to shed bloude, and from auengyng my selfe with myne owne hande. For in very dede, as sure as the Lord God of Israel liueth (whiche hath kept me backe from hurtyng the) except thou haddest hasted and met me, there shulde thou there had bene left vnto Nabal by the morowe of the daye, a pysser against the walle. And so Da-uid receyued of her hande that which she had brought hym, and sayd to her: go vp in peace to thyne house. Behalde, I haue hearde thy voyce and haue accepted thy persone. And Abigail came to Nabal, and beholde, he helde a feast in his house, lyke the feast of a kyng: and Nabals harte was very within hym, for he was very dronken. Wherefore she tolde hym nothyng, neyther lesse nor more, vntyll the morowe daye. But in the morowyng when the wyne was goone out of Nabal, his wife tolde hym these wordes, and his hart dyed within hym, and he became as a stone. And vpon a ten daies after the Lorde smote Nabal, that he dyed. And when Dauid hearde that Nabal was dead, he sayde, Blessed be the Lorde that hath iudged the cause of my rebuke of the hande of Nabal, and hath kept his seruaunt from euell, and hath recompensed the wickednesse of Nabal vpon his own head. And Dauid sente to commune with Abigail: to thintent to take her to his wyfe. And when the seruauntes of Dauid were come to Abigail to Carmel, they spake vnto her, sayyng, Dauid sent vs to the, to take the to his wyfe. And she arose, and bowed her selfe on her face to the yearth, and sayde: behold, let thy handmayde be a seruaunt, to washe the fete of the seruauntes of my lorde. And Abigail hasted, and arose, and gather by vpon an asse, with fyue damesels of hers, that went at her fete, and she went after the messengers of Dauid, and became his wyfe. Dauid also toke Thinoam of Jesrael, and they were both his wyues. But Saul gaue * Michol his ii. Re. iii. c. doughter Dauids wyfe, to Phalti the sonne of Lais, whiche was of Gallim.

THe Siphites came vnto Saul to Gibea, The .xxvi. day. Mattins. sayyng: Doeth not Dauid hyde himselfe A. in the hyll of Hachila, which is before Jes-emon? Saul arose, and went downe to the wyldernesse of Ziph, hauyng thre thousande chosen men of Israel with hym for to seke Dauid in the wyldernesse of Ziph. And Saul pyched in the hyll of Hachila, whiche lieth before Jesemon by the wayes syde. But Da-uid dwelt in the wyldernesse. And he sawe that Saul came after hym into the wyldernesse. Dauid therfore sent out spyes, and vn-derstode, that Saul was come in very dede.
And Dauid arose and came to the place where Saul had pitched, and Dauid beheld the place where Saul laye, and Abner the sonne of Ner, whiche was his chefe capi-tayn. Saul lay within, and the people and the hoast round about hym. Then answered Dauid, and spake to Ahimelech the Hethite, and to Abisai the sonne of Zarua and brother to Joab, sayyng: who wyll go downe with me to Saul to the heast? And Abisai sayd I wyl go downe with the. And so Da- B. uid and Abisai came downe to the people by nyght. And beholde, Saul lase slepyng within the hoast, & his speare stacke in the ground at his head. But Abner and the people laye round about hym. Then sayde Abisai to Da-uid. God hath deliuered thyne enemye into thyne hande this daye. Nowe therfore let me smyte hym ones with my speare to the yearth, and I wyll not smyte hym the second tyme. And Dauid sayde to Abisai: destroye hym not. For who can laye his hande on the Lordes anoynted, and be giltelesse? And Da-uid sayde furthermore: As sure as the Lorde liueth: the Lorde shall smyte hym, or his day shall come to dye: or he shal descende into bat tayll, and there perysshe. The Lorde kepe me C. from layyng myne hand vpon the Lordes annoynted. But take thou nowe the speare that is at his head, and the cruse of water and let vs go. And so Dauid toke the speare and the cruse of water fro Sauls head, and they gat them alwaye, and no man salue it, or marke it, or awarde. For they were all a slepe, because the Lorde had cast a dead slepe vpon them. Then Dauid went ouer to the other syde, and stode on the toppe of an hyll a farre of (a great space being betwene them) and Dauid cried to the people, and to Abner the son of Ner, sayng: Hearest thou not Abner? Abner answered, and sayde: What art thou that criest to the kyng? And Dauid sayde to Abner: art not thou a man: and who is lyke the in Israel? Wherefore then hast thou not kept thy Lorde the kyng? For there came one of the folke in to destroye the kyng thy Lorde. It is not good that thou hast done. As truely as the Lorde lyueth, * ye are worthy to dye, 1.Reg.xx.f.

because ye haue not kept your master the Lordes annoynted. And nowe se where the kinges speare is, and the cruse of water that was at his head. And Saul knewe Dauids voyce, and sayde * is this thy voyce my sonne Dauid? and Dauid sayde: it is my voyce, my lorde, O kyng. And he sayde: wherefore doth my lorde thus persecute his seruaunt? For what haue I done? or what euell is in myne hande? Nowe therfore let my lorde the kyng heare the wordes of his seruaunt. If the lord haue stirred the vp against me, let him smell the sauour of a sacrifice. But a if they be the chyldre of men, cursed be they before the lord. For they haue cast me out this daye from abidyng in the enheritaunce of the Lord, sayng: Hence, and go serue other goddes. Now therfore let not my blood fall to the yearth before the face of the Lorde. For the kyng of Israel is come out to hunt a flye, as when one doth hunt a partrithe in the mountaines. Then sayd Saul: I haue sinned: come again my sonne Dauid, for I will do the no more harme, because my soule was precious in thine eyes this daye. Beholde, I haue played the foole, and haue erred exceedingly. And Dauid answered, and sayd: behold, the kynges speare, let one of the young men come out, & fet it. The Lorde rewarde euery man according to his righteousnes and faith: for the Lorde deliuered the into my hande this daye, but I would not lay myne hand vpon the lordes anoynted. And beholde, lyke as thy lyfe was much set by this daye in mine eyes: so be my lyfe set by in the eyes of the Lord, that he deliuer me out of all tribulation. Then Saul sayde to Dauid: Blessed art thou my sonne Dauid, for thou shalt be a doer, and preuaile. And so Dauid went his waye, and Saul turned to his place againe.

The.xxviii. Chapiter.

Euensong. And Dauid sayde in his harte: I shall peryshe one daye or other by the hande of Saul. Therefore is there nothyng better for me, then to flye and saue my selfe in the lande of the Philistines, and Saul shall cease, and seke me no more in all the costes of Israel, and so shall I escape out of his hande. And Dauid arose, and he and the vi. hundred men that were with him went vnto Achis the sonne of Maoch kyng of Geth. And Dauid dwelt with Achis at Geth, both he and his men, euery man with his houshold, and Dauid with his two wyues: Ahinoam the Jezraelite, and Abigail Nabals wyfe of Carmel. And it was tolde Saul that Dauid was fled to Geth, and he sought no more for hym. And Dauid sayde vnto Achis: If I haue nowe founde grace in thy sight, let them geue me a place in some towne in the fieldes, that I maye dwell there. For why should thy seruaunt dwell in the head cittie of the kyngdom with the? Then Achis gaue hym Siklag that same daye, for whiche cause Siklag pertayneth vnto the kynges of Juda vnto this daye. And the tyme that Dauid dwelt in the countrey of the Philistines, was foure monethes and certayne dayes. And Dauid and his men went vp, and raune vpon the Gesurites, the Geezites and the Amalekites: for those nacions were from the beginnyng the enhabitours of the lande, as men go to Sur, vnto the lande of Egypt. And Dauid smote the lande, and left neyther man nor woman aliue, and droue away the shepe, the oxen, the asses, camelles, and clothes, and returned and came to Achis. And Achis sayde: where haue ye bene a rouyng this daye? And Dauid answered: Towarde the south of Juda, and towarde the south of the Jezraelites, and towarde the south of the Kenites. And Dauid saued neither man nor woman aliue, nor suffered them to come to Geth, for feare (sayeth he) lest they should tell on vs, sayng: thus did Dauid, and so will be his maner all the while he dwelleth in the countrey of the Philistines. And Achis beleued Dauid, sayng: He abhorreth his people of Israel, and therfore he shalbe my seruaunt for euer.

was sore astonied. And whē Saul asked cōsayll of the Lorde: the Lorde answered him not neither by dreames nor by Urim, nor yet by prophetes. Then sayde Saul vnto his seruauntes: * Seke me a woman that hath a spirite of prophecie, that I may go to her, and aske of her. And his seruauntes sayde to him: Beholde, there is a woman that hath a spirite of prophecie at Endor. And Saul chaunged himself, and put on other rayment, and then went he and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night. And he sayd: prophecy vnto me by the spirite, and bryng me hym vp whom I shall name vnto the. And the woman sayde vnto hym: Behold, thou knowest what Saul hath done, howe he hath destroyed the women that had prophesying spirites, and the sorcerers out of the lande. Wherfore then seekest thou an occasion against my soule, that he mai kil me? And Saul sware to her by the Lorde, saying: As surely as the lord liueth, there shal no harme chaūce the for this thing. Then sayde the woman: Whom shall I set vp vnto the? He answered: Bryng me vp Samuel. When the womā saw Samuel, she cried with a loude voice, and spake to Saul: saying why hast thou disceined me? For thou art Saul. And the kyng sayd vnto her: be not afrayed. What seest thou? The woman sayde vnto Saul: I se gordes ascendyng vp out of the yearth. He sayde vnto her agayne: what fassion is he of? She answered: there commeth vp an olde man with a mantel vpon him. And Saul perceiued that it was Samuel, and he stouped with his face to the ground, and bowed hymself. And Samuel sayde to Saul: why hast thou vnquieted me, to make me be brought vp? Saul answered: I am sore encōbred. For the Philistines make war against me, and God is departed fro me, and answereth me nomore, neither by prophetes nether by dreames. And therfore I haue called the that thou maiest tell me what I shal do. Then sayd Samuel: wherfore doest thou aske of me, whyle the Lorde is gone from the: and is become thyne enemy? Truely the Lorde hath done for himself, euen as he spake by mi hand. * For the Lorde hath rent the kyngdome out of thyne hande, and geuen it thy neyghbour Dauid. Because thou obeyedst not the voice of the Lord, nor executedst his fearce wrath vpon the Amalekites, therfore hath the Lord done this vnto the this daye. And moreouer, the Lorde wyl deliuer Israel with the into the handes of the Philistines. * To morowe shalt thou and thy sonnes be with me, and the Lord shall geue the hoast of Israel into the handes of the Philistines. Then Saul fell straight waye flat on the yearth as long as he was, and was sore adread, because of the wordes of Samuel. And there was no strength in hym, for he had eaten no bread all the daye and the nyght before. And the womā came vnto Saul, and saw that he was sore troubled, and sayde vnto hym: Se thyne handmayde hath obeyed thy voyce, and haue put my soule in myne hande, and haue herkened vnto thy wordes which thou spakest vnto me: Nowe therfore harken thou also vnto the voice of thyne handmayde, and let me set a morsell of bread before the, that thou mayest eate and get the strength, and then go on thy iourney. He refused, and sayde: I will not eate. But his seruauntes and the woman together compelled hym, and he hearkened vnto their voyce. And so he arose from the yearth, and sate hym on a bedde. The woman had a fat calfe in the house, and she vasted, and killed it, and tooke floure and kneded it, and dyd bake swete cakes therof, and brought them before Saul and before his seruāntes. And when they had eaten, they rose vp, and went awaye the same nyght.

BVt when Dauid and his men were come to Zikleg the third daye, the Amalechytes had entuded in vpon the southe, and vpon Zikleg, and had smytten Zikleg, and burnt it with fyre, and had taken the women (that were therin) prisoners, both smal and great: but slue not a man, but caried them with thē, and went their wayes. So Dauid and his men came to the cyte. And beholde, it was burnt with fyre, and their wyues, their sonnes and their doughters were caryed awaye. And Dauids two wyues were taken prysoners also: Ahinoam the Iezrahelite, and Abigail the wyfe of Nabal the Carmelite. And Dauid was in a thrende combraunce: for the people entended to stone hym, because the hartes of al the people were vexed for their sonnes and their B. doughters. But Dauid toke a good courage 1. reg. xxiii. b. to hym in the Lorde his God, and sayde to Abiathar the preest Ahimeleches sonne: I pray the bryng me the Ephod. And Abiathar brought the Ephod to Dauid. And Dauid asked counsayll at the Lorde, saying: Shall I followe after thys company? and shall I ouertake them? And he answered hym: followe for thou shalt ouertake them, and recouer the C. praye. So Dauid and the .vi. hundred men that were with hym, wente, and came to the ryuer Besor, where a part of the abode. But Dauid and foure hundred men followed: For two hundred abode behynd, beyng to weery to go ouer the ryuer Besor. And they founde an Egiptian in the fielde, and brought hym to Vpon. xxv. c. Dauid, * and gaue hym bread to eate, and water to drynke, and gaue hym a fewe figges, and twoo cluskres of reysynes. And when he had eaten, his spirite came agayn to him: for he had eaten no bread, nor dronke anye water in thre dayes and thre nyghtes. And Dauid sayde vnto hym: To whom belongest thou? and whence art thou? he sayde. I am a young man of Egypte, and seruaunt to an D. Amalechite, and my maister left me behynde, because it is thre dayes agone that I fell sycke: we came a rouyng vpon the south of Chrethus, & against Iuda, & toward the south of Caleb. And we brenned Zikleg with fyre. And Dauid sayde to hym: canst thou bryng me to thys company? And he sayde. Sweare vnto me by God, that thou wylt neyther kyll me, nor delyuer me into the handes of my maister, and I wyll bryng the to the company. And when he had brought him thither, beholde, they laye scattered abrode vpon the yearth, eatyng and drynkyng, and daunsyng, because of the plenteous and great pray that they had caryed awaye out of the landes of the Philistines, and out of the lande of Iuda.

And Dauid layed vpon them from the euen E. vntyll the wyltyght on the morowe: so that there escaped not a man of them, saue foure hundred yonng men, whyche rode awaye vpon Camels, and fledde. And Dauid recouered all that the Amalekites had caried awaye, and Dauid rescued hys twoo wyues. So that there was no persone of them lackyng, (mall or great, sonne or doughter, or of the spoyle of all that they had taken away. Dauid recouered them all agayne. And Dauid toke all the sheep, and the oxen, and they dryue them before hys cattel, and sayde: this is Dauids praye. And Dauid came to the two hundred men that were to weery for to followe Dauid, whom they had made also to abyde at the ryuer Besor. And they came to mete Dauid, and the people that were with hym. And when Dauid came to the people, he (aluted them. Then answered all the wycked and the vnthryfty (of the men that went with Dauid,) and sayde: because they went not with vs, therfore wyll we geue them none of the praye, that we have recouered. But let euery man take his wyfe and his chyldren, & those let them cary awaye and be walkyng. F. Then sayde Dauid: ye shall not do so (my brethren) with that, whyche the Lorde hath geuen vs, and hath preserued vs, and delyuered the company that came agaynst vs, into our handes. For who would herken vnto you in thys matter? * But as hys parte is that Iosu. xxii. goeth downe and tyghteth, so shall his parte be that tarieth by the fatte, that it maye be parted alyke. The.xxiij. Wytnes. After the death of Saul, when David was returned into the slaughter of the Amalekites, & had bene two daies in Ziklag. Behold, there came a man the thirde day out of the hoste from Saul, with his clothes rent, and earth upon his head. And when he came to David, he fell to the earth, and did obeysaunce. David said unto him: Whence comest thou? He said unto him: Out of the hoast of Israell I am escaped. And David said unto him: What is thy chaunce? tell me. He said: the people is fled from the battaile, and many of the people are ouerthrowen, and dead, and Saul and Jonathas his sonne are dead also. And David said unto the young man, that tolde him these tidynges: howe knowest thou that Saul and Jonathas his son be dead? The young man that told him, unwitted: I came by chaunce to mount Gilboa, and behold, Saul leaned upon his speare. For the charettes and companies of horsemen followed hard after hym. And when he loked backe he sawe me, and called me. And I answered here am I. And he said unto me: what art thou? I answered him: I am an Amalekite. He said unto me againe. Stande upon me, and slay me. For anguishe is come upon me, though my life be yet al whole. And so I stode upon him, and slue him, for I was sure that he could not live, after that he had fallen. And I toke the crowne that was upon his head, and the bracelette that was on his arme and have brought them hither unto my lorde. Then David toke hold on his clothes * and rent them, and so did all the men that were with him. And they mourned and wepte, and fasted until even, for Saul & Jonathas his sonne and for the people of the Lorde, and for the house of Israell, because they were ouerthrowen with the sweard. And David said unto the young man that brought him these tidynges: Whence art thou? And he answered: I am the sonne of an alsaunt an Amalekite. And David said unto him. Howe is it that thou wast not afraied, to lay thine hand on the Lordes annointed, to destroy him? And David called one of his young men, & said: Go to, and runne upon him. And he smote him that he died. Then said David unto him: thy blood be upon thine owne head. * For thine owne mouth hath testified against the, saiyng: I have slaine the Lordes annointed. Mat.xv.c. THere was longe warre betweene the houte of Saull, and the houte of Dauid. But Dauid waxed stronger and stronger, and the houte of Saull waxed weaker and weaker. A. 1 Par. iij. c. And vnto Dauid were [i.] yet children borne in Hebron: his eldest sonne also was Ammon of Ahinoam the Jezrahelite: the second Cheleab of Abigaill the wife of Naball the Carmelite: the thirde Absalom, the sonne of Maachah the doughter of Thalmai, the king of Gessur: the fourth, Adonia the sonne of Hagith, the fifth, Sephatia the sonne of Abital: the sixte, Jethream, by Egla Dauids wife. These were borne to Dauid in Hebron. And it fortuned, that while there was warre betweene the houte of Saull and the houte of Dauid, Abner helde vp the houte of B. Saull. And Saull had a concubine named Rispa, the doughter of Aia. And Jsboseth said to Abner: Wherfore hast thou gone into my fathers concubine? Then was Abner very wroth for the wordes of Jsboseth, and 1 Reg. xxij. c. said: Am I not a * dogges head, which haue against Juda done mercye this daye vnto the houte of Saul thy father, and to his brethren and frendes, and haue not deliuered the into the hande of Dauid: and thou findest a Ruth. c. fault in me this day for this woman? * So and so do God to Abner. For as the Lorde hath sworne to Dauid, to will I be on his syde, to bryng the kyngdome from the houte of Saull, that the throne of Dauid may be stablished ouer Jsraell, and ouer Juda, euen from Dan to Beersheba. And he could gene Abner neuer a worde to answere, because he C. feared him. And Abner sent messengers to Dauid secretely, saying: Whose is the land? Make a bond with me, and behold, mine hand is with the, to bryng all Jsraell vnto the. He said: It is good, that I make a bonde with the. But one thyng I require of the, that thou see not my face, except thou first bryng Michol Sauls doughter when thou comest to se me. And Dauid sent messen- D. gers to Jsboseth Sauls son, saying: * Deliuer me my wife Michol, whiche I maried with * an hundred foreskinnes of the Philistines. And her husbande went with her, and came 1 Re. xviij. g. weping behynde her, till they came to Ba- 2 Re. xxv. g. hurim. Then said Abner vnto him: Go and returne. And he returned. And Abner yet communication with the elders of Jsraell, saying: Ye sought for Dauid in times past, that he might be your kyng. Now then do let to the Lorde hath said of Dauid: By the hand of my seruaunt Dauid I will saue my people Jsraell out of the handes of the Philistines, and out of the hande of all their enemies. And Abner spake in the eares of Ben Jamin. Jt went to tell it in the eares of Dauid in Hebron, all that Jsraell was content with, and the whole houte of Ben Jamin. And so Abner came to Dauid to Hebron hauyng twenty men with him, and Dauid made him and the men that were with him a feast. And Abner said vnto Dauid: I will vp and go gather all Jsraell vnto my Lorde the kyng, that they may make an appointement with the: and that thou maiest commaund all, as thine herte desireth. And when Dauid had let Abner depart, he went in peace. And be- E. holde, the seruauntes of Dauid and Joab came from chasing the robbers, and brought a great pray with them. But Abner was not with Dauid in Hebron: for he had sent him away to depart in peace. When Joab and all the hoste that was with him were come, men told Joab, saying: Abner the sonne of Ner came to the kyng and he hath sent him away, that he is gone in peace. When Joab came to the kyng and said: What hast thou done? Behold, Abner came vnto the, and why hast thou sent him away, that he shoulde escape quite? Thou knowest Abner the sonne of Ner, for he came to discreine the, & to knowe thy outgoing and ingoing, and to knowe all that thou doest. And when Joab was come out from Dauid, he sent messengers after Abner, which broughte him away from the well of Sira vnknowyng to Dauid. D. And when all the people came to eat meat with Dauid while it was yet daye, Dauid sware, saying: So, and so, do God to me, yf I taste bread, or ought els till the Sunne be downe. And the people wist it, and it pleased them. And whatsoeuer the kyng did, it pleased all the people. For all the people and al Israell vnderstode that day, how that it was not the kynges dede, that Abner the sonne of Ner was slaine. And the kyng said vnto his seruauntes: know ye not, how that there is a lord, and a great man fallen this day in Israell? And I am this daye tender and anointed kyng. And the woman that was the keper of the doore, and cleansed the wheate, was a slepe. And they came into the middes of the house as though they wold haue fetched wheat, and smote him vnder the fyfte rybbe, and fled. For when they came into the house he C. slept on his bed in his resting chambre, and they smote him, and slue him, & beheaded him and toke his head, and gat them away thorow the plaine all the night. And they brought the head of Isboseth vnto Dauid, to Hebron, and saied vnto the kyng: Behold, here is the head of Isboseth Saules sonne thine enemy which sought after thy life. And the Lorde hath auenged my lorde the kyng this day of Saull and of his seede. And Dauid answered Rechab and Baanah his brother, the sonnes of Rimmon the Berothite, and said vnto hym: * as surely as the Lorde liueth, which hath deliuered my soule out of al aduersities: When one * told me, and said that Saull was dead, thinking to haue brought good tidynges, I caught him, and slue him in Sikleg, which thought that I wolde haue geuen him a reward for his tidynges bringing. How more more when wicked men haue slaine a righteous person in his owne house, and vpon his bedde. Shall I not require his bloud of your handes, and take you from the yerth? And Dauid commaunded his young men, and they slue them, and cut of their handes and feete, and hanged them vp ouer the poole in Hebron. But they toke the head of Isboseth, and buried it in the sepulchre of * Abner in Hebron. D. 1. Re. xxvij. b. 2. Reg. i. c. 2. Reg. iij. c.

The v. Chapitter.

The. xxvi. day Mathias. THen came all the tribes of Israell * to Dauid vnto Hebron, and saide: Behold, we are of thy bone and of thy flesshe. And in time past when Saull was our kyng, thou ledest Israell in and out. And the Lord hath said to the: thou shalt fede my people Israel, & thou shalt be a captaine ouer Israell. And so all the elders of Israel came to the kyng to Hebron. And kyng Dauid made a couenaunt with them in Hebron before the Lorde. And they anoynted Dauid king ouer Israel. Dauid was thirty yeare olde when he began to raigne, and he raigned fourty yeare. In Hebron he raigned ouer Juda seuen yere, & six monethes. And in Jerusalē he raigned thirty and thre yeares ouer all Israell and Juda. 2. Reg. v. c. A. 1. Par. x. a.

The kyng also and his men went to Jerusalem vnto the Jebusites the enhabitoures of the lande. Which spake vnto Dauid, saying: except thou take away the blynde & the lame thou shalt not come in hither. For they said: Thou art not able to come in hither. Neuerthelesse, Dauid toke the strong holde of Syon. The same is the citie of Dauid. And Dauid said the same daye: Whosoeuer smiteth the Jebusites, and getteth vp to the gutters of the houses and smiteth the lame and blinde that hate Dauids soule. * Wherefore they said: the blind and the lame shal not come into the house. And so Dauid dwelt in the tower, and called it the citie of Dauid, and buylt round about it from Milo inward. And Dauid prospered and grewe, and the Lorde God of hostes was with him. And Hiram kyng of Tyre sent messengers to Dauid, and cedar trees, and carpenters, & masons, & walles: and they buylte Dauid an house. And Dauid perceyued, that the Lorde had stablished him kyng ouer Israell, & that he had exalted his kyngdom for his people Israels sake. And Dauid toke him mo concubines and wiues out of Jerusalem, after he was come from Hebron, and mo sonnes and daughters [illegible] came to Dauid, W. Leu. xxi. b. C. 2. Reg. v. c.

1.Para. 14.b. * And these be the names of the sonnes that were borne vnto him in Ierusalē: Sammua. Sobab. Nathan, and Salomon Ibhar also and Elicua, Nepheg, and Iaphia, Elisama, Eliada, and Eliapheter. But when the Philistines hearde, that they had annointed Dauid kyng ouer Israell, they came all vp to seke Dauid. And as sone as Dauid herde of it, he gatte him to an holde. And when the Philistines came, they laide them a long in the valey of Raphaim. * And Dauid asked counsell of the Lord, saying: Shall I go vp to the Philistines? wilt thou deliuer them into my handes? And the Lord answered vnto Dauid: Go vp, for I will doutles deliuer the Philistines into thy handes. And Dauid came to the plaine of Perazim and smote the there, and said, the Lord hath deuided mine enemies a sonder before me, as waters be diuided a sonder. And therfore the name of the place was called the plain of Perazim. And there they left their ymages, & Dauid & his men toke them vp. And the Philistines came yet again, and laide them selues in the valey of Rephaim. And when Dauid asked at the Lord: Shal I go vp against the Philistines? and wilt thou deliuer them into my handes? The answered: Thou shalt not go vp but compasse them on the backsides come vpon them euen against the Peretreen. And when thou hearest the noise of a thyng goyng in the toppe of the Peretreen: the remoue. For the shall the Lord go out before the, to smite the hoste of the Philistines. And Dauid did as the Lord had commaunded him, and smote the Philistines from Geba, vntill thou come to Gazer.

Euentang. (¶ The .xiij. Chapiter.)

1. Again Dauid gathered together all the chosen men of Israell, euen thirty thousand, and arose and went with all the folke that were with him of the men of Iuda to fet Arayen thence, the arke of God: whose name is called the name of the lord of hostes that dwelleth vpon it, betwene the Cherubim. And they put the arke of God vpon a newe carte, and brought it out of the house of Abinadab that was at Gibea. And Vza & Ahio the sonnes of Abinadab drawe the newe carte: and when they brought it out of the house of Abinadab that was at Gibea, with the ark of God, Ahio went before the arke. And Dauid & all the house of Israel played before the Lord in sondry instrumentes made of Cipres woode with harpes, of psalteries, cimbelles, tabelles, and cimbales. And when they came to Nachons threshing house, Vza put his hand to the ark of God, and held it, for the oxen tumbled. And the Lord was wroth with Vza, and God smote him in the same place for his faulte, and there he died before the ark of God. And Dauid was displeased, because the Lorde had smitten Vza. And the name of the place was called Perez Vza, vntill this daye. And Dauid was then afrayd of the Lord and said: How shall the ark of the Lorde come to me? and to Dauid wold not bryng the ark of the Lorde vnto him into the citie of Dauid. But Dauid caried it into the house of Obeth Edom a Gethite. And the ark of the Lord continued in the house of * Obeth Edō the Gethite, three mouethes, and the Lord blessed Obeth Edom and all his houshold. And one told kyng Dauid how that the Lord had blessed the house of Obeth Edom, & all that pertayned vnto him because of the ark of God. And Dauid went and brought the ark of God fro the house of Obeth Edom, into the citie of Dauid with gladnes. And there were with Dauid seuen coyres of dauncers and calues for sacrifice. And when they that bare the ark of the lord, had gone sixe spaces, he offered an oxe & a fat wepe. And Dauid played on harpe stryuges, & daunced before the lord with al his might, & was girded with a linnen Ephod. So Dauid and all the house of Israel brought the ark of the couenaunt of the lord, with showtyng & trompet blowyng. And it chaunced, that as the ark of the Lorde came into the citie of Dauid, Michol Saules daughter loked thorow a window & sawe kyng Dauid springe & daunce before the lord and he despised him in her herte. And when they brought in the ark of the Lord, they set it in his place, euen in the middes of the tabernacle that Dauid had pitched for it. And Dauid offered burnt offerynges & peace offerynges before the Lorde. And as sone as Dauid had made an end of offring burnt offeryngs and peace offeringes, he blessed the people in the name of the Lorde of hostes, & gaue among all the folke, euen among the whole multitude of Israel, as wel to the women as men, to euery one a cake of bread, and a pece of flesh, and a flacket of drynke. And so all the people departed euery one to his house. Then Dauid returned to bless his household, and Michol the daughter of Saul came out to mete Dauid, & said: O how glorious was the kyng of Israel this day which was vncouered to day in the eies of the maidens of his seruaunt, as ye it had ben a light thyng vncouered. And Dauid said vnto Michol: I thought to dauce before the Lorde, which chose me rather then thy father, and all his kynne and commaunded me to be ruler ouer all the people of the Lorde, euen ouer Israel: and therfore will I play before the Lord: & will yet be more vile then so, and will be mete in mine owne sight: & of the very same mayde seruauntes which thou hast spoken of, shall I be had in honour. Therfore Michol the daughter of Saul had no childe vnto the day of her death.

¶ The.vij. Chapiter.

IT fortuned, that as the kyng sat in his house after that the Lord had geuen him rest round about fro all his enemies, he saied vnto Nathan the Prophete: behold, I dwell now in an house of Ceder trees, but the ark of God dwelleth within the curtaine. And Nathan said vnto the kyng, go, and doo all that is in thine harte, for the Lorde is with thee. And it fortuned the same night that the worde of the Lorde came vnto Nathan, say-yng: go, & tell mi seruaunt Dauid, thus saith the Lorde. Maist thou builde me an house to dwel in? For I haue not dwelt in any house sence the time that I brought the children of Israel out of Egypt, vnto this day: but haue walked in a tente and tabernacle. In all the places wherin I haue walked with all the children of Israel, spake I one worde with any of the tribes of Israel (eare I comanded the iudges to fede my people Israel) saying: Why builde ye me not an house of Ceder trees? Now therfore, so saie vnto my seruaunt Dauid, Thus saieth the Lorde of hostes. I toke the fro the shepe cote as thou wastest folowyng shepe that thou mightest be ruler ouer my people Israel. And I was with the in all that thou wentest to, and haue destroyed all thine enemies out of thy sight, and haue made the a great name, like vnto the name of the great men that are in the worlde.
And therfore I will appointe a place for my people Israel, and will plante it, that they may dwel in a place of their owne, and mone no more, neither shall wicked people trouble them any more, as they did at the beginnyng sence the time that I set iudges ouer my people of Israel. And I will geue the rest from all thine enemies. And the Lord telleth the,
that he will make the an house. And when thy dayes be fulfilled, thou shalt slepe with thy fathers, and I will set vp thy sede after the, which shall proceede out of thy body, and will stablishe his kyngdom. He shall builde an house for my name, and I will stablishe the seate of his kyngdom for euer. I wilbe his father, and he shalbe my sonne: yf he sinne, I will chasten him with such a rodde as men be chastened with, and with suche plages as the children of men be plaged with. But my mercy shall not departe away from him, as I toke it from Saul, whom I put downe before the. And thine house and thy kyngdome shall endure without end after the, and thy seat shalbe stablished for euer. According to these wordes and according to all this vision, did Nathan speake vnto Dauid. Then went Dauid in, & sat him downe before the Lord, and saith: what am I, O Lord God? & what is my house, that thou hast brought me thus farre? And this was yet a small thyng in thy sight, O Lord God but thou hast spoken also of thy seruaunts house for a great while to come. For this is the vse of man, O Lorde God. And what can Dauid say more vnto thee? for thou lord God knowest thy seruaunt. Euen for thy wordes sake & according to thine owne harte hast thou done all these greate thynges, to make them knowe vnto thy seruaunt. Wherefore thou art great, O Lord God: for there is none like the, * neither is there any God saue thou, according to all that we haue hard with our eares. And what one people in the earth is like thy people Israel whom God went and deliuered them, that they might be his people, and that he might make him a name, and to doe great & terrible thynges in the earth, for thy people * which thou re-demedest to the out of Egypt, euen the people with their goddes. For thou hast ordeined thy people Israel, to be thy people for euer.
And thou Lorde art become their God. Now (O Lorde God) the wordes that thou hast spoken concernyng thy seruaunt & his house, make it good for euer, and doo as thou hast said. For so shall thy name be glorified for euer of men that shal say: the Lord of hostes is the God of Israell. and the house of thy seruaunte shalbe stablished before the. For thou O Lord of Hostes, God of Israel, hast told in the eare of thy seruaunt, saiyng: I will builde the an house. And therfore hath thy seruaunt found in his harte to praye this prayer vnto the. Nowe therfore now Lord God, thou art God, and thy wordes must be true, for thou hast told this goodnesse vnto thy seruaunt. And now go to and blesse the house of thy seruaunt, that it may continue for euer before the, for thou Lord hast spoken it: and with thy blessyng shall the house of thy ser-uaunt be blessed for euer.

And Dauid toke the bolles of golde that belonged to the seruauntes of Hadarezer, and brought them to Ierusalem. And out of Beta, and Berothai (cities of Hadarezer) vnto Dauid kyng exceadyng many thalle-wherof Salomon made al the brasen vessell in the temple, and the brasen lauatory, & the pillers, and the aultares. When Thoi kyng of Hamath heard how Dauid had smitten all the host of Hadarezer, he sent Joram his sonne vnto kyng Dauid, to salute him with peace, & to bidde him because he had fought against Hadarezer, and beaten him. For Thoi had great warre with Hadarezer, which Joram brought with him vessels of siluer, vessels of golde, and vessels of braſſe. Which braſſe kyng Dauid did dedicate vnto the Lord with the siluer and golde that he had conuerted of all nacions which he subdued: of Syria, of the Moabites, and of the children of Ammon of the Philistines, and of Amaleche, and of the spoile of Hadarezer sonne of Rehob kyng of Soba. And Dauid got him a name after that he returned and had smitten of the Syrians in the valey of Salt eyghteene thousand men. And he put kepers in Edom: euen throughout all Edom put he soudiers, and all they of Edom became Dauids seruauntes. And the Lord kepte Dauid whatsoeuer he toke in hād. And Dauid reigned ouer all Israell, and executed right & iustice vnto al his people. And Joab the sonne of Saruia was ouer the hoast, and Iehosaphat the sonne of Ahihud was recorder. And Sadok the sonne of Ahitob, and Ahimelech the sonne of Abiathar were the priestes, and Saraia was the scribe. And Banaiahu the sonne of Iehoiada was ouer the Cerethites and the Phelethites: & Dauids sonnes were chefe rulers.

¶ The. xxi. Chapiter.

And Dauid sayde: Is there yet any man left of the house of Saul? For I will shewe him mercy for Jonathas sake. And ther was of the household of Saul, a seruaunt whose name was Siba, and when they had called him vnto Dauid the kyng, said vnto him: art thou Siba? He saied: Thy seruaunt is he. And the kyng said: remaineth there yet any man of the house of Saul, whome I may shewe the mercy of God vpon? Siba answered the kyng: Jonathas hath yet a sonne which is lame on his feete. The kyng said vnto him: where is he? Siba said vnto the kyng: behold, he is in the house of Machir the sonne of Amiell of Lodeber. Then kyng Dauid sent, and set him out of the house of Machir the sonne of Amiel out of Lodeber. Now when Miphiboseth the sonne of Jonathas, the son of Saul was come vnto Dauid, he fell on his face, & did reuerence. And the kyng said: Miphiboseth? He answered: Behold thy seruaunt. Dauid said vnto him: feare not, for I will surely shewe the kyndnesse for Jonathas thy fathers sake, & will restore the all the feldes of Saul thy father, and thou shalt eate bread on mine owne table continually. And he bowed him selfe, & said: What is thy seruaunt that thou shouldest vouchesafe to loke vpon such a dead dogge as I am? Then the kyng called vnto Siba Saules young man & said vnto him. I haue geuen vnto thy maisters sonne, all that pertained to Saul, & to all his house. Tyll therefore that thou and thy sonnes & thy seruauntes til the land, & kyng in, that * thy maisters son may haue foode to eat. But Miphiboseth thy maisters son shall eat bread alway vpon my table. For Siba had fifteen sonnes, and twenty seruauntes. Then said Siba vnto the kyng: According to al that my lord the kyng hath commanded his seruaunt, so shall thy seruaunt do. Wel (said the kyng) Miphiboseth shall eat vpō my table, as one of the kynges sonnes. Miphiboseth had a sonne that was yong, named Micha, & all that dwelled in the house of Siba were seruauntes vnto Miphiboseth. And Miphiboseth dwelt in Ierusalem, for he did eate euer at the kynges table: * and was lame on both his feete.

¶ The. x. Chapiter.

It happened after this, that the kyng of the children of Ammon died, & Hanon his son raigned in his stede. Then said Dauid: I will shewe kyndnesse vnto Hanon the son of Nahas, as his father shewed kyndnesse vnto me. And Dauid sent to comfort him by the hād of his seruauntes ouer the death of his father. And Dauids seruauntes came into the land of the children of Ammon, and the lordes of the children of Ammon saied vnto Hanon their lord: thynkest thou that Dauid doth honour thy father, that he hath sent the coūsoulers to the? Hath not Dauid rather sent his seruauntes vnto the, to searche the citie, & to spie it out, & to ouerthrowe it? Wherefore Hanon toke Dauids seruauntes, and shaued of the halfe of euery mannes bearde, and cut of their garmentes in the middle, euen harde to the buttockes of them, and sent them away. When they tolde it vnto Dauid, he sent to mete them (for they were men exceedyngly shamed) and the kyng said: Tarry at Iericho vntill your beardes be growen, & then returne. And when the children of Ammon saw, that they were taken in the sight of Dauid they sent & hyred the Syrians of the house of Rehob, and the Syrians of Soba twenty thousand foteme, & of kyng Maacha a thousand men, and of Iisob twelue thousand men. And when Dauid hearde of it, he sent Joab and all the hoste of strong men. And the children of Am-

of Ammon came out, and waged battaile at the entryng in of the gate, and the Syrians of Zoba, of Rehob, Istob, and Maacah were by them selues in the feld. When Ioab sawe that the fronte of the battaile was against him, before and after, he chose of all the freshe yong men of Israell, and putte them in aray against the Syrians. And the rest of the people he deliuered into the hand of Abisai his brother, that he might putte them in aray against the children of Ammon. And he saied: If the Syrians be stroger then I, thou shalt helpe me. But if the children of Ammon be to stroog for the, I will come and succoure the. Therfore quite the like a man, and let vs stand fiersse for our people, and for the cities of our God. And the Lord do that which is good in his owne eyes. And Ioab proceded forth, and the people that was with him to fight with the Syrians. But they fled before him. And when the children of Ammon sawe that the Syrians were fled, thei fled they also before Abisai, and entred into the citie. And so Ioab returned from the children of Ammon, and came to Ierusalem. And when the Syrians sawe that they were put to the worse before Israell, they gathered them together. And Hadarezer sent, and brought out the Syrians that were beyonde the ryuer. And they came with their army, and Sobah the captaine of the hoast of Hadarezer went before them. And when it was shewed Dauid, he gathered all Israell together, and passed ouer Iordan, and came to Helam. And the Syrians set them selues in aray against Dauid, and fought with him: and the Syrians fled before Israel. And Dauid destroyed of the seuen hundred charettes of the Syrians, and fourty thousand horsemen, and smote Sobah the captaine of their hoast, which also died there. And when all the kynges (that were seruauntes to Hadarezer) sawe that they were put to the worse before Israel, they made peace with them, and serued them. And so the Syrians feared to helpe the children of Ammon any more.

AND it came to passe that (after the yere was oppressed in the time when kynges vse to go forth to battail), Dauid sent Ioab and his seruauntes with him, and al Israel, and they * destroyed the children of Ammon, and besieged Rabba. But Dauid taried stil at Ierusalem. And it chaunced in an euenyng that Dauid arose out of his bed, and walked vpon the roofe of the kynges palace, and from the roofe he sawe a woman washyng her selfe: and the woman was very beautefull to loke vpon. And he sent to enquire what woman it should be, and one said: Is not Bethsabe the daughter of Eliam, and wife to Vrias the Hethite? And Dauid sent messengers, & set her. And he came in vnto him, & he laye with her. And (immediatly) the was purified from her vncleanesse, and returned vnto her house. And the woman conceiued, and sent & told Dauid, and saied: I am with child. And Dauid sent to Ioab, saying: Send me Vrias the Hethite. And Ioab sent Vrias to Dauid. And when Vrias was come vnto him, Dauid demaunded of him, how Ioab did, and how the people fared, and howe the warre prospered. And Dauid said to Vrias: Go downe to thine house, and wash thy fete. And Vrias departed out of the kynges palace, and there followed him a seruice from the kynges table. But Vrias slept at the doore of the kinges palace with al the seruauntes of his lorde, and wet not downe to his house. Which when they had told Dauid, saying: Vrias went not downe into his house. Dauid said vnto Vrias: Camest thou not from thy iourney? why bidest thou not go downe then vnto thine house? Vrias answered Dauid. The ark, and Israel, and Iuda dwell in pauilions, & my lorde Ioab and the seruauntes of my lorde lye vpon the bare earth, and shall I then go into mine house to eat and drynk, and lye with my wife? By thy life, & by the life of thy soule, I will not doo this thyng. And Dauid saied to Vrias: Tary here this daye also, & to morow I will let the departe. And so Vrias abode in Ierusalem that day, and the morowe. And when Dauid had called him, he did eat and drynk before him, and he made him dronk. And at euen he went out to lie on his couche with the seruauntes of his lorde, but went not downe to his house. On the morow Dauid wrote a letter to Ioab, and sent it by the hande of Vrias. And he wrote thus in the letter, saiyng: put Vrias in the forefront of the battel, and came ye backe from him, that he may be smitten, and dye. So when Ioab beseged the citie, he assigned Vrias vnto a place, where he wist that strong men were. And the men of the citie came out, and fought with Ioab. And there were certaine ouerthrowen of the people, and of the seruauntes of Dauid, and Vrias the Hethite died also. Then Ioab sent and tolde Dauid all the thynges concernyng the warre, and charged the messenger, saiyng: when thou hast made an ende of telling the matters of the warre vnto the kyng, if he begynne to fome, and say vnto the: wherefore approched ye so nye vnto the citie, when ye did fight? wist ye not that they would shote from the wall? who smote Abimelech sonne of Ierobesech? Did not a woman cast a pece of a milstone vpon him from of the wall, and he died in Thebez? Why wente you so nye the wall? Then say you: Thy seruaunt Vrias the Hethite is dead also.

¶ Nathan the Prophet.

Euangel. S. Luc. ij. a

AND the Lorde sent Nathan vnto Dauid. And he came vnto him, and told him, there were .ij. men in one citee, the one riche, and the other poore: the riche man had exceding many sheepe and oxen. But the poore had nothyng saue one litle sheepe, which he had bought, and nourished vp. And it grewe vp with him, and with his children also, and did eate of his awne meate, and dranke of his awne cup, and slept in his bosome, and was vnto him as his daughter. And there came a straunger vnto the riche man. And he could not finde in his hart, to take of his awne sheepe, & of his awne oxē to dresse for the straunger, that was come vnto him. But tooke the poore mannes sheepe, and dressed it, for the man that was come to him. And Dauid was exceding wrothe with the man, & said to Nathan: as surely as the lorde liueth, the man that hath done this thyng, is the child of death. He shall restore the lambe .iij.^{ce} fold, because he did this thyng, and had no pitie. And Nathan said to Dauid: thou art the man. Thus saith the lorde God of Israel: I^{} anointed thee kyng ouer Israell, and rid thee out of the hande of Saull, I gaue thee thy maisters house, and thy maisters wiues into thy bosom, and gaue thee the house of Israel and of Iuda, and might (if that had been to little) haue geuē thee to manie more. Wherefore then hast thou despised the commaundment of the Lorde, to do wickednesse in his sight? Thou hast killed Vrias the Hethite, with the sweard, and hast taken his wife, to thy wife, and hast slaine him with the sweard of the children of Ammon. Now therefore, the sweard shall neuer depart from thyne house, because thou hast despised me, and taken the wife of Vrias the Hethite, to bee thy wife. Wherefore thus saith the Lorde: behold, I will stirre vp euill against thee, euen out of thyne owne house, and will take thy wiues, before thyne eyes, and geue them vnto thy neighbor, and he shall lye with thy wiues in the sight of the Sonne. For thou didest it secretely. But I will do this thyng, before all Israell, and in the open Sonne light. And Dauid said vnto Nathan: I^{} haue sinned against the Lorde. And Nathan said vnto Dauid: the lorde also hath put awaie thy sinne, thou shalt not die. Howbeit, because in dyng this dede, thou hast geuen the enemies of the lorde, occasion to raile, the child that is borne vnto thee, shall surely die. And Nathā departed vnto his house. And the lorde strooke the child, that Vrias wife bare vnto Dauid, and it sickened sore. Dauid therefore besought God for the child, and fasted and went in, and lay all night vpon the yerth. And the elders of his house arose, & went to him, to take him vp from the yerth. But he would not, neither did he eate meate with them. And it happened the .vij. daie, that the child died. And the seruauntes of Dauid, durst not tell him, that the child was dead. For they said: behold, while the child was yet aliue, we spake vnto him, and he would not harke vnto our voyce. How will he then vexe himself, if we tell him, that the child is dead? But Dauid seyng his seruauntes whisperyng, perceiued that the child was dead. And Dauid said vnto his seruantes: is the child dead? They said: yea. And Dauid arose from the yerth, and washed, and anoynted himself, and chaunged his apparell, and came into the house of the lorde, and worshipped, and afterward came into his awne house and had that they should set bread before him and he did eat. Then said his seruantes vnto him: what thyng is this, that thou hast wrought? Thou didest fast & wepe for the child, while it was a line, and after as it was dead, thou didest rise vp, and eate meate. He said: while the child was yet aline, I fasted & wept, for this I thought, who can tell whether God will haue mercie on me, that the childe maie liue. But now, seyng he is dead, wherefore should I fast? Can I bryng him again any more? I shall go to him, rather then he shall come again to me. And Dauid comforted Bethsabe his wife, and went in vnto her, and lay with her, and she bare a sonne, and called his name *Salomon, & the lorde loued him. And he sent by the hand of Nathan the Prophet, and called his name *Iedidia, of the lordes behalf.

Ioab fought against Raba, the citee of the children of Ammon, and tooke the citee of the kyngdom. And Ioab sent messengers to Dauid, saying: I haue made warre at Raba, and haue taken the citee with waters. Now therefore, gather the rest of the people together, and besiege the citee, that thou maiest take it least I take it, and call it after my name. And Dauid gathered all the people together, and went against Raba, and besieged it, and gate

And it was set on Dauids hed. & he brought out the spoyle of the citee, in exceding greate aboundance. And he caried out the people, that was therin, and put theim vpon sawes, and vpon Iron harowes, and vpon axes of Iron, and thrust thē into the tile kill. Thus did he with al the citees of the children of Ammon. And so Dauid and all the people returned to Ierusalem.

The. xiii. Chapitel.

The. xxx. day of Nouēbre. A.

After this, it chaunced, that Absalom the sonne of Dauid, had a faire sister, named Thamar, whom Ammon the sonne of Dauid loued: And he was so sore vexed, that he fell sicke, for the loue of his sister Thamar: for she was a virgin, and he thought it hard for hym, to haue his purpose of her. But Ammon had a frend, called Jonadab, the sonne of Simeah Dauids brother. & Jonadab was a very wise man. And he said vnto hym: how commeth it, that thou beyng the kynges sonne, art thus contumed euery daie? Wilt thou not tell me? Ammon answered hym: I loue Thamar, my brother Absalems sister. Jonadab said vnto hym: laie thee doune on thy bedde, and make thy self sicke. And when thy father is come to se thee, saie vnto hym. Oh let my sister Thamar come, and geue me meate, and dresse it in my sight, that I maie se it, and eate it of her hande. And so Ammon lay doune and made hymself sicke. And when the kyng was come to se hym, Ammon said vnto hym: Oh let Thamar my sister come, and make me a couple of Fritters in my sight, that I maie eate of her hande. Then Dauid sent home to Thamar, saying: go now to thy brother Ammons house, and dresse hym meate. So Thamar went to her brother Ammons house, and he was laid doune. And she tooke Floure, and made paste, and dressed Fritters in his sight, and did bake theim, and toke a platter, and powred thē out before hym: but he would not eate. And Ammon said: haue out all men fro me. And thei went all out from hym. And Ammon said vnto Thamar: bryng the meate into the Chamber, that I maie eate of thyne hande. And Thamar toke the Fritters, whiche she had made, and brought theim into the Chamber, to Ammon her brother. And when she had set them before hym to eate, he tooke her, and said vnto her: come lye with me my sister. And she answered hym: nay my brother, do not force me, for there hath no suche thing been wrought in Israel: do not thou this abhominacion. For whether shall I be able to goo with my shame. And thou shalte bee as one of the foles in Israel. O speake vnto the kyng and he shall not deny me vnto thee. Howbeit, he would not hearken vnto her boyce, but tooke her, and* forced her, and lay with her.

Gen. xxxiii. a. & xxxviii. a.

And then Ammon hated her exceedingly. So that the hate, wherewith he hated her, was greater then the loue, with which he before loued her. And Ammon said vnto her: vp, and get thee hence. She answered hym: there is no cause. This is yll that thou puttest me away, is greater then the other, that thou diddest vnto me. Neuertheles, he would not heare her, but called his Boye that serued hym, and said: put away this woman fro me and bolte the booze after her. And he had a kirtle of diuerse colours vpon her: for with suche wer the kynges daughters (that were virgins) apareled. Then her seruant brought her out, and tolked the booze after her. And Thamar tooke, and put ashes on her hed, and rent her gaie kirtle, that was on her, and laied her hand on her hed, and so went: and as she went, cried. And Absalom her brother said vnto her: hath Ammon thy brother been with thee? Howe, yet hee (til my sister) he is thy brother. Lette not this thyng greue thyne harte. And so Thamar remained desolate, in her brother Absaloms house. But when kyng Dauid, heard of all these thynges, he was very wroth. And he would not vexe the spirite of Ammō his sonne: for he loued hym, because he was his first borne. And Absalom said vnto his brother Ammon, neither good nor badde. Notwithstāding Absalom hated Ammon, because he had forced his sister Thamar.

Gen. xxxi. c. and. xxxiij. c.

And it happened after two yere, that Absalom had shepe shearers, in the plain of Hazor, beside the Tribe of Ephraim, and bade all the kynges sonnes, and came to the kyng and said: behold, thy seruaunt hath shepe shearers, let the kyng with his seruauntes, come to thy seruaunt. The kyng answered Absalom: nay my sonne. We will not go all, nor bee chargeable vnto thee. And Absalom laye sore vpon hym: Howbeit, he would not goo, but blessed hym. Then said Absalom: if thou wilt not come, then let my brother Ammon goo with vs. And the kyng answered hym: what needeth it, that he goo with thee? But Absalom made suche instaunce, that he let Ammon and all the kynges children, go with hym. Nowe had Absalom, commaunded his yong men, saying: marke when Ammon, haue is merry with with wine, & when I bid you smite Ammon, then kil hym: and feare not, haue not I bidden you? Be bold therfore, and play the men. And the young men of Absalom did vnto Ammon, euen as Absalom had commaunded. And all the kynges sonnes arose, and euery man gat hym vp, vpon his Mule, and fled. And it fortuned, that while thei were yet in the way, tidynges came to Dauid, saying: Absalom hath slain all the kynges sonnes, and there is none left aliue. Then Dauid arose, and rent his garmentes, and lay along vpon the yearth, and al his seruauntes stode by

Euentyng. A. JOab the sonne of Sarui a perceiued, that and he sent to Thekoa, and fet thence a wise woman, and said vnto her: fein thy self to be a mourner, & put on mournyng apparell. And anoynt not thy self with Oyle. But bee as a woman, that had long time mourned for some ded body. And come to the kyng, & speake of this maner vnto him. And so Joab taught her Thekoa had fallen on her face, to the ground and doen obeysaunce, she said vnto the kyng helpe me, O kyng / The kyng said vnto her: what aileth thee? She answered hym: I am a widowe and my husbande is dedde. And thy handmaied had twoo sonnes, and thei twoo fought together in the fielde (where was no man to go betwene thẽ) but the one smote the other, and slewe hym. And beholde, the whole kynred is risen against thyne handmaied, and Deut. xix. c. thei said: * Deliuer vs hym, that smote his

And the kyng said: if any man saie ought vnwherefore then hast thou determined, suche a thyng against the people of God? For the kyng with speake this thyng, as one which is sautie, that he should not fette home again his banished. For we must nedes die, & perish as water, spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathred vp again. Neither wil god spare any soule. Let the kyng therefore finde the meanes, that his banished bee not vtterly expelled from hym / Now therefore am I come, to speake of this thyng vnto the kyng my lorde For thei that be of the people, wil fear me.

And thy handmaid said. Now wil I speake vnto the kyng, peraduenture the kyng wil per-forme the request of his handmaide. And the kyng shall heare his handmaid, to deliuer her out of the hande of the man, that would haue therefore the lord thy ges be with thee / Then the kyng answered, and said vnto the woman hide not frõ me (I praie thee) the thyng that I shall aske thee / And the woman said: let my lord the kyng now saie on / And the kyng said woordes in the mouth of thine handmaid. For to the intent that I should alter my communi-cacõ, hath thy seruant Joab wen this thyng And my Lorde is wise, euen as the Angell of god, to vnderstand al thynges that are in the yearth / And the kyng said vnto Joab: behold, I am content to do this thing. Go & fet home the childe Absalom again / And Joab fell to the grounde on his face, and bowed hymself, and blessed the kyng. And Joab said: now thy seruant knoweth, that I haue found grace in thy sight (my lorde, o kyng) in that the kyng hath fulfilled the request of his seruant / And so Joab arose, and went to Gesur, & brought F.

Absalom to Jerusalem / And the kyng said: let hym turne to his awne house, and not see my face / And so Absalo returned, to his awne house, and saw not the kynges face / But in all Israel there was not so goodly a man as Absalom, for he was verie beautifull: In so muche, that from the sole of his foote to the top of his hed, there was no blemishe in him And when he shaued his hed, for at every yeres ende he shaued it, because the heere was heuy on him, and must nedes shaue it, the heer of his hed weyed .v. Therefore Absalom, sent for Joab, to haue sent hym to the kyng. But he would not come to hym. And whē he sent again, he would not come. Then sayd he vnto his seruantes: behold, Joab hath a parcell of lande, fast by my place, and he hath barly therein. Go, and set it on fire. And Absaloms seruantes, set it on fire. And Joabs seruantes, came with their garmentes rent, and said: Absaloms seruantes haue burnt the pece of land with fire. Then Joab rose, and came to Absalom, vnto his house, and sayed vnto hym: wherefore haue thy seruauntes, burnt my field with fire. And Absalom answered Joab: behold, I sent for thee, desiryng thee to come, because I would haue sent thee to the kyng, for to saie: wherefore am I come from Gesur? It had been better for me to haue been there stil. Now therfore would I se the kynges face. And if there be any trespasse in me, kill thou me. And so Joab came to the kyng, and told hym: whiche, whē he had sent for Absalom, he came to the kyng and fel to the ground on his face, before him And the kyng kissed Absalom.

The first daie Matins. ij.

After this it fortuned, that Absalom gate hym charotes and horses, and .l. men to run before hym. And he arose vp early in the morning, and stode in the place, of the entryng in of the Gate. And euery man that had any matter, and came to the kyng for Judgement, hym did Absalom call vnto hym, & said: of what citee art thou? Answered: thy seruaunt is, of one of the tribes of Israell. And Absalom said vnto hym: se, thy matter is good and righteous, but there is no man deputed of the kyng, to heare thee. Absalom said more ouer: oh that I wer made Judge in the land, that euery man, whiche hath any ple, & matter in the lawe, might come to me, and that I might do hym Justice. And when any manne came nighe to hym, and did hym obeysaunce, he put furthe his hand, and toke hym to hym and kissed hym. And on this maner did Absalom to all Israell, that came to the kyng for iudgement: and he stale the hartes of the men of Israell. And after .xl. yeres it fortuned, that Absalom said vnto the kyng: let me go now to Hebron, and pay me vowe, whiche I haue vowed vnto the lorde, for thy seruaunt vowed a vowe, when I was in Gesur, in the land of Syria, saying: if the lord shall bryng me again, from Jerusalem, I will serue the Lorde. And the kyng said vnto hym: go in peace. And so he arose, and went to Hebron. But Absalom sent spies, throughout all the tribes of Israell, saying: assone as ye heare the voyce of the trompet blowe, ye shall saie: Absalom reigneth kyng in Hebron. And with Absalom went .cc. men, out of Jerusalem, that were called. And they went with pure hartes, not knowyng of any thyng. And Absalom sent also for Ahithophell the Gelonite, Dauides counsailor, that he would come out of his citee Gilo, while he offered Sacrifices. And there was wrought strong treason. For the people went, and increased with Absalom in multitude. And there came a messager to Dauid, and said: the hartes of the men of Israel are turned after Absalom. And Dauid said vnto his seruauntes, that were with hym at Jerusalem: vp, that we may be gone, for we shall not elis escape from Absalom. Make spede, to departe, least he come sodainly, and catche vs, and bryng some mischief vpon vs and smite the Citee, with the edge of the sword. And the kynges seruauntes said vnto hym: behold, thy seruauntes are redy to what soeuer my lorde the kyng shall appoynte And the kyng and all his houshold, departed on foote. He left behind hym ten concubines to kepe his house. And to the Kyng and all the people, went out on foote, and taried in a place, that was farre off. And all his seruauntes went about him. And all the Cerethites and all the Pelethites, and all the Gethites, .vi. C. mighty men of warre (euen .vi. C. men which he had come on foote from Geth) went before the kyng. Then said the kyng, to Ithai the Gethite: wherefore comest thou with vs? Returne & abide with the kyng, for thou art a straunger, and art remoued from thyne awne place. Thou camest but yesterdaie, and should I disquiet thee to daie, to go with vs? I will go whether I ran. Therefore returne thou, and cary again thy brethren. Mercie and truthe shall the lorde shewe vnto thee. And Ithai answered the kyng, and said: as truly as God liueth, & as my lorde the kyng liueth, in what place my lorde the kyng shall be, whether in death or life, euen there also will thy seruaunt be. And Dauid the kyng said to Ithai: come then, and go forward. And Ithai the Gethite went forth, & all his men and all the children that were with hym. And all the countree wept with a loude voyce, and so did all the people, that went furthe. The kyng also hymself, passed ouer the broke Kidron. And all the people went towarde the waie, that leadeth to the wilderne. And Sadoc, and all the Leuites were with hym, and bare the Arke of the appoyntement of God. And there they set doune the Arke of God: and Abiathar went vp, vntill the people wer all come ouer, out of the citee/ And the kyng said vnto Sadok: cary the arke of god, again into the citee. If I shall find fauor, in the eyes of the lorde, he will bryng me again, & shew me bothe it, and the tabernacle thereof. But and if the Lorde thus say: I haue no lust vnto thee, behold, here am I: let hym do with me, what semeth good in his eyes. The kyng sayed also vnto Sadok the Priest. Art not thou a sear? Returne into the citee in peace and take your two sonnes with you, Ahimaas thy sonne, and Jonathas the sonne of Abiathar. Behold, I will tary in the fieldes of the wildernesse, vntill there come some word from you, to be told me. Sadok therfore and Abiathar caried the arke of God again to Jerusalem, and they taried there. And Dauid went vpon Mount Oliuete, and wepte as he went, and had his yed couered, and went barefoote. And all the people that was with hym, had euery man his hed couered, and as they went vp, they wept also. And one told Dauid, saying: Ahithophell is one of them that haue conspired with Absalom. And Dauid said: O Lorde, turne the counsaill of Ahithophell in to foolishnesse. When Dauid was come to the toppe of the mount, he worshipped God: and behold, Husai the Archite, came against hym, with his coate torne, and hauyng yerth vpon his hedde. Vnto whom Dauid said: if thou go with me, thou shalt be a burthen vnto me. But if thou returne to the citee, and saie vnto Absalom: I will be thy seruant, O kyng (as I haue this long been thy fathers seruaunt, so am I now thy seruaunt) thou maiest for my sake, destroye the counsaill of Ahithophell. And thou hast there with thee, Sadok & Abiathar the priestes, vnto whom thou shalte shewe all that thou canst heare, out of the kynges house. And behold, thei haue there with them their .ij. sonnes: Ahimaas Sadoks sonne, & Jonathas Abiathars sonne: by them also shall ye send me all that ye can heare. And so Husai Dauids frend, gat hym to the citee And Absalom also entered into Jerusalem.

The .xvi. Chapiter.

Ouerlong A. And when Dauid was a little paste the toppe of the hill: behold, Ziba the seruant of Miphiboseth, came to meete hym, with a couple of Asses saddled, and vpon them .ij. C loues, and .c. C bonches of reisens, and an .c. C traules of dried figges, and a bottle of wine. And the kyng said vnto Ziba: what meanest thou with these? And Ziba said: thei be asses for the kynges houshold to ride on, and bread and fruit, for the yong men to eate, and wine that suche as be faint in the wildernes, maie drinke. And the kyng said: where is thy maisters sonne? Ziba answered vnto the kyng: behold, he tarieth still at Jerusalem. For he said: this daie shall the house of Israel restore me, the kyngdo of my father. Then said the kyng to Ziba: Behold, thyne are all thyng pertened vnto Miphiboseth. And Ziba said: I do homage to thee: I beseche thee, that I may find grace in thy sight, my lorde, o kyng. And when kyng Dauid came to Bahurim, behold, there came out a man, of the kynred of the house of Saull, named Semei the sonne of Gera, & he came out cursyng. And he cast stones at Dauid, and at all the seruantes of kyng Dauid. And all the people also, and all the men of warre, were on his right hand, and on his left. And thus said Semei, when he cursed: come furthe, come furthe, thou bloudsheder: and thou man of Beliai. The Lorde hath brought vpon thee, all the blood of the house of Saul, in whose stede thou hast reigned, and the lorde hath deliuered the kyngdom, into the hond of Absalom thy sonne. And behold, thou art come to thy mischief, because thou art a bloudsheder. Then said Abisai the sonne of Sarui, vnto the kyng: why wil this dedde dogge, curse my lorde the kyng? Let me go now, and take of the hed of hym. And the kyng said: what haue I to do with you, ye sonnes of Sarui, let hym curse: For the Lorde hath bidden hym curse Dauid. Who dare then saie: wherefore hast thou doen so? And Dauid saw to Abisai, and to all his seruantes: Behold, my sonne, which came of myne owne body, seketh my life. How much more then maie this sonne of Jemini doe it? Suffre him to curse, for the lorde hath bidden hym. happely the Lorde will loke on my weping yies and quite me good, and do me good for his cursyng this day. And as Dauid and his menne went by the waie, Semei went a long on the hilles side, ouer against hym, and cursed as he went, and threwe stones at hym, and cast dust. And the kyng and all that was with hym came weery, and refreshed themselues there. And Absalom, and all the people of the men of Israel, came to Jerusalem, and Ahithophel was with hym. And assone as Husai the Archite, Dauids frend was come vnto Absalom, he said vnto hym: God saue the kyng, God saue the kyng. And Absalom said again to Husai: Is this the kyndnes, thou owest to thy frend? Why went thou not with hym? Husai answered vnto Absalom: naye not so: but whom the lorde, and this people, and all the menne of Israel chose, his will I be, & with hym will I dwel. Moreouer, vnto whom shall I do seruice, but euen to his sonne? And as I was seruant before, with thy father, euen so shall I be with thee. Then spake Absalom to Ahithophel: geue counsaill, what is best for vs to do. And Ahithophel said vnto Absalom, get thee in, vnto thy fathers concubines, which he hath left to kepe the house. And all Israel shall heare that thou art cast out of thy father: then shal the handes of all that are with thee be stro-

And the counsail of Achithophel: which he counsailed in thote daies, was as a man had asked counsaill of God: euen so was all the counsail of Achithophel both with Dauid & with Absalom. ¶ The. xvij. Chapiter.

The.6. daie. Sitting. A. Moreouer Achithophell said to Absalom: let me chose out now xij. M. meane. And I will vp and followe after Dauid this nighte. And I will come vpon hym, while he is wery and weake handed, and will feare hym. And all the people that are with hym shall flie. And so I wil smite the kyng onely, and will bring again all the people vnto thee, euen as easily, as if I would bring any other thyng. And when I haue slain the man, whom thou seekest, all the people shall haue rest. And the saying pleased Absalom well, and all the Elders of Israell. Then said Absalom: call also Husai the Arachite, and let vs heare his counsaill.
When Husai was come to Absalom, Absalom spake vnto hym, saying. Achithophel hath gi-uen suche counsail: shall we do after his saying, or no? Tell thou. Husai answered vnto Absalom, the counsaill that Achithophel hath geuen, is not good at this time: for (said Husai) thou knowest thy father, & his men, how that thei be strog. And thei be chafed in their myndes, and are out as a bere, robbed of her whelpes in the fielde. Thy father is a man, also practised in the warre, and maketh no tarrying with the people. Beholde, he lurketh now in some caue, or in some other (strong) place. And though some of his men bee ouer-throwen at the first brunt, yet thei that heare it will say: the people that folowe Absalom, be put to the worse. And the best meane thou hast, whose hartes are, as the hartes of Lions, shall shynke thereat. For all Israell knoweth that thy father is a mightie mā, and thei whiche be with hym, are all men of war.
Therfore my counsaill is, that all Israel be gathered vnto thee, from Dan to Beersaba, (whiche are as the sand of the sea in nūber) and that thou goo to battaill in thyne awne person. For so shall we come vpō hym in one place or other, where we shall find him, & we wil fal vpō hym, euē as thicke, as dew falleth on the groūd. And of al the men that are with hym, we shal not leaue hym one. Moreouer, if he be gotten into a toune, then shall al the mē of Israell bring ropes to that citee, and we will draw it into the riuer, vntil there be not one stone found there. And Absalom, and al the men of Israell said: the counsaill of Husai the Arachite is better, then the counsaill of Achithophel. For it was euen the lorde's determination, to destroy the good counsail of Achithophel: that the lorde might bring euill vpon Absalom. Then said Husai vnto Sadok and Ebiathar the Priestes: Of this and that maner did Achithophel, and the elders of Israel, counsaill Absalom. And thus and thus haue I counselled. Now therfore send quickly, and tell Dauid, saying: tary not al nighte in the fieldes of the wildernes, but get thee ouer lest the kyng be deuoured, & all the people that are with hym. Nowe Jonathas and Achimaas, abode by the well of Rogell: (for thei might not be seen to come into the citee) And a wenche went, and told theim. And thei went, and shewed kyng Dauid. Neuertheless a lad saw them, and told it to Absalom. But thei went bothe of theim awaie quickly, and came to a mannes house in Bahurim, whiche had a well in his yard, into the whiche thei wente doune. And a woman toke and spred a couerlet, ouer the welles mouth, and strawed frumentie corne thereon. And the thyng was not espied. And when Absalom's seruaunts came to the wife to the house, thei said: where is Ahimaas and Jonathas? The woman answered thē: thei be gone ouer the litle broke of water. And when thei had sought thē, and could not find them, thei returned to Jerusalem. And assone as thei were departed, the other came out of the well, and went and told kyng Dauid, and said vnto hym: vp, and get you quickly ouer the water, for such counsaill hath Achithophell, geuen against you. Then Dauid arose, & all the people that were with hym, and thei were come ouer Jordan, by that it was daie. So that there lacked not one of theim, that was not come ouer Jordan. And whē Achithophell saw, that his counsaill was not folowed, he sadled his asse, and arose, & gat hym home to his awne house, and to his awne citee, and put his houshold in order, & hanged hymselfe, and died, and was buried in the Sepulchre of his father. Then Dauid came to Mahanaim. And Absalom passed ouer Jordan, he and all the men of Israell with hym. And Absalom made Amasa, capitain of the host, in the stede of Joab, whiche Amasa was a mannes sonne, named Jethra, an Israelite, that went into Abigail the daughter of Nahas, sister to Sernia, Joabs mother.
So Israel and Absalom, pitched in the land of Gilead. And whē Dauid was come to Ma-hanaim, Sobi the sonne of Nahas, out of Rabba the citee of the children of Ammon, and Machir the sonne of Ammiel out of Lo-debar, and Barzelai the Gileadite, out of Ro-glim brought beddes, bacens, yerthen vessels, wheate and barly floure, and parched corne, beanes, rice, otemeale, hony, butter, shepe and chese of kine, for Dauid & al the people that were with him, to eate. For thei said: the people is hungery, wery and thirstie in the wil-dernesse. ¶ The. xviij. Chapiter.

and of hundreders ouer them/ And Dauid sent furthe the thied part of the people, vnder the hande of Joab, and another parte, vnder the hande of Abisai the sonne of Jeruia, Joabs brother, and the other thirde parte, vnder the hand of Ithai the Gethite/ And the kyng said vnto the people: I will go with you also/ And the people answered: thou shalt not go forth, for if we flie, our aduersaries will not care for vs, neither shall they regarde vs, though half of vs were slain: but thou art worth .x. M. of vs, wherefore it is better, that thou succour vs, out of the citee/ And the kyng said vnto them: what semeth you best, that I will do. And the kyng stoode by the gate side, and all the people came out by hundreders, & by thousanders, and the kyng commaunded Joab and Abisai, and* Ithai, saying: intreate the yong man Absalom, gently for my sake. And all the people hard, that the kyng gaue all the captaines charge, concernyng Absalom/ And so the people went out into the field, against Israell, and the battaill was in the wood of Ephraim: where the people of Israel, were put to the worse, before the seruantes of Dauid, and there was a greate slaughter that daie, euen of .xx. M. men. For the feld was fought there in diuerse places, all abrode vpon the yeartly/ And the woodde deuoured mo people that daie, then did the sweard/ And Absalom came before the seruantes of Dauid, ridyng vpon a Mule, whi che caried hym vnder the thicke bower, of a greate Oke. And his hed was caught of the Oke, and he was lifte vp betwene heauen and yerth: and the mule that was vnder hym, went his waie. And one that sawe it, told Joab, saying: behold, I saw Absalom hyng in an Oke/ and Joab saied vnto the man, that told hym: if thou didest se hym, why diddest not thou there, smite hym to the grounde, and I would haue geuen thee .x. Cicles of siluer, and a girdle/ The manne saied vnto Joab: though thou wouldest laye a .M. cicles of siluer, in myne hande, yet would I not stretche out myne hand against the kynges sonne. For we hard with our eares, whi the kyng charged thee, and Abisai, and Ithai saiyng: Beware, that none touche the young man Absalom. Moreouer, if I had doen it, I should haue doen against myne owne life: for there is no matter hid from the kyng. Yea, and then thy self wouldest haue bene against me/ Then said Joab: I make not haste thus ryding with thee: And he caught three speres in his hande, and thrust them through Absalom, while he was yet liuyng in the hert of the tree/ And tenne seruantes that bare Joabs weapons, turned and smote Absalom, and slew hym/ And when Joab blew the trompet, the people returned from followyng Israell. For Joab spared the people/ And they tooke Absalom, and cast hym into a greate pit, in the wood, and laied a mighty greate heap of stones vpon hym/ And all Israell fled to their tentes/ And the kyng Absalom, yet in his time toke & set vp an image, and reared vp a pillar, which is in the kynges vale. For he said: I haue no sonne: And therfore, to kepe my name in remembrance of it, had he called the pillar after his own name. And it is called vnto this daie: Absalomes pillar/ Then said Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadoh: let me run now, and beare the kyng tidynges, how that the lord hath iudged him quite, of the hand of his enemies/ And Joab said vnto him: thou art no man, to beare good tidynges to daie: thou shalt beare tidynges an other time, but to daie thou shalte beare none: because the kynges sonne is dead/ Then said Joab to Chusi: go, & tell the kyng, what thou hast seen. And Chusi bowed himself vnto Joab, and ran/ Then said Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadoh again to Joab: come, what come will, let me also runne after Chusi/ And Joab said: wherfore wilt thou run my sonne? Seyng that for the tidynges thou shalt haue no reward. Well (said he) come what will, let me run. He said vnto hym: run. Then Ahimaaz ranne by the plain waie, and came before Chusi. And Dauid sat betwene the .ij. gates. And the watchman went vp to the roof ouer the gate, vnto the wall, and lift vp his eyes, and sawe, and behold, there came a man, runnyng alone. And the watchman cried and told the kyng/ And the kyng said: if he be alone, there is good tidynges in his mouthe. And he came, and drewe nie/ And the watchman saw another man runnyng, and he called vnto the porter, and said: behold, there commeth another manne, runnyng alone. And the king said: he is also a tidynges bringer. And the watchman said: me thinketh the runnyng of the formoste, is like the runnyng of Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadoh/ The kyng said: he is a good man, and commeth with good tidynges/ And Ahimaaz called, and said vnto the kyng: all good tidynges, and he fell doune flat to the yerth vpon his face, before the kyng, and said: blessed be the Lorde thy God, which hath shut vp the men, that lift vp their hades against my lorde the kyng/ And the kyng said: is the yong man Absalom safe? Ahimaaz answered: when Joab sent Chusi the kynges seruant, and me thy seruant, I saw muche a doubt/ I wot not what it was/ and the kyng said vnto hym: turne and stande here. And he turned, and stoode still/ And behold, Chusi came also, and said: good tidynges my lorde the kyng, for the Lorde hath quite the this daie, out of the hande of all them, that rose against thee/ And the kyng said vnto Chusi: Is the yong manne Absalom safe? Chusi answered: The enemies of my Lorde the kyng, and all that rise against thee, to doe hurte, be as that yong manne is.

And the kyng was moued, and went vp to a chamber ouer the gate, and wept. And as he went, thus he cried: O my sonne Absalom, my

AND it was told Joab: Behold, the kyng mourneth and weepeth for Absalom. And the victorie of that daie, was turned into mour-nyng, vnto all the people. For the people heard saie that daie, how the kyng sorowed for his sonne. And the people stale awaie that daie, from goyng into the Cities, as people confounded, so stale awaie, when they flie in battail. But the kyng hid his face, and cried with a loude voyce. O my sonne Absalom, O Absalom my sonne, my sonne. And Joab came into the houte to the king, and said: thou hast shamed this daie, the faces of all thy seruants, which the this daie haue saued thy life, and the liues of thy sonnes, and of thy daughters, and the liues of thy wiues, and of the cõcubines, in that thou louest thine enemies, and ha-test thy frendes. For thou hast declared this daie, that thou regardest neither thy lordes nor seruantes. And this day I am perceiue, that if Absalom had liued, and all we had died this daie, that had pleased thee well. Now therefore vp, and come out, and speake kindly vnto thy seruantes: for I sweare by the lorde, except thou come out, there wil not tary one man with thee this night. And that will be worse vnto thee, then all the euill that fell on thee, from thy youthe vnto this houte. Then the kyng arose, & sat downe in the gate. And then told vnto all the people, saiyng: Behold, the kyng doth sit in the gate. And all the people came before the kyng. But Israell fled, eue-ry man to his tet. And it fortuned, that all the people were at strife, throughout all the trib-bes of Israel, saiyng: the kyng saued vs out of the hande of our enemies, he deliuered vs out of the hande of the Philistines, and now he is fled out of the land for Absalom. But Absalom, whom we anoynted ouer vs, is deade in battail. Therefore, why are ye so still, that ye bryng not the kyng again? And kyng Dauid sent to Sadoc, and Abiathar the priestes, saying: speake vnto the elders of Juda, and say: why are ye behynd, to bryng the kyng again to his houte, seeyng that the talke throughout all Israell, vnto the kyng, euen vnto his houte? For the kyng had said thus vnto you: ye are my brethren, my bones and my flesh, wherefore then are ye the last, that bryng the kyng home again? And saie ye to Amasa: art thou not my bone, and of my flesh? God do so & so to me & thou be not capitain of the hoste to me for euer, in the rome of Joab. And he bowed the hartes of all the menne of Juda, euen as the harte of one man: so that they sent this word to the kyng: returne thou with all thy seruan-tes. So the kyng returned, and came to Jordan. And Juda came to Gilgal, for to go mete the kyng, & to conuey him ouer Jordan. And Semei the sonne of Gera, the sonne of Jemini, which was of Bahurim, hasted & came with the men of Juda, to mete kyng Da-uid, & there were .M. men of Beniamin with him, and Siba the seruant of the house of Saul, and his .xv. sonnes, and .xx. seruantes with him. And they went quickly ouer Jordan, before the kyng. And there went ouer a Bote, that caried ouer the kynges houshold, and did him pleasure. And Semei the sonne of Gera, fell before the kyng (as he was come ouer Jordan) and said vnto him: Let not my lorde imputte wickednes vnto me, nor remembre the thynges, that thy seruaunt did wickedly, when my lorde the kyng, departed out of Jerusalem: that the kyng should take it to hart. For thy seruant doth knowe, how that I haue synned. And therefore, behold, I am the first this daie, of all the house of Joseph, that am come to go mete my lorde the kyng. But Abisai the sonne of Sarui, answered, and said: shal not Semei die for this because he cursed the lorde anoynted? And Dauid said: what matter is betwene you and me, ye sonnes of Sarui? For this daie ye be aduersaries vnto me. Shall there any man die this daie in Israell? Doo not I know me, that I am this daie kyng ouer Israell? And therefore the kyng said vnto Semei: thou shalt not die. & the kyng sware vnto him. And Miphiboseth the sonne of Saul, came also to mete the kyng, and had neither washed his feete, nor trimd his beard, nor washed his clothes from the time the kyng departed, vntil he came again in peace. And it fortuned, that when he was come to Jerusalem, and met the kyng, the kyng said vnto him: wherefore wil-test not thou with me Miphiboseth? He answered: my lorde, O kyng, my seruant deceiued me. For thy seruaunt said: I would haue made me ready the lasden to ride thereon, for to go to the kyng, because thy seruaunt is lame. And Siba hath falsly reported of thy seruant, vnto my lorde the kyng. And my lorde the kyng, is as an angel of god: do therefore, what semeth good in thyne eyes. For all my fathers houte was but dede men, before my lorde the kyng, & yet didest thou put thy seruant, among them that did eate at thine awne table. What right therefore haue I yet, to crie any more to the kyng. And the kyng said vnto him: why spea-kest thou yet in thyne awne cause? I haue determined, that I haue said: thou and Siba deuide the landes betwene you. And Miphibo-seth said vnto the kyng: yea, let him take all, for so much as my lorde the kyng, is come again in peace, vnto his awne houte. And Moglim, and wente ouer Jordane with the kyng, to conuey him ouer Jordan. Berzelai was a very aged man, euen fourescore yere olde, and prouided the kyng of sustenaunce, while he lay at Mahanaim: for he was a man of very great substaunce. And the kyng said vnto Berzelai: come thou with me, and I wil feede the with me in Jerusalem. And Berzelai said vnto the kyng: I am thus olde, and how am I able to go vp with the kyng vnto Jerusalem? I am this day fourescore yere olde: and can I discerne betwen good and euyll? Hath thy seruaunt any taste in that he eateth or drynketh? Can he heare any more the voyce of synging men & women? Wherfore then shuld thy seruaunt be yet a burthen vnto my lorde the kyng? Thy seruaunt wyl go a litle waye ouer Jordan with the kynge and why wyll the Kynge recompence it me with suche a reward? O let thy seruaunt turne backe againe, that I may dye in mine owne citie, and (be buried) in the graue of my father and of my mother. Beholde, here is thy seruaunt Chimeam, let him go with my lord the kyng, and do to him what shal pleace the.

And the kyng answered, Chimeam shal go with me. And I wil do to him that thou shalt be content with. And whatsoeuer thou shalt requyre of me, that came wyll I do for the. And all the people went ouer Jordane. And when the kyng was come ouer Jordane, he kyssed Berzelai, and blessed him, and he went backe againe vnto his owne place. And then the kyng went to Gilgal, and Chimeam went with hym, and so did all the people of Juda, and brought ouer the kyng and ther were but halfe the men of Israell. And behold, all the men of Israell came to the kynge, and sayde vnto him: why haue our brethren the men of Juda stolen the away, and haue brought the kyng and his houshold, and all Dauids men with him ouer Jordane? And all the men of Juda answered the men of Israell: the kyng is nere of kyn to vs: wherfore be ye angrye for the matter? thinke ye that we eate of the kynges cost, or that we take vs any giftes? And the men of Israell answered the men of Juda, & said: we haue ten partes in the kyng, and haue therto more right to Dauid then ye. Why then did ye dispise vs, that our aduise shuld not be first had, in restoryng oure kyng againe? And the wordes of the men of Juda were fearcer then the wordes of the men of Israel.

The. xx. Chapiter.

Then there came thyther a certaine man of Belial (named Seba, the sonne of Bichri, a man of Gemini) he blewe a trompet, and said: we haue no part in Dauid, neyther haue we inheritance in the sonne of Jai: let the men of Israel departe vnto their tentes. And so euery man of Israell went fro Dauid and folowed Seba the sonne of Bichri. But the men of Juda claue fast vnto their kyng, from Jordan to Jerusalem. And Dauid came to his house to Jerusalem, and toke the ten women his cocubines, that he had lefte behinde hym to kepe the house, and put them in warde, and fedde them: but lay nomore with them. And so thei were enclosed vnto the day of their death, liuyng in wydowhod. Then saide the kyng to Amasa: cal me the men of Juda together against the third daye, and be thou here also. And so Amasa went to gather the men of Juda together: but taried longer then the time whiche he had appointed him. And Dauid said to Abisai, now shal Seba the sonne of Bichri do vs more harme, then dyd Absalom. Take thou therfore thy lordes seruauntes and folow after him, lest he get hym walled cities, and escape vs. And there went out after hym Joabs men, and the Crethites and the Phelethites, and all the mightiest men. And they departed out of Jerusalem, to folowe after Seba the sonne of Bichri. And when they were at the greate stone in Gibeon, Amasa went before them. And Joabs garment (that he had about hym) was gyrde vnto hym, and he had gyrded thereon a knife, whiche was fayned fast to his loynes in such a sheeth, that (as he went) it fel sometimes out. And Joab saide to Amasa: art thou in helth my brother? And Joab toke Amasa by the chyn with his right hand to* kysse him. But Amasa toke no hede to the knife that was in Joabs hande, for therwith he smot hym* in the fyfte ribbes, and shed out his bowels to the ground, and thrust at him nomore, & he died.

And Joab and Abisai his brother folowed after Seba the sonne of Bichri, and one of Joabs men stode by him, & saide: he that beareth any fauor to Joab or good wyl to Dauid, let hym go after Joab. And Amasa laye walowed in blod in the midde of the waye. And there was a man, whiche when he saw* that all the people stode stil, he conueied Amasa out of the way into the feld, & cast a cloth vpō him, because he saw that euery one that came stode stil by him. And assone as he was tombled out of the way: all the people wente after Joab, to folowe after Seba the sonne of Bichri. And he went thorow all the tribes of Israel vnto Abel, and Bethmaacha and al the places of Barim. And thei gathered together, & wente after him. And thei came, and besieged him in Abel and Bethmaacha. And thei cast vp a banke against the Citie that stode in the valley. All the people that was with Joab, thrust at the walle to ouerthrowe it. Then cried a wyse woman out of the citie, heare, heare, bid Joab come hyther that I may speake with him. Whē Joab was come vnto her, the woman said, art thou Joab, he answered: I am he. For so haue thei continued thither to, I am one of the, that are peaceable & faithful in Israel: & thou goest about to destroy W. a Citie and a mother in Israell. Why wylte thou devoure the inheritaunce of the Lorde? And Joab answered, and said: God forbyd, god forbid it me, that I shuld either devoure or destroye. The matter is not so: but a man of mounte Ephraim (Seba the sonne of Bichri by name) hath lift vp his hand against the kyng, even against Dauid. Deliuer hi him only, & I wil depart from the citie. And the woman said vnto Joab: Behold, his head shalbe throwen to the ouer the wal. And then the woma went vnto all the people with her wisdome. And thei smote of the hed of Seba the sonne of Bichri, and caste it out to Joab.

The iij. day at Mattyns.

THen there fel an hungre in the dayes of Dauid, thre yeres together. And Dauid inquired of the lord. And the lord answered: it is for Saul, and the house of blod, because he slew the* Gibaonites. And the king called the Gibaonites, & said vnto them. (Now the Gibaonites were not of the* children of Israel, but a remnaunt of the Amorites, and the children of Israel sware vnto them: And Saul sought to slay them: for a zele that he had to the children of Israell and of Juda.
ii. Reg. xxi. g. Wherfore Dauid said vnto them: what shall I do for you, & wherwith shall I make the attonemēt that ye may bleste the inheritaunce of the lorde? The Gibaonites answered him. We will haue no siluer nor golde, of Saul, nor of his house: neither is it ours minde that thou shuldest kyl any man in Israel. He said: what say ye then that I shal do for you? Thei answered the kyng, the man that consumed vs & imagined to bring vs to nought, him, wil we destroy, that nought of him remaine in any of the coostes of Israel. Let vs. men of his sonnes be deliuered vnto vs, and we wyl hange them vp vnto the lorde, in Gibeah of Saul, whom the lorde did chose. And
V. the kyng said: I wil geue them you. But the kyng had compassion on Miphibofeth the sonne of Jonathas the sonne of Saul, because of the lordes othe, that was betweue them: euen betweue Dauid & Jonathas the sonne of Saul. But he toke the .v. sonnes of Rizpa the doughter of Aia (whome he bare vnto Saul) euen Armoni & Miphibofeth, & the .v. sonnes of Michol (the doughter of Saul) whom he bare to Adriel the sonne of Berzilai, the Meholathite. And he deliuered thē vnto the handes of the Gibeonites, whi the hāged thē in the hil before the lord. And thei fel al vp together, & were slaine in the dayes of haruest: euen in the first dayes, & in
C. the beginning of barley haruest. And Rizpa the doughter of Aia toke sackcloth & hanged it vp afore them vpon the rocke, euen vnto the beginning of haruest, vntill rayne dropped vpon them out of heauen: & suffered neyther the byrdes of the ayre to sit on them by day: nor beastes of the felde by night. And it was told Dauid what Rizpa the doughter of Aia the concubine of Saul had done: and Dauid went and toke the bones of Saul & of Jonathas his sonne fro the men of Jabes in Gilead (which had stolen them fro the strete of Bethsan where the Philistines had hanged them when the Philistines had slaine Saul in Gilboa.) And he brought thēce the bones of Saul & the bones of Jonathas his sōne, and thei toke vp the bones of them that were hanged. And the bones of Saul & Jonathas his sonne buried thei in the countrie of Benjamin in Zela, in the sepulchre of Cis his father. And when thei had performed all that the kyng commaunded, God was then at one with the lande. It fortuned, that the Philistines had yet warre againe with Israell. And

And yet after this, there was a battayle with the Philistines at Nob, and then Sibbecha the Huthathite slewe Saph, whiche was one of the sonnes of the giauntes. And there was yet an

And when he defyed Israell, Jonathas the sonne of Simea the brother of Dauid slew hym. Thefe foure Giaunter were borne in Geth, and fell into the hande of Dauid, and into the handes of his feruauntes.

Ouercome. ¶ Dauid fpake the wordes of this fong vnto the lord, what time the lord had deliuered him out of the hād of al his enemies, And out of the hand of Saul. And he fayd: the lord is my ſtorke and my caſtel, and my deliuerer. God is my ſtrengthe, in hym will I truſt: he is my ſhyld, and the horne of my ſalnacion: my worſhyp & my refuge: my ſauior, thou ſhalt ſaue me from wrong. * I will call on the lord whiche is prayſe worthye, and ſo ſhal I be ſaued from mine enemies. For the coꝛruptions of death cloſed me aboute: the flodes of Beliał put me in feare. The ſoꝛowes of hel capaſſed me about: the ſnares of death ouertoꝛe me. In my tribulaciō will I call vpon the Lorde, and crie to my God. And he ſhall heare my voyce out of his temple, and my crie ſhall enter into his eares. The yearth trembled and quaked: the foundacions of heauen moued and ſhoke, when he was angry. Smoke went vp in his wrath, & conſumyng fyre oute of his mouthe, coales were kyndled therof. And he bowed heauen, and came down, & there was darckenes vnder his fete. And he ſat vpon Cherub & did flye, he was ſene caried vpon the wynges of the wynde. He made darckenes a tabernacle rounde about hym, with waters gathered together in theyꝛe cloudes. Thoꝛowe the brightnes of his preſence war the fire coales kyndled. God thondred from heuen, & he that is moſt hie, doth put out his voyce. He ſhot arowes, & ſcatered them: he hurled lightning, & ouerthꝛew them. The bowynges of the ſea appeared, & the foundacions of the world were ſene, by the reaſon of the rebukyng of the lord, & thoꝛow the blaſtyng of the breath of his noſethrels. He ſhal ſende from heauen, & fet me, he ſhal pluck me out of many waters. He ſhal deliuer me frō my mighty aduerſary, & from mine enemies, foꝛ thei are to ſtronge foꝛ me. When thei had ouertaken me in the day of my calamitie the Lorde caied me vp. For he brought me out into rowmeth he deliuered me, becauſe he had a loue vnto me.

C. Rom.5.b. * The lord wil reward me accoꝛdyng to my righteouſnes: accoꝛdyng to the puretes of my handes will he recōpence me. For I haue kept the wayes of the lord, and done no wyckednes againſt my God. For al his lawes are in my ſight, & his ſtatutes wyl not I put away fro me. In his ſight alſo haue I bene vndefiled, & haue kept me fro mine owne iniquite. And the lorde did to me againe, accoꝛding to my righteouſnes, euē after my puretes in his eye ſight. With the godlye thou ſhalt be godly & with the man that is vncoꝛrupt, thou ſhalt be vncoꝛrupt. With the pure thou ſhalte be pure: and with the frowarde thou ſhalt be froward. And the poore people that ar in aduerſitie, thou ſhalt helpe. And on the proude ſhalt thou caſt thyne eyes. Thou arte my light O lord: the lord ſhal lighte my darkeneſſe. For with thy helpe I will rāne thoꝛowe an hoſt of men, and in my God will I ſkyppe ouer a wal. God is vncoꝛrupte in his way: the word of the lord is tried in the fyre: he is the defender of al them that truſt in him. For who is a God ſaue the lorde? and who is mighty, ſaue our God? God ſtrengtheth me with power, & riddeth the waye in battail cleare before me. He maketh my fete lyke harties fete, and ſetteth me faſt vpon my hye hold. * He teacheth my handes to fight, that euen a bow of ſteele is to weake for mine armes. Thou haſt geuen me the ſhild of thy ſaluacion, and with thy louing mekenes thou doeſt multiply me. Thou ſhalt make me ſpace to walke in, and my legges ſhal not fayle me. I will followe vpon myne enemies and deſtroye them, and turne not againe vntyll I haue conſumed them. I will waſte them and ſmite them, that they ſhall not be able to aryſe: yea, thei ſhall fall vnder my fete. Thou haſt gyrded me about with mighte to battail, and them that aroſe againſte me, haſte thou ſubdued vnder me. And thou madeſt min enemies (and them that hated me) to turne their backes to me that I might deſtroye them. Thei loke foꝛ helpe, but ther is none to ſaue them, Yea, euen vnto the Lord do they crie, but he heareth them not. I will beate them as ſmall as the duſte of the yearth: I will ſtampe them as the dyrte of the ſtreete and will ſpread them abrode. Thou ſhalt deliuer me from the ſtrifes of my people: thou ſhalt kepe me to be an head ouer nacions: the people which I knew not, ſhal ſerue me. Straunge children diſſeble with me. At the hearing of the eare thei obey me. Straunge children will wyncke awaye, and thei ſhalbe ſmitten with feare in theyꝛ priuy chamber. God is alyue, & bleſſed be my maker, magnifyed be God, my moſt ſtrong ſaluacion. It is God that auēgeth me, & bringeth down the people vnder me. He deliuereth me fro min enemies, thou alſo ſhalt lifte me vp on hye from them that ryſe againſte me, thou ſhalte deliuer me from the wycked men. And therfore I will prayſe the (O lord) among the nacions, and will ſynge vnto thy name. Whiche ſheweth greate ſaluacion foꝛ his kynge and dealeth mercifully with his anoynted: euen with Dauid, and with his ſede foꝛ euermoꝛe.

of Adullam, and the hoste of the Philistines abode in the valey of giaumtes. And Dauid was then in an holde. And the soudiours of the Philistines were in Bethlehem. And Da-uid longed and saide: Oh, that I had of the water that is in the wel by the gat of Bethlehem, for to drincke. And the thre mightye brake thorow the host of the Philistines, & fet water out of the well of Bethlehem that was by the gate, & toke & brought it to Da-uid. Neuertheles he wolde not drinke ther-of, but offredit vnto the lord, and sayde: the lifte vp his speare against CCC. & slewe them, and had the name among the thre. For he was nobler man then the thre, and was their captaine. Howbeit he attained not vnto the first thre. And Banaiahu the sonne of D.

Jehoiada (the sone of a mighty man) valiant in actes, of Kabzeel slew two stong lyons, euen lions of Moab. He went downe also, & slew a lion in a pyt in time of snowe. And he slew an Egiptia goodly bigge man, which had a speare in his hand. But he went down to him with a staffe, & plucked the speare out of the Egiptians hand, & slew him with his owne speare. These thinges did Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, & had the name amog the thre worthies. He was honorable amonge thirty, but he attained not to the (first) thre.
And Dauid made him of his counsel. Asahel the brother of Joab also was one of the thirty. Then Elhanan the sone of Dodo of Bethlehem: Samma the Haronite: Elica the Harodite: Helez the Paltite: Ira the sonne of Ikes the Thekoite: Abiezer of Anathoth Mebunai the Hushathite: Zelmon in Ahohite:

The. xxiij. Chapiter.

A Nd againe the lord was wroth against A Euentyng.
Israel, & he moued Dauid against them, in that he said: * go and nombre Israell and Exod. xxx. b Juda. For the kyng said to Joab the captaine of his host: go thou about now thorow out all the tribes of Israel: euen tō Dan ta Beersheba, & nōbre ye the people, that I may know the nombre of the. And Joab said vnto the kyng I beseech the lord thy God, to make thy people as many mo as thei be: yea & an hundred times so many mo, and that the eyes of my Lord the kyng may se them. And what is the cause that my lorde the kyng hath a lust to this thynge? Notwithstandynge the kynges worde preuayled against Joab & a- B. gainst the captaines of the host. And Joab & the captaines of the host went out from the presence of the kyng, to nombre the people of Israel. And thei passed ouer Jordan, & pyt-ched in Aroer on the right syde of the cite that lieth in the middes of the valey of Gad ouer against Jazer. And thei came to Gilead, & to the nether lād, wher was a new habitacō, and from thence thei came to Dan Jaan a-B. bout to Sidon, and came to the strong holde of Tyre and to all the cities of the Hevites and of the Chananites, and then went oute to the South of Juda eue to Beersaba. And so, when thei had ben abrode thorow out al the land, thei returned to Jerusalem again, after the ende of .ix. monethes and twenty dayes. And Joab delyuered vp the nombre & summe of the people vnto the kyng. And there were in Israel .viij. hundred thousand men of might that drewe swordes. And the men of Juda were fyue hundred thousand men. And Dauids harte smote him, after that he had nombred the people. And Dauid saide vnto the Lorde: I haue synned exceedyngly in that I haue done. And nowe Lorde take away the trespace of thy seruant, for I haue done very foolyshly. And when Dauid was vp in a morenyng, the worde of the Lorde came vnto the prophet Gad Dauids seer, saiynge: go and say vnto Dauid, thus sayeth the Lord: I offre the thre thinges, chose the whiche of them I shal do vnto the. So Gad came to Dauid, and shewed hym, and saide vnto hym. Wylte thou haue .vij. yeares honger to come in thy lande, or wylte thou flee .iij. monethes before thyne enemies, they folowynge the, or that there be thre dayes pestilence in thy lande? Now therfore aduise the, and se, what answere I shal gyue to him that sente me. And Dauid saide vnto Gad: I am in extreme trouble. * We wyll fall nowe into the hande of the Lord, for muche is his mercy, and let me not fal into the hand of man. And so the lord sent a pestilence in Israel from the morenynge vnto the time appointed. And there died of the people from Dan to Berseba seuenty thousand men. And whē the angel stretched out his hande vpon Jerusalem to destroy it, the lorde had compassion to do that euel and said to the angel that destroyed the people: it is now sufficient: holde thyne hande. And the angel of the lord was by the threshyng place of Aretna the Jebusite. And Dauid spake vnto the Lord (when he sawe the angel that smote the people) and saide: lo, it is I that haue synned, and I that haue done wyckedly. But these shepe, what haue thei done? let thyne hande (I pray the) be a-D. gainst me and against my fathers house. And Gad came the same day to Dauid, and sayde vnto hym: go vp and reare an aulter vnto the Lord in the threshyng flowre of Aretna the Jebusite. And Dauid according to the saiyng of Gad, went vp, as the Lorde commaunded. And Aretna loked, & sawe the kyng and his seruauntes comynge towarde hym. And Aretna went oute: and bowed hym selfe before the kynge flat on his face vpon the ground, and Aretna said: wherfore is my lord the kyng come to his seruaunt? Dauid answered: to bye the threshyng flowre of the, & to make an aulter vnto the Lorde, that the plage may cease from the people. And Aretna said vnto Dauid: let my lord the kyng take & offre what semeth hym good in his eyes. Beholde here be oxen for burnte sacrifice, & sleades and the other instrumentes of the oxen for wood. All these thinges did Aretna geue vnto the kyng, and said moreouer vnto the kyng: the lorde thy God accepte the. And the kyng said vnto Aretna: not so but I wyl bye it of the at a price, and wyl not offre sacrifice vnto the Lorde my God of that which doth cost me nothyng. And so Dauid bought the threshyng floure, & the oxen for fyftye sicles of syluer. And Dauid built there an aultare vnto the Lorde, and offered burnt sacrifices and peace offerynges. And to the Lorde was intreated for the lande. And the plage ceased from Israel.

The.vi. daye at Mattyns. ij.

AND kynge Dauid was olde and stricken in yeres: so that when they couered hym with clothes he caught no heate. wherfore his seruauntes said vnto him: let there be sought for my Lorde the kyng a yong mayden, to stand before the kyng and to cherish hym. And let her lye in thy bosome, that my lorde the kyng maye get heate. And so thei sought for a fayre damosel thorow out al the coastes of Israel, and founde one Abisag a Sunamite, & brought her to the kyng. And the damosel was exceedyng fayre, and cherished the kyng, and ministred to hym. But the kyng knew her not. And Adonia the sonne of Hagith exalted him selfe, saiynge: I wylbe kyng. And he gat him charettes & horsemen, and fyfty men to renne before hym. And his father wolde not displease hym at any time, nor said so muche to hym, as, why doest thou so? And he was a goodly man, and his mother bare hym next after Absalom. And he toke counsel at Joab the sonne of Saruia, & at Abiathar the priest. ij. And thei helped Adonia. But Sadocke the priest, Banaiahu the son of Jehoiada, Nathan the prophet, Semei and Rei, and all the men of might whiche were with Dauid, fauoured not Adonia. And Adonia sacrificed shepe and oxen, and fat cattel, by the stone of Zoheleth, which is fast by the well of Rogel, and called all his brethren the kynges counte, and the men of Iuda the kynges seruantes. But Nathan the prophete, & Banaiahu, and the other mightie men, and Salomon his brother he called not. Wherefore Nathan spake vnto Bethsabe the mother of Salomon, saying: harke thou not herd howe that Adonia the son of Hagith doth raigne, and Dauid our lorde knoweth it not? Nowe therfore come, and I will geue the counsel, how to saue thine owne life, and the life of thy sonne Salomon. Go and get the in vnto kyng Dauid, and saye vnto hym: diddest not thou (my lord O kyng) sweare vnto thy handmayd, saying: Salomon thy sonne shal raigne after me, and he shall sytt vpon my seate, why is it then Adonia kyng? Beholde, whyle thou yet talkest ther with the kyng I will C. come in after the, and confirme thy wordes.

And Bethsabe went in vnto the kyng into the chamber. And the kyng was very olde, & Abisag the Sunamite ministred vnto the kyng. And Bethsabe stouped and made obeysaunce vnto the kyng. And the kyng said what is the matter? She answered him: my lord, thou swarest by the lord thy God vnto thine handmayd: Salomon thy sonne shall raigne after me, and he shal sytt vpon my seate. And beholde, now is Adonia kyng, & my lord the kyng wotteth not of it. And he hath offered oxen, fat catel, & many shepe, and hath called al the sonnes of the kyng, and Abiathar the priest, & Joab the captaine of the host. But Salomon thy seruannt hath he not bidden. And now my lord (O kyng) the eyes of al Israel wayt on the, that thou shuldest tel them, who ought to sytt on the seat of my lorde the kyng after hym. For els when my lorde the kyng shal slepe with his fathers, I and my sonne Salomon shalbe synners. And whyle D. he yet talked with the kynge, Nathan the prophet came also. And thei tolde the kynge saying: beholde, here commeth Nathan the prophete. And when he was come in to the kyng he made obeysaunce before the kynge vpon his face on the ground, & Natha said: My lorde (O kyng) hast thou saide: Adonia shall raigne after me, and shall sytt vpon my seate? For he is gone downe this daye, and hath slaine many oxen, and fat shepe, & hath called al the kynges sonnes, and the captaines of the host, and Abiathar the priest. And beholde thei eate and drincke before him, and say: God saue kyng Adonia. But me thy seruant, and Sadocke the priest, and Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, and thy seruant Salomon hath he not called. Is this thing done of my lorde the kyng, and thou hast not shewed it vnto thy seruant, who should sytt on the seat E. of my lorde the kyng after him? Then kyng Dauid answered, and said: cal me Bethsabe. And she came into the kynges presence, and stode before hym. And the kyng sware, saying. As truely as the lorde lyueth (that hath ryd my soule out of all aduersite) euen as I sweare vnto the by the Lord God of Israel saying: Salomon thy sonne shal raygne after me, and he shall sytt vpon my seate for me, so wyl I do this daye. Then Bethsabe bowed on her face to the yearth, and did reuerence vnto the kyng, and saide: I praye God that my lorde kyng Dauid maye lyue euer. And kyng Dauid said, cal me Sadocke the priest, and Nathan the prophet, & Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada. And ther came before the kyng. The kyng also said vnto them take with you the seruauntes of youre lord, & set Salomon my sonne vpon mine owne mule, & cary hym downe to Gihon. And let Sadocke the priest, and Nathan the prophet anointe hym there, kyng ouer Israell. And blowe ye with trompettes, and saye: God saue kyng Salomon. And then come vp after hym, that he maye come and sytt vpon my seat. For he shalbe kyng in my steade. And I wyll commaunde him to be captaine ouer Israell and Juda. And Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada answered the kyng, and said: Amen. I praye God that the lord God of my lord the kyng, saye so to. And as God hath bene with my lord the kyng, euen so be he with Salomon also, and make his seat greater, then the seat of my lord kyng Dauids hath bene. And so Sadock the priest, & Nathan the prophet, and Banaiahu the sone of Jehoiada, and the Crethites and Phelethites went down, and set Salomon vpon kyng Dauids Mule, and brought hym to Gihon. And Sadocke the priest toke an horne of oyle out of the tabernacle, and anoynted Salomon. And al the of the people blewe trompettes, and saide: God saue kynge Salomon. And all the people came vp after him, pypyng with pypes and reioycing greatly, so that the yearth range with the sounde of them. And Adonia and all the gestes that he had called vnto him, herd it, euen as thei had made an ende of eatyng. And when Joab herde the sounde of the trompete, he saide: howe happeneth it that there is suche a noyse in the cities? And as he yet spake: beholde, Jonathas the sone of Abiathar the priest came. And Adonia said vnto him: come in, for thou art a valiant man, and bringest good tidinges. And Jonathas answered and saide to Adonia: Verely our lorde kyng Dauid hath made Salomon kyng. And the kyng hath sent with him, Sadocke the priest, and Nathan the prophete and Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada & the Crethites, & the phelethites, & thei haue set hym vpon the kynges mule. And Sadocke the priest, and Nathan the prophete, haue anointed hym kyng in Gihon. And thei came vp again, & reioyced, that the citie did sound F. againe. And that is the noyse that ye haue herde. And Salomon syteth on the seat of the kyngdom And moreouer the kinges seruantes came to blesse our lorde kyng Dauid, sayyng: thy God make the name of Salomon more honorable then thy seat. And the kyng bowed himselfe vpon the bed. And thus sayd the kyng: Blessed be the Lorde God of Israell: whiche hath made one to sye on my seat this day, myn eye seyng it: And al the gestes that were with Adonia were afrayed, and rose vp, and went euery man his waye. And Adonia fearyng the presence of Salomon, arose, and wente, into the tabernacle of the lorde and caught hold on the hornes of the altar. And one tolde Salomon, sayyng: Behold, Adonia doth feare kyng Salomon: for he hath* caught holde on the hornes of the alter, sayyng: let kyng Salomon sweare vnto me this day that he wyl not slay his seruant with the swoorde. And Salomon sayde, yf he wylde a thyng of vertu, there shal not an heer of him fal to the yearth. But and if wyckednes be found in him, he shal die. And so kyng Salomon sente, and they brought hym from the aulter. And he came and dyd obeysaunce vnto kyng Salomon. And Salomon sayd vnto him get the to thin house. The. ij. Cha.

The dayes of Dauid drewe nye that he shoulde dye, and he charged Salomon hys sonne, sayenge: I go the waye of al the worlde, * be thou strong therfore, and shewe thy selfe a man. Kepe thou the watche of the Lorde thy God, that thou walcke in his wayes, & kepe his statutes, and his precepte, his iudgementes, and his testimonies, euen as it is written in the lawe of Moses: that thou mayest prospere in all that thou doest, and in euery thynge that thou medlest withall. That the lorde also may make good his worde which he spake vnto me, sayyng: if thy children take hede to their waye that they walke before me in trueth, with al their hartes, and with al their soules, * then shalt thou not be without a man on the seat of Israel. * Moreouer, thou wotest, how Joab the sonne of Saruia serued me, and what he dyd to the two captaines of the hostes of Israel: vnto Abner the sonne of Ner, and vnto Amasa the sonne of Jether: whom he slew, & shed bloud in time of peace (euen as it had ben in warre) & put the bloud of warre vpon his gyrdle that was about his loynes, & in his shoes that were on his fete. Walke with him therfore accordyng to thy wysedome, and bryng not his hoore head downe to the graue in peace. * But shew kyndnes vnto the sonnes of Berzelai the Gileadite, that they may eate at thy table. For they came to me, when I fled from Absalom thy brother.

* And beholde, thou hast with the Semei the sonne of Gera, the sonne of Gemini, of Bahurim, which cursed me with an horrible curse in the day when I went to Mahanaim. But he came to mete me at Jordane, and I sware to him by the lorde sayyng: I will not slaye the with the swoorde: but thou shalt not count hym as guyltey. For thou arte a man of wysedome, and knowest what thou oughtest to do vnto hym. His hore heade shalte thou bryng to the graue with bloude.

And so * Dauid slept with his fathers, and was buried in the citie of Dauid. And the dayes whiche Dauid raigned vpon Israell, were fourty yeres: seuen yeres raigned he in Hebron: and thyrty and thre yeres raigned he in Jerusalem. Then sat Salomon vpon the seate of Dauid his father, and his kyngdom was stablished mightely. And Adonia the sonne of Hageth came to Bethsabe the mother of Salomon. And she sayd: * Comest thou peaceably? And he sayd peaceably. He sayd, moreouer: I haue somewhat to say vnto the. She sayd: say on. And he sayd, thou knowest that the kyngdom was mine, and that all Israell set their eares on me, that I shuld raigne, howbeit, the kyngdome is turned awaye, and geuen to my brother: for it is apointed hym of the Lorde: and nowe I aske a peticion of the: deny me not.

And she sayde vnto hym: Saye on. And he sayde: Speake, I praye the, vnto Salomon the kyng, for he wil not say the naye, that he geue me Abisag the Sunamite to wyfe. And Bethsabe sayd: wel, I wil speake for the vnto the kyng. Bethsabe therfore wente vnto kyng Salomon, to speake vnto hym for Adonia. And the kyng rose to mete her and bowed him selfe vnto her, and sat hym down on his seat. And there was a seat set for the kynges mother, and she sat on his right syde, Then she sayd: I desyre a litel petitiō of the, I praye the saye me not nay. And the kyng sayd vnto her: Aske on my mother, for I wyl not saye the nay. She sayde: let Abisag the Sunamite be geuen to Adonia thy brother to wyfe. And kyng Salomon answered and sayd vnto his mother: why doest thou aske Abisag the Sunamite for Adonia? aske for hym the kyngdome also: for he is myne elder brother, & hath for hym Abiathar the priest and Joab the sonne of Saruia. Then kynge Salomon sware by the Lorde, sayyng: God do so, and so to me, if Adonia hath not spoken this worde againste his owne lyfe. Now therfore as truely as the Lord liueth, whiche hath ordeyned me, and set me on the seate of Dauid my father, and made me an house, as he promised, Adonia shal dye this day. And kyng Salomon sent by the hand of Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, and he smote him that he died. And vnto Abiathar the priest sayd the kyng: get the to Anatoth vnto thine owne feldes, for thou art worthye of death: but I wyll not at this tyme kyl the,

because thou hast the arke of the lord god before Dauid my father, & because thou hast suffered with my father in al his afflictions. And so Salomon put away Abiathar from being priest vnto the Lorde: that he might fulfil the wordes of the lord which he spake ouer the house of Elim Silo. Then tidinges came also to Joab: for Joab had turned after Adonia though he turned not after Absalom. And Joab fled vnto the tabernacle of the Lord and caught holde on the hornes of the aultare. And it was tolde kynge Salomon, howe that Joab fled vnto the tabernacle of the lord and stode by the aultar. Then Salomon sent Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, saiynge: go and fal vpon hym. And Banaiahu came to the tabernacle of the Lorde, and sayde vnto hym. Thus sayeth the kynge: come out. And he saide: nay, but I wyl dye euen here. And Banaiahu brought the kynge worde againe, saiynge: thus sayde Joab, and thus he answered me. And the kyng saide. Do euen as he hath said, smite hym, and burye hym, that thou mayest take away the blood which Joab shed causeles, from me, & from the house of my father. And the Lorde shall bringe his blood vpon his owne head, for he smote two men righteyer & better then he, and slew them with the sworde, my father Dauid not knowynge thereof: euen Abner the son of Ner, captaine of the hoste of Israell, and Amasa the sonne of Jether captayne of the hoste of Juda. Their bloude shal therfore returne vpon the head of Joab, and on the head of his sede for euer. But vpon Dauid, and vpon his sede, & vpon his house, and vpon his seate shal ther be peace for euer of the lorde. So Banaiahu the son of Jehoiada went vp, and smote hym, and slew him, and buryed him in his owne house in the wylderneffe. And the kyng put Banaiahu the son of Jehoiada in his rowme ouer the hoste and put Sadoche the priest in the rowme of Abiathar. And the kyng sente and called Semei, and saide vnto hym: buylde thee an house in Jerusalem, and dwell there: and se that thou go not forth thence any whether. For be thou sure, that the daye that thou goest out, and passest ouer the riuer of Cedron, thou shalte dye that daye, and thy bloud shalbe vpon thine owne head. And Semei saide vnto the kynge. This is a good thynge, as my lorde the kyng hath sayde: so wyll his seruant do. And Semei dwelte in Jerusalem many a day. And it chaunced after thre yeres, that two of the seruantes of Semei ranne away vnto Archis, sonne of Maacha kyng of Geth. And thei told Semei, saiynge: beholde, thy seruantes be in Geth. And Semei rose vp, and sadled his Asse, and went him to Geth to Archis, to fetche his seruantes, and returned, and brought his seruantes againe from Geth. And it was told Salomon, how that Semei had gone from Jerusalem to Geth, and was come again. And the kyng sente and called Semei, and saide vnto hym: Did I not charge the by the lorde with an othe, and testified vnto the, saiynge: be sure, that when soeuer thou goest out, & walkest abrod any whether, thou shalt die the death? And thou saidest vnto me: it is a good thynge that I haue herde. Why then hast thou not kept the othe of the Lorde and the commaundement that I charged the withall? The kyng sayd moreouer to Semei: * thou remembrest al the wickednes which thin hart knoweth, that thou didest to Dauid my father. The Lord also shal bringe thy wickednesse vpon thin owne heade: and kyng Salomon shalbe blessed, and the seate of Dauid stablished before the Lorde for euer. So the king commaunded Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada: which went out & smote him that he died. And the kyngdom was stablished in the hande of Salomon.

The. vj. day at Mattyns. R.

Salomon made affinitie with Pharao kynge of Egipte, and take Pharaos doughter, and brought her into the citie of Dauid, until he had made an end of buildinge his owne house, and the house of the Lord, and the wal of Jerusalem round about. Only the people sacrificed in aultars made on hylles, because there was no house buylte vnto the name of the lord, until those dayes. And Salomon loued the lord, and walked in the ordinaunces of Dauid his father, saue onely that he sacrificed and offered incense vpon aultars in hilles. * And the kyng went to Gibeon, to offer there for that was a speciall offeringe place. And a thousande burnt offeringes did Salomon offre vpon that aulter: and in Gibeon the Lorde appeared to Salomon in a dreame by nighte. And God sayd, aske what thou wilt that I may giue it the. And Salomon sayd: thou hast shewed vnto thy seruant Dauid my father greate mercy, when he walked before the in truth, in righteousnesse, and in plainesse of harte with the. And thou hast kept for hym this greate mercy, that thou hast geuen hym a sonne, to sytte on his seat: as it is come to passe this daye. * And nowe, O lorde my God, it is thou that hast made thy seruaunte kyng in steade of Dauid my father. * And I am but yonge and wote not howe to go out and in. And thy seruant is in the myddest of thy people, whiche thou hast chosen. And verely the people are to many that thei can not be tolde nor nombred for multitude. * Geue therfore vnto thy seruaunt an vnderstanding hart, to iudge the people, that I may discerne betwen good and bad. For who is able to iudge this thy so mighty a people? And this pleased the loude well, that Salomon had desired this thyng. And God said vnto hym: because thou hast asked this thyng, and hast not asked lōg life, neither haste asked riches, nor the soule of thyne enemies, but haste asked vnderstandyng, and discrecion in iudgement: Behold, I C. haue doen accordyng to thy petition. For I haue geuē thee a wise & vnderstandyng hart, so that there shalbe no kyng like vnto thee, neither after thee shall any arise like vnto thee. And I haue also geuen thee that which thou hast not asked, euen riches and honor, so that there shalbe no kyng like vnto thee, all thy daies. And if thou wilt walke in my wa-yes, to kepe myne ordinaunces, and my com-maundmētes, as thy father Dauid did walke I will lengthen thy daies. When Salomon awoke, behold it was a dreame. And he came to Ierusalē, and stode before the Arke of the testament of the lorde, and offred burnt offerynges, and peace offringes, and made a feaste to all his seruauntes. Then came there .ij. women, that were harlottes, vnto the kyng, and stode before hym. And the one woman said: oh my lorde. I & this woman dwel in one house And I was deliuered of a childe, with her in the house. And the .iij. daie after that I was deliuered, she was deliuered also: and we were together, & no stranger with vs in the house saue we .ij. And this wiues childe died in the night, for she ouerlayed it. And she rose at mid night, and toke my sonne from my side, while thyne handmaid slept, and laied it in her bo-some, and put her ded child in my bosome. And D. whē I rose vp, to geue my child sucke, behold it was ded. But when I had loked vpon it, in the morowe: Behold, it was not my sonne, whiche I did beare. The other woman said: Nay, it is not so, but my sonne liueth, and thy sōne is ded. And she said again: no, but thy sōne is ded, and myne is alyue. And thus they pleated before the kyng. Then said the king: the one saith, this that is alyue is my sonne, & the ded is thine. And the other saith, nay: but thy sōne is ded, and the liuyng child is myne. And the kyng said: Bryng me a swearde. And they brought out a sweard before the kyng. And the kyng said: deuide the liuyng child in two and geue the one halfe to the one, & the other to the other. Then spake the woman, whose the liuyng child was, vnto the kyng, for her bowelles yerned vpon her sonne, and said: I beseche thee my lorde, geue her the liuyng childe, and in no wise slaie it. But the other said, let it be neither myne nor thyne, but deuide it. Then the kyng answered and said:

*geue her the liuyng childe, and slaie it not, for she is the mother thereof. And all they of Israel, heard of the Iudgement, whiche the kyng had Iudged, and feared the kyng: for they saw that the wisedome of God, was in him to do iustice. ¶ The .iij. Chapiter.

And so kyng Salomon, was kyng ouer all Israell. And these were his lordes. Azari-Iehosaphath the sonne of Ahilud, the recorder. Banaiahu the sonne of Iehoiada, was ouer the hoste. Sadok and Abiathar were the priestes. And Azariahu the sonne of Nathan was ouer the officers. And Zabud the sōne of Nathan, was a priest, the kynges cōpanion.

And Ahisar, steward of household. And Adōnias the sonne of Abda, was ouer the tributes.
And Salomon had .xij. officers, ouer all Is-bea the sonne of Ury, was in the countree of Gilead, the land of Sehon kyng of the Amorites, and of Og kyng of Basan, and was officer alone in the land. And Iuda and Israel were many, euen as the sande of the seain nōber, eating, drinking, and making mery. And *Salomon reigned ouer all kyngdomes, frō the riuer, vnto the lande of the Philistines,

The nethermoste chamber, was fiue cubites

For without in the wall of the house, he la-

And he built chambers to all the temple, of .v. cubites heighth, and they were ioyned to the house, with beames of Cedar. And the word of the lorde came to Salomon, sayng: Cõcernyng the house, which thou art in buyldyng, if thou wilt walke in myne ordinaunces, and execute my lawes, and kepe all my commaundmentes, to walke in them then wil I make good vnto thee my promes, which* I promised Dauid thy father. 1.Reg.vi.d. The floure of the house, with plankes of Firre. And he siled .xx. cubites in the sides of the queer of the temple, bothe floore and walles, with bordes of Cedar, & dressed it within, in the secrete place of the temple, euen in the most holy. And the fifth house (that is to saie, the body of the tẽple without) was .xl. cubites long. And the Cedar of the house within, was carued with knoppes, and grauen with floures, and all was Cedar timber, so that no stone was seen. And the queer that was within the tẽple, he prepared to set ther the Arke of the appoyntment of the Lorde. And the queer before, was .xx. cubites long, and .xx. cubites in bredth, and .xx. cubites in heighth. And he filed it with pure golde, and bordes the Altar with Cedar. And Salomon also siled the house within, with pure gold. And he made golden barres, runne along the queer, whiche he had couered with gold. And the whole house, he ouerlaied with gold, vntill he had ended it. And the Altar that was in the queer, he ouerlaied with gold also. And within the queer he made, two Cherubins* of 2.ch.iii.d. oline tree, .x. cubites high. Fiue cubites lõg was a wyng of the one Cherub, & .v. cubites long was a wyng of the other Cherub: So that frõ the vttermost part of one wyng, vnto the vttermoste part of the other, were .x. cubites. And the other Cherub was ten cubites heigh also: so that bothe the Cherubs were of one measure, and one sise: for the heighth of the one Cherub, was tenne Cubites, and so was it of the other. And he put the Cherubs within the inner house. And* the Cherubs stretched out their wynges, so that the one wyng of the one, touched the one walle, and the one wing of the other touched the other wal. And the other .v. winges of the, touched one another, in the midst of the house. And he ouerlaied the Cherubs with golde. And all the walles of the house rõd about, he made figures, of carued & siled worke: as namely, pictures of cherubs, and palme trees and graue floures, both within in the quere, & without in the Temple. And the floore of the house, he couered with gold, bothe within in the quete, and also without in the tẽple. And in the entryng of the quere, he made .v. dores of Oline tree: and bothe the vpper, and .v. side postes were .v. square. The .v. dores also were of Oline tree, and he graued them, with grauyng of Cherubs and palme trees: and grauen floures, and couered them with gold, and laied thin plates of gold, vpon the Cherubs and palme trees. And in like maner did he, in the dore of the temple, sauyng that the postes were of Oline tree, iiij. square. The .v. dores were of Firre tree, and either dore with .v. folding leues. He graued therõ cherubs, palme trees and floures, and couered the with gold which was laied thin vpõ the carued worke. And he built the inner court, with .iij. rowes of hewed stone, and one rowe of Cedar wood In the fourth yere, was the foundacõ of the house of the lorde laied: euen in the monethe Zif: & in the .xi. yere, in the moneth Bul (whiche is the .viij. moneth) was the house ful finished, throughout all the partes therof, according to al the fashion of it, and so was he .vij. yere in buildyng it. ¶ The .vi. BVT Salomon was buildyng his awne house .xiij. yere, and finished it al. And he built the house, in the wood of Libanon, an. c cubites long, and .l. cubites brode, and .xxx. cubites high. And (it stoode) vpon .iij. rowes of Cedar pilleres, and Cedar beames (were laied) vpon the pilleres. And the rofe was Cedar aboue, vpon the beames that laye on the pilleres, euen .xlv. beames in .l. rowes. And ther wer windoes in thre rowes, & the windoes wer one against another thre fold. And the dores with the side postes, and the vppermost, wer .iij. square, and had windowes one against another .iij. fold. And he made a porche by the pilleres (that bare vp the house) l. cubites long, and .xxx. cubites brode, and the porche was before those, and the other pilleres. For there was a thicke tree set before the. When he made a porche to sit and Iudge in, siled with Cedar throughout all the paymentes. And his awne house (that he kept residence in: and that was in another courte without the Porche) was made of the same worke. And then Salomon made an house for Pharaos daughter* (whom he had taken to wife) like vnto the fashion of the porche. And all these were of the best stones, hewed after a measure, and sawed with sawes, within and without, from the foundacõ vnto the beames (that laye aboue, after the measure) and euen so on the outside, toward the greate courte. And the foundation was laied, vpon rich stones, and that very great stones, whereof some were .x. cubites, and foure .iij. Cubites. And aboue wer good Gonces, squared after a certain rule, & rofered with cedar. And the great coute rounde aboute, was with .iij. rowes of hewed Gones, & one rowe of Cedar planckes after the maner of the inner Coute, of the house of the Lorde, and of the porche of the temple. And kyng Salomon sent, and set one Hiram out of Tire, a widowes sonne of the tribe of Nephthalim, his father beyng a man of Tire. Which Hiram, was a craftesman in Braſſe: full of wisedome, vnderstandyng and conyng: to worke all maner of worke in Braſſe. And he came to kyng Salomon, and wrought al his worke. For he cast .ii. pilleres of braſſe of .xviij. cubites high a pece, & a ſtring of .xii. cubites, did compaſſe either of them about. And he made .ij. hed peces of molten braſſe (after the fashion of a crowne) to set on the toppes of the pilleres. The height of the hedde pece, conteined .v. cubites, and the heigth of the other hed pece, conteined .v. cubites also: he made also net worke, & garlandes of chain worke vpon the hed peces, that wer on the toppe of the pilleres euen .vij. rowes vpon the hed pece, and .vij. on the other. And so he made the pilleres, .ij. rowes round about, in the one wrethen worke to couer the hed peces, that wer vpon the pomgranetes. And thus did he also for the other hed pece. And the hed peces that wer on the toppes of the pilleres, couered he aboue, with a curious worke of roſes, toward the palace by the space of .iij. cubites. Likewise vnder the hed peces, in those .ij. pilleres beneth, ouer against the midde, and before the net worke and vpon the second hed pece, wer .ij.c. pomgranetes in .ij. rowes round about. And he set vp the pilleres, in the porche of the temple. And when he had set vp the right piller, he called the name therof, Jachin: and whe he had set vp the piller, he called the name therof Boaz. And in the top of the pilleres, was a worke of roſes, and so was the workemanshippe of the pilleres finished. And he made a molten Lauatorie, .x. cubites wide from brim to brim, round in compaſſe, and .v. cubites hie and a ſtring of .xxx. cubites, did compaſſe it about, and vnder the brim of it, there were knoppes round about, .x. in one cubite: and they compaſſed the Lauatorie round about. And the knoppes were caſte with it, in .ij. rowes, when it was caſt. And it ſtode on .xij. oxen, of whiche .iij. loked toward the North, .iij. toward the Weſte, .iij. toward the Southe, and .iij. toward the Eaſt, and the Lauatorie ſtode vpon them, and all their hinder partes were inward. It was an hand breadth thicke, and the brim, wrought like the brim of a Cuppe, with flowres of lilies. And it conteined .ij. M. Batles. And he made .x. cockettes of Braſſe, fiue cubites long, & .iiij. cubites brode a pece and .iij. cubites high. And the worke of the cockettes, was on this maner: they had ſides and the ſides were betweene the ledges. And on the ſides that wer betweene the ledges, were lions, oxen, and Cherubins. And like wise vpo the ledges that wer aboue: and beneth the lions and oxen, wer certain additions, made of thin worke. And vnder euery cocket, were .iiij. braſen wheles, and bordes of braſſe. And in the .iij. corners therof, were vndersetters vnder the lauatorie caſt eche ouer against his felowe. And the ſtalke of the lauatorie, was in the middle of it, where it is seen on the out side one cubite high, and a cubite and an half round, and in the height of it, wer graue worckes, whose ſides wer made .iij. square and not round. And vnder the ſides were .iij. wheles, and the axeltrees, ioyned vnto the bottom. And the height of euery whele was a cubite and an half. And the workmanship of the wheles, was like the worke of a charet whele. And the axeltrees, the nauels, ſpokes and welles wer al molten. And there wer .iij. vndersetters, in .iiij. corners of one cocket: and the vndersetters wer of the very bottom ſelf. And the height of the botome was ther a round copaſſe, of half a cubite high: and in that height of the botome, there proceded bothe ledges and ſides out of the same. For in the bordes of the ledges, and on the ſides he had grauen pictures of Cherubins, lions, and palme trees, one by another round about. Thus made he the ten cockettes after this maner: and they had al one fashion of casting, one measure, and one ſize. Then made he ten lauers of braſſe, one lauer containyng .xl. Bates: and one lauer was .iiij. cubites, and vpon euery one of the .x. cockets, he put one lauer. And he put .v. of those cockettes on the right ſide of the house, and other .v. on the left. And he set the lauatorie, on the right ſide of the house Eaſtward, & toward the Southe. And Hiram made potes, shouels and basens, and so finished all the worke, that he made kyng Salomon, for the house of the Lorde: that is to say, .ij. pilleres and .ij. round hed peces, that were to be set on the toppes of the .ij. pilleres, & cccc. pomgranetes, for the two net workes, (euen two rowes of pomgranetes in one net worke) to couer the .ij. hed peces, that were to be set on the toppes of the pilleres: and the .x. cockettes, & .x. lauers on the cockettes. The lauatorie, and .xii. oxen vnder it, and potes & shouels, and basens. And all these vessellers, which Hiram made to kyng Salomon, for the house of the Lorde, were of bright braſſe. In the plain of Jordan, did the kyng cast them: euen in the thicke clay betweene Socoth and Zarthan. And Salomon left al the vessels vnsearched, because they were so exceding many, neither found they out the weight of the braſſe. And so Salomon made all the vessellers that

And Salomon brought in the thynges, whiche Dauid his father had dedicated: euen the syluer, golde, and vesselles, and laied them vp emong the treasures of the house of the lorde.

Then Salomon gathered together the Elders of Israel, all the heades of the tribes, and the chefe captaines emong the fathers of the children of Israel vnto hym in Ierusalem, that they might bryng vp the arke of the appoyntment of the Lorde, out of the citie of Dauid, whiche is Sion. And all the men of Israel assembled vnto kyng Salomon, to the feest that falleth in the moneth Ethanim, whiche is the. vij. moneth. And all the elders of Israell were come, and the priestes tooke vp the arke. Thei bare the arke of the lorde, into the tabernacle of witnesse, and all the holy vessels, that were in the tabernacle: those bip the priestes and Leuites bare. And kyng Salomon, and all the congregacion of Israell, that were assembled vnto hym, went with hym before the arke, offeryng sheepe and oxen, that could not be told nor nombred for multitude. And the priestes brought the arke of the appoyntment of the lorde, vnto his placement in the queer of the temple, and place most holy, vnder the wynges of the Cherubs. For the Cherubs stretched out their wynges ouer the place of the arke, and couered the arke, and all the staues thereof. And they drue out the staues, that the endes of the might appere out of the holy place, before the queer, but they were not seen without. And there it hath bene vnto this daie. And there was nothyng in the arke, saue the .ii. tables of stone, whiche Moses put there at Horeb, in the whiche tables the lorde made an appoyntment with the children of Israell, when he brought them out of the lond of Egipte. And it came to passe, that when the priestes were come out of the holy place, the cloude filled the house of the lorde, that the priestes could not stand and minister, because of the cloud, for the glory of the lorde had filled the house of the lorde. Then spake Salomon: the lorde said, that he would dwell in the darke cloude. I haue built thee an house to dwell in, an habitacion for thee to abide in for euer. And the kyng turned his face, and blessed all the congregacion of Israell, while

All the congregacion of Israell stode, and he said. Blessed be the lorde God of Israel, whiche spake with his mouthe vnto Dauid my father, and hath with his handes fulfilled it, saying, Since the day that I brought my people Israell out of Egipte, I chose no citie of all the tribes of Israell, to build an house, that my name might be there: but I haue chosen Dauid, to be ouer my people of Israell. And it was in the harte of Dauid my father, to build an house for the name of the lorde God of Israel. And the lorde said vnto Dauid my father: Where as it was in thyne harte, to builde an house vnto my name, thou diddest well, that thou wast so minded. Neuertheles, thou shalt not build the house: but thy sonne that shall come out of thy loynes, he shall builde the house vnto my name. And the lorde hath made good his word that he spake. And I am risen vp, in the rome of Dauid my father, and sitte vpo the seate of Israel, as the lorde promised, and haue built an house, for the name of the lorde God of Israell. And I haue prepared therin a place for the arke, wherein is the couenaunt of the lord, whiche he made with our fathers, when he brought them out of the lande of Egipte. Salomon stode before the Aulter of the lorde, in the sight of all the congregacion of Israell, and stretched out his handes toward heauen, and said: lorde God of Israell, there is no God like thee in heauen aboue, or in the yearth beneth, thou that kepest couenaunt and mercie for thy seruantes, that walke before thee with all their hart: thou that hast kept with thy seruant Dauid my father, that thou promisedest hym. Thou spakest also with thy mouthe, and hast fulfilled it with thyne hand, as it is come to passe this daie. Therefore now lorde God of Israel, kepe with thy seruant Dauid my father, that thou promisedest him, saying: thou shalt not be without a man in my sight, to sit on the seate of Israell, so that thy children take heede to their way, that they walke before me, as thou hast walked in my sight. And now (O God) of Israell let thy worde be verified, which thou spakest vnto thy seruant Dauid my father. Will God in deede dwell on the yearth? Behold the heauens, and heauens of all heauens, are not able to conteine thee: and how shouldest thou then this house, that I haue builded? Yet haue thou therefore respect vnto the prayer of thy seruant, and to his supplicacion (O lorde my God) to heare my worde & prayer, whiche thy seruant maketh before thee this daie: that thyne eyes may be ope toward this house, night and day, euen toward this place (of whiche thou hast saied, Myne name shall be there) that thou maiest heare the prayer, whiche thy seruant prayeth in this place. And regarde thou the supplicacion of thy seruant, & of thy people Israell, when they pray sone be preste, wich the loorde was wod, that ye walke in his statutes, and kepe his commaundementes, as this daie. And the kyng and all Israell with hym, offered offeryngs before the loorde. And Salomon offred a sacrifice of peace offeryngs vnto the loorde, and he offered vnto the loorde. xxij. M. oxen, and an. c xx. M. shepe: and so the kyng and all the children of Israell dedicated the house of the loorde. The same daie did the kyng halow the myddel of the court, that was before the house of the loorde: for there he offred burnt offeryngs, meate offeryngs, and the fat of the peace offeryngs. Because the brasen aulter, that was before the Loorde, was to litle to receiue the burnt offeryngs, meate offeryngs, and the fat of the peace offeryngs. And Salomon held that same tyme an high feast and all Israell with hym, a verye greate congregation, euen from the entryng in of Emath, vnto the riuer of Egipt, before the loorde our God, by. vij. daies and. vij. daies, euen. xiiij. daies. And the. viij. day he sent the people away. And they blessed the kyng, and went to their tentes ioyous, and with glad harte, because of all the goodnesse that the loorde had doen for Dauid his seruant, and for Israell his people. ¶ The. ix. AND when Salomon had finished the buildyng of the house of the loorde, & the kynges palare, and all that he had in his mynd, and was appoynted to make: the loorde appered vnto hym again, as he appered vnto hym at Gibeon. And the Loorde said vnto hym: I haue heard thy prayer, and thy intercession, that thou hast made before me: & I haue halowed this house (which thou hast built) to put my name there for euer, and myne eyes & myne harte shalbe there perpetually. And if thou wilt walke before me (as Dauid thy father walked) in pureness of harte, and in righteousnes to do all that I haue commaunded thee, and wilt kepe my statutes, & my lawes: then will I stablishe the seate of thy kyngdō vpon Israell for euer, as I promised to Dauid thy father, sayng: thou shalt not be without man, vpon the seate of Israell. But and if ye, and your children, turne awaie from me and will not kepe my commaundementes, and my statutes (which I haue set before you) but go and serue other Goddes, and worship them: then will I wede Israell out of the land which I haue geuen them: and this house which I haue halowed for my name, will I cast out of my sight. And Israell shalbe a prouerbe, & a fable emong all nations. And this house shalbe ten awaie: so that euery one that passeth by it, shall be astonied, and hisse, and then shall they say: why hath the loorde doen thus vnto this land, and to this house? And they shall answer, because they forsoke the Loorde their God, which brought their fathers out of the lande of Egipte, and haue taken holde vpon other goddes, and haue worshipped them, and serued them: therfore hath the loorde brought vpon them all this euill. And it came to passe, that at the ende of xx yeres, Salomon finished the buildyng of the two houses, that is to wete, the house of the loorde, and the kynges palare. Then Hiram the kyng of Tire brought Salomon timber of Cedre and Firre trees, golde, and whatsoeuer he desired: and Salomon agayn gaue Hiram twentie citees in the lande of Galile. And Hiram came out from Tire to se the citees which Salomon had geuen hym, and they pleased hym not. And he said: what citees are these, which thou hast geuen me my brother? And he called them the lande of Cabul, vnto this daie. And Hiram sent the kyng. cxx. hundred weight of golde. And this is the some, which Kyng Salomon raised for a Tribute, when he buylded the house of the loorde, and his awne house, and Millo, and the walle of Jerusalem, and Hazor, and Megeddo, and Gazar. For Pharao kyng of Egipt went vp, and toke Gazar, and burnt it with fire, and slewe the Cananites, that dwelte in the citee, and gaue it for a present vnto his daughter, Salomons wife. And Salomon buylt Gazar and Beth Horon the nether, and Baalath and Thamar, in the wildernesse, and in the lande: and all the treasure citees that Salomon had, and were vnto all hys charrettes, and citees for his horse men, and all that Salomon desired, and would buylde in Jerusalem, in Libanon, and in all the lande of his dominion. And all the people that were left of the Amorites, Hethites, Pherezites, Heuites and Jebusites, (which were not of the children of Israell) their children that were left after them in the lande, whom the children of Israel also were not able to destroy: those did Salomon compell to bryng Tribute vnto this daie. But of the children of Israell did Salomon make no bondmen. But they were men of warre, his Ministers, his Lordes, his captaines, and rulers of his charrettes and his horse men. And these were the Lordes that were set ouer Salomons worke: euen fiue hundred were they and sitte and they ruled the people, that wrought the worke. And Pharaos daughter came out of the citee of Dauid vnto the house, which Salomon had buylte for her. And then dyd he also buylde Millo, and thrise a yere did Salomon offer burnt offeryngs, and peace offeryngs vpon the Aulter, which he buylte vnto the Loorde: and he burnte incense vpon the litle, that was before the Loorde, and so he finished the house. And Kyng Salomon made a naue of Shippes in Ezion Gaber, which is beside Eloth, on the hyrche

¶ And the quene of Saba, hearyng the fame of Salomon concernyng the name of the lorde, came to proue hym with hard questions. And she came to Ierusalē with a very great traine, with Camels that bare swete odours, and gold exceedyng muche, and precious stones. And she came to Salomō, and commoned with hym, of all that was in her harte. And Salomon declared vnto her, all her questions, so that there was not one thyng hid from the kyng, which he expounded not vnto her. And the quene of Saba, coulde perceiue all Salomons wisedome, and the house that he had builded, and the meate of his table, and the seruyng of his seruantes, the order of his ministers, and their apparell, his dyshe and his burnt sacrifices, that he offered in the house of the lorde, and she was astonied. And she said vnto the kyng. It was a true worde that I heard in myne awne lande, of thy sayinges, & of thy wisedom. Howbeit, I beleued it not til I came and saw it with myne eyes. And beholde, the one halfe was not told me: for thy wisedome and prosperitie, exceedeth the fame, whiche I hard of thee. Happy are thy men: and happy are these thy seruantes, whiche stande euer before the, and heare thy wisedome. Blessed be the lorde thy God, whiche loued the, to set the on the seat of Israell, because the lorde loued Israel for euer, and made the kyng, to do equitie and righteousnes. And she gaue the kyng .vi. c. xxx. c. weight of gold, and of swete odours exceedyng muche, and precious stones. There came no more suche abundaunce of swete odours, as the Quene of Saba gaue to kyng Salomon. The nauie also of the shippes of Hiram, that caried gold from Ophir, brought likewise great plentie of Almugge tree and precious stones. And the kyng made of the Almugge trees, pilleres for the house of the lorde, and for the kynges palace, and made Harpes and Psalteries for syngers. There came no more suche Almugge trees, nor were any more seen vnto this daie. And kyng Salomon gaue vnto the quene of Saba, accordyng to all her desire, whatsoeuer she asked, beside that he gaue her of a free will, with his awne hand. And so she returned vnto her awne countree, bothe she, and her seruantes.

The weight of gold, that came to Salomon in one yere, was .vi. c. lxvi. talentes of gold, beside that he had of chapmen, & of merchantes, and of Marchantes, and of all the kynges of Arabi, and of the Lorden of the countree. And kyng Salomon made .ij. C. bucklers of beaten gold: .vi. C. sicles of gold went to a buckler. And he made .iij. shildes of beaten gold, .iij. pounde of gold went to one shilde, and the kyng put them in the house of the wode of Libanon. And the kyng made a great seate of Iuory, and couered it with the best gold. And the seate had .vi. steppes. And the top of the seat was round behind, and there were pomels on either side, on the place of the seate, and .ij. lions stode beside the pomels. And there stode .xij. lions on the steppes, vi. on a side. There was not one like vnto it, in any kyngdom. And all kyng Salomōs drinkyng vessels were of gold, and likewise all the vessels of the house of the wode of Libanō were of pure golde. And as for siluer, it was nothyng worth in the daies of Salomon. For the kynges nauie of shippes, went on the sea vnto Thartis, with the nauy of Hiram. Ones in .iij. yere, came the nauie to Thartis, & brought golde and siluer, Elephātes teth, apes & peacockes. And so kyng Salomon passed all the kynges of the earth both in riches & in wisedom. And all the worlde sought to Salomō, to heare his wisedome, whiche God had put in his hart. And brought him euery mā his present, vessels of siluer, & vessels of gold, rayment, harnesse, & swet odours, and horses and mules, yere by yere. And Salomon gathered together charrets & horsemen: and he had a .M. & cccc. charets, and .xij. M. horsemen, whom he bestowed in the charret cities, and with the kyng at Ierusalē. And the kyng made siluer in Ierusalem as plentyous as stones, & Cedar as gliste as the wilde figge trees that growe abundantly in the felde. The bryngyng of horses also out of Egipte, & the collectiō of the wares: did the kynges marchātes take again, and sold the same for a price. A charet came vp out of Egipte for .vi. and Milcom the abhominacion of the Ammonites. And Salomon wrought wyckednes in the syght of the lorde, and folowed not the lorde perfectly, as dyd Dauid his father. For then dyd Salomon builde an hye place for Chamos the abhominacion of Moab, in the hyll that is before Jerusalem, and vnto Moloth the abhominacion of the children of Ammon. And lykewyse did he for all his outlandyshe wyues which burnt encense & offered vnto their goddes. And the lorde was angry with Salomon, because his harte was turned from the lorde God of Israel, which had appeared vnto him twyse and gaue hym a charge concernyng this thyng, that he shuld not folowe other goddes. But he kepte not that, which the lorde commaunded him: wherfore the lorde said vnto Salomon: for as muche as this is done of the, and thou hast not kept my appointment, & my statutes (which I commaunded the) I wyl rend the kyngdom from the, & wyll gene it to thy seruaunt. Notwithstandyng in thy dayes, I wyll not do it, because of Dauid thy father, but will take it from the hande of thy sonne. Howbeit I wyl not take away all the kyngdom: but wyll gene one tribe to thy sonne, because of Dauid my seruaunt, and because of Jerusalem which I haue chosen. And the lorde stered vp an aduersary vnto Salomon: euen one Hadad an Edomite, of the kynges sede, which was in Edom. For when Dauid was in Edom, and Joab the captayne of the host was gone vp to bury them that were slayn, he smote all the men children in Edom. For Joab remayned there and all Israel, till he had destroyed all the men children of Edom. And this Hadad fled and certain other Edomites of his seruantes with hym, to come into Egipte: Hadad being yet a lytle childe. And they arose out of Madian, and came to Pharan, & toke men with them out of Pharan, & came to Egipte vnto Pharao kynge of Egipte, which gaue hym an house, and appointed him victayles, and gaue hym lande. And Hadad gat great fauoure in the sight of Pharao, so that he gaue him to wife the sister of his owne wife, euen the sister of Taphenes the quene. And the sister of Taphenes bare him Genubath his sonne, who Taphenes nourished in Pharaos house. And Genubath was at Pharaos household among the sonnes of Pharao. And whē Hadad herd in Egipte, that Dauid was laid to slepe with his fathers, and that Joab the captayne of the host was dead also, he said to Pharao let me departe, that I may go to mine owne countrey. Pharao sayd vnto him: what hast thou lacked here with me, that thou wolde thus go to thine own countrey? He answered: nothyng, howbeit let me go. And God stered hym vp another aduersary, one Rezon the sonne of Eliada, which fled from his Lord Hadadezer kyng of Soba. And he gathered men vnto him, and became rayser ouer the company, when Dauid slewe them. And they went to Damasco, and dwelt ther, & raigned in Damasco. Therfore was he an aduersary to Israell all the dayes of Salomon. And this was the mischef, that Hadad did abhorre Israell, and raygned ouer Syria. And Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat an Ephrathite of zareda (whose mother was called Serua, which was a widowe) and he Salomons seruaunt, lifte vp his hād against the kyng. But this was the cause, that he lifte vp his hande against the kyng: Salomon buylt Mello, & mended the broken places of the cite of Dauid his father. And this Jeroboam was a man of actiuite. And Salomon sawe the yonge man that he was able to do the worke, he made him ouerseear of the charge of the house of Joseph. And it chaunced at that season, that Jeroboam went out of Jerusalem, & the prophete Ahiah the Silonite met him by the way, hauyng a newe mantell on hym, and they two were alone in the felde. Ahiah caught the newe mantell that was on hym, and rent it in twelue peces and said to Jeroboam take the ten peces. For thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: behold, I wyll rend the kyngdom out of the hande of Salomon, and wil gene ten tribes to the. And he shall haue one, for my seruaute Dauides sake and for Jerusalem the cite which I haue chosen out of all the tribes of Israel: because they haue forsaken me, and haue worshipped vnto Astaroth the God of the Zidons, & Chamos the God of the Moabites, and Milcom the God of the children of Ammon and haue not walked in my wayes (to fulfyll my pleasure, my statutes, & my lawes) as did Dauid his father. Jwyl not take the whole kyngdom out of his hande: but I wyll make hym chefe all his life long, for Dauid my seruauntes sake, whom I chose: because he kept my commaundementes and my statutes. But I wyl take the kyngdome out of his sonnes hande, and wyll gene it vnto the, euen ten tribes. & gene vnto his sonne wyll I gene one tribe that Dauid my seruant maye haue a light alway before me in Jerusalē, the city which I will haue chosen me, to put my name ther. And I take the, and thou shalt raygne according to all that thy soule desireth, & shalt be kyng ouer Israel. And if thou herken vnto all that I commaunde the, & wilt walke in my wayes and do that is right in my sight, that thou kepe my statutes and my commaundementes as Dauid my seruaunt did, then wyll I be with the, and build the a sure house that shal continue, as I builte for my seruaunt Dauid, & wyll gene Israel vnto the. ii. Par. x.a. AND Roboboam went to Sichem: for all ij. Reg. xi.f Israell were come to Sichem, to make hym kyng. And Jeroboam the sonne of Na-bath whiche was yet in Egipte (whyder he fledde to Egipte from the presence of kyng Salomon, and dwelte in Egipte: So they sent and called hym. And Jeroboam & al the congregation of Israel came, and spake vnto Roboboam, saying: thy father made our yocke grieuous, now therfore, make thou the grieuous seruice of thy father, and his yoke whiche he put vpon vs lighter, and we wyl serue the. And he said vnto them: departe yet for the space of thre dayes, & then come Again to me. And the people departed.
B. And kyng Roboboam toke counsel with the olde men that stode before Salomon his fa-swere this people. And they spake vnto hym: Ye shal be a seruant vnto this people this them, and speake kynde wordes to them: they wyll be thy seruantes for euer. But he forsoke the councell that the olde men had gi-uen hym, and called vnto his councell yonge men, that were growen vp with hym, and waited on him. And he said vnto them: what counsel geue ye, that we maye answere this people? for they haue communed with me, saying: make the yocke whiche thy father did put vpon vs, lighter. And the yong men that were growen vp with him, spake vnto hym saiynge. Thus shalt thou speake vnto this people (that haue sayde vnto the: thy father made oure yocke heuye, but make thou it vs

My little finger shalbe waighter then my father was in the loynes. And nowe where as my father did lade you, and put a grieuous yoke vpon you, I will make it heuier. My father also corrected you with scourges, but I wyll chastise you with scorpions. And so Jeroboam and al the people came to Reheboam the third day, as the kyng had appounted, saying: come to me again the third daye.

And the kyng answered the people churlisly, and forsoke the olde mens counsel (that they gaue hym) and spake to them after the councel of the yong men, saiynge, my father made your yocke greuous, and I wil make it grieuouser. My father also chastised you with whyppes, but I wil chastise you with scor-people: for it was the ordinaunce of God, ij. Reg. xi.f. that he might* performe his saiyng, which the Lorde spake by Ahia the Silonite, vnto Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat. And (when al Israel sawe that the kyng regarded them departed vnto their tentes. Howbeit, ouer the children of Israell which dwelt in the cities of Juda, did Rehoboam reygne still.

The kyng Rehoboam sent Aduram the re-ceiuer of the tribute. And all they of Israell stoned hym to death. But kyng Rehoboam E. made spede to get hym vp to his chaiet, & to flye to Jerusalem. And they of Israell rebelled againste the house of Dauid, vnto this daye. And when all Israell heard that Jeroboam was come againe, they sent and called hym vnto the multitude, and made hym kyng ouer al Israel: and there was no tribe that folowed the house of Dauid, but Juda only. ¶ And when Rehoboam was come 3. Par. xi.a. to Jerusalem, he gathered al the house of Juda with the tribe of Beniamin an hundred & iiij. score: M. of chosen men (whiche were good warriours) to fyght against the house of Israell, & to bryng the kyngdom again to Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon. And the word of God came vnto Semaia the man of God, saiynge: speake vnto Rehoboam the the house of Juda and Beniamin, and to the remnant of the people, saiyng: Thus sayeth the lord: Ye shal not go vp, nor fyght areturne euery man to his house. For this thyng is my doyng. Then they harkened to the word of the lord, & returned to depart,

Jeroboam built Sichem in mount Epha-

And this typynge turned to synne, for the people wente (because of the one) as farre as Dan. And he made an house of hyll aultares, * and made preestes of the lowest of the people, whiche were not of the sonnes of Leui. And Ieroboam made a feast the xv. day of the viij. moneth, like vnto the feast that is in Juda, & offered on the aultare. And so did he in Bethel, to offre vnto the calues that he had made. And he put in Bethel the preestes of the hil aultares, whiche he had made. And he offred burnt offrynges vpon the aultare, which he had made in Bethel, the xv. day of the viij. moneth: euen in the moneth which he had imagined of his owne harte: and made a solempne feast vnto the children of Israell, & offred vpon the aultar, and burnt encense.

¶ The. xiij. Chapitre.

AND behold, there came a man of God out of Juda (by the worde of the Lorde) vnto Bethel, and Ieroboam stode by the altare to put encense. And he cried against the aultare in the worde of the lord and saide. O aultar, aultar, thus sayeth the lord: Behold, a child shalbe borne vnto the house of Dauid, (Iosia by name) & vpon the shalbe offre the preestes of the hil aultares that burne encense vpon the, and mennes bones shalbe brente vpon the. And he gaue a token the same tyme, saynge: this is the token, that the lord hath spoken it. Behold the aultar shal rente, and the ashes that are vpon it, shall fal out. And when the kyng heard the saynge of the man of God (whiche had cried against the aultar in Bethel) he stretched out his hande from the aultare, saynge, hold him. And his hande whiche he put forth against him, dried vp, and he could not pul it in againe to hym: the aultar also rente in sunder, and the ashes fell out from the aultar, according to the token whiche the man of God had geuen by the worde of the Lord. And the kyng answered, & said vnto the man of God. * Pray thou the lord thy God, & make intercession for me, that my hande may be restored me againe. And the man of God besought the lorde, and the kynges hande was restored againe, and became as it was afore. And the kyng said vnto the man of God, come home with me, that thou mayst dine, and I will geue the a reward. And the man of god said vnto the kyng: if thou wolde geue me halfe thine house, I will not go in with the, neither will I eate bread or drinke water in this place. For so was it that ye lorde charged me, thorowe the worde of the lord, saynge: eat no bread nor drinke water, nor turne againe by the same waye thou camest. And so he wente another waye and returned not by the way that he came to Bethel. And there dwelt an old prophet in Bethel and his sonnes came, and told him al the workes, that the man of God had done that daye in Bethell, and the wordes whiche he had spoken vnto the kynge tolde their father also. And their father said vnto them: what waye went he? And his sonnes shewed him what way the man of God went, which came from Juda. And he said vnto his sonnes: saddle me the asse. Whiche when they had saddled, he gat him vp thereon, and rode after the man of God, and founde him sitting vnder a tree. And he said vnto him: arte thou the man of God that camest from Juda? And he said: I am. He said vnto him: come home with me, and eate bread. He answered: I may not returne with the, to go in with the, neyther will I eate bread or drinke water with the in this place. For it was said vnto me in the worde of the Lorde: Thou shalt eate no bread, nor drinke water there, nor turne againe to go by the waye that thou camest. He said vnto him: I am a prophete also as well as thou, and an angell spake vnto me in the name of the Lorde, saying: bring him againe with the into thine owne house, that he maye eate bread and drynke water. And he lyed vnto him. And so he wente againe with him, and did eate bread in his house and dranke water. And it fortuned, that as they sat at the table, the worde of the Lorde came vnto the prophet, that brought him againe. And he cried vnto the man of God that came from Juda, saynge: thus sayeth the Lorde, because thou hast disobeyed the mouth of the lorde, and hast not kept the commaundement whiche the lord thy God commanded the: but camest backe againe, and hast eaten bread and dronke water, in the place, concerning the which the lorde did saye vnto the. Thou shalt eate no bread, nor drinke no water, thy carkasse shal not come into the sepulchre of thy fathers. And so it came to passe, that when he had eaten bread & dronke, the prophete which brought him againe, saddled him an asse. And when he was gone, * a lyon met him by the way, & slew him, and his carkasse was cast in the waye, & the asse stode therby, & the lyo stode by the corse also. And men that passed by, sawe the carkasse cast in the way, & the lio standing therby, & they came & told it in the town where the olde prophet dwelte. And when the prophet that brought him backe again into the waye, had herde, he said: it is the man of God, who was disobedient vnto the worde of the lord, & therfore the Lord hath deliuered him vnto the lyon, which hath rent him and slayne him, according to the word of the lord, which he spake vnto him. And he spake to his sonnes, saynge, saddle me an asse. So they did. And he went, and found his body cast in the waye, and the asse and the lion stode by the corpse. And the lyon had not eaten the carkasse nor hurte the asse. And the Prophete toke vp the body of the man of God, and layed it vpon the asse, & brought it again and the olde Prophete came to the citie, to lamente and to burye hym. And he layed his bodye in his owne grave, and they lamented ouer him (Alas, my brother.) And when he had buried hym, he spake to his sonnes, saynge: When I am ded, se that ye bury me in the sepulchre wherein the man of God is buried: lay my bones beside his bones. * For the saying which he cried at the worde of the lorde againste the aulter in Bethel (and against al the houses of hyaulters) which are in the cities of Samaria) shal come to passe. Howbeit, for al that, Jeroboam conuerted not from his wicked waye: but turned backe and made of the lowest of the people priestes of the hilaulters. And whose pleased him, he filled his hand, & he became Prieste of the hilaulters. And this thyng turned to syn vnto the house of Jeroboam, euen to destroy hym, and to bryng hym to nought from the face of the yearth.

And by the hande of the prophete Jehu the sonne of Hanani, came the word of the lord against Baasa, and against his house, and against al the wickednesse that he did in the sight of the lord, in angryng hym with the worde of his owne handes, that he should be like the house of Jeroboam, and because he killed hym. ¶ That is to say: Jehu the sonne of Hanani the Prophete. ¶ The. xxvi. yere of Asa kyng of Juda began Ela, the sonne of Baasa to raygne ouer Israel in Thirza, two yere. And his seruant Zimri, which was captaine of half his charettes, conspired against him, as he was in Thirza drinkyng: and was dronken in the house of Arza stuarde of his house in Thirza. And Zimri came and slew hym, and killed hym the. xxvii. yere of Asa kyng of Juda, and raigned in his stede. And it fortuned that when he was kyng, * & sate on his seate, he slew all the house of Baasa, not leaning therof one to pisse against a wal. Yea, he slewe his kynsfolkes and frendes also. And thus did Zimri destroy al the house of Baasa, accordyng to the word of the lord which he spake against Baasa by the hande of Jehu the prophete, for all the sinnes of Baasa & sinnes of Ela his sonne, which they sinned and made Israell to sinne, and angre the lord god of Israel with their vanities. The rest of the wordes that concerne Ela, and all that he did, are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israell? In the. xxvii. yere of Asa kyng of Juda did Zimri raigne. vij. dayes in Thirza, & the people was then in the host be syeging Gebbethon a citie of the Philistines. And the people of the host heard one say: Zimri hath conspired, & slaine the kyng: wherefore al thei of Israel made Amri (the captayne of the hoste) kyng ouer Israel that same daye, euen in the hoste. And Amri departed by fro Gibbethon, and al Israel with him, and they beseged Thirza. And when Zimri saw, that the citie muste nedes be taken, he wente into the palace of the kynges house, & burnt hym self, and the kynges house with fyre, and so dyed for his sinnes which he sinned, in doyng that which is euil in the sight of the Lord, and in walkyng in the waye of Jeroboam & his sinne which he did, and in that he made Israell to sinne. The reste of the wordes that concerne Zimri, and the treason that he wrought, are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israell? Then were the people of Israell deuided into two partes, for half the people folowed Thibni, the sonne of Ginath makyng hym kyng, and the other halfe folowed Amri. But the people that folowed Amri preuailed against the people that folowed Thibni, the sonne of Ginath. And so Thibni dyed, and Amri raygned. In the. xxxi. yere of Asa kyng of Juda began Amri to raygne ouer Israel twelue yere. Fyue yere raygned he in Thirza. He bought the hyl Semoron of one Semer for two talentes of syluer, and built in the hill, & called the name of the citie which he built, after the name of Semer which had ben owner of the hil Semeron. But Amri wrought that which was euil in the eyes of the lord, and did worse then al that were before hym. For he walked in all the waye of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, and in his sinnes that made Israel sinne: to angre the lorde God of Israell with their vanities. The rest of the wordes that concerne Amri, & al that he did, and his strength that he shewed: are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And so Amri slept with his fathers, and was buried in Semoron, and Ahab his sonne raigned in his stede. In the. xxxviij. yere of Asa kyng of Juda began Ahab the sone of Amri to raygne ouer Israel, and the same Ahab the sonne of Amri raygned ouer Israel in Samaria. xxij. yere. And Ahab the sonne of Amri did euil in the sight of the lord aboue al that were before hym. For it semed but him but a light thinge to walke in the sinnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat. He toke Jezabel also the doughter of Ethbaal kyng of the Sidonites to wyfe, & went and serued Baal, & worshipped him. And he reared vp an alter of Baal in the temple of Baal,

whiche he had buylded in Jeremoth. And Achab made greate, and proceaded further in angrynge the lord God of Israel, then all the kynges of Israell that were before hym.

Josu. vi. d. In his dayes did Hiel of Bethel buylde Jericho. And it* rosse him dere his eldest sonne when he layed the foundacion, and his yongest sonne Segub, whe he set vp the gates, accordyng vnto the worde of the lorde* whiche he spake by Josua the sonne of Nun.

The. xviii. day of marche.

And Elie the Thesbite (whiche was of the enhabitours of Gilead) said vnto Achab: * as truly as the lorde God of Israell liueth, before whome I stande * there shall be neither dewe, or rayne these yeres, but accordynge to my worde. And the worde of the Lorde came vnto him saynge, get the hence, and turne the eastwarde, and hide thy selfe in the brooke Cherith, that is it that lieth before Jordan. Thou shalt drinke of the riuer: and I haue commaunded the rauens to fede the there. And so he went, & did accordynge vnto the worde of the lorde. For he went, & dwelt by the brooke Cherith that is before Jordan. And the rauens brought him bread & flesshe in the morninge, and lykewyse bread and flesshe in the euening, and he dranke of the brooke. And it chaunced after a whyle, that the brooke dried vp, because there fell no rayne vpon the yearth. And the worde of the lorde came vnto him, saynge: vp, & get the to Sarephat, which is in Sidon, & dwell there. Behold, I haue cōmaunded a widdow there to sustayne the. So he arose: & went to Sarephath. And when he came to the gate of the citie the widdowe was there gatheringe stickes. And he called to her, & said: fet me I pray the a litle water in a vessell, that I may drinke. And as she was going to fet it, he cried after her, and said: bringe me I praye the, a morsell of bread also in thyne hand. She said: As truly as the lorde thy god liueth, I haue no bread readye but euen an handefull of mele in a barell, and a litle oyle in a cruse. And beholde, I am gatherynge two stycches for to go in, and dresse it for me and my sonne that we may eate, and not dye. And Elia saide vnto her: feare not, come, and do as thou hast saide, but make me therof a litle cake first of all: and bringe it vnto me, & after warde make for the, and thy sonne. For thus sayeth the Lord God of Israell: the mele in the barel shal not be wasted: neither shal the oyle in the cruse be dimynished, vntyll the lord haue sent rayne vpō the yearth. And she went, and did as Elia said. And she and her house did eat a good space, & the mele wasted not ought of the barel, neither was the oyle spent out of the cruse, accordyng to the worde of the lord, whiche he spake by the hande of Elia. And after these thynges it happened, that the sonne of the wyfe of the house fell sycke. And his sykenesse was to sore, that there was no breth left in him. And she said vnto Elia: what haue I to do with the, O thou man of God: arte thou come vnto me to cal my sinne against remembraunce, and to slay my sonne? He said vnto her: gyue me thy sonne. And he toke him out of her lappe, and caried him vp into a lofte, where he abode, & layed him vpon his owne bed, and called vnto the lord, & said: O lord my god, hast thou punished also this widdow with which I dwell as a straunger, and hast slayne her son. * And he stretched himselfe vpon the child thre times, & called vnto the lord, & saide: O lorde my God, let this childes soule come into him againe. And the lord hard the voyce of Elia, and the soule of the childe came vnto hym again, and he reuiued. And Elia toke the boye and brought him downe out of the chambre into the house, and deliuered hym vnto his mother, and Elia said: behold, thy sonne liueth. And the woman said vnto Elia: now I know that thou arte a man of God, and that the worde of the Lord in thy mouth is true.

A Euerlonge.

After processe of many dayes the worde of the lord came to Elia in the third yere saynge: go shewe thy selfe vnto Achab, and I * will send rayne vpon the yearth. And Elia wente to shewe himselfe vnto Achab, and there was a great famishment in Samaria. And Abdi called Obadia, whiche was the gouernour of his house: and Obadia feared God greatly: For when Jezabel destroyed the prophetes of the Lorde, he toke an hundred prophetes and hyd them, fyftie men in one cane and fyftie in an other, and prouided bread and water for them. And Achab said vnto Obadia: go into the land, vnto al the fountaynes of water, and vnto al the brookes, yf happely we may fynde grasse to saue the horses, and the mules, and that we destroye not some of the beastes. And so they deuided the lande betwene them to walke therin. Achab wente one waye by hymselfe and Obadia wente an other way by himselfe. And it chaunced, that as Obadia was in the waye, Elia met hym. And Obadia knewe hym: and fell on his face, and saide: arte not thou my Lorde Elia? And he answered hym: I am he. Go & tel thy lorde: beholde, Elia is here. He said: what haue I synned, that thou woldest deliuer thy seruant into the hand of Achab, to slaye me? As truly as the Lorde thy God liueth, there is no nacion or kyngdom, whether my lorde hath not sent to seke the. And when they said: he is not there, he toke an ath of the kyngdom and nacion, when he founde the not. And now thou sayest: go and tel thy lord, that Elia is here. And as soone as I am gone fro the, the spirite of the lord that carry the tydinges vnto thee that I be yet here, and he shall slee me. But I thy seruant feare the Lorde euen my youthe from my childehode. Hath not it been told my lorde, what I did when Iezabel slew the Prophetes of the Lorde, howe I hid an hundred men of the Lordes Prophetes, eyghty men in one caue, & fedde them in another, and prouided them of breade and water? And nowe thou sayest: go thou nowe and tell thy lorde, behold Elias is here, that he may slay me? And Elias said: as truely as the Lorde of hoastes liueth, before whome I stande, I will shewe my selfe vnto him this daye. So Obadias went to mete Ahab, and tolde him. And Ahab went to mete Elias. And it fortuned, that when Ahab sawe Elias, he said vnto him: arte thou he that troubleth Israell? He answered: it is not I that haue troubled Israell, but thou, and thy fathers house, in that ye haue forsaken the commaundementes of the Lorde, and thou hast followed Baal. Now therfore sende, and gather to me all Israel, vnto mount Carmel, and the prophetes of Baal* .cccc. and eyghtie, & the prophetes of the groues .cccc. which eat of Iezabels table. So Ahab sente vnto all the children of Israell, & gathered the prophetes together vnto mount Carmel. And Elias came vnto all the people, and said, how long halte ye betweene two opinions? If the Lorde be God, followe him: but if Baal be he, then go after him. And the people answered him not a worde. Then saide Elias vnto the people againe: I only remaine a prophet of the Lorde: but Baals prophetes are .cccc. & eyghtie. Let them therfore giue vs two oxen, and let them chose the one, and cut him in peces, and laye him on woode, and put no fyre vnder, and I will dresse the other oxe and lay him on wood, and will put no fyre vnder. And call ye on the name of youre god, and I will call on the name of the Lorde, and then the God that answereth by fyre, let him be God. * And all the people answered, & said: it is well spoken. And Elias saide vnto the prophetes of Baal: chose you an oxe, and dresse him first, (for ye are many) and call on the name of youre goddes, but put no fyre vnder. And they toke the oxe that he bid giue them, & dressed it, * & called on the name of Baal, from morning to noone saying: O Baal heare vs. But there was no voyce, nor one to answere. And they leaped vpon the aulter that they had made. And at noone it fortuned, that Elias mocked them, & said: crie loude, for he is a god: peraduenture he is talking, or occupied in followyng vp his enemies, or is in his iourney, or happily he sleepeth, and must be awaked with youre cry, and they cried loude, & cut them selues as their maner was, with launces & swordes, till the bloud followed on them. And it chanced, that when mornyng was passed, they prophecied vntil the time of the euenyng sacrifice. But there was neither voyce nor one to answere, nor any that regarded them. And Elias said vnto all the folke: come to me, and all the people came to him. * And he repayred the aulter of the lorde that was broken. * And Elias toke .xij. stones, according to the nombre of the .xij. tribes of the sonnes of Jacob, (vnto whom the worde of the lord came) saying: * Israell shalbe thy name. And with the stones he made an aulter in the name of the lorde. And he made a ditch rounde about the aulter, as broad as .ij. measures of the corne felde. And he put the woode in ordre, and hewed the oxe in peces, and layed him on the woode, and said: fil foure barels with water, and poure it on the burnt sacrifice, & on the wood. And he said: do so againe. And they did so the seconde time. And he said againe do it the thirde time. And they did it yet the third time. And the water ranne rounde about the aulter: & he filled the pit with water also. And it fortuned, when the time came (wherin the burntsacrifice of the euening vsed to be offred) Elias the prophete came, & said: Lorde God of Abraham, Isaac & of Israel, it shall be knowen this daye, that thou art the God of Israel, and that I am thy seruant, & that I haue done all these thynges at thy commaundement. Heare me (O Lorde) heare me, that this people may know that thou art the lorde God, & that thou hast turned their hartes againe now at the last. * And the fyre of the lorde fell, and consumed the burntsacrifice, the wood, the stones and the duste, and lycked vp the water that was in the pit. And when all the people sawe it, they fell on their faces, & saide: The lorde, he is God, the Lorde he is God. And Elias saide vnto them: Take the prophetes of Baall, and let not one of them escape. And they toke them, & Elias brought them to the brooke Kison, & slew them there. And Elias said vnto Ahab: Get the vp, & eate & drinke, for there is a sound of much raine. And so Ahab went vp to eate and to drinke, and Elias went vp to the toppe of Carmell. And he layed himself flatte vpon the grounde, and put his face betwen his knees, and said to his seruant: go vp, I praye thee, and loke toward the waye of the sea. And he went vp and loked, and said: there is nothyng. And he said: go againe seuen times. And it chanced, that at the seuenth time, he said: beholde, there ariseth a litle cloude out of the sea, like a mans hande. Then he said: Go, and say vnto Ahab: Make thee ready, and get the down, that the rayne stoppe thee not. And it came to passe, that in the meane while, the heauen was blacke with cloudes and wynde and there was a great rayne. And Ahab by and caused Jezrael. And the hande of the lord was on Elia, & he girded up his loines, & ranne before Ahab, tyl he came to Jezrael.

The .xix. Chapiter.

Ahab told Jezabel, all that Elia had done, and howe he had slaine all the pro-pheetes with the swearde. Then Jezabel sent a messenger vnto Elia, saying: So and so let the goddes do to me, yf I make not thy soule like one of theirs by to morowe this time. When he sawe that, he arose, and wente for his life, and came to Beersheba in Juda, and left his seruaunt there. But he himselfe, went a daies iourney into the wildernesse, & came, and satte downe vnder a Junipertree, & desired for his soule, that he might die, and said: It is now enough (O Lorde) take my soule, for I am not better then my fathers.

And as he lay and slepte vnder the Junipertree, behold, an Aungell touched him, and said vnto him: vp, and eate. And when he loked about him, beholde, there was a lofe of brayled breade, and a vessel of water at his head. And he did eate, and dranke, & laide him downe again to slepe. And the Aungell of the Lord came again the seconde time, and touched him, and said: Vp, and eat, for thou hast yet a great iourney. And he arose, and did eat and dranke, & walked in the strength of that meate fourty dayes, and fourty nightes, euen vnto Horeb the mount of God. Wher he came thither into a caue, he loged there all nighte.

And behold, the woorde of the Lorde came to him, and sayed vnto him: What doest thou here Elia? And he answered: I haue bene gelous for the Lord God of hoostes sake. For the children of Israel haue forsaken thy co-uenaunte, broken downe thyne aultares, and slaine thy Prophetes with the swearde, and I onely am left, and they seke my life to take it away. And he said, come out, and stande vpon the mount before the Lord, and beholde, the Lord wil by a mighty strong wind that rent the mountaines, & brake the rockes before the Lord. But the Lorde was not in the winde. And after the winde came an yearthquake. But the Lord was not in the yearthquake. And after the yearthquake came fire: but the Lorde was not in the fire. And after the fire came a small still voice. And when Elia heard it, he couered his face with his mantel, and went out, and stode in the entring in of the caue. And behold, there came a voice vnto him, & said: What doest thou here Elia?
And he answered: I haue bene gelous for the Lord God of hoostes sake, because the children of Israel haue forsaken thy couenaunt, cast downe thyne aultares, and slaine thy Pro-pheetes with the swearde, and I onely am left, & they seke my life to take it away. And the Lord said vnto him: go and returne thy way as yu comest vnto the wildernesse, that thou maiest anoint Hazael kyng ouer Syria. And Jehu the sonne of Nimsi shalt thou anoint kyng ouer Israel. And Elisa the son of Sa-phat of Abel Meholoh shalt thou annoint to be Prophete in thy rowme. And it shall come to passe, that who so escapeth the swerde of Hazael, him shall Jehu slay: and yf any man escape the swerd of Jehu, him shall Elisa put to the death. And yet haue I left me, vij.
M. in Israel, of which neuer man bowed his knee vnto Baall, nor kyssed hym with his mouth. So he departed thence, & found Elisa the son of Saphat plowyng, & hauyng twelue yoke of oxen before hym, and he with the twelue. And Elia went by him, and cast his mantel vpon him. And he left the oxen, and ran after Elia, & said: let me I pray the, kisse my father and my mother, and then I wil fo-lowe the. He said vnto him: go backe again, for what is it that I haue doen to the? And when he went backe again from him, he toke a couple of oxen, & slue them, and dressed the flesh with the instrumentes of the oxen, and gaue vnto the people, and they dyd eate. And then he arose & went after Elia, & ministred vnto him.

Benhadad the kyng of Syria gathered al his host together hauing xxxij. kynges with him, and horses, and charettes: and went vp, and besieged Samaria, & warred against it. And he sent messengers to Jahab kyng of Israel, into the cittie, and sayed vnto hym: thus saith Benhadad: Thy siluer and thy golde is mine, and the fayrest of thy wiues, and of thy children be mine. And the kyng of Israel answered, & said: My lorde kyng according vnto thy saiyng, I am thine, & all that I haue. And when the messengers came again, they said: thus saith Benhadad: For as muche as I haue sent vnto the, say-therfore sende my seruaunte vnto the to mo-rowe this time: and they shall serche thine house, and the houses of thy seruauntes: And what coueteous pleasaunt thyng they shall take it in their handes, and bryng it a-elders of the land, and said: take heede I pray schief. For he sent vnto me for my wiues, for my children, for my siluer and for my golde, and I denied hym not. And all the elders, and al the people said: herken not vnto him nor consent. Wherfore he said vnto the messengers of Benhadad: tel my Lord the kyng, all that thou bidd est sende for to thy seruaunt at the first time, that I wil do: but this thing I may not do. And the messengers departed & brought answere again. And Benhadad sent vnto him again, and sayed: thus, and thus do enough for all the people that followe me, to take euery man an handful. And the kyng of Israell answered, and said: tell him: Let not hym that putteth on his harnesse boast himselfe, as he that putteth it of. And it fortuned, that when Benhadad dranke, that tidynges was he was with the kynges drynkyng within the pauilion, he said vnto his seruauntes: put on your harnesse, and they set themselues in arraye against the citie. And behold, there came a Prophete vnto Ahab kyng of Israel, saying: thus saith the Lord: Wilt thou sene all this greate multitude? Behold, I wil deliuer it into thine hand this day, & thou shalt know, that I am the Lord. And Ahab said: by whom? He said thus saith the Lord: euen by the seruauntes of the gouernours of the shyres. He said again: Who shall order the battaile? And he answered: thou. Then he nombred the seruauntes of the gouernours of the shyres, and they were two hundred, and.xxij. And after them also he nombred all the people, al the children of Israel, euē seuen thousand. And they went out at noone: but Benhadad did drynke til he was dronken in the pauilions, both he, and the kynges, euen. xxxij. kynges, that holpe him. And the seruauntes of the gouernours of the shyres wente out first. And Benhadad sent out, and they shewed him, saying: There are men come out of Samaria. He said: whether they be come out for peace, take them aliue, or whether they be come out to fight, take them yet aliue. And so chose younge men of the gouernours of the shyres came out of the citie, and the host after them, and they slue euery one his enemy that came in his way. And the Syrians fled, and they of Israell followed after them. And Benhadad the kyng of Syria escaped on an horse with his horsemen. And the kyng of Israel went out, and smote the horses & charettes, & with a great slaughter slue he the Syrians. And there came a Prophete to the kyng of Israell, and said vnto him: go forth and play the man, be wise and take hede what thou doest: for when the yere is gone about, the kyng of Syria wil come vp against the. And the seruauntes of the kyng of Syria said vnto him: The goddes of the hilles are their goddes, and therefore they had the better of vs: but let vs fight against them in the plain, and for what so euer, we shall haue the better of them. And this do: take the kynges away euery man out of his place, and put Dukes in their roumes, and do thou nombre the an host like the host that thou hast lost, suche horses & such charettes, & we wil fight against them in the plain, & thou shalt se vs get the better of them. And he herkened vnto their voice, & did euē so. And it fortuned, that after the yere was gone about, Benhadad nombred the Syrians, & went vp to Aphek to fight against Israel. And the children of Israel were nombred, & with their whole nombre went they against them, & the children of Israel pitched before them, like two litle flockes of kiddes: but the Syrians filled the country. And there came a man of God, & spake vnto the king of Israel: thus saith the Lorde: because the Syrians haue said: the Lord is but God of the hilles, and not God of the valleys: therfore will I deliuer all this greate multitude into thine hand, & ye shal know that I am the lord. And they pitched one ouer against the other seuē dayes, and it came to passe that in the seuenth day the battail was ioyned. And the children of Israel slue of the Syrians an C. M. foote men in one day. But the rest fled to Aphek into the citie. And there fell a wal vpon.xxvij. M. of the men that were left. And Benhadad fled, and came into the citie, from chambre to chambre. And his seruauntes said vnto him: Behold, we haue herd say, that the kinges of the house of Israel are merciful kinges. We wil therefore put sackcloth about our loynes and ropes about our neckes, & go out to the kyng of Israel: yf happely he will saue thy life. And so they girded sackcloth about their loynes, and put ropes about their heades, and came to the kyng of Israell, and sayed: Thy seruaunt Benhadad saith: I pray the, let me liue. He said: is he yet aliue? he is my brother. And they toke that woorde for good lucke, and hastily caught it out of his mouth, and said: yea thy brother Benhadad. He said, go, bring hym hither. And Benhadad came out vnto him, and he caused hym to come vp into the charet. And he said vnto hym: the cities, which he my father toke from thy father, I will restore againe. And thou shalt make stretes for the in Damasco, as my father did in Samaria. And I wil make an appointmēt with the, & send the away. And so he made an appointment with him, & sent him away. And there was a certain man of the children of the Prophetes, which said vnto his neighbour in the worde of the Lord: smite me, I praye the. And the man wolde not smite him. Then said he vnto him: because thou hast not herkened vnto the voice of the Lord: behold, assone as thou art departed from me, a lyon shall slay the. And it came to passe, that assone as he was departed from him a* lion found him and slue him. Then he found an other man, & said: smite me, I pray the. And the man smote him, so that in smityng he wounded hym. So the Prophete went forth, and waited for the kyng by the way, & put himselfe out of knowledge with ashes, whiche helayed vpon his face. And when the kyng came by, he cried vnto the kyng, & said: thy seruaunt went out in the midden of the battail: and behold, there went away a man, whom an other man brought vnto me, & said: kepe this man. And if he be-

And the kyng of Israel said vnto him: euē so shal thy iudgemēt be, as thou hast declared it thy self. And he hasted, & tooke the ashes away from his face: & the kyng of Israel knew him that he was of the Prophetes. And he said vnto him: thus saith the Lorde: because thou hast let go a man that I set in my curse, thy life shal go for his life: & thy people for his people. And the kyng of Israel went to his house wayward & in displeasure, and came to Samaria.

AFter these thynges it chaūced that Naboth the Jezraelite had a vineyarde in Jezrael harde by the palace of Ahab kyng of Samaria. And Ahab spake vnto Naboth, saying: * Geue me thy vineyarde, that I may make me a garde of herbes therof, because it lyeth so nye mine house: and I will geue the for it a better vineyarde, then it is, or rather y^t^ pleaſe the, I wil geue the, the worth of it in mony. And Naboth said to Ahab: The lord forbyd that fro me, that I shoulde geue the enheritaunce of my father vnto the. And Ahab came into his house heuy & euil apayed because of the word, which Naboth the Jezraelite had spoken to him, for he had said: I will not geue the, the enheritaunce of my fathers. And he layed him down vpon his bed, & turned away his face: & to the wall and would eate no breade. But Jezabel his wife came to him, & said vnto him: why is thy spirite so wayward, that thou eatest no breade? And he said vnto her: For I spake vnto Naboth the Jezraelite, & said vnto him: Geue me thy vineyarde for mony, or els if it pleaſe the, I wil geue the an other vineyarde for it. And he answered: I wil not geue the my vineyard. And Jezabel his wife said vnto him: Woest thou thus gouerne the kingdō of Israel? vp, and eat bread, and let thyne harte be at rest, I wil geue the, the vineyard of Naboth the Jezraelite. And so he wrote a letter in Ahabs name, and sealed it with his seale, and sent the letter vnto the elders, and to the nobles that were in his Citee dwellyng with Naboth. And he wrote in the letter, saying: Proclame a fast, & set Naboth on hye amōg the people, & set two vnthryfties before him, to beare false witnesse against hym, saying: thou didest blaspheme god & the king. And then cary him out, & stone him to death.

And the men of his citie, that is to saye, which dwelt in his citie, did as Jezabel had sent vnto them: as it was written in the letter, which he had sent vnto them. They proclaimed a fast, and set Naboth among the chefe of the people, and there came in two men (the children of Belial) & sat before him. And the two vnthryfties witnessed against Naboth in the presence of the people, saying: Naboth did blaspheme god & the kyng. * And they caried him out of the citie, Acles. bii. g. and stoned him with stones, that he dyed. And then they sent to Jezabel saying: Naboth is stoned to death. And it chaūced, when Jezabel heard that Naboth was stoned to death, she said to Ahab: vp, and take possession of the vineyarde of Naboth the Jezraelite, which he denied to geue the for mony, for Naboth is not aliue, but dead. And when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, he rose vp to go downe to the vineyarde of Naboth the Jezraelite, and to take possession of it.

And the worde of the Lord came vnto Elia the Thesbite, saying: vp, and go down to mete Ahab kyng of Israel, which is in Samaria. For loo, he is gone downe to the vineyarde of Naboth: to take possession of it. And thou shalt say vnto hym: thus saith the Lorde: hast thou killed, and gotten possession? And thou shalt speake vnto hym, saying: thus saith the Lorde: * in the place where dogges licked the blood of Naboth, shal dogges licke euen thy blood also. And Ahab said to Elia: Hast thou founde me. O thou mine enemye? He answered: I haue found thee: for thou art cut sold to worke wickednes in the sight of the Lorde. Behold, I wil bring euil vpon the, and will make cleane riddaunce of thy posterite, and wil * destroy from Ahab, euen him that maketh water against the wal, and him that is shut vp and left behind in Israel, & will make thine house, like the house of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabath: and like the house Baasa the sonne of Ahia, for the prouocatiō wher with thou hast prouoked, & made Israel to trāne. And of Jezabel spake the Lord, saying: * dogges shal eat Jezabel in the possession of Jezrael. * And he that dieth of Ahab in the towne, him shal dogges eate: and he that dyeth in the feldes, him shal the fowles of the aire eat. But there was none like Ahab, which did euen sell himselfe, to worke wickednesse in the sight of the Lorde and that because Jezabell his wife pycked him forward. He did exceeding abominably, in folowyng foule goddes, accordyng to all thynges as the Ammonites, * whom the Lord cast out before the children of Israel. And it chaūced, that when Ahab herde those wordes, * he rent his clothes, and put sak cloth about his flesh, and fasted, and lay in sakcloth, and went barefoote. And the worde of the Lorde came to Elia the Thesbite, saying: Seest thou, how Ahab humbleth himselfe before me? because he so submitteth himselfe before me, I wil not bryng that euil in his daies: but in his sonnes daies, wil I bryng euill vpon his house. And they continued thus yeare without warre betwene Syria and Israel.

Oneteyng. And in the thirde yeare* laid Iehosaphat ij. the kyng of Iuda come down to the kyng ij. Par. xviij. a. of Israel. And the kyng of Israel saied vnto his seruauntes: knowe ye not that Ramoth in Gilead is ours? and we sit still, and take it not out of the hand of the kyng of Syria. And he said vnto Iehosaphat: wilt thou come with me to battaile against Ramoth in Gilead? And Iehosaphat said vnto the kyng of iij. Re. xij. a. Israell: * I will be as thou art, and my people shalbe as thyne, and my horses as thine.

And Iehosaphat said vnto the Kynge of
i. Reg. ij. a. Israell: * Aske counsail, I praye the, at the woorde of the Lorde to daye. And then the kyng of Israell gathered then Prophetes iij. Re. xviij. c together vpon * a foure hundred men, and said vnto them: Shall I goo against Ramoth in Gilead to battail, or shal I let it alone? And they said, go vp: for the Lord shal deliver it into the handes of the kyng. And Iehosaphat said: is there here neuer a Prophete of the Lorde more, that we might enquire of him? And the kyng of Israell sayed vnto Iehosaphat: there is yet one man (Michea the sonne of Iimla) by whom we maye aske counsail of the Lorde. But I hate him, B. for he doth not Prophecie good vnto me, but euil. And Iehosaphat said: let not the kyng say so. Then the king of Israel called a chamberlaine, and said: set Michea the sonne of Iimla hither at ones. And the kyng of Israel, and Iehosaphat the Kyng of Iuda, sat either in his seate, and their apparel on them: in a voide place beside the entryng in of the gate of Samaria, and all the Prophetes prophecied before them. And Sedekia the sonne of Canaana made hornes of yron, and said: thus saieth the Lorde: with these hornes shalt thou push the Syrians, until thou C. hane made an ende of them. And all the Prophetes prophecied euen so: saying: Go vp to Ramoth in Gilead, & prospere, for the Lord shal deliver it into the kynges hand. And the messenger that was gone to call Michea, spake vnto him, saying: beholde, the woordes of the Prophetes speake good vnto the king with one mouth: let thy woorde therefore (I pray the) be like the woorde of euery one of them, to speake that which is good. And Michea said: as truely as the Lorde liueth, what soeuer the Lord saith to me, that will I speake. And so he came to the kyng: and the kyng said vnto him: Michea, ought we to go against Ramoth in Gilead to battail, or to be
i. Par. xviij. a. b. c. d. still? He answered vnto him: * go and prospere, the Lorde shall deliver it into the hand of the kyng. And the kyng said vnto him: How
D. many times do I charge the, that thou let me nothyng, but that which is true in the name of the Lord. He said: I saw all them of Israel scatered vpon the hilles as sheepe that haue not a shepherde. And the lord said: these haue no master, let euery man returne vnto his house in peace. And the kyng of Israel said vnto Iehosaphat: dyd I not tell the, that he would prophecie no good vnto me, but euil? And he said again: heare thou therefore the woorde of the Lord. I saw the Lord sitte on his seate, and all the hoast of heauen stode about him on his right hand, & on his left, & the Lord said: Who shal persuade Ahab that he may go & fall at Ramoth in Gilead? And one said on this maner, and an other on that. And there came forth a certaine spirite, and stode before the Lord, and said: I will persuade him. And the Lord said vnto him wherewith? And he said: I will goo out, and be a false spirite in the mouth of all his prophetes. He said: thou shalt persuade him, & prosper: go forth then, & do euen so. Now therefore beholde, the lord hath put a lying spirite in the mouth of all these thy Prophetes, and the Lorde hath spoken euil towarde the. But Sedekia the sonne of Canaana went to, and smote Michea on the cheke, and said: which
E. way the spirite of the lord fro me, to speake vnto the? And Michea said: beholde, thou shalt se in that day, when thou shalt go from chambre to chambre to hide the. And the kyng of Israel said. Take Michea, and cary him vnto Amon the gouernour of the citie, & vnto Ioab the kynges son, and say, thus saith the kyng. Put this felow in the prison house, and fede him with bread of affliction, & with water of trouble, until I returne in peace. And Michea said: Yf thou returne in peace, the Lorde hath not spoken by me. And he said: Herken ye people euery one of you.

And so the Kyng of Israell and Iehosa-F. phat the kyng of Iuda wente vp to Ramoth in Gilead, & the king of Israel said to Iehosaphat, chaūge the when thou goest to war, and putte on myne apparell. And the kyng of Israell chaunged hymselfe, likewyse and went to battaile. But the kyng of Syria commaunded the. xxxii. captaines (that had rule ouer his charettes) saying: Fight neither with smal, nor greate, saue onely against the kyng of Israell. And when the Captaines of the charettes sawe Iehosaphat, they said: Surely it is the Kyng of Israell, and they turned to fight against him. And Iehosaphat cryed. And so it came to passe, that when the Capitaines of the charettes sawe that he was not the Kyng of Israell: they turned backe from him. And a certaine man drue a bowe ignorauntly and thy chaūce smote the kyng of Israel betwene the ribbes and his harnesse. Wherefore he said vnto the driuer of his charettes: Turne thy hande, and cary me out of the hoaste, for I am [sore] hurt. And the battail encreased that day, and the kyng stode still in his charet against the

Syrians, and died at euen. And the blood ran out of the wound into the midden of the charet. And there went a proclamation throughout the hoast, about the going downe of the sunne, saying: euery man to his citie, and to his owne country. And so the king of Israel died: and they came to Samaria, and buried him there. And one washed the charet in the poole of Samaria, * and the dogges licked vp his blood (& harlottes washed by the poles (ide) accordyng vnto the woorde of the lord which he spake. The rest of the wordes that concerne Ahab. and all that he did, & the yuory house which he made, & all the cities that he builded, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And so Ahab slept with his fathers: & Ahazia his sonne raigned in his stede. Iehosaphat* the son of Asa began to raigne vpon Iuda in the fourth yere of Ahab kyng of Israel: and Iehosaphat was .xxv. yere old, when he began to raigne, & raigned .xxv. yere in Ierusalē. His mothers name was Azuba the daughter of Silhi. And he walked in all the waies of Asa his father, and bowed not therefrom: but did that which was right in the eies of the Lord. Nuertheless, the hil aulters were not taken out of the waye: for the people offered & burnt incence yet in the hilaulters. And Iehosaphat made peace with the kyng of Israel.* The rest of the wordes that concerne Iehosaphat, & the might that he vsed, & how he warred: are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda. And the remaunt of the stues of the males, which remained in the daies of his father, he putte cleane out of the lande. There was then no king in Edom. And Iehosaphat made .x. shippes in the see, to come thorow Tharsis to Ophir for gold, but they went not, for the shippes brake at Ozion Gaber. Then said Ahazia the son of Ahab vnto Iehosaphat: let my seruauntes go with thy seruauntes in the shippes. But Iehosaphat wolde not. And Iehosaphat did slepe with his fathers, and was buried with his father in the citie of Dauid his father. And Iehoram his son raigned in his stede. Ahazia the son of Ahab began to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria the seuenteth yeare of Iehosaphat kyng of Iuda, & raigned two yeres ouer Israel. But he did euil in the sight of the Lord, and walked in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the way of Ieroboam the sonne of Nabat, which made Israel to sin. For he serued Baal, & worshipped him and prouoked the Lord God of Israel vnto wrath, according vnto all that his father had done.

AND Moab did wickedly against Israell after the death of Ahab. And Ahazia fell thorowe a lattesse window of his vpper chābre that he had in Samaria: and while he was sicke, he sent messengers, and said vnto them: Goo, and enquire of Belzebub the god of Ekrom, whether I shall recouer of this my disease. But the Angel of the Lorde spake to Elia the Thesbite. Arise, and go vp against the messengers of the kyng of Samaria, & say vnto them: Is there not a God in Israel, that ye goo to aske counsail at Belzebub the god of Ekrom. Wherefore, thus saith the Lord: thou shalt not come downe frō the bedde on which thou art gone vp, but shalt dye the death. And Elia departed. And when the messegers turned backe again vnto him, he said vnto them: why are ye now come again? They answered hym: there came a man vp against vs, and said vnto vs: goo, and turne againe vnto the kyng that sent you, and say vnto him: Thus saith the Lorde: Is there not a God in Israel, that thou sendest to enquire of Belzebub the God of Ekrō? Therefore thou shalt not come downe from the bed on which thou art gone vp, but shalt dye the death. And he said vnto them: what maner of man was that which came vp in your way, & told you these wordes? And they answered him: It was an hery man,* and girde with a girde of lether about his loines. And he said: it is Elia the Thesbite. Thē the king sent vnto him a captaine ouer fifty (with his fifty men) which he came to him & beholde, he sat on the toppe of an hill. And he spake vnto hym: Thou man of God, the kyng hath said: Come downe. Elia answered, & said to the captain ouer the fifty: Yf I be a man of God, fire come down from heuē, & consume the & thy fifty.* And there came fire of God, and consumed him and his fifty. And the king sent again, and sent another Captaine ouer fifty, with his fifty. And he answered, and said vnto hym: O man of God, thus hath the kyng said make hast, and come downe. Elia answered and said vnto them: Yf I be a man of God fire come downe from heauen and consume the, and thy fifty. And there came fire of God downe from heauen, and consumed him and his fifty. taine ouer fifty with his fifty men. And the thirde captain ouer fifty went vp and came, and fell on his knees before Elia, & besought him, and said vnto him: O man of God let my life and the life of the fifty, thy seruauntes be precious in thy sight. Behold, there came fire downe from heauen, & burnt vp the two fore captaines ouer fifty with their fifties: therfore let my life now be precious in thy sight. And the Aungel of the Lord said vnto Elia: go downe with him, and be not afraid of him. And he arose, and went downe with him vnto the Kyng. And he said vnto him: Thus saith the Lord: for as moche, as thou hast sente messengers to aske counsaill at Belzebub the god of Ekron, as though there had bene no God in Israell, whose worde thou mightest seke after: therfore thou shalt not come downe of the bedde on whiche thou art gone vp, but shalt dye the death. And so he died according to the worde of the Lord which Elia had spoken. And Iehoram his brother began to raigne in his stede, in the second yere of Iehoram the sonne of Iehosaphat Kyng of Iuda, because he had no son. AND it chaunced, that when the * Lorde would take vp Elia into heauē by a whirle wynde: Elia went with Elisa from Gilgal, and Elia said to Elisa: Tary here, I pray the, for the Lord hath sent me to Bethel. Elisa said vnto him: * as surely as the Lorde liueth, and as thy soule liueth: I will not leaue the. And they came downe to Bethell. & the children of the Prophetes that were at Bethell, came out to Elisa, and said vnto him: knowest thou not, how that the Lord wil take away thy maister from thine head this day? He said: I knowe it also: holde ye your peace. And Elia said vnto him: Elisa: tary here, I pray the, for the Lorde hath sent me to Ierichoe? He said: As surely as the Lord liueth, & as surely as thy soule liueth, I will not leaue the. & so they came to Ierycho. And the children of the Prophetes that were at Iericho came to Elisa, & said vnto him: knowest thou not, that the Lorde will take away thy maister from thine head this daye? He answered: I knowe it also: holde ye your peace. And Elia said vnto him: tary I praye the here, for the Lord hath sent me to Iordan. He said: As surely as the Lord liueth, & as thi soule liueth, I will not leaue the. And so they two went together. And fifty men of the sonnes of the Prophetes came and stode on the other side afarre off, and they two stode by Iordan. And Elia tooke his mantel, and wrapt it together, and smote the waters and they were deuided, parte the one way, and parte the other: so that they two went ouer thorow the drie land. And it chaunced, that as soone as they were ouer Elia said vnto Elisa: Aske what I shall do for the, ere I be taken away from the. And Elisa said: I pray the: let thy spirite be double vpō me. And he said: thou hast asked an harde thyng. Neuertheles, if thou see me when I am taken away from the, thou shalt haue it for the: but if not, it shall not be. And it chaunced, that as they went walkyng and talkyng: beholde, there appeared a charret of fire, and horses of fire: and parted them both a sonder.* And Elia went vp thorowe the whirle wynde into heauen. And Elisa saw, and cried: O my father, O my father, the charette of Israel, and the horsemē therof, and he saw him no more: and he toke his owne clothes, and rent them in two peces. He toke vp also the mantel of Elia that fell from him, and went backe again, and stode by Iordans side, and toke the mantel of Elia (that fell from him,) & smote the waters: and they parted not a sonder. And he said: where is the Lord God of Elia, and he him selfe? And when he had smit the waters, they parted this way and that way: & Elisa went ouer. And when the children of the Prophetes which were at Iericho saw him from a farre, they said: the spirite of Elia doth rest on Elisa, and they came to mete him, and fell to the ground before him, and said vnto him: See, there be with thy seruauntes fifty strong men, let them go and seke thy maister: happely the spirite of the Lord hath taken him vp, and cast him vpon some mountaine, or into some valey. And he said: Ye shal send none. And when they lay vpon him til he was ashamed, he said: Send. They sent therfore fifty men, whiche sought him three daies, & three nightes, but found him not. And whē they came again to him (which taried at Iericho) he said vnto the: did not I say vnto you, that ye should not go? And the men of the citie said vnto Elisa: behold: Sir the dwellyng of this Citie is pleasaunt, as thou thy self seest. But the water is naught, and the ground barren. He said: Bryng me a newe cruse: and put salte therin. And they brought it to him. And he went vnto the spryngs of the waters, & cast the salte in thither, and said: thus saieth the Lord: I haue healed this water: there shall not come hence forth either death, or barrenesse. So the waters were healed vntill this day, according to the saiyng of Eliseus whiche he spake. And he went vp from thence vnto Bethel. And as he was goyng vp the way, there came litle children out of the citie, and mocked him, and said vnto him: Go vp thou balde head, go vp thou balde heade. And he turned backe, and loked on them, and cursed them in the name of the Lord. And there came two she beares out of that wood, and tare .xlij. children of them. And he wente from thence to mount Carmel, and from thence he turned again to Samaria.

IEhoram the sonne of Ahab began to raigne vpon Israell in Samaria, the .xviij. yere of Iehosaphat kyng of Juda, and raigned twelue yeres. And he wrought euill in the sight of the Lord, but not like his father, and like his mother: for he put away the images of Baall, that his father had made. Neuertheles, he cleued vnto the synnes of Ieroboam, the sonne of Nabat (which made Israell to synne) and departed not therefrom.

II. And Mesa kyng of Moab was a lorde of sheepe, and rendred vnto the kyng of Israell an hundred thousande lambes, and an hundred thousande rambes with the woll. But when Ahab was dead, it fortuned that the kyng of Moab rebelled against the kyng of Israell. And kyng Iehoram went out of Samaria the same season, and nombred all Israell, and went, and sent to Iehosaphat the kyng of Juda, saying: The kyng of Moab hath offended against me, wilt thou come with me against Moab to battaile? He answered: I will come vp, for as I am, so art thou, and as my people be, so are thy people: and thy horses, as mine. And he said: What way shall we goo vp? And he answered: The waie

And when they had compassed the way seuen dayes, they had no water for the hoste, and for the cattell that folowed them. And the kyng of Israel said: Alas, the Lorde hath called these three kynges together, to deliuer them ouer into the hād of Moab. But Iehosaphat

1. Reg. xxv. a. said: Is there not here a Prophete of the Lord, that we maie enquire of the Lorde by him? And

C. to the kyng of Israel, and Iehosaphat, and the kyng of Edom went downe to him. And Elisa said vnto the kyng of Israell: What haue I to do with the? Get the to the Prophetes of thy father, and to the Prophetes of thy mother. And the kyng of Israel said vnto him: Oh nay: For the Lord hath called these three Kynges together, to deliuer them into the hād of Moab. And Elisa said: As sure as the lord of hostes liueth (in whose sight I stande) and if it were not, that I regarde the presence of Iehosaphat the kyng of Juda, I would not loke towarde the, nor [illegible] for the. But now bringe me a minstrell.

And when the minstrell played, the hand of the Lord came vpon him. And he said: thus saith the Lorde: Make this plaine grauell full of dichas. For thus saith the Lorde, ye shall se neither winde nor raigne, and yet the broke shalbe filled with water, that ye maie drinke both ye and your beastes, and your cattell. And this is yet but a smal thyng in the sight of the Lorde, for as muche as he will geue ouer the Moabites also into your handes. And ye shall smite euery stronge towne and euery goodly Citie, and shall fel euery pleasant tree, and stoppe euery well of water, and marre euery good plot of grounde with stones. And in the morowyng when the meat-offeryng was offred, it fortuned, that there came water by the way from Edom: and the country was filled with water. And when all the Moabites hearde that the kynges were come vp to fight against them, they gathered al together, from the youngest that was able to put harnesse and so vpward, and stode in the border of the lande. And they were vp early in the morowyng, & the Sunne shone vpō the water, that the Moabites sawe the water a farre of, as redde as bloud, and they said: This is the bloud of slaughter: the kynges are slaine, and one hath smitten an other. Now therefore Moab gette the to the spoile. And when they came to the hoast of Israel, the Israelites rose vp, and smote the Moabites, so that they fledde before them, but they folowed vpon them, and smote Moab. And they ouerthrewe the Cities: and on euery good parcel of lande cast euery man his stone, & filled it, and they stopped al the welles of water, & felled all the good trees. Onely in the Citie of Bryeke left they the stones ther of, howbeit they went about it with slynges, and smote it. And when the kyng of Moab sawe that the battaill was fore against him, he toke with him seuē hundred men that drue the sweard to haue gone thorowe, euen vnto the kyng of Edom: but they could not. And then he toke his eldest sonne (that should haue raigned in his stede) and offred him for a burnt offeryng vpon the wall. And there was greate indignation against Israel, and they departed from him, and returned to their owne land.

Euen song. II.

NOw there cried a certaine woman of the wiues of the Prophetes vnto Elisa, saying: thy seruaunt my housbande is deade, and thou knowest, that thy seruaunt did feare the Lord. And the creditour is come to fette my two sonnes to be his bondmen. Elisa said vnto her: Tell me, what shall I do for the? What haste thou in thine house? She said: thine handmaid hath nothyng at all in the house, saue a pitcher of oile: He said vnto her: Go, & borow vessel for the: of them

D. that ate without, euen of all thy neyghbours empty vessels: and that not a fewe. And whē thou art come in, thou shalt shut the doze after the and after thy sonnes, and powre out into all those vessels, & set aside that which is full. And so the woman went from him and shut the doze after her, and after her sonnes.
And they brought to her, and she powred out.
And it came to passe, that when the vessels were full, she said vnto her son. Bring me yet a vessel. And he said vnto her: I haue no mo.
And the oile ceased. Then she came and told the man of God. and he said go, and sell the oile, and pay them that thou ast in debt vnto, but liue thou and thy children of the rest. And it fell on a day, that Elisa came to Sunem, where was a great woman that toke him in E. for to eate bread. And so it came to passe, that from that time forth (as oft as he came that way) he turned in thither to eat bread.
And she said vnto her housband: Beholde, I perceiue, that this is an holy man of God that cōmeth so oft by our place. Let vs make him a chamber (I pray the) with walles, and let vs set him there a bed, and a table, and a stole, and a candelsticke: that he may turne in thither when he commeth to vs. And it fortuned on a day, that he came thither, and turned into the chamber, and laye therin, and said to Gehezi his seruaunt. Call this Sunamite.
And when he called her, she presented her selfe before him. And again he said vnto him Tell her: beholde, thou hast ben carefull for vs, and hast made all this promotion. What shall we nowe doo for the? wouldest thou be spoken for to the kyng, or to the captain of the host? She answered: I dwel among mine owne people. And he said again? what is to be done for her? Giezy answered: Verely she hath no child, and her housband is olde.
And he said: call her. And when he had cal-

Rom. ix. b. such a time, and as sone as the frute can liue, thou shalt embrace a sonne. And she said: Oh nay, my lord, thou man of God, do not lye vnto thy handmaide. And the wife conceiued, & bare a sonne that same season that Eliseus had said vnto her, assone as the frute coulde W. haue life. And when the child was growen it fell on a day, that he wente out to his father, and to the reapers. And he said to his father: my head, my head. And he said to a lad: Carry him to his mother. And when he had taken him and brought him to his mother, he sat on her knees till none, and then died.
And she went vp, and layed him on the bed of the man of God, and shut the doze about him, and went out, and called vnto her housband, and said: Send with me (I pray the) one of the young men and one of the asses. For I will runne to the man of God, and come again. And he said: wherfore wilt then go to him, seyng that to day is neither newe moone, nor Sab-both day? She answered: for health. The he called an asse, & said to her seruaunt, leade away the asse, and make her not go softly because I ride vpon her but when I bid the.

And so she went, and came vnto the man of God to mount Carmel. And it fortuned, that when the man of God saw her farre of, he said to Giezi his seruaunt: Behold, yonder is the Sunamite. Run therfore to mete her, & saye vnto her: Is all well with the, and with thy housband, & with the lad? And she answered all is well. And when she came to the man of God vp to the hil, she caught him by the feet But Gehezi went to her, to thrust her away.
And the man of God said: let her alone, for her soule is vexed within her, and the Lord hath hid it fro me, & hath not told it me. The she said: did I desire a son of my lord? did I not require the, that thou wouldest not de-ceiue me? Then he said to Gehezi:* girde vp iij. Reg. ix. b.

& go thy way.* If thou mete any man salute Luke. x. a.

of the child. And the mother of the child said * as sure as the Lord liueth, & as thy soule i. Reg. xvij. b liueth, I wil not leaue the. And he arose, and followed her. Gehezi went before them, and laied the staffe vpon the face of the childe.
But there was neither voice nor any feling: wherfore he went again to mete him & tolde him, saying: the child is not waked. And F. when Elisa was come into the house: behold the child was dead, and layed vpon his bed.
He went in therfore, and shut the doze to the lad and him, and prayed vnto the Lord.* And went vp, and laye vpon the lad, and put his iij. Reg. xvij. b.

eies, & his handes vpon his handes, & when he so laye vpō the child, the flesh of the child waxed warme. And he went again, and walked ones vp and downe in the house, & then went vp and layed him selfe vpon him againe. And then the child gaped seuen times, and opened his eies. And he called Gehezi, and said: Call for this Sunamite. So he called her, which when she was come in vnto him, he said vnto her.* Take thy son. Therfore she Luke. v. a. went in, and fell at his feete, and bowed her selfe to the ground, and toke vp her sonne, & went out. Elisa came again to Gilgall, and G. there was a dearth in the land, and the children of the Prophetes dwelt with him. And he said vnto his seruaunt: Set a great potte on the fire, and make pottage for the children of the Prophetes. And one went out into the felde, to gather herbes, and founde (as it were) a wilde vine, and gathered therof wilde Coloquintidas his lap full, and came and shred them into the potte of pottage: for they knewe it not. So they powred out for the man to eate. And it fortuned, that when thei tasted of the pottage, thei cried out and sayde: O thou man of God, there is death in the pot: and they could not eate thereof. But he sayde: bryng mele, and he cast it into the pot, and sayde: fyll for the people, that they maye eate. & there was no more harme in the pot. There came a man from Baal Salisa, & brought the man of God bread of the fyrst fruites, euen twenty loues of barly, and newe corne, whiche was yet in his bagges, and he sayde: Geue vnto the people, that they maye eate. And his minister answered: why, shal I set this before an hundred men? He sayde agayne: geue it vnto the people that they maye eate. For thus sayeth the Lorde: they shall eate, and there shalbe left ouer. And so he put it before them, and they dyd eate, and left ouer: according to the worde of the Lorde.

The. v. Chapiter.

Naaman capitaine of the host of the kyng of Syria, was a great man, and honourable in the sight of his master: because that by hym the Lorde had geuen health vnto Syria. He also was a mighty man and expert in warre, but he was a lepar. And the Syrians had gone out by companies, and had brought out of the countrey of Israel a litle mayde, & she was with Naamans wyfe. And she sayde vnto her lady: I would to God my lord were with the prophete that is in Samaria: for he would deliuer hym of his leprosie. And he went in, and tolde his lorde, saying: thus and thus sayde the mayde that is of the lande of Israel. And the kyng of Syria sayde: Come, and enter in, and I will sende a letter vnto the kyng of Israel: And he came, & toke with hym ten talentes of syluer, and syx thousand peces of golde, and ten chaunge of raymentes: and brought the letter to the kyng of Israel conteinyng this tenour: Now when this letter is come vnto the, beholde, I haue there with sent Naaman my seruaunt to the, that thou mayest eyed hym of his lepresy. And it fortuned, that when the kyng of Israel had red the letter, he rent his clothes, and sayde: * am I God, that I should saye and make aliue? For he doth sende to me, that I should deliuer a man from his lepresy: Wherfore consyder (I praye you) and se howe he seketh a quarell agaynst me. Whiche when Elisa the man of God had heard howe that the kyng of Israhell had rent his clothes, he sent vnto the kyng saying: wherfore hast thou rent thy clothes? Let hym come nowe to me, and he shall knowe, that there is a prophet in Israel. And so Naaman came with his horses and with his charettes, and stode at the dore of the house of Elysa. And Elisa sent a messenger vnto hym, saying: go and washe thee in Iordan seuen tymes, and thy flesh shall come

Naaman was wroth and went awaye, and sayde: Beholde, I thought with my selfe: he woulde surely come out, and stande and cal on the name of the Lorde his God, and put his hand on the place that he might heale the lepresy. Are not Abana and Pharphar ryuers of Damasco, better then all the waters of Israel? If I washe also in them, shall I not be clensed? And so he turned hym, and departed with displeasure. And his seruauntes came, and communed with hym, and sayde. Father if the Prophet had bidden the do some great thyng, oughtest thou not to haue done it? How much rather then, when he sayeth to the: washe, and be cleane? Then went he downe, and washed hym selfe seuen tymes in Iordan, according to the saying of the man of God: and his flesh chaunged lyke vnto the flesh of a litle chylde, * and he was clensed. And he turned agayne to the man of God, he and his company, and stode before hym and sayde: Beholde, I knowe nowe that there is no God in al the worlde, but in Israel. Now therfore take a blessyng of thy seruaunt. But he sayde: * as surely as the Lorde liueth (before whom I stande) I will receyue none. And when the other woulde haue constrayned hym to receiue it, he would not. And Naaman sayd: Ceuen as thou wylt, but I beseche the. Shal there not be geuen to thy seruant as much of this yearth as two mules may beare? For thy seruaunt wyl henceforth offer neyther burnt sacrifice nor offeryng vnto any other God, saue vnto the Lorde. But herein the Lorde be mercyfull vnto thy seruaunt, that when my maister goeth into the house of Rimmon, and doeth worship there, and leaneth on myne hande, and I also worship in the house of Rimmon. (When I do worship, I say: in the house of Rimmon) the Lorde be mercifull vnto thy seruaunt because of this thyng. Vnto whom he sayd: go in peace. And when he was departed from hym as it were a forlong of grounde, Gehezi the seruaunt of Elisa the man of God sayd: beholde, my maister hath spared Naaman this Syrian, that he would not receyue of his hād those thynges, that he offered. As surely as the Lorde liueth, I will run after hym, and take some what of hym. And so Gehezi folowed Naaman. And when Naaman sawe hym runnyng after hym, he lyght downe from the charete to mete hym, and sayde: * is all well? He answered: All is well. Beholde, my maister hath sent me, saying: Se, there be come to me, euen nowe from mounte Ephraim two young men of the children of the prophetes: geue them I praye the, one talent of syluer, and two chaunge of garmentes. And Naaman sayde: with a good wyll. Take two talentes: and he compelled hym to bynde two talentes of syluer in two bagges, with two chaunge when he came into a secrete place, he toke thē from their hande, and bestowed it in the hou-myne hart with the when the man tourned a-gayne from his charette to mete the? Is it nowe a tyme to receyue money, to receiue garmentes, olyue trees, vineyardes, shepe & oxen,

¶ The. vi. Chapitel.

E. THe chyldren of the prophetes sayd vnto Elisa: Beholde, the place where we dwell with the is to lytle for vs. We wyll therfore go vnto Iordan, and take thence e-uery mā a beame, and build vs a place to dwel in. And he answered: go. And one sayde: be ty cause (I pray the) and come with thy seruauntes. And he answered: I wyll come, and so he went with them. And when they came to Iordan they cut downe wood. But it fortuned, that as one was kellyng downe of a tree, the axe head fell into the water. And he cried and sayde: alas maister, it was lent me. And the man of God sayde: where fell it? And he shewed hym the place. And he cut downe a tycke, and cast it in thether, and immediatly the yron dyd swym. Therfore sayde he: take it vp. And he stretched out his hande, and to-ke it vp. But the kyng of Syria warred a-B. gaynst Israel and toke counsayll with his seruauntes, and sayde: In youre secrete place shalbe my remayning. And the man of God sent vnto the kyng of Israel, saying. Beware that thou go not ouer to suche a place, for there the Syrians are lurking. Therfore the kyng of Israel sent to the place which the man of God tolde hym, and warned hym of and saued hymselfe from it, not ones, nor twyse. And the harte of the kyng of Syria was troubled for this thyng, and he called for his seruauntes, and sayde vnto them: wyl ye not shewe me which of our men betrayeth me to the kyng of Israel? And one of hys seruauntes sayde: none my lorde, O kyng, but Elisa the prophet that is in Israel telleth the kyng of Israel: yea, euen the wordes that thou speakest in thy preuy chambre. He sayd go, and espye where he is, that I maye sende and fet him. And one told him, saying: behold, he is in Dothan. Therfore sent he thether horses and charettes, and a mighty hoost.
And they came by nyght, and compassed the C. citie about. And when the seruaunt of the man of God arose vp early & go out, behold, there was an hoost round about the town with horses and charettes. And his seruaunt sayd vnto hym. Alas maister what shall we do? He answered: feare not, for they that be with ii. par. xxii. a vs are more then they that be with them. And Elisa prayed, and sayd: Lord I beseche the, open his eyes that he may se. And the Lorde opened the eyes of the young man: And be-holde, the mountayne was full of horses and charettes of fire rounde about Elisa. And whē they came downe to hym, Elisa prayed vnto the Lorde, and sayde. Smyte this people (I praye the) with* blyndnesse. And he smote them Gen. xix. c with blindnes, according to the desire of E- Sap. xix. a. lisa. And Elisa saide vnto them: this is not the waye, neither is this the towne: folowe me, and I will bryng you to the man whō ye seke. But he led them to Samaria. And it for- D. tuned, that when they were come to Samaria, Elisa sayde Lord, open their eyes that they maye se. And the Lorde opened their eyes, & they sawe: and beholde, they were in the middest of Samaria. And the kyng of Israel sayd vnto Elisa when he sawe them: My father, shall I smyte them? And he answered: thou shalt not smite them: But smyte thē that thou hast taken with thine owne swerde, and with thine owne bowe. But rather set bread & water before them, that they maye eate & drinke and go to their maister. And he prepared a great refection for them. And when they had eaten and dronken, he sent them away: & they went to their maister. And the souldiers of Syria came no more into the land of Israel.
After this it chaunced, that Benhadad kyng E. of Syria gathered all his hoost, and went vp, and besieged Samaria. But there was a great derth in Samaria: and behold, they besieged it, vntill an asses head (was solde) for foure score syluer pence, and the fourth part of a Cab of dones dounge, for fyue sycles. And as the kyng of Israel was going vpon the wal, there cried a woman vnto hym, saying: helpe my Lorde O kyng. He sayd: if the Lorde do not succour the, wherwith can I helpe the with the barne, or with the vinepresse? And the kyng sayde vnto her: what wylt thou?
She answered: yonder woman sayde vnto me: bryng thy sonne, that we may eate hym to daye, and we will eate myne to morowe. And F. Leuit. xxvi. b so we dressed my sonne, and did eate hym. And Deu. xxviii. f I sayd to her this other day: bryng thy sonne Ezech. iiii. b that we maye eate hym, and she hath hyd her hearde the wordes of the woman, he rent his clothes, and went vp on the wal. And the people loked, and behold, he had sackcloth vnder, iii. Re. xix. d so to me, if the head of Elisa the son of Sa-phat shall stande on him this daye. But Elisa sat in his house, and the elders sat by hym, & the kyng sent a man before hym. But ere the messenger came to hym he rode to the ciete: Haue ye not true howe that the kynge of this murtherer hathe sent to take awaye myne heade? be circumspect when the messenger cometh, and shut the doore, and holde hym at the doore: is not the sound of his maisters fete behinde hym? Then Eliza sayde: heare ye the worde of the Lorde, thus saieth the Lorde: tomorowe this tyme shall a bushell of fine floure be solde for a sicle, and two bushels of barley for a sicle in the gate of Samaria. Then a certayne lorde (on whose hande the kyng leaned) aunswered the man of God, and sayde: beholde, if the Lorde would make windowes in heauen, myght this saieng come to passe? He sayde: beholde, thou shalt se it with thine eyes, but shalt not eat therof. And there were foure leprous men at the entryng in of the gate. And they sayde one to another: why syt we here vntill that we dye? If we say we will entre into the citie: beholde, the derth is in the citie, and we shall die therein. And if we sit still here, we dye also. Now therefore come, and let vs fal vpo the hoast of the Syrians: If they saue our lyues we shall lyue: If they kyll vs, then are we dead. And so they arose in the nyght, to go to the hoast of the Syrians. And when thei were come to the vtmoste parte of the hoast of Syria, beholde, there was noman there. For the Lorde had made the host of the Syrians to heare a noise of charettes and a noyse of horses, a noyse of a great hoast. In somuche that they sayde one to an other: lo, the kyng of Israel hath hired against vs the kynges of the Hethites, and the kynges of the Egyptians to come vpon vs. Wherfore they arose, and fled in the nyght, and left their tentes, their horses, and their asses, and the field which they had pitched, euen as it was and fled for their lyues. And when these lepers came to the edge of the hoast, they went into a tent, and did eate & drinke, and caried thence syluer and gold, and rayment, and went and hyd it, came agayn, and entred into another tent, and caried thence also, and went and hyd it. Then sayde one to another: We do not well this daye, for a messuche as it is a daye to bryng good tidynges, and we holde our peace. If we tary till the daye lyght, some mischefe will come vpo vs. Now therefore come, that we maie go, and tell the kynges housholde. And so they came, and called vnto the porters of the citie, and told the, saieng: we came to the pauilions of the Syrians, and se, there was noman there, neither voyce of man, but horses and asses tied: and the tentes were euen as they were wont to be. And he called vnto the porters, and they tolde the kynges house within. And the kyng arose in the nyght, and sayde vnto his seruauntes: I will shewe you now, what the Syrians haue done vnto vs. They know that we be hungrye, and therefore are they gone out of the pauilions, to hyde them selues in the felde, saieng: when they come out of the citie, we shall eatche them alyue, and ges into the cytie. And one of his seruauntes aunswered, and sayde: Let men take (I praye you) fyue of the horses that remaine, and are left in the multitude. Beholde, thei are euen as all the multitude of Israel that are left in the citie: beholde (I saye) thei are euen as the multitude of the Israelites that are consumed, and we shall sende, and se. They toke therefore the horses of two charettes, and the kyng sent after the hoast of the Syrians, saieng: go, and se. And thei went after them ouer vnto Iordane, and lo, all the waye was full of clothes and vessels which the Syrians had cast from them in their haste. And the messengers returned, and tolde the kyng. And the people went out, and spoyled the tentes of the Syrians. And so it came to passe, that a bushell of fyne floure was solde for a sicle, and two bushels of barley for a sicle, according to the worde of the Lorde. And the kyng appointed the Lorde (on whose hande he leaned) to be at the gate. And the people trode de vpon him in the gate, and he died: according to the worde of the man of God, which he had spoken, when the kyng came down to hym. And so came the thyng to passe, that the man of God had spoken to the kyng, saieng: ij. bushels of barley for a sicle, and a bushel of fine floure for a sicle, shalbe to morowe this time in the gate of Samaria. Whereunto that lorde aunswered the man of God, & sayd: yea, and if the Lorde made windowes in heauen, myght it come to passe? And he sayd: behold, thou shalt se it with thine eyes, and shalt not eate therof. And euen so chaunced it vnto hym: for the people trode vpon him in the gate: & he dyed.

ple of the Lorde, euen ouer Israel. Thou shalt smyte the house of Ahab thy maister, that I maye auenge the bloude of my seruauntes & the prophetes, and the bloud of all the seruauntes of the Lorde, of the hande of Iezabel, for the whole house of Ahab shalbe destroyed: iii. Reg. xxi. and * I will destroye from Ahab, euen hym that maketh water agaynst the wall, and hym that is prysoned and forsaken in Israel: and I will make the house of Ahab, lyke the house of Ieroboam, the sonne of Nabat, and like the house of Baasa the sonne of Ahia. And iii. Re. xxi. c as for Iezabel, * the dogges shal eate her in the citie of Iezrael, and there shalbe none to burie her. And he opened the doze, and fled. Iehu came out to the seruauntes of his lorde and one sayde vnto hym: is all well? Wherefore came this mad felow to the? And he sayd vnto them: ye know what maner of man it is, and what his communication is. They sayde vnto hym agayn: it is not so, tel vs? He sayd: thus, and thus spake he to me, saiyng: Thus sayeth the Lorde: I haue anoynted the to be kyng ouer Israel. Then they beesyde the hoo vologie, hasted, and toke euery man his garment, and put it vnder hym, and blewe with trōpettes, saiyng: Iehu is kyng. And so Iehu the sonne of Iehosaphat, the sonne of Nimsi, conspired agaīst Ioram. Ioram kept Ramoth Gilead, he and all Israel because of Hazael kyng of Siria: and * kyng Ioram re iiii. Re. viii. g. turned to be healed in Iezrael of the woundes whiche the Syrians had geuen hym, when he fought with Azahel kyng of Siria. And Iehu sayde: if it be your myndes, then let no man departe and escape out of the citie, to go and tell in Iezrael. So Iehu gat vp into a charet, and went to Iezrael, where Ioram laye, and Ahaziahu kyng of Iuda was come downe thither to se Ioram. And the watcheman that stode in the towre in Iezrael, spyed the company of Iehu as he came, and sayd: I se a company. And Ioram sayd: take a horsman and sende to mete them, that he maie aske whether it be peace. And so there went one on horsebacke to mete him and sayde thus: saieth the kynges: is it peace? And Iehu sayde: what hast thou to do with peace? turne the behynd me. And the watcheman tolde, saiyng: the messenger came to the, but he cometh not agayn. Then he sent out an other on horsebacke, whiche came to them, and sayde: thus saieth the kyng: is it peace? Iehu answered: what hast thou to do with peace? turne the behynd me. And the watcheman tolde, saiyng: he came to them also, and cometh not agayn, and the driuyng is lyke the driuyng of Iehu, the sonne of Nimsi: for he driueth the charet as a wode man. And Ioram sayde: make ready, and the charet was made ready. And Ioram kyng of Israel, and Ahaziahu kyng of Iuda, rode out either of them in his charet against Iehu, and mette hym in the lordship of Naboth the Iezrealite. And it so tourned, that when Ioram sawe Iehu, he sayd: is it peace Iehu? He answered. What peace (sayd he) so long as the whoredome of thy mother Iezabel, & her witchecraftes are so great? And Ioram turned his handes and fled, and sayde to Ahaziahu: there is falshed O Ahaziahu. And Iehu toke a bowe in his handes, and smote Ioram betwene the armes, and the arrowe went thorow his hart, and he fell down flat in his charet. Then sayde Iehu to Bydkar a capitaine: take him and cast him in the plot of the ground of Naboth the Iezrealite. For I remember that when I and thou rode together in a charet after Ahab his father, the Lorde layde this heuy burthen vpon hym. I haue seue yesterday the bloud of Naboth, and the bloud of his sonnes, sayde the Lorde: and I will quite it the in this ground saieth the Lorde. Now therefore take him, & cast him in the plot of the ground, according to the worde of the Lorde. But when Ahaziahu the kyng of Iuda sawe this, he fled by the waye of the garden house. And Iehu followed after him, and sayd: smite him also in the charet: (and they smote hym) in his charet at the goyng vp to Gur, by Ibleam, and he fled to Magiddo, and there died. And his seruauntes caried hym in a charet to Ierusalem, and buried hym there, in his sepulchre with his fathers, in the citie of Dauid. And in the xi. yeare of Ioram, the sonne of Ahab, began Ahaziahu to raigne ouer Iuda. And when Iehu was come to Iezrael, Iezabel herde of it, and satched her face, and tyred her head, and loked out at a wyndowe. And as Iehu entred at the gate, she sayde: had Zimri peace which slewe his maister? And he lift vp his face to the wyndow, & sayd: who is on my side, who? And there loked out to hym two, or three chamberlaynes, and he sayd: throwe her down. So they threwe her downe, and her bloud dashed toward the wall, and to ward the horses, and he trode her vnder foote. And when he was come in, he dyd eate, and dranke, and sayde: go and burie I praye you, yonder cursed creature, and bury her: * for she is a kynges doughter. And so when they came to bury her, they found no more of her then the skull, and the fete: and the palmes of her handes. Wherefore they came agayne and told hym. And he sayde: this is the worde of the Lorde, which he spake by the hande of his seruaut Elia the Thesbite, saiyng: in the fielde of Iezrael shal the dogges eate the fleshe of Iezabel. And so the carkas of Iezabel was euen as dunge vpon the earth in the fielde of Iezrael, so that no man might saye: This was Iezabel.

Ahab had lxx sonne in Samaria. And Iehu wrote letters and sente to Samaria Euenlong. Iosu. viij. g.

vnto the rulers of Jezrael, to the elders, and to them that brought vp Ahabs children, saying: Now when this letter cometh to you, ye that haue with you your maisters sonnes, ye haue with you both charettes and horses: a strog cytie haue ye also, and harneise, take whyche of youre maisters sonnes is best and most mete, and set hym on his fathers seate, and fyght for youre masters house. But they were exceadyngly afrayde, and sayd: lo, two kynges were not able to stande before hym, how shall we then be able to stande? And he that was gouernour of Ahabs house, and he that ruled the cytie, the elders also, and the tutours sent to Jehu, saying: we are thy seruauntes and wil do all that thou shalt byd vs: we wyll make no man kyng, therfore do thou what semeth good to thyne eyes. Then he wrote another letter to them, saying: if ye be myne, and wyl herken vnto my voyce, then take the heades of the men that are youre maisters sonnes, and come to me to Jezrael by to morowe this tyme. And the kynges sonnes were lxx. persones, and they were with the great men of the cytie, whyche brought them vp, and when the letter came to them: they toke the kynges children, and slewe them, euen lxx. persons, and layde their heades in baskettes, and sent them vnto hym to Jezrael. And there came a messenger and told hym, saying: they haue brought the heades of the kinges sonnes. And he sayde: let them lay them on two heapes in the entryng in of the gate, vntyll the morowe. And when it was day he went out, and stode and sayde to all the folke: ye be righteous. Behold I conspired against my maister, and slue hym. But who slue all these? Learne here, that there shall fall vnto the yearth nothyng of the worde of the lord which he spake concernyng the house of Ahab. For the lord hath brought to passe the thinges that he spake by the hande of his seruaunt Elia. And Jehu slue al that remained of the house of Ahab in Jezrael, and all that were great with hym, & his kynsfolkes & priestes, so that he let nothyng of hym remaine. And he arose & departed, & came to Samaria. And when Jehu was in the way to the house where the shepeherdes did their shepe, he met with the brethre of Ahasiahu kyng of Juda, & sayd: what are ye? They answered, we brethre of Ahasiahu are here go down to salute the children of the kyng & the quene. And he sayd: take them alyue. Whom when they had taken them alyue, they slue them at the well which was before the house where the shepe were shorn, euen. xlij. men, neither left he any of them. And when he was departed thence, he met with Jehonadab the son of Rechab comyng agaynst hym. And he blessed hym, and sayd to hym: is thyne hart right, as my hart is vnto thyne? And Jehonadab answered ye that it is: if it be, sayth he, then giue me thyne hand. And when he had geuen hym his hand, he toke hym vp to hym in the charet, & sayd: come with me, & se the zeale that I haue for the lorde. And so they made hym ryde in his charet. And when he came to Samaria, he slue all that remayned vnto Ahab in Samaria, till he had wyped hym out, according to the sayyng of the Lorde which he spake to Elia. And Jehu gathered all the people together, and sayd vnto them: Ahab serued Baal a litle: but Jehu shal serue him more. Now therfore call vnto me all the prophetes of Baal: all such as serue him, & all his priestes: let none be lacking. For I haue a great sacrifice to do to Baal, therfore who soeuer is myssed, he shal not liue. But Jehu did it for a subtilte, to this ende that he myght destroy the seruantes of Baal. And Jehu sayd: proclayme an holy rouocation for Baal, & Jehu sent vnto all Israel: and all the seruantes of Baal cam, that there was not a man left behind that came not. And they came into the house of Baal, and the house of Baal was ful from one ende to another. And he sayd vnto hym that was the keper of the vestrey: bryng forth garmentes for all the seruantes of Baal. And he brought them out garmentes. And when Jehu went with Jehonadab the sonne of Rechab into the house of Baal, he said vnto the seruantes of Baal: serche and loke, that there be here with you none of the seruantes of the Lorde, but the seruantes of Baal only. And when they went in to offre sacrifice and burnte offrynge, Jehu appoynted lxxx. men without, and said: if any of the men whom I haue brought vnder your handes escape, he that letteth hym go, shall dye for hym. And it fortuned, that assone as he had made an ende of offrynge the burnt sacrifice, Jehu sayd to the men of warre, and to the capitaynes: go in and slay them, let none come out. And they smote them with the edge of the swearde. And the men of warre and the capitaynes cast them out, and went vnto the cittie of the temple of Baal and set the ymages out of the temple of Baal and burnt them. And they brake the ymage of Baal, and brake the house of Baal, and made a draft house of it vnto this daye. And so Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israell. But fro the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabath, which made Israel to synne, Jehu departed not, neyther from kolowyng of them: neyther forsoke he the golden Calues that were in Bethel and in Dan. And the Lorde sayde vnto Jehu: because thou hast done ryght well in bryngyng to passe the thyng that is right in myne eyes, and hast done vnto the house of Ahab according to all thynges that are in myne hart, therefore shall thy children vnto the fourth generation sit on the seate of Israell. But Jehu cared not for thys, to walke in the law-

Athalia the mother of Ahaziahu when she sawe that her sonne was dead, she arose and destroyed all the kynges seede.
But Iehoiada the doughter of kyng Ioram, and sister to Ahaziahu toke Ioas the sonne of Ahaziahu, and stale hym from among the kynges sonnes that were slayn, & his nource wyth hym, out of a lepyng chamber, and hid him from Athalia, that he was not slayn.
And he was with her hydē in the house of the Lorde syx yeare. And Athalia dyd raygne ouer the lande. And the seuenth yeare, Iehoiada sent and set the rulers ouer the hundre-des, with the captaines, & them of the garde, and toke them to hym into the house of the Lorde, and made a bonde with them, and toke an othe of them in the house of the Lorde, and shewed them the kynges sonne. And he commanded them, saying: this is it that ye must do, one thyrd parte of you, (whose dutie is to come on the Sabboth day) shal kepe the watche of the kynges house: And an other thyrd part shall kepe the gate of Sur: and another thyrd parte shall kepe the gate which is behynde them of the garde: and so shall ye kepe the watche of the house of Messiah, and two partes of you, (that is all that go out on the Sabboth day,) shall kepe the watche of the house of the Lorde, about the kyng, and ye shall compasse the kyng round about, and eue ry man shall haue hys weapon in hys hande, and whosoeuer commeth within the ranges, let him be slayne. And se that ye be with the kyng as he goeth out and in. And the Capi-B. taines ouer the hundredes, dyd accordyng to Cap. xxiiii.a. all thynges that Iehoiada the priest commaunded, & they toke euery man his men that were to come in on the Sabboth daye, with them that should go out on the Sabboth, and came to Iehoiada the priest. And to the captaines ouer hundredes did the priest geuehing Dauids speares & shyldes that were in the temple. And they of the garde stode, and eue ry man had his weapon in his hande round a temple to the left, along by the altes and the temple. And he brought out the kynges sonne and put the crowne vpon hym and deliuered hym the witnesse, and made hym kyng, and anoynted hym. And they clapt their handes, & sayd: God saue the kyng. ¶ And when Athalia heard the noise of the runnyng of the people, she came to the people into the temple of the lorde. And when she loked, behold, the king stode by a piller, as the maner was, and the synger, and the trompetters by the king, and all the people of the lande reioyced, and blue with trompettes. And Athalia rent her cl-thes, and cried treason, treason. But Iehoia-da the priest commaunded the captaines of the hundredes that had the rule of the hoast, and sayd vnto them: haue her out without the temple, that she may be with the ranges, and if any folowe her, kill hym with the sweard: for the priest had sayd: she may not be slayne in the house of the Lorde. And they layed han-des on her till she came into the way, by the whiche the horses went into the kynges palace, and there was she slayne. ¶ And Iehoiada made a bonde betweene the Lorde and the D. kyng, and the people, that they should be the ii.par.xxiii.c Lordes people: and also betweene the kyng & the people. And all the people of the lande went into the house of Baall, and destroyed it, his aulters also, and his ymages brake they down lustely, and slue Mathan the priest of Baal before the altars. And the priest set a watche ouer the house of the Lorde: and to-ke the rulers ouer hundredes the captaines, and them of the garde, and all the people of the lande. And they brought the kyng frō the house of the lord, and came by the way of the gate of the of the gard, to the kinges palace.
And he sat him down on the seat of the kynges. And all the people of the land reioyced, and the citie was in quiet. And they slue Atha lia with the sweard beside the kinges palace.

¶ The xii. Chapiter. A.

In the seuenth yeare of Iehu, xl. yeare raygned he in Ie rusalem, and his mothers name was Zebiah of Beersaba. And he dyd that which was good in the syght of the Lord, as long as Iehoiada the priest enformed him. But the hyl altars were not taken away for the people offred & burnt sacrifice yet vpō the hyl altars.
And Ioas said to the priestes: al the syluer of the hooly gate thinges that be brought to the house of the lord, in currauntmony, that is to say, the mony that euery man is set at, al the mony that euery man with a willing hart geueth & bryngeth into the house of the lord, let the priestes take it to them, euery man of his acquaintaūce: to repair the broke places of the house: wherefore euer any decay is foude. And so it come to passe, that vnto the x tenne of kyng Jehoas the priestes had mended, eche yere that was occupied in the temple.

D. Then kyng Jehoas called for Jehoiada the bysshop, and the priestes, and sayd vnto them: why repayre ye not the broken places of the temple? Now therfore, se that ye receyue no more money of your acquayntaunce, except ye deliuer it to repayre the temple withall. And the priestes consented to receyue nomore money of the people, except to repayre the decaied places of the temple. But Jehoiada the bysshop tooke a chest, & bored an hole in the lyd of it, and set it beyde the aulter, on the right syde, as euery man cometh into the temple of the Lord. And the priestes that kept the doores, put therin all the money that was brought into the house of the Lorde. And it chaunced that when they sawe there was much money in the chest, the kynges scribe and the bysshop came vp, and tolde the money that was found in the house of the Lorde, and put it vp in a bagge. And they gaue the money sealed into the handes of them that executed the worke, and that had the ouersyght of the house of the Lord, and they brought it out to the carpenters and buylders (that wrought vpon the house of the Lorde) and to masons and hewers of stone, and they bought tymber and hewen stone, to repayre the decay in the house of the Lord, & to all that went out to mende the temple: howbeit there was not made for the house of the Lorde, bowles of syluer, instrumentes of musicke, basons, trompettes, or any vessels of golde, or vessels of syluer, of the money that was brought into the house of the Lorde. But they gaue that to the workemen, and repayred there with the house of the Lorde. Moreouer, they reckened not with the men, into whose handes they deliuered that money to be bestowed on the workemen: for they vse their busines faythfully. Yea beside trespalle money, and synne money, that was not brought into the house of the lord, for it was the priestes. Then came Hazael kyng of Syria vp, and fought against Geth, and tooke it, and Hazael set his face to go vp to Jerusalem. And Jehoas kyng of Juda tooke all the hallowed thynges that Jehosaphat, Jehoram, and Ahaziah his fathers kynges of Juda had dedicate, and that he himselfe had dedicated, and all the golde that was founde in the treasures of the house of the Lorde, and in the kinges house, & sent it to Hazael kyng of Syria, and he departed fro Jerusalem. The remnaunt of the wordes that concerne Jehoas, and al that he did, are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And his owne seruauntes arose and wrought treason, and slewe Jehoas in the house Millo, when he came downe to Silla. Jozacher the sonne of Semeath, and Jehozabad the sonne of Somer (his seruauntes) smote hym, and he died. And they buryed hym with his fathers in the cite of Dauid. And Amasyahu his sonne raigned in his stede.

The. xiij. Chapiter.

In the xxiij. yeare of Joas the sonne of Ahaziahu kyng of Juda, Jehoahaz the sonne of Jehu began to raigne ouer Israell in Samaria, xvij. yere. And he wrought that whiche was euell in the syght of the Lord, & followed the synnes of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, whiche made Israel to synne, and departed not therefrom. And the Lord was angry with Israel, and deliuered them into the handes of Hazael kyng of Syria, and into the handes of Benhadad the sonne of Hazahell all their dayes. And Jehoahaz besought the lorde and the Lorde heard hym. For he considered the trouble of Israel, wherwith the kyng of Syria troubled them. And the lord gaue Israell a deliuerer, so that they went out from vnder the subiection of the Syrians. And the chyldren of Israell dwelt in their tentes as before tyme. Neuertheles they departed not fro the synnes of the house of Jeroboā, wich made Israel to sin, but walked in the. and there remayned an vnelles grene tree also in Samaria. Neyther dyd he leaue of the people to Jehoahaz, but fyfty horsemen, ten charettes, & ten thousand fotemen: for the kyng of Syria destroyed them, and made them like chaffe vnder foote. The rest of the wordes that concerne Jehoahaz, and all that he dyd, & his power are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And Jehoahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried hym in Samaria, and Joas his sonne raygned in his stede. In the xxxvij. yeare of Joas kyng of Juda, began Jehoas the sonne of Jehoahaz to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria fyftene yeare, and did that which is euell in the syght of the Lorde, and departed not from all the synnes of Jeroboam, the sonne of Nabat (that made Israel synne) for he walked therein. The remnaunt of the wordes that he dyd, & his power wherwith he fought against Amasiahu kyng of Juda: are they not written in the boke of Chronicle of the kynges of Israel? And Joas slept with his fathers, and Jeroboam sate vpō his seate. And Joas was buried in Samaria among the kynges of Israel. When Elisa was fallen sicke of his sickenes (where of he dyed) Joas the kyng of Israell came downe vnto hym, and wept before him & cride: O my father, my father the charet of Israel, and the horsemen of the same. Elisa sayd vnto hym: take bowe and arrowes. And he tooke vnto hym bowe and arrowes. And he sayd to the kyng of Israel: put thyne hande vpon the bowe, and he put his hande vpon it. And Elisa put his handes vpon the kynges hand-when he hat openede, Eliza layde: Smote, and he smote. And he layde: the arrowe of helth of the Lorde, and the arrow of helth against Syria: for thou shalt smyte Syria in Aphek, tyll thou have made an ende of them. And he layde: take the arrowes, and he toke them. And he layde vnto the kyng of Israell: smyte the grounde, and he smote thryse, and ceased. And the man of God was angry with hym, and layde: thou wouldest have smytten eyght or ten tymes, for then shuldest thou have smytten Syria, tyll thou haddest made an ende of it: where now thou shalt smite Syria, but thryse. And so Eliza dyed, and they buried hym, & the souldyers of the Moabites came into the lande the same yeare. And it chaunced as some of them were burying a man, and spyed the souldyers, they cast the man into the sepulchre of Eliza. And when the man was rolled down, and touched the bones of Eliza: he revyued and rose vpon hys feete. But Hazael vexed Israell, all the dayes of Iehoahaz. And the Lorde had mercy on them, and pitied them: and had respect vnto the[m] because of hys appoyntment made with Abraham, Isaac, and Iacob: and wold not destroy them, neyther cast he them from hym as yet. So Hazael the kyng of Syria died: and Benhadad his sonne raygned in his steade. And Iehoas the sonne of Iehoahaz went agayn: and toke out of the hand of Benhadad the son of Hazael, the cities whiche he had taken away out of the hand of Iehoahaz his father in warre, for thryes did Ioas beate him, and restored the cities vnto Israell agayne.

The. xiii. Chapiter.

In the second yere of Ioas the sonne of Iehoahaz king of Israell, raygned Amaziahu the sonne of Ioas kyng of Iuda: * he was xxv. yeare old when he began to raygne, and raygned xxix. yeare in Ierusalem, and hys mothers name was Iehoadan, of Ierusalem. And he dyd that whiche is good in the syght of the Lorde, yet not like Dauid his father, but did according to all thinges as Ioas his father did. Neither were the hyghe places taken away. For as yet the people did sacrifice, & burnt incense on the hyghe places. And assone as the kyngdome was setteled in his hande: * it came to passe that he slue hys seruauntes whiche had killed the kyng his father. But the children of those murtherers he slue not according vnto it that is wrytten in the boke of the lawe of Moses, wherein the Lorde commaunded, sayng: * let not the fathers dye for the children, nor let the children be slain for the fathers. But let euery man be put to death for his own synne. He slue of Edom in the salt valey * ten thousand and toke the castell on the rocke in the same battell, and called the name of it Iokthеel vnto this daye.

Then the sonne of Iehoahaz the sonne of Iehu kyng of Israell, sayng: come, let vs se one another. And Iehoas the king of Israel sent to Amaziahu kyng of Iuda, saying: * the not a thistle that is in Libanon, sende to a Cedre tree that is in Libanon, saying: gene thy doughter to my son to wife. And the wild beast that was in Libanon, went and trode down the thistle. Thou hast smytten Edom, thyne hart hath made the proude: enioy this glory, and tary at home. Why doest thou prouoke to mischefe that thou shouldest be ouerthrowen, & Iuda with the? But Amaziahu wold not heare. And Iehoas kyng of Israel went vp, and he and Amaziahu king of Iuda sawe either other at Bethsames which is in Iuda. And Iuda was put to the worse before Israell, and they fled euery man to their tentes. And Iehoas kyng of Israel toke Amaziahu kyng of Iuda, the sonne of Iehoas the sonne of Ahaziahu at Bethsames, and came to Ierusalem and brake down the wall of Ierusalem from the gate of Ephraim to the corner gate. xiiii. C. cubites. And he toke all the golde & syluer, and all the vessels that were founde in the house of the Lorde, & in the treasures of the kinges house, and the children to be to hys wardes: and returned to Samaria agayne. The rest of the actes of Iehoas which he did, and his power, and how he fought with Amaziahu king of Iuda, are they not written in the chronicle boke of the kynges of Israell? And Ieroboam his sonne raygned in his steade. Amaziahu the sonne of Ioas kyng of Iuda, lyued after the death of Iehoas sonne of Iehoahaz kyng of Israel xv. yeare. And the remnaunt of the wordes that concerne Amaziahu, are they not written in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Iuda? But they conspired treason against hym in Ierusalem, and when he fled to Lachis, they sent after hym to Lachis, and slue hym there. And they brought him on horses, and he was buried at Ierusalem, with his fathers, in the cite of Dauid. * And all the people of Iuda tooke Azaria, whiche was. xvi. yere old, & made hym kyng for his father Amaziahu. He buylt Elath, * and brought it agayne to Iuda, after that the kyng was layd to rest with his fathers. In the. xv. yere of Amaziahu the sonne of Ioas, kyng of Iuda, was Ieroboam the sonne of Ioas, made kyng ouer Israel in Samaria, and raygned. xli. yeare, and wrought that which was euel in the sight of the Lorde. He neither turned he away from all the synnes of Ieroboa the sonne of Nabat, which made Israel to synne. by the hande of his seruaunt Jonas the son of Amithai the prophet, which was of Geth Hepher. For the lorde sawe how that the affliction of Israel was exceedyng bytter, in so muche that the prisoned & the forsaken were at an ende. And there was none to helpe Israel. And the lorde sayde not, that he would put out the name of Israell frō vnder heaue, but he helped them by the hande of Jeroboam the sonne of Joas. The rest of the wordes that concerne Jeroboam, and all that he dyd, and his strength, whithe he fought in the warres, and how he wanne Damasco, and Hemath to Juda in Israel: are they not writ ten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Israel? And Jeroboam slept with his fathers, euen with the kynges of Israel, and Zacharia his sonne raigned in his steade.

¶ The. xv. Chapitter.

In the. xxvij. yeare of Jeroboam kyng of Israel began Azaria, son of Amasia, king of Juda, to raygne. Sixtene yeare olde was he when he was made kyng, and he raygned two and fyfty yere in Jerusalem, and his mothers name was Jecholiahu of Jerusalem. And he did that which was right in the sight of the lorde, accordyng to all thynges as did his father Amaziahu, saue that the hylaultars were not put away, for the people offered, & burned encense vpō the hylaultars. And the Lorde smote the kyng, and he was a leper vnto the day of his death, * and dwelt in a seuerall house at libertie, and Jothan the kynges sonne gouerned the palace, & iudged the people of the lande. The rest of the wordes that concerne Azaria, and all that he did, are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And so Azaria slept with his fathers, and they buried hym with his fathers in the cite of Dauid, & Jothan his sonne raigned in his steade. In the xxxviij. yere of Azaria kyng of Juda, did Zacharia the sonne of Jeroboam, raygne vpon Israel in Samaria. vi. moneths, & wrought that which was euel in the sight of the lord, as dyd his fathers, and turned not away frō the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, whiche made Israel to synne. And Sallum the sonne of Jabes conspired agaynst hym, & smote hym in the sight of the people, and slewe hym, and raygned in his steade. The rest of the wordes that cōcerne Zacharia, behold they are written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. There he also the wordes of the lord which he spake vnto Jehu, saiyng: thy sonnes shall syt on the seat of Israell, in the fourth generacion, & so the. And it came so to passe. Sallum the sonne of Jabes began to raigne in the. xxxix yeare of Azaria kyng of Juda, and he raygned a moneth in Samaria. For Menahē the sonne of Gadi went vp from Thirza & came to Samaria, and smote Sallum the sonne of Jabes in Samaria, and slewe hym, and raygned in his steade. The rest of the wordes that concerne Sallum, and the treason whiche he conspired, behold, they are written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. The same tyme Menahē destroyed Tiphsah, and al that were there in, and the coastes thereof from Thartahy. And because thei opened not to hym, he smote it, and rypt vp all their women with childe. The xxxix. yeare of Azaria kyng of Juda, began Menahem the sonne of Gadi, to raygne vpon Israel ten yeres in Samaria. And he dyd euel in the syght of the Lorde, and turned not away al his dayes, from the sinne of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, whiche made Israell to synne. And Phul the kyng of Assiria came vpon the lād. And Menahem gaue Phul a. M. talentes of syluer, that his hande myght be with hym, & stablishe the kyngdom in his hand. And Menahem made a proclamacion for the money in Israel, that all men of substaunce would geue the kyng of Assiria fyfty sicles of syluer a pece. And so the king of Assiria turned back agayne, and taried not there in the lande. The rest of the wordes that concerne Menahem, and al that he dyd: are thei not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israell? And Menahem slept with his fathers and Pekahia his sonne dyd in his steade succede hym in the kyngdome. In the fyftyeth yere of Azaria kyng of Juda, began Pekahia the sonne of Menahem to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria two years, and dyd that whiche was euel in the syght of the lord, and left not of from the synnes of Jeroboā, the sonne of Nabat, whiche made Israel synne. But Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu (whiche was a capitayne of his) conspired agaynst hym, and smote him in Samaria, euē in the palace of the kynges house with Argob, and Aria, & with hym were fyfty men of the Gileadites, and he kylled hym, and raygned in his rowme. The rest of the wordes that concerne Pekahia, & all that he dyd, behold, they are written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. In the. lij. yere of Azaria kyng of Juda began Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu, to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria. xx. yere, & dyd euell in the syght of the lorde, & turned not away from the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, that made Israel synne. In the dais of Pekah, kyng of Israel, came Thiglah Pelesar king of Assiria, & toke Jion, Abel, Beth maacha, Janoah, Kedes, Hazor, Gilead, Galile, & all the land of Nephthali, & caried the away to Assiria. And Hosea, the sonne of Ela conspired treason agaynst Pekah, the son of Remaliah, and smote hym, and slewe hym, and raygne d in his steade, in the twenty yeare of Jotham the sonne of Vzziahu. IN the. xvi. yeare of Pekah, the son of Re maliahu, kyng of Israel, * Ahaz, the son of Jotham, kyng of Juda, began to raygne. ¶ Twenty yere old was he, when he was made kyng, and raigned sixtene yere in Jerusalem, and did not that which was right in the syes of the lord his God, lyke Dauid his father. But walked in the way of the kynges of Is rael, yea, and made * his sonne to go thorowe Deut. xviii.b iiii.Re. xxi.a the fyer, after the abhominacions of the Hey then, whom the Lord cast out before the chyl dren of Israel. And he offered, and burnt en cense in the hyaltars, and on the hylles, and vnder euery thycke tre. * Then Rezin kyng Esa.vii.a. of Siria, & Pekah, son of Remaliahu, kyng of Israell, came vp to Jerusalem to fyght. And they fought against Ahaz, but could not ouercome hym. At the same tyme, Rezin, kyng of Siria, brought Elath agayne to Siria, & dryd the Jewes thence. And the Sirias came iiii.re, xiiii.c. * to Elath, and dwell therein vnto this daye. b. So Ahaz sent messengers to Thiglath Pe leser kyng of Assiria, saiyng: I am thy ser uaunt, and thy sonne, come vp, and deliuer me, out of the hande, of the kyng of Siria, & out of the hande of the kyng of Israel, which ri se vp against me. And Ahaz toke the syluer, and the gold, that was founde in the house of the Lord, and in the treasures of the kynges house, and sent a rewarde vnto the kyng of Assiria. * And the kyng of Assiria consented Esai.viii.b. vnto hym. For the kyng of Assiria went vp against Damasco. And when he had taken it, he caried the people away to Kyr, & slue Re zin. And kyng Ahaz went vnto Damasco, to

And when kyng Ahaz sawe an aultar, that was at Damasco, he sent to Uria the priest, the patrone of the aultar, and the fashion of it, and all the workemanshyppe thereof. And Uzia the priest, made an aultar in all poyn tes lyke to the patrone, which the kyng Ahaz had sent from Damasco. Euen so dyd Uzia the priest make it, against kyng Ahaz came from Damasco. And so when the kyng was come from Damasco, he sawe the aultar, and the kyng went to it, and offered thereon. And he burnt his burnt offeryng, and hys meate offeryng, and powred hys drynke offeryng, and syprynkled the blonde of hys peace offe rynges, beside the aultar that was by the brasen aultar, which was before the Lorde, and set it without the temple, betwene the al tar and the temple of the Lorde, and put it on D. the northside of the aultar. And kyng Ahaz, commaunded Uzia the priest, and sayde: vp pon the great aultar set on fyer in the mor nyng the burnt offeryng, and in the euen the meat offeryng, and the kynges burnt sacry fice, and hys meat offeryng, with the burnt offeryng of all the people of the lande, and their meat offeryng, and their drynckeoffe rynges: and powre thereby all the blonde of the sacrifice offerynges. But the brasen aul tar wyll I come and se. And Uzia the priest, dyd accordyng to all thynges, as kyng Ahaz commaunded hym. * And kyng Ahaz brake iii.Re. vii.d. the sydes of the botomes, and toke the lauer from of them, and toke downe the lauatory, from of the brasen oxen that were vnder it, & put it vpon a pauement of stones. And the veyle for the Sabboth (that they had made in the house) and the kynges entrye without, tourned he to the house of the Lord, for feare of the kyng of Assiria. The rest of the wor des that concerne Ahaz, what he dyd: are they not wrytten in the boke of the Chronicles, of the kynges of Juda? And Ahaz slept with hys fathers, and was buried with hys fa thers in the citie of Dauid, and Hezekia his sonne raygned in his steade.

IN the. xii. yeare of Ahaz, kyng of Juda, began Hosea, the sonne of Egla, to reigne in Samaria vpon Israel. ix. yeare, & dyd that which was euell in the syght of the Lorde, but not as the kynges of Israell, that ware before hym. And Salmanasar, kyng of Assi ria, came vp against him, & Hosea became his seruant, & gaue hym presentes. And the kyng of Assiria, found treason in Hosea, for he had sent messengers to So, kyng of Egypt, and brought no present vnto the king of Assiria from yere to yere, & therfore the kyng of As siria toke hym, and put hym in prison. * And iii.Re. xvii.c. then the kyng of Assiria came vp thorowout all the lande, and gat vp against Samaria, and besieged it thre yeare. In the ynth yere of Oseas, the * kyng of Assiria, toke Samaria, and caried Israel away vnto Assiria, and put them in Hala, in Habor by the riuer of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes.

B. For it came to passe, that the chyldren of Israel sinned against the lorde their God, which had brought them out of the lande of Egypt, from vnder the hande of Pharao, kyng of Egypt, and feared other goddes. And they walked in the ceremonies of the Heythen, whome the Lord cast out before the chyldren of Israel: and in the ceremonies, whiche the kynges of Israel had made. And the chyldren of Israel wet about to hyde those thynges that were not well, from the lorde their God. And they built them hylaultars in all their cities, both in the towres where they kept watche, and also in the strong townes. And they made them ymages and ydoll groues in euery hye hyll, and vnder euery thycke tree. And there they burnt encence in all the hylaultars, as dyd the Heythen (whom the lord caried away before them) and wrought wicked thinges to angre the lord with al. For they serued moost vyle ydolles, wherof the Lorde had sayd vnto them, * ye shall do no suche thyng. And the Lord testified in Israel, and in Juda, by all the prophetes, and by all the seers saiyng. * Turne from your wicked wayes, and kepe my commaundementes and my statutes, accordyng to all the lawe whiche I commaunded your fathers, and which I sent to you by my seruauntes the prophetes. Notwithstandyng they would not heare, * but rather hardened their nekes, lyke to the stubburnes of their fathers, that dyd not beleue in the Lord their God. For they refused his statutes and his appointmēt, that he made with their fathers, and the witnesses (wherwith he witnessed vnto them) and they folowed vanitie, and became vayne, and went after the Heythen that ware round about them, concernyng whom the lord had charged them, that they should not do like them. But they left the commaundementes of the Lord their God, and made them ymages of metall, * euen two calues, and made ydoll groues, and worshypped al the hoast of heauen, and serued Baal. * And they sacrificed their sonnes and their doughters in fyre, and vsed wytchecraft and enchauntementes, euen sellyng themselues, to worke wickednes in the eyght of the Lorde, and to angre hym. And the Lorde was exceadyng wroth with Israell, and put them out of his syght, * that there was left but the trybe of Juda onely. Neuerthelesse, Juda also kept not the cōmaundemētes of the Lord their God, but walked in the ceremonies of Israel, whiche they made. And the Lorde cast vp all the sede of Israell, and vexed them, and deliuered them into the handes of spoylers, vntyll he had cast them out of his syght. For Israel rent-

ded themselues from the house of Dauid, & made them a kyng, euen Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat. And Jeroboam drue Israel away, (that they should not folow the Lord) & made them synne a great syn, for the childrē of Israel walked in all the synnes of Jeroboam which he dyd, and departed not therefrom, vntyll the Lorde put Israell away out of his syght, as he had sayde by all his seruauntes the prophetes. And so was Israell caried away out their own lande, to Assiria, euen vnto this daye. And the kyng of Assiria brought men from Babylō, from Cutha, from Ana, frō Hamath, and from Sepharuaim, and put them in the cities of Samaria, in stead of the chyldren of Israel. And they possessed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities therof. And it fortuned that at the beginning of their dwelling there they feared not the Lorde. And the Lord sent lyons among them, which slewe them. Wherfore, men sayde to the kyng of Assiria. The nacions whiche thou hast translated, and put in the cities of Samaria, knowe not the law of the god of the land, therfore he hath sent lyons vpon them, and behold, they slewe them because thei knew not the maner of worshippyng of the god of the lande. Then the kyng of Assiria commaunded, saiyng: cary thether one or twayn of the priests, whō ye brought thence, and let them go and dwell there, & teache them the fashion, how to serue the god of the cōtrey. And thē one of the priests which they had caried thence came and dwelt in Bethel, and taught them howe they should feare the Lorde. Howbeit, euery nacion made them goddes of their own, and put them in the houses of the hylaulters which the Sammaritās had made, euery nacion in their cities wherin they dwelt. The men of Babylon made Socoth, Benoth, and the men of Cuth, made Nergal, and the men of Hamath, made Asima. The Auites, made Nibbaz, and Tharthak. And the Sapharnites burnt their chyldren in fyre for Adrameleth, and Anameleth, the goddes of Sepharuaim. And so they feared the Lord, & made thē priestes of the hylaulters, which sacrificed for them in the houses of the hylaultars. And so they feared the lord, & serued their own goddes, after the maner of the people, whom they caried thence. And vnto this day thei do after the old maner, & neither feare god, neither do after their ordinaunces & customes, & after the lawe, and commaundement which the lord cōmaunded the children of Jacob, * whom he called Israel. And the Lorde made an apointment with them & charged them saiyng: * feare none other goddes, nor bowe your selues to thē, nor serue them, nor sacrifice to thē, but fear the lord whiche brought you out of the land of Egipt with great power, & a stretched out arme, him feare, and to him bowe, & to him do sacrifice. NOw in the third yeare of Hosea, sonne of Elia kyng of Israel, it came to passe, that Hezekia the sonne of Achas kyng of Iuda began to reigne. * Twenty and fiue yeare old was he when he began to reigne, and reigned xxix yeare in Ierusalem. His mothers name also was Abi the daughter of Zacharia, and he did that which is right in the sight of the Lord, act. or dyd to all as dyd Dauid his father.

Deut. vii. a. iiii. Reg. xviii. b Num. xxi. c.

* He put away the hyllaltares, and brake the ymages, and cut downe the groues, and all to brake the * brasen serpent that Moses had made. For vnto those dayes the children of Israel dyd burne sacrifice to it, and he called it Nehustan. He trusted in the Lorde God of Israell, so that after him was none like him amongest all the kynges of Iuda, neither were there any before him. For he claue to the Lorde and departed not from him, but kept his commaundementes, which the Lorde commaunded Moses. And the Lorde was with him: so that he prospered in all thynges, which he toke in hande. And he rebelled against the kyng of Assyria, and serued him not. He smote the Philistines euen vnto Gaza, and the coastes thereof, both castels where they kept watches, and strong cyties.

C. iii. Reg. xviii. a

And in the fourth yeare of kyng Hezekia (which was the seuenth yeare of Hosea, sonne of Ela kyng of Israell) it chaunced, that Salmanazar kyng of Assiria came vp against Samaria, and besieged it. And after three yeares, they toke it euen in the xxvi yeare of Hezekia, that is to say, the ninth yeare of Hosea kyng of Israell. And Samaria was wonne. And the kyng of Assiria dyd cary away Israell vnto Assiria, and put them in Halah and in Habor by the ryuer of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes: because they would not hearken vnto the voyce of the Lorde their God: but transgressed his appointement, and all that Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde commaunded, and would neyther heare them nor do them. * Therefore in the fourteen yeare of kyng Hezekia, dyd Sennacherib kyng of Assiria come vp against all the stronge cyties of Iuda, and toke them. And Hezekia kyng of Iuda sent to the kyng of Assiria to

Ruches, saying: I haue offended, departe from me and all that thou puttest on me, that will I beare. And the kyng of Assiria appointed vnto Hezekia kyng of Iuda three hundreth talentes of syluer, and thyrty talentes of gold. 8 And Hezekia gaue them all the syluer that was founde in the house of the Lorde, and in the treasurye of the kynges house. At the same tyme dyd Hezekia breake of the dores of the temple of the Lorde, and the pyllers (which he cause Hezekia kyng of Iuda had couered ouer) and sent them to the kyng of Assiria. And the kyng of Assiria sent Tharthan and Rabsaris, and Rabsake from Lachis vnto kyng Hezekia with a great hoste, against Ierusalem. And they went vp, and came to Ierusalem, and gat them vp, and rode by the conduite of the vpper poole, which is in the way of the fullers close. And when they had called to the kyng, there came out to them * Eliakim the sonne of Helcia which was ouer the house of houshold, and Sobna the scribe, and Ioah the sonne of Asaph the recorder. And Rabsake sayde vnto them: Tell ye Hezekia I praye you: thus sayeth the great kyng, euen the great kyng of Assiria: What confidence is this that thou hast? Doest thou speake such a light worde as nede? Or is counsell and power I wyll be ready to make warre. On whom then doest thou trust, that thou rebellest against me? Doest thou trust to the staffe of this broken reede Egypte, on which yf a man leane, it will go into his hande, and perce it? Euen so is Pharao kyng of Egipte vnto all that trust on him. * If ye saye vnto me, we trust in the Lorde our God: Is not that he whose hyllaltares, and hye altares, Hezekia hath put downe, and hath sayde to Iuda and Ierusalem: ye shall worshippe before this aultar here in Ierusalem? Nowe therefore, deliuer the wardes to my Lorde the kyng of Assiria, that ye rebell not, and I will deliuer the two thousande horses, yf thou be able to set ryders vpon them. Why thynkest thou to put to flyght the face of one of the least rulers of my masters seruantes, and trustest to Egypte for charettes and horsemen? Moreouer, am I nowe come without the biddyng of the Lorde to this place, to destroye it? the Lorde sayd to me: go vp to this land, and destroye it. And Helsakim the sonne of Helkia and Sobna, & Ioah sayd vnto Rabsake: Speake I praye the, to thy seruauntes in the Syrian language, for we vnderstand it: and talke not with vs in the Iewes tonge, in the eares of this people that are on the wall. And Rabsake sayde vnto them: hath my master sent me to thy master and to the, to speake these wordes? Hath he not sent me because of the men which sit on the wall, that they maye eate their owne donge, and drynke their owne pysse with you? And to Rabsake wrote, and cried with a loude voyce in the Iewes language, and spake, saiyng: heare the sayeng of the great kyng of Assiria. Thus sayeth the kyng: Let not Hezekia begyle you, for he shall not be able to deliuer you out of my hande. Neyther let Hezekia make you to trust in the Lorde, saiyng: the Lorde shall surely deliuer vs, and this cite shall not be geuen ouer into the hande of the kyng of Assiria. Hearken not vnto Hezekia. For thus sayth the kyng of Assiria. Make a league with me, and come out to me. And then eate euery man of his owne vyne, and of his owne figge tree, and drynke euerie man of the water of his owne well, vntyl I come, and fet you to a good a lande as yours is: a lande of corne & wine, a lande of bread and vyneyardes, a lande of oyle, of olyue trees, and of hony: that ye maye lyue and not dye. And hearken not vnto Hezekia, for he begyleth you, saiyng the Lorde shall deliuer vs. Hath euery one of the gooddes of the nacions deliuered his land out of the hand of the kyng of Assiria? Where is the god of Hamath, & Arphad? And where is the god of Sepharuaim: Hena, and Iua? Haue they deliuer Samaria out of myne handes? And what God is it amog all the gooddes of the nacions, that hath deliuered his land out of mine hand? Shal the Lorde deliuer Ierusalem out of mine handes? But they that were of the people held theyr peace, and answered not hym a word, for the kyng had commaunded, saiyng: answere hym not. Then Eliakim whiche was Guarde of houshold, and Sobna the scrybe, and Ioah, the sonne of Asaph the recorder, came to Hezekia with their clothes rent, and told hym the wordes of Rabsake.

The. xix. Chapiter.

SOit came to passe, that when kyng Hezekia hearde it, he rent his clothes and put on a sacke: and came into the house of the Lorde: and sent Eliakim whiche was the Guarde of houshold, and Sobna the scrybe, and the elders of the priestes clothed in sack to Isay the prophet the sonne of Amoz. And they sayde vnto hym, thus sayeth Hezekia: this daye is a daye of tribulation and of rebuke, and blasphemye. For the chyldren are come to the byrth, and there is no strength to be deliuered. Peraduenture, the Lorde thy God will heare all the wordes of Rabsake, whom the kyng of Assiria his master hath sent, to rayle on the lyuyng God, and to rebuke hym with wordes which the Lorde thy God hath heard. And lyft thou vp thy prayer for the remnaunt that are left. So the seruauntes of kyng Hezekia, came to Isay. And Isay sayde vnto them: So shall ye saye to your master. Thus sayeth the Lorde: be not afrayed of the wordes which thou hast heard, with whiche the younge men of the kyng of Assiria haue rayled on me. Beholde, I will put hym in another mynde, and he shall heare tydynges, and so returne to his owne lande. And I will bryng to passe that he shall fall vpon the swearde euen in his owne lande. And Rabsake went backe agayne, and founde the kyng of Assiria fyghtyng against Libna. For he had heard howe that he was departed from Lachis. And when he hearde men say of Tirhaka kyng of the blacke Moores: Beholde he is come out to fyght against the: he sent and sent messengers vnto Hezekia, saiyng: Thus speake to Hezekia kyng of Iuda, saiyng. Let not thy God deceyue the in whome thou trustest, saiyng: Ierusalem shall not be deliuered into the hande of the kyng of Assiria. Behold thou hast heard what the kynges of Assiria haue done to all landes, howe they haue vtterly destroyed them. And shalt thou alone be saued? Haue the gooddes of the nacions deliuered them whyche myne auncetours haue destroyed? As Gozan and Haran, Reseph, and the chyldren of Eden, which were in Thelasar? Where is the kyng of Hamath, and the kyng of Arphad, the kyng of the cite of Sapharuaim, and of Hena and Iua? So Hezekia receyued the letter of the hande of the messengers, and redde it. And Hezekia went vp into the house of the Lorde, and layed it abrode before the Lorde. And Hezekia prayed before the Lorde, and sayde: O Lord God of Israell, which dwellest betwene the Cherubs, thou art God alone ouer all the kyngdomes of the yearth, thou hast made heauen and yearth. Lorde bowe downe thyne eare, and heare, Open Lorde thyne eyes & se (I beseche the) and se, and heare the wordes of Sennacherib whiche hath sent thys man to rayle on the lyuyng God. Of a truth lord, the kynges of Assiria haue destroyed nacions and their landes, and haue set fyre on their gooddes. For they were no gooddes, but the worke of the handes of man, euen of wood and stone. And they destroyed them. Nowe therefore, O Lorde our God, I beseche the, saue thou vs out of his hande, that all the kyngdomes of the yearth maye knowe, that thou onely art the lord God. And Isay the sonne of Amoz sent to Hezekia saiyng: thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israell. That which thou hast prayed me, concernyng Sennacherib kyng of Assiria, I haue heard it. This is therefore the worde that the lord hath sayde of hym: The virgine euil the doughter of Sion, hath despysed the, and laughed the to scorne, (O thou kyng of Assiria) the doughter of Ierusalem hath shaken her head at the. I haue digged, and dronke straunge waters: & with the steppe of my goyng will I drye all the waterpooles that are besieged. Hast thou not heard, howe I haue ordeyned suche a thyng a great whyle ago, and haue prepared it from the begynnyng: and shall I nowe bryng it to passe, that thou maye destroye stronge cities into wast heapes of stones? and the inhabitours of them, beinge of lytle power, and sore hurted, & confounded, and * beinge lyke the grasse of the fyelde, or grene herbes, or as the hey on the toppes of the houses, or as the corne that is burnte, & smytten with blastyng. And it shall come to passe, that the remnaunt of the house of Iuda shall yet agayne take rotyng downward, and beare frute vpwarde. For out of Ierusalem shall go a remnaunt: and a nombre that shall escape out of mount Syon: the zele of the Lorde of hoastes, shall bryng this thyng to passe. wherefore, thus saith the lorde concernyng the kyng of Assiria: he shall not come to this citie, nor shote an arowe into it, nor come before it with shilde, nor cast banke agaynst it: but shall go backe agayne the way he came, and shall not come into this citie, sayeth the Lord. For I will defende this cytie to saue it, for mine owne sake and for Dauids my seruauntes sake. And it came to passe, that the selfe same nyght the aungell of the Lorde went out, and smote in the host of the Assirians, a hundred fourescore & fyue thousand. And when the remnaunt were vp early in the morning: they sawe, they were al dead corses. * And so Sennacherib kyng of Assiria auoyded and departed, and went agayne & dwelt at Ninive. And it came to passe that as he was in a temple worshyppyng Nisroch hys god, Adramelech and Sarezar hys owne sonnes smote hym with the sweard. And they escaped into the land of Armenia, and Asarhadon hys sonne raygned in his stede.

IN those tymes was Hezekia sycke vnto death. And the prophet Isay the sonne of Amoz came to hym, and sayd vnto hym: Thus sayeth the Lorde: put thy houshold in an order, for thou shalt dye, and not lyue. And Hezekia turned his face to the wal, and prayed to the Lorde, sayeng: I beseche the nowe, O Lorde, remembre howe I haue walked before the in truthe, and with a parfete harte, and haue done that whyche is good in thy sight. And Hezekia wepte sore. And it came to passe, that Isay was gone out into the myddle of the court, the worde of the Lord came to hym, sayeng: turne agayne, and tell Hezekia the Capitaine of my people, Thus saith the Lorde God of Dauid thy father. I haue heard thy prayer, and seene thy teares. And beholde, I will heale the: & on the thirde daye, thou shalt goo vp into the house of the Lorde. And I will adde vnto thy dayes yet fyftene yeare, and will deliuer the and this cytie out of the hand of the kyng of Assiria, and will defende thys cytie for myne owne sake, and for Dauid my seruauntes sake. And Isay sayde: Take a lompe of figges. And they toke it, and layed it on the sore: and he recouered. And Hezekia sayde vnto Isay: what shalbe the sygne that the Lorde will heale me, and that I shal go vp into the house of the Lorde the third day? Isay answered: thys sygne shalt thou haue of the Lorde, that the Lorde will do that he hath spoken. Shal the shadow go forward ten degrees? or go backe agayne ten degrees? Hezekia answered, it is a lyght thynge for the shadowe to go downe ten degrees: nay (I pray) that my dayes I bid, if the shadowe go backewarde ten degrees, it is no lyght thyng. And Isay the Prophet called vnto the Lorde, and he brought the shadowe ten degrees backwarde, by whiche it had gone downe in the dyall of Ahas. * The same season Berodach Baladan the sonne of Baladan kyng of Babylon, sent letters & a present to Hezekia, for he had heard how that Hezekia was syck. And Hezekia was glad of them, & shewed the all hys treasure house, syluer, gold, odoures, precious ointmentes, al the house of hys armoury, and all that was founde in hys treasures: there was nothyng in hys house, and in all hys realme, that Hezekia shewed them not. And Isay the Prophete came vnto kynge Hezekia, and sayde vnto hym: What sayde these men, and from whence came they to the? And Hezekia sayde: They be come from a farre countrey, euen from Babylon. And he sayde agayne: what haue they seene in thine house? Hezekia answered, al that thynges that are in my house, haue they seene there is nothyng among my treasures that I haue not shewed them. MAnasse was xii. yeare old when he began to raygne, and raygned lyxtie and fyue yeare in Jerusalem: his mothers name also was Hephzibah: and he dyd euell in the sight of the LORDE, euen after the abhominacions of the Heythen whom the LORDE cast out before the children of Israel. For he went and buylt vp the hyghtaynes, * whiche Ezechia his father had destroyed. And he reared vp aultares for Baal, & made yoole grooues (as did Achab kyng of Israel,) & worshipped all the hoost of heauen and serued them. And he buylt aultares in the house of the LORDE, of whom the LORDE sayde: * In Jerusalem will I put my name. And he buylt aultares for all the hoost of heauen: euen in two courtes of the house of the LORDE. * And he offered his sonne in fyre, and gaue hede vnto inchauntementes and coniuracion, and maynteyned workers with spirites and tellers of fortunes: and brought muche wickednesse in the sight of the LORDE to angre hym. And he put an ymage of a greue (that he had made) euen in the temple of whiche the LORDE had sayde to David and vnto Salomo his sonne: * In this house and in Jerusalem: (whiche I haue chosen out of all tribes of Israel) will I put my name for euer. Neyther wyll I make the feete of Israel moue anie more out of the lande, whiche I gaue their fathers: * so that they will obserue and do all that I haue commaunded them: and accordyng to all the lawe that my seruaunt Moses commaunded them. But they herkened not, and Manasse led them out of the waye, to do more wickedly then dyd the Heythen people, whome the LORDE destroyed before the children of Israel. And the LORDE spake by his seruauntes the prophetes, sayyng: Because Manasse kyng of Juda hath done suche abhominacions, & hath wrought more wickednesse then all that the Amorites (whiche were before him) dyd: and hath made Juda synne also with his Idolles: Therefore, thus sayth the LORDE God of Israel: * Behold I will bryng such euell vpon Jerusalem and Juda, that who so heareth of it, both his eares shall tynghe. And I will stretche ouer Jerusalem, the squaryng lyne of Samari, and the plommet of the house of Achab. And I will wype out Jerusalem, as a man wypeth a dishe, and when he hath wyped it, turneth it vpsyde downe. And I will leaue the remnaunt of myne inheritaunce, and deliuer them into the handes of their enemies, & they shall be a pray and spoyle of all their aduersaries, euen because they haue done euell in my sight, and haue angred me, synce the time their fathers came out of Egypte, vnto this daye. And Manasse shed innocent blood exceedyng muche, tyll he replenyshed Jerusalem from corner to corner, beside his synne wherewith he made Juda to synne and to do euell in the sight of the LORDE. The rest of the workes that concerne Manasse, and all that he dyd, and his synne that he committed: are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And Manasse slept with his fathers, and was buryed in his owne house, euen in the garden of Uza: and Amon his sonne raygned in his stede.

Amon was xxii. yeare old when he began to raygne, and he raygned two yeare in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Mesulemeth, the doughter of Haruz of Jotba. And he did euell in the sight of the LORDE (as his father Manasse dyd) & walked in all the waye that his father walked in, and serued the Idolles, that his father serued: and worshipped them. And he forsoke the LORDE God of his fathers: and walked not in the waye of the LORDE. And the seruauntes of Amon conspyred against him, and slue the kyng in his owne house. And the people of the lande slue all them that had conspyred against kyng Amon, & the people made Josia his sonne kyng in his stede. The rest of the wordes that concerne Amon, what thynges he did: are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda? Howbeit, let no reconyng be made with them of the mony that is deliuered into their hand, for their dede is to deale faithfully. * And Helkia the hygh Priest said vnto Saphan the scribe: I haue found the booke of the Law of the house of the Lord, and Helkia gaue the boke to Saphan, and he red in it. And Saphan the scribe came to the king, and brought him worde again, and said: thy seruauntes haue destroyed the money (that was founde in the temple:) and haue deliuered it vnto them, that do the worke, and that haue the ouersight of the house of the Lord. And Saphan the scribe shewed the kyng, saying: Helkia the Priest hath deliuered me a booke. And Saphan red in it before the kyng. And it fortuned, that when the kyng had herd the woordes of the boke of the Law, he rent his clothes. And the kyng commaunded Helkia the Priest, & Ahikam the sonne of Saphan, and Achbor the sonne of Michaia, and Saphan the scribe, & Asahia a seruaunt of the kinges, saying: * go ye, and enquire of the Lorde for me, and for the people, and for all Juda, concernyng the woordes of this booke that is founde. For great is the wrath of the lord, that is kindled against vs, because our fathers haue not herkened vnto the woordes of this booke, to do accordyng vnto al that which is written therin for vs. So Helkia the high Priest and Ahikam, Achbor and Saphan, and Asahia went vnto Hulda the Prophetesse, the wife of Sallum, the son of Thikua, the son of Harkas Keper of the wardrope, which Prophetesse dwelt in Jerusalem in the house of the doctrine, and they communed with her. And she answered them: thus saith the lord God of Israel. Tell the man that sent you to me, thus saith the Lord: behold, I will bryng euill vpon this place, and on the inhabitiers thereof: euen all the woordes of the booke which the kyng of Juda hath red, because they haue forsaken me, and haue burnt encense vnto other goddes, to anger me with all the workes of their hades. My wrath also shall be kindled against this place, and shall not be quenched. But vnto the kyng of Juda (which sent you to aske counsel of the Lord) to shall ye say, thus saieth the Lord God of Israel, as touchyng the woordes which ye haue heard: Because thyne hart did melt, and because thou hast humbled thy selfe before me (when thou herdest what I spake against this place, and against the inhabiters of the same (how that they should be destroyed and accursed) and hast rent thy clothes, and wept before me: of that also haue I heard, saieth the Lord. Behold, therefore I will receyue the vnto thy fathers, and thou shalt be put into thy graue in peace, & thyne eyes shall not se all the euill, which I will bryng vpon this place. And they brought the kyng worde again.

And he red in the eares of the, * al the woordes of the boke of the couenaunt: whiche was founde in the house of the Lord. And he defiled * Topheth (whiche is in the valley of the children of Hinnom) because no man should make his son, or his daughter to go through fire to Moloch. He put down the horses that the kynges of Iuda had geuen to the Sunne at the entryng in of the house of the Lorde, by the chãber of Nathanmelech, the chamberlaine, which was ruler of the suburbes, and burnt the charettes of the Sunne with fire. Then he said what graue stone is yonder that I see? And the men of the citie told him, it is the sepulchre of the man of God, which came frõ Iuda, and tolde the self same thinges that thou hast doen to the aulter of Bethel. And he said, let him be: see that no man moue his bones. And so his bones were saued with the bones of a Prophete that came out of Samaria.

Like vnto him was there no kyng before hym, that turned to the Lorde with all his hart, with all his soule, and all his might accordyng to all the law of Moses, neither after hym arose there any such as he. Notwithstandyng, the Lord turned not from the fearcenesse of his great wrath (wherewith he was angry agayust Iuda) because of all the prouocations that Manasse had prouoked hym withal. And the Lord saied: * I wil put Iuda also out of my sight, as I haue doen away Israel: and will caste of this citie Ierusalem, which I haue chosen, and the house of which I saied: My name shalbe there. And the citie was broken vp: and all the men of armes fledde by night, by a way thorowe a gate, whiche is betwene two walles by the kynges gardeyn the Chaldees lyeng about the citie. And the kyng went the way towarde the plaine. And the soudyers of the Chaldees folowed after the kyng, and toke hym in the plaine of Jericho, and all his armie were scattered awaye from hym, & left hym. * So they toke the kyng, and brought hym to Nebuchadnezar, the kyng of Babilon, to Ribla, where they reasoned with him. And they slewe the sonnes of Zedekia before his eyes: and he put out the eyes of Zedekia, and fettered hym with two chaynes, and caried hym to Babilon. And the seuenth day of the fift moneth (which is the ninthten yeare of kyng Nebuchadnezar, kyng of Babilon) came Nabuzaradan (a seruaunte of the kyng of Babilon, and Chefe Captaine of the men of warre,) vnto Jerusalem: and burnt the house of the Lorde, and the kynges house, and all the houses of Jerusalem, and all greate houses burnt he with fire. And all the soudiars of the Chaldees that were with the Chefe Captain of the men of warre, broke downe the walles of Jerusalem round about. But the reste of the people that were left in the City, and them that were fled to the kyng of Babilon, with the remnaunt of the comen people, did Nabuzaradan the chefe Captaine of the men of war, cary away: but the captain of the soudiers left of the poore of the lande, to dresse the vines, and to till the grund. * And the pilleres of brasse that were in the house of the Lord, and the cockettes, and the brasen lauatary that was in the house of the lord, did the Chaldees breake, and caried al the brasse of them them to Babilo. And they burnte the house of the kynge, & the houses of all the people, and all the vessels of brasse that they myght come to, to the vttermost. And the fire pannes, and hatchis, and cuppes, and syluer vessels, they toke away. The two pillers, one sea, and the xii. brasen bulles which Salomon had made for the house of the Lorde, the brasse of all these vessels was without waight. The heyght of the one piller was xviii. cubites, and the heade theron was brasse, and three cubites high, and vpon the head was there a wrethen worke, and pomegranates round about, all of brasse. And of the same fashion was the seconde piller, with a wrethen worke. And the chefe captaine of the men of warre toke Saraias the chefe priest, and Sophonias the high chefe Priest his one, and the three keapers of the holy thinges. And out of the citie he toke a chamberlaine, that had the ouersight of the men of warre, and .v. men of them that were euer in the kynges presence, which were found in the citie: and him that was scribe to the captaine of the hoast, which brought out the people of the land to warre, and three score men of the people of the land, that were found in the citie. And Nabuzaradan the chefe Captain of the men of warre toke them, and brought them to the kyng of Babilon to Ribla. And the kyng of Babilon smote them, & slue them at Ribla in the hand of Hamath. And so Juda was caried away out of their land. Notwithstanding there remained people in the land of Juda, whome Nabuchadnezar kyng of Babilon left, and made Godolia the sonne of Ahikam, the son of Saphan ruler ouer them. And al the captaines of the souldiers, and other men hearde, that the kyng of Babilon had made Godolia gouernour: and there came to Godolia at Maspha: Ismael the sonne of Nethania, Johannan the sonne of Karea, Saraia the son of Thanhameth the Nethophatite, and Jazania the sonne of Maachati, and their men. And Godolia sware to them, and to the men whome they had with them, and said vnto them: feare not ye be cause ye are the seruauntes of the Chaldees, dwel in the lande, and serue the kyng of Babilon, and ye shal be wel. But it chaunced in the seuenth moneth, that Ismael the son of Nethania, the sonne of Elisama, of the kynges bloude, came, and ten men with him, and smote Godolia, that he dyed: & slue he the Iewes, and the Chaldees that were with him at Maspha. And all the people both small and great, and the Captaines of warre arose, and came to Egypte, for they were afraid of the Caldees. Notwithstanding yet in the seuen and thirty yeare after Jehoachins kyng of Juda was caried away the xxv. day of the twelfth moneth, Euilmerodach kyng of Babilon the same yere that he began to raigne, lyfted vp the head of Jehoachim kyng of Juda out of the prison: and spake kyndly to him, and sette his seate aboue the seate of the kynges that were with him in Babilon: and chaunged his prison garmentes. And he did euer eat bread before him, al the daies of his life. His portion was a continual portion, that was assigned him of the kyng, euery day a certain as long as he liued.

ther of the citie of Mahad: these are the men of Mecha. The sonnes of Reaia, Othniell, and Saraia. And the sonne of Othniel was Hathath. And Meonathi begat Ophrah. And Saraia begat Joab, the father of the valley of craftes men (so called) because they wer craftes men. And the sonnes of Caleb, the sonne of Jephune, wer, Iru, Ela, and Naam. And the sonne of Ela, was Kenaz. And the sonnes of Jehaleleel wer, Ziph, and Ziphah, Thiria, and Asarel. And the sonnes of Ezra wer Jethir, and Mered, Epher, Jalon, Thahar, and Miriam, and Sammai, and Iesbah the father of Esthemoa. And his wife Jehudia, bare Jared, the father of Gedor, and Heber, the father of Socho, and Jekuthiel, the father of Zanoah. And these are the sonnes of Bithai, the doughter of Pharao, which Mered toke. The sonnes of the wife of Hodia, the sister of Naham, the father of Keilah, wer, Garmi, and Esthemoa, the Maachathite. The sonnes of Simon, ware, Amnon and Rinna, Benhanan, and Thilon. And the sonnes of Jesi wer, Zoheth, and Benzoheth. The sonnes of Selah, the sonne of Juda, wer, Er, the father of Lecha, and Laada, the father of Mareia, and the kynredes of the householdes of them that wrought linnen in the house of Asbea. And Jokim, and the men of Chozebah, and Joas, & Saraph, which had the dominion in Moab, and Jasubi Lehem. These also are woorkes of olde. These wer potters, and dwelt there among trees, and hedges, nye unto the king because of his woorke. The sonnes of Simeon ware Nemuel, Jamin, Jarib, Zerah, and Saul: whose sonne was Sallum, and the sonne of him was Mibsam, & his sonne Misma. And the sonne of Misma was Hamuel, & his son was Zachur, and the sonne of him was Semei. Semei had. xvi. sonnes, and. vi. doughters. But his brethren had not many children, neyther was al the kynred of them like to the children of Juda in multitude. And they dwelt at Beersheba, Molada, and at Hasar, Sual, at Bilha, at Esem, and Tholad, at Bethuel, at Horma and at Ziklag, at Bethmarcaboth, Hasar, Susim, at Bethbirei, and at Saaraim. These wer their cities unto the raigne of Dauid. And their villages wer, Etan, and Ain, Rimmon, Tochen, and Asan, fiue townes, and all their villages that wer round about the same cities unto Baal. This is the habitation of them, and their genealogie. Mesobab, and Jamlech, and Josa the sonne of Amasia, and Joel, and Jehu, the sonne of Joshibia, the sonne of Saraia, the sonne of Asiel, and Elionai, and Jaacoba, Jesohaia, and Asaiah, Adiel, Isimiel, and Benaia, and Ziza the sonne of Sephibbe, the son of Allon, the sonne of Iedaia, the sonne of mouns capitaines in their kynredes, encreased vp greatly the house of their fathers. And they went to the entryng in of Gedor: euen vnto the East side of the valley, to seke pasture for their sheepe. And they found fat pasture, and good, and a wilde lande, quiete and stedefast, for they of Ham had dwelt there before. And these nowe afore written by name, came in the dayes of Hezekia kyng of Juda, and smote the tentes of them, and the habitations that were found there, and destroyed them vtterly, vnto this day, and dwelt in their roumes: because there was pasture there for their sheepe. And some of the children of Simeon went to mount Seir, euen fiue hundred men hauyng for their captaines, Pelathia, Nearia, Raphaia, and Uziel the sonnes of Isi: and smote the rest of the Amalekites that wer escaped, and they dwelt there vnto this day. ¶ The. v. Chapiter.

The sonnes of Ruben, the eldest sonne of Israel: for although he was the eldest, and had reteiled his fathers bedde, his birthright was geuen vnto the sonnes of Joseph, the sonne of Israel. Howbeit, the genealogie is not rekened after his birthryght. For Juda, he preuailed aboue his brethren, and of his tribe came the chefe, and the birthryght was gyuen to Joseph. The sonnes then of Ruben, the eldest son of Israel wer, Henoch, Phalu, Hezron, & Charmi. The sonnes of Joel, Samaiah his son, Gog his sonne, and Semhu his sonne, Michah his sonne, Reaia his sonne, & Baal his sonne, Beera his sonne: whom Thiglath Pilneser, king of Assiria, caried away: for he was a great lorde among the Rubenites. And when his brethren in their kynredes, rekened the genealogie of their generacions: Jeiel, and Zachariah ware the chefe.

And Baal the sonne of Azan, the sonne of Sem, the sonne of Joel, dwelt in Aroer: and to forth vnto Nebo, & Baalmeon. And Eastwarde, he enhabited vnto the entryng in of the wilderne, from the riuer Euphrates, for they had muche cattel in the land of Gilead. And in the dayes of Saul, they warred with the Hagarites, which wer ouerthrowen into their handes. And they dwelt in their tentes throughout al the East lande of Gilead.

And the children of Gad dwelt ouer against them in the lande of Basan: euen vnto Salcha. And in Basan, Joel was the chefest, and Saphan the nexte, then Janai, and Saphat. And their brethren of the householde of their fathers ware, Michael, Meshullam, Sheba, Iorai, Jachamja, Eber, seuen. These are the children of Abihail, the sonne of Huri, the sonne of Jeroah, the sonne of Gilead, the sonne of Michael, the sonne of Jesisai, the son of Jahdo, the sonne of Buz. Ahi the son of Abdiel, the sonne of Guni was reputacion of the houshold of their fathers: And they dwelte in Gilead in Basan, & in her townes, and in all the suburbes of Saron, and C. in their borders. All these were reckened by kynreden in the dayes of Jotham kyng of Juda, and in the dayes of Jeroboam kyng of Israel. The sonnes of Ruben, and of Gad, & of the halfe tribe of Manasse, were lusty valiaunt men, and able to beare bilde and sweard, & to shoote with bowe, exercised in warre, euen foure and fourtye thousand, seuen hundred and three score, that went out to the warre. And they fought with the Hagarites, with Je-tur, Naphis and Nodab. And they were helped of the Lord against them, and the Hagaritis were deliuered into their handes, and so-ware all that were with them. For they cried to God in the battaile, and he heardes them, because they put their trust in him. And they toke of their cattel, and of their camels, fifty thousand, and two hundreth, and fifty thousand sheepe, & two thousand asses, & of the soules of men, an hundred thousand: & there fell many wounded, because the warre was of God. And they dwelt in their cities, vntil the time that D. they were caried away. And the children of the halfe tribe of Manasse dwelt in the land from Basan vnto Baal, Hermon, & Semir, & vnto mount Hermon: for they were grawen to a great multitude. And these were the heades of the houshelden of their fathers: Epher and Jesi, Eliel and Azriel, Jeremia and Hodauia, and Jahdiel stronge men valeaunt, famous men, and heades of the houshelden of their fathers. And they transgressed against the God of their fathers, and went a whor-yng after the goddes of the people of the land, whom God destroyed before them: and God stirred vp the spirite of Phul, kyng of Assyria and the spirite of Thiglath Phalne-ser, kyng of Assyria, and caried them away: euen the Rubenites, the Gaddites, and the halfe tribe of Manasse, and brought them vnto Halah, Habor, Hara, and to the riuer Gosan, vnto this day.

NOw the Philistines fought against Israell, and the men of Israell fled before the Philistines, & were ouerthrowen & wounded in mount Gilboa. And the Philistines followed, & ouertoke after Saul and his sonnes, and the Philistines smote Jehonathan, & Abinadab, and Malchisua the sonnes of Saul. And the battaill was sore against Saul, and the archers found hym, & he was wounded of archers. Then said Saul to his weapon bearer, * drawe thy sweard, & thrust me through therewith, that these vncircumcised come not & mocke me. But his weapō bearer would not, for he feared exceedyngly. So Saul caught a sweard, and fell vpon it. And whē his harnesbearer, sawe that Saul was ded, he fell on a sweard also, & died. And thus Saul and his .iij. sonnes, and all they of his house died together. And when all the men of Israel that were in the valley, sawe how they fled, and that Saul and his sonnes were ded, they forsoke their cities, and ranawaie, and the Philistines came, & dwelt in them. And it forsuned, that on the morowe, when the Philistines came to strip the ded bodies, they found Saul and his sonnes, ouerthrowen in mount Gilboa. And when they had stript him they toke his hed & his harnesse, and sent thē into the land of the Philistines, round about to shewe them vnto their Idols, & to the people. And they put his harnesse in the house of their god, and set vp his hed in the temple of Dagon. And whē all they of Jabes in Galead herd all that the Philistines had men to Saul they arose (al the stroungest of them) and fet away the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sonnes, and brought them to Jabes, & buried the bones of them, vnder an oke in Jabes, and fasted .vij. daies. So Saul died for his trespasse, that he trespassed against the lorde, in that he kept not the worde of the lorde, and in that he sought, & asked counsaill of a woman, that hrought with a spirit, & asked not of the lorde. And therefore he slue him, & turned the kyngdom vnto Dauid, the sonne of Jsai.

THen all Israell gathered themselues to Dauid vnto Hebron, saiyng: behold, we be thy bones and thy flesshe. And moreouer, in tyme past, euen when Saul was kyng, thou ledest Jsraell out and in: and the Lorde thy god said vnto thee: thou shalt fede my people Israell, & thou shalt be capitaine ouer my people Israell. Wherefore came all the elders of Israell vnto the kyng to Hebron, and Dauid made a couenant with them in Hebron before the lorde. And they anoynted Dauid kyng ouer Israell, * according to the worde of the lorde, by the hand of Samuel. And Dauid and all Israell went to Jerusalem, whiche is Jebus, where the Jebusites, the inhabitours of the land, and the inhabitours of Jebus said to Dauid: thou comest not here. Neuertheles, Dauid won the castle of Sion, which is called the cites of Dauid. And Dauid said: whosoeuer smiteth the Jebusites first, shalbe the principall capitain, & lorde. So Joab the sonne of Zarui went first vp, and was made the chief captain. And Dauid dwelt in the castle of Sion, and therefore they called it the cites of Dauid. And he built the cites on euery side, euen from Millo round about. And Joab repaired the rest of the cites. And Dauid prospered and waxed great. And the lorde of hostes was with him. These are the principall men of power, whom Dauid had, and that clawe to hym in his kyngdome, with al Israell, to make hym kyng, according to the worde of the lorde vnto Israell. And this is the nomber of the mightie men, whō Dauid had: Jasobeam the sonne of Hachmoni, the chief emong .xxx. he lift vp his spere against .iij. c. and wounded them at one tyme. After hym was Eleazar his vncles sōne, an Ahothite, which was one of the .iij. mightiest. He was with Dauid at Pasdammim, & there the Philistines were gathered together to battaill. And there was there a parcell of ground full of barly, & the people fled before the Philistines. And they (the .iij. aforesaied) kept further into the midde of the fielde, and saued it from burning, & slue the Philistines. And the lorde gaue a greate victorie. And the .iij. of the .xxx. chief captaines, went to a rock to Dauid, into the caue Adullā. And the host of the Philistines, abode in the valleye of Rephaim. And when Dauid was in the hold of the Philistines watch, was at Bethlehem the same tyme. And Dauid longed, and said: * Oh, that one would geue me drynke of the water of the well, that is at the gate of Bethlehem. And they .iij. brake through the host of the Philistines, & drue water out of the well that was by the gate at Bethlehem, and toke it, and brought it to Dauid. Neuertheles, Dauid would not drynke of it, but rather offered it to the lorde, and said: my God forbid it me, that I should do this thyng. Shall I drynke the blood of these men, that haue put their liues in ieopardy? For with the ieopardy of their liues they brought it. Therefore he would not drynke it. And this did these .iij. mightie. And Abisai the brother of Joab, Sarues was captain emong .iij. & he lifte vp his spere against .iij. c. and wounded thē, and had a name emong the .iij. emong .iij. he was more honorable then the two, for he was their captain. to the warre, and kepte the fourefront of the battaill. xl. M. And of the other tribes of Jordan, of the Rubenites, and Gadites, and of the half tribe of Manasse, with all maner of instrumentes of warre, an hundred and. xx. thousande. All these were men of warre, kepyng the fourefront of the battaill, with perfect harte, and came to Hebron, to make Da-uid kyng ouer all Israell. And all the rest of Israell, were of one accorde, to make Dauid kyng. And there they were with Dauid three daies, eatyng and drinkyng, for their brethren had prepared for them. Moreouer they that were nigh them, vnto Issachar, Zabulon, and Nephthali, brought breed on asses, Camelles, Mules, and Oxen and meat, floure, Figges, Resens, wine and oyle, Oxen and sheepe abundantly. For there was ioye in Israell.

The xiii. Chapter.

Dauid commaūded with the capitaines of thousandes and hundredes, & with all the leaders, and saied vnto all the congregacion of Israell: if it semeyou good, and is due of the Lorde our God, we will take, and sende vnto our brethren, that are lefte in all the landes of Israell, and with them also, to the priestes and Leuites, which are in their cities and suburbes, to gather them together vnto vs. And we will bryng again the Arke of the Lorde to vs, for we regarded it not, in the daies of Saul. And all the congrega-cion was content that he should doo so, for the thyng semed good in the eyes of all the people. So Dauid gathered all Israell together, from Sihor in Egypte, vnto the en-tryng of Hemath, to bryng the Arke of the Lorde, from Kiriath Jearim. And Dauid went vp and all Israell, to an high place, to wit Kiriath Jearim, that was in Iuda, to fet thence the Arke of the Lorde God, that dwelleth betwene the Cherubins, vnto his name

C. called vp. And they made the Arke of God to ride vpon a newe carte, out of the house of Abinadab. And Vza & his brother guided the cart.

C. And Dauid and all Israell played before the Arke of God, with all their might, with syn-gyng and harpes, & Psalteries, and timbrels, and trumpettes. And when they came vnto the corne flore of Chidon, Vza put furthe his hand to hold the Arke for the oxen had made it ready to fall. Wherefore the Lorde was wroth with Vza, and smote him, because he put his hand to the Arke. And there he died before God. And Dauid was out of quiet, be-

D. cause the Lorde had rent a rent in Vza, and he called the name of that place, the rentyng of Vza, vnto this daie. And Dauid was afraied of God that daie, saiyng: how shall I bryng the Arke of God home to me? And so Dauid brought not the Arke home to him, to the ci-tie of Dauid: but caried it into the house of Obed Edom a Gethite. And the Arke of God remained with Obed Edom, euen in his house:
.iii. monethes. And the Lorde blessed the house of Obed Edom, and all that he had.

The xiiii. Chapter.

Hiram the kyng of Tire, sent mes-

A. sengers to Dauid, and timbre of Cedar trees, with Masons and Carpenters, to build him an house. And Dauid perceiued, that the Lorde had confirmed him kyng vpon Israel, and that his kyngdome was lift vp an high,

D. because of his people Israell. And Dauid tokeyt me in more at Jerusalē, and begat mo sonnes and daughters. These are the names of the children, which he had borne vnto him

B. in Jerusalem: Shammua, Sobab, Nathan and Salomon, Jibhar, Elisua, Elipholet, Noga, Nepheg, and Japhia, Elisama, Beeliada, and Elipholet. And when the Philistines hard, that Dauid was anoynted kyng vpon Israell: all the Philistines went vp to seeke Dauid. And Dauid heard of it, and went out against them. And the Philistines came, and spraunded themselues in the valley of Rephaim. And Dauid asked counsell at God, say-

A. ing: shall I go against the Philistines? and wilt thou deliuer them into mine handes? And the Lorde saied vnto me: go vp, for I will de-C. liuer them into thy handes. And so they came vp to Baal Perazim, and Dauid smote them there. And Dauid saied: God hath broken mine enemies with mine handes, as a mans mighty deuide waters. And therefore they called the name of that place: Baal Pharazim. And when they had left their Goddes there, Da-uid gaue a commaundement, and they were burned with fire. And the Philistines came yet once more, and spraunded in the valley. And

D. Dauid asked again at God. And God saied to him: go not vp after them, but turne fromme from them, that thou maiest come vpon them, ouer against the Mulberie trees. And when heuen a sounde, as in the steppes of the perseuers, then go out to battaill ouer God in goe for the before thee, to smyte the hoste of the Philistines. Dauid therefore did as God commaunded him: and they smote the hoste of the Philistines, from Gibeon to Gazer. And the fame of Dauid went out into all landes:

and the lorde made all nations feare him.

The .xv. Chapter.

A. DAuid made him houses in the Cy-tie of Dauid, and prepared a place for the Arke of God, and pitched for it a tent. Then Dauid saide: the Arke of God ought not to be caried, but of the Leuites: for them hath the lorde chosen, to beare the Arke of the lorde, and to minister vnto him for euer. And Dauid gathered all Israell together to Ie-rusalem, to fetche the Arke of the lorde into his place, which he had ordeined for it. And Dauid brought together the children of Aaron and the Leuites. Of the sonnes of Ca-hath, Uriel the chief, and of his brethren there were an hundred and twentie. Of the children of Merari, Asaia the chief, and of his brethren two hundred and twentie: Of the sonnes of Gerson, Ioell the chief, and of his brethren, an hundred and thirtie.
Of the children of Elisaphan, Semaia the chief, and of his brethren two hundred. Of the sonnes of Hebron, Eliel the chief, and of his brethren, lxxx. Of the sonnes of Vziel Aminadab the chief, and of his brethren an hundred and twelue. And Dauid called Zadok and Abiathar, the priestes and the Leuites, Uriel, Asaia, Ioel, Semaia, Eliel, and Aminadab, and said vnto them, Ye that are the principall fathers of the Leuites, sanctifie your selues both with your brethren, that ye maie bring in the Arke of the lorde God of Israell, vnto the place that I haue prepared for it. For because ye were not there at the firste, the Lorde our God made a breache emong vs, for that we sought him not, as the fashion ought to be. So the Priestes and the Leuites, sanctified themselues, to fetche the Arke of the lorde God of Israell. And the children of the Le-uites bare the Arke of God vpon their shulders, with staues thereon, as Moses had commaunded according vnto the worde of the lorde.

C. And Dauid spake to the chiefe heades of the Leuites, that they should appoynte certaine of their brethren, to syng with instrumentes of musicke, Psalteries, Harpes, and Cimballes: that they might make a sounde, and be tyme ou-sight to their owne selues. And the Leuites ap-poynted Heman the sonne of Ioel: and of his brethren, Asaph the sonne of Berachias and of the sonnes of Merari, their brethren Ethan the sonne of Chusaiahu. And with them their brethren, of the seconde degree Zacharjahu, Ben, Jaasiel, Semiramoth, Je-hiel, Unni, Eliab, Maaseiahu, Benaiahu, Mattithiahu, Eliphelehu, Mikneiahu, Obed Edom, and Jeiel, porters. So Heman, Asaph and Ethan the singers, made a sounde with Cimballes of brasse. And Zacharjahu, Aziel, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Maaseiahu, and Benaiahu played with Psalteries vpon Alamoth. Mattithiahu, Eliphelehu, Mikneiahu, Obed Edom, Jeiel and Azaziahu, the chiefe of the Leuites, sang vnder the tong, for the singing of the tong, because he was a man of vnderstanding. Berechias and Elkana, were also porters of the Arke. And Secaniahu, Jehoschaphat, Nathanaell, Amasai, Zacharjahu, Benaiahu, and Eliezer the priestes, did blowe with trompettes, before the Arke of God. And Obed Edom and Jehia, were porters of the Arke. And Dauid and the Elders of Israell, and the captaines ouer thousandes went to fet the Arke of the appoynted couenaunt of the lorde, out of the house of Obed Edom, with gladnesse. And when God helped the Leuites, that bare the Arke of the appoynted couenaunt of the lorde, they offered vp .vii. Oxen and .vii. Rammes. And Dauid had on him a linnen garment, like as had also the Leuites, that bare the Arke, and so had the singers, and Chenania the ruler of the song with the singers. And Dauid had vpon him an Ephod of linnen. And all they of Israell, brought the Arke of the lordes couenaunt, with shouting and blowyng of the Shaume, and Trompettes, making a noyse with Cimballes, Psalteries and Harpes. And as the Arke of the appoynted of the lorde, came into the cittie of Dauid, Michol the daughter of Saul, lokyng out at a windowe, sawe king Dauid daunsyng and playyng, and she despised him in her harte.

The .xvi. Chapter.

SO they brought in the Arke of God, and A. set it in the midest of the tent, that Dauid pitched for it. And they offered burnt Sacrifices and peace offeringes before God. And when Dauid had made an ende of offeryng the burnt offeringes and peace offeringes, he blessed the people in the name of the Lorde. And he dealt to all Israell both the man and woman a Cracknell of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine. And he appoynted certain of the Leuites, to minister before the lorde, and to repete, and to thanke and praise the lorde God of Israell. And Asaph was the chiefe, next to him Zacharia, Jeiel, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Mattithia, Eliab, Benaia, Obed Edom, and Jeiel, with Psalteries and Harpes. But Asaph made a sounde with Cimballes. Banaiahu and Jahaziel priestes, blewe with trompettes continually before the Arke of the covenaunt of God. And then sang Dauid the first gyue thanke, to thanke the lorde for his benefites. O geue thanke vnto the lorde and call vpon his name, make his actes knowen among the people. Synge vnto hym, and praise hym: talke of all his wonderfull workes.

Reioyce in his holy name: let the hartes of them that seke the Lorde be glad. Seke the Lorde and his strength: seke his presence alwaye. Remembre his maruelous workes, which he hath done, his wonders, and the Iudgements of his mouthe. O ye seede of Israell his seruaunte, ye children of Iacob his chosen. He is the lorde our God, in all the worlde are his Iudgementes. Thynke on his appoynctment for euer. And on the worde, which he commanded to a thousande generations, which he made with Abraham, and of his othe vnto Isaac: which he set before Iacob for a lawe, and to Israell for an euerlastyng couenaunt, saying: Vnto thee will I gyue the lande of Chanaan, to be the portion of your inheritaunce. When ye were but fewe, and all in nombre, and strangers therein. And they walked from nacion, to na-cion, and from one kyngdom to another people. He suffred no man to do them wrong: but rebuked euen kynges, for their sakes. Touche not myne anoynted, and do my Prophetes no harme. Synge vnto the Lorde all the worlde: and shewe from daye to daye his sal-uacion. Tell of his glorye emong the Heathe: his wonderfull workes emong all nacions.
For great is the Lorde, and worthy to be praised exceedyngly: he is to be feared aboue all Goddes. For all the Goddes of the people are of no value. But the lorde made heauen. Prayse and honor are in his presence: strength and gladnesse are in his place. Ascribe vnto the Lorde, ye kynredes of people: Ascribe to the lorde, glorye and honour.
Ascribe vnto the lorde the glorye due vnto his name: bringe sacrifices and come before hym and worshippe the lorde in holy honor. Let all the worlde feare hym. Although the compasse of the worlde be stablished, that it cannot be moued: let the heauens reioyce, and let the worlde be glad, and let men tell emong the nacions, that the Lorde is kyng. Let the sea thunder, and the fulnesse thereof: let the fielde reioyce, and all that is therein. Then shall the trees of the woode reioyce, at the presence of the lorde, because he commeth to Iudge the worlde. O geue thanke vnto the lorde, for he is good, for his mercie endureth for euer: and saye ye, saue vs O God our sauioure, gather vs together, and deliuer vs from emong the Heathen, that we may geue thanke to thy holy name, and triumphe in the praise of thee. Blessed be the lorde God of Israel, for euer and euer: and let all people saye: Amen, and prayse the lorde. And he left Asaph and his brethren, to ministre before the arke continually, in suche busynesse as were to be done daily by ouersight and that by their courses. Obed Edom and his brethren lyke: and Obed Edom, the sonne of Ieduthun, and Hosa, were appoynted to be porters.

And Sadoc the preiste, and his brethren the preistes, were before the Tabernacle of the lorde, in the hye place, that was at Gibeon, to offre burnte offeringes vnto the lorde, vpon the burnte offeryng alter perpetually, in the morninge and euenynge, and to synge vnto all that which is written in the lawe of the Lorde, which he commaunded Israell. And with them were Heman, and Iedithun, & other that were chosen (whose names were expressed) to geue thanke to the lorde, that his mercie lasteth euer. And with them Heman and Iedithun sange with the trompetes and Cymbales, makyng a swete melodie, with instrumentes of musike, and Gods songes. And the sonnes of Iedithun were porters. And all the people departed, euery man to his house: and Dauid returned to blesse his house.

¶ The .xvij. Chapiter.

AND it chaunced, that when Dauid dwelte in his house, he sayde to Nathan the Pro-phete: lo, I dwell in an house of Cedar trees, 2. Reg. vij. a but the Arke of the lordes couenaunt, remayneth vnder Curteines. And Nathan sayed to Dauid: do all that is in thyne hart, for God is with thee. And the same nighte it chaunced, that the worde of God came to Nathan, sayynge: goe, and tell Dauid my seruaunte, thus sayeth the lorde: thou shalt not builde me an house, to dwell in. For I haue dwelte in no house, sence the time that I brought out the children of Israell, vnto this daye: but haue gone from tente to tente, and from one habita-cion to another. Any where soeuer I haue walked, with all Israell, spake I euer one worde to any of the Iudges of Israell (whom I commaunded to feede my people) saynge: why haue ye not builte me an house of Cedar trees?
Now therefore thus shalt thou saye vnto my 10 seruaunte Dauid: thus saieth the lorde of hostes. I tooke thee out of the pasture, when thou wentest after sheepe, that thou shouldest bee capitain ouer my people Israell. And I haue been with thee, whether soeuer thou hast walked, and haue slayne all thyne enemies, out of thy sight, and haue made thee a name, like the name of one of the greatest men, that are in the earth. And I haue ordeined a place for my people Israel, and planted it, that they may dwell in their place, and moue no more: neither shall the children of wickednesse, vexe them any more, as at the beginnyng: and sence the tyme that I comaunde ded Iudges, to be ouer my people Israell: I haue subdued all thyne enemies. And I tolde

When also thall come to passe, when thy dayes be expired, that thou muſt go vnto thy fathers, I will exalte vp thy ſeede after the, whi che ſhalbe of thy ſonnes, and will prepare for him the kyngdom. He ſhal build me an houſe, and I wil ſtablyſhe his ſeate for euer: I will be his father, and he ſhalbe my ſonne: and I will not take my mercy away from hym, as I toke it from him that was before the. But I will ſet hym in mine houſe, and in my kyngdome for euer: and his ſeate ſhalbe ſure for euermore. Accordyng to all theſe wordes, and accordyng to all this viſion, did Nathanel kyng Dauid. And Dauid the kynge came and ſat before the Lord, and ſaid: what am I (O lord God) & what is mine houſhold, that thou haſt promoted me thus farre? And yet this ſeemed litle in thine eyes, O God: But thou haſt alſo ſpoken of thy ſeruauntes houſe, for a great whyle to come: and haſte loked vpon me lyke vpon a man of hye degree, O lord God. What ſhal Dauid deſire more of the, for the honour of thy ſeruaut? O lord, for thy ſeruaunte & thine owne herte, haſt thou done all this magiſtrence to ſhewe all theſe great thinges. O lord, there is none like the: neither is there anye god ſaue thou: accordyng to all that we haue hearde with our eares. Moreouer, what nation in the yearth is like thy people Iſrael, to whom God hath bought & cauſe to come & redeme them to be his owne people, and to make the a name of excellencie, and terribleneſſe, with caſtyng out nations from before thy people, whome thou haſte delyue-red out of Egipte, thy people of Iſraell alſo? For thou make thyne owne people for euer, and thou becameſt their God. Therfore now lord, let the thyng that thou haſt ſpoken concernyng thy ſeruaunt and his houſe, be ſtable for euer, that thou do as thou haſt ſaid: let it come to paſſe, that thy name maye be magnified for euer, that ſo maye he ſaide the lord of hoſtes is the God of Iſrael (euē the God of Iſraell) and the houſe of Dauid thy ſeruaut ſhalbe ſtable before the. For thou (O my God) haſt told thy ſeruaunt, that thou wilt builde hym an houſe. And therfore thy ſeruaunt hath founde in his hart to pray before the. And now lord, thou art God, & haſt promiſed this goodneſſe vnto thy ſeruaunt.
Now therfore, let it be thy pleaſure, to bleſſe the houſe of thy ſeruaunte, that it maye continue before the for euer. For whome thou bleſſeſt O God lord, the ſame is bleſſed for euer.

The xviij. Chapiter.

After this it chaunced, that Dauid ſmote the Philiſtines, and ſubdued them, and toke Geth and the townes that longed thereto, out of the hande of the Philiſtines.
And he ſmote Moab, and the Moabites became Dauides ſeruauntes, and payed hym tribute. And Dauid ſmote Hadarezer kynge of Zoba vnto Hamath, as he went to eſtabliſhe his dominion by the riuer Euphrates. And Dauid toke from hym a thouſand charettes, and ſeuen thouſande horſemen, and twentye thouſande fotemen: and lamed all the charethorſes, and reſerued of them an hundred charetes. And when the Syriens of Da-maſco came to helpe Hadarezer kyng of Zoba: Dauid ſlew of the Syriens xxij. thouſand, and Dauid ſubdued Syria Damaſco.
And the Syriens became Dauides ſeruauntes: and broughte him tribute. And the Lord preſerued Dauid in all that he went to.
And Dauid toke the ſhyldes of golde that ware on the ſeruauntes of Hadarezer, and brought them to Ieruſalem. And from Tebhhath, and from Chun (cities of Hadarezer) brought Dauid exceadyngе muche braſſe.
Wherwith Salomon made the braſen lauatory: the pyllers and the veſſels of braſſe.
And when Thou kynge of Hemath, herde howe Dauid had beaten all the ſtrength of Hadarezer, kyng of Zoba, he ſent Hadoram his ſonne to kyng Dauid, to make peace with hym, & to bleſſe hym, bycauſe he had fought againſte Hadarezer, & beaten hym (for Thou hadde warre with Hadarezer) and Dauid broughe all maner iewels of golde, ſiluer and braſſe with hym. And kyng Dauid dedicated them vnto the lord, with the ſiluer and golde that he brought from all nations: from Edom, from Moab, from the children of Ammon, the Philiſtines, and from Amaleke.
And Abiſai the ſonne of Zeruia ſlewe of the Edomites in the ſalte valleye, xviij. thouſande, and put ſouldiers in Edom, and all the Edomites became Dauides ſeruauntes.
Thus the lord kept Dauid in al that he toke in hande. And Dauid raigned ouer Iſraell, and executed iudgement and righteouſneſſe among al his people. And Ioab the ſonne of Zeruiah was ouer the hoſt. And Iehoſaphat the ſonne of Ahilud recorder: and Sadocke the ſonne of Ahitob, and Ahimelech the ſone of Abiathar ware the prieſtes: and Sauſa was ſcribe, and Banaiahu, the ſonne of Jehoiada was ouer the Crethites and Phelethites, and the eldeſt ſonnes of Dauid ware nere vnto the kyng.

The xix. Chapiter.

After this it chaunced, that Nahas the kyng of the children of Ammon dyed, and his ſonne raygned in his ſtede. And Dauid ſaid: I wyl ſhewe kyndneſſe vnto Hanon, the ſon of Nahas the ſonne of his father dyd kynd-neſſe with me. And Dauid ſente meſſengers to comforte hym ouer the death of his father.
And the ſeruauntes of Dauid came into the lande of the children of Ammon to Hanon, to comforte him. But the lordes of the children of Ammon ſaid to Hanon: thynkeſt thou that

Dauid doth honour thy father in thy sight: that he hath sent comforters vnto thee? hath not his seruauntes come to thee, to loke & spye out the lande & ouerthrowe it? Anon the Ammonites toke Dauides seruantes, & shaued them, & cut of their coates halfe by their buttockes, and sente them awaye. And there went certayne & tolde Dauid: howe the men were serued. And the kyng sente to mete them (for the men were exceedyngly ashamed) & the kyng sayde: Tary at Iericho, vntyl your beerdes be growen, & then retourne. And when the children of Ammon sawe that they stacke in the sight of Dauid, Anon and the children of Ammon, sent a thousand talentes of syluer to hyre them charettes & horsemen out of Mesopotamia & out of Syria, Maacha, and out of Zoba. And they hyred .xxxii. thousande charettes, & the kyng of Maacha and his people, which came and pitched before Medba. And the children of Ammon gathered themselues together fro their cities, and came to battaile. And when Dauid herd of it, he sent Ioab & all the hoost of stronge men. And the children of Ammon came out, & put them selues in araye to battayle before the gate of the citie. And the kynges that ware come, kepte them by themselues backe in the felde. When Ioab also sawe that the front of the battaile was against him, before and behynde, he chose out al the chosen men of Israel, & put them in araye against the Syries. And the rest of the people he delyuered vnto the hande of Abisai his brother, and they put them selues in araye against the children of Ammon. And he sayde: Yf the Syriens be to stronge for me, thou shalt succour me: and if the children of Ammon preuayle against the, I wyl helpe the: Plucke vp thyne hart, & let vs playe the men for our peoples sake & for the cities of oure God, and the lorde shall do that which is good in his owne sight. So Ioab and the people that ware with hym drue nye before the Syriens vnto the battayle, & they fledde before hym. And when the children of Ammon sawe that the Syries were fled, they ranne away likewise before Abisai his brother, and gate them into the citie. And Ioab came to Ierusalem. And when the Syriens sawe that they were put to the worse before Israell, they sent messengers and let out the Syries that ware beyond the riuer, and Sophach the captayne of the hoost of Hadarezer went before them. And it was tolde Dauid: and he gathered al Israel, and went together ouer Iordan, and came & set vpon them. And when Dauid had put hym selfe in araye against the Syriens, they coughe with hym. But the Syriens fledde before Israell. And Dauid destroyed of the Syriens seuen thousand charettes, and .xl. M. fotemen, and killed Sophach the captayne of the hoost.

And when the seruauntes of Hadarezer, sawe that they ware put to the worse before them of Israell, they made peace with Dauid, and became his seruauntes. Neither wolde the Syriens helpe the children of Ammon any more.

The .xx. Chapiter.

And it came to passe, that after the yere was expired (about the time that kynges go out to warre) Ioab caried out the power of the hoost, & destroyed the countrey of the children of Ammon, and came and besieged Rabba, and destroyed it. But Dauid tarried at Ierusalē whyle Ioab smote Rabba and destroyed it. And Dauid took the crowne of their kyng from of his head, and founde that it had the weyght of a talent of golde, and there ware precious stones in it: and it was ordeyned for Dauides head. And he brought also exceedyng many people out of the citie. And he brought out the people that ware in it, & tormented them with sawes, harowes of yron, & with other harpe instrumentes, & so dealt Dauid with al the cities of the children of Ammon. And Dauid and all the people came again to Ierusalem. After this it fortuned, that there arose warre at Gazer with the Philistines. At which time Sobakai the Hushathite slewe Sippai, that was of the children of Rephaim: & they were subdued. And there was battaile again with the Philistines. & Elhanan the sonne of Iaer slewe Lahemi the brother of Goliath the Gethite, whose speare was like a weuers beame. And there chaunced yet againe warre at Geth, where as was a man of a great stature, with .xxiiii. fyngers and toes, .vi. on euery hand and on euery foote: and was the sonne of Raphaim. But when he defyed Israell, Ionathan the sonne of Simea Dauides brother slewe him. These were borne vnto Raphaim at Geth, & were ouerthrowen by the hande of Dauid and in the hande of his seruauntes.

The .xxi. Chapiter.

And Sathan stode vp against Israel, and prouoked Dauid to nombre Israell. And Dauid sayde to Ioab and to the rulers of the people: Go & nombre Israel from Berseba to Dan, and bring it to me that I may know the nombre of them. And Ioab answered: the lord make his people an hundred tymes so many as they be. But my lorde, my kyng are they not all my lordes seruauntes? why then doth my lord require this thynge? why wyl my lorde be a cause of trespace to Israell. Neuertheles the kynges worde preuayled against Ioab. And Ioab departed and walked throwe out all them of Israell, and came to Ierusalem again, and gaue the nombre of the coumpe of the people vnto Dauid. And al they of Israell were a thousande thousand and an hundred .M. men that drewe swoorde: and I slew with the swoorde .iii. hundreth men that were swoorde bote the Lewites and Beniamin coumpted he not among them. For the kynges worde was abhominable to Ioab. And the Lord was displeased with this thynge: and smote Israell. And Dauid sayde vnto God: I haue sinned exceadingly in doinge this thynge. And nowe I beseche the, to awaye the wyckednesse of thy seruaunte, for I haue done very foolishly. And the lorde spake vnto Gad, Dauides sear, saiyinge: go and tell Dauid, saiyng: Thus sayeth the lorde: I gyue the choyse of three thynges: chose the one of them, that I maye do vnto the. And Gad came to Dauid, and saide vnto hym. Thus sayeth the lorde: Chose the either thre yeres famishement, or three monethes to be destroyed before thine aduersaries, & that the swoorde of thyne enemies maye ouertake the, or els the swoorde of the Lorde and pestilence in the land three dayes. And the aungell of the Lorde destroyenge thorowout all the coostes of Israell. And nowe aduise thy selfe, what worde I shal bryng again to him that sente me. And Dauid sayde vnto Gad: I am in an exceadyng strayt. Let me fall nowe into the hande of the lorde, for passyng great are his mercies, but let me not fall into the hande of men. So the Lorde sente pestilence vpon Israel and there were ouerthrowen of Israel .lxx. thousande men. And God sent the aungell into Ierusalem to destroye it. And as he was about to destroy, the lorde beheld, and had compassion on the euil, and sayde to the aungell that destroyed: it is enough, let now thy hande rest. And the aungell of the Lorde stode by the threshynge flooze of Ornan the Iebusite. And Dauid lift vp his eyes and sawe the aungell of the lorde stonde betwene the yearth and heauen, hauyng a drawen swoorde in his hande, stretched oute towarde Ierusalem. Then Dauid and the elders of Israell, which were clothed in sacke, fell vpo their faces. And Dauid sayd vnto god: Is it not I that commaunded the people to be nombred? It is I that haue sinned & doe euil in deede, & what haue these wepe doe? Let thyne hande O lorde my God, be on me and my fathers house, but not on thy people that they should be punished. And the angell of the lord commaunded Gad to saye to Dauid, that Dauid should go vp, and set vp an aulter vnto the lord in the threshyng flooze of Ornan the Iebusite. And Dauid went vp according to the sayeng of Gad, which he spake in the name of the lorde. And Ornan turned about, and sawe the aungell, & his foure sonnes with him, and hid themselues. But Ornan was threshyng wheat. And as Dauid came to Ornan, Ornan loked and sawe Dauid & went out of the threshyng flooze, & bowed himself to Dauid with his face to the grounde.

And Dauid sayde to Ornan: gyue me the place of the threshynge flooze, that I maye build an aultare therin vnto the lord. Thou shalt gyue it me for as moche money as it is worth, that the plage may ceasse fro the people. And Ornan said vnto Dauid: take it to the, and let my lorde the kyng do that whiche semeth good in his eyes: lo, I gyue the oxe also for burnt sacrifices, and the threshynge sleades for woode, and wheate for meate offrynge: I gyue it all. And kyng Dauid sayde to Ornan, not so: but I will bye it for as moche money as it is worth. For I will not take that which is thyne for the Lorde, nor offre burnt offrynges without cost. And so Dauid gaue to Ornan for that place, sixe of golde .vi. hundred by waight. And Dauid built there an aultare vnto the Lord, and offred burnt offrynges and peace offrynges, and called vpon the Lorde, and he herde him from heauen in fyre vpo the aultare of burnt offrynge. And when the Lord had spoken to the aungel, he put vp his swoorde againe into the sheath of it. At that tyme when Dauid saw that the lord had heard him in the threshyng flooze of Ornan the Iebusite, he vsed to offre there. For the Tabernacle of the lord which Moses made in the wyldernesse, and the aultare of burnt offrynge, were at that season in the hyll at Gibeon. And Dauid coulde not go before it to aske counsayle at God, for he was afrayed of the swoorde of the Aungel of the Lorde.

The .xxi. Chapitre.

Then Dauid said: this is the house of the Lorde God, & this is the aultare for the burnt offrynge of Israel: And Dauid cōmaunded to gather together the straungers that were in the lande of Israel, & he set maisons to hewe free stone for the buyldynge of the house of God. And Dauid prepared plentye of yron for nayles, for the dores of the gates & ioyne with al, and aboundaunce of brasse without waighe, & Cedre trees without nōbre. For the sidōnes & they of Tyre brought moche Cedar woode to Dauid. And Dauid said: Salomon my sonne is young, & tender, & the house that is to be buylt for the lorde, muste exceade in greatnesse that it maye be spoken of, & praysed in all landes. I will therfore make ordinaunce for it. And so Dauid prepared many thinges before his death. And he called Salomon his sōne, & charged hym to buyld an house for the lord God of Israel. And Dauid said to Salomon: My sonne, I thought (as it was in mine hart) to buyld an house vnto the name of the lord my god. But the worde of the lorde came to me sayenge: thou hast shed moche bloude, and hast made great battailes: thou shalt therfore not build an house vnto my name: for thou hast shed moche blonde vpon the yearth in my sight.

Behold, a sonne is borne to the, and he shalbe a man of rest, for I will give him rest from all his enemies rounde about. For his name is Salomon: and I will send rest and peace upon Israel in his dayes. He shal buylde an house for my name, and he shall be my sonne, and I wilbe his father, and will prepare the seat of his kyngdome upon Israel for ever. Nowe therfore my sonne, the lorde be with the, and prosperre the, and thou shalte buylde the house to the name of the lorde thy God: as he hath said of the. And the lord shal give the wysedome and understandynge, and shall give the commaundementes for Israel, that ye may kepe the lawe of the lorde thy God. E. For then thou shalte prosperre: euen when thou takest hede, and fulfyllest the statutes & lawes which the lord charged Moses with for Israel. Muche up thyne hart therfore, & be stronge, dreade not, nor be discouraged. Behold, in mine aduersitie haue I also prepared for the house of the lorde, an hundred thousande talentes of golde, and a thousande thousande talentes of syluer, & as for brasse & yron it can not be nombred, for it is verye moch. And I haue prepared tymbre & stone, & thou mayst prouide more therto. Moreouer, thou hast workemen with the enough, & masons, and carpenters to worke in stone & timbre, and many men that be anioure for euery worke. And of golde, syluer, brasse, and yron, there is no nombre. Up therfore, and be doynge, and the lord shalbe with the. And David commaunded all the lordes of Israell to helpe Salomon his sonne, saynge: Is not the Lorde youre God with you? and hath he not given you reste on euery side? for he hath given the enhabitours of the land into my hand, and the lande is subdued before the Lorde, and before his people. Nowe therfore set your hartes, and soules, to seke the lord your God. Up, & buylde ye the temple of the lord God, to bring the arke of the couenaunt of the lorde, & the holy vessels of God into the house to buylde for the name of the lord.

WHen Dauid was olde and full of dayes, * he made Salomon his sonne kyng ouer Israel. And then he gathered together all the lordes of Israell with the priestes and the Leuites. And the Leuites were nombred from the age of xxx. yere and aboue, the nombre, & summe, of them was xxxviii. thousande men. Of which, xxiiii. thousande were set to further the worke of the house of the lord. And iiii. M. were officers and iudges. Foure thousande were porters, & foure thousande praysed the lord with such instrumentes as was made to praise withall. And Dauid put an order amonge them, deuidynge them in parties. Of the children of Leui, Gerson, Cahath, and Merari. Of the Gersonites was Laadan and Semei. The sonnes of Laadan the chefe was Iehiel, Zetham and Joel three. The sonnes of Semei, Selomith, Haziel & Haran three. These were the auncient fathers of Laadan. And the sonnes of Semei, were Jahath, Zina, Jeus, and Beria: these foure were the sonnes of Semei. And Jahath was the chefe, Zina the second. But Jeus & Beria had not many sonnes, therfore they were in one reckenyng (accordyng to their fathers houshold) reckened for one auncient houshold. The sonnes of Iahath, Amram, Izahar, Hebron & Uziel foure. * The sonnes of Amram: Aaron and Moses. Exod. vi. c. And Aaron was separated to haue the rule of i. Par. vi. a. the holy thynges in the place most holy, he and his sonnes for euer, & to burne encense before the lorde, and to minister vnto him, & to bleesse in his name for euer. Moses also the man of God, and his children, were nombred with the tribe of Leui. The sonnes of Moses: Gerson and Eliezer. The sonnes of Gerson: Sebuel was the chefe. The sonnes of Eliezer: Rehabia the chefe. And Eliezer had none other sonnes. But the sonnes of Rehabia were very many. The sonnes of Izahar, Salomith the chefe. The sonnes of Hebron: Jeriah the first, Amaria the second, Jahaziel the third, and Iecamam the fourth. The sonnes of Uziel: Micha the first, & Iesia the second. The sonnes of Merari: Mahli & Musi. The sonnes of Mahli, Eleazar & Cis. And Eleazar died, & had no sonnes, but doughters, & their brethren the sonnes of Cis take them. The sonnes of Musi: Mahli, Eder, & Jerimoth three. These are the children of Leui after the house of their fathers, eue the auncient of the fathers accordyng to their offices, & after the nombre & summe of the names of that did the worke in the seruice of the house of the lord fro the age of xx. yeres & aboue. And Dauid said: the lord God of Israel hath geuen rest vnto his people that they may dwell in Jerusalem for euer. And the Leuites also shall now nomore beare that tabernacle, & all the vessels for the seruice therof. For accordyng to the last worde of Dauid the Leuites were nombred from xx. yere & aboue, & their office was vnder the hades of the sonnes of Aaron, for the seruice of the house of the lord, in the courtes & celles, & in the purifying of holy thynges, & in the worke of the seruice of the house of god. In the shew bread, in the fine floure, in the meate offring, in the wafers of vnleuened bread, in the frying panne, in the fryinge, & in all maner of measures & rule, & to stande euery day in the morninge, to thanke & praise the lord, & so lykewise at euen. And to offre all burnt sacrifices vnto the Lorde, in the Sabbathes, in the newe moones, and on the festiuall dayes by nombre and custome continually (as thei were commaunded) before the lord. And that thei should wayte on the tabernacle of wytnesse, and on the holye place, and on the sonnes of Aaron their brethren, in the seruice of the house of the lord.

The. xxiiij. Chapiter.

A. These are the diuisions of the sonnes of Aaron. The sonnes of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. * Nadab also and Abihu, dyed before their father, and had no children: but Eleazar and, Ithamar, executed the priestes office. And Dauid ordred them on this maner. Zadocke of the sonnes of Eleazar, and Ahimelek of the sonnes of Ithamar, ware accordynge to their offices in their ministracion. And ther ware mo auncient men founde amonge the sonnes of Eleazar, then the sonnes of Ithamar. And thus ware thei ordred together. Amonge the sonnes of Eleazar there ware xvj. rulers, accordinge to the housholde of their fathers, & eyght among the sonnes of Ithamar, accordynge to the houshelde of their fathers. And thus ware thei put in order by lot, the one coste from the other, and so ware there rulers in the sanctuary, and Lordes before God, as well of the sonnes of Ithamar, as of the sonnes of Eleazar. And Semeia the sonne of Nathanaell, the scribe, of the kynred of the Leuites wrote them before the kynge, and the lordes, and before Zadocke the priestes, and Ahimelerke the sonne of Abiathar, and before the auncient fathers of, before the priestes, and the Leuites: one principal houshold beyng reserued for Eleazar, and one for Ithamar. And the B. first lot fell to Iehoiarib, and the seconde to Iedaia. The third to Harim, & the fourth to Seborim. The fyfth to Melchia, and the sixte to Miamin. The seuenth to Hakos, and the eyght to Abia. The nynth to Iesua and the tenth to Secaniahu. The eleuenth to Eliasyb, and the twelueth to Iakim. The xiij.teenth to Hupa, and the fourteenth to Iesebeab. The xv.teenth to Bilga, & the sixteenth to Immer. The seuententh to Hezir, and the eyghteenth to Happez, The nineteenth to Pathathia, and the twentieth to Iehezkel. The xxi. to Iachin, and the xxij. to Gamul. The xxiij. to Delaiahu, & the xxiiij. to Maaziahu. These are the ordinaunces of them in their offices, when thei came into the house of the lorde accordyng to their maner, vnder Aaron their father, as the Lord God of Israel had C. commaunded hym. The rest of the sonnes of Leui are these. Of the sonnes of Amra. Sabuel. Of the sonnes of Sabuel. Iehediahu. Of the sonnes of Rehabia: the firste Iezia. Of the Iezaharites, Selomoth. Of the sonnes of Selomoth, Iahath. Hys sonnes Ieriahu, the first. Amariahu, the second. Iahathiel, the third. Iekmeam, the fourth. Of the sonnes of Vziel, Micha. Of the sonnes of Micha, Samir. The brother of Micha was Iissia. Of the sonnes also of Iissia, Zechariahu. The sonnes of Merari were Mahli & Musi. The sonnes of Iahaziahu, Beno. The sonnes of Merari by Iahaziahu, Beno, Hoben, Zacur and Ibri. Of Mehely came Eleazar, and he had no sonnes. Of Kis, the sonnes of Kis, Gerahemeel. The sonnes of Musi, Mahli, Eder & Ierimoth. These are the children of the Leuites, after the householdes of their fathers. And these cast lotes next to their brethren the sonnes of Aaron, in the presence of Dauid the kyng, & Zadock and Ahemelech, and the auncient fathers, priestes, and Leuites: euen the principal fathers before their yonger brethren. [The lot made equal distribution among them all.]

The. xxv. Chapiter.

A. Dauid with the captaines of the host appointed out to do seruice: the sonnes of Asaph, Heman, and Iedythun which shuld prophecie, with harpes, psalteries, and cimbales. And ther was a multitude of the men that ware appointed to the seruice and ministration. Of the sonnes of Asaph: Zaccur, Ioseph Nathania, & Asarela that wayted on Asaph, whiche prophecyed by the kyng. Of B. Iedythun: the sonnes of Iedythun, Gedelahu, Zeri, Iesaiahu, Hasabiahu, and Mathathiahu, sixe: vnder the handes of their father Iedythun, whiche prophecied with an harpe, for to gyue thankes and prayses vnto the Lorde. The xxvi. Chapiter.

A. THese are the diuisions of the porters Among the Corethites: Meselemiahu, the sonne of Kore, of the children of Asaph. And the sonnes of Meselemiahu were these: Zachariahu, the eldest, Jedihel, the second, Zebadiahu, the third, Jathniel the fourth, Elam, the fyfth, Jehonan the sixt, & Eleonai the seuenth. The sonnes of Obed Edom: Semeia the eldest, Jehosabad the second Joah the third, Sacar, the fourth, and Nethanael the fyfth, Amiel the sixth, Esachar, the seuenth, Peulthai the eyght, for God blessed him. And to Semeia his sonne, were sonnes borne, that ruled in the house of their father, for thei were men of might. The sonnes of Semeia Othni, Rephael, Obed & Elzabad, & his brethren were strong men: Elihu, and Samachiahu. All these were of the children of Obed Edom, thei, & their children, & their brethren, active men, of strength to do seruice, euen. lxii. of Obed Edom. And Meliniah had sonnes & brethren, active men, xviii. The sonnes of Hosa of the children of Merari: Simri, the chefe, (though he were not the eldest, yet his father set him in the chefe place: Helkiahu the second: Tebaliahu the third, and Zachariahu the fourth: all the sonnes and the brethren of Hosa were. xiii.

B. Among these was deuided the office of the porterdyp, that thei shulde be auncient men, to wayte with their brethren, when thei ministred in the house of the lord. And thei cast lottes betwene the great, and smal, after the housold of their fathers, for euery gate. And the lot on the east side fell vpo Salemiahu. And for Zachariahu his sonne (which was a wyse counsayler) thei cast lots, & his lot came out toward the north. And Obed Edom lot fell to the south. And for his sonnes the lot fell to the houses of Asuppim & for Huphim & Hosa toward the west, with the gate that lieth toward the hyer way: one watch being ouer against an other. In the east were sixe Leuites: & toward the north. iiii. a day, toward the south. iiii. a daye, and toward Asuphim. two, and two. In Pharbar toward the west two, at the goynge up, and two in Pharbar. These are the diuisions of the porters amog the sonnes of Corath, & among the sonnes of Merari. And of the Leuites, Ahiah had the ouersight of the treasure of the house of god, and of the treasure of the dedicate thinges.

C. As concerning the sonnes of Ladan, which were the children of the Gersonites: Of Ladan came auncient fathers, euen of Ladan ther came Gersuni & Jehiely. The sonnes of Jehieli: Zethan & Joel his brother, which were ouer the treasures of the house of the Lord. Of the Amramites also & Jsharites, Hebronites & Ozielites was Subuel, the sonne of Gerson, the sonne of Moses, a ruler ouer the treasures. And of his brethren the sonnes of Eliezer, was Rahabiahu, whose sone was Jsaiahu, whose sone was Joram, whose sonne was Zichri, whose sonne was Selomith, which Selomith, and his brethren, were ouer all the treasures of the dedicate thinges which Dauid the kyng, & the auncient fathers, the captaynes ouer thousandes, & hundredes, and the captaynes of the hoost, had dedicated of the spoyles wonne in battayles: thei did dedicate them to maintayne the house of the lord. And all that Samuel the seer, & Saul, the sonne of Cis & Abner, the sonne of Ner, & Joab, the sonne of Zaruia had dedicated, & whosoeuer had dedicate any thyng, it was vnder the hande of Selomith, & of his brethren. Of the Jsaharites was Chenaniahu & his sonnes, appointed to the businesse without forth, ouer Jsrael, for thei were officers & iudges. i. Reg. vi. a. Dauid rose vp vpon his fete, and saide.
Heare me my brethren and my people. * I had in my hart to buylde an house of rest for the arke of the couenaunt of the Lorde, and for the foote stole of our God, and had made re-vii. Reg. v. a. dy for the buylding. But God said vnto me
i. Par. xxv. b. * thou shalte not buylde an house for my na-B. me, bycause thou hast ben a man of warre, &
i. Reg. xvi. a. hast shed bloud. Yet ouer, the Lorde God of Israel * chose me before al the house of my father, to be kynge ouer Israel for euer, for in Iuda wolde he chose a captayne, and of the housholde of Iuda, is the house of my fa ther, and among the sonnes of my father he had a lust to me to make me kyng ouer al Israel. And of al my sonnes (for the Lorde hath gyuen me many sonnes) he hath chosen Salomon my sonne, to sit vpon the seate of the i. Par. xvii. a. kyngdome of the Lorde in Israel. And he said
ii. Par. vi. b. vnto me: * Salomon my sonne, he shal builde me an house and courtes, I haue chosen hym to be my sonne, and I wyll be his father. I wyl stablishe his kyngdome for euer: yf he wyl be strong to do my commaundementes & my lawes, as it goeth this day. Now therefore in the sight of al Israel, the congrega-cion of the lord, and in the audience of oure God: kepe and seke for al the commaunde-mentes of the Lorde your God, that ye may enioye a good lande, and leaue inheritaunce for youre children after you for euer. And thou Salomon my sonne, know thou the god of thy father, and serue him with a pure hart, and with a swete courage. * For the Lorde xvi. Cal. vii. c. searcheth all hartes, and vnderstandeth all the ymaginacions of thoughtes. And if thou seke hym: he wil be founde of the. But yf thou forsake him, he wil cast the of for euer.
Take hede nowe, for the lorde hath chosen the, to buylde hym an house of a Sanctuary.
Be stronge therfore, and playe the man. And Dauid gaue Salomon his sonne the paterne of the porche of the temple also and of the C. houses that longed therto, of the store houses, vpper chambres, inner parlours, and of the house of the mercyseate: and the example of al that he had in his mynd, for the courts of the house of the lord, & for all the celles rounde about, for the treasures of the house of God, and for the treasures of the dedicate thynges, & for the diuisions of the priestes and Leuites that wayted by course and for all the workemanship that longed to serue for the house of the Lord, and for al the vessels that longe to serue in the house of the Lorde.
For golde, and for the wayght of golde, for all vesselles of seruyce ministracions: for al maner of vesselles of siluer in waygh te, & for all vesselles whatsoeuer purpose they serued vnto: & he wayght of gold for the ca-ndlesticke, & the golde for the lampes, with the wayght for euery candlesticke, and for the lampes therof. And for the candlestickes of siluer by wayght, both for the candlesticke and also for her lampes, according to the diuersitie of the vse of euery candlesticke. And D. by wayght he gaue golde for the tables of shewebread, euen for euerye table: and like-wyse siluer for the tables of siluer. And golde for fleshokes, cuppes, and drynkyng potes. And pure golde in wayght for basens, euen for euery basen. And likewyse siluer by weyght for euery basen of siluer. And for the aulter of encense pure gold by wayght. And golde for the paterne of the charet of the cherubs, that stretched out their wynges, & couered the arke of the couenaunte of the lord. All (sayd he) was gyuen me by writyng of the hande of the lord, whiche made me vnderstande all the workemanshyp of the pa-terne. And Dauid saide to Salomon his sonne: be strong, and do manly, feare not, nor be faynte harted: for the Lord God, euen my God, is with the, and he wyll not fayle the nor forsake the, vntil thou hast finished all the worke that muste serue for the house of the Lorde. Beholde, the priestes & Leuites are deuided in companies for all maner of seruice that pertayneth to the house of God: they are with the for all maner of workе-manship, & so are al that excell in wysedome for any maner of seruice. Thou hast also the Lordes & al the people for euery thyng that thou hast nede of.

The. xxix. Chapiter.

Dauid the kyng said vnto al the con- A. gregation: * God hath specially chosen iii. Reg. i. a.
Salomon my sonne whiche is yet yong and tender, and the worke is great: for the house shal not be for man, but for the Lorde God.
Moreouer I haue prepared with all my might for the house of god, gold for vessels of golde, siluer for them of siluer, brasse for thinges of brasse, yron for thynges of yron, and wode for thynges of wode: and onyx stones, and stones to be set, glysteryng stones & of diuers coloure, and all maner of precioute stones, and marble stones in great abound-daunce. And bycause I haue lust to the house of my God: I haue of mine owne proper good, gold, and siluer, whiche I haue cheerfully gyuen to the house of my God, beyde al that I haue prepared for the holy house, euen thre thousand talentes of golde of Ophir, and seuen thousande talentes of tried siluer to ouer laye the walles of the house withall, the golde for thynges of gold, siluer for them of siluer, and for all maner of worke by the handes of artificers. And whosoeuer is willyng maye this day consecrate his hande vnto the Lorde. And to the aun-cient fathers, and the lordes of the tribes of B.
Israell, the captaynes of thousandes, and hundreden, with the lordes that ware rulers ouer the kynges worke, ware willyng, and gaue for the seruice of the house of God, fiue thousand talentes of golde, and ten thousand peces of golde, and ten thousand talentes of siluer, and xviij. thousand talentes of braſſe, and one hundred thousand talentes of yron. And they with whom precious stones ware found, gaue them to the treasure of the house of the Lord, by the hand of Jehiel the Gerſonite. And the people reioyced when they ware so willyng to gyue their goodes, and with a perfect harte they offered vnto the Lorde. And Dauid the kyng reioyced with great gladnesse. And Dauid blessed the lord before al the congregacion, and sayed: Blessed be thou Lord God of Israell, our father, from euer, and for euer. Thine (O Lord) is greatnesse, and power, glory, victory, and praise: for all that is in heauen, and in yearth is thine, and thyne is the kyngdom (O Lord) and thou excellest aboue al, and as the head of all. And richesse, and honour, come of the, and thou reignest ouer all, and in thyne hande is power, and strength, and in thyne hande it is to make great, and to gyue strength vnto all. And now our God, we thanke the, and prayse thy glorious name. But who am I? and what is my people, that we should enforce our selues to gyue these thynges so willyngly? But all thynges come of the, and of that which we receyued at thyne hand, we haue gyuen the.* For we be but straungers before the, and soiourners, as wer al our forefathers. Our dayes on the yearth also, are but as a * shadowe, and there is none abydyng. O lord our God, al this substance that we haue prepared to build the an house for thine holy name, commeth of thine hande, and is al thine. I wote also my God, that thou tryest the hartes, and hast pleasure in vnfainednesse. And in the vnfainednesse of myne hart: I haue willingly offered al these thynges. And now haue I seue thy people (which are found here) to offre vnto the willyngly, and with gladnesse. O Lord God of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israel, our fathers, kepe this for euer, as the beginnyng of the thoughtes of the harte of thy people, & prepare their hartes vnto the. And gyue vnto Salomon my sonne, a perfect harte to kepe thy commaundementes, thy testimonies, and thy statutes, and to do all, and to builde the house, for the whiche I haue made prouision. And Dauid said to al the congregacion: Now blesse the Lorde your God. And all the congregacion blessed the Lord God of their fathers, & bowed downe their heades, and worshipped the Lord, and the kyng. And they offered offerynges vnto the Lord. And on the morow after the said day, they offred burnt offerynges vnto the Lord, euen a thousand young oxen, a thousand rames, and a thousand lambes, with their drynkofferynges. Many sacrifices offred they for al Israel, and did eat, and dranke before the Lorde the same day, with great gladnesse. And they made Salomon, the sonne of Dauid, kyng, the second time, & anoynted hym vnto the Lorde, and Sadoc, to be the hye Priest. * And Salomon sat on the seate of the Lorde, and was kyng in stede of Dauid, his father, and prospered, and al they of Israel obeyed him. And al the Lordes and men of power, and all the sonnes of kyng Dauid submitted them selues: and ware vnder kyng Salomon. * And the Lord magnified Salomon in dignitie, in the sight of all them of Israel, and gaue hym so glorious a kyngdom, as no kyng had before hym in Israell. And so Dauid the sonne of Isay reigned ouer all Israel. And the space that he reigned ouer Israel was. xl. yeare: seuen yeare reigned he in Hebron, & xxxiij. yere reigned he in Jerusalem: and he died in a good age: ful of dayes, riches, and honour. And Salomon his son reigned in his stede. The actes of Dauid the kyng, first, and last: behold, they are written in the booke of Samuel, the sear, and in the booke of Nathan, the Prophete, and in the booke of Gad, the sear, with al his kyngdom & power, & times that went ouer hym, and ouer al Israell, and ouer al kyngdomes of the yearth.

The first Chapiter.

SAlomon, the sonne of Dauid, waxed strong in his kyngdom: and the * Lord his God was with him, and magnified hym in the dignitie. And Salomon spake vnto al Israel, to the captaines ouer thousandes, to the capitaines ouer hundredes, to the iudges, and to euery officer in al Israel, and to the auncient fathers. And so Salomon, and all the congregacion with hym * went to the hye place that was at Gabaon, * for there was the tabernacle of the witnes of God * whiche Moses (the seruaunt of the Lorde) made in the wilderne. But the arke of God * had Dauid brought from Cyriath Jearim, into the place which Dauid had prepared therefore. For he had pitched a tente for it at Jerusalem. Moreouer, the brasen aulter * that Bezaleel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, had made, was there before the tabernacle of the Lord. And Salomō and the congregacion went to visite it. And Salomō gat by there before the Lorde to the brasen aulter that was before the Tabernacle of ij. Reg. iij. c. witnes, & offred a thousand burnt sacrifices vpon it. And the same night did God appeare B. vnto Salomon, & said vnto him: aske what I shal gyue the. And Salomon said vnto God: thou hast shewed greate mercy vnto Dauid Dan. ix a. my father, and * hast made me raigne in his ij. Reg. iii. a stede. * Now therfore, O Lord God, let thy iij. Reg. iii. promise whiche thou madest vnto Dauid my father, be true. For thou hast made me kyng ouer a people whiche is like the dust of the yearth in multitude: wherefore gyue me now wisdom & knowledge, that I may be able to go in, & out before this people: for who is C. worthely I can iudge this people that is so ij. Reg. iii. b great? * And God said to Salomon: because this was in thyne hart, & because thou hast not asked treasure, richesse, and honour, and the liues of thyne enemies, neyther yet long life: but hast asked wisdō & knowledge for thy selfe to iudge my people, ouer whiche I have made the kyng: wisdom & knowlege is graunted vnto the, & I wil gyue the treasure & riches, & glory, so that among the kynges that have bene before the, or after the, none was, or shal be, like the. And so Salomō cam from the hilauntar (that was at Gibeon) to D. Jerusalem, from the tabernacle of witnes, & iij. Reg. x. d. raigned ouer Israel. And Salomon gathered the charets, & horsemen: he had a thousand & four hundred charets: & xij. M. horsemen, whō he bestowed in the charet cities, & with the kyng at Jerusalē. And * the kyng iij. Reg. x. d. made siluer, & golde at Jerusalē, as plenteous, as stones: & cedre trees made he in ple-tie as the mulbery trees, that growe in the valleys. & the horses whiche Salomon had, were brought him out of Egypt by the kynges marchantes that were together, whiche beyng of one cōpany, tooke them out at a price.

They cam also and brought out of Egypte a charet for vi. hundred peces of siluer: and a horse for an hundred & fifty. And so brought they horses frō al the kynges of the Hethi-tes, and frō the kynges of Syria, by theyr owne hand.

The. ij. Chapitter.

a AND Salomon determined to builde an house for the name of the lord, & an house for his kyngdom. And Salomon told out lxx.
M. men to beare burthens, & iiij. score. M. men to hewe stones, in the mountaines, & iij. M. and six hundred to ouersee iij. Reg. v. a. them. * And Salomō sent to Huram, the kyng iij. Reg. v. b. b. of Tyre, sayeng: As thou diddest deale with Dauid my father, * & diddest send him Cedre wood to build him an house to dwel in, euen so deale with me. For I am about to builde an house for the name of the lord my God, to offer vnto hym holy thynges, and to burne swete encense, & to set the shewbrad before him continually: to offre burnt sacrifices for the morninge, & euenyng, on the Sabboth daies, in the first day of euery newe Moone, and in the solempne feastes of the Lorde our God.
For it is an ordinaunce to be continually kept of Israel. And the house which I build shal be great, for great is our god, above al gods.
But who is able to build him an house? when that heauen, and heauen aboue all hea-uens, is not able to receyue hym. What am I then, that I should builde him an house? nay, but euen to burne sacrifice before hym. Shal this buildyng be. Sende me now therefore a conning man, that can worke in gold & siluer, in brasse, and yron, in purple, crymosin & ye-low silke, and that can skil to graue with the conning men that are with me, in Juda, and Jerusalē, whō Dauid my father did prepare.
Send me also Cedre trees, Pine trees & Almage trees, out of Libanon. For I wot that thy seruauntes can skil to hewe timbre in Libanon. And behold, my men shalbe with thine, that they may prepare me timbre enough, for the house which I am determined to builde.
Shalbe wondreful great. And behold, for the vse of thy seruauntes, the cutters, & the he-wers of tymbre, I have gyuen. xx. M. quarters of beaten wheate, & xx. M. quarters of E. barly, xx. M. bates of wine, and xx. M. bates of oyle. And Hyram, kyng of Tyre, aun-swered in writyng which he sent to Salomon: Because the Lord hath loued his people, therfore he hath made the kyng ouer thē.
And Hirā said moreouer, blessed be the lord God of Israel, which made heauen & yearth, and that hath gyuen Dauid, the kyng a wise son, & one that hath discretion, prudence, and vnderstandyng, to build an house for the lord, & a palace for his vse. And now I have sent a wiseman, and a man of vnderstandyng (whō iij. Reg. vij. b. my father Hiram did vse) * the son of a wom of the daughters of Dan, & his father was a man of Tyre, and he can skil to worke in gold, & siluer, in brasse, & yron, in stone, and timbre, in purple, & yelow silke, in fine white and crymosin: and can graue sondry manet of D. grauinges, and find out diuers maner of sub-tile workes that shalbe set before hym, with thy connyng men, and with the connyng men of my lord Dauid, thy father. Now therfore the wheat, and barly, oyle, and wine, whiche my lord hath spoke of, let him sende vnto his seruauntes. And we wil cut wood in Libanō as muche as thou shalt nede, and wil bryage it to the shippes by the Sea, to Japho, from whence thou maist cary them to Jerusalem.
And Salomon nōbred al the straungers that were in the land of Israel, after the numbre of them whom his father Dauid had nōbred.
And they were found an hundred, and lx. thousand and three hundred. And he sette lxx.
M. of them to beare burthens, and lxxx. M. to hewe stones in the mountaines, & xxx thousand, & sixe hundred officers, to set the people a worke.

¶ The. iij. Chapiter.

A. THen Salomon began to build the house of the Lord at Jerusalem in mount Moria* where (the Lord) appiered vnto Dauid his father, euen in the place that Dauid prepared in the threshyng floore of Ornan, the Iebusite. And he began * to builde in the second day, of the second moneth, * the fourth yere of his reigne. And these are the paternes whereby Salomon was enstruct to build the house of God. The length was thre score cubites, after the olde measure, & the breedth xx. cubites. The porche (that was in breedth as large as the temple) had xx. cubites, and the heigth, was an hundred and xx. cubites. And he ouerlaied it on the inner side with pure gold. And the greater house he cieled with firre tree whiche he ouerlaied with the best gold, and graued therto palmetrees, & chaines. And he ouerlayed the house with precious stone, beautifully. And the golde was gold of Paruaim. The house (I say) the beames, postes, walles and doores thereof, ouerlayed he with gold, & made grauen worke vpon the walles. And he made the house moost holy, whose length was twenty cubites, like to the breedth of the house, & the breedth thereof was also xx. cubites. And he ouerlaied it with good gold, euen with vi. hundred talentes. And the weyght of the nayles of golde, was fifty sycles. And he ouerlayed the vpper chābres with gold. And in the house moost holy, he made twoo Cherubins of ymage worke, like children, and ouerlayed the with gold. And the winges of the Cherubins were xx. cubites long. The one wyng was v. cubytes, reachyng to the wal of the house, and the other wynge was likewyse v. cubytes, reachyng to the wyng of the other Cherub. And euen so the one wyng of the other Cherub was v. cubites, reaching to the wal of the house, & the other wing was v. cubites also, and reached to the wyng of the other Cherub. So that the winges of the saied Cherubs, were stretched out xx. cubites, & they stode on their feet, and loked inwardes. And he made a fore hangyng of yelow silke, purple, crymosin, and fine white, and caused the pictures of the Cherubs to be broidred theron. And he made before the house twoo pillers of xxxv. cubites hye. And the head that was aboue on the toppe of euery one of them was v. cubites, and he made chaines of wreathen worke for the quiere, & put them on the heades of the pillers, and made an hundred pomgranates, & put thē on the chaines. And he reared vp the pillers before the temple: one on the right hand, and the other on the left, & called the right, Jachin, & the left Boaz.

¶ The. iij. Chapiter.

A. AND he made an aultar of braste. xx cubites long, and twenty cubites brode, and ten cubites hye.* And he cast a brasen lauatory of ten cubites, frō brym, to brym, round in compasse, and fiue cubites hye: and a lyne of thirty cubites did cōpasse it rounde about. And vnder it was the fassion of oxen, whiche did compasse it rounde about: with ten cubites did they compasse the lauatory round about, and there ware twoo rowes of oxen, which ware cast of like molten worke. And it stode also vpon twelue oxen, thre loked toward the North, thre, towarde the West, thre, toward the South, and thre, toward the East. And the lauatory was set vpon them, & al their backes ware towarde the lauatory. And the thicknesse of it was an handbreede, and the brym, like the brym of a cuppe, with floures of lilies. And it receiued, and helde thre thousand bates. And he made ten lauers, and put fiue on the right hand: and fiue on the left, to washe and cleanse in them such thynges as they offred for a burnt offryng. But the great lauatory was for the Priestes to wash in. And he made ten candlestickes of gold (accordyng to the paterne that was gyuen of them) and put them in the temple fiue, on the right hande, and fiue on the left. And he made also ten tables, and put thē in the temple: fiue on the right side, and fiue on the left. And he made an hūdred basens of golde. And he made the court of the priestes, and the great court, and doores to it, and ouerlaied the doores of them with brasse. And he sette the great lauatory, on the right side of the East ende, ouer against the South. And Hiram made pottes, shouels, and basens, and finished the worke that he was appointed to make for kyng Salomō, in the house of God. The two pillers, the courtynges, or twoo heades on the toppes of the pillers, and two wrethes to couer the twoo scalpes, or heades, that wer on the toppes of the pillers: & iij. hundred pomegranates, on the two wrethes, ij. rowes of pomgranates on one wreth, to couer the two toppes or heades, that wer on the pillers. And he made two botomes: and lauers made he vpon the botomes: the great lauatory, & twelue oxen vnder it. Pottes also shouels, & fleshokes. And al these vessels did Hiram (his father) make to kyng Salomon, for the house of the lord of bryght brasse. In the plaine of Jordā did the kyng cast thē, euen in the clay ground that is betwene Socoth, & Zaredatha. And Salomō made al these vesselles in great aboundāce, for the waighe of brasse could not be reconed. And Salomō made al the vessels that wer for the house of God: the golden aultar also, & the tables to set the bread vpon. Moreouer, the candlestickes, with their lāpes (to burne after the maner before the quire) and that of precious gold: and the louers, and the lampes, & the cuppes made he of gold, & that perfect gold, and the dressyng knyues, basens, spones, and censers of pure gold. And he made the doore of the temple, & the inner doores within the place moost holy, and the inner doores of the temple wer gilded. And so was all the worke that Salomō made for the house of the lord, finished.

¶ The.v. Chapiter.

A. SO all the worke that Salomō made in the house of the Lorde, was finished.
ij. Re.vij.g. And * Salomon brought in all the thynges that Dauid his father had dedicated, with the siluer, and gold, and all the Jewels, & put thē among the treasures of the house of God.
ij. Re. vij.a. Then * Salomon gathered the elders of Israel together, and all the heades of the tribes and auncient fathers of the children of Israel, vnto Jerusalem, to bring the arke of the couenaunt of the Lord, out of the citie of Dauid: which is Sion. Wherefore, al the men of Israel resorted vnto the king in the feast euen in the.vij. moneth. And all the elders of Israel came, & the Leuites toke vp the ark.
And the Priestes, and the Leuites brought away the arke, of the tabernacle of witnesse, and al the holy vesselles that ware in the tabernacle, and they bare them. And king Salomon, and al the congregation of Israel that ware assembled vnto hym, before the ark, of-fred shepe and oxen, so many, that they could B. not be told, nor nombred for multitude. And the Priestes brought the Arke of the appointment of the Lorde vnto his place, euen into the quiere of the temple, within the place moost holy, and sette it vnder the wynges of the Cherubs, that the Cherubs stretched out their wynges ouer the place of the Ark, and the Cherubs couered both the ark, and her barres aboue on hie. And the barres of the arke ware so long, that the heades of the barres were sene without the Ark within the quire, but not without. And there the ark remayned vnto this day. But their was nothing ij. Re. vij.c. in the arke * saue the two tables, which Mo-C. ses put therin at Horeb, when the lord made a couenaunt with the children of Israel, after they wer come out of Egypt. And it for-tuned, that when the Priestes ware come out of the holy place (the sanctuary was filled with smoke) for all the Priestes that ware present, ware sanctified, & did not then wayte by course, that both the Leuites, & the singers vnder Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun wer appointed to sundry offices, with their children & brethren, & wer arayed in fine white, hauyng Cymbales, psalteries, and harpes, & stode at the East end of the aulter, & by them an hundred & twenty priestes blowyng with D. trupettes. And the trupet blowers, & the singers, so agreed, that it semed but one voice in prayeng, & thankyng the Lord. And when they lift vp their voice with the trompettes, cymbales, & other instrumentes of Musike: & when they prayed the Lord, (and said) how that he is good, & that his mercy lasteth euer: the house of God was filled with a cloude, so that the Priestes could not endure to ministre, by the reason of the cloud. For the maiestie of the lorde had filled the house of God.

¶ The.vi. Chapiter.

A. THen Salomon said: The Lord hath spoken, how that he wil dwel in the cloude. ij. Re. viij.b. And I haue buylt an habitation for the, and a place for thy dwelling for euer. And the king turned his face, and blessed the hole cōgregacion of Israel, & all the congregation of Israel stode. And he said, blessed be the Lord God of Israel, which hath with his hādes fulfilled that, that he spake with his mouth to my father Dauid, sayeng: * syns the daye ij. Reg. vij.a. that I brought my people out of the lande of ij. Reg. viij.b Egypt, I chose no citie among al the tribes of Israel to buylde an house in, that my name might be there, neyther chose I any man to be a ruler ouer my people Israell: * sauyng i. Da. vij.d.g that I, haue chosen Jerusalem, that my name xj.d. might be there, and haue chosen Dauid to be B. ouer my people Israel. * And when it was in ij. Reg. viij.a. the harte of Dauid my father, to builde an ij. Re. viij.b. house for the name of the Lorde God of Is- i. Da. xxij.b. rael, the Lord said to Dauid my father: for asmuche as it was in thy harte to buylde an house for my name, thou diddest wel that thou so thoughtest in thy hart. Notwithstādyng, thou shalt not builde the house, but thy sonne, which is procreded out of thy loynes, he shal build an house for my name. The Lord therfore had made good his sayeng that he hath spoken, & I am risen vp in the roume of Da-uid my father, and am set on the seate of Israel, as the Lord promised, and haue buylt an house for the name of the Lord God of Israel. And in it haue I put the arke, wherin is the couenaunt of the lord, that he made with the children of Israel. And the king stode before the aultar of the Lorde, in the presence of al the congregacio of Israel, & stretched out his hādes. For now Salomō had made a brasen pulpit of fiue cubites long, & fiue cu-bites brode, and thre of height, & had set it in the middes of the great court, & vpon it he stode, & kneled down vpon his knees, before al the cōgregacio of Israel, & stretched out C. his handes toward heauen, & said: O Lord iij. Re. viij.c.
God of Israel, there is no God like the, in heauen & yearth, which kepest couenaunt, and shewest mercy vnto thy seruaūtes, that walke before the with al their hartes. Thou which hast kept with thy seruaūt Dauid my father, the thynges that thou promisedest him: thou spakest it with thy mouth, & hast fulfilled it with thy handes, as it is so se this day. And now Lorde God of Israell, kepe with thy seruaunt Dauid my father, the thynges that thou promisedest him,* sayeng: thou shalt in my sight not be without a man, that shall sit vpō the seat of Israel: so that thy children take hede to their waies, to walke in my lawe, as thou hast walked before me. And now Lorde God of Israel, let thy saiyng be true, which thou spakest vnto thy seruaunt Dauid. And will God in very dede dwel with men on erth? Behold,* heauen, and heauen aboue al heauens, do not conteine the: how much lesse the house which I haue builded? Let it be thy pleasure therefore to turne to the prayer of thy seruaunt, and to his supplication (O lord my God) to herke vnto the voice and prayer which the thy seruaunt prayeth before the, and let thine eies be open toward this house day and night, ouer this place wherin thou hast saied, that thou wouldest put thy name, to herken vnto the prayer which thy seruaunt prayeth in this place. herken vnto the prayers of thy seruaunt, and of thy people Israel, which they praie in this place: heare thou (I say) out of thy dwelling place, (euen out of heauen,) heare, and be merciful. *

D. If a man sinne against his neighbour, and take an othe against hym, and make hym to sweare, and they both come before thine aultar in this house: then heare thou from heauen, and worke, and iudge thy seruauntes, that thou rewarde the vngodly, and recompence him his way vpon his head, and iustifie the righteous, and geue hym according to his righteousnesse. And if thy people Israel be putte to the worse before the enemy, because they haue sinned against the, yet if they turne, and geue thankes vnto thy name, and make intercession, and praie before the in this house, then heare thou from heauen, and be merciful vnto the synne of thy people Israel, and bring them again vnto the lande which thou gauest to them, and to their fathers.

E. When heauen is shut vp, & there is no raine, because they haue sinned against the: yet if they praie in this place, and confesse thy name, and repent fro their sinne, for thy whiche thou chastenest them: then heare thou in heauen, & be merciful vnto the sinne of thy seruauntes, and of thy people Israel, & guide thou the in to the good way to walke in, and sende raine vpon thy lande, whiche thou hast geuen vnto thy people, for an inheritaunce. And if there be derth in the land, or pestilence, corruption, or blasting of corne, grashoppers, or caterpillers, or that their enemies beliege them, in the Cities of their lande: and destroy the countreys: what sore, what plage or sickenesse it be: Then what soeuer supplications and prayers shall be made of any man, & of all thy people Israel, which shall know euery man his owne sore, and his owne grefe, and shal stretche out their handes, towarde this house, thou shalt heare from heauen, euen from thy dwelling place, and shalt be merciful, and geue euery man according vnto al his waies, cuius thou doest knowe euery mannes harte: for thou onely knowest the hartes of the children of men: that they may feare the, & walke in thy wayes, as longe as they liue in the land which thou gauest vnto their fathers. F. Moreouer the straunger which is not of thy people Israel, if he come fro a farre land, for thy great names sake, & thy mighty hand, & thy stretched out arme. If they come (I say) and praie in this house: thou shalt heare from heauen, euen from thy dwelling place, & shalt do according to all that the straunger calleth to the for: that al people of the earth may know thy name, and feare the, as doeth thy people Israel, and that they may knowe, how that in this house which I haue built, thy name is called vpon. If thy people go out to warre against their enemies, by the way that thou shalt send them, and they praie to the, in the way * towarde this citie, whiche thou hast chosen, euen toward the house which I haue built for thy name: then heare thou from heauen their supplication and prayer, and helpe them in their right. G. If they synne against the (as * there is no man but he doth synne,) and thou be angry with them, and deliuer them ouer before their enemies, and they take them, & lede them away, vnto a land farre, or nere, yet if they repent in their harte, in the lande where they be in captiuite, and turne, & praie vnto the in the lande of their captiuite, saieng: We haue sinned, we haue done euill and wickedly, and turne again to the with al their harte, and al their soule (in the lande of their captiuite, where they kepe them in bondage) and so pray towarde their lande which the thou gauest vnto their fathers, euen towarde the citie which thou hast chosen, and toward the house which I haue buylt for thy name: then heare thou from heauen, euen from thy dwelling place, their supplication, & their prayer, and iudge their cause, and be merciful vnto thy people which haue sinned against the. Now my God, let thine eyes be open, and thine eares attent vnto the prayer that is made in this place. Nowe vp * O Lorde God in to thy resting place, thou, and the arke of thy strength. O Lorde God, let thy priestes be clothed with health: and let thy sainctes reioyce in goodnes. O Lorde God turne not away the face of thine anoynted. Remembre the mercies whiche thou hast promised to Dauid thy seruaunt.

with the glory of the Lord, and the Priestes could not go into the house of the Lord, because the glory of the Lorde had filled the Lordes house. And when all the children of Israel sawe howe the fire, and the glory of the Lord came down vpon the house, they fel down flat vpon their faces to the yearth, vpon the pauement, and worshipped, and confessed vnto the Lorde, that he is gracious, and that his mercy lasteth euer. And the kyng and all the people offered sacrifices before the Lorde. And kyng Salomon offered a sacrifice of xxij. thousand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheepe. And so the kyng & all the people dedicated the house of God.
And the priestes waited on their offices, and the Leuites had the instrumentes of Musike of the Lord, which kyng Dauid had made to confesse vnto the Lorde, that his mercy lasteth euer: playeng a Psalme of Dauid with their handes. And the Priestes blewe with trumpettes before them: and all they of Israel stode. Moreouer, Salomo halowed the middle of the courte that was before the Lord, for there he offered burntofferynges, and the fat of the peace offerynges, because the brasen aulter which Salomon had made, was not able to receiue the burntofferynges, and the meatofferynges, and the fat. So at the same time Salomon kept a * feast of seuen dayes, and all they of Israel with him, an exceadyng great congregation, euen from the entryng in of Hamath vnto the ryuer of Egypt. And in the eyght daye they made a gatheryng: For they kept the dedicacion of the aultar seuen dayes, and the feast seuen dayes. And the xxiiij. day of the seuenth mometh, he let the people depart into their teates, glad, and merry in harte, for the goodnesse that the Lorde had shewed to Dauid, and to Salomon, and to Israel his people. * And Salomon finished the house of the Lord, and the kynges house. & al that came in his harte to make in the house of the Lord, & his owne house, went prosperously forward. And the Lord appeared to Salomon by nyght, & said to him: I haue hearde thy petition, * & haue chosen this place for my self, to be an house of sacrifice. Yf I shut vp heauen that there be no raine, or yf I commaunde the locustes to deuoure the land, or yf I sende pestilence among my people, and if then they that are of my people, among whom my name is called vpo, do humble themselues, and make intercession, and seke my presence, and turne from their wicked waies: then wil I heare from heauen, and be mercyful to their synne, & wil heale their lande. And from henceforth mine eyes shal be open and mine eares attent vnto the prayer that is made in this place. And nowe now * I haue chosen and sanctified this house, that my name may be there for e-uer: and mine eyes and mine harte shalbe there perpetually. And yf thou wilt walke before me, as Dauid thy father walked, to do all that I haue commaunded the, and wilt ob-serue my statutes, and my lawes, then will I stablishe the seate of thy kyngdom, accordyng as I made the couenaunt with Dauid thy father sayeng: * thou shalt not be without a man to be ruler in Israel. But & yf ye turne away, and forsake my statutes, and comman-dementes which I haue set before you, and shal go and serue other goddes, and worship them: then will I plucke them vp by the roo-tes, out of my lande which I haue geuen the,
and this house which I haue sanctified for my name wil I cast out of my sight, and will make it to be a prouerbe, and a iest, among al nacions. And euery one that passeth by, shal be astonied at this house, which shalbe hye to the moost hie God, and shal say: * why hath the Lord delt on this sorte with this lande, and with this house? And they shal answere, because they forsoke the Lord God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypte, and caught holde on other god-des, and worshipped them, and serued them: euen therefore hath he brought all this euil vpon them.

when Salomō had built the house of the Lorde, and his owne house: he built the cities that Hiram gaue him, and putte of the children of Israell in them. And Salomon went to Hamath Zoba, and strengthened it. And he built Thadmor in the wildernesse, and repaired al the store cities which ware in Hamath. And he built Bethhoron the vpper, and Bethhoron the nether, strong cities, hauyng walles, gates, and barres. And Baalah, & al the store cities that Salomon had, and al the charet cities, and the cities of the horsemen, thrōout al the lande of his dominion. And all the people that were left of the Hethites, ware left after them in the lande, and ware lomon make no bondmen for his worke: but they ware men of warre, & rulers, and great Lordes with him, and Captaines ouer his charettes & horsemen. And kyng Salomons officers that ouerlawe, and rule the people, ware two hundred and fifty. And Salomon not dwel in the house of Dauid kyng of Israel, for it is holy: because the Arke of the Lorde is come vnto it. Then Salomon offered burnt offrynges vnto the Lorde, on the aultar of the lorde, which he had built before the porche, doyng euery thyng in his due time, & offrynge accordyng to the commaundement of Moses, in the Sabbothes, newe Moones, and solempne feestes, * thre times in the yere, that is to say: in the feast of swet bread, in the feast of weakes, and in the feast of tabernacles. And Salomon set the porters of quiers to their offices, as Dauid his father had ordered them, & the Leuites in their watches, for to praise & minister before the priestes, day, by day, & the porters by course at euery gate. * For so had Dauid, the man of God, commaunded. And they omitted not the cõmaundement of the kyng vnto the priestes, and the Leuites, concernyng any maner of thyng, and concernyng the treasures. For Salomon made prouision for the charges, from the first day that the foundacion of the house of the Lord was laid, til it was finished, that the house of the Lord was perfite. Then went kyng Salomon to Esion Gaber, & to Eloth at the (red) sea side, in the lande of Edom. And Hiram sent him by the handes of his seruauntes, shippes, & seruauntes that had knowledge of the sea: & they came with the seruauntes of Salomon to Ophir, and caried thence four hundred and fifty talentes of golde, and brought it to kyng Salomon.

C. The .ix. Chapitter.

AND * when the Quene of Saba heard of the fame of Salomon, she cam to proue him in harde questions, at Jerusalem, with a very great company, with Camels that bare spices, and plenty of golde, and precious stones. And when she was come to Salomon, she communed with hym of al that she had in her hert. And Salomon solued her all her questions, and there was not one worde hid frõ Salomon, which he tolde her not. And when the Quene of Saba had sene the wysedom of Salomon, and the house that he had built, and the meat of his table, the sittyng of his seruauntes, and the standyng of his waiters, their apparel, his butlers, their apparel, & his goyng vp, by the which he went into the house of the Lord, there was nomore spirite in her. And she said vnto the kyng: the tareng which I heard in myne owne land, of thy actes, and of thy wysedom, is true. I beleued not the woordes of them, vntil I came, and mine eyes had sene it. And beholde, the one halfe of thy wisedome was not tolde me; for thou excellest the fame that I heard. Happy are thy men, and happy are these thy seruauntes which stande before the alway, and heare thy wisedome. Blessed be the Lord thy God, which he had lust to the, to set the kyng on his seate, that thou mightest be kyng, ordeyned by the Lorde thy God. Because thy God loueth Israel, and hath delite to make the continue euer: therfore made he the kyng ouer them, to doo right, and equitie. And he gaue the kyng an hundred, and twenty talentes of gold, & of spyces exceadyng great aboundaunce, and precious stones, neyther was there any more such spice, as the quiene of Saba gaue kyng Salomon. And the seruauntes of Hira, & the seruauntes of Salomõ, which brought gold frõ Ophir, brought also al gume wood, and precious stones. And the kyng made of the algume wood terres in the house of the Lord, & in the kynges palace, & harpes, & psalteries for singers. And there was no suche wood sene before in the land of Juda. And kyng Salomon gaue to the Quene of Saba, euery pleasaunt thyng that she asked, but not so much, as she brought vnto the king. And so she turned, and went away to her owne lande with her seruauntes.

The weyght of golde that came to Salomon in one yeare, was six hundred .lvi. talentes of gold, besides that which chapmen, and marchauntes brought: and al the kinges of Arabia, & rulers of that countre, brought gold, and siluer to Salomon. And kyng Salomon made two hundred bucklers of beaten golde, and six hundred sicles of beaten gold ware spent vpon one buckler, and three hundred shyldes made he of beaten gold, and one shylde cost three hundred peces of golde, and the kyng put them in the house that was in the forest of Libanon. And the kyng made a great seate of Iuory, and ouerlaide it with pure golde. And there ware six steppes to the seat, with a foteston of golde fastened to the seat, and pommils on eche side of the sittyng place, and two lyons standyng by the pommilles. And .xii. lyons stode on the one side, and on the other, vpon the six steppes so that there was no suche worke made in any kyngdom. And all the drynkyng vessell of kyng Salomon ware of golde, and all the vesselles of the house that was in the forest of Libanon, ware of precious golde: for siluer was counted nothing worth in the dayes of Salomon. For the kynges shippes went to Tharsis, with the seruauntes of Hiram: euery three yeare ones came the shippes fro Tharsis, and brought gold, siluer, Iuory, and apes, and peacockes. * And kyng Salomon passed all the kynges of the yearth in richesse, and wisdom. And all the kynges of the yearth sought the presence of Salomon, to heare his wisdom that God had put in his hart. And they brought euery man his present, vessells of siluer, & vessels of golde, rayment, harneys, spices, horses, & mules, & what soeuer might be gotte yere by yere. And Salomon had four thousand stalle of horses, and charettes, and twelue thousand horsemen whom he bestowed in the charett cities, and some ware with the kyng at Jerusalem. And he reigned ouer al the kynges that ware frō Euphrates, vnto the land of the Philistines, and to the borders of Egypt. * And the king made siluer in Jerusalem, as plenteous as stones. And Cedar trees, as plenteous as the mulberry trees that growe in the valleies. And they brought vnto Salomon horses out of Egypte, and out of al landes. The reast of the actes of kyng Salomon first, and last, are they not written in the storyages of Nathan the Prophete, and in the prophecie of Ahiah the Silonite, & in the visions of Jdo, the seer of visions against Jeroboam, the sonne of Nabat? And Salomon reigned in Jerusalem vpon al Jsrael, fourty yeres. And Salomon slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the citie of Dauid his father: and Rehoboā his sonne reigned in his stede.

Rehoboā & the lordes of Juda, that ware gathered together within Jerusalem for Se-ye haue left me, and therfore haue I also left you in the handes of Sesac. Whereupon the lordes of Israel, and the kyng humbled them that kept the entraunce of the kynges houmade against the kingdome of the lord, which is in the handes of the sonnes of Dauid, & ye be a great multitude, and haue the golden calues* which Jeroboam made you for goddes.

ii. reg. xii. c. i. Par. xi. c.

And haue ye not cast out the priestes of the Lorde, the sonnes of Aaro, and the Leuites, and haue made you priestes after the maner of the nations of other landes? so that whosoeuer cometh and consecrateth hys hande with a yong oxe and seuen rammes, the same may be a priest of them that are no goddes. But we

C. belong vnto the lord our God, whom we haue not forsaken, and the priestes are the sonnes of Aaron, which minister vnto the lord, and the Leuites waye vpō their office. They burne vnto the Lord euery morning, and euening, burnt sacrifices and swete incense, the shewe bread set they in order vpon a pure table, & prepare the candelstycke of golde, with the lampes of the same to burne euer at euen. And truely we kepe the watche of the Lorde our God: but ye haue forsaken hym. And behold, God hym selfe, is our capitayn, and his

Leuit. x. a. priestes blowe with the* trompettes, & crye alarme against you. O ye chyldre of Israel, fyght not against the Lord God of your fathers, for it will not prosper with you. But for all that, Jeroboam conueyed men preuely about, to come behynde them: and so they were before Juda, and the tyers in wayte were behynde them. And when they of Juda loked about, behold, the battayle was before, and behynde, and they cryed vnto the Lord, and the priestes blewe with the trompettes, and the men of Juda gaue a showte. And as the men of Juda showted, it came to passe, that god smote Jeroboam, and Israel, before Abia & Juda. And the chyldren of Israel fled before Juda, and God delyuered them into their hande. And Abia and his people, slue a great slaughter of them. There fell downe wounded of Israel. v. C. M. chosen men. And so the chyldren of Israell, were brought vnder at that tyme, and the chyldren of Juda preuayled: because they leaned vnto the Lord God of their fathers. And Abia followed after Jeroboam, & tooke cities from hym: Bethel, with the townes belonging thereto, Jesana with the townes that longed thereto, & Ephron with her townes. And Jeroboa recouered no strength a gayne in the daies of Abia. And the Lord plagued hym, and he died. But Abia waxed mighty, and maried. xiiii. wyues, and begat. xxii. sonnes, & xvi. doughters. The rest of the actes of Abia, his customes and his sayenges, are writte in the story of the prophet Jdo.

¶. The. xiiii. Chapiter.

Matth. i. b. A. SO Abia slept with his fathers, and they buried hym in the citie of Dauid, & Asa his sonne reygned in his steade. In whose dayes, the land was in quietnesse ten yeare.

iii. reg. xv. a. And Asa dyd that was good, and right in the eyes of the Lorde his God. For he toke away straunge aultares, and the hyllaultars, and brake downe the ymages, and cut downe the groues, and commaunded Juda to seke the Lorde God of their fathers, and to do according to the lawe and cōmaundement. And he put away out of all cities of Juda, the hilaultars, and the ymages. And the kyngdom was quiet before him. And he built cities in Juda: because the lande was in rest, and he had no warre in those yeares.

For the Lorde had geuen hym rest. Therefore he sayde to Juda, let vs buylde these cities, and make about them walles, towres, gates, and barres: for the land is yet in rest before vs, because we haue sought the Lorde our God. We haue sought hym, and he hath geuen vs rest on euery syde. And so they buylt and it prospered with them. And Asa had an army of men that bare wyldes, & speares out of Juda, three hundred thousand. And out of Ben Jamin that bare wyldes, and drue bowes, two hundred & fourte score thousand, all these were valiaunt men. And there came C. out against them Zarah, the blacke Moryan, * with an hoaste of ten hundred thousand, and ii. par. xvi. c. three hundred charettes, and came as farre as Maresa. And Asa went out before hym, and they ioyned the battayle in the valley of Sephata, beside Maresa. And Asa cried vnto the Lorde hys God, and sayde Lorde, * it is i. Me. xiiii. d. no harde thyng with the to helpe either many, or them that haue no power: helpe vs (o our God) for we trust to the, and in thy name we go against this multitude. Thou art the Lorde our God, and no man shall preuayle against the. So the Lorde smote the blacke mores before Asa, and Juda, and the blacke Mores fled. And Asa, and the people that was with hym, followed after them vnto Gerer. And the blacke mores host D. was ouerthrowen, that there was none of them left, but were destroyed before the lord, and before his hoast. And they caried awaye a mightie great praye. And they smote all the cities round about Gerer. For the feare of the Lorde came vpon them. And they spoyled all the cities, and there was exceadyng much spoyle in them. They smote also the tentes of cattell, and caried awaye plenty of sheepe and camels, and returned to Jerusalem.

¶. The. xv. Chapiter.

A. AND the spirite of God came vpon Azaria the sonne of Obed. And he went out to mete Asa, and sayde vnto hym: heare me Asa, and all Juda, and Ben Jamin. The lord is with you, whyle ye be with him, and when ye seke hym, he will be found of you, and if ye forsake hym, he also will forsake you. And truely for a long season in Israel no man sought the true God, no man regarded the priest that taught them, no man put away the abhominable ydols, out of all the lande of Juda, and Ben Jamin, and out of the cities which he wanne in mout Ephraim, and renued the Aultar of the Lord, that was before the porche of the Lorde. And he gathered all Juda, and Ben Jamin, & the ſtraun-gers with them out of Ephraim. Manaſſe and Simeon. For there fell many to hym out of Iſrael, when they ſawe that the Lord hys God was with hym. So they aſſembled at Ieruſalem the thyrde moneth, the fyftenth yeare of the reygne of Aſa. And they offered vnto the Lorde the ſame tyme of the ſpoyle which they had brought ſeuen hundred oxē, God of Iſrael, ſhould die for it: whether he ware ſmall or great, man or woman. And they ſware vnto the Lord with a loud voyce, shou-tyng and blowyng with trompettes, & cham-othe, for they had ſworne vnto the Lorde with all theyr harte, and ſought hym with all it, and burnt it at the broke Cedron. But all the hyllaultars ware not taken awaye out of Iſrael: though the harte of Aſa was perfyt all hys dayes. And he brought into the houſe of God the thynges that hys father had dedicate, and that he hym ſelfe had dedicate: ſeuē ſyluer, and golde, and Jewelles. And there of Aſa came* Baaſa kyng of Iſrael, vp iii.Re.xv.c. againſt Juda, and buylt Rama to the entent that he would let none paſſe out or in ſafely to Aſa, kyng of Juda. And Aſa ſet out gold and ſyluer, out of the treaſures of the houſe of the Lorde, and of the kynges houſe, and ſent to Benhadad, kyng of Syria, that dwelt at Darmeſek, and ſayde: There is a breake thyne appoyntment with Baaſa kyng Benhadad, graunted vnto kyng Aſa, and ſent to the capitaynes of his army, to the cyties of Iſrael. And they ſmote Jion, Dan, and A-belmaim, and the ſtrong cyties of Nephthaly. And when Baaſa hearde thys, he left buylthen Aſa the kyng toke all Juda, and caryed away the ſtones and tymber of Rama, wherewith Baaſa was a buyldyng, and he buylt therewith Geba, and Mizpa. /At that ſame C. tyme, Hanani the ſear, came to Aſa kyng of Juda, and ſayde vnto hym: becauſe thou haſt

Aſa deſtroyed certayne of the people the ſame hys fete, and that dyſeaſe contynued very lōg.

And* in hys ſyckeneſſe, he ſought not the Ec. xxxviii.a Lorde, but phyſycions. And Aſa ſlept with hys fathers, and dyed in the fourty and one yeare of his reygne. And they buried hym in his owne ſepulchre, whiche he had made for hym ſelfe in the Cytie of Dauid, and layde hym in the bed whiche he had fylled with diuerſe kyndes of ſpyces, and ſwete odoures, made by the craft of the potecaries. And they burnt very muche ſpyces about hym.

AND* Iehoſaphat his ſonne, raygned in A. his ſtede, and preuayled againſt Iſrael. Mach.i.b.
And he put ſouldyours in all the ſtrong cy-ties of Juda, and ſet Rulers in the lande of Juda, and in the Cities of Ephraim, whiche Aſa his father had wonne. And the Lorde was with Iehoſaphat, becauſe he walked in the old waies of his father Dauid, & ſought not Baalim. But ſought the lord God of his father, and walked in his commaundementes, and not after the dedages of Iſrael. And the Lorde ſtablyſhed the kyngdome in his hand, and all they that were in Juda, brought hym presentes, so that he had aboundaunce of rychesse and honoure. And he lyft vp his part vnto the wayes of the Lord, and he put downe yet more of the hyghaultares and groues, out of Juda. In the third yeare of hys reygne, he sent to his lordes, euen to Benhail, Obadia, Zacharia, Nethanel, and to Michaihu, that they should teache in the cyties of Juda, and with theim ye sent Leuites: euen Semeiahu, Nethaniahu, Zabadiahu, Asahel, Semiramoth, Jehonathan, Adoniahu, Tobiahu, and Tobadonia, and with thē Elisamah, and Je horam prieftes. And they taught in Juda, and had the boke of the lawe of God with them, and went about thorowout all the cyties of Juda, and taught the people. And the feare of the Lord, fell vpon all the kyngdomes of the landes that were round about Juda, and they fought not agaynst Jehosaphat, and some of the Philistines brought Jehosaphat gyftes, and trybute syluer. And thereto the Arabians brought hym cattell, euen seuen thousand, and seuē hundreth, rambes, and seuē. M. and seuen hundreth he goates. And so Jehosaphat prospered, and grew vp on hye. And he buylt in Juda, castels, and strong cyties, and he had great substaunce in the cyties of Juda, but the men of armes, and strongest sou dyers, were in Jerusalem. And these are the offices of thē in the houses of their fathers, the capitaines ouer thousandes in Juda. Adna, the capitayne, and with hym of fyghtyng men, three hundred. M. And next to his hande was Jehohanan, a capitayne, and with hym two. C. and lxxx. M. And next him was Ama sia, the sonne of Zichri, whiche of his owne good wyll, offered hym selfe vnto the Lorde, and with hym two hundred. M. myghtye men of warre. And of the chyldren of Ben Jamin, Eliada, a mā of myght, and he had with hym armed men, with bowe and shylde, two hun-dreth thousande. And next hym was Jehosabad, and with hym an hundreth e fourē score thousand, that were prepared for the warre.

These wayted on the kyng, beyde thē which the kyng put in the stroge cyties, thor-oweout al Juda.

The. xvij. Chapitre.

Jehosaphat had aboundaunce of ryches, and honoure, and ioyned affini-te with Ahab. And* after certayne yeares he went downe to Ahab, to Samaria. And Ahab slue many shepe, and oxen, for him, and for the people that he had with hym, and entreated hym to go vp with him vnto Ramoth in Gilead. And Ahab kyng of Israell, sayde to Je-hosaphat kyng of Juda: wylt thou go with me to Ramoth in Gilead? And he answered hym. I wylbe as thou, and my people shalbe as thyne, e we wil go with thee to the warre.
And Jehosaphat sayde vnto the kyng of Is-rahell: aske counsayll, I praye the, at the worde of the Lorde, this same daye. Therefore the kyng of Israell gathered together of prophetes foure hundred men, e sayd vnto them, shall we go to Ramoth in Gilead, to fyght, or should I cesse? And they sayde: go vp, and God shall deliuer it into the kynges hande. But Jehosaphat sayd: is there yet here neuer a prophet more of the Lordes, that we myght aske of hym? And the kyng of Israell said vnto Jehosaphat: there is yet one mā, by whom we may aske the Lord. But I hate him for he neuer prophecieth me good, but alway euell, e the same is Michea, the sonne of Jim la, and Jehosaphat said: let not the kyng saye so. And the kyng of Israel called one of hys chamberlaynes, and sayd, fetche hether quickely Michea, the son of Jimla. And the king of Israell, and Jehosaphat kyng of Juda, sate either of them on his seate in their appa rell, in a threshyng flore, beside the gate of Samaria, and al the prophetes prophecied before thē. And one Zedekia, the son of Chanaana, had made hym hornes of yron, and said: thus sayeth the Lorde, with these shalt thou ouerthrowe Syria, vntyll they be brought to nought. And all the prophetes prophecied euen so, saying: Go vp to Ramoth in Gilead, and it shall prospere with the, for the Lorde shall delyuer it into the hand of the kyng. And the messenger that went to cal Michea, spake to hym, saying: behold, the wordes of the pro phetes speake good to the kyng, with one ac sent, let thy wordes therefore be lyke one of theirs, that thou speake that whiche is pleasaunt. And Michea sayde: as truely as the Lorde lyueth, euen what my God sayeth that wyll I speake. And when he was come to the kyng, the kyng sayde vnto hym: Michea, shal we go to Ramoth in Gilead to fyght, or leaue of? And he sayd: go vp, and al shal be wel, and they shalbe deliuered into your hande.
And the kyng sayd vnto hym: So, and so ma ny tymes, do I charge the, that thou saye nothyng but the truthe to me, in the name of the lorde. Then he sayd: I dyd se all them of Israel scatered in the mountaynes, as shepe that haue no shepeherde. And the lorde sayde: these haue no master, let them returne, euery man therfore to his house in peace. And the kyng of Israell sayde to Jehosaphat: dyd I not tel the, that he would not prophecie good vnto me, but euel? But he sayd agayn, therfore heare ye the worde of the Lord.* I saw the Lorde sytte vpon his seate, e all the cōpany of heauen, stode on his ryght hand, e on his left. And the lord sayd: who shal deceiue Ahab kyng of Israel, that he may go vp, e be ouer throwen at Ramoth in Gilead? And he sayd: one sayeth this, another that. And there came out a spirite e stode before the lord, e sayd: I wil deceiue hym. And the lord sayd vnto him: wherein? And he sayd: I wil go out and lyenge spirite in the mouth of al his prophets And the lorde sayd thou shalt deceyue hym, & shalt preuaile, go out, and do euen so. And now therefore behold, * the lord hath put a lyenge spirite in the mouthes of al these thi prophetes, and the lord hath spoke euel against the. And Zedekia the son of Chanana, went to, & smote Michea vpon the cheke, and sayd: by what waye went the spirite of the lorde from me, to speake with the? And Michea sayde: thou shalt see the daye, when thou shalt go from chambre, to chambre, for to hyde the selfe. And the kyng of Israel said: take ye Michea and bryng hym to Amon, the gouerner of the citie, and to Joas the kynges sonne, & ye shal saye, thus saieth the kyng, put this felow in the prysone house, and fede hym with bread of affliction, and water of trouble vntill I come agayne in peace. And Michea sayde: if thou come agayne in peace, then hath not the lord spoken to me. And he sayde, herken to, ye people, euery one of you. And so the kyng of Israel, and Jehosaphat, the kyng of Juda, wēt vp to Ramoth in Galead. And the king of Israel sayd vnto Jehosaphat: I muste chaunge me, whē I go to the battayle: but se that thou haue thyne owne apparell vpon the. And the kyng of Israell chaunged hymselfe, and they came to battayle. But the kyng of Syria had commaunded the capitaines of the charettes that ware with him, saiyng: see that ye fight not agaynst small, or great, saue agaynst the kyng of Israell onely. And when the capitaynes of the charettes sawe Jehosaphat, they sayde: it is the kyng of Israell, and therfore they compassed about hym to fyght. But Jehosaphat cried out, and the Lorde helped hym, and God chased them away from hym. For it came to passe, that when the capitaynes of the charettes perceyued that it was not the kyng of Israell, they turned backe agayne from hym. And a certayn man drewe a bowe with al his myght, and smote the kyng of Israel betwene the ioynts of his habergeon. And he sayde to his charetman: turne thyne hande, that thou maiest carie me out of the hoast, for I am wounded. And the battayle ceased that daye. Howbeit, the kyng of Israel caused his charet to stande styll against the Syrians vntyll euen. And about the tyme of the soune going downe, he dyed.

The. xix. Chapiter.

AND Jehosaphat, the kyng of Juda, came home agayne in peace to Jerusalem. And Jehu, the soune of Hanani, the seer, went out to mete hym, and sayde to kyng Jehosaphat: Wouldest thou helpe the vngodly, and loue them that hate the Lorde? Therefore is wrath come vpon the from before the Lorde. Neuertheles, there are some good workes found in the, in that thou hast hewen downe the groues out of the lande, and hast prepared thyne hart to seke God. And to Jehosaphat dwelt at Jerusalem: and turned, and went out to the people from Beersheba, to mount Ephraim, & brought them agayne vnto the Lord God of their fathers. And he set Judges in the land throughout al the stronge cities of Juda, citie by citie, & said to the Judges: take hede what ye do, for ye execute not the iudgementes of man, but of God, which is with you in the iudgement. Wherefore now, let the feare of the Lord be vpon you, and take hede, and be doing the thyng that pleaseth hym, for there is no vnrighteousnesse with the Lorde our God, * that he wold haue any respect of persones, or take rewardes. Moreouer in Jerusalē did Jehosaphat set of the Leuites, & of the preistes, and of the auncient fathers ouer Israel in the iudgement, and cause, of the Lord. And they returned again to Jerusalē. And he charged them saiyng: Thus shal ye do in the feare of the Lorde, with the truthe, and a pure hart what cause so euer come to you, of your brethrē that dwel in their cities, betwene bloud and bloud, betwene lawe and commaundement betwene statutes & ordinances, ye shal warne them that they trespare not against the lord, and so wrath come vpon you, & on your brethren. Thus do & ye shall not offende. And behold, Amatia the hie preist, is amōg you in al matters of the lord, & Zebadia, the sonne of Ismaela ruler of the house of Juda, he is ouer suche businesses as concerne the kyng: there be officers of the Leuites also before you. Take courage to you therfore, & be doyng manfully: and the lord shalbe with suche as be good.

The. xx. Chapiter.

AFter this also, it fortuned that the chyldren of Moab, & the children of Ammon, & with them, other of the Ammonites, came against Jehosaphat to battail. And there came one that told Jehosaphat saiyng: there cometh a great multitude against the, frō the other syde of the sea, & out of Syria. And behold, they be in Hasason Thamar, which is engadi. And Jehosaphat feared: & set himselfe to seke the lord, & proclaimed fasting throughout al Juda. And they that ware in Juda gathered themselues together to aske counsail of the lord. And they came out of al the cities of Juda, to make intercessiō to the lord. And Jehosaphat stode betwene the cōgregatiō of Juda, & Jerusalē in the house of the lord, before the new court, & sayd: O lord God of our fathers, art not thou God in heauen, & reygnest not thou on al the kingdomes of the heathen? And in thyne hand is power and myght, and there is no man that is able to withstande the. Art not thou our God, which diddest cast out the inhabiters of this lande before thy people Israel, and gauest it to the seede of Abraham, thy louer, for euer? And all Iuda ſtode before the lorde with their yonge ones, their wyues, and their children, & there was Iehaziel the ſon of Zacharia, the ſonne of Banaia, the ſonne of Jeiiel, the ſonne of Mathania, a Leuite of the ſonnes of Aſaph, and vpon hym came the ſpirite of the Lord, euen in the middes of the D. congregacion. And he ſayd: herken al Iuda, and ye enhabiters of Ieruſalem, & thou kyng Iehoſaphat. Thus ſayth the lord vnto you: be not afrayd, nor ſayat ſtarted, by reaſon of this great multitude, for the battayle is not yours, but Goddes. Ye ſhall not nede to fyghte in this battayle: but ſtep forth: and ſtand, behold, the helpe of the lord which is with you: feare not, nor let youre hartes fayle you, O ye of Iuda, and of Ieruſalem.
To morowe go out againſt them, for the lord wylbe with you. And Iehoſaphat bowed his face to the yearth and all Iuda, and the enhabiters of Ieruſalem, fell before the Lord, worſhyppyng the Lorde. And the Leuites of the children of the Cahathites, & of the children of the Corathytes, rode vp, to prayſe the Lorde God of Iſrael: with a loude noyce on hye. And when they aroſe early in the mourning, they gat them out into the wyldernette of Thekoa. And as they went out, Iehoſaphat rode and ſayde: heare me, O Iuda, and ye enhabiters of Ieruſalem. Put your truſt in the Lorde your God, that ye may be found ſtedfaſt. Geue credence to his prophetes, and ſo ſhall ye proſpere. And he gaue the people counſell, and ſet ſome to ſyng vnto the Lorde, and to prayſe hym in the beutye of holynes, and to go out before the armie, as they went, and to ſaye: prayſe the Lorde for his mercie laſteth euer. And at what tyme they began to ſynge and prayſe, then the Lord ſtered vp ſtrengthe of the children of Ammon, and Moab, which lorde wayte for the that ware of mount Seir: which ware come againſt Iuda. And thei were ouerthrowen with ſtrehes among them ſelues. For the children of Ammon, and Moab, role againſt the enhabyters of mount Seir, and thei ſleme, & deſtroyed them: And when they had made an ende of the enhabyters of Seir, euerye one helped to deſtroye an other among them ſelues. And

F. when Iuda came to the edge of the wyldernelle, they loked vnto the multytude. And behold, they ware dead carcaſſes fallen to the yearth, and none eſcaped. And when Iehoſaphat, and hys people came to take awaye the ſpoyle of them: they found among them aboundance of goodes, rayment, and pleaſaunt Jewels, which they tooke for the ſelues, more then they could carye away: ſo that they ware thre dayes in gatherynge of the ſpoyle, it was ſo muche. And the fourth daye they aſſembled in the valley of bleſſyng, for there they bleſſed the Lorde. And therfore they called the name of the ſame place, the valley of bleſſyng vnto this daye. And ſo all the men of Iuda, and Ieruſalem returned with Iehoſaphat their head, for to go againe to Ieruſalem with gladneſſe, for the Lorde had made them to reioyce ouer their enemies. And they came to Ieruſalem with pſalteries, and harpes and trawmes, euen vnto the houſe of the lord. And the feare of God fell in the kyngdomes of all landes, when they hadde heard that the Lord fought againſt the enemies of Iſrael.
And ſo the realme of Iehoſaphat was in tranquillitie, and hys God gaue hym reſt on euery ſyde. And * Iehoſaphat reygned vpon Iuda, and was. xxxv. yeare olde when he began to reygne and reygned, xxv. yeare in Ieruſalem, and hys mothers name was Azuba, the doughter of Silhi. And he walked in the wayes of Aſa hys father, and bowed not there from, doyng that whiche was ryght in the ſyght of the Lorde. Howebeit the hyelaultares ware not taken awaye, for the people had not yet prepared there hartes vnto the God of their fathers. After this did Iehoſaphat, kyng of Iuda, ioyne hym ſelfe with Ahaziahu, kyng of Iſrael, whoſe minde was to do wickedly. He coupled hym ſelfe with hym, to make ſhippes to go to Tharſis. And they made the ſhippes in Eſion Gaber. And Eliezer, the ſonne of Dodenah of Mareſa, prophecied againſt Iehoſaphat, ſaying: becauſe thou haſt ioyned thy ſelfe with Ahaziahu, the Lorde hath broken thy workes. And the ſhippes were broken, that they ware not able to go to Tharſis.

And Jehoram went forth with his lordes, & all hys charettes were with hym: and he rose vp by nyght and smote the Edomites, which copased hym in, & the capitaynes of the charets. But Edom rebelled till, so that they would not be vnder the hand of Juda vnto this day. That same tyme also dyd Libna departe from being vnder his hand, because Jehoram had forsaken the lord God of his fathers. Moreouer he made hyghplaces in the cities of Juda and caused the inhabiters of Jerusalem to commyt fornicatiō, & prouoked Juda to Idolatrie. And there came a writyng to hym from Elia the prophet, saying, Thus sayd the lord God of Dauid thy father, because thou hast not walked in the waies of Jehosaphat thy father, & in the waies of Asa, kyng of Juda, but walkedest in the waies of the kynges of Israel, and hast made Juda, & the dwellers of Jerusalem to go a whoryng, lyke to the whoredome of the house of Ahab, & hast slayn thy brethren, euen thy fathers house, which were better then thou beholde, with a great plage will the Lorde smite thy folke, thy children, thy wyues, & thy goodes, and thou shalt suffer great paynefulnes in sickenes of thy bowels vntyl thy guttes fal out by reason of thy syckenes day by day. And the Lord stered vp

And they came vp into Juda & walted it, & caried away all the substaunce that was founde in the kynges house, & his sonnes, & his wyues, so that there was neuer a sonne left him, saue Jehoahaz, which was the yongest among his sonnes. And after all this smote him the Lord with an vncurable sickenes. And it came to passe, that in processe of tyme, euen after the ende of two yeres, his guttes fell out in hys sykenes, and so he died of very euell diseases. And they made no burnyng for hym, lyke the burnyng of his fathers. When he began to reygne he was .xxxii. yere old, and reygned in Jerusalem .viii. yeare, and lyued vnreprouably, but not among the sepulchres of the kinges.

The .xxi. Chapiter.

A. AND the inhabiters of Jerusalem made Ahaziahu his yongest sonne kyng in his stede iiii.reg.viii.c for the men of warre that came with the host of the Arabians, had slayne all his eldest sonnes. And so Ahaziahu the sonne of Jehoram kyng of Juda, was made king. Two and forty yeare olde was he when he began to reygne, and he reygned one yeare in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Athaliahu the doughter of Amri. And he walked also in the waies of the house of Ahab, for his mother (by her counsayll) entyced hym to do wickedly. Wherefore he dyd that which was euel in the syght of the lord, as did they that were of the house of Ahab: for they were his counsellers after the death of his father, to his destruction. And he walked after their counsayll, B. and went with Jehoram, the sonne of Ahab, kyng of Israell, to fyght against Hazahel, kyng of Syria, at Ramoth in Gilead, and the Syrians smote Jehoram. And he returned to be healed in Jezrel, of the wounds which were geuen hym at Rama, whē he fought with Hazael, kyng of Syria. And Ahaziahu the sonne of Jehoram, kyng of Juda, went downe to see Jehoram the sonne of Ahab, at Jezrel, because he was diseased. And it came of God, that not Ahaziahu should be destroyed for hys comyng to Jehoram: for when he was come, he went out with Jehoram, against Jehu, the sonne of Nimsi, * whom the Lord had anoynted to destroye the house of Ahab. And so it iiii.Re.ix.b. came to passe, that when Jehu was executyng iustice vpon the house of Ahab, and had founde the lordes of Juda, and the sonnes of the brethren of Ahaziahu, that wayted on Ahaziahu, he slue them. And he sought Ahaziahu, and they caught hym where he was hyd in Samaria, and brought hym to Jehu. iiii.reg.xi.e. And when they had slayne hym, they buryed hym, because they sayd, he is the sonne of Jehosaphat, which sought the Lorde with all his harte. And the house of Ahaziahu had no power to kepe still the kyngdome. But when Athaliahu the mother of Ahaziahu, sawe that her sonne was dead, she arose and destroyed all the kynges sede, in the stocke of the house of Juda. And Jehosabeth the doughter of the kyng tooke Joas the sonne of Ahaziahu, & stale him from amōg the kynges sonnes that were slayne, and put hym and his nurce in a priuy

And they went about in Iuda, and gathered the Leuites out of all the cities of Iuda, and the auncient fathers of Israel, and they came to Ierusalem. And all the congregacion made a bonde with the kyng in the house of god. And he said vnto them: beholde, the kynges sonne must reygne, * as the Lord

And Iehoiada the priest deliuered to the capitayns of hundreades, speres, shyldes, and bucklers, that had pertayned to kyng Dauid, and were in the house of God. And he set all the people euery man hauyng his weapon in his hand, from the right syde of the temple to the left syde of the temple, along by the aulter, and the temple round about the kyng. But Athaliahu rent her clothes, and said: treason, treason. And Iehoiada the priest went out to the capitaynes of hundreades, that were gouernours of the host, and sayde vnto them: haue her out without the hoste of the temple, and who so followeth her, let hym be slayne with the swearde. And all the people went to the house of Baali, and destroyed it, and brake his aulters and hys ymages, & slewe Mathan, the priest of Baal, before the aulters. And Iehoiada put the offices for the house of the Lorde, vnder the handes of the priestes and Leuites, * as Dauid had distributed them in the house of the Lord, to offer burnt offerynges vnto the Lorde, * as it is i. The xxviij. Chapiter.

H. iiij. Re. xvi. a. Achas was xx. yere old, when he began to reigne, and reigned xvj. yere in Jerusalem, and he did not that which is right in the sight of the Lorde, as his father Dauid did: he walked in the waies of the kynges of Israell, and made molten Images for Baalim. He offered Incense in the valleye of the sonne of Hinnom, and burnte his children in fire, after the abhominacions of the Heathen, whom the Lorde cast out before the children of Israell. He offered also and burnte Incense in hill altares, and on mountaines, and vnder euery grene tree. Wherefore the Lorde his God deliuered him into the hande of the kyng of Syrien, which ouercame him, and caried awaie a great multitude of his captiue, and brought them to Damascon. And he was deliuered into the hande of the kyng of Israell, which smote him with a greate slaughter. For Pecah the sonne of Remaliahu, slewe in Jura an hundred and xx. M. in one daie, which were all stoutehearted men: and that because they had forsaken the Lorde God of their fathers. And Zichri a mighty man of Ephraim slewe Maaseiah the kynges sonne, and Azrikam the gouernour of the house, and Elkana that was next to the kyng. And the children of Israell caried away captiue of their brethren. C. M. women, sonnes and daughters, and caried awaie much spoyle of them, and brought the spoyle to Samaria. But there was a Pro-

D. phete of the Lorde (whose name was Oded) and he went out before the hoste, that came to Samaria, and said vnto them: behold, because the Lorde God of your fathers is wroth with Jura, he hath delyuered them into your hande. And ye haue slaine them with rage, that reacheth vp to heauen, and now ye purpose to keepe vnder the children of Jura and Jerusalem, and to make them bondmen and bondmaides. And true you not the gone cried both vnto God in the heuē: and there came great wonderfulnes from heuē vnto them. And destroyed the captaines again, whiche were sent of the kynge of Babylon to enquire of the wonder that was done in the lande. Wherefore God left him, to proue him, that he might knowe all that was in his heart.

Moreouer there came of the bondes of the children of Ephraim, Manasse, the sonne of Iehohanan, Berechiah the sonne of Mesillemoth, and Iehezekiah the sonne of Sallum, and Amasa the sonne of Meshillemoth vnto Aaron, that came from the warre. And they brought the captiues hether. For the hande of the Lorde was strong ouer Israel, to take vengeaunce vpon Iuda. Wherefore they slewe them in a rage, that reached vnto heuē. And Azarias the sonne of Obed, and Berechiah the sonne of Meshillemoth, and Iehiel the sonne of Sallum, and Amasa the sonne of Hadlai stode vp against them that came from the warre, and sayde vnto them: Ye shall not bring the captiues hether. For we haue offended vnto the Lorde already, purposinge to adde more vpon our synnes and trespasse. For our trespasse is great already, and there is a fearce wrathe against Israel. And vpō that the men of armes lefte the captiues and the spoyle before the lordes and all the congregation. And the men that were now rehersed by name, rose vp, and tooke the prisoners, and with the spoyle, clothed all that were naked emong them, and arayed them, and shod them, and gaue them to eate and to drinke. And annoynted them, and caried all that were feble of them vpon asses, and brought them to Iericho (the citie of Palme trees) to their brethren: and then they returned to Samaria Again. At that same tyme, sēt kyng Ahaz vnto the kynges of Assur, to haue helpe of them. And the Edomites came again, and slue some of Iuda, and caried awaye captiues. And the Philistines inuaded the cities of the lowe countree, towarde the South of Iuda, and toke Bethsames, and Aialon, and Hederoth and Socho, with the townes longyng thereto, and Thimna, with the townes of the same: Gimzo, and the townes therof, & dwelt there. For the lorde brought Iuda lowe, because of Ahaz kyng of Iuda, whiche made Iuda naked, & transgressed sore against the lorde. For Tiglath Pulneser kyng of the Assirians, came vpon him, and troubled him rather then strengthed him. For Ahaz toke awaye a portion out of the house of the lorde and out of the kynges house, and out of the lordes houses, and gaue vnto the kyng of the Assirians, and yet he helped him not. And in the verye time of his tribulacion did kyng Ahaz trespasse more against the lorde. For he offered vnto the Goddes of them of Damascus, whiche het him, and he saide: Because the goddes of the kynges of Syria help them, therefore will I offer to them, that they maye help me also. But they were his destruccion, & the destruccion of all Israel. And Ahaz gathered together the vessels of the house of God, and brake them, and shut vp the doores of the house of the lorde, and made him altares in every corner of Ierusalem. And in all the cities of Iuda, he made hill Aulters, to burne incense vnto other goddes, and angred the lorde God of his fathers. The rest of his workes and all his wayes, beholde, they are written in the booke of the kynges of Iuda and Israel. And Ahaz slepte with his fathers, and they buried him in the citie of Ierusalem: but brought him not into the sepulchres of the kynges of Israel. And Ezechias his sonne reigned in his stede.

The xxix. Chapter.

Ezechias began to reigne, when he was xxv. yeare olde, and reigned. xxix. yeare in Ierusalem. And his mothers name was Abia the daughter of Zacharias. And he did that, which was right, in the sight of the lorde, according vnto all that Dauid his father had done. He opened the dores of the house of the lorde in the first yeare and first moneth of his reigne, and repaired them. And he brought in the priestes and the Leuites, and gathered them together into the East streate, and saied vnto them: Heare me ye Leuites, and make you sanctified, and halowe the house of the lorde God of your fathers, & cary filthynesse out of the holy place. For our fathers haue trespassed and done euill in the eyes of the Lorde our God, & haue forsaken him, and turned awaye their faces from the habitacion of the lorde, and turned their backes on it. And that they haue shut vp the doores of the porche, and quenched the Lampes, and haue neither burnt incense nor offered burnt offrynges in the holy place, vnto the God of Israell. Wherefore the wrathe of the Lorde fell on Iuda and Ierusalem, and he hath put them to trouble, to be wondred at, and to be hissed at, euē as ye your selues with your eyes se. For lo our fathers are ouerthrowē with the Sworde and our sonnes, our daughters, and our wiues were caried awaye captiue, for the same cause. And now it is in my herte, to make a couenaunt with the lorde God of Israel: that he maye turne awaye his fearce indignacion from vs. My children see now that ye be not negligent: for the Lorde hath chosen you to stande before him, and to serue him, and to be his ministers, & that ye should burne incense vnto him. Then the Leuites arose: Mahath the sonne of Amasai, and Ioel the sonne of Azarjahu, of the children of the Cahathites. And of the sonnes of Merari, Kis the sonne of Abdi, & Azarjah the sonne of Iehalelel. And of the sonnes of the Gersonites, Iohah the sonne of Zimma, and Eden the sonne of Ioah. And of the sonnes of Elizaphan, Simri, and Iehiel. And of the sonnes of Asaph, Zecharjahu, and Mathanjah. And of the sonnes of Heman, Iehiel, and Simei. And of the sonnes of Iedithun, Semaja, and Vsiel. And they gathered their brethren, and purified themselues, and came according to the commaundement of the kyng, with the wordes of the lorde, for to clense the house of the lorde. And the priestes went in to the inner porche of the house of the lorde, clense it: and brought out all the vncleannesse that they founde in the temple of the Lorde into the courte of the house of the Lorde. And the Leuites toke it, to cary it out into the brook Cedron. Then began the first daie of the first moneth to purify, and the viij. daie of the moneth, came they to the porch of the Lorde: and purged the house of the Lorde in viij. daies: and in the xvj. daie of the first moneth, they made an ende. And they went into Ezechias the kyng and sayd: we have clensed all the house of the Lorde, the Altar of burnt offrynge, with all his vessels, and the table of shewbread, with all his apparell: and all the vessels, which the kyng Achaz did caste awaie, when he reigned, & transgressed, them we have prepared and sanctified: and beholde, they stande before the altar of the Lorde. And Ezechias the kyng rose early, & gathered the lordes of the citie, & went vp to the house of the Lorde. And they brought .vij. oxen, .vij. rammes, .vij. shepe, and .vij. gotes to be a synne offrynge for the kyngdom, for the sanctuary, & for Iuda. And he commaunded the priestes the sonnes of Aaron, to offer them on the Altar of the Lorde. And they slue the oxen, and the priestes receiued the bloud, & sprinkeled it vpon the altar: likewise, when they had slain the rammes, they sprinkled the bloud vpon the Altar: they slue also the shepe, & they sprinkled the bloud vpon the Altar. And when they brought forthe the he gotes for the synne offrynge, before the kyng and the congregacion, and put their handes vpon them. And the priestes slue them, and with the bloud of the same they clensed the Altare, to make satisfaccion for all Israel: for the kyng commaunded that the burnt offrynge & the synne offrynge should be made for all Israell. And he set the Leuites in the house of the Lord, with Cymbals, psalteries, and harpes: according to the commaundement of Dauid, and Gad the kynges sear, and Nathan the Prophete. For so was the commaundement of the Lorde, through the hand of his Prophetes. And the Leuites stode hauyng the instrumentes of Dauid, & the priestes held the trompetes. Then Ezechias commaunded to offer the burnt offrynge vpon the altar. And when the burnt offrynge began, the song of the Lorde began also, & the trompetes with the instrumentes, that were ordeined by the hande of Dauid kyng of Israell. And all the congregacion worshipped, singyng a song and blowyng with the trompetes, and all this continued, vntil the burnt offrynge was ended. And when they had made an ende of offrynge, the kyng, and all that were present with him, bowed themselues, and worshipped. Moreouer the kyng, & the lordes spake to the Leuites, to prayse the Lorde, with the wordes of Dauid, and Asaph the sear. And they sang prayses with gladnesse, & they bowed their heades, and gaue thanke to the Lorde, & worshipped. Then Ezechias answered, and said: now haue ye consecrated your handes vnto the Lorde, come nere and bring sacrifices and thanke offrynges into the house of the Lorde. And the congregacion brought in sacrifices & thanke offrynges, and whosoeuer was of a free hearte, brought burnt offrynges. And the nombre of the burnt offrynges, which the congregacion brought, was .lxx. oxen, .c. rammes, .cc. lambes, all these were for the burnt offrynge of the Lorde. And the consecrated thynges were .vj. hundred oxen, and .iij. thousand shepe. Howbeit the priestes were to few to flay all the burnt offrynges, therefore their brethren the Leuites did helpe them, till they had ended the worke, and vntil the priestes were sanctified. For the Leuites were more harted to be sanctified, then the priestes. And thereto the burnt offrynges were many, with the fat of the peace offrynges, & the drinke offrynges that belong to the burnt offrynge. And to the seruice pertayning to the house of the Lorde was set in stede. And Ezechias reioyced and all the people, that God had made the folke so redy, considering that the thyng was done sodenly.

The xxx. Chapter.

Also Ezechias sent to all Israel, and Iuda, and wrote letters to Ephraim & Manasse, that they should come to the house of the Lorde at Ierusalem, and offer Passouer vnto the Lorde God of Israell. And the kyng held a counsell with his lordes, and all the congregacion of Ierusalem, to kepe the feast of Passouer in the seconde moneth. For they could not kepe it at that tyme, because the priestes were not sanctified sufficiently, neither was the people gathered together to Ierusalem. And the thyng pleased the kyng, & all the congregacion. And they decreed, that it should be proclaimed throughout all Israel, from Berhabee to Dan, that they should come, and holde the feast of Passouer, vnto the Lorde God of Israel, at Ierusalem: for they had not wonne it of a good sorte, as they should haue done by the lawe. So the postes went with letters, of the hande of the kyng, and of his lordes, throughout all Israell and Iuda, and after the commaundement of the kyng, they cried: ye children of Israell, turne again vnto the Lorde God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israell, and he will turne again to the remnaunt, that was escaped you, out of the handes of the kynges of Assur. And be not like your fathers, and your brethren, which trespassed against the Lorde God of their fathers: which gaue them vp to be desolate, as ye se. And now be not ye stiffe necked, like as your fathers: but yelde your selues vnto the Lorde, and come into his holy place, which he hath sanctified for euer: and serue the Lorde your God, and the feruentnesse of his wrathe shall turne awaie from you. For if ye turne again vnto the Lorde, then shall your

in the presence of them, that take them captive, and they shall come again into this land for the lord your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turne away his face from you, if ye conuert vnto him. And to the prophet Oded & princes, euen vnto the land of Ephraim and Manasse, came vnto Jerusalem: but they long did thereto crauing, and mourned for their wickednesse, yet vnwilling to leaue Manasse and of pouertie submitted themselues vnto them, and they gaue them victuals, & clothes, & shoes, and refreshed them, & set them vpon asses, & brought them to their brethren to Jericho the citie of palme trees. Then they returned to Samaria. In the same season king Ahaz sent vnto the kings of Assyria to helpe him. For the Idumites had come and smitten Judah, & caried away captiues. Also the Philistines had inuaded the cities of the valley, & of the south of Judah, & had taken Bethshemesh, & Aialon, & Gederoth, & Shocho with the townes thereof, & Timnah with the villages thereof, & Gimzo with the villages thereof, & dwelt there. For the lord brought Judah low because of Ahaz king of Israel, for he had made Judah naked, & transgressed sore against the lord. And Tilgath Pilneser king of Assyria came vnto him, & troubled him, but helped him not. For Ahaz spoyled himself of the house of the lord, & of the house of the king, & of the princes, & gaue it vnto the king of Assyria, but it did him no good. Moreouer in the time of his trouble did he trespasse more against the lord, this king Ahaz. For he sacrificed vnto the gods of Damascus, which smote him, & he said, Because the gods of the kings of Syria helpe them, therefore will I sacrifice vnto them, that they may helpe me. But they were the cause of his fall, & of all Israel. And Ahaz gathered together the vessels of the house of God, & brake them in pieces, & shut vp the doores of the house of the lord, & made him altars in euery corner of Jerusalem. And in euery seuerall citie of Judah made he high places, to burne incense vnto other gods, & prouoked the lord God of his fathers to anger. Now the rest of his acts, & all his wayes from the first vnto the last, behold they are written in the booke of the kings of Judah & Israel. And Ahaz slept with his fathers, & they buried him in the citie, euen in Jerusalem: but they brought him not into the sepulchres of the kings of Israel. And Hezekiah his sonne reigned in his stead.

C. 2. Par. xxix. a

And Hezekiah began to reigne when he was fiue and twentie yeres old, & reigned nine and twentie yeres in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Abijah the daughter of Zachariah. And he did that which was right in the sight of the lord, according to all that Dauid his father had done. He in the first yere of his reigne, in the first moneth, opened the doores of the house of the lord, & repaired them. And he brought in the priests & the Leuites, & gathered them together into the east streete, & said vnto them, Heare me ye Leuites, sanctifie now your selues, & sanctifie the house of the lord God of your fathers, & cary the filthinesse out of the holy place. For our fathers haue trespassed, & done euil in the eyes of the lord our God, & haue forsaken him, & haue turned away their faces from the habitation of the lord, & turned their backes. Also they haue shut vp the doores of the porche, & put out the lights, & haue not burned incense, nor offered burnt offrings in the holy place vnto the God of Israel. Wherefore the wrath of the lord is vpon Judah & Jerusalem, & he hath deliuered them to trouble, to astonishment, & to hissing, as ye see with your eyes. For loe, our fathers are fallen by the sword, & our sonnes, our daughters, & our wiues are in captiuitie for this cause. Now therefore I haue purposed in mine heart to make a couenant with the lord God of Israel, that his fierce wrath may turne away from vs. My sonnes, be not now negligent: for the lord hath chosen you to stand before him, to serue him, & that ye should minister vnto him, & burne incense. Then arose the Leuites, Mahath the sonne of Amasai, & Joel the sonne of Azariah, of the children of Kohath: & of the children of Merari, Kish the sonne of Abdi, & Azariah the sonne of Jehalelel: & of the Gershonites, Joah the sonne of Zimmah, & Eden the sonne of Joah: & of the children of Elizaphan, Shimri & Jeiel: & of the children of Asaph, Zechariah & Mattaniah: & of the children of Heman, Jehiel & Shimei: & of the children of Jeduthun, Shemaiah & Vzziel. And they gathered their brethren, & sanctified themselues, & came according to the commandement of the king, by the wordes of the lord, to purge the house of the lord. And the priests went into the inner part of the house of the lord to purge it, & brought out all the vncleannesse that they found in the temple of the lord into the court of the house of the lord. And the Leuites receiued it, to cary it out abroad into the brooke Kidron. Now they began in the first day of the first moneth to sanctifie, & on the eight day of the moneth came they to the porche of the lord: so they sanctified the house of the lord in eight dayes, & in the sixteenth day of the first moneth they made an end. Then went they in to Hezekiah the king within the house, & said, We haue cleansed all the house of the lord, the altar of burnt offring, with all the vessels thereof, & the table of shewbread, with all the vessels thereof. Moreouer all the vessels which king Ahaz in his reigne had cast away in his trespasse, haue we prepared & sanctified, & behold they are before the altar of the lord. Then Hezekiah the king arose early, & gathered the princes of the citie, & went vp to the house of the lord. And they brought seuen bullocks, & seuen rammes, & seuen lambes, & seuen goates for a sinne offring for the kingdome, & for the sanctuarie, & for Judah. And he commanded the priests the sonnes of Aaron to offer them vpon the altar of the lord. So they killed the bullocks, & the priests receiued the blood, & sprinkled it vpon the altar: they killed also the rammes, & sprinkled the blood vpon the altar: they killed likewise the lambes, & sprinkled the blood vpon the altar. And they brought forth the goates for the sinne offring before the king & the congregation, & laid their hands vpon them. And the priests killed them, & made reconciliation with their blood vpon the altar, to make an atonement for all Israel: for the king commanded that the burnt offring & the sinne offring should be made for all Israel. And he set the Leuites in the house of the lord with cymbals, with psalteries, & with harpes, according to the commandement of Dauid, & of Gad the kings seer, & of Nathan the prophet: for so was the commandement of the lord by his prophets. And the Leuites stood with the instruments of Dauid, & the priests with trumpets. Then commanded Hezekiah to offer the burnt offring vpon the altar. And when the burnt offring began, the song of the lord began also with the trumpets, & with the instruments ordained by Dauid king of Israel. And all the congregation worshipped, & the singers sang, & the trumpeters sounded: & all this continued vntill the burnt offring was finished. And when they had made an end of offring, the king & all that were present with him bowed themselues, & worshipped. Moreouer king Hezekiah & the princes commanded the Leuites to praise the lord with the wordes of Dauid, & of Asaph the seer. And they praised with ioy, & bowed themselues & worshipped. Then Hezekiah answered & said, Now haue ye consecrated your selues vnto the lord: come neere & bring sacrifices & thankes offrings into the house of the lord. And the congregation brought sacrifices & thankes offrings, & euery one that was of a willing heart, burnt offrings. And the number of the burnt offrings which the congregation brought was seuentie bullocks, an hundred rammes, & two hundred lambes: all these were for a burnt offring vnto the lord. And the consecrated things were six hundred bullocks, & three thousand sheepe. But the priests were too few, so that they could not flea all the burnt offrings: therefore their brethren the Leuites helped them vntill the worke was ended, & vntill other priests had sanctified themselues: for the Leuites were more vpright in heart to sanctifie themselues, then the priests. Moreouer the burnt offrings were in great number, with the fat of the peace offrings, & with the drinke offrings for euery burnt offring. So the seruice of the house of the lord was set in order. And Hezekiah reioyced, & all the people, that God had prepared the people: for the thing was done suddenly. And Hezekiah sent to all Israel & Judah, & wrote letters also to Ephraim & Manasse, that they should come to the house of the lord at Jerusalem, & keepe the passeouer vnto the lord God of Israel. For the king had taken counsell, & his princes, & all the congregation in Jerusalem, to keepe the passeouer in the second moneth. For they could not keepe it at that time, because the priests had not sanctified themselues sufficiently, neither had the people gathered themselues together to Jerusalem. And the thing pleased the king & all the congregation. So they established a decree to make proclamation throughout all Israel from Beersheba euen vnto Dan, that they should come & keepe the passeouer vnto the lord God of Israel at Jerusalem: for they had not kept it of a long time as it was written. Then the runners went with the letters from the king & his princes throughout all Israel & Judah, & according to the commandement of the king, saying, Ye children of Israel, turne againe vnto the lord God of Abraham, Isaac, & Israel, & he will returne to the remnant that is escaped out of the hand of the kings of Assyria. And be not like your fathers & like your brethren, which trespassed against the lord God of their fathers, so that he gaue them vp to desolation, as ye see. Now be not stiffe necked as your fathers were, but giue the hand vnto the lord, & come vnto his sanctuarie, which he hath sanctified for euer, & serue the lord your God, that the fierce wrath of his displeasure may turne away from you. For if ye conuert vnto the lord, your brethren & your children shall finde mercie before them that lead them captiue, so that they shall come again into this land: for the lord your God is gracious & merciful, & will not turne away his face from you, if ye conuert vnto him. And to the runners went from citie to citie through the land of Ephraim & Manasse, euen vnto Zabulon: but they laughed them to scorne, & mocked them. Neuertheles, certaine men of Aser, Manasse & of Zabulon submitted themselues & came to Jerusalem. Also in Judah was the hand of God to giue them one heart to do the commandement of the king & the princes, by the word of the lord. And there assembled at Jerusalem much people, to keepe the feast of vnleauened bread in the second moneth, a very great congregation. And they arose, & tooke away the altars that were in Jerusalem, & all the altars of incense tooke they away, & cast them into the brooke Kidron. Then they killed the passeouer the fourteenth day of the second moneth. And the priests & Leuites were ashamed, sanctified themselues, & brought in the burnt offrings into the house of the lord. And they stode in their office after their manner, according to the law of Moses the man of God. And the priests sprinkled the blood, which they receiued of the hand of the Leuites. For there were many in the congregation that were not sanctified: therefore the Leuites had the charge of the killing of the passeouers for euery one that was not cleane, & that might not sanctifie the passeouer vnto the lord. For a multitude of the people, euen many out of Ephraim, Manasse, Issachar & Zabulon, were not cleansed, & yet did they eate the passeouer, contrarie to that which was written. But Hezekiah prayed for them, & said, The good lord be merciful vnto them: for he set his whole heart to seke the Lord God, euen the God of his fathers: though not after the order of holinesse. And the lord heard Hezekiah, & healed the people. And the children of Israel, that were present at Jerusalem, held the feast of vnleauened bread seuen dayes with great gladnesse, & the Leuites & the priests praised the lord from day to day, & sang with instruments of strength vnto the lord. And Hezekiah spake hartely vnto all the Leuites, that had vnderstanding of the good seruice of the lord. So they did eate throughout the feast, & offered peace offrings, & made confession to the lord God of their fathers. Also all the whole congregation tooke counsell to keepe other seuen dayes, & they kept other seuen dayes with gladnesse. For Hezekiah king of Judah gaue to the congregation a thousand bullocks & seuen thousand sheepe, & the princes gaue to the congregation a thousand bullocks & ten thousand sheepe. And a great number of the priests sanctified themselues. And all the congregation of Judah, with the priests & Leuites, and all the congregation that came out of Israel, and the strangers that came out of the land of Israel, and that dwelt in Juda reioyced. And there was great gladnesse in Jerusalem. For since the time of Salomon the sonne of Dauid king of Israel there was not the like in Jerusalem. And the priests & the Leuites arose, and blessed the people, & their voice was heard, & their prayer came vp vnto heauen, euen his dwelling place.

Of the great passeouer.

After these things & this faithfulnesse prepared, came Sennacherib king of Assyria, & entred into Judah, & pitched against the strong cities, & thought to win them for himself. And when Hezekiah saw that Sennacherib was come, & that his purpose was to fight against Jerusalem, he took counsell with his princes & his men of warre, to stop the waters of the fountaines which were without the citie, & they did help him. So there was gathered much people together, & they stopped all the fountaines, & the riuer that ran through the middes of the land, saying, Why should the kings of Assyria come & finde much water? Moreouer he strengthened himself, & built vp all the wall that was broken, & raised it vp to the towers, & the other wall without, & repaired Millo in the citie of Dauid, & made weapons & shields in abundance. And he set captaines of warre ouer the people, & gathered them together to him in the streete of the gate of the citie, & comforted them, saying, Be strong & of good courage, feare not, nor be afraid for the king of Assyria, nor for all the multitude that is with him: for there be more with vs then with him. For with him is but an arme of flesh, but with vs is the lord our God to helpe vs, & to fight our battels. And the people rested themselues vpon the wordes of Hezekiah king of Judah. After this did Sennacherib king of Assyria send his seruants to Jerusalem, (but he himself laid siege against Lachish, & all his power with him) vnto Hezekiah king of Judah, & vnto all Judah that were at Jerusalem, saying, Thus saith Sennacherib king of Assyria, Whereon trust ye, that ye abide in the siege in Jerusalem? Doth not Hezekiah perswade you to giue ouer, to die by famine & by thirst, when he saith vnto you, The lord our God shall deliuer vs out of the hand of the king of Assyria? Hath not the same Hezekiah taken away his high places & his altars, & commanded Judah & Jerusalem, saying, Before one altar shall ye worship, & vpon it shall ye burne your sacrifices? Know ye not what I & my fathers haue done vnto all the people of other lands? Were the gods of the nations of those lands able to deliuer their lands out of mine hand? Who is there among all the gods of those nations that my fathers vtterly destroyed, that could deliuer his people out of mine hand, that your God should be able to deliuer you out of mine hand? Now therefore let not Hezekiah deceiue you, nor perswade you after this manner, neither yet beleeue him: for no god of any nation or kingdome was able to deliuer his people out of mine hand, & out of the hand of my fathers: much lesse shall your God deliuer you out of mine hand. And his seruants spake yet more against the lord God, & against his seruant Hezekiah. He wrote also letters to raile on the lord God of Israel, & to speake against him, saying, As the gods of the nations of other lands haue not deliuered their people out of mine hand, so shall not the God of Hezekiah deliuer his people out of mine hand. Then they cried with a loude voice in the Iewes speach vnto the people of Jerusalem that were on the wall, to affray them & to trouble them, that they might take the citie. And they spake of the God of Jerusalem, as of the gods of the people of the earth, which are the worke of mens hands. Then prayed Hezekiah the king, & Esaias the sonne of Amoz the prophet, & cried to heauen. And the lord sent an angel, which cut off all the valiant men, & the leaders & captaines in the host of the king of Assyria. So he returned with shame of face into his land. And when he was come into the house of his god, they that came forth of his owne bowels slew him there with the sword. Thus the lord saued Hezekiah & the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennacherib king of Assyria, & from the hand of all other, & guided them on euery side. And many brought gifts vnto the lord to Jerusalem, & precious things vnto Hezekiah king of Judah, so that he was magnified in the sight of all nations from thence forth. In those dayes was Hezekiah sicke vnto the death, & prayed vnto the lord: & he spake vnto him, & gaue him a signe. But Hezekiah rendred not again according to the benefite done vnto him: for his heart was lifted vp. Therefore there was wrath vpon him, & vpon Judah & Jerusalem. Notwithstanding Hezekiah humbled himself for the pride of his heart, both he & the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the wrath of the lord came not vpon them in the dayes of Hezekiah. Hezekiah had exceeding much riches & honour: & he made him treasuries for siluer, & for golde, & for precious stones, & for spices, & for shields, & for all maner pleasant vessels: storehouses also for the increase of corne, wine & oyle: & stalles for all maner beasts, & cotes for the flocks. Moreouer he builded him townes, & had possessions of flocks & herdes in abundance: for God had giuen him substance very much. This same Hezekiah stopped the vpper water course of Gihon, & brought it straight downe to the west side of the citie of Dauid. And Hezekiah prospered in all his workes. Howbeit in the matter of the ambassadors of the princes of Babel, which sent vnto him to enquire of the wonder that was done in the land, God left him, to proue him, that he might know all that was in his heart. Now the rest of the acts of Hezekiah, & his goodnesse, behold they are written in the visions of Esaias the prophet the sonne of Amoz, & in the booke of the kings of Judah & Israel. And Hezekiah slept with his fathers, & they buried him in the chiefe of the sepulchres of the sonnes of Dauid: & all Judah & the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him honour at his death. And Manasse his sonne reigned in his stead.

Manasse was twelue yeres old when he began to reigne, & reigned fiftie & fiue yeres in Jerusalem. But did that which was euil in the sight of the lord, after the abominations of the heathen, whom the lord had cast out before the children of Israel. For he built vp the high places which Hezekiah his father had broken down, & reared vp altars for Baalim, & made groues, & worshipped all the hoste of heauen, & serued them. Also he built altars in the house of the lord, of which the lord had said, In Jerusalem shall my name be for euer. And he built altars for all the hoste of heauen in the two courts of the house of the lord. Moreouer he burnt incense in the valley of the children of Hinnom, & vsed witchcraft, & vsed enchantments, & had to do with familiar spirits & soothsayers, & wrought much wickednesse in the sight of the lord, to prouoke him to anger. And he set a carued image of the idole which he had made in the house of God, of which God had said to Dauid & to Salomon his sonne, In this house & in Jerusalem, which I haue chosen before all the tribes of Israel, will I put my name for euer. Neither will I make the feet of Israel remoue any more out of the land which I haue appointed for your fathers, so that they will take heede to do all that I haue commanded them, according to all the law, & the ceremonies, & the iudgements by the hand of Moses. So Manasse caused Judah & the inhabitants of Jerusalem to erre, & to do worse then did the nations, whom the lord had destroyed before the children of Israel. And the lord spake to Manasse & to his people, but they would not hearken. Wherefore the lord brought vpon them the captaines of the hoste of the king of Assyria, which tooke Manasse among the thornes, & bound him with fetters, & caried him to Babel. And when he was in affliction, he prayed before the lord his God, & humbled himself greatly before the God of his fathers, & prayed vnto him: & he was intreated of him, & heard his request, & brought him againe to Jerusalem into his kingdome. Then Manasse knew that the lord he was God. Afterward he built a wall without the citie of Dauid, on the west side of Gihon in the valley, euen to the entring in at the fish gate, & compassed about Ophel, & raised it very high, & put captaines of warre in all the strong cities of Judah. And he put away the strange gods, & the idole out of the house of the lord, & all the altars that he had built in the mount of the house of the lord, & in Jerusalem, & cast them out of the citie. And he repaired the altar of the lord, & offered thereon peace offrings & thankes offrings, & commanded Judah to serue the lord God of Israel. Howbeit the people did yet sacrifice in the high places, but vnto the lord their God only. Now the rest of the acts of Manasse, & his prayer vnto his God, & the wordes of the seers that spake to him in the name of the lord God of Israel, behold they are written in the booke of the kings of Israel. His prayer also, & how God was intreated of him, & all his sinne & trespasse, & the places wherein he built high places, & set vp groues & carued images before he was humbled, behold they are written among the sayings of the seers. So Manasse slept with his fathers, & they buried him in his owne house: & Amon his sonne reigned in his stead.

Amon was two & twentie yeres old when he began to reigne, & reigned two yeres in Jerusalem. But did that which was euil in the sight of the lord, as did Manasse his father: for Amon sacrificed vnto all the carued images which Manasse his father had made, & serued them. But he humbled not himself before the lord, as Manasse his father had humbled himself: but this Amon trespassed more & more. And his seruants conspired against him, & slew him in his owne house. But the people of the land slew all them that had conspired against king Amon. Moreouer the people of the land made Josiah his sonne king in his stead.

Josiah was eight yeres old when he began to reigne, & reigned one & thirtie yeres in Jerusalem. And he did that which was right in the sight of the lord, & walked in all the wayes of Dauid his father, & declined neither to the right hand nor to the left. For in the eight yere of his reigne, while he was yet a child, he began to seke after the God of Dauid his father. And in the twelfth yere he began to purge Judah & Jerusalem from the high places, & groues, & carued images, & molten images. And they brake down the altars of Baalim in his presence, & the images that were on high aboue them he hewed in pieces, & the groues, & the carued images, & the molten images he brake in pieces, & made dust of them, & strowed it vpon the graues of them that had sacrificed vnto them. Also he burnt the bones of the priests vpon their altars, & purged Judah & Jerusalem. And in the cities of Manasse, Ephraim, Simeon, & euen vnto Naphtali, with their mattocks round about, & he brake down the altars, & the groues, & beate the carued images into powder, & cut downe all the idoles throughout all the land of Israel, & returned to Jerusalem. Now in the eighteenth yere of his reigne, when he had purged the land & the house, he sent Shaphan the sonne of Azaliah, & Maaseiah the gouernour of the citie, & Joah the sonne of Joahaz the recorder, to repaire the house of the lord his God. And when they came to Hilkiah the high priest, they deliuered the money that was brought into the house of God, which the Leuites that kept the doores had gathered of the hand of Manasse & Ephraim, & of all the remnant of Israel, & of all Judah & Benjamin, & of the inhabitants of Jerusalem. And they put it in the hand of the workemen that had the ouersight of the house of the lord, & they gaue it to the workemen that wrought in the house of the lord, to repaire & amend the house. They gaue it also to the carpenters & to the builders, to buy hewen stone, & timber for ioyning, & to couple the houses which the kings of Judah had destroyed. And the men did the worke faithfully: & their ouerseers were Jahath & Obadiah the Leuites of the sonnes of Merari, & Zechariah & Meshullam of the sonnes of Kohath, to set it forward: & other of the Leuites, all that could skill of instruments of musicke. Also they were ouer the bearers of burdens, & ouerseers of all that did the worke in any maner of seruice: & of the Leuites there were scribes, & officers, & porters. And when they brought out the money that was brought into the house of the lord, Hilkiah the priest found a booke of the law of the lord giuen by Moses. And Hilkiah answered & said to Shaphan the scribe, I haue found the booke of the law in the house of the lord. And Hilkiah gaue the booke to Shaphan. And Shaphan carried the booke to the king, & brought the king word againe, saying, All that was committed vnto thy seruants, they do it. And they haue gathered together the money that was found in the house of the lord, & haue deliuered it into the hand of the ouerseers, & to the hand of the workemen. Then Shaphan the scribe told the king, saying, Hilkiah the priest hath giuen me a booke. And Shaphan read therein before the king. And when the king had heard the wordes of the law, he rent his clothes. Then the king commanded Hilkiah, & Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan, & Abdon the sonne of Micah, & Shaphan the scribe, & Asaiah a seruant of the king, saying, Go, enquire of the lord for me, & for them that are left in Israel & Judah, concerning the wordes of the booke that is found: for great is the wrath of the lord that is powred out vpon vs, because our fathers haue not kept the word of the lord, to do according vnto all that is written in this booke. Then Hilkiah, & they that the king had appointed, went to Huldah the prophetesse, the wife of Shallum the sonne of Tikvah, the sonne of Harhas, keeper of the wardrobe (now she dwelt in Jerusalem in the colledge) & they communed with her to that effect. And she answered them, Thus saith the lord God of Israel, Tell the man that sent you vnto me, Thus saith the lord, Behold, I will bring euill vpon this place, & vpon the inhabitants thereof, euen all the curses that are written in the booke which they haue read before the king of Judah: because they haue forsaken me, & haue burned incense vnto other gods, that they might prouoke me to anger with all the workes of their hands: therefore my wrath shall be powred out vpon this place, & shall not be quenched. But vnto the king of Judah which sent you to enquire of the lord, thus shall ye say vnto him, Thus saith the lord God of Israel, As touching the wordes which thou hast heard, because thine heart did melt, & thou humbledst thy self before God when thou heardest his wordes against this place, & against the inhabitants thereof, & humbledst thy self before me, & rentest thy clothes, & wept before me, I haue euen heard thee also, saith the lord. Behold therefore I will gather thee to thy fathers, & thou shalt be gathered into thy graue in peace, neither shall thine eyes see all the euil that I will bring vpon this place, & vpon the inhabitants thereof. So they brought the king word againe. Then the king sent, & gathered together all the elders of Judah & Jerusalem. And the king went vp into the house of the lord, & all the men of Judah, & the inhabitants of Jerusalem with him, & the priests, & the Leuites, & all the people both great & small: & he read in their audience all the wordes of the booke of the couenant that was found in the house of the lord. And the king stood in his place, & made a couenant before the lord, to walke after the lord, & to keepe his commandements, & his testimonies, & his statutes, with all his heart, & with all his soule, to confirme the wordes of this couenant that were written in this booke. And all the people stood to the couenant. And the king commanded Hilkiah the high priest, & the priests of the second order, & the keepers of the doore, to bring forth out of the temple of the lord all the vessels that were made for Baal, & for the groue, & for all the hoste of heauen: & he burned them without Jerusalem in the fields of Kidron, & caried the ashes of them vnto Bethel. And he put downe the idolatrous priests, whom the kings of Judah had ordained to burne incense in the high places in the cities of Judah, & in the places round about Jerusalem: them also that burned incense vnto Baal, to the sunne, & to the moone, & to the planets, & to all the hoste of heauen. And he brought out the groue from the house of the lord without Jerusalem, vnto the brooke Kidron, & burned it at the brooke Kidron, & stamped it small to powder, & cast the dust thereof vpon the graues of the children of the people. And he brake down the houses of the sodomites, that were by the house of the lord, where the women wrought hangings for the groue. And he brought all the priests out of the cities of Judah, & defiled the high places where the priests had burned incense, from Geba vnto Beersheba, & brake down the high places of the gates that were in the entring in of the gate of Joshua the gouernour of the citie, which were on a mans left hand at the gate of the citie. Howbeit the priests of the high places came not vp to the altar of the lord in Jerusalem, but they did eate of the vnleauened bread among their brethren. He defiled also Topheth, which is in the valley of the children of Hinnom, that no man might make his sonne or his daughter to passe through the fire vnto Molech. And he tooke away the horses that the kings of Judah had giuen vnto the sunne, at the entring in of the house of the lord, by the chamber of Nathanmelech the chamberlaine, which was in the suburbes, & burned the chariots of the sunne with fire. And the altars that were on the top of the vpper chamber of Ahaz, which the kings of Judah had made, & the altars which Manasse had made in the two courts of the house of the lord, did the king beate downe, & brake them downe from thence, & cast the dust of them into the brooke Kidron. Moreouer the high places that were before Jerusalem, which were on the right hand of the mount of corruption, which Solomon the king of Israel had builded for Ashtoreth the abhominable idole of the Zidonians, & for Chemosh the abhominable idole of Moab, & for Milcom the idole of the children of Ammon, did the king defile. And he brake in pieces the images, & cut downe the groues, & filled their places with the bones of men. Moreouer the altar that was at Bethel, & the high place which Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat, who made Israel to sinne, had made, both that altar & the high place he brake downe, & burned the high place, & stamped it small to powder, & burned the groue. And as Josiah turned himself, he spied the sepulchres that were there in the mount, & sent, & tooke the bones out of the sepulchres, & burned them vpon the altar, & defiled it, according to the word of the lord which the man of God proclaimed, who proclaimed these things. Then he said, What title is that that I see? And the men of the citie told him, It is the sepulchre of the man of God, which came from Judah, & proclaimed these things that thou hast done against the altar of Bethel. And he said, Let him rest, let no man remoue his bones. So they let his bones alone, with the bones of the prophet that came out of Samaria. And all the houses also of the high places that were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Israel had made to prouoke the lord to anger, did Josiah take away, & did vnto them according to all the deedes that he had done in Bethel. And all the priests of the high places that were there did he slay vpon the altars, & burned mens bones vpon them, & returned to Jerusalem. And the king commanded all the people, saying, Keepe the passeouer vnto the lord your God, as it is written in the booke of this couenant. Surely there was not holden such a passeouer from the dayes of the iudges that iudged Israel, nor in all the dayes of the kings of Israel, nor of the kings of Judah, as this passeouer that was holden to the lord in Jerusalem in the eighteenth yere of king Josiah. Moreouer the workers with familiar spirits, & the soothsayers, & the images, & the idoles, & all the abhominations that were spied in the land of Judah & in Jerusalem, did Josiah put away, that he might performe the wordes of the law which were written in the booke that Hilkiah the priest found in the house of the lord. And like vnto him was there no king before him, that turned to the lord with all his heart, & with all his soule, & with all his might, according to all the law of Moses: neither after him arose there any like him. Howbeit the lord turned not from the fierceness of his great wrath, wherewith his anger was kindled against Judah, because of all the prouocations that Manasse had prouoked him withall. And the lord said, I will remoue Judah also out of my sight, as I haue remoued Israel, & will cast off this citie Jerusalem which I haue chosen, & the house of which I said, My name shall be there. Now the rest of the acts of Josiah, & all that he did, behold they are written in the booke of the kings of Judah. In his dayes Pharaoh Necho king of Egypt went vp against the king of Assyria vnto the riuer Euphrates: & king Josiah went against him, & he slew him at Megiddo, when he had seene him. And his seruants caried him in a chariot dead from Megiddo, & brought him to Jerusalem, & buried him in his owne sepulchre. And the people of the land tooke Jehoahaz the sonne of Josiah, & anointed him, & made him king in his father's stead in Jerusalem.

Jehoahaz was three & twentie yeres old when he began to reigne, & reigned three moneths in Jerusalem. And his mothers name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. And he did that which was euil in the sight of the lord, according to all that his fathers had done. And Pharaoh Necho put him in bands at Riblah in the land of Hamath, that he might not reigne in Jerusalem, & condemned the land in a tribute of an hundred talents of siluer & a talent of golde. And Pharaoh Necho made Eliakim the sonne of Josiah king in the room of Josiah his father, & turned his name to Jehoiakim. But Jehoahaz he tooke, & he came to Egypt, & died there. And Jehoiakim gaue the siluer & the golde to Pharaoh: but he taxed the land, to giue the money according to the commandement of Pharaoh: he exacted the siluer & the golde of the people of the land, of euery one according to his taxation, to giue it vnto Pharaoh Necho.

Jehoiakim was fiue & twentie yeres old when he began to reigne, & reigned eleuen yeres in Jerusalem. And his mothers name was Zebudah the daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah. And he did that which was euil in the sight of the lord his God, according to all that his fathers had done. Against him came vp Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, & bound him in fetters, to cary him to Babel. Nebuchadnezzar also caried of the vessels of the house of the lord to Babel, & put them in his temple at Babel. Now the rest of the acts of Jehoiakim, & his abhominations which he did, & that which was found in him, behold they are written in the booke of the kings of Israel & Judah. And Jehoiachin his sonne reigned in his stead.

Jehoiachin was eight yeres old when he began to reigne, & he reigned three moneths & ten dayes in Jerusalem. And did that which was euil in the sight of the lord. And when the yere was expired, king Nebuchadnezzar sent, & caried him to Babel, with the goodly vessels of the house of the lord, & made Zedekiah his father's brother king ouer Judah & Jerusalem.

Zedekiah was one & twentie yeres old when he began to reigne, & reigned eleuen yeres in Jerusalem. And his mothers name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. And he did that which was euil in the sight of the lord his God, & humbled not himself before Jeremiah the prophet, speaking from the mouth of the lord. And he also rebelled against king Nebuchadnezzar, which had made him swere by God: but he stiffened his neck, & hardened his heart from turning vnto the lord God of Israel. Moreouer all the princes of the priests & the people multiplied trespasses after all the abhominations of the heathen, & polluted the house of the lord which he had hallowed in Jerusalem. And the lord God of their fathers sent to them by his messengers, rising vp betimes & sending: because he had compassion on his people & on his dwelling place. But they mocked the messengers of God, & despised his wordes, & misused his prophets, vntill the wrath of the lord arose against his people, till there was no remedie. Therefore he brought vpon them the king of the Chaldees, which slew their young men with the sword in the house of their sanctuarie, & had no compassion vpon young man or maide, old man or impotent: he gaue them all into his hand. And all the vessels of the house of God, great & small, & the treasures of the house of the lord, & the treasures of the king & of his princes, all these he brought to Babel. And they burned the house of God, & brake downe the wall of Jerusalem, & burned all the palaces thereof with fire, & destroyed all the goodly vessels thereof. And them that escaped from the sword caried he away to Babel, where they were seruants to him & his sonnes vntill the reigne of the kingdome of Persia, to fulfill the word of the lord by the mouth of Jeremiah, vntill the land had enioyed her sabbaths: for as long as she lay desolate she kept the sabbath, to fulfill threescore & ten yeres. Now in the first yere of Cyrus king of Persia, that the word of the lord by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled, the lord stirred vp the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdome, & put it also in writing, saying, Thus saith Cyrus king of Persia, All the kingdomes of the earth haue the lord God of heauen giuen me, & he hath charged me to build him an house at Jerusalem which is in Judah. Who is there among you of all his people? The lord his God be with him, & let him go vp.

chambers, in the house of the Lorde. And they put the Priestes them, and caried such stuffe out of the Temple, & the diuerse thynges faithfully. Ouer whiche, Conaniah the Leuite, had the rule, and Semei his brother next to hym. And Iehiel, Azariah, Nachath, Asahel, Jerimoth, Iosabad, Eliel, Ismachiah, Mahath, and Banaiah, were ouerseers, ap-poynted by Chonaniah and Semei his brother, vnder the officer of Ezechia the King, and Azaria was the ruler of the house of God. Vnto whom all these thynges belonged. And Chore, the sonne of Imna, the Leuite, and porter of the East doore, had the ouersight of the thynges that were offered of a free will vnto God (and were geuen in manner, generally vnto the Lorde) and ouer the thynges most holy. And vnder his hand were Eden, Miniamin, Iesua, Semaiah, Amariah, & Sechaniah, in the cities of the Priests, appoynted of their brethren, to geue to their brethren their portions as well to the small, as to the great. Except those that of the males, that were reckened from three yere and aboue (among all that went into the house of the Lorde) their should geue daie by daie, for their ministracion, and for their seuerall attendance and for their diuerse watchinges, by course. Vnto the Priestes and Leuites, throughout the hauholde of their fathers, from xx. yere and aboue, to their seuerall courses came. And to the families of all their babes, wiues, sonnes, and daughters, through all the congregacion. For vpon the faithfull preparinge of the holy thynges he followed to the children of Aaron the priestes, which were in the fieldes, & suburbes of their citees citee by citee, the men whose names be expressed afore) would geue portions, euen to all the males among the Priestes, and to all the Leuites, according to their numbers. And of this maner did Ezechia throughout all Iu-da, and wrought the thyng that was good, right, and true, before the Lorde his God. And in all the workes that he began (in the seruice of the house of God, for the lawe, and for the commaundementes, he sought his God, and that did he with all his harte, and prospered.

The xxxi. Capitel.

NOwe after that these deedes were faithfully wrought, Sennacherib king of Assur came, and entred into Iuda, and espyed the strong citees, and thought to winne them for himself.
And so when Ezechia sawe, that Sennacherib was come, and that he was purposed to fight against Ierusalem, he tooke counsell with his lordes, and men of might, to stoppe the watre of the fountaines, without the citee: and they did help him. For there gathered many of the people together, and stopped the welles, and the brooke, that ran through the myddes of the land, saying: Why shuld the kynges of Assur come, and finde much watre?
And so he went to, and buylte up the walle where it was broken, and made towres vpon the same, and to the other walle without, and repaired Millo, in the citee of Dauid, and made many dartes and shil-des. And he set capitaines of warre ouer the people, and gathered them together to hym, in the large strete at the gate of the citee, and spake gently to them, saying: Be not afrayed nor discouraged for the kyng of Assur, and for all the multitude, that he hath with hym: For there be mo with vs, then with hym. With hym is an arme of flesshe. But with vs is the Lorde our God, for to helpe vs, and to fight our battailes. And the people took a courage, through the wordes of Ezechia kyng of Iuda. After this did Sennacherib kyng of Assur, (& his seruantes) to Ierusalem: (but he himselfe remained before Lachis, hauyng all his power with him) vnto Ezechi kyng of Iuda, and to all Iuda that were at Ie-rusalem, saying thus: Thus saith Sennacherib kyng of Assur: Wherein is ye trust, or for what dwell in Ierusalem, which is besieged with out? Ezechia entyse you, to geue ouer your selues vnto death, hunger, & thirst, saying: The Lorde our God shall rid vs out of the hand of the kyng of Assur? Hath not the same Ezechia put awai his high places, and his altares, and commaunded Iuda and Ierusalem, saying: Ye shall worship before one Altar, and burne incense vpon the same? Knowe ye not, what I and my fathers haue done, vnto the people of all landes? Were the Goddes of the people of other landes able to saue their landes out of my hand? Which of all the god-des of those nacions (that my fathers destroyed) could deliuer his people out of myne hande? And shall your God be able to deliuer you out of myne hande? Wherefore now, let not Ezechia deceiue you, nor perswade you on this maner, nor yet beleue him. For as no God emong all nacions and kyngdoms, hath ben able to rid his people out of my hand, and out of the hande of my fathers: Euen so much lesse shall your Goddes be able to kepe you out of my hande. And yet more thynges did his seruauntes speake, against the Lorde God, and against his seruaunt Ezechia. And Sennacherib also wrote a letter, to raile on the Lorde God of Israell, and spake against him saying: As the gods of the nacions of other landes, haue not been able to deliuer their people out of my hand, euen so shall not the God of Ezechia deliuer his people out of my hand. And they cried with a loud voyce, in the Iewes speche, vnto all the people of Ierusalem that were on the wal, to feare them, & to make them afrayed, and that they might so take the citee. And they spake against the God of Jerusalem, as against the god of the nacions of the yearth, & they coude not delyuer the handes of their god. Then the kyng, and the Prophete Esai, the sonne of Amoz, praied against the blasphemie, and cried vp to heuen. And the lorde sent an Angell, whiche destroyed all the men of warre, and the leaders and capitaines of the hoste of the kyng of Assur. Thus he turned his face again with shame to his owne lande, and when he was come into the house of his god, there that came of his owne body, slewe him there with the sweard. And so the lorde saued Ezechia, & the inhabiters of Jerusalem, out of the hande of Sennacherib kyng of Assur, and out of the hand of all other, and maintained them on every side. And many brought offrynges vnto the lorde to Jerusalem, and precentes to Ezechia, kyng of Jude: so that he was magnified in the sight of all nacions from thence forth. In those dayes Ezechia was sicke vnto the death, & prayed vnto the lorde, whiche answered him and shewed him a wonderfull miracle. But Ezechia did not again vnto God, accordyng to it, that he had shewed him, for his hart arose, & there came wrathe vpon him, and vpon Juda and Jerusalem. Notwithstandyng, Ezechia submitted himselfe (after that his harte was risen vp) he, and the inhabiters of Jerusalem: and the wrath of the lorde came not vpon them in the dayes of Ezechia. And Ezechia had exceedyng muche riches and honor. And he gat him Cesauries of siluer and gold, precious stones, and spices, & shildes, and of all maner of pleasaunt iewelyng made rowes vnder the sealyng of the house, for wine and Oyle: and Galleries for all maner of beastes, and Cotes for sheepe. And he made him cities, & had of sheepe and Oxen greate abundance. For God had geuen him substaunce exceedyng muche. This same Ezechia stopped the vpper watercourse of Gihon, and brought them downe to the weste side of the cite of David. And Ezechia prospered in all his workes. And when the princes of Babilon, sent vnto him and desired to inquire of the wonder, that chaunced in the land, God left him to tempte him, & that all that was in his hart might be knowen. The rest of the deedes of Ezechia, & his goodnes behold, they are written in the vision of Esai the prophet, the sonne of Amoz, in the booke of the kinges of Juda and Israel. And Ezechia slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the moste worthy place of the sepulchres of the sonnes of Dauid: & all Juda & the inhabiters of Jerusalem, did him worshipe at his death. And Manasse his sonne reigned in his stede.

The xxxiij. Chapiter.

Manasse was .xij. yeres old when he began to reigne, and he reigned .lv. yeres in Jerusalem. But did euil in the sight of the lorde like vnto the abhominacions of the people whom the lorde cast out, before the children of Israell. For he went to, and buylte the hill altar, which Ezechia his father, had broken doune. And he reared vp altares for Baalim, & made grouen, and worshipped all the hoste of heauen, and serued them. And he buylt altares in the house of the lorde, where as the lorde yet had sayde: Jerusalem shall my name be for euer. And he buylte altares for all the hoste of heauen, in the .ij. courtes, of the house of the lorde. And he burnt his children in fire, in the valley of the sonne of Hinnon. He wrought a sorcerous: he regarded the crieng of birdes, vsed inchauntmentes, and maintained workers with spirites, and Yeares of sortunes: and wrought muche euill in the sight of the lorde to angre him with al. And he put the grauen Image, and Idol, whiche he had made, in the house of God. Of which house God had said to Dauid, and to Salomon his sonne: In this house, and in Jerusalem, whiche I haue chosen, aboue al the tribes of Israel, will I put my name for euer, and will no more dryue the feete of Israell from the lande, whiche I haue ordeined for your fathers. If so be that they will be diligent, & do al that I haue commaunded them, in al the lawes & statutes, and ordinaunces, by the hand of Moses. And to Manasse made Juda, and the inhabiters of Jerusalem to erre, & to worke then the Heathen, whiche the lorde destroyed before the children of Israell. And the lorde spake to Manasse, and to his people, but they would not regarde. Wherfore the lorde brought vpon them the capitaines of the hoste, whiche were of the kyng of the Assirians, whiche toke Manasse in hold, and bound him with chaines, and caried him to Babilo. And when he was in tribulacion, he besought the lorde his God, & humbled himselfe exceedyngly before the God of his fathers, and made supplicacion vnto him. And God was intreated of him, and hard his praier, and brought him again to Jerusalem, into his kyngdome. And then Manasse knewe, that the lorde was God. Afterwarde he buylte a wall without the cite of Dauid, on the west side of Gihon, in the valley, and then came to the fishe gate, and vmbrade about Ophel, and brought it vp, of a very great heighth, and put capitaines of warre in all the strong cities of Juda. And he toke away the straunge Gods and Images, out of the house of God, and al the Altares that he had buylte in the mount of the house of God, and Jerusalem, and cast them out of the cite. And he prepared the Altar of the Lorde, and sacrificed theron peace offerynges, and thanke offerynges, and charged Juda, to serue the lorde God of Israell. Nevertheles, the people did after still in the hill Altares, howbeit, vnto the Lorde their God onely. The rest of the actes of Manasse, and his praier vnto dyd ryght that spake to hym in the name of the lorde God of Israel, beyonde, they are written in the sayinges of the kynges of Israel. And his prayer, and how that he was heard, and all his sinnes, and his trespasse, and the places where he made hyghtaltares, and set vp groues and graues, before he was meeked, beholde, they are written amonge the sayinges of the seers. And Manasse slepte with his fathers, and they buryed hym in his owne house: and Amon his sonne reygned in his sonne. Amon was two and twentye yere olde when he began to reygne, and reygned two yere in Jerusalem. But he dyd euyll in the sight of the Lorde, like as dyd Manasse his father, for Amon sacrificed to all the carued ymages, which Manasse his father had made and serued them, and submitted not hymselfe before the Lorde, as Manasse his father had meeked hymselfe. But Amon trespaced greatly. And his owne seruauntes conspired against hym, and slewe hym in his owne house. But the people of the lande slewe all them that had conspired against kynge Amon. And the same people of the lande made Josia his sonne kyng in his sonne.

iiij. Regum. xxii.a. Josia was eyght yere olde when he began to reygne, and he reygned in Jerusalem. xxxi. yere. And he did that which was right in the sight of the lorde, and walked in the wayes of Dauid his father, and bowed neyther to the right hande nor to the left. In the eyght yere of his reygne (when he was yet a childe) he began to seke after the God of Dauid his father. And in the twelueth yere he began to pourge Juda, and Jerusalem fro hyghtaltares, groues, keruen ymages, and ymages of metall: and they brake downe the aultares of Baalim, euen in his presence, and other ymages, that were in greater honour then they, he rased to be destroyed. And the groues, keruen ymages, and ymages of metall, he brake and made powre of them, and strawed it vpon the graues of them that had offred vnto them. And he burnt the bones of the priestes vpo the aultares of them, and cleansed Juda and Jerusalem. And euen so did he in the cities of Manasse, Ephraim, Simeon, vnto Nephthali. And in the wyldernesse of them, rounde about, he plucked in sonder the aultares and the groues, and did beate them and stampe them to powder, and brake downe all the ymages thorowout all the lande of Israel, and returned to Jerusalem againe. In the. xviij. yere of his reygne when he had purged the lande and the temple, he sent Saphan the son of Amatsyas, nim, and Maasiah the gouernour of the citie, and Joah the sonne of Joahas the recorder, to repayre the house of the Lorde his God.

iiij. Regum. xxii.b. And when they came to Helkia the hye preest, they deliuered the money that was brought into the house of God, which the Leuites that kepte the entree, had gathered of the hand of Manasse, an Ephraim, and of all that yet remayned in Israel, and of all Juda and Beniamin, and of the enhabiters of Jerusalem. And they put it in the handes of the workemen that had the ouersyghte of the house of the Lorde, and they gaue it to the labourers that wrought in the house of the Lorde, to repayre and amende the house. Euen to maisons and carpenters, gaue they it, to hewe stone and timbre for couples and for beames of the houses, whiche the kynges of Juda had destroyed. And the men dyd the worke faythfully. And the ouerseers of them to ouerage them, were Jahath and Obadiah, Leuites, of the sonnes of Merari: and Zecharia, and Mesullam, of the children of the Cahathites, and other of the Leuites, which all could skyll of instrumentes of musyke. Also were they ouer the bearers of burthens, and ouer all that wrought in whatsoeuer worke, in seruyce it were. And there scribes, officers, and porters of the seuten. And when they brought out the money that was brought into the house of the lorde, Helkia the preest founde the booke of the lawe of the lorde geuen by Moyses. And Helkia answered and sayde to Saphan the scribe, I haue founde the booke of the lawe in the house of the Lorde. And Helkia gaue the booke to Saphan. And Saphan caried the booke to the kyng, & brought the kyng worde again, saying: all that was committed to thy seruauntes, that do they. And they haue gathered together the money that was founde in the house of the lorde, & haue deliuered yet into the handes of the ouerseers of the worke and to the handes of the workemen. Also then Saphan the scribe shewed the kyng, saying: Helkia the preest hath geuen me a booke. And Saphan redde it before the kyng. And it came to passe, that when the kyng had herd the wordes of the lawe, he rente his clothes. And the kyng commaunded Helkia, & Ahikam the sonne of Saphan, and Abdon the sonne of Micah, and Saphan the scribe, & Asaia a seruaunt of the kynges, saying: go aske counsayle of the Lorde for me, and for them that are lefte in Israel and Juda concernynge the wordes of the booke that is founde: for great is the wrathe of the Lorde that is fallen vpon vs, because oure fathers haue not kepte the worde of the lorde, to do after all that is written in this booke. And Helkia, and they that the kynge had appoynted, wente to Hulda a prophetesse the wyfe of Sallum, the sonne of Thokhath, the sonne of Hasra keper of the wardrobe (for she dwelte in Jerusalem wyth in the seconde wall) and to they communed [illegible] shewed them, thus sayeth commaundement of Iosias, and in the chyldren of Israel, that were present, they from the same time, and kepte the feaste of vnleuened breade seuen dayes, and there was no like feaste kepte vnto that kepte in Israell, eyther the dayes of Samuell the prophete: neyther did all the kynges of Israell holde suche a feaste as did Iosia & the priestes & Leuites, and all Iuda, and Israel that were present, and the inhabiters of Ierusalem.

The feaste ouer was kepte in the yeare of the reygne of Iosias, before that Iosia had prepared the temple. Nechao kyng of Egipte came vp to fight against Carcamis beside Euphrates, & Iosias went out against hym. Whiche sent messengers to him, & said, what haue I to do with the thou kyng of Iuda? be not thou against thy selfe this daye: for my warre is against another house, and God had me make haste. Leaue be therefore and medle not with God which is with me, lest he destroye thee. Neuertheles Iosia would not turne his face from him, but rather to abuse him fought with him, & hee hearkened not vnto the wordes of Nechao out of the mouth of God, & came to fight in the valley of Magedo, and the princes shot at king Iosia. And the king said to his seruaunt, Carry me away, for I am sore wounded.
His seruaunte therefore toke him out of the chare, and put him vp in his seconde chare, and brought him to Ierusalem, & he died, & was buried in the sepulchre of his auncestors. And all Iuda and Ierusalem mourned for Iosia. And Ieremia lamented Iosias, & all the princes & the women singers haue lamented Iosias vnto this day, and made the same lamentation an ordinaunce in Israel, beholde they be written in the lamentacions.
The actes of the same Iosias and his goodnes which he did in following the lawe of the Lorde, and his kingdoms first and last behold, they are written in the boke of the kynges of Israel and Iuda.

The .ij. Chapiter.

Then the people of the lande tooke Iehoa-chaz the sonne of Iosia, and made him kynge in his fathers stead in Ierusalem. And Ie-hoacha was .xxiij. yeares old when he began to reigne, & he reygned three monethes in Ie-rusalem. And the kyng of Egipte put him down at Ierusalem, & mulcted the lande in an hundred talentes of siluer, and a talent of golde.
And the kyng of Egipte made Eliakim his brother kyng vpon Iuda & Ierusalem, and turned his name vnto Ioacim. And Nechao toke Zaroa his brother, and caried him to Egipte. Ioacim was .xxv. yeares old when he began to reigne, & he reygned el-leuen yeares in Ierusalem, & he did euyll before the Lorde his God. Against him came vp Nabuchodonozor kyng of Babylon, & bounde him with two chaynes to carye him to Babylon. The kynge also caried away parte of the vessels of the house of the Lorde, & put them in his temple at Babylon. Wherefore of the actes of Iehoiakim, and his abominacions which he did, and what vnpure thinges were layed to his charge beholde, they are written in the bokes of the kynges of Israel and Iuda. & Iechonias his sonne reygned in his stede. Iechonias was eyght yeres olde when he began to rey-gne, & he reigned three monethes & tenne dayes in Ierusalem, and did euyll in the sight of the lorde. And when the yeare was expired Nabuchodonozor sent, and caried him to Babylon with the goodly vessels of the house of the lorde, & made Sedechias (his father brother) kynge ouer Iuda and Ierusalem. Sedekias was .xxi. yere olde, when he began to reygne, and reygned .xi. yere in Ierusalem. And he did euyll in the sight of the lorde his God, and humbled not him selfe before Ieremias the prophete at the mouth of the lorde. And he rebelled against king Nabuchodonozor, which had caused him to othe by God. But he was stiffnecked, and so hath hatred to turne vnto the lord God of Israel. Moreouer, all the rulers, the priestes and the people transgressed more, tryinge after all maner of abo-minacions of the heythen, & polluted the house of the Lorde which he had hallowed in Ierusalem. And the lorde God of their fathers sente to them by his messengers, rysinge vp by times, & calling, for he had compassion on his people, & on his dwellinge place. But they mocked the messengers of God, and despysed his wordes, and misused his prophetes, vntill the wrath of the lord arose against his people, & till there was no remedy.
And so he brought vpon them the kyng of the Caldees, which slewe their yong men with the sworde in their holy temple, & had no pitie vpon yong man, mayden, old man, nor him that stoupeth for age. He gaue them all into his hand. And all the vessels of the house of God great & small, & the treasures of the house of the Lorde, and the treasures of the kyng, and of his princes, all these he caried to Babylon. And they burnt the house of God, & brake downe the wall of Ierusalem, & burnt all the palaces thereof with fyre, & destroyed all the goodly iewelles therof. And the rest that had escaped the sworde caried he to Babylon, where they were bounde to him & his children, vntyll the time that Persia had the rule. To fulfill the worde of the Lorde by the mouth of Ieremie, vntil the lande had enioyed her sabbothes. For as long as she laye desolate she kepte sabboth, vntyll fourescore & .x. yeares were fulfilled.

(where the worde of the Lorde shulde be spoken by the mouth of Jeremie) in all that space, the Lorde stirred up the spirite of Cyrus kyng of Persia, that he made a proclamation throughout all his kyngdome, and that by writynge also, saying: Thus sayeth Cyrus kynge of Persia: All the kyngdomes of the yearth hath the Lorde God of heauen geuen me, and hath charged me to buylde him an house in Jerusalem that is in Jurie. Who here is of all youre people, the Lorde his God be with him, and let him go vp.

The first Chapter.

In the first yeare of Cyrus kyng of Persia, that the worde of the Lorde (spoken by the mouthe of Jeremy) might be fulfilled, the Lorde stirred vp the spirite of Cyrus kynge of Persia, that he caused a proclamation to be proclaimed throughout all his kyngdome, and that by writynge also, saying: Thus sayeth Cyrus kynge of Persia: All the kyngdomes of the yearth hath the Lorde God of heauen geuen me, and hath charged me to buylde him an house in Jerusalem that is in Jurie. Who here is of all youre people, the Lorde his God be with him, and let him go vp to Jerusalem in Jurie, and buylde the house of the Lorde God of Israell. He is the God that is at Jerusalem. And whosoeuer remayneth yet in anye maner of place (where he is a Straunger) let the men of the place helpe him with siluer & gold, with good and cattel, besyde that which they willingly offre for the house of God that is at Jerusalem. Then gat vp the principall fathers of Juda & Beniamin, & the priestes & Leuites, and all they whose spirite God had raysed vp to go vp, & to buylde the house of the Lord which is at Jerusalem. And all they that were about them strengthened their hands with vessels of siluer and golde, with good & cattel, and with precious thinges, besyde that euery one offered freely. And kyng Cyrus brought forth the vessels of the house of the Lorde, which Nabuchadonozor had taken out of Jerusalem, & had put in the house of his God. Those did Cyrus kyng of Persia bring forth by the hande of Mithridathes the treasurer, & nombred them vnto Sesbazer the prince of Juda. And these are the nombre of them. xxx. chargers of gold. M. chargers of siluer. xxix. knyues. xxx. boules of golde. cccc. & x. of other siluer boules. M. other vessels. So all the vessels of golde and siluer were v. M. v. C. & lxix. Sesbazer caryed vp with them that came out of the captiuitie of Babylon vnto Jerusalem.

The .ii. Chapter.

Now these are the children of the lande that came vp out of the captiuitie (whome Nabuchodonozor the kynge of Babilon had caried awaye vnto Babylon, and came againe vnto Jerusalem and into Juda, euerye one vnto his cyte) which came with Zorobabel are these, Jesua, Nehemiah, Saraia, Reelaia, Mardochai, Bilsan, Mispar, Biguai, Rehum, Baana. seuen and seuentye. The children of Asna, the children of Nehim, the children of Baanah and Lamentene. The children of Jeconiah, and Cabinias of the children of Nahomia, foure and seuentye. The synggers, the children of Asaph, an hundred and eyght and twenty. The chyldren of the porte keper. The children of Sallum the children of Ater, the children of Talmon, the children of Akub, the children of Hatita, the children of Sobaisai together an hundred and xxxix. The Methinims, the children of Siha, the chyldren of Hasupha, the children of Tabaoth, the children of Ceros, the children of Sua, the children of Padon, the children of Lebanah, the children of Hagaba, the chyldren of Akub, the children of Hagab, the children of Samlai, the children of Hanan, the children of Gyddel, the children of Gahar, the chyldren of Reaia, the children of Razin, the children of Necoda, the chyldren of Gasam, the children of Uza, the children of Phaseah, the chyldren of Basai, the children of Asna, the children of Mehunim, the chyldren of Nephusym, the children of Bachuc, the children of Hacupha, the children of Harhur, the chyldren of Bazluth, the children of Mehida, the children of Harsa, the children of Barcum, the children of Sysara, the children of Thamah, the children of Neziah, the children of Hatiphe. The children of Salomons seruauntes, the children of Sotai, the children of Sophereth, the children of Peruda, the children of Jaala, the children of Darcon, the children of Giddel, the children of Sephatiah, the children of Hattil, the children of Pochereth, Hasbaim, the children of Ami. All the Methinims, and the children of Salomons seruauntes were all to gyther two hundred nynetye and two.

And these went vp from Thelmelah, and from Thelharsa, Cherob, Addon, & Immer. But they coulde not discerne theyr fathers house and their kede, whether they were of Israel. The children of Delaiah, the children of Tobia, the children of Necoda, vi. hundred and two and fyfte. And of the children of the priestes. The children of Habia, the children of Hacoz, the children of Berzelai, which tooke one of the doughters of Berzilai the Gileadite to wyfe, and was called after their name. These sought their euidence amonge them that had the register of byrth, and were not founde therin, therfore were they put from the priesthode. And Nehemiah sayd vnto them, that they shulde not eate of the most holy, till there rose vp a preest with Vrim and Thumim. The whole congregacion together was xlii. thousand, three hundred and three score, besyde their seruauntes & maydens, of whome there were seuen thousand, three hundred and seuen and thirtye. And there were amonge them two hundred syngyng men & women. Their horses were seuen hundred, and fyue and thyrtye. Their mules, two hundred & fyue and twenty. Their camels, foure hundred and fyue and thirtye. Their asses, fyue thousand, seuen hundred and twentye. And certayne of the chiefe fathers: when they came because of the house of the Lorde at Jerusalem, offered them selues willyngly to the house of God, to set it in his place: & gaue gold after their habilitie, vnto the treasure of the worke, xxi. thousand pieces, and fyue thousande pounde of syluer, and an hundred preestes garmentes. So the preestes and the Leuites, and certayne of the people, & the syngers, and the porters, and the Methinims dwelte in their cities, and all Israel in their cities.

And when the seuenth moneth came and the children of Israel were now in their cities: the people came together (euen as one man) vnto Jerusalem. And there stode vp Jesua the son of Josedec: and his brethren the preestes, and Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and his brethren, and buylded the aultare of the God of Israell, to offre burntoffrynges theron, as it is written in the lawe of Moses, the man of God. And the aultare set they vpon his sockettes (for there was a fearefulnesse amonge them because of the nacions and landes) therfore they offred burntoffrynges theron vnto the Lorde in the morayng and at euen. And they held the feast of tabernacles, as it is written, and offred burntsacrifices dayly, according to the nombre and custome pertayninge vnto euery day. Afterwarde they offered dayly burntoffrynges also, and in the newe mouethes, and in all the feastdayes that were consecrate vnto the lorde, & for all them whiche did (of their owne free wyll) offre vnto the lorde. From the first day of the seuenth moneth began they to offre burnte sacrifices vnto the Lorde: euen when the foundacio of the temple of the lorde was not yet layed. They gaue money also vnto the masons and carpenters, and meate and drynke and oyle vnto them of Zidon and of Tyre, to bryng them Cedre tymbre from Libanus by sea vnto Joppa: accordinge to the graunt that they had of Cirus the kyng of Persia. In the second yere of their comynge vnto the place of the house of God at Jerusalem, in the second moneth began Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and Jesua the sonne of Josedec, and the remnaunt of their brethren the preestes and Leuites, and all they that were comen out of the captiuite vnto Jerusalem, & appointed chyldren from .xx. yere olde and vpwarde, to set them vpon the worke of the house of the lorde. So went forwarde Jesua with his sonnes and brethren, and chaunted with their voyces, and the children of Iuda, to confesse the mercyfulnesse of the lorde towarde Israell, from the begynnynge of the moneth, with their children, & they magnified the Lorde: And when the buylders layed the foundacion of the temple of the lorde, the priestes stode in their araye with trompettes. And the Leuites the children of Asaph with cymbales to prayse the lorde after the ordynaunce of Dauid kynge of Israell. And they sange prayses and thankes vnto the lorde, because he is gracious, & his mercy endureth for euer more. Israell and all the people made a great shoute, in prayse of the lorde, because the foundacion of the house of the lorde was layed. Many also of the priestes & Leuites and auncient fathers: which had sene the first house, whē the foundacion of this house was layde before their eyes, wept with a loude voyce. Many made shoute with ioye, so that the noyse gaue a great consentement so mocheyat the people could not discerne the ioyful soundes and gladnes, from the noyse of the weepynge amonge the people: for the people shouted with a loude crye: and the noyse was heard farre off.

The xxxi. daye. A. at Mattyns. iii. Esd. v. g.

BVt the aduersaryes, Iuda and Beniamin herd, that the children of the captiuitie buylded the temple vnto the lorde God of Israell. And they came to Zorobabel & to the prynce all fathers, and sayde vnto them. We wyl build with you: for we seke the lorde your God lyke as ye do. And we haue done sacrifice vnto hym, sence the tyme of Asor haddon the kyng of Assur which brought vs hyther. And Zorobabel, and Iesus, and the other auncient fathers of Israel, sayd vnto them: It can not be, that you and we together, should buylde the house vnto our God: for we our selues wyl buyld alone vnto the Lorde youre God of Israell, as Cyrus the kyng of Persia hath commaunded vs. And it came to passe, that the folke of the land hynded the people of Iuda, and troubled them as they were buyldyng, and hyred counsellers against them, to hynder their deuise, all the tyme of Cyrus the kynge of Persia, vntyll the raygne of Darius kyng of Persia.

vi. Re. xii. d

i. Esdr. i. a

And in the raygne of Assuerus (euen in the begynnynge of his raygne) wrote they vnto him a complaint against the inhabiters of Iuda & Ierusalem. And in the dayes of the chapitles, wrote Mithridah Babel, and the other of his councell, vnto Artaxerxes the kynge of Persia with their wordes. And the scripture of the letter was written in the Assirian tonge, and interpreted in the Assirian tonge. Rehum the chauncellour, and Shamai the scribe wrote a letter from Ierusalem to Artaxerxes the kynge, thus he saieth.

15. Rehum the chauncellour, and Shamai the scribe, and others of their counsayle, of Dinai, of the princes of Apharsathchi, of Persia, of Arach, of Babylon, of Susa, of Dehajot Elam, and other of the people whom the great and noble Asnapar brought ouer and set in the cytie of Samaria, and other that are on this syde the water. Now is the copye of the letter that they sent vnto kyng Artaxerxes.

iii. Re. xvii. d.

Thy seruauntes and the men that are on this syde the water. Be it knowen vnto the kyng, that the Iewes, which came vp from thee, are come vnto Ierusalem: cytie rebellious and wicked: and buylde the walles thereof, & ioyne the foundacion. Be it knowen also vnto the kyng, that if this cytie be buylded, & the walles therof made vp again, then will not they geue colle, tribute, and custome, and the kynges reuenue shall at length be damaged. And now in the meane season we haue receyued the temple, and wolde no longer see the kynges dishonoure. Therefore haue we sent, & certifyed the kynge: that he may be sought in the bookes of the Chronicles of thy progenitours, and shalt thou finde in the bokes of the Chronicles, & perceyue that this cytie is seditious and noysome vnto kynges and landes, and that they cause other also among them to rebel, & lothe, and for the same cause was this cytie destroyed. Therefore do we certifie the kynge, that if this cytie be buylded again, and the walles therof made vp: thou shalt hereafter haue no portion on this syde the water.

W. Then sent the kyng answere vnto Rehum the chancellour, and Shamai the scribe, and to the other of their companions that dwell in Samaria, & vnto the other that were beyonde the water, in Belan & Chebeth. The letter which ye sent vnto vs hath ben openly red before me, & I haue commaunded to make search: and it is found: that this cytie of old hath made warre against kynges, & that rebellion & rebellion hath ben committed therin. For haue ben in the kynges also at Ierusalem, which haue gouerned all countrey on this side the water: and tolle, tribute, and custome was geuen vnto them. Geue ye now the commaundement that the same men be forbidden and that the cytie be not buylded again, tyll I haue geuen an other commaundement. Take heede now that ye be not negligent to do this: why should the hurt haue harme ouer the kynges? Now then the copye of kynge Artaxerxes letter was red before Rehum and Shamai the scribe and their companions, and they went vp in haste to Ierusalem vnto the Iewes, and made them to cease by power & strength of armes.

iii. esd. vi. a. The prophetes Aggeus and Zacharye, the sonne of Iddo prophecied vnto the Iewes that were in Iuda & Ierusalem, in the name of the God of Israel. Then gat vp zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and Iesus the son of Iosedec, and began to build the house of God at Ierusalem: & with them were the prophetes of God which helped them. The same time came to them Sathnai, which was captayne on this syde the water, & Starbazanai, & their companions, and sayd thus vnto them: Who hath commaunded you to builde this house, & to make vp these walles? Then told we the the names of the men that made this building. But the eye of their God was vpo the elders of the Iewes, that they could not cause them vtterly to cease, tyll the matter were brought to Darius, & then they answered by letters three vnto. This is the copye of the letter, that Sathnai (which was captaine on this syde the water) & Sthenbuzanai, & the counsaylers of Syria (which were on this side the water) sent vnto kyng Darius. And the matter that they sent vnto hym, was written thus with the letter vnto Darius the kyng, al peace. Be it knowen vnto the kyng, that we went in to the land of Iewry, to the house of the great God, which is builded with mighty great stones, & beames are layed in the walles, & the worke goth fast forth, and prospereth in their handes. Then asked we the elders, & said vnto them as fre to worthy, Who commaunded you to builde this house: & to make vp the walles therof? We asked their names also, that we might certifye the, and write the names of the men that were their rulers. But they answered vs with these wordes, & said: We are the seruantes of him that is God of heauen & yearth, & build the house that was builded many yeres ago, which a great kyng of Israel builded, and set vp. But after that our fathers had prouoked the eye of God of heauen vnto wrath, he gaue them ouer into the hand of Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Babylon, & of the Chaldees which brake downe this house, & tarye the people away captiue vnto Babylon. But in the first yere of Cyrus the kyng of Babylo, the same kyng Cyrus gaue commaundement to cause to build this house of God, that it should be vprysen again: And the vessels also of the house of God, which Nabuchodonosor toke out of the temple at Ierusalem, & brought them into the temple at Babylon, those did Cyrus the kyng take out of the temple at Babylo, & they were deliuered vnto one Sarabarus by name, whom he made captayne, and sayd vnto him: Take these vessels, & go thy wayes, & let them in the temple that is at Ierusalem, & let the house of God be buylded in his place. Then came the same Sarabazar, and layed the foundacion of the house of God which is at Ierusalem. Sence that time also vntil now hath it ben in buylding, and yet is it not finished. Wherefore (if it please the kyng) let there be searched in the kynges house which is there at Babylon, whether it be so that the kyng Cyrus commaundement that this temple of God at Ierusalem shuld be buylded, and his pleasure be the kyng herein concerning this same matter.

The vi. Chapiter.

The first day at Mattyns.

Then commaunded kyng Darius, & there made search in the library, where the place where they layed vp the treasure at Babylon. And there was founde in a certayne the place that lyeth vnder the hand of the Medes a volume, & therin was this written a sucke a memorial. In the first yere of kyng Cyrus, gaue the same kyng Cyrus commaundement concerning the house of God at Ierusalem: that the same house shuld be buylded in the place where they offer the sacrifices, and to layne the walles togeather of the rose rubbes beyghe, & three rose rubbes breadth. Thre rowes of rought stones, and one rowe of timbre, & the expences shall be geuen of the kynges house. And let the gold and syluer vessel of the house of God, which Nabuchodonosor toke out of the temple at Ierusalem and brought vnto Babylon be restored, & brought againe vnto the temple at Ierusalem, to their place & the house of God. Let ye kepe them therfore, thou Sathnai captaine beyonde the water, & Starbazanai, & your counsayle rs, and other Sethi, which are beyonde the water, get ye away from them. Let the worke of the house of this God alone, that the captayne of the Iewes and their elders may buylde the house of God in his place. I haue commaunded what shall be done to the elders of Iuda, to the buylding of the house of God, that there shal be vtterly geuen taken of the kynges goodes, euen of the tenthe beyonde the water, & geuen vnto the men, that they be not hyndred. And if they haue nede of calues, lambes, and lambes for the burntofferinge of the God of heauen, wheate, salte, wyne, and oyle, after the custome of the priestes at Ierusalem, let the same be geuen them dayly without abode: that they may offre swete sauoures vnto the God of heauen, and pray for the kynges life, and for his children. And euche a commaundement haue I layed, that no man now hereafter of the attempte this worke, there shal a beame be taken out of his house, and he vp, and he shalbe hanged therein, and his house made a iakes for the same cause. And the God that hath his name there, destroye all kynges and people that put to their hande to alter, & to destroy to vse the house of God whiche is at Jerusalem. I Darius haue commaunded, that this be done with speede. Then whanne the captyue of the countrey beyonde the water, and Sathabozanes with their counselours (to whom kyng Darius had sent) and their princes / forthe the Elders of the Iewes begin with audacy to builde the temple, preachyng of Aggeus the prophete, and Zacharey the sonne of Addo: and they builded and layed vp the foundacion, accordyng as the commaundement of the God of Israell, and after the commaundement of Cyrus and Darius, & Artaxerxes kynges of Persia. And the house was finished the thirde daye of the moneth Adar, euen in the fyfte yere of the reygne of kyng Darius. And the children of Israell the prestes, the Leuites, and the other children of the captiuitie held the dedicacion of this house of God with ioye, and offered at the dedicacion of this house of god an hundred oxen: two hundreth rammes, fourre hundreth goates, and for the reconcilyacion of all Israel twelue he goates: accordyng to the nombre of the tribes of Israell, and for the prestes in their sundrye courses, & the Leuites in their ministery offices to minister vnto God at Jerusalem: as it is written in the booke of Moses. And the children of the captiuitie helde Easter vpon the fourtenth daye of the fyrste moneth, for the prestes and Leuites were purified, so that they were all cleane togyther, and killed Easter for all the children of the captiuitie, and for them bretheren the prestes, and for themselues. And the children of Israell / whiche were come again out of captiuitie, & all suche as had separated themselues vnto them from the fylthynesse of the heythen of the lande: to seke the lorde God of Israell, did eate, & helde the feest of vnleuened breade seuen dayes with ioye: for the lorde had made them glad, and turned the hert of the kynge of Assur vnto them, to strengthen their handes in the worke of the house of god, euen the god of Israell.

The. viii. Chapiter.

Esdras. Esdras the sonne of Saraia, the sonne of Azarias, the sonne of Ezechias, the sonne of Sadeia, the sonne of Sadduk, the sonne of Achitob, the sonne of Amarias, the sonne of Ezechias, the sonne of Meraioth, the sonne of Zaraias, the sonne of Oli, the sonne of Bocki, the sonne of Abisue, the sonne of Phinees, the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron the hyest prest: this Esdras came vp out of Babylon, and was a scribe scribe in the lawe of Moses, which the lorde God of Israell had geuen. And the kynge honoured him, for he found grace before him in all thynges he required, because the hande of the lorde his God was vpon him. And there went vp certayne of the children of Israell, of the prestes, Leuites, singers, porters, and of the Nethinims vnto Jerusalem, in the seuenth yere of kynge Artaxerxes. And he came to Jerusalem in the fyfte moneth, euen in the seuenth yere of the kyng. For vpon the fyrste daye of the fyrste moneth, began he to go vp fro Babylon, and on the fyrste daye of the fyfte moneth came he to Jerusalem, because the good hand of God was vpon him. For Esdras prepared his harte to seke the lawe of the Lord, and to do it, and to teache the peoples iudgement in Israell. And this is the copye of the letter, that kynge Artaxerxes gaue vnto Esdras the prieste & scribe, euen the wise writer of the wordes and commaundementes of the lorde, and of his statutes, vnto Israell. Artaxerxes a kynge of kynges vnto Esdras the priest and scribe of the lawe of the God of heauen, peace and salutacion. I haue commaunded, that all they of the people of Israell, and of the prestes, and Leuites in my realme (whiche are myndeb of their owne good will to go vp to Jerusalem) go with the: and therfore art thou sent of the kynge and of his seuen counsaylers, to visit Iuda & Jerusalem accordynge to the lawe of the God which is in thy hand. And that thou maiest take with the siluer & golde, whi che the kyng and his counsaylers haue of their owne good will, vnto the God of Israell (whose habitacion is at Jerusalem) and all the siluer and golde that thou canst gadein all the countrey of Babylon, with it that the people & the prestes gyue of their owne good will and the prestes gyue for the house of their God which is at Jerusalem. Take then the same, and buye diligently with the same money oxen, rammes, and lambes, with their meate offringes and drinke offringes, and thou shalt offer them vpon the aulter of the house of your God, whiche is at Jerusalem. And whatsoeuer ye wish with the remnaunt of the money that to seme the lyst of your God, that do ye with it after the will of your God. And the holy vessels are geuen the for the ministracion in the house of thy God, those deliuer thou before God at Jerusalem. And whatsoeuer thynge more shalbe needfull for the house of thy God, whiche is necessarye for the to bestowe, then shalt thou bestowe the same out of the kynges treasure house. These are the principall fathers of the,

with me from Babilon, what tyme kyng Ar-thaserses reigned. Of the children of Phinehes, Gersom: of the children of Ithamar, Daniell: of the children of Dauid, Hatus: of the children of Zechanias among the children of Pharos, Zachary: and with hym were nom-bred. an. C. l. men. Of the children of the ca-pitain of Moab, Elionai, the sonne of Zerahia, and with hym. c. C. men. Of the children of Zechania, the sonne of Iahasiell, and with hym. ccc. men. Of the children of Adin, Abed, the last, whose names are these: Eliphelet, Iehiel, and Semeiah, and with them. lx. men.

Of the children of Begnai, Uthai, and Zabud and with them. lxx. men. And I gathered thē together by the water, that runneth towarde Ahava, and there abode we three dayes. And I soght among the people and the priestes, and found there none of the children of Leuy. Then sent I to Eliezer, to Ariel, to Semei, Elnathan, Iarib, Elnathan, Nathan, Zachary, and to Mesullam the rulers, and to Ioia-rib, and Elnathan, which were men of vnderstandyng, and to them gaue I commandement: vnto Iddo, the chiefest at Casphia, that thei should fetche vs ministers, for the house of our God. And I sold vs, what they should take vnto Iddo and to his brethren, the Ne-thinims at Casphia, (whereas the good hande of our God hath there prouided vs a wise man, from among the children of Mo-holi, the sonne of Leui, the sonne of Israell: and Sarabia, with his sonne, and his brethren, euen. xviij. And Hasabia, and with hym thinims, whom Dauid and the princes gaue thinims, which all were named by name.

Then proclaimed I a fast, that we might humble our sel-ues before our God, and seke of hym a right wise for vs, and for our children, and for all our substaunce. For I was ashamed, to require of the kyng, soudiours and horse men, to helpe vs, against the enemie in the waye: but we said vnto the kyng: the hande of our God, is vpon al them, that seke hym in goodnesse, and [his dominion] his violence and wrathe, is against al them, that forsake him.
So we fasted, and besought our God for this: and he heard vs. And I spoke out. xij. of the chief Priestes, Sarabia, and Hasabia, and x. of their brethren with them, and weighed vnto the siluer and golde, and vesselles that were appointed, for the house of our God, which the the kyng and his counsaileurs, and his lordes, and al Israel that were there at hand had geue together. And I weighed vnto their hande. vi. c. l. talentes of siluer, and in siluer vessell. an. C. talentes, and in gold. an. C. ta-lentes: xx. basens of gold, of. M. peces, and two costly ornamentes, of good Mallet, ancleare as golde. And I said vnto them, ye are consecrate vnto the lorde, like as the vessels are holy also, and the gold and siluer are geuen of a good will, vnto the lord God of your fathers. Watche ye, and kepe it: for ye shall weigh it downe, before the chief priestes and Leuites, and auncient fathers of Israell, at Ierusalem, in the thesauries of the house of the lorde. Then toke the priestes and Leui-tes, the weighed siluer and gold, and vessell, to bring it to Ierusalem, vnto the house of our God. And we brake vp, from the water of Ahava, on the. xij. day of the first moneth, to go vnto Ierusalem: and the hand of our God was vpon vs, and deliuered vs, from the hande of our enemies, and of suche as laid waite for by the hande of God we came to Ierusalem, and abode there .iii. dayes. Vpon the iiii. daie, was the siluer and the golde, and all the vessell weighed, in the house of our God, by the hand of Meremoth, the sonne of Uria the Priest, and with hym was Eleazar, the sonne of Phinehes, and with them was Iozabad, the sonne of Iesue, and Moabi, the sonne of Uenui, the Leuites. Accordyng to the number & weight of euery thyng: and the whole waight was written vp at the same time. Moreouer the children of the captiuitie, that were come out of exile, offered burnt offrynges, vnto the God of Israel, xii. bullocks, for all Israell, xcvi. rammes, lxxii. lambes, xii. goates for a synne offryng, all to the burnt offryng of the Lord. And they deliuered the kynges commission, vnto the kynges officers, and to the capitaines, that were on this side the water, and they promoted the people and the house of God.

The. ix. Chapiter.

Quenlon.

Now when these thynges were done, the chiefe men came to me, and saied: the people of Israel, and the priestes and Leuites, are not separated, from the people of the landes (for dyng their abominacions, namely, of the Chanaanites, Hethites, Pherezites, Iebusites, Ammonites, Moabites, Egyptians, and Amorites. For they haue taken the daughters of them, to themselues, and to their sonnes, & the holy seede is mixte with the nacions, in the land, and the hand of the princes and rulers, hath ben principall in this trespasse. And when I had this saiyng, I rent my clothes and my garment, and plucked of the here of my head, and of my beard, and sat mourning. And there resorted vnto me, all suche as trembled at the wordes of the lorde God of Israell, because of the transgression of the people, of the captiuitie. And I sat mournyng, vntill the euenyng sacrifice. And about the euenyng sacrifice, I arose vp fro my heuines, and rent my clothes and my garment, and fell vpon my knees, and spred out my handes, vnto the lorde my God, and said. My God, I am ashamed, and dare not lift vp my eyen vnto thee my God: for our wickednesses, are growen ouer our head, & our trespasse is waxen great vnto the heauen. Sence the tyme of our fathers, haue we been in greate trespasse, vnto this daie, and because of our wickednesses, haue we & our kynges been deliuered, into the hande of the kynges of the nacions, into the sweard, into captiuitie, into spoile, and into confusion, of face, as it is to se this daie. And now is there a litle and sodain grace chefelie, come from the Lorde our God, in causyng some of vs to escape, and that he maie geue vs a naile in his holy place, that our God maie lighte our eyes, & geue vs a litle life, to take breath in our bondage. For we are bondmen, and our God hath not forsaken vs, in our bondage, and hath enclined mercy vnto vs, in the sight of the kynges of Persia, to geue vs life, to lift vp the house of our God, and to repaire the desolacion thereof, and to geue vs a wall, in Iuda and Ierusalem. And now O our God, what shall we saie, after this? For we haue forsaken thy commaundementes, whiche thou hast commaunded, by thy seruauntes the prophetes, saiyng: the lande vnto whiche ye go to possesse it, is an vncleane land, because of the filthinesse of the people, of the landes, with their abominacions, haue made it full of vncleannesse, on euery side. Therefore Deut.vij.a. now shall ye not geue your daughters, vnto their sonnes, and their daughters, shall ye not take, vnto your sonnes, nor seke their peace and welthe for euer: that ye maie be strong, and enioye the good in the lande, and that ye and your children, may haue the inheritaunce of it for euermore. And after that all these Wanting. thynges are come vpon vs, because of our euill deedes, and greate trespasse: thou our God, hast spared vs lesse, then our wickednesses, and hast geuen vs a deliuerance, as it is come to passe this daie. Shulde we turne backe again, to let go thy commaundementes, & make couenaunt with the people, of these abominacions, wilt thou not then be wroth at vs (and not without cause) till we bee vtterly consumed, so that nothyng remain, and till there be no deliuerance? O lorde God of Israel, thou art righteous, for we remain yet escaped as it is to this daie. Behold also, in thy presence are we, in our trespasses, and in cause of it, maie we not stand before thee.

The. x. Capitel.

Now when Esdras praied, after this maner, and knowleged, wept, and laye before the house of God, there resorted vnto him, out of Israel, a very great congregacion of men and women and children: and the people wept very sore. And Sechenia, the sonne of Iehiel, one of the children of Elam, answered and said vnto Esdras: we haue trespassed against our God, and haue taken strange wiues, of the people of the lande. Yet there is hope yet in Israell, concernyng this thyng. For now let vs make a couenaunt with our God and put away all the wiues (and suche as are borne of them) according to the counsell of the Lorde, and we will be in the feare of the commaundementes of our God, that we maie doo, according to the lawe. Get thee vp, for this matter belongeth vnto thee: we also will be with thee, be of good comfort therefore, and doo. Then arose Esdras, and tooke an othe, of the chiefe Priestes and Leuites, and of all Israel, that they should doo according to this word. And they sware. before the house of god, and trembled, be cause of this matter, and for the rain. And Esdras the priest stode vp, and said vnto them: Ye from the people of the lande, and from the straunge wiues. And all the convoyce: it shalbe so, and we will do as thou hast said. But the people are many, and it is a rainy weather, and the people are to faint, to tarry without in the strete, neither is this a worke of one daie or .ij. for we haue offended very sore in this thyng. Let our rulers stand therefore in all the congregacion, and let all them, which haue taken straunge wiues, in our cities, come at the tyme appoynted, and let the elders of euery citie, and their iudges be with them, till the haue turned the wrath of our God awaie from vs, concernyng this matter. Then were appoynted Jonathan, the sonne of Asahel, & Jahasia, the sonne of Thekhua, ouer this matter: and Mesullam and Sabbathai the Lewites, helped them. And the children of the captiuitie did eue so: and Esdras the priest, and the auncient heades, through the house of their fathers, all men of greate name, separated themselues, and satte downe in the first daie of the .x. moneth, to examin the matter. And vntil the first daie of the first mo-neth, thei were finishyng the business, with all the men that had taken straunge wiues. And among the children of the priestes, there were men founde, that had taken straunge wiues, namely, among the children of Jesua, the sonne of Josedec, and of his brethren, Maasiah, and Eliezer, Jarib, and Gedalia, and they gaue their handes thereupon, that thei would put awaie their wiues, & for their trespasse offering to geue a Ram for their trespasse. And among the children of Emer, Hanani, and Zabadia. Among the children of Harim, Maasia, Elia, Semeiah, Jehiell, and Ozia. Among the children of Pashur, Elioenai, Maasia, Ismael, Nathanael, Jozabad, and Elasa.

Among the Lewites, Jozabad, Semei, & Kela-ia, (which same is Kalitah) Pathahiah, Juda, and Eliezer. Among the singers, also Eliasib. And among the porters, Sellum, and Telem, and Uri. And of Israell. Among the children of Pharhos, Remeia, Jesiah, Malchia, Miamin, Eliezer, Malchia, & Benaia.
Among the children of Elam, Mathania, Zachari, Jehiel, Abdi, Jerimoth, & Elia. Among the children of Zathu, Elioenai, Eliasib, Ma-thanai, Jermoth, Zabad, and Aziza. Among the children of Bebai, Johannan, Hanania, Zabai and Athlai. Among the children of Bani, Me-sullam, Maluc, Adaiah, Jasub, Saal, and Jerimoth. Among the children of the captain Moab, Adna, Chelal, Benaia, Maasia, Mathānia, Bezelel, Benui, and Manasse. Among the children of Harim: Eliezer, Jesia Malchia, Semeia, and Simeon, Beniamin, Maluch, and Semaria. Among the children of Hasum, Mathanai, Mathathah, Zebad, Eliphelet, Je-

IT chaunced, that in the moneth Nisan, in the. xx. yere of kyng Artaxerxes, the wine stode before hym, and I take vp the wine and gaue it vnto the kyng. And I was heuie in his presence. And the kyng said vnto me: why lokest thou so sadly, when thou art not sicke? It is nothyng els, but that thou art heuy hartedd. And I was sore afrayed, and said vnto the kyng, god saue the kinges life for euer. How should I not looke sadly, when the cites and place, of my fathers burial lieth waste, and the gates thereof, are consumed with fire? And the kyng said vnto me: what is thy requeste? I made my praier also, to the God of heauen, and said vnto the kyng: if it please the kyng, and if thy seruaunt haue found fauor in thy sight, sende me vnto Iuda, vnto the citie of my fathers buriall, that I may build it. B. And the kyng said vnto me (the quene his wife sitting by hym) how long shall thy iourney continue, & when wilt thou come again? And it pleased the kyng to send me, and I set hym a tyme, & said vnto the kyng: if it please the kyng, let hym gene me letters, to the capitaines, which are beyonde the water, that they maie conueigh me ouer, till I come into Iuda: and letters vnto Asaph the lord of the kynges wood, that he maie gene me timber to make beames, for the gates of the palace (which is hard by the house) and for the walles of the citie, and for the house that I shall come into. And the king gaue me, according to the hande of my God, which was good vpō me. And when I came to the capitaines, beyōd the water, I gaue them the kynges letters. And the kyng sent capitaines, & horsemen with me. Sanaballat also the Horonite, & Tobias C. seruaunt (the Ammonite) hard of it, & it greued them sore, that there was come a man, which sought the wealth of the children of Israel. And I came to Ierusalem, and was there. iij. daies, and I gat me vp in the night season, & a fewe men with me, neither told I any man, what God had geuen me in my harte, to do at Ierusalem: and there was not one beast with me, saue it that I rode vpon. And I departed in the night, by the valley poste, before the dragon well, & came to the dung post, & considered the walles of Ierusalem, how they were broken wume, and the postes thereof consumed with the fire. And I went ouer vnto the well poste, and to the kynges conduite, and there was no rome for the beast, that was vnder me to passe. Then wente I vp the night, by the brooke side, and considered the wall, and turned backe, and came home again, by the valley poste. And the rulers knewe not, whether I went, and what I did: neither did I, as yet tell it vnto the Iewes, to the priestes, to the D. noble men, to the rulers, and to the other that labored in the worke. Then said I vnto them: ye see the misery that we are in, how Ierusalem lieth waste, and how the gates thereof are burnt with fire: come therfore, that we maie build vp the wall of Ierusalem, and that we be no more a rebuke. And I told them of the hand of my God (that it was gracious ouer me) and the kynges wordes, that he had spoken vnto me. But when Sanaballat the Horonite, & Tobias the seruaunt (an Ammonite) and Gesem the Arabian hard it: they laughed vs to scorne, and mocked vs, and said: what is this that ye do? They repaired it, & set vp the doores of it: euen vnto the foure Wea. repaired they it, and vnto the towre of Hananeell. After it vnto hym also builded the men of Iericho. And beside hym, Zaccur the sonne of Amri. But the fishe poste, did the children of Senaa builde, which also layed the beames thereof, and set on the doores, lockes, and barres of it. And next vnto hym, builded Meremoth, the sonne of Uria, the sonne of Hakoz: and next vnto the builded Mesulam, the sonne of Barachia, the sonne of Mesezabeel. & next vnto hym builded Sadoc, the sonne of Baana. And next vnto hym builded they of Thecoa.

Ierem. xxxi.g Zacha. xiij.c.

But the greate men, that were among them, put not their neckes to the worcke of their of Phaseah, and Meshullam the sonne of Besso-dia, they laied the beames thereof, and set on the mores, lockes, and barres of it. Next vnto them builded Melatiah, of Gibeon, and Ia-don of Meronoth, men of Gibeon, and of Mispa, where he that was capitain on this side the water, had a mansion. Next vnto hym builded Uzziel the sonne of Harhaiah, the goldsmith.

Next vnto hym also buylded Hanania, the sonne of Hierakim, and they repaired Jerusalem, vnto the brode wall. Next vnto the builded Rephaiah, the sonne of Hur, the ruler of the halfe part of Jerusalem. Next vnto hym C. buylded Jedaia, the sonne of Haromaph, ouer against his house: and next vnto hym buyl-ded Hatus, the sonne of Hasabnia. But Melchia, the sonne of Harim; and Hasub the sone of the capitain of Moab, buylded the other pece, and the toure beside the fornaces. Next vnto hym buylded Sallum, a rygers sonne, the ruler of the half part of Jerusalem, he & his daughters. The valley gate builded Hanun, and the inhabitours of Zanoa. They builded it, & set on the mores, lockes, and barres ther of, & a. M. cubites on the wal, vnto the dong gate. But the dung gate builded Melchiah, the sonne of Rechab, the ruler of the. ii. part of Bethcharem: he repaired it, and set on the mores, lockes, and barres thereof. But the well D. gate repaired Sallum, the sonne of Cholhoz-ah, the ruler of the. iii. parte of Mispa. He buylded it, and laied the beames, and set on the mores, lockes, and barres therof, and the wall vnto the pole of Siloah, by the kinges garden, and vnto the steppes, that go downe from Rehum the sonne of Bani: and next vnto him builded Hasabia, the ruler of the half part of Ceilah, in his quartere. After hym buylded E. their brethren: Bauai, the sonne of Henadad the ruler of the halfe part of Ceilah, and after him builded Ezer, the sone of Iesua, the ruler of Mispa, the other pece ouer against the goyng vp to the house of the armoure that was in the corner. Again, after him brake further Baruch, the sonne of Zachai, of indi-gnacio, and repaired the other pece, from the turnyng corner vnto the dore of the house of Eliasib the high Priest. And after hym also buylded Meremoth, the sone of Uria, the sone of Hacoz, the other pece, from the dore of the house of Eliasib, euen as long as the house of Eliasib extended. After hym buylded the ded Beniamin, and Hasub, ouer against their house. & after him builded Azaria, the sonne of Maasia, the sone of Anania, next vnto his house. After hym also builded Bennui, the sone of Henadad, the other pece, from the house of Azaria, vnto the turnyng of the wall, and vnto the corner. After hym builded Dalia, the and that the gappes began to be stopped, they wer very wroth, and conspired altogether to come & fight against Jerusalem, and to make

And Iuda saied the strengthe of the bearers is so feble, and there is yet muche more worke, and we are not able to buylde on the wall. And our aduersaries saied: they shall not knowe, neither se, tyll we come in the middes among them, and slee them, and hynder the worke. But it commeth, that when the Iewes (whiche dwelte beside them) came, they told vs as good as .x. tymes: that in all places, where ye go vnto, they are appoynted to fall vpon vs. Therefore, C. let I the people, after their kynredes, with their sweardes, speres, and bowes, beneth in the lowe places, behynde the wall, and I stoxed, and gat me vp: and said vnto the chief men, to the rulers, and to the other people, be not ye afrayed of them: but thynke rather vpon the great lorde, whiche ought to be feared, and fight for your brethren, your sonnes, your daughters, your wiues, and your houses. And eftesones it chaunced, that when our enemies harde, that we had gotten worde of it, God brought their counsaill to naught: and we turned all again to the wal, euery one vnto his labour. And from that tyme further, it came to passe, that the halfe part of the yong men did the labour, and the other halfe parte of them held the speres, shildes, bowes, and brest plates: and the rulers stode behynde all the house of Iuda, which builded on the wal and bare burthens from those that laded them. With one hande did euery one worke, & with the other, helde his weapon. And euery one that buylded, had his sweard girte by his thigh, and so buylded they. And the trumpet blewe beside me. And I cared vnto the principall menne, to the rulers, and to the other people: The worke is greate and large, and we are separated vpon the wal, one farre from another. Wherein what place therefore, ye heare the noyce of the trompet, retire ye thether vnto vs, and our God shall fight for vs. And we will be labouryng in the worke, and the halfe part of them held the speres, fro the morowe tyll the starres came forth. And at the same tyme, saied I vnto the people, euery one abide with his seruaunt at Ierusalem, that in the night season, we may watche, and labor on the daie time. Also me and my brethre, my seruauntes, and the men of the watche (whiche we brought) we put neuer of our clothes, no more then the other did their harnesse, saue only because of the water.

And when I heard their complaint, and suche woordes, it displeased me verie sore. And I aduised in my mynde, that I rebuked the counsaillers, and the rulers, and said vnto them: euery one of you is to chargeable vnto his brother. And I brought a greate congregation against them, and said vnto them: we (after our ability) haue bought out our brethren the Iewes, whiche were sold vnto the Heathen. And will you sell your brethren a gain, vnto the Heathen, after that they haue been sold vnto vs? Then held they their peace and could find nothyng to answere. And I said: it is not good that ye do. Ought ye not to walke, in the feare of God, because of the rebuke of the Heathen, that are our enemies? I and my brethren, and my seruauntes, do lend them money and corne: but as for vsury, let vs leaue it. Therefore, this same daie I praie you, let that ye restore their landes again, their vineyardes, vine, gardens, and their houses, and remit the .c. part of the money of the corne, wine, and oyle, that ye haue won of them. Then said they: we will restore them again, and will require nothyng of them, and will do as thou hast spoken. And I called the priestes, and tooke an othe of them, that they would do so. And I shoke my lap, and said: God shake out euery man, after the same maner, from his house and labour, that maintaineth not this worde: euen thus be he shaken out, and voyde. And all the congregation said: Amen, and praised the lorde. And the people did so. And from that tyme further, that the kyng committed vnto me, to be a captain of them, that were in the lande of Iuda, euen from the .xx. yere, vnto the .xxxii. yere of king Artharerses (that is .xii. yeres) I with my brethre lined not of suche substaunce, as was geuen to a captaine. For the olde captaines, that were before me, had been chargable vnto the people, and had taken of them, bread and wine, and .xl. shilles of syluer: yea, and their seruauntes had oppressed the people. But so did not I, and that because of the feare of God. But I laboured alto in the worke vpon the wall, and bought no lande. And al my seruauntes came thether together vnto the worke. THe sealers were Nehemiah (that is Hathirsatha the sonne of Hachalia and Phadnu, Amaria, Melchia, Hatus, Sebanias, Maluch, Harim, Merimoth, and Obadia, Daniel, Jenthon, and Baruch, Meshullam, Abia, and Miamin, Maazia, Belgai and Semeia: these were priestes. The Leuites were Jesua the sonne of Azania, Benui, among the children of Henadad and Cadmiel and their brethren Sechania, Hodia, Celita, Pelaia, Hanan, Micha, Rehob, and Hasabiah, Sachur, Serebia, Sabania, Hodia, Bani and Beneu: The heades of the people were, Phares the captayne of Moab, Elam, Zathu and Bani Boni Azgad, Bebai, Adonia, Begoai, Adin, Ater, Hezekia, Azur, Hodia, Hasum, Bezai, Hasip, Anathoth and Nebai, Magphias, Meshulam, Hezir, Meshezabel, Sadoc, Jaddua, Phalatia, Hanan Anania, Oseas, Hanania, Hasub, Haloshes, Phalea, Sobek, Rehum, Hasebna, Maasia, Ahia, Hanan and Anan, Maluch, Harim, and Baana. And the other people, the priestes, Leuites, porters, syngers, Nethinims, and all they that had separated themselues from the people in the landes vnto the lawe of God, with their wyues, their sonnes and their doughters, & as many as could vnderstande, & their lordes that had rule of them, receyued it of theyre brethren. * And they came to sweare and to bynde them selues with an othe to walke in Gods lawe, whiche was geuen by Moses the seruaunte of God: and that they wolde obserue and do accordyng vnto al the commaundementes, iudgementes and statutes of the Lord oure God: * and that we wold not geue oure doughters vnto the people in the lande, neyther to take theyr doughters for oure sonnes. And ye the people of the land brought ware on the Sabboth & al maner of victailes to sel, that we wold not take it of them on the Sabboth and on the holy dayes. * And that we wold let the seuenth yere be free, & remyttyng all maner of charge. And we decreed a statute vpon oure selues to geue yerely the thyrd parte of a sycle to the ministracion in the house of our God, to the shewe bread to the daily meatoffering, to the daily burntoffeynge of the Sabbothes, of the new moones and feastdayes and to the thynges that were sanctified, and to the offeynges of atonement, to reconcyle Israel withal, and to all the busines in the house of our God.

And we cast the lot amonge the priestes, Leuites & the people, for the offeryng of the woode to be brought vnto the house of oure God from yere to yere: after the houses of oure fathers: that it might be brent at times appointed, vpon the aultar of the Lorde God, as it is writen in the lawe, and to bryng the firstlynges of our land and the firstlynges of oure frutes of all trees: yere by yere vnto the house of the Lorde: and the firstlynges of oure sonnes and of oure cattell, as it is writen in the lawe, and the firstlynges of oure oxen & sheepe, which we shuld bryng to the house of oure God, vnto the priestes that minister in the house of oure God: & that we shuld bryng the firstlynges of oure dough and oure heueoffeynge, and the frutes of all maner of trees, of wyne also and of oyle, vnto the priestes, to the chestes of the house of oure God: and the tythes of oure land vnto the Leuites, that the Leuites might haue the tythes in al the cities of our ministracion. And the priest the sonne of Aaron shal (with the Leuites) haue also of the tythes of the Leuites, & that the Leuites shall bryng vp the tythes of theyr tythes vnto the house of our God to the store houses, & to the treasure houses. For the children of Israel, and the children of Leui shal bryng vp the heue offerynges of the corne, wyne and oyle vnto the store houses, there as are the vessellen of the sanctuarie: and the priestes that minister, and the porters and singers, that we forsake not the house of oure God.

AND the rulers of the people dwelte at Hierusalem: The other people also cast lottes, that amonge ten, one parte shulde go to Jerusalem into the holy citie to dwel, and nyne partes to be in the Cities: and the people thanked the men that were willyng to dwel at Jerusalem. These are the heades of the lande that dwelt in Jerusalem and in the Cities of Juda, euery one in his possession, and in their cities: they of Israell, the priestes, Leuites, Nethinims, and the children of Salomons seruauntes. And at Jerusalem dwelte certein of the children of Juda and Beniamin. Of the children of Juda: Athaiah the sonne of Vsia, the sonne of Zacharie, the sonne of Amaria, the sonne of Saphatia, the son of Mahalaleel of the children of Phares. And Maasia the sonne of Baruch, the sonne of Thol Hose, the sonne of Hazaia, the sonne of Adaia, the sonne of Joiarib, the sonne of Zacharie, the sonne of Silony. All these were the children of Phares that dwelt at Jerusalem, euen foure hundred threescore and eight valeaunt men. These are 13.
the children of Beniamin, Salu the sonne of Meshullam, the sonne of Joed, the sonne of Pedaia, the son of Colaia, the sonne of Maasia, the sonne of Ithiel, the sonne of Jesaias. And after hym Gabai, Sellai nyne hundred and. xxviii. And Joel the sonne of Zichri had the ouersight of them: and Juda the sonne of Senua was ruler ouer the Citie. * Of the 1. Par. 9 b. priestes: Jedaiah the sonne of Joiarib, Jachin, Saraiah the sonne of Helkia: the sonne of Meshullam, the son of Sadoc, the son of Meraioth, the sone of Ahitob, was prince in the house of God: and his brethren that performed the worke in the temple. viii. hundred & xxii. And Baana the sonne of Jeroham, the sonne of Mahaliel, the sonne of Amzi, the son of Zachari, the sonne of Phalsur, the sonne of Malchia: and his brethren, chefe among the fathers, two hundred & two and fourty. And Amasai the sonne of Azrael, the sonne of Ahasai, the sonne of Mosolemoth, the sonne of Immer: and his brethren were valeaunt men: an hundred and eyght and twentye. And their ouerseer was Zabdiel a sonne of one of the great men. * Of the Leuites: Semeia the sonne of Hasub, the sonne of Asrikam, the sonne of Hasabia the sonne of Bunni, & Sabathai and Jozabad of the chefe of the Leuites, had the ouersight of the outwarde busynesse of the house of God. And Mathanah the sonne of Micha, the son of Zabdi, the son of Asaph: was the principal to begynne the thankesgeuynge and prayer. And Bakbukia the seconde among his brethren, and Abda, the sonne of Sammua, the sonne of Galal, the sonne of Jeduthun. All the Leuites in the holy citie were two hundred foure score and foure. * And the porters Acub and Talmon, & their brethren that kept the porters, were an hundred and two and seuentye. So the residue of Israel, the priestes and Leuites, they were in al the cities of Juda, euery one in his inheritaunce. And the Nethinims dwelte in Ophel: and Ziha and Gispa was set ouer the Nethinims. The ouerseer of the Leuites at Jerusalem was Uzi, the sonne of Bani, the sonne of Hasabi, the sonne of Mathania, the sonne of Micha. Of the children of Asaph there were singers about the busynesse in the house of God, for it was the kynges commaundement concernynge them, that the singers shoulde deale faithfully euery day as was accordynge. And Sabbatha, the sonne of Mesabadel, of the children of Zerah the son of Juda next the kyng in all matters concerning the people: & their villages & landes. And some of the children of Juda that were without the townes of their land dwelt at Kiriath Arbe, and in the villages thereof, at Dibon, and in the villages thereof: and at Jecabzeel, and in the villages thereof at Jesua, Moladah, Bethphalet in the townes of Sual, Beersaba, and in their villages: at Siklag & Moconah, and their villages: and at Enremon, Zarah, Jermoth, Zanoa, Odollam, and in their villages: at Lachis and in the feldes thereof at Azeka, and in the villages thereof: and they dwelt from Berfabe vnto the valey of Hinnon. The children also of Benjamin, of Geba, dwelte at Machinas, Aia, Bethel, and in their villages: and at Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah, Hazor, Ramah, Gethaim, Hadid, Zeboim, Nabalath, Lod and Ono, the carpenters valey. And the Leuites had possessions both in Juda, and in Benjamin.

The. xii. Chapter.

These are the priestes and Leuites that wente up with Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and with Jesua, Saraia, Jeremy, and Esdras, Amaria, Malech, Hatus, Sechania, Rehum, Meremoth, Iddo, Genthoi, Abia, Miamin, Maazia, Belga, Semeia, Joiarib, Jedaia, Salu, Amocke, Helkia and Jedeia: These were the heades among the priestes: and their brethren, in the dayes of Jesua. The Leuites were these, Jesua, Binnui, Cadmiel, Sarabia, Juda, and Mathania, whiche was ouer the office of thankesgeuynge, he, and his brethren. Bachukia: and Vnni and their brethren, were about them in the watches. Jesua begat Joakim: Joakym also begate Eliasib: and Eliasib begat Joiada: Joiada begat Jonathan, and Jonathan begat Jadua. In the dayes of Joakim were these the chefe fathers among the priestes: vnder Sarabia, Hanania, vnder Jeremy, Maasaia, vnder Esdras, Mesullam, vnder Amaria, Jehonan: vnder Melico, Jonathan: vnder Sebania, Joseph: vnder Harim Abna: vnder Maraioth, Helkia: vnder Iddo, Zachari, vnder Genthon, Mesullam: vnder Abia Zichri, vnder Miniamin, and Moadia, Philtai: vnder Belga, Samma: vnder Semeia, Jehonathan: vnder Joiarib, Mathanai: vnder Jedaia, Ozi: vnder Selai, Kelai, vnder Amoz, Eber: vnder Helchia, Hasabia, vnder Jedeia, Nathanael. And in the tyme of Eliasib, Joiada, Johnan and Jadua, were the chefe fathers among the Leuites and the priestes, written vnder the reigne of Darius the Persian. The children of Leui, the principal fathers were written in the Chronicles vnto the tyme of Jonathan the sonne of Eliasib. And these were the chefe among the Leuites: Hasabia, Serebia, and Jesua the sonne of Cadmiel, and their brethren in their presence to geue prayse and thankes, accordynge as Dauid the man of God had ordeyned it, one watche ouer against an other. Mathania, Balbukia, Obadia, Mesullam, Talmon and Akub were porters in the watche, at the thresholdes of the gates. These were in the dayes of Joakim the sonne of Jesua, the sonne of Josedec, and in the dayes of Nehemia the captayne, and of the priest Esdras, the Scribe. And in the dedication of the wal at Jerusalem: they sought the Leuites out of all their places, that they might be brought to Jerusalem to kepe the dedication & gladnesse, with thankesgeuynges and syngynge with cimbales, psalteries and harpes. And the children of the singers gathered them selues together from euerye syde out of the playne countrye about Jerusalem, and from the villages of Netophathi, from the house of Gilgal, and out of the countries of Geba, and Azmaueth, for the syngers had buylded them vyllages rounde about Ierusalem. And the priestes and Leuites were purified, and clensed the people: and the gates, and the wall. And I brought the princes of Iuda vp vpon the wall, & appointed two greate quyres of men to geue thankes, which went on the right hand of the wall toward the dounge gate, and after them went Osaias, and halfe of the princes of Iuda, and Azaria, Esdras, and Mesullam, Iuda, Beniamin, Semeia and Ieremy, and certein of the priestes children with trompettes, namely Zachary, the son of Jonathan, the sonne of Semeia, the sonne of Mathania, the sonne of Michaia, the sonne of Zacur, the sonne of Asaph and his brethren, Semeia, Athanel, Gelalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nathanael, and Iuda and Hanani, with the musicall instrumentes of Dauid the man of God. And Esdras the scribe went before them and before the well gate, they went vp ouer against them vpon the steppes of the cite of Dauid, at the gounge vp of the wall beyonde the house of Dauid, vnto the water gate eastward. The other quyre of them that gaue thankes went ouer against them, and I after them, & the half part of the people vpon the wall, beyond the fornace gate vnto the brode wall, and beyonde the porte of Ephraim, & beyond the olde gate beyonde the fyshegate, and the tower of Hananeel, & the tower of Mea, vntill the sheepegate. And they rode still in the prison gate, & so rode the two quyres of them that gaue thankes in the house of God: and I, & the half of the rulers with me, and the priestes, namely Eliakim, Maasia, Miniamin, Michaia, Elioenei, Zachary, and Hanania, with trompettes, & Maasia, Semeiah, Eleasar, Vzzi, Iehohanan, Melchiah, Elam, and Ezer. And the syngers sange loude, hauynge Iezrahiah to their ouerseer. And the same day they offred great sacrifices and reioyced: for God had geuen them great gladnesse, so that both the wyues and children were ioyful: & the myrth of Ierusalem was hearde farre off. At the same time were there men appointed ouer the treasure houses, wherin were the heue offrynges, the firstfrynges, and the tythes, that they sholde gather them out of the fyeldes rounde about the cities, to destribute them vnto the priestes and Leuites, according to the lawe. For Iuda was glad of the priestes and Leuites, that they rode and waited vpon the office of their God, which is a sure office, and the syngers and porters rode after the commaundement of Dauid and of Salomon his sonne. For in the time of Dauid and Asaph, were there syngers ordayned, and the songes of prayse and thankes geuynge vnto God. In the time of Zorobabel, and in the time of Nehemiah, did all they of Israell, geue portions vnto the syngers and porters, euerye daye his porcion, and they gaue it vnto the Leuites, and the Leuites gaue it vnto aaronne vnto the children of Aaron.

The xiii. Chapiter.

a. Deut. xxiii. a.

AND that daye was there rede in the boke of Moses, and the people harkened thereto, and there was founde written, that the Ammonites and Moabites should nomore come into the congregation of God, because they met not the children of Israell with breade & water: but hyred Balaam against them, that he sholde curse them and our God turned the curse into a blessyng. Now when they heard the lawe, it fortuned, that they seperated vnto Israell euerye one that had myxte hym selfe therin. And before this had the priest Eliasib the ouersight of the treasury of the house of our god, & he was kynsman to Tobias: and had made hym a greate chambre, and there had they afore time layd the offeryngs, frankincense, vessell, and the tythes of corne, wyne and oyle (accordynge to the commaundementes geuen to the Leuites, syngers and porters) and the heue offrynges of the priestes. But in all this time was not I at Ierusalem: for in the .xxxii. yere of Artharxerses, kyng of Babilon, came I vnto the kyng, & after certayne dayes obteyned I leaue of the kyng to come to Ierusalē. And I gat knowlege of the euil that Eliasib did vnto Tobias, in that he had made hym a chābre in the rowme of the house of god, & it grieued me sore, and I cast forth all the vessell of the house of Tobias oute of the chambre, and commaunded them to clēanse the chambres. And thyther brought I again the vessels of the house of God, with the meate offryng and the frankincense. And I perceyued that the portions of the Leuites were not geuen them, and that euery one fled to his land, euen the Leuites and syngers, that executed the worke. Then rebuked I the rulers, & sayd: Why is the house of God forsaken? And I gathered them togyther, & set them in their place. Then brought all Iuda the tythes of corne and wyne, and oyle, vnto the treasure. And I made treasurers ouer the treasure, euen Selemiah the priest, & Zadoc the scribe, & of the Leuites, Phadaia, and vnder them was Hanan the sonne of Zacur, the sone of Mathania, for they were counted faithfull, & their office was to distribute the portions vnto their brethren. Thynke vpon me, my god, for this, and wype not out my mercy that I haue done in the house of my god, and on the officers therof. And the same tyme saw I some treadynge wyne presses on the Sabboth, and bryngyng in sheues, and ladē with wyne, grapes, all figges, & burdens, all maner of burthens, vnto Ierusalem

And he answered before the kyng and the princes the Quene Vasthi hath not onelye done euil against the kyng, but also against all the princes, and against all the people that are in all the landes of kyng Ahasuerus. For this deede of the quene shal come abroad vnto all women, so that they shal despise their husbandes, before their eyes, and say: the kyng Ahasuerus commaunded Vasthi the Quene to be brought in before him, but she wolde not come. And to day the princesses in Persia and Media, saye likewyse vnto all the kynges princes when they here of this deede of the Quene: thus shall there arise to moche despitefulnesse and wrath, yea it pleaseth the kyng therefore, let there go a commaundement from him, and let it be written accordyng to the lawes of the Persians and Medians, and not to be transgressed, that Vasthi come nomore before kyng Ahasuerus: let the kynge gene her kyngdome vnto another that is better then she. And when this commaundement of the kynge (which he shalbe made) is published throughout all his empire (for it is great) all women shall honor their husbandes in yonge and olde. And this pleased the kyng & the princes, and the kyng did accordyng to the worde of Memucan. For he sent letters vnto all the kynges landes, vnto euery londe after their language, that euery man shulde be lorde in his owne house. And this caused he to be spoken after the language of his people.

The .iij. Chapter.

AFterwarde when the displeasure of kyng Ahasuerus was nowe laye, he thought vpon Vasthi, and what she had done, and what was conclued against her. Then said the kynges seruauntes that ministred vnto him: Let there be layde yonge virgins fayre to the kyng, and the kyng appointe rectaynes men in all the landes of his empire, whome he ordayned that they shuld bring together all the fayre yonge virgins vnto Susan the head citie, to the womens house, vnder the hande of Hegge the kynges chamberlaine, that kept the women, to geue them their apparell. And let their thynges necessary to be handed. And that the damosell which pleaseth the kyng, shalbe Quene in Vasthies stede. And this pleased the kyng, and he did so. There was a certayne Iewe in Susan the head citie, whose name was Mardochevs the sonne of Iaire, the sonne of Semei, the sonne of Cis a man of Iemini, which was caried awaye from Ierusalem with Iechonias the kyng of Iuda, whom Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon had caried awaye. And he was a norisher vnto Hadassa, that is Hester his vncles doughter: for she had neyther father nor mother, and the mayde was a fayre and beautiful damosell. Whome Mardochevs (when her father and mother were dead) nourished for his owne doughter. When the kynges commaundement and decree was published, and many damosells were brought together in the citie of Susan vnder the hande of Hegge: Hester was brought also into the kynges house vnder the hande of Hegge the keper of the women, and the damosell pleased him, and she found fauour in his sight. And he caused ointmentes to be geuen her, and such thynges as belonged to her, and appointed her seuen comely damosells out of the kinges house, and fauoured both her and her gentil women fayre. Hester shewed not her people nor kynred: for Mardochevs had charged her, that she shulde not tel it. And Mardochevs walked euery daye before the court of the women house, that he might knowe howe Hester did and what shuld become of her. And when the appointed time of euery damosell came, that she shulde go vnto the kyng Ahasuerus, after that she had bene twelue monethes in the keeping of the women (for so long must they haue to moche time, namely .vj. monethes with oyle and myrre, .vj. monethes with good spices & swete ointmentes) then went there one damosell vnto the kynge: and whatsoeuer she required to haue it were comly, that shall be geuen her, to go with her out of the women house vnto the kynges palace. In the euenyng she went, and on the morowe she came into the seconde house of the women, vnder the hande of Saasgus the kynges chamberlayne, which kepte the concubines. And she came vnto the kyng no more, except it pleased the kynge, & were that she called her by name. Now when the time came of Hester the doughter of Abihail the vncle of Mardochevs (which had taken her vnto him to his doughter) that she shuld come vnto the kyng, she required nothyng, but what Hegge the kynges chamberlayne the keper of the women layde. And Esther founde fauour in the sight of all them that loked vpon her.

So Esther was taken vnto kyng Ahasuerus into his house royall in the tenth moneth, which is the moneth Tebeth, in the seuenth yere of his reygne. And the kynge loued Esther aboue all the women, and she founde grace & fauour in his sight more then all the virgins: so that he set the crowne of his kyngdom vpon her head, and made her Quene in stede of Vasthi. And the kynge made

And as yet had not Hester shewed what kynred & from people she came, according as Mardocheus had taught her. For she vnderstode the wordes of Mardocheus, that she ought not to shewe it, nor declare it, for Mardocheus had charged her. For Mardocheus sate in the kynges gate, two of the kynges chamberlaynes, Bigthan and Theresh, which kept the dore, were wroth, and sought to laye their handes on the kyng Ahasuerus: wherof also Mardocheus gate knowlege, & told it vnto Quene Hester, & Hester certefyed the kyng therof in Mardocheus name. And when inquisition was made, it was founde so. And they were both hanged on tree: and it was

After these dedes did kynge Ahasuerus promote Haman the sone of Amadetha the Agagite, and sette hym on hye, and sette his seate aboue all the princes that he had with hym. And all the kynges seruauntes that were in the kynges gate, bowed their knees, and worshipped Haman: for the kynge had so commaunded concerninge hym. But Mardocheus bowed not the knee, and worshipped hym not. Then the kynges seruauntes which were in the kynges gate, sayd vnto Mardocheus: why trangressest thou the kynges commaundement? And when they spake thus daylye vnto hym, he folowed them not, and they tolde Haman that they might se how Mardocheus matters wolde endure: for he had tolde them, that he was a Iewe. And when Haman sawe that Mardocheus bowed not the knee vnto hym, nor worshipped him, he was ful of indignacion, and thought it to litle to laye handes only on Mardocheus: for they had shewed hym the nacion of Mardocheus. Wherfore he sought to destroye all the Iewes, that were throughout the hole empire of Ahasuerus, and that were of the nacion of Mardocheus, in the first moneth (that is the moneth Nisan) in the twelueth

M. yere of kyng Ahasuerus: they cast Pur (that is a lot) before Haman from daye to daye, and from moneth to moneth, to the twelueth moneth, that is the moneth Adar. And Haman sayd vnto kyng Ahasuerus: There is here a people scattered abrode, and dispersed among all people in all the landes of thyne empire, & their lawes are contrary from all people, and they kepe not after the kynges lawes, neyther is it the kynges profite to suffer them after this maner. If please the kyng, let it be written that they may be destroyed, and to me will I geue .x. thousande talentes of syluer, to bringe into the kynges treasury. Then the kyng toke his ringe from his hande and gaue it vnto Haman the sone of Amadetha the Agagite the Iewes enemye. And the kyng sayd vnto Haman: Let the syluer be geuen the and so with that people as it pleaseth the. For I haue the kynges scribes called on the thyrteenthe day of the first C. moneth (Nisan) and there was written according as Haman commaunded, vnto all the Marche. kynges officers, and vnto the gouernours that were in all the landes, and to the rulers of euery people in the countreyes on euery side, according to the writinge of euery nacion, and after their language: in the name of kynge Ahasuerus was it written, and sealed with the kynges ringe. And the writinges were tyed by poostes vnto all the kynges landes, to roote out, to sley and to destroye all Iewes, both yonge and olde, children and women, in one daye (namely, vpon the thyrteenth daye of the twelueth moneth which is the moneth Adar) & to spoyle their goodes. Februarye. This was the some of the writinge that there M. should be a commaundement geuen in all landes, and published vnto all people, that they shulde be ready against the same daye. And the posters went in all the haste, according to the kynges commaundement. And in Susan the chefe citye was the commaundement deuised. And the kynge, and Haman sat and dranke, when in the meane time the citie of Susan was disquieted.

The .vii. Chapiter.

When Mardocheus perceyued all that N. Euenyng was done, he rente his clothes, & put on sackcloth, with ashes, and wente out into the myddes of the citie, and cried lowde, and lamentably, & came before the kynges gate, but he might not come within the kynges gate, because he had sackcloth on. And in all landes, countreyes and places, as there as the kynges worde and commaundement arryued, there was great lamentacion amonge the Iewes, fasting, weping and mourning, and many lay in sackcloth and in ashes. Then the kynges damoseles and her chamberlaynes came and tolde it her. Then was the Quene exceadingly sorowed. And she sente rayment, that Mardocheus shuld put on, and laye the sackclothe from hym: but Mardocheus wolde not take them. Then called Esther. Hachach, one of the kynges chamberlaynes (which was before her) and gaue hym a commaundement vnto Mardocheus, that he might knowe wherfore he did so, and Hachach went forth to Mardocheus to the strete of the citie which was before the kynges gate. Then Mardocheus M. told him of all that was happened vnto hym, and of the fauour of Esther that Haman had prompted to haue done vnto the kynges treasurye, because of the Iewes, for he would de-stroye them (and he gaue vnto the copy of the it vnto Esther, and to speake to her, & charge her, that she should go in to the kyng, and make her prayer and supplicatiō vnto him for her people. C. And whē Hathath came in, he told Esther the wordes of Mardocheus. And a-gayne, Esther spake vnto Hathath, and commaunded him, to saye vnto Mardocheus: all the kynges seruaunts, and the people in the landes of the kyng, know that whosoeuer cometh within the court vnto the kyng, whether it be man or woman, whych is not called the cōmaundement is, that the same shall dye: except the kyng hold out the golden sceptre vnto hym, in token of gracious kyndnesse, for the he shall lyue. And for me, I haue not bene called to cōme now vnto the kyng this .xxx. daies.

D. And they certified Mardocheus of Esthers wordes. And Mardocheus bad saye agayne vnto Esther: thynke not to saue thyne owne lyfe, whyle thou art in the kynges house, because al Iewes, for if thou holdest thy peace at this tyme, then shall the Iewes haue helpe and deliuerance out of an other place, & thou and thy fathers house shalbe destroyed. And who knoweth whether thou art come to the kyngdome for this cause? Esther bad them geue Mardocheus this answere: Go thou thy waye, and gather all the Iewes together that are founde at Suzan, and fast ye for me, that ye eate not, & drynk not in thre yeres, neyther daye nor nyght. I and my damselles will fast lykewyse, and so will I go in to the kyng, which thyng is yet contrary to the cōmaundement, and if I perysshe I perysh.
So Mardocheus went his waye, and dyd all that Esther had commaunded him.

Esth. xv. daye. Nettus.

A. ND on the third daye, it fortuned that Esther put on her royall apparell, & stode in the court of the kynges palace within, ouer against the kynges house. And the kyng sat vp on his royall seate in the kynges palace ouer against the gate of the house. And when the kyng sawe Esther the Quene stan-dyng in the court, she found grace in his sight.
And the kyng held out the golde sceptre that was in his hand toward Esther. So Esther went forth, and touched the top of the sceptre. Then sayd the kyng vnto her: what wilt thou Quene Esther? And what requyrest thou of me euen the halfe of the empyre, and it shall be geuē the. And Esther answered, If it please the kyng, let the kyng & Haman come this daye vnto the banket, that I haue prepared for hym. And the kyng sayde: cause Haman to saye, that the kyng and Haman came to the banketting. Esther had prepared, and the kyng sayd vnto Esther at the banket of wyne what is thy petition, & it shall be geuen the? And what requyrest thou? If it be euen the halfe of the empyre, it shalbe done. Then answered Esther, and sayde: my petition and requeste is, if I haue found grace in the sight of the kyng, and it it please the kyng to geue me my petition, and fulfyll my requeste, that let the kyng and Haman come to the banket that I shall prepare for them, and to morow I will do according as the kyng hath sayde. Then C. went Haman forth the same daye ioyfull, and merye in his myude. And when the same Haman sawe Mardocheus in the kynges gate that he stode not vp and kneled before hym, he was full of indignation at Mardocheus.
Neuertheles, Haman refrayned himselfe: and when he came home he sent, and called for his frendes, and zares his wife, and ga-man tolde them of the glory of his ryches, and the multitude of his children, and all together howe the kyng had promoted hym so greatly, and howe that he had set hym aboue the princes and seruauntes of the kyng.
Haman sayde moreouer: Yea, and Esther the D. quene dyd let no man come in with the kyng to the banket that she had prepared, except me. And to morowe am I bydden vnto her also with the kyng. But in al this am I not satisfyed, as longe as I se Mardocheus the Iewe sitting at the kynges gate. Then said vnto hym his wife and al his frendes vnto him: Let them make a galous of fyftie cubites hye, and to morowe speake thou vnto the kyng, that Mardocheus may be hanged theron, and go thou merely with the kyng vnto the ban-ket. And Haman was well content with all, & caused the galous to be made.

Euenkong. II. THE same nyght could not the kyng sle-pe, and he cōmaunded to bryng the chronicles and gestes: which when they were read before the kynge, they happened on the place where it was written howe Mardocheus had tolde that Bigthana, and Theres the kynges two chamberlaynes (which he kept the treasholders) sought to lay handes on kyng Ahasuerus. And the kyng sayde: what Esther. ii. d. worshyp and good haue we done to Mardocheus therefore? Then sayd the kynges seruauntes that ministred vnto hym: There is nothyng at all done for hym. And the kyng sayde: whose is the courte? (for Haman was gone in to the courte without, before the kynges house) that he myght speake vnto the kyng to hange Mardocheus on the tree that he had prepared for hym. And the D. kynges seruauntes sayde vnto hym: Behold, Haman standeth without in the courte. And the kyng sayde: let hym come in. And when Haman came in, the kyng sayde vnto hym: What shall be done vnto the man whome the kyng woulde fayne honge vnto worshyp? Haman thought in his harte: whom delyteth the kyng to honge vnto worshyp more then me? And Haman answered the kyng: Let the man whom the kyng pleaseth to honge vnto worshyp, be brought hether: that he maye be arayed with the royall garmentes, whiche the kyng vseth to weare, and the horse that the kyng vseth vpon, and that the croune royall maye be set vpon his head. And let this rayment and horse, be delyuered vnder the hande of one of the kynges princes, that they maye aray the man wythall whom the kyng is disposed to honge (and cary hym vpon the horse thorowe the strete of the cytie, and proclayme before hym: thus shall it be done vnto the man, whom the kyng pleaseth to honge to honoure. C. And the kyng sayd: make haste, and take as thou hast sayde: the rayment and the horse, and do euen so vnto Mardocheus the Iewe, that syteth before the kynges gate, and let nothyng fayle of all that thou hast spoken. Then toke Haman the rayment and the horse, and arayed Mardocheus, and brought hym on horsebacke thorowe the strete of the cytie, and proclaymed before hym: Euen thus shall it be done to the man whom the kyng is disposed to honoure. D. And Mardocheus came agayne to the kynges gate, but Haman gat hym home in al the haste mourning bareheded, and tolde Zares his wyfe, & al his frendes, euery thyng that had happened hym. Then sayd his wise men, and Zares his wyfe vnto him: if it be Mardocheus, of the sede of the Iewes, before whom thou hast begon to fall, thou shalt not preuayle against him, but shalt surely fal before him. And whyle they were yet talkyng with hym, came the kynges chamberlaynes, and caused Haman to make haste, to come to the banket that Esther had prepared.

The. vij. Chapiter.

The. xij. day. Mattins. SO the kyng and Haman came in to the banket that Quene Esther had prepared, A. and the kyng sayd vnto Esther on the secon day at the banket of wyne: what is thy petitiō, (Quene Esther) that it maye be geuen thee? And what requirest thou? Yea, aske euen half of the empyre, and it shalbe done. And Esther the Quene answered, & sayd: If I haue found grace in thy sight (O kyng) and if it please the kyng, then graunt me my lyfe at my desyre, and my people for my petitiō sake: for we are solde, I and my people, to be destroied, to be slayne, and to perysshe. D. And would God that we were solde to be bondmē, and bondwomen, then would I holde my tong: For the enemy pondereth not the kynges harme. The kyng Ahasuerus answered, and sayde vnto Quene Esther: who is he? and where is he, that dare presume in his mynde to do after that maner? And Esther sayde: the enemy and aduersary is this wicked Haman. Haman was C. exceadyngly afrayd before the kyng, and the Quene. And the kyng arose from the banket and from the wyne in his displeasure, & went in to the palais garden. And Haman rose vp, and besought Quene Esther for his life: for he sawe that there was a mischefe prepared for hym of the kyng already. And when the kyng came agayne out of the palais garden, into the place where they dranke wyne, Haman had layde hym vpon the bed that Esther sat vpon. Then sayde the kyng: will he force the Quene also before me in the house? As D. sone as that worde went out of the kynges mouth, they couered Hamās face. And Harbona one of the chamberlaynes that stode before the kyng sayd: behold, there standeth a galous in Hamans house. l. cubites hye, which he made for Mardocheus, that spake good for the kyng. The kyng said: hang hym theron. So they hanged Haman on the galous, that he had made for Mardocheus. Thus was the kynges wrath pacified.

The. viij. Chapiter.

Euensong. A. ON the same daye dyd kyng Ahasuerus geue the house of Haman the Iewes enemy, vnto Quene Esther. And Mardocheus came before the kyng: for Esther told how that he belonged vnto her. And the kyng put of his fynger a ryng, which he had taken from Haman, and gaue it vnto Mardocheus. And Esther set Mardocheus ouer the house of Haman. And Esther spake yet more before the kyng: and fell downe at his fete weping, and besought hym that he would put awaye the wickednes of Hamā the Agagite, and his deuyce that he had ymagined against the Iewes. And the kyng (accordyng to the maner) helde out the golden scepter towarde Esther (whereby was declared a token of graciousnesse). Then arose Esther, and stode before B. the kyng and sayde: If it please the kyng, & if I haue founde grace in his sight, and if it be acceptable before the kyng, & the matter be written, that the letters of the deuice of Hamā the sonne of Amadatha the Agagite, maye be called agayne: which letters he wrote to destroye the Iewes, which are in al the kynges landes. For how can I suffre & se the euil, that shall happen vnto my people? Or, howe can I loke vpon the destructiō of my kynred? And the kyng Ahasuerus sayd vnto Quene Esther, and to Mardocheus the Iewe: Behold, I haue geuen Esther the house of Haman, whom they haue hanged vpon a tree, because he layed hande vpon the Iewes. Write ye also for the Iewes, as it lyketh you in the kynges name, and seale it with the kynges ringe. (For the writynges that are written in the kynges name, and sealed with the kynges ringe, durst no man discanull.) Then were the kyng a scribes called at the same tyme, euen in the third moneth, that is the moneth* Siuan, on the thre and twentie day. And it was written (accordyng to all as Mardocheus commaunded) vnto the Iewes and to the princes, to the deputies and captaines in the landes which are from India vnto Ethiopia, namely an hundred and seuen and twenty landes, vnto euery one accordyng to the writyng therof, and to euery people after their speache, & to the Iewes accordyng to their writyng and language. And he wrote in the kyng Ahasuerus name, and sealed it with the kynges ringe, and by poetes that rode vpon horses, and cheefe yong mules sent he the writynges wherin the king graunted the Iewes (in what cities soeuer they were) to gather them selues together, & to stande for their life, & for to roote out, to slay, & to destroy al the power of the people & land, that would trouble them with children & women, & to spoile their goodes vpon one day in all the landes of kyng Ahasuerus, namely, vpon the xiii. day of the xii. moneth, whiche is the moneth* Adar. The summe of the writyng was, how there should be a commaundement geuen in all landes, and publyshed among al people, and that the Iewes should be ready against that day, & auenge them selues on their enemies. And to the poetes that rode vpon the fyry horses, and mules made haste with all spede, to execute the kynges worde, and the commaundement was deuysed in Susan the cheefe citie. And Mardocheus went out from the palace and before the kyng in royall apparel of purpure and white, and with a great croune of gold, beyng arayed with a garment of silke and purple, and the citie of Susan reioysed and was glad, & vnto the Iewes there was come a newe lyght and gladnesse, ioye and worthyp. In all landes & cities, into what place soeuer the kynges worde and commaundement reached, there was ioye & mirth, prosperitie & good dayes among the Iewes: in so muche that many of the people of the lande became of the Iewes belief, and the feare of the Iewes came vpon them.

The .xiiii. Chapiter.

In the twelfth moneth, that is the moneth Adar, vpon the thirteenth daye of the same, when the kynges worde and commaundement should be done, euen vpon the same day that the enemyes should haue destroyed the Iewes, to haue ouerlayed them, it turned contrary wise, soo that the Iewes should subdue their enemies. For then gathered the Iewes together in their cities within all the landes of kyng Ahasuerus, to laye hande on suche as would do them euell, and no man could withstande them, for the feare of them was come vpon all people. And all the princes of the landes, and prynces and deputies and officers of the kyng, promoted the Iewes, for the feare of Mardocheus came vpon them. For Mardocheus was great in the kynges house, & the report of him was noysed in all landes, how he prospered & grew. Thus the Iewes smote all their enemies with a sore slaughter, and slue and destroied, and dyd after their will, vnto suche as were their aduersaries. And at Susan the cheefe citie slue the Iewes, and destroyed fyue hundred men, and slue Pharsandatha, Dalphon, Aspatha, Pharatha, Adalia, Aridatha, Pharmastha, Arisai, Aridai, and Iezatha, the ten sonnes of Haman, the sonne of Hamadata, the enemye of the Iewes: but on his goodes they layed no handes. At the same tyme was the kyng certified of the nombre of those that were slayne in the citie of Susan. And the kyng sayde vnto Quene Esther: The Iewes haue slayne and destroyed fyue hundred men, in the citie of Susan, and the ten sonnes of Haman, what haue they done (thynkest thou) in other landes of the kyng? and what is thy petition, that it may be geuen the? Or what requirest thou more to be done? Esther answered: If it please the kyng, let hym suffre the Iewes to worowe also to do, accordyng vnto this dayes commaundement, that they may hange Hamans ten sonnes vpon tree. And the kyng charged to do so, and the commaundement was deuysed at Susan, and they hanged Hamans ten sonnes. For the Iewes that were in Susan, gathered them selues together, vpon the fourteenth day of the moneth Adar, & slue three hundred men at Susan, but on their goodes they layed no handes. As for the other Iewes that were in the kynges landes, they came together, and stode for their liues, that they might haue rest from their enemyes, and slue of their enemyes fyue & seuenty M. howbeit, they layed no handes on their goodes. This they did on the thirteenth daye of the moneth Adar, & on the fourteenth daye of the same moneth rested they: which daye they helde with feastyng & gladnesse. But the Iewes that were at Susan, came together both on the thyrteenth day, & on the fourteenth, & on the fyftenth daye of the same they rested and helde that daye with feastyng & gladnes. And therfore the Iewes that dwelt in the villages and vnwalled townes, helde the fourteth day of the moneth Adar, with gladnesse and feastyng, and as a holy daye, and euery one sent gyftes vnto an other. And Mardoche wrote these thinges, and sent the writynges vnto all the Iewes that were in all the landes of kyng Ahasuerus, both nye and farre, that they should make a law among them selues, and holde the fourteth and fyftenth daye of the moneth Adar, as the dayes wherin the Iewes came to rest from their enemies, and
